creased so as to make their continued importation prohibitive, whereas the duties on sound on film importations are much lower than formerly. They are now $5.60 a kilogram, instead of $9.72 for the annual quota up to 100,000 meters for each importer, and $11.20 per kilogram, instead of $19.85, for each kilogram in excess of the quota. Discs recorded in Spanish are $7 each and in other languages $14.

The distinction is made, according to an official statement, in order to encourage "the most advanced" sound methods of the industry for Mexican theatres. Exhibitors are allowed 90 days in which to install the sound on film process.

A non-progessive income tax of five per cent on gross receipts is established for distributors under the new decrees which have just gone into effect and permitted the resumption of business by American distributors here for the first time since last September. Pictures produced in Mexico are exempt from this income tax.

"Film Survey" Scheduled

A series of special screen programs entitled "A Short Survey of the Film in America, 1895 to 1932," will be presented at the auditorium of the New School for Social Research, 66 West 12th St., under the sponsorship of the Film Group of the New York Adult Education Council, on five Sunday evenings starting Feb. 16. Frederick Lewis Allen, author of "Only Yesterday," will introduce the first program.

Open London House

South, West Shifts Among Theatres Gain

Middle West and southern reports in the past few days show theatre changes are continuing without slackening. This applies both to changes in ownership and new construction.

Cleveland is soon to have a new $200,000 house, work on which will be started in February, according to Louis Israel, president of the Tiffin Amusement Co. A. A. Treuhaft of Keys-Treuhaft Co., is owner and builder.

Work has been started on a 1,000-seat house at Trenton, Mich., which will be ready about April 15. Schreiber, Smiley & London will be the owners.

Ohio is to have a new house at Marietta, to be built by the Marietta Concrete Corp. and leased by Mort A. Shea.

Still another house is to be built in Missouri. This will be at Ferguson, with T. E. and H. E. Huett. It will be a two-story theatre and store building with seats for 650, with the cost estimated at $25,000. At Salisbury, Mo., Elmer Bills is planning to rebuild the Lyric, recently destroyed by fire, and at La Plata V. G. Greer is remodeling the Princess.

M. Kurlan has purchased the New Lyric, Chicago neighborhood house, from Russell Rothrock.

Southern Openings Gain

BIRMINGHAM, Feb. 10.—Southern openings and renovations continue at a fast pace. Latest to be remodeled here is the Five Points, owned by Waters Theatres, Inc.

The new Lyric at Rockwood, Tenn., has opened. Palmetto Theatres Co., has purchased the Ritz at Columbia, S. C. The Lyric at Gordon, Ga., long dark, is being remodeled for early opening.

In Louisiana, E. I. Hawkins has opened a new house at Newellton and alterations have been made in the Blackman at St. Joseph. Cecil Culp also intends to open the Co-Ed at Arkadelphia, Ark.

Central States Adds One

DES MOINES, Feb. 10.—Central States Theatre Corp. has acquired the Grand at Estherville, Ia., from Henry Hower of Omaha and will take possession Feb. 10.

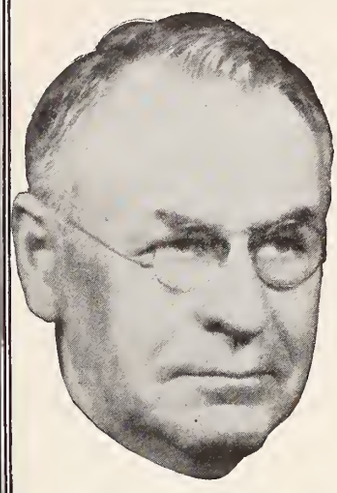
Selznick Signs Garrett

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 10.—David O. Selznick has signed Oliver H. P. Garrett to a term writing contract. As his first assignment, Garrett will prepare an original for Ronald Colman.



Payment at Toronto Stirs Small Mystery

TORONTO, Feb. 10.—Sensational statements were made by Paul Hinds, lawyer for Patrick Sullivan, in a case involving the estate of Mrs. Teresa Small, widow of Ambrose J. Small, former theatre magnate, who mysteriously disappeared more than 16 years ago after he had received payment of $2,000,000 for his circuit in Ontario.

Famous Players Canadian Corp. sought to pay a $5,000 balance owing on a mortgage against the Regent, to obtain discharge of the mortgage originally held by Small. It was dated Jan. 20, 1916. The company had tried to clear up the obligation over a period of years.

Opposing the payment in court, Hinds alleged there had been perjury and forgery in connection with what purported to be the last will of Small and claimed there was a subsequent will. With regard to the disappearance of Small, which had engaged the police of several countries and private investigators, Hinds asserted he had four persons "who can testify it was cold-blooded murder."

Objection was raised by opposing counsel regarding these statements because Small has long since been declared legally dead and the Government recently declined to reopen the investigation. Justice J. A. McEvoy, who presided, closed the case by announcing he would grant the application of Famous Players to pay the $5,000 balance to the estate of Mrs. Small.

MPTOA Board Meet Is Set On March 5-6

Varied Problems on Tap; Elections Scheduled

The annual meeting of the board of directors of M.P.T.O.A. will be held March 5 and 6 at the Miami Biltmore Hotel, Miami.

Exhibition problems, distributor policies, conferences on industry self-regulation through conciliation and arbitration of trade disputes and discussions on raising exhibition standards and increasing theatre attendance will occupy the two-day meeting. The annual election of officers also will be held. Advance indications are that Ed Kuykendall, president, and most, if not all other officers, will be reelected. These include M. E. Comerford, M. A. Lightman, W. S. Butterfield, B. N. Berinstein, and A. Julian Brylawski, vice-presidents; Morris Loewenstein, secretary; Wal-

Warner Quarter Net Seen at $1,000,000

Warners are expected to show a net profit of more than $1,000,000 for the quarter ending Feb. 29, it was reported yesterday. The reputed earning power is based on the lineup of pictures released during the current quarter.

For the last quarter the company revealed a net of $1,031,315, after all charges, including interest, amortization, depreciation and Federal taxes.

With the next board meeting scheduled for Feb. 18, routine matters are likely to come up. Harry M. Warner, president, plans to sail for Europe next month on a combined business and vacation trip.

Blind Buying Hit By Phila. M.P.T.O.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 11.—The alleged failure of RKO to deliver product commensurable with promised quality will be the first item of testimony to be submitted to Federal Judge George A. Welsh and Special Investigator Benjamin M. Golder relative to the evils of blind buying. A resolution to this effect was passed today at a meeting of the Independent M.P.T.O. The confab was attended by representatives of 125 houses throughout this territory. The text of the resolution is as follows:

"Whereas, at the beginning of 1935-36 selling season, RKO represented in advertising, advance literature, and by sales representatives that product for 1935-36 would possess definite production quality and box office values, and, whereas, of 16 released so far, only one, "Top Hat" conforms to representation, remaining 15 being far inferior,

"Be it resolved that RKO be requested to revise the terms of existing contracts where such revision is justified, and, be it further,

"Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to Judge George A. Welsh and Special Investigator Golder."

Morris Wax presided at the meeting in place of Charles Segall, who is ill.

Ascap Claims Big Block of Herbert Works

Small Rights Claimed to Warner Music

Ascap laid claim yesterday to the performing rights to 63 individual song numbers, all of the separate musical compositions of Victor Herbert except those from "Naughty Marietta," and all of the works of the late Louis A. Hirsch, published by Warner music subsidiaries. The claim that the Ascap license covers the performing rights to these compositions was made in a letter addressed to all broadcasting stations licensed by Ascap advising the stations that their license with the society made the listed compositions available for their use and intimating that additional song numbers pub-

U. A. Seeking Writ On City Sales Tax

Application for a writ of certiorari was made to the State Supreme Court yesterday by the local United Artists exchange in preparation for an appeal of the city's recent decision holding the film rentals of the exchange to be subject to the city's two per cent sales tax. Ordinarily, such applications are granted as a matter of course by the court.

The city will have 20 days in which to file its answer to the writ before a hearing date on the appeal can be set by the appellate division. As the United Artists assessment is the only one to be made by the city against a local exchange the appeal is viewed by distributors here as a test case.

Move to Take Up Film Bills Made in House

Subcommittee Will Hold Pettengill Hearings

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Film legislation was given a place on the program of the House Foreign and Interstate Commerce Committee today when the group met to map out a schedule for the session.

The committee approved the holding of hearings on the Pettengill block booking bill, and instructed that a sub-committee be formed to take charge of the measure. Representative Pettengill, a member of the major committee, probably will head the group. It was said it is planned to hold the hearings sometime this month, perhaps in about two weeks.

Congressman Pettengill has expressed confidence that the bill will be favorably reported by the committee and be accepted by the House. It is considered doubtful, however, that the Senate will reach it at this session, especially if an early adjournment is sought.

Gaumont Drops Its Suit Against KRS

LONDON, Feb. 11.—Gaumont British has definitely abandoned its conspiracy in restraint of trade action against the Kinematograph Renters' Society, after several adjournments. The action was brought against the society and its individual members in connection with the refusal of the K. R. S. to book the H. & G. theatres through Gaumont British.

A curious situation has arisen in that K. R. S. is adhering to its resolution only to book the Hyams houses through H. & G., which has legally gone out of existence through absorption in Gaumont British Super Cinemas, Ltd. The deadlock resulting may be ended by the dissolution of Super Cinemas, but this could not be confirmed today.

Circuits, Exchanges Cold To Changes in Clearances

Although the I.T.O.A. has invited License Commissioner Paul Moss to act as mediator in an effort to readjust the price and protection schedules in the local territory, no changes are anticipated for some time, according to exchange managers.

It is pointed out that New York is the only city which has a seven-day clearance, all others outside of the local exchange supervision having at least 14 days.

As a result of the 10-year Paramount-Loew franchise, a week's clearance has prevailed in this area during the past nine years. Loew's, during the past eight years, has been playing 50 per cent of Paramount under the seven-day protection proviso, with RKO showing the other half. Earlier in the season a split between RKO and Paramount resulted in Loew's getting the other 50 per cent of Paramount's output for two years.

The 10-year Loew-Paramount pact, which expires next year, is not likely to be followed by any changes in the clearance map, it was asserted. New theatres which may be taken over by

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Albuquerque, N. M., Feb. 11

AS Hollywood and the land where they make 'em draws closer, the realization, never slighted in this corner, of the importance of the product becomes keener. There comes bouncing back into mind with a gallop the favorite and constant coast assertion that production is the life-blood of the business. True enough, certainly, but the stream coursing through the body must have an uninterrupted and stimulated flow as a necessary adjunct. And that reminds of an incident and an observation about which Hollywood may or may not have heard. . . .

It has to do with invaluable contact and the confidence breeding from it established over a long period of years with the exhibiting fraternity. It deals with a picture, a good picture, called "Magnificent Obsession," and what Jimmy Grainger did with and about it. He saw it, or enough of it, in Hollywood last fall to launch and complete a selling job which may have been duplicated over the years, but definitely has not been excelled. On the strength of his word, which could be another way of talking about his reputation for honesty, Grainger, sitting at his desk back in New York and by telephone, arranged for one hundred day and date runs; his crew lined up an additional twenty-six, all played off in two weeks. Many of the nation's leading first runs were in that assemblage, including the Music Hall in New York.

Thereafter and because the attraction rated and because the key city stimulus, as usual, properly excited other showmen, the picture nabbed many immediate dates. In five weeks Universal grossed almost $500,000. Dear reader, that's business, make no mistake. It illustrates several things and, among the pertinent, but aside from the vast credit it reflects upon Grainger and his sales capabilities, the understanding which should be Hollywood's that matters do not quite begin and end when the master print is shipped over the mountains east. . . .

A long train ride such as this never fails to impress anew the desirability of a closer understanding between the two coasts. The very difference, geographically, makes a difference. Considerable has been said about the opposite directions in which Hollywood and New York pull. We should say that was the east's fault, far more than the west's. For the administrative headquarters are and will continue to be in New York. It is from that point that the instructions should be issued and it is in Hollywood where they should be carried out. This is not to say that the arbitrary in attitudes should be struck; these two integral parts of the one business should cooperate understandingly. By this time, you may be scoffing. Or you may be remarking to yourself that all of this is old stuff. It is, but it is very much up front in a number of the industry's better minds. There will be a sequel to this train dispatch one of these days. . . .

A few days before he left on a South American cruise J. B. Clinton, president of Allied of the Northwest, did what all exhibitor association leaders do from time to time. He issued a bulletin. His, however, was not run-of-the-mine because in it he sent aloft a trial balloon labeled cooperation between Allied and M.P.T.O.A. on problems where the aims of the two organizations do not conflict. At the time, Abram F. Myers, for Allied, had no comment to make. Only recently his board of directors completed a two-day session in Washington. So far as it has come to light, nothing happened with the Clinton suggestion. . . .

This journeyman, for one, was not surprised. He was even less astonished when the idea met with complete silence from the M.P.T.O.A. As a matter of fact, it reminded him that exhibitors, or those who go in for national associations, have had a very persistent habit of damaging their own cause by failing to hang together in sufficient numbers long enough to make their impact felt. That, you might reflect, is an extremely fortunate state of affairs for the distributor, but it does not help the exhibitor. Clinton must be told, if he has not appreciated the facts himself by now, that any ennobling plan to bring about cooperation between the two associations will remain merely an idea until politics is rooted out with the sharpest of scalpels. This department, approaching more pleasant climate now, would wish that Clinton will be of this existence long enough to witness such a miracle. It is only the melancholy truth to observe, however, that he will not.

These are brave days at United Artists. For the run of "Modern Times," Charlie Chaplin's name blazons forth in large upright signs in place of the Rivoli's at 49th and Broadway.

Sam Goldwyn's next isn't far behind. . . .

Neblett Argues At F.W.C. Hearing

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 11.—Concentrating on the F.W.C. million dollar dividend and the assignment of its assets to 27 other corporations organized two days after the filing of the bankruptcy petition, William H. Neblett today opened argument for T. L. Tally and Corbar Corp. before Federal Judge James Alger Fee to have the F.W.C. petition set aside. After conceding the right of anyone to file a voluntary bankruptcy petition, Neblett argued that an oath of insolvency does not mean that shifts in assets have been made and further stated that desirable assets of the firm were transferred to these 27 new corporations leaving only worthless properties to bankrupt. He claimed that the dividend was declared solely for the purpose of creating a fictitious condition and added that the dividend was the withdrawal and reduction of capital stock, and as such was a criminal act. He charged also the Federal Judge Henry C. James was not informed of the transactions and particularly scored Charles P. Skouras for this omission.

Cross Examination Of Catchings Starts

WILMINGTON, Feb. 11.—Cross-examination of Waddill Catchings was started by Abraham L. Pomerantz, plaintiff counsel, just before adjournment today in the Harry Koplar action against Warner Bros. directors. Seeking to establish the domination of the directors by the Warners, Pomerantz drew from Catchings the admission that the brothers could have have obtained the resignation of George Quigley, a minority director, although Catchings insisted that this could be done only "for cause."

Prior to this testimony, Joseph M. Proskauer, defense counsel, drew from the witness a lengthy description of the Warners' indispensability to the company, especially during the transition to talkies.

Catchings will resume the stand tomorrow.

lished by Warners probably could be added to the list in the future.

Ascap bases its claim to license the performing rights to the Warner published compositions named on several grounds. Chief among these, the society says, are "the terms of agreements between writers and the publisher under which the writers reserved the small rights or made them subject to their agreements with Ascap," and "the terms of agreement between composers and authors of musical comedies, operas and operettas, whereunder there never was conveyed to the publisher any so-called 'small rights' and such rights, by virtue of the writers' agreements with Ascap, remain vested in the Ascap repertoire."

The communication adds that the list is augmented by "large numbers of compositions of foreign origin whose authors, composers or publishers are members of performing rights societies which have agreements vesting in Ascap the sole and exclusive right to license non-dramatic performances of the works in this country."

Compositions to Be Listed

Ascap declares that a study is now being made of all of these agreements which will determine the compositions published by Warner companies which it may still have the right to license. The study has progressed far enough, the society says, to issue the first list of such compositions, any of which, its communication states, may be included in broadcast programs of its licensees.

The first list includes 56 songs of George M. Cohan, published by M. Witmark & Sons; all of the Victor Herbert compositions except those from "Naughtv Marietta," published by M. Witmark; all of the works of Louis A. Hirsch, published by Victoria Publishing Co. and M. Witmark; the composition "Poor Butterfly," by Raymond Hubbell and John Golden, published by Harms, Inc.; "The Very Thought of You," by Ray Noble, published by M. Witmark; "Without That Certain Thing," by Max and Harry Nesbitt, published by T. B. Harms, and additional compositions published by T. B. Harms and Harms, Inc.

Warner officials could not be reached yesterday for comment on the Ascap communication but some film attorneys predicted the society's stand might lead to lengthy litigation before its claims were fully established legally.

Music Action Delay Seen

None of the many actions filed against national and local radio stations for alleged infringement of copyright for using without permission music controlled by Warners is scheduled to come up for trial in the Federal courts here until October, it was stated yesterday.

Many of the judges sitting in the Federal courts are now confronted with plans of reorganization which will carry them through to the summer, when the courts adjourn, it was said. With September given over to other matters, the music cases are not expected to reach the calendar until the following month. No new actions were filed yesterday.

Looking 'Em Over

"Spy 77"

(First Division)

An Alliance picture, produced in England and released here by First Division, this film has an occasional note of suspense, and a fair portion of action, against a background of secret service intrigue during the World War. The romance of an Italian woman spy and an Austrian officer rather unfortunately ends in tragedy, as the Austrian officer does his duty for his country.

The cast is headed by Greta Nissen, as the Italian spy; Don Alvarado, as the chief of the Italian service, and Carl Diehl as the Austrian officer. With the possible exception of Miss Nissen, the names will mean comparatively little to the average American screen audience.

Miss Nissen falls in love with Diehl and learns that incriminating evidence has been planted on him to save her by her superior. Diehl is stripped of his rank, re-enlists and seeks permission to vindicate himself. He is sent to Rome by the Austrian secret service, to discover the identity of an Italian spy who is seriously damaging the Austrian cause. There follows the major part of the film's suspense, as Miss Nissen on several occasions saves Diehl from the Italian service because she loves him. Finally, when she tries to prevent him from flying across the line with the needed information, he shakes her off his plane and she is killed, while, vindicated, he is restored to his rank in the Austrian army.

Production Code Seal No. 0,782. Running time, 82 minutes. "G."

"Heir to Trouble"

(Columbia)

Starting off with a fast pace, this western, aided considerably by the experienced trouping of Tarzan, the Arabian stallion, is good outdoor action fare that will satisfy the fans.

Ken Maynard, a rancher-miner, becomes a father when his best friend dies and leaves his infant son in his care. Harry Wood, the heavy, a rival miner, plots to have the child taken away, concocting a story of infamous goings on with a singer in a saloon, and tips off the local women's club that watches out for the virtue of the town. This brings about a misunderstanding between Maynard and Joan Perry, who are the romantic interest. There are the usual riding, fighting and shooting sequences which prevent the piece from getting dull. The climax is reached when Maynard, rescued by his fellow cowboys, corners Wood, and Tarzan saves the baby a moment before Wood gets his due.

The supporting cast, ably assisting, includes Martin Faust and Harry Bowen. Tarzan, superb animal that he is, almost steals the show. Spencer Gordon Bennett's direction keeps the film moving at a good pace. Herbert Kirkpatrick is responsible for the fine photography. The story is an original by Maynard.

Production Code Seal No. 1,322. Running time, 59 minutes. "G."

Raft Suspended

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 11.—George Raft has had his contract definitely suspended by Paramount as a result of his refusal to accept Teddy Tetzlaff as camera man on current films. Raft has five pictures on his contract.

Cartoon Banned

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 11. — "The Amateur Fire Brigade," anti-New Deal animated cartoon, was banned here today after the Censor Board declared that it "encourages disrespect for the President."

E. G. Huhnke Recovering

OMAHA, Feb. 11.—E. G. Huhnke, salesman of the RKO exchange here, is recovering in Bartlett, Nebr., after having been almost frozen to death in his car which had been caught in a snowdrift near the town last Friday.

Louisianians Study Legislative Outlook

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 11.—Exhibitors and exchange men here are discussing the possibility of the enactment of laws affecting the industry when the legislature meets in May. It is said that the Gulf States M.P.T.O.A. will take definite steps to protect the interests of the industry from the passing of adverse measures.

There are two possibilities frequently mentioned. The first is a bill to provide an examining board for projectionists. The other is a statute aimed at the various forms of giveaways. Regarding the latter, film men feel that the statewide elimination of gift nights might work to the betterment of the industry as a whole.

Chouteau a Candidate

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 11.—Henri Chouteau, owner of the World's Theatre building here, is a candidate for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor of Missouri. He is a former member of the state General Assembly and a former Republican state committee man.

Short Subjects

"March of Time No. 2"

(RKO)

Once again the March of Time in this, its second issue of the second year, offers material of a high degree of interest and current significance. The reel is divided into three phases, the first on "Russia Today," the second on "Father Divine" and the third on "The Hartman Solution."

Modern Russia, with its trend toward various of the activities of "capitalistic" countries, is ably depicted. Shown are women indulging in beauty parlor treatments, people buying as much of anything as they desire, the busy transportation system, the industrial activity and the like, all in implied contrast to the Russia of the early days of its present system. Seen is Alexei Stakhanov, Russian hero, whose method of speeding production, Stakhanovism, has made him a national figure.

Extremely good, with expert use of the camera, is the Father Divine sequence, picturing the manner in which the diminutive colored man, with the accents of the evangelist, completely dominates a vast group of his "disciples," centering in New York's Harlem.

The final portion reviews the latest boon to the dental profession, the new "desensitizer" developed over a long period by Dr. Leroy Hartman, which to a certain extent eliminates pain in the drilling of teeth. It is pointed out that it is not successful in all cases, but is most successful in working with children. Engaging camera angles serve to inject amusement into this sequence.

Running time, 20 mins. "G."

"Darkest Africa"

(Republic)

A 15-episode serial, with names that will attract the attention of the younger element, this film has enough juvenile twists to make it pleasing to the Saturday morning trade. There is excitement enough in the first two reels to predict that the story comes up to the needs of this type of production.

The beginning of the story has Clyde Beatty as an animal trapper rounding up beasts for shipment to circuses. He also trains them a bit. Starting out on a safari, he meets up with young Manuel King, the boy who recently was a newsreel sensation with his handling of a cage full of lions. He is a sort of a miniature Tarzan. The story proceeds to the rescue of his sister, who is held by a tribe in the interior which believe her to be a goddess. Also in the cast are Wheeler Oakman, Edward McWade and Edmund Craddock. The heroine of the piece is Elaine Shepard. Lucien Prival aids, too. Production Code Seal No. 3,530. Running time, 30 mins. "G."

Frisco U. A. Holds Scale

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 11.—Since the Warfield dropped stage shows and reduced admissions to 40 cents top the United Artists is now the highest priced house here, with 55 cents top.

The Warfield, which under its stage policy had been grossing around $22,000 to $23,000 weekly, has dropped to around $19,000 with duals. It is ahead in net profits, however, because of savings in overhead.

ter Vincent, treasurer; Edward G. Levy, general counsel, and Fred Wehrenberg, chairman.

Exhibitor problems scheduled for discussion in addition to industry self regulation, include unfair competition between theatres through double and triple featuring, unreasonably low admissions and giveaways; the music tax; labor relations; unfair and discriminatory taxes; legislation; Sunday shows; free shows and unfair non-theatrical competition; local censorship; irresponsible exhibition and unfair allocation of prices by distributors after pictures are exhibited.

The improvement of the public relations of the exhibitor and his standing in the community will also be discussed, in addition to specific organizational topics, among which will be methods of correlating efforts of all regional units affiliated with M.P.-T.O.A.

The national organization emphasizes that the meeting is not a convention and that while meetings of the board are necessarily executive sessions for officers and directors only, other exhibitors will be welcomed at informal discussions outside the business sessions.

Indications are that the organization may adopt a stand at this meeting on the General Motors free shows which will play 12 hours daily over a 20,000-mile itinerary beginning at Miami, Feb. 17. An opportunity will have been afforded by the time of the meeting, it was said, to observe the competitive effects of the project on established theatre business.

Kuykendall left yesterday for Washington on legislative work. He is expected back here late this month in advance of leaving for Pinehurst to attend the annual meeting of the Carolina M.P.T.O.A March 1 and 2.

Circuits Cold to Clearance Changes

Loew's may find an alteration here and there, but nothing of a radical nature.

Under the provisions of Paramount's contract subsequents can follow Loew's a week later with a 15-cent minimum admission. In M-G-M pacts any exhibitor charging under 20 cents must wait 45 days after Loew.

While Moss has indicated a willingness to intervene on behalf of the unaffiliated theatre men, major circuit heads feel that the license commissioner is exceeding his authority. If there are any readjustments in zoning and hiking of admissions, major circuit executives would prefer to work them out with the independents without outside forces entering the picture.

Despite the fact that I.T.O.A. yesterday authorized Moss to act for the members of the unit in re-zoning the city, major circuits will disregard any moves made by the license commissioner in this regard.

Six Films Named in The Editing Section

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 11.—Nominations for the achievement awards in the film editing division of the Academy were listed late last night by Harold McCord, chairman of the film editors' section, as follows: "David Copperfield," "The Informer," "Les Miserables," "The Lives of a Bengal Lancer," "A Midsummer Night's Dream" and "Mutiny on the Bounty."

Four productions were tied for third place, instead of the usual three, which accounts for the listing of six films, in accordance with Academy award regulations.

Hold Stamford Dance

STAMFORD, Feb. 11.—The annual ball and floorshow of the film theatre employes of Stamford, Greenwich and Darien was held at the Elks' auditorium here tonight.

Anthony J. Marrucco was chairman, assisted by Nicholas Trimboli, Lawrence DeMott, Jerry Saumo, Joseph Mitchell, Joseph Bonomo, Earl Curtis and Charles E. Bankston.

Visits Injured Parents

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 11.—June Travis, cast in "The Gentleman from Big Bend," has been given leave by Warners to fly to Palm Springs, to the bedside of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grabiner, who were injured there recently in an automobile accident.

The regular meeting of the board of Universal, scheduled for yesterday, was postponed indefinitely.

Court Eliminates 64 Of Momand's Charge

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 11.—An order striking 64 sections from the $3,146,912 damage suit petition of A. B. Momand, Shawnee, Okla., operator, and virtually necessitating filing of amended charges against 21 distributors has been signed by Judge Edgar S. Vaught in Federal Court here.

Judge Vaught ruled that the 64 sections charging monopolistic practices were vague.

Momand instituted the action in 1931. He claimed they had conspired to refuse release of desirable pictures for his theatres, then operating in Capitol Hill, Shawnee, Seminole, Okmulgee, Pawhuska, Wewoka, Holdenville, Hartshorne, Alva and Clinton, all in Oklahoma.

Among the sections stricken out by Judge Vaught was one charging the "conspirators" obtained leases on theatres "by means of threats" and another charging the large film producers "induced many of the stars of independent producers to leave their employ and enter employ of the defendant producers."

Judge Vaught held that before the latter allegations could be continued in the petition the stars would have to be named and the accusation made more specific.

Delay Greenwich Opening

Scheduled to open today, the new Greenwich in Greenwich Village will not be ready until Friday. Labor trouble set back completion of the house until then.

Cold Wave Drops Key City Grosses for Three Weeks

What the cold wave has done to grosses all across the northern and central portion of the country during the past three weeks is shown in reports from 30 key cities gathered by Motion Picture Daily. After climbing, with slight fluctuations during October and until the Christmas holidays, they have taken a marked drop since mid-January when sub-zero weather and snow became widespread.

During the early weeks of January grosses were hitting new highs for the season. In the second week of January they began to slide, the total for the week ending Jan. 16-17 being $1,722,400. The following week the total went down to $1,539,065, with a further recession to $1,515,300 for the week ending Jan. 30-31. For the week ending Feb. 6-7 there was a slight gain to $1,591,350 as a result of the release of several big pictures.

The total of first run houses open has also declined from the peak of 186 for the week ending Oct. 31-Nov. 1 to 169 for the week ending Feb. 6-7.

Last week's declines were confined to Buffalo, Chicago, Cleveland, Kansas City, Lincoln, Louisville, Minneapolis, Montreal, New Haven, Oklahoma City, Portland, Providence, St. Paul and Seattle.

Construction In K.C. Ahead Of Last Year

Kansas City, Feb. 12.—Indications here are that remodeling and new theatre construction under way or planned in this area for the first half of this year will be far ahead of the same period last year. Remodeling is expected to form the bulk of the theatre activity.

Locally the Dubinsky Brothers will reopen the Regent next month after remodeling. E. B. Danielson is building a second house, the Mecca, in Russell, Kan. James Owens, mayor of Branson, Mo., is replacing his present Owens with a new theatre. Charles Barron and Floyd E. Droz will start construction next month on a new house at Anthony, Kan. John Goshen is building a new house at Sedalia, while O. L. Sullivan is

3 Films Named For Photography Award

Hollywood, Feb. 12.—"Barbary Coast," "The Crusades" and "Les Miserables" won the nomination for the Academy cinematography award following two days of screenings during which 13 pictures were shown. The nominations were made by the laboratory and camera department heads under the chairmanship of John Arnold.

"The Lives of a Bengal Lancer" was added to the nominations for the sound recording award.

Senate Moves For Action on Picture Bills

By CLARENCE LINZ

Washington, Feb. 12.—Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, chairman of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, today announced the appointment of a subcommittee to consider the bill introduced by Senator Neely of West Virginia, prohibiting block booking and blind buying.

The sub-committee will be headed by Senator Neely, other members being Senators Barkley of Kentucky, Benson of Minnesota, Metcalf of Rhode Island and Davis of Pennsylvania. The group will meet for consideration of the measure Feb. 18, it was said by Senator Neely.

Lesser to Do Six 20th-Fox Outdoors

Los Angeles, Feb. 12.—Sol Lesser has contracted to release six outdoor action pictures through Twentieth Century-Fox. This arrangement is entirely separate from his producer deal, which is still being negotiated with the same company. It is not likely that Lesser's new outdoor films will again star George O'Brien. The writing of a new ticket has been held up by the star's desire for a different type of role.

Lesser will not arrange a release on the current Bobby Breen production titled "Let's Sing Again" until the picture is completed.

Zukor Denies Para. Changes Contemplated

Reaffirms Confidence In John E. Otterson

No top-line executive changes at Paramount are in prospect at this time, it was stated yesterday by Adolph Zukor, chairman of the board.

Reports of dissension between financial interests represented on the company's board over theatre and financial policies have been rumored widely for many weeks past. More recently reports have been current that changes in the company's executive setup were imminent with the names of both Zukor and Joseph P. Kennedy, former SEC head, linked with new active management posts within the company. The reports in each instance have been denied officially by the financial interests and the individuals involved.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Los Angeles, Feb. 12

AN Associated Press wire from London finding front page display in the Los Angeles Times states that 100 of "the highest paid and most widely known celebrities of Hollywood" will appear in British films this year.

The reporting is careless and the Times headline writer was inaccurate when he captioned the dispatch in terms of "Raid."

Thinking exhibitors will fail to become alarmed. Others are told not to worry over any depletion of significant Hollywood talent, for American producers are allowing not a single valuable name permanently out of their hold. The truth for some time has been that English studios largely have been content to take what they have been able to get and Hollywood hasn't wanted.

Important talent heading for London will go by consent of the major producers either to develop their own production in England or in reciprocal mood induced by the need to keep the British market a continued happy hunting ground for American films. In any event and regardless of where made merit will find playdates waiting.

Joan Bennett to Do 4 More for Wanger

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12. — Walter Wanger has signed Joan Bennett to a new four-picture agreement. Under the terms of the pact, two of these pictures must be released by Paramount. As Wanger has not yet signed his new releasing contract with Paramount, this clause was put in to guarantee the services of the actress to this studio in the event that Wanger makes other releasing arrangements.

In the event that Wanger renews with Paramount, it is likely that all four pictures will go to that company. The contract will start after Miss Bennett returns from London. She is now working in "Big Brown Eyes" for Wanger.

FWC Decision Delay Seen as Possibility

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 12.—With the continuation here today of the petition to set aside the Fox-West Coast bankruptcy, the consensus of court opinion was that Judge James Alger Fee may not render a decision for several weeks because of the tremendous precedent which will be set should he decide in favor of the petitioners. Observers here feel that the odds are six to five in favor of a reopening.

William H. Neblett, counsel for T. L. Tally and Corbar Corp. continued his testimony today, citing authorities to prove that the court has jurisdiction to act upon the arguments which he presented yesterday regarding the validity of the bankruptcy. He testified that the transfers of F. W. C. properties were effected by long distance phone conversations between the boards of directors of various companies in Los Angeles and New York.

Rogell Head, RKO Studio

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12.—Sid Rogell will become general manager of the RKO studio on February 24. The post has been vacant since the death of Herman Zohbel and C. D. White. Temporarily it has been under the jurisdiction of J. R. Crone, production manager. Rogell recently resigned from associate producer berth at Columbia.

Renraw No "Device", Catchings Testifies

WILMINGTON, Feb. 12.—An attempt to have Renraw, Inc., described as a "device" was made in U. S. District Court here today during the cross examination of Waddill Catchings, Warner director, in the trial of Koplar against the Warner directorate. Catchings, on the stand for the defense, said that he would not call the organization a "device" but rather a legal method of private individuals to incorporate themselves.

During the testimony of the same witness there was introduced common stock quotations of 1928, when Warner shares were bringing from $114 to $122 each. These figures were used by the plaintiffs in order to show the value of the 90,000 shares issued to Renraw and of the 50,000 to Goldman-Sachs. Catchings admitted receiving $30,000 for establishing with bankers the $3,000,000 revolving credit for the company.

Day's "Times" Gross Above Opening—U.A.

"Modern Times" grossed $8,000 up to 6 P.M. yesterday, Lincoln's Birthday, according to Rivoli management. The figure is claimed to be greater than that grossed during the same hours on the opening day.

At the office of United Artists it was stated that "Modern Times" showed to capacity houses throughout the day, setting an all-time record for the Rivoli. They expect the second week of the picture to do even better. U. A. also reports that the picture, opening at the Erlanger in Philadelphia yesterday at 10 A.M., played to 2,503 people up to 1 P.M., which compares with 2,097 for the first hours of the opening day of Charlie Chaplin's "City Lights" at the same theatre.

Change 20th-Fox Titles

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12.—Twentieth Century-Fox has changed the titles of two productions. "I Will Be Faithful" has been changed to "Human Cargo" and "The Matron's Report" will be seen as "Miss Nobody."

The subtle art of man-hunting, as practiced by G-men and big-time newspaper reporters, receives a rather rudely jolting treatment this week, in Warner Bros.' 'excellently conceived satire', 'MAN HUNT'. Ricardo Cortez again clicks as a 'smoothie' gangster whom Marguerite Churchill kind-heartedly hides, small-town reporter William Gargan cleverly uncovers, and ex-sheriff 'Chic' Sale hilariously brings to earth, aided and abetted by the 'tongue-in-cheek' direction of William Clemens. Released Feb. 15th.

lowed upon the publication of a report linking his name with the active management of Paramount, possibly as a successor to John E. Otterson, president. Zukor said, "I wish at this time to reaffirm the confidence in John E. Otterson which I expressed when he assumed the position of executive head of Paramount. Rumors of any change in the executive setup within the company are groundless. I am very happy in my position as chairman of the company and I wholeheartedly support the management policies of Mr. Otterson."

Richardson Quits Board

Charles E. Richardson, a director and former trustee of Paramount, has tendered his resignation from the company's board. Action on the resignation is expected to be taken at the company's next board meeting, Feb. 27. Richardson was elected last June 5 for a one-year term. He has considered resigning for several months in order to devote his entire time to his business interests, located in Philadelphia.

Reports that Robert K. Cassatt, also of Philadelphia, had again tendered his resignation from the board, could not be verified at Paramount yesterday. Cassatt, who was also elected for a one-year term, offered his resignation several months ago, but was induced to withdraw it at the time.

under their agreements with the publishers and as a result were fully covered by the Ascap license. The first list of Warner music coming within this category, as compiled by Ascap, included many George M. Cohan numbers, all of the Victor Herbert works with the exception of the "Naughty Marietta" numbers and many others from other writers and composers. Additional lists will be issued as Ascap's study of the agreements between member writers and their publishers progresses, the society said.

Frels Suit Delayed

DALLAS, Feb. 12.—The anti-trust suit of Ruben Frels, exhibitor, against the Jefferson Amusement Co., and several major distributors, was not reached in Federal Court here today. It is expected to begin tomorrow. Frels, charging conspiracy, seeks triple damages under the Sherman anti-trust act totaling $504,024.

Holiday Closes Office

Film offices in New York yesterday declared a half holiday observing Lincoln's birthday. Twentieth Century-Fox was closed all day.

Wall Street, the stock, bond and curb markets were closed also.

Ohio Jury OK's Gifts

CLEVELAND, Feb. 12.—The first legal decision to determine the status of Bank Night from the lottery angle in this territory was handed down in Judge Baker's court of Painesville when a jury, after four hours of deliberation, acquitted Dan Stearns of the Willoughby Theatre, who was accused of violating the State lottery statute. Basis for the decision was that no consideration was involved in the winning of a prize.

"U" Buys Two Stories

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12.—Universal has purchased two stories. They are: "Roxanna," by Clarence Budington Kelland, and "Adam's Evening," an original by Katherine Kavanaugh. Edward Everett Horton will be in the second.

Universal Sets Its 24th Serial Lineup

It was on April 14, 1913, that Universal released its first serial, "Lucille Love," starring Francis Ford and Grace Cunard. "Trey o' Hearts" and "The Master Key" completed the 1913-14 serial schedule. On April 14, this year, Universal will start on its 24th season of serial production, with four of the episodic pictures planned for the 1936-37 season.

The four are: "The Phantom Rider," in 15 episodes, with Buck Jones as the star; "Ace Drummond," with John Mack Brown; "Jungle Jim," and "Secret Agent X-9." All but "The Phantom Rider" have been taken from newspaper comic strips, by arrangement with King Features, which syndicates the strips in newspapers throughout the country.

Schine's Bucyrus at Bucyrus, O., is expected to open in a few weeks. The Hennepin Amusement Co. of Minneapolis is rebuilding the Grand at Perry, Ia. The company is spending $40,000 on complete renovation.

The Film Board of Trade at Omaha listed eight openings in the territory during January, and only two closings. The houses opened were: Cook, Cook; Farnam, Farnam; Rex, Mason City; Cass, Plattsmouth; Rosy, Table Rock, all Nebraska; Strand, Arlington, and State, State Center, Ia., and the Grand, Hurley, S. D. Charles Schweitzer is spending $5,000 on remodeling the Allen, at Akron, O.

F. B. Price shortly will begin remodeling a three-story building in Marysville, O., into a film house. The Majestic has been opened in Crooksville, O. Ross Garver and Maurice Reinking plan to acquire one new neighborhood theatre each year. They have three houses in Terre Haute.

Southern Spots Active

MEMPHIS, Feb. 12.—The Parkview Amusement Co. will build a new house here, costing $35,000. The Strand at Columbia, S. C., has reopened after complete remodeling. Interstate Circuit plans one of the largest outdoor parking lots in the country adjacent to the newly opened Tower, in Houston. The Carolina and Granada, recently taken over by the Kincey circuit, will be remodeled.

Closings Gain in N. E.

BOSTON, Feb. 12.—Closings have outbalanced openings in this territory during the past few days.

The openings are the Town Hall at Oxford, Mass., and the Alley at Groveton, N. H., badly damaged by fire some time ago. The closings are: State, South Berwick, Me.; Surf Casino, Old Orchard, Me.; Odd Fellows' Hall, Smyrna Mills, Me.; Eureka, Sedgwick, Me.; Cornish, Cornish, N. H., and Town Hall, Jeffersonville, Vt.

Hyman Lampert is remodeling a former silent house in Broadbrook, Conn., and will open a new house in East Hampton shortly. J. Ashalt plans a new house in Saybrook, Conn.

San Francisco Opening

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 12.—Aaron Goldberg has opened the Regal here, formerly the Pompeii, after complete remodeling at a cost of $25,000.

Denver Openings Numerous

DENVER, Feb. 12.—Numerous houses have been opened in this territory recently, including the Prairie, Ogallala, Neb.; Dixie, Terrero, N. M., and Lyons, Lyons, Col.

"Ceiling" Is $16,000 Draw In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 12.—Although the weather continued to stifle business, "Ceiling Zero" at the Penn got away to a flying start and never let up, collecting $16,000. At the Stanley, the condensed version of Earl Carroll's "Sketch Book" was a successful bolster for "Show Them No Mercy" on the screen and the combination was good for $20,000.

Nowhere else, however, was there any indication of improvement. The Alvin tried another stage show, headed by Earl Hines' band, with "If You Could Only Cook," but the results were unsatisfactory, the gross barely reaching $6,500. At the Fulton, "East of Java" and "Dance Band" couldn't better a weak $2,900, while at the Warner "The Widow From Monte Carlo" and "It's a Great Life" did a trifle better at $3,900.

Total first run business was $49,300. Average is $49,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 6:

"IF YOU COULD ONLY COOK" (Col.)
ALVIN—(2,000), 25c-55c, 7 days. Stage: Earl Hines band, Arthur Simpkins, Three Dancing Demons, Radcliffe and Rogers, Kathryn Perry. Gross: $6,500. (Average, $10,000)

"EAST OF JAVA" (Univ.)
"DANCE BAND" (First Division)
FULTON—(1,700), 15c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $2,900. (Average, $4,000)

"CEILING ZERO" (W. B.)

STANLEY—(3,600), 25c-55c, 7 days. Stage: Earl Carroll's "Sketch Book" with Ken Murray, Lillian Carman, Dale Winthrop, Sibyl Bowan, Sassafras, Milt Charleston. Gross: $20,000. (Average, $18,500)

"IT'S A GREAT LIFE" (Para.)
"WIDOW FROM MONTE CARLO" (W. B.)
WARNER—(2,000), 25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $3,900. (Average, $5,000)

"Exit" with Show Oklahoma City Top

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 12.—"Grand Exit," with 10 acts of vaudeville, made by far the best showing by pulling $2,300 in four days at the Liberty. Normal for a week is $3,000. During the remaining three days of the week "Charlie Chan's Secret," with "Spanish Night" on the stage, garnered $1,400.

Cold weather hit grosses all along the line, with "Anything Goes," "Barbary Coast" and "Sylvia Scarlett" all falling under par.

Total first run business was $13,100. Average is $14,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 8:

"ANYTHING GOES" (Para.)
CRITERION — (1,700), 10c-20c-36c-55c, 7 days. Gross: $4,500. (Average, $5,000)

"Pacific" Is Kansas City's Best, $5,800

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 12.—With continuous zero weather slowing business all along the line, "Miss Pacific Fleet" was the only first run in town to go over par. It took $5,800, up by $300, at the Newman.

The Fox Uptown made a good showing with "First a Girl," doing $3,700 under the new straight 25-cent policy. Under the old 25c-40c schedule $3,500 was average for the house.

Loew's Midland took $8,700 with "The Ghost Goes West." This is well below the $11,500 average.

"Captain Blood," at the Mainstreet, took $6,900. Average is $8,000 on single bills.

"The Lone Wolf Returns," plus a stage show at the Tower, fell under its $7,000 average by $1,000.

Total first run business was $31,100. Average is $35,500.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Feb. 4:
"MISS PACIFIC FLEET" (W. B.)

"Captain" $3,200 Leader in Lincoln

LINCOLN, Feb. 12.—Bitter cold is still retarding business. "Captain Blood" was the sole first string straight film bill to get over average, that by $100 on a take of $3,200 at the Stuart.

The Orpheum, with the help of Andy Kirk's stage show three days, and "Freshman Love," split with "Stars Over Broadway," had a final tally of $2,300, which was $200 good. "Freckles" at the Lincoln was average with $2,200.

Total first run business was $9,400. Average is $9,850.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Feb. 4:
"FAST BULLETS" (Reliable)

Gift Is Missing

Edward M. Schnitzer, who was given an onyx desk set by the Monday Nighters last week as a token of their friendship, never got the gift home.

It seems that shortly after the set was presented to him someone, either playing a prank or serious in his intention, walked off with the package.

The mystery is agitating Film Row.

"Ceiling" $5,000 High in Louisville

LOUISVILLE, Feb. 12. — "Ceiling did spectacular business at the Mary Anderson, getting $5,000 on the week, 100 per cent over normal. It was held over.

"Two Sinners," with the help of an excellent vaudeville bill, boosted the take at the National to $3,400, $400 over the line. All other business was below average.

The weather continued cold, and the icy condition of the streets hurt theatre attendance somewhat. Warnings were issued over the air recently, urging motorists to keep their cars off the streets while the slippery conditions prevailed.

The Golden Gloves Boxing Tournament at the Jefferson County Armory offered only mild competition.

Total first run business was $20,600. Average is $18,500.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Feb. 6:
"THE GHOST GOES WEST" (U. A.)

Vidor Honored Again

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12.—King Vidor has been awarded a diploma of honor by the Festival International of Brussels. Vidor's work as a director has been similarly recognized recently by the United Daughters of the Confederacy and the League of Nations Film group.

Elsie Wilkins Returns

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12.—Elsie Wilkins secretary of the Screen Writers' Guild, has returned after a two-months vacation in Australia.

"Ceiling" Is Washington's Hit, $20,000

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—"Ceiling Zero" sent the gross at the Earle to $20,200, topping average by $1,800.

In a return engagement at Loew's Columbia, "A Tale of Two Cities" continued its smash success, taking $5,500 against the house average of $3,600.

"Exclusive Story" at Loew's Fox proved a surprise by taking $22,000, or $1,100 over par. "Broadway's Hollywood Cabaret Revue" helped.

At the Metropolitan, "The Murder of Dr. Harrigan" topped par by $1,300 for a take of $5,600, and the Belasco went $200 over average for a gross of $3,200 on "A Nous La Liberte."

The surprise flop of the week was "Fang and Claw" at RKO-Keith's. Making two days of personal appearances, Frank Buck got the picture off to a swell start, but it died during the latter part of the week. The $8,000 gross was $2,600 under average.

"Strike Me Pink" at Loew's Palace slipped $400 under par for a take of $15,500, but it was held for a second week.

Total first run business was $80,000. Average is $76,700.

Estimated takings, exclusive of tax:

Rachman Seeks Release

LINCOLN, Feb. 12.—After four years in the Nebraska State Prison, Jules Rachman, former Omaha theatre owner and operator, who was sentenced for 15 years on second degree murder charges growing out of the shooting of Sam and Harry Goldberg, business associates on Dec. 2, 1932, will appear before the Pardon Board tomorrow in a clemency plea. Many national figures in the show business have signed a petition asking commutation of the sentence.

Sale to Do "Boy Blue"

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12.—Chic Sale will appear in "Little Boy Blue" as his next M-G-M miniature. The short will be based on the story which Roy James wrote from the Eugene Field poem. Jack Chertok will produce and Harry Boucquet will direct.

"Tom Thumb"
(Celebrity)

Again using a fairy tale story, this film should be found pleasing to children and amusing to their elders. The narrative has Tom getting into all sorts of mischief due to his smallness. First in a pie, then he is swallowed by a goat—an imaginatively presented and colorful sequence—and finally he is overwhelmed by a worm when he goes fishing and uses it as bait. He is swallowed by a fish which in turn is gulped down by another and another. Finally he is rescued and given a spanking. Excellent. No production code seal. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

"Stars of Tomorrow No. 5"
(Columbia)

Amateurs on the screen, with Benny Rubin as master of ceremonies, this number of the series offers some turns which are good and some which could be better. Helen Marion sings well, and a farm trio is featured by novel throat-whistling. For the rest a New York college boy presents some impersonations, the Mandel Sisters sing and tap dance, and three boys play the banjo and sing. As the taste for amateurs goes, so this will go. Production Code Seal No. 0,771. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"Ali Baba"
(Celebrity)

This Cinecolor cartoon takes the familiar story and spins it into a whirlwind of animated activity. The result is a fine, entertaining offering. The thread of the plot involves the discovery of the cave with the "Open Sesame" password by Ali Baba and the subsequent overcoming of the obstacles put in his way by the thieves. A few modern burlesquing twists should bring some hearty guffaws. No production code seal. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

(Columbia)

Two youngsters, Jay and Anne, doing an Apache dance, are the best bet in this series of amateur acts, for which Benny Rubin acts as master of ceremonies. Then follow Blanche Lewis, tap dancer; Jack MacPherson, who sings well; the Blane sisters, who sing, and the Catskill Hill Billies, who are what the name implies. Production Code Seal No. 0,772. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

306 to Vote on Attorney

Local 306 may have a new attorney if a move on way by some members succeeds. A number of members at the last general meeting brought up the question of replacing Matthew Levy. Another group is in favor of retaining Levy. A special session will be called to thresh out the matter.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Prisoner of Shark Island"
(Twentieth Century-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12.—A powerful drama with emotion-stirring punch in dialogue and action. Intelligent selling should make this picture one of the year's big features. It vividly pictures a chapter in American history heretofore closely guarded.

It is splendidly acted, with Warner Baxter giving perhaps the best performance of his career. John Ford's direction is excellent. Although at first glance it would appear to be a man's picture, the skillfully blended romantic love interest with the motivating forces of loyalty, heroism and sacrifice make it readily adaptable to feminine patronage.

The assassination of Lincoln hurls the North into a fury of bigoted hatred. Dr. Samuel Mudd (Warner Baxter), not knowing the identity of his patient, sets the broken leg of Francis McDonald, as Booth. Arrested with seven others, charged with conspiracy and murder, they are tried before a biased court martial. The seven are hanged and Baxter is sentenced to life imprisonment. At Arcadia Prison, the country's post-war Devil's Island, Baxter is a victim of inhuman torture. He is placed in a dungeon when his attempt at escape fails.

Yellow fever breaks out, panic strikes and Harry Carey, the commandant, begs Baxter to halt the epidemic. Without hope of reward he agrees and is successful. In the conclusion liberties have been taken with the facts, as Baxter is exonerated and returns to his wife, Gloria Stuart, and child, Joyce Kay.

A preview audience several times interrupted the film with applause. A courageous production, it calls for the same brand of sensationalism in selling as went into the making.

Production Code Seal, No. 1,907. Running time, 105 minutes. "G."

"Her Master's Voice"
(Wanger-Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12.—This light hearted comedy of mistaken identities is an excellent one to couple with a sombre drama.

Edward Everett Horton is funny in his usual exact fashion as a mild and loving husband driven to animal rage by his wife's relatives. Elizabeth Patterson plays his harmlessly tippling mother-in-law for fine comedy effect as she blames him for everything from losing his job to the whole depression. Laura Hope Crews does nobly with the equally funny part of a maiden aunt who mistakes Horton for a butler, hires him away from himself, and then resorts to girlish blandishments. The harder the aunt falls, the more Horton's dismay grows after he has accepted a job as the aunt's handyman in order to be near his wife. Peggy Conklin is appealing and charming as the worried young wife who is the victim of the managing impulses of her relatives. Grant Mitchell, as a songbird business man, has a smaller but thoroughly funny part. The film closes on a hilarious note when Horton is revealed as a success at last, as a radio crooner.

Dore Schary and Harry Sauber constructed the screen play from the play by Clare Kummer. The direction by Joseph Santley keeps the laughs rolling out.

Play up the tame husband going berserk under continued feminine dominance, and Horton's name.

Production Code Seal, No. 1,772. Running time, 72 minutes. "G."

"The Three Godfathers"
(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12.—This tale of three outlaws develops as an interesting character study motivated by a heart gripping theme after starting as an average action feature.

While fleeing from a bank stickup, the characters, Chester Morris, a killer; Lewis Stone, philosopher turned bandit, and Walter Brennan, good humored ignoramus, encounter Helen Brown and her baby, Jean Kirchner, dying of thirst on the desert. Their horses die from drinking poisoned water. Left with meager supplies, Stone and Brennan promise the dying mother that they will get the baby to civilization while Morris sulks and refuses to commit himself. Trekking back on foot to the town they have just fled, Stone is the first to fall by the wayside. The next day Brennan succumbs and Morris, after a struggle with his conscience and inclinations, picks up the infant and goes forward. For the climax, Morris delivers the child back in the settlement. He falls dead, himself a victim of the poison water which he had purposely drank to gain strength for the final spurt.

Richard Boleslawski's direction captures the full power of the strugsult that competitive bidding for the film rights to plays has been noticeably restricted with a consequent lessening of the writers' royalties, according to the Dramatists' Guild. Where there is no participation by film companies in the production of plays and the bidding for film rights in consequence is freely competitive no changes are contemplated in the existing provisions under which writers share up to 50 per cent of the film rights, it is reported.

The contract committee of the Authors' League is completing a first draft of the proposed new contract which will be submitted to the managers in the near future for ratification. Indications are that the 100 per cent royalty participation in film rights may be revised downward at that time, probably in accordance with the extent of the financial interest of a film company in a stage production. If the film company is only a part owner of a play the writer's participation in film rights may be adjusted accordingly, it was said.

Efforts to reach officials of the Authors' League for comment on these details of the proposed new agreement were unsuccessful yesterday.

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 12.—James Ambrose has been appointed to succeed Joseph Hardman as manager of the United Artists exchange here.

SALT LAKE CITY, Feb. 12.—According to all indications regarding the business outlook for Salt Lake City and the surrounding Intermountain territory, 1936 will be a banner year.

The holiday season, closing the year 1935, far surpassed expectations for spending and optimism, and nothing is seen on the business horizon for the coming year which should hinder a continuous pickup in this direction, according to the leading exhibitors and distributors here.

A gradual improvement in mining, of which this region is a center, is forecast. Farmers of Utah received $5,365,000 more for their crops in 1935 than in the previous year, it was officially indicated, and it is expected a similar gain will be shown during 1936.

Real estate activity has taken a definite upward turn. There has been considerable remodeling as well as some new construction going on in the theatre field in this area. Neighboring Montana is expected to gain substantially, chiefly through the anticipated greater activity in mining.

Production Gains With 38 in Work

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12.—Both major and independent producers increased their activity last week, with 38 features and five shorts in work, as compared with 32 features and two shorts during the previous week. Fifteen pictures are in preparation.

Columbia had four features in work, three in preparation and six in the cutting room. Fox had four, two and seven; Goldwyn, zero, zero and one; M-G-M, six, one and 12; Paramount, seven, two and 10; Radio, three, three and two; Roach, one, one and zero; Universal, two, one and two; Warners, eight, zero and seven; independents, three, two and one.

Columbia had one short subject shooting, one preparing and three editing. M-G-M had three, two and six; Radio, zero, one and three; Roach, zero, one and three; independents, one, one and one.

Green in New Post

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12.—Howard J. Green today is associate producer at Columbia, a post to which he was signed a month ago by Harry Cohn. Green has been engaged on several writing jobs. The first film under the new setup will be "Taxi Please," which Green is adapting from the story of Octavus Roy Cohen. He will also do some of his originals.

gle of the three with their own emotions and with the elements of nature. Edward E. Paramore, Jr., and Manuel Seff, who wrote the screenplay from the Peter B. Kyne novel, have given the story vitality after the theme is established. The Joseph L. Mankiewicz production is class and the photography of Joseph Ruttenberg does the desert backgrounds full justice. All the parts are trouped splendidly with Irene Hervey, Sidney Toler and Roger Imhoff outstanding in support.

The picture can best be sold from the heart angle.

Looking 'Em Over

"Mr. Cohen Takes a Walk"

(Warners)

Produced at the Warner English studios at Teddington, this comedy drama of the self-made Jewish department store owner who brings happiness to others and finds that he is not quite the has-been he had been made to feel, offers simple but enjoyable entertainment.

Although the names of the players will be unfamiliar to American audiences, the performances are good, that of Paul Graetz in the leading role, as Jake Cohen, being especially outstanding. It is a thoroughly human story and one which should be found generally appealing, and often amusing. The English countryside backgrounds add to the production value of the picture.

Graetz is completely lost in his large department store since his sons handle the business so efficiently, and he has little to do. Returning from the United States, his youngest son falls in love with an Irish girl, and the boy is unable to tell his parents that he does not love Julie, the girl they had long planned he should marry, before his mother dies. Unhappy with nothing to do, Graetz leaves on a long walking tour. The youngest son leaves the firm and a strike at the store threatens. Graetz meets an unemployed boy and sends him to the store in London. Then he learns of the strike and reaches town just in time to save the situation, and take complete charge. Julie meanwhile has fallen in love with the boy Graetz met on the road, and a double wedding concludes the film. William Beaudine directed.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 80 minutes. "G."

P. T. A. Would Bar School Film Tieups

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 12—The Parent-Teachers' Ass'n. of West High School here, recently called upon nationwide P.T.A. groups to bar all commercial film tieups from schools, following the refusal of distributors to furnish old films for school lunch-hour use. P.T.A. families are urged not to attend theatres showing films of the companies refusing to cooperate.

Dr. C. S. Pollock, local president, declared efforts will be made to contact 20,000,000 P.T.A. members. He urged that films should be made available for rental to schools after their commercial value has expired, and pointed out that theatres constantly use schools for advertising tieups and that schools should be entitled to rent films.

Tearle Series Delayed

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12.—Mitchell Leichter is holding up production on his Conway Tearle series while Tearle plays a part in "Romeo and Juliet" at M-G-M. Leichter has five films of the series of eight to make for this season, and has Tearle under contract for eight for the 1936-37 season as well.

Senate For Action On Picture Measures

the House Committee on Interstate Commerce will include not only the Pettengill block booking bill, but also other similar measures now pending, it was disclosed today.

All film legislation before the committee has been turned over to a subcommittee which, if repeated, will probably be headed by Congressman Pettengill, of Indiana, with instructions to study the whole situation.

As a result, it is anticipated that the hearings which will probably be called late this month will canvass all phases of the film situation, since there are pending a number of bills dealing with the subject.

Attendance Gained 30% in Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Feb. 12.—Reports from leading industries in the Greater Cleveland area are generally in agreement that business showed a definite improvement in 1935 and almost all indicate faith in a continuation of the gains in 1936.

The theatre business in the area showed an approximate attendance increase of 30 per cent and a 10 to 20 per cent gain in gross receipts, although exhibitors did not make a corresponding profit because of the generally low scale of admissions, according to Ernest Schwartz, president of the Cleveland M. P. Exhibitors Ass'n. Schwartz looks for a continuation of last year's improvement in 1936 if the level of product holds up, and predicts an increase in admissions to approximately the pre-depression scale of a 60-cent top downtown and a 40-cent top at neighborhood houses. There also has been real activity in the theatre building field for the first time in several years.

Figures compiled by the local chamber of commerce indicate the promising fact that employment, wages and product values have shown steady and substantial gains since 1932. Commercial bank deposits are now nearly normal, and savings bank deposits were $70,000,000 higher in 1935 than in 1934. The local stock exchange reports the greatest volume of trading since 1930.

Similar improvement in the sales of automobiles, and in the steel industry in Ohio are noted. Local prosperity is seen as receiving great impetus from a building boom, which will include 10,000 new houses to overcome the present shortage.

"Zero," at $6,000 Charlotte's Leader

CHARLOTTE, Feb. 12—"Ceiling Zero" overcame bad weather conditions at the Broadway with a take of $6,000, exactly $2,000 over par. It was held over for six days more. The weather man reached into his bag and produced snow, rain, fog and cold.

"The Bride Comes Home" continued its run at the Carolina with $2,000 in two days. "Magnificent Obsession" failed to break par in four days at the Carolina with $2,000. Average is $2,000 for three days.

"Sweet Surrender" in two days at the Imperial, combined with a stage show, grossed $2,000, double average, which is $1,000 for two days. "Tough Guy" did $2,500 in four days at the Imperial.

Total first run business was $14,500. Average is $11,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 8:

"CEILING ZERO" (W. B.)
BROADWAY—(1,114), 25c-40c, 6 days. Gross: $6,000. (Average, $4,000)

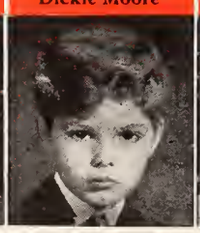
"THE BRIDE COMES HOME" (Para.)
CAROLINA—(1,400), 25c-40c, 2 days. Gross: $2,000. Average for three days, $2,000)

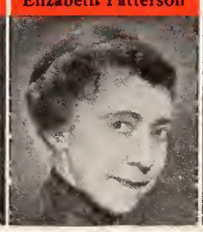
"MAGNIFICENT OBSESSION" (Univ.)
CAROLINA—(1,400), 25c-40c, 4 days. Gross: $2,000. (Average for three days, $2,000)

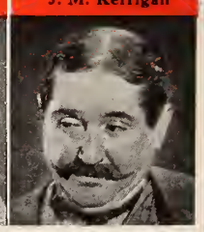
"TOUGH GUY" (M-G-M)
IMPERIAL—(989), 25c, 4 days. Gross: $2,500. (Average for four days, $2,000)

"SWEET SURRENDER" (Univ.)
IMPERIAL—(989), 25c, 2 days. Gross: $2,000. (Average for two days, $1,000). (Stage: "A Night in Havana.")

Sure it's a Horse and Buggy picture . . . just like "Mrs. WIGGS"







Styles in pictures may come and styles may go but there's one kind of picture that's always box office . . . the picture with good, old-fashioned heart appeal. "Little Women" had it, "David Copperfield" had it, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" had it . . .

"Timothy's Quest" has it . . . the heart appeal of American small town life . . . the sentimental appeal of real people living real lives . . .

Legion's Work To Be Pressed, States Priest

Asserts Campaign Raised Grosses 25 Per Cent

The Legion of Decency, far from entertaining thoughts of disbanding now that the hue and cry which attended its launching has subsided, is preparing to dig in for the long, hard pull in safeguarding what has been achieved, Rev. Joseph A. Daly, Ph. G., executive secretary of the Legion's national headquarters, told members of Ampa at their weekly luncheon meeting at the Astor yesterday.

Father Daly reviewed the aims of the Legion, saying they were twofold —the encouragement of patronage for pictures which are worthwhile from a moral and educational standpoint, and the discouragement of patronage for the vulgar and indecent. The results, he said, are reflected in a 25 per cent increase in theatre attendance since the formation of the Legion, and in such encouraging manifestations as were shown in the last Box-Office Check-Up which rated Shirley Temple

Financing for Universal Deal Is Set by Cowdin, Coast Hears

Hollywood, Feb. 13.—It is understood here that all details connected with the financing of the purchase of Universal by Standard Capital Corp. have been completed by J. Cheever Cowdin in England. Cowdin is now on his way back to this country, due to arrive next Monday.

Jack Ross, assistant to Carl Laemmle, Sr., said today, "We believe that Cowdin has completed arrangements for financing Standard Capital and Charles R. Rogers to purchase Universal. We do not know the details, or how they will affect the option to buy until after Cowdin lands."

Rogers refused to discuss the matter, saying, "We're not making any halfway statements. We will release statements when we're ready."

British Plan Two Issues For Studios

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Details of the proposed financing of Sound City have just been made known by Sound City (Films), Ltd. They include an offer of £135,000 in 1£ six per cent cumulative participating preference shares and 156,263 in three-shilling value ordinaries. The preference shares are offered at par and the ordinaries at 6/- — a premium of 1/-.

Five additional floors are to be erected at Sound City, Shepperton, and space has been booked by Universal and J. G. & R. B. Wainwright to the value of £30,000 a year, it is stated. The share capital is being acquired by the renting company, Gilbert Films, Ltd., controlling Associated Producing and Distributing Co.

How the British Broadcasting Corp. proposes to make its recently announced films for television broadcasting has been made known.

Primarily the film unit will record musical and dramatic performances for subequent air transmission in the experimental service to be inaugurated in a month or two.

A film library of this sort will provide the television service with a dependable reserve of material and make the B. B. C. scheme for one or more television theatres in London more practical. Ultimately B. B. C. will turn to making its own newsreels, because existing newsreels will not be available for television.

"Mutiny on the Bounty," held for a sixth week at M-G-M's Empire, Leicester Sq., beat the record of "Trader Horn."

Promoters of the Petersen-Harvey fight for the British and Empire heavyweight championship fight, made their own two-reel picture because the newsreels were unable to cover the event owing to the footage demands of ceremonies in connection with the late King George V.

SEC Reveals Cohns Hold 3-Year Pacts

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Harry Cohn, president, and Jack Cohn, vice-president, hold three-year contracts with Columbia Pictures, expiring July 1, 1937, it was revealed here today by the Securities and Exchange Commission, which released salary data for the company additional to that disclosed last December. The executives' salaries are $3,500 weekly for Harry and $2,000 weekly for Jack Cohn.

Abraham Schneider, treasurer, held a two-year contract from April 17, 1933, for $650 a week with options for the next three years at $800 for the first, $1,000 for the second and $1,250 for the third. J. Freidman director (Columbia Pictures Export, S.A.) received $33,884 in the last fiscal year, and E. Zana, director (Columbia Films, S.A.), $13,699. Approximately $120,000 was paid to 16 other officers and directors. A total of $1,173,093 was reported paid to 29 other employes, of which $1,045,977 went for the salaries of production managers, writers, players, etc.

Details of an underwriting contract with Hemphill, Noyes and Co. for the floating of 75,000 shares of $2.75 preference convertible no par stock were also made public, showing the company was to receive $46.50 a share and the stock was to be sold to the public at $50, the underwriters retaining the difference.

Pettengill in Doubt on His Booking Bill

Refuses to Head Group For Film Hearings

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Representative Samuel B. Pettengill indicated here today that he is not entirely satisfied with the desirability of such film legislation as the block booking bill which he has introduced into the House, and wants the opinion of men who have no interest in the matter.

The Congressman thus explained the reasons behind his refusal of the post of chairman of the sub-committee of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee which will consider film legislation. It was expected that Chairman Sam Rayburn of the Commerce Committee would name Pettengill as chairman of the smaller group. Pettengill declared he had urged Rayburn to name a chairman

Bombing Scenes Shown

Pictures of the recent bombing of a Swedish Red Cross hospital by Italian planes in Ethiopia, claimed by Universal Newsreel to be the only pictures ever taken on the actual Ethiopian front, were shown yesterday at the Roxy, Music Hall and Embassy. Universal sent the scenes to the International Red Cross in Geneva at the latter's request.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 13.—Will Hays will leave the coast for New York tomorrow by train. There will probably be a stop-over in Chicago.

Warner Takes Stand At Koplar Hearing

WILMINGTON, Feb. 13.—Defending his own honesty and sincerity, and that of his two brothers and the firm's associates, Harry M. Warner, president of Warner Bros., took the stand for two hours late this afternoon in the Koplar action against the Warner organization. His testimony was practically the history of the business lives of himself and his brothers from the time when they were peddling America's earliest films until the present. He told of his faith in the talkies and the obstacles which had to be overcome to bring them their present success. He denied that "pressure" had been brought to bear upon directors or associates. He characterized the $30,000 fee to Waddill Catchings as "fair compensation for what was furnished."

Testimony brought out the fact that the three Warner brothers each received $10,000 weekly and 15,000 shares annually over a six-year period.

Stanleigh P. Freedman, a Warner director, testified, substantiating the Warner claim that there had been no tampering with the directorate.

Pathe Overassessed On 1929 Income Tax

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Determination of an overassessment of $22,036 in the 1926 income tax of Pathe Exchange, Inc., New York, as a result of allowance of an additional deduction for debts ascertained to be worthless and charged off within the taxable year, has been approved by the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

The company is to be credited with $10,886, refunded $8,054 and $3,095 will be withheld in connection with deficiencies for the Producers' International Corp. for 1927 and Pathe International Corp. for the period Jan. 1 to Aug. 19, 1928.

Mayer Explains Pool

Arthur Mayer, operator of the Rialto, said yesterday that he is not the managing head of the Trans-Lux—Rialto pooling arrangement, but that he and Major Leslie Thompson of Trans-Lux form the operating committee. He declared further that there is no intention of transferring the Philadelphia Trans-Lux theatre to the Trans-Lux—Rialto pool. Some expansion is planned, Mayer said, with deals now in negotiation in two situations.

New Lab Ready in May

Consolidated Film's new west coast laboratory will be opened late in May or early in June, according to H. J. Yates, president, following his return from Hollywood. Yates' trip was for the purpose of inspecting progress on the project, he said. All of Consolidated's west coast work will be concentrated in the new plant when it its completed.

A discussion of the methods of obtaining better film offerings and of developing children's appreciation of the better offerings was held last night by the new cooperative institute on motion pictures under the auspices of the United Parents' Ass'ns. of New York City.

Colman Voted Best January Performer

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 13.—Ronald Colman contributed the best performance for the month of January in "The Tale of Two Cities," according to the monthly vote of the Screen Actors' Guild.

Eric Linden received first honorable mention for his role in "Ah, Wilderness," and Errol Flynn received second mention for "Captain Blood."

The poll was based on 27 pictures released in Los Angeles between Dec. 21 and Jan. 19, with no women receiving awards during January.

Percentage figures indicate actors have outnumbered actresses almost two to one since the guild inaugurated the monthly poll system eight months ago. Seventeen men and nine women have been selected in that period.

The Writers' Guild has selected "Ah, Wildrness" as the best screen play of the month. Frances Goodrich and Albert Hackett did the adaptation from Eugene O'Neill's play. First honorable mention went to W. P. Lipscomb and S. N. Behrman for "The Tale of Two Cities" and second mention to Casey R. Robinson for "Captain Blood."

LeBaron Takes Over Film from Lubitsch

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 13. — William LeBaron has taken over supervision of the new Marlene Dietrich-Charles Boyer film, "I Loved a Soldier," which has been shooting about a month. Ernst Lubitsch, who has been in charge up to this time, leaves on a three-month vacation today. His desire to start his vacation now is given as reason for the switch of supervision.

In order to permit contemplated changes in the script, shooting has been suspended for a week or 10 days.

Wins Wurlitzer Suit

CINCINNATI, Feb. 13.—Strand Theatre Enterprises, Inc., operating the Strand, downtown independent, has been awarded $4,490 by Judge Stanley Struble in Common Pleas Court as result of a cross-petition filed against the Rudolph Wurlitzer Co. to recover $29,000 alleged to represent loss of patronage by failure of an air-conditioning system to function properly. The Wurlitzer Co. originally filed suit for $14,399 claimed to be balance due for installation of the system, but the defense countered with the cross-petition, and won the decision.

WATCH FOR NEWS BULLETINS ON COLUMBIA'S WONDER SHOW OF 1936!

Amended Trust Suit Is Filed in Buffalo

BUFFALO, Feb. 13.—A second amended complaint has been filed here in the $750,000 anti-trust suit of Reliance Theatres, Inc., of Lockport, against Schine Chain Theatres, Inc., and other defendants.

The new complaint replaces one from which three points were stricken by Federal Judge John Knight upon motion of the defendants.

Actual damages of $250,000 and punitive damages of $500,000 are sought by the plaintiff, operator of the Palace in Lockport, on the plea that the defendants conspired to prevent it from obtaining films from major producers.

"By collusion, by unlawful agreement and combination, by threats and by the pressure of their great purchasing power, the Schine defendants have induced all the major distributors to give their theatres exclusive right or license to first and second runs of their photoplays," charges the amended complaint.

Schine interests operate the Rialto and Hi-Art in Lockport.

In the complaint, Peter Grafiades, Reliance president, charges that his firm leased the Palace on Jan. 1, 1933, and that since that time, Schine interests have been trying to drive him from the field by attempting to buy the building or its lease, and by attempting to keep him from getting important films.

Writers' Terms Up At League's Parley

pation in film rights to stage plays have not been reduced to writing yet, it was stated at the Authors' League yesterday. It is reported, however, that considerable sentiment within the membership of the organization favors a 100 per cent participation in film rights for the writer in instances where the play is wholly or largely owned by a film producer. The provision is being sought to remedy the curtailed competitive bidding for film rights for plays in which a film producer is financially interested.

Century Drive Planned

Century Circuit managers gathered at the Astor to hear circuit officials outline plans for a business drive to start March 14 and continue through June 12. About 25 of them were present.

Ed Hyman and Charles Moses presided and explained the details. Prizes will total $2,300.

Finances of FWC Aired at Hearing

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 13.—Hot words between counsel featured today's session of the hearing on the petition of T. L. Tally and Corbar Corp. to have the Fox West Coast bankruptcy adjudication set aside. Oscar Lawler, of counsel for respondents had claimed Tally was paid approximately $50,000 in settlement of the Criterion Theatre lease and had given release for the claim. William H. Neblett, counsel for the petitioners, claimed that the settlement was ineffectual since Tally had given the release in the belief that all proceedings were regular. Lawler had submitted figures showing that F. W. C. receipts had dropped from $44,000,000 in 1930 to $32,000,000 in 1932. He also argued that Chase National was owed $4,500,000 and WESCO $4,000,000 at the time of adjudication.

Argument will be concluded tomorrow and the case turned over to Federal Judge James Alger Fee for decision.

Robeson Signed for One by Hammer Prod.

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, Feb. 3.—Hammer Prod. have signed Paul Robeson for "The Song of Freedom," based on his own life story and will make it at the Beaconsfield studio of British Lion, which will also handle world distribution. An exterior unit has gone to West Africa. Two other Hammer-British Lion productions with Stanley Lupino are scheduled, the first being "Sporting Love," which ran for over a year as a stage play at the Gaiety here.

For their own production British Lion have signed Fay Marbe and Claude Hulbert for "The Interrupted Honeymoon," and Sir Seymour Hicks for "It's You I Want."

human interest. "It was me who held out for a five dollar top premiere," said Chaplin. Skouras said it couldn't be done. "If you insist, however," Skouras added, "give the suckers a break and make a personal appearance. Besides, you haven't been on the screen for five years; they've probably forgotten you. Your picture isn't enough!" Skouras also told Chaplin, "Quit worrying about Manhattan, as the town is just a village compared to Hollywood."

Paulette Goddard climaxed Chaplin's story by stepping into the footlights and announcing "It's all Greek to me.

Chicago Opening Feb. 22

CHICAGO, Feb. 13.—"Modern Times" will open here on Feb. 22 at the United Artists, with a four to six weeks' run expected. Arthur W. Kelly, U. A. sales head, is here arranging for the future release, which is expected to be through the B. & K. circuit. It is reported most of the deals for the film outside of the downtown run will be on a 65 per cent basis.

"Times" Breaks Record

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 13.—The first popular priced grind showing of "Modern Times" at the Erlanger drew 1,941 admissions more than did the first day of "City Lights" at the same house five years ago. A storm today cut into the attendance, but the picture seems set to beat the eight-week run of its predecessor.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 13. — Charlie Chaplin has been notified that the Motion Picture Division of the League of Nations has awarded him a gold medal in recognition of his work as an international screen figure.

IATSE Local in Test Case on Coast

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 13.—The I. A. T. S. E. Projectionists Local 150 will force a test case in Superior Court here on the Pasadena ruling requiring newsboys to obtain permits before selling papers on the streets. The move is a result of the arresting and fining of a newsboy who was participating in the organization's newspaper campaign against the Robb & Rowley circuit in Pasadena by selling labor papers outside the State, an R & R house operated by Al Retzlaff, who made the complaint.

R. L. Haywood, head of the I. A. local promises a fight to the finish. Union men have been picketing the circuit's houses for the past two months in protest against wage scales and the employment of non-union men.

Missouri December Tax Over a Million

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 13.—December sales tax collections under Missouri's one per cent levy exceeded $1,020,000. This is the largest amount produced in any month since the levy became effective August 27.

Observers believe the tax will not average $1,000,000 a month, as was expected by its proponents, but might reach $11,000,000 for the year.

The spectre of a special Missouri session to increase appropriations for old age assistance is still in the background. Governor Park continued to oppose the session.

An increase of the sales tax from one to two per cent, considered most frequently as a means of raising more revenue, has strong opposition among legislation, particularly in the senate.

Meanwhile Kansas, whose governor is a presidential possibility, continues to hear demands, especially from the unemployed, for a special session.

Massachusetts Beats Three Theatre Bills

BOSTON, Feb. 13. — Three bills aimed at theatres have been defeated in the House following adverse committee reports.

All three were sponsored by Rev. Robert Watson of the Lord's Day Alliance. One would have delayed the start of Sunday shows until 7 o'clock in the evening. The second would have prevented Sunday shows consisting wholly or in part of vaudeville, and the third, an indirect censorship measure, was designed to prevent the licensing of "any theatrical exhibition in which is used any obscene or sacrilegious language, or any cursing or any swearing."

Appraisers Chosen For St. Louis Firm

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 13.—Federal Judge George H. Moore has named James M. Franciscus, Jr., Joseph M. O'Reilly and Cornelius M. McDonald as appraisers of the property owned by the Theatre Realty Co., including the Fox Theatre, the Humboldt Building and adjacent stores.

The appointment was made after James T. Blair and Edmond Koeln, trustees for Theatre Realty, had advised the court that an appraisal was necessary to determine accurately the assets and liabilities of the company.

and Will Rogers, upon neither of whom the Legion's frown ever has been visited, as first in box-office rank.

Through the Legion's work "great masses" of the public that had been alienated from motion pictures have been returned as patrons, Father Daly said. Producers have been encouraged to forsake threadbare dramatic themes and to turn to the classics for source material with the result that new audiences have been won for the screen, "family trade" has been revived and parents who formerly did not permit their children to attend pictures they had not themselves seen and approved, now are guided by the Legion's reports, Father Daly said.

Legion to Continue

"The Legion of Decency," he observed, "has fulfilled its obligation to the public."

But, Father Daly added, its work is not over. The reasons for its organization impel its continuation, he said, explaining that the Catholic Church has definite duties to its 22,000,000 members in America, and that it must remain "the custodian of their morality." "For this reason the Legion was created—it was unwilling to see its work undone by any influence such as the screen undoubtedly is. If, as we believe, the screen is a powerful force in the life of America, a moral and ethical responsibility to parents and public rests with the industry."

A recent tendency in production, of which the Legion is taking note, is an effort to return to pictures certain objectionable features of their past, Father Daly said. He described these as "the so-called Lubitsch touches" in pictures and offered the opinion that they were being encouraged, if not inspired, by New York film critics. These, he said, cater to a sophisticated few but they have their influence on the makers of pictures for the entire country and its small towns, in which these things cannot be exhibited without giving "serious offense."

"If this tendency is not checked," Father Daly said, "it will drive away the newly regained patronage, and next time it will be harder to get them back."

Lauds Breen's Help

He said that the type of criticism complained of made the work of Joseph I. Breen, Production Code administrator, more difficult. Producers anxious to add "the Lubitsch touch" fortify their arguments with clippings from New York reviews which describe pictures without them as "naive," he said.

Father Daly said that Breen had been "most helpful" to the Legion in its work and the organization "wants to stand 100 per cent behind him." The Legion officer also recognized the work of J. J. McCarthy, head of the Advertising Advisory Council, in noting the great improvement made in the industry's advertising copy. "The advertising is important," he said, "and the more favorable type of copy is to your credit and our gratification," he told the Ampa members.

"The Catholic bishops have decided that the Legion of Decency is to be permanent," he concluded, "and, not in any blue-nose spirit, we dedicate ourselves to continuing its work."

Recognition for the improvement in ad copy was also given McCarthy by Mrs. Mary H. Looram, head of the motion picture bureau of the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae, who was also a speaker.

"The advertising code has accomplished wonderful results," she said, "and in commending Mr. McCarthy we mean it for the entire industry."

Mrs. Looram's bureau reviews films in cooperation with the Legion of Decency.

and committee membership of impartial men.

It is planned to have the sub-committee consider all pending film legislation and if action appears necessary, to draft a combination bill which will meet the situation with a maximum of simplicity. It was indicated also that the sub-committee will consider the measures proposing repeal of the ban on the interstate transportation of fight films.

Congressman Asks Copyright Action

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Members of the House of Representatives today were being urged by Congressman Zioncheck of Washington to sign a petition to discharge the Patents Committee from consideration of the Duffy Copyright Bill so as to bring it up for immediate consideration.

The petition was filed, the Congressman explained, because Representative Sirovich of New York, chairman of the Patents Committee, "refuses even to hold hearings upon a bill that the Senate has passed unanimously."

Sirovich's action he charged, was "arbitrary and capricious."

Zioncheck placed the petition on the Speaker's desk and withdrew one he had filed earlier to discharge the committee from consideration of the Bloom Bill, which was the House version of the copyright measure, but which the committee planned to supplant with the bill introduced last month by Representative Daly of Pennsylvania. The only signature he had secured to this petition was that of Congressman Pierce of Oregon.

The Patents Committee plans to hold hearings on copyrights, but has not yet decided on any date. However, it is possible that in view of Zioncheck's agitation, if he secure any extensive support for his petition, hearings may be called in the near future. It is planned to have the copyright legislation placed under a subcommittee, of which Representative Daly has indicated he will be chairman.

Any hearings on the measure, it has been said, will be on the Daly bill rather than on that passed last year by the Senate.

cussed by Dr. Kalmus while he was in Berlin, he said.

"Lawrence in Arabia" is to be done in color, with the outdoor scenes actually made in the country described, he said. He completed the arrangements for this with Alexander Korda while abroad. Robert Kane's first for Twentieth Century-Fox in England, "King of the Jews," also will be in color, he said, and Natalie Kalmus will be color director.

Pitt Will Open Again

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 13.—Backed by a group of Cleveland men headed by William Skirboll, the old Pitt here will reopen next week as the Barry, playing late-run double features at an afternoon scale of 15 cents and an evening top five cents higher than that. The house, which has been dark since a month ago, when Morse and Rothenberg, New England operators, failed to put it over with vaudeville, then triple features and finally twin bills with a series of prize nights, is being renovated at a cost of $5,000.

Skirboll's brother is Joe Skirboll, head of First Division exchange here.

Bank Night in Missouri Hit By 2nd Ruling

But State Not Expected To Prosecute Users

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Feb. 14—Although the office of Roy McKittrick, attorney general of Missouri, this week again pronounced Bank Night a lottery, and therefore contrary to Missouri statutes, the office probably will not itself file charges against theatres using the giveaway, it was indicated.

This leaves the situation in Missouri just about where it was before. The Attorney General's office pronounced Bank Night a lottery some time ago, but no charges were pressed by the Attorney General. Although the present opinion gives local police and county prosecutors authority to bring action, the earlier opinion did likewise without local police and county attorneys doing anything about it.

It is understood, however, that a number of St. Louis theatres have decided to abolish such giveaways as Bank Night, Screeno, etc. The re-

Philadelphia Plea Goes to Court Monday

Majors Seek Rehearing On New Dual Angles

Major distributors will file their application for a rehearing of the Perelman double feature case with the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals at Philadelphia today in a further effort to establish the legality of double featuring restrictions through exhibition contracts.

The application for a reargument of the appeal will be based on new evidence and legal considerations not touched upon at the first hearing and upon developments subsequent to the handing down of the decision, Jan. 16.

The Circuit Court decision upheld the original finding of Judge George A. Welsh and held the contract clause in some distributors' contracts restricting double featuring to be illegal and amounting to restraint of trade on both exhibitors and independent producers. The clauses in question were included in the contracts of Fox, Vitagraph, RKO, Paramount, M-G-M and United Artists. Their effect is to prohibit the showing of a second full length feature on the same program with any picture covered by the contract.

It is believed certain that distributors will move to bring the case to the U. S. Supreme Court in the event their application for a reargument of the appeal in Philadelphia is denied.

RKO Claim Hearing Delayed to Feb. 25

Negotiations for settlement of the $9,000,000 Rockefeller Center claim against RKO are being continued, necessitating another postponement of the federal court hearing on the exceptions of the RKO trustees to the allowance of the claim at that amount. The hearing, which was scheduled for next Tuesday before

Ohio Cuts Only 16 Of 661 Reels Seen

COLUMBUS, Feb. 14.—Eliminations by the Ohio censor board for January amounted to one-quarter of one per cent of the total number of reels reviewed. Of 661 reels, eliminations were ordered in but 16. During the week ending Jan. 23, there were only two eliminations in 120 reels reviewed.

The record for December was 660 reels reviewed and 27 eliminations ordered.

Film Material

A New York film executive received the following:

"I have made up a story, have the gangster obtain planty money thru the dirty tricks, with out of the interfearance of the law from the usurper people.

"It starts sad and end comick. Content some murders, goast.

"If you are interest to mak a film please let me know."

Empire's Election Challenged in Suit

An application to set aside the recent election of officers of Empire State M. P. Operators' Union as illegal was made yesterday in Brooklyn Supreme Court before Justice Peter P. Smith by Joseph Kimmel, a member.

Because of a mass of conflicting affidavits Justice Smith named a referee to take testimony and report back for the court's information.

Kimmel charges that the election held Jan. 21 at Irving Plaza Hall, 15th St. and Irving Place, Manhattan, was marked by disorder and a free-for-all fight in which he was trampled. During the disorder, he charges, an adjournment was declared and the election was held after a number of members had gone home. During a "rump" meeting which followed, he alleges, Casper Ricca was elected president and trustees were chosen by a vote of 120-36.

Ricca, in reply, says the only disorder was created by Kimmel's faction, and that the meeting was held in accordance with the by-laws.

Two questions which the referee will have to decide are: 1, whether an adjournment could be taken legally; 2, whether there was sufficient disorder to warrant an adjournment.

Yorke Appointed to Para. Publicity Job

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 14.—Gabe Yorke was today made publicity and advertising director for Paramount studios, effective Monday. He succeeds Bill Pine, who resigned the post to become executive aide to Cecil B. DeMille, who is scheduled to produce six or eight films annually under the studio unit system.

Pine is scheduled to work with Yorke for several days before joining DeMille.

Yorke was studio director of publicity and advertising for Fox during the latter days of Winfield Sheehan's regime. Prior to that he was in charge at the New York office of Fox and had previously been publicity and advertising head for F.W.C.

Wanger Signs U. A. Contract For Ten Years

Ticket Calls for Four Productions Yearly

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 14. — Walter Wanger today signed a ten-year contract with United Artists. The official statement from the U. A. offices stated, "The board of directors of United Artists announce that Mr. Walter Wanger has been granted a franchise to release the future product of Walter Wanger Prod. through United Artists' distributing organization. Associated financially with Mr. Wanger in his future production activities will be Miss Mary Pickford, Mr. Charles Chaplin, Mr. Douglas Fairbanks, Mr. Nathan Burkan and Mr. Samuel Goldwyn. The releasing agreement contains provisions for a ten-year period of distribution through United Artists."

The new Wanger contract will begin at U. A. about July 1. His present Paramount contract calls for four more pictures. "Palm Springs," "The Moon's Our Home" and "Brazen" are in work. Following these will be

Atwell Quits Columbia

Ben H. Atwell, assistant to Jack Cohn, vice-president of Columbia, has resigned from the company, effective this week. His future plans have not yet been set, he indicated.

Salaries Justified, Says Harry Warner

WILMINGTON, Feb. 14.—Harry M. Warner, on the stand again today in the Koplar action against his company, insistently denied that he or his brothers, Albert and Jack, had conducted stock transactions to build up their personal fortunes, or that their weekly salaries of $10,000 over a period of six years were at all excessive when compared with the compensation received by officials of competitor companies. During his testimony Warner touched on many of the interesting phases of film production and distribution, telling of the methods of purchasing stories and film rights, of the necessity of keeping in tune with the public's preferences, and of film promotion procedure in Russia, where the Soviet will permit the showing of Americans "at work" but not "at play."

In an effort to shake the financial claims in Warner's testimony, plaintiff's counsel, Ernest L. Wilkinson and Aaron Finger submitted reports showing total common stock dividend payments of only $239,000 over the six-year period. They also introduced the Senate testimony of Warner dated May 30, 1932, in which he admitted stock profits of $7,393,564 by himself and his two brothers. It is these operations to which Koplar objects.

It is hoped to conclude the trial Monday.

"Music" Opening Set In Miami Wednesday

MIAMI BEACH, Feb. 14.—Openings are coming so fast these nights that the film contingent won't have anything to do when it gets back to New York. Columbia has set "The Music Goes 'Round and Around" for the Lincoln next Wednesday, with all the trimmings of a premiere.

Pre-release showings have been set in Springfield, Mass., Providence, Pinehurst, Kansas City, Los Angeles, Omaha, .Salt Lake City and San Francisco for the following night, with others on the 21st, 22nd and 23rd.

Plan "Pine" Broadcasts

Paramount has gone in for extensive radio work on "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine." On Sunday at 2 P. M. an outline of the Miami Beach opening at the Colony next Monday will be given on the Magic Key hour over an NBC hookup.

Tonight Christopher Dunphy of Paramount will broadcast on the opening from WIOD at 5:50 o'clock, and there will be a 15-minute program from the theatre over WIOD before the picture starts.

Bowes, 2 Governors For Southern Meet

PINEHURST, Feb. 14.—Names are being lined up for the annual convention of Theatre Owners of North and South Carolina here March 1 and 2. In addition to Major Bowes and some of his amateurs the Governors of North and South Carolina have been invited, and Ed Kuykendall will be one of the speakers.

Kuykendall is expected to discuss the Pettengill bill, the Ascap problem and theatre competition from commercial advertisers.

FWC Hearing Ends; Decision Reserved

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 14.—Federal Judge James Alger Fee today reserved decision on the petition of T. L. Tally and Corbar Corp. to have the Fox West Coast bankruptcy adjudication set aside. Judge Fee, who has been hearing argument of counsel for the past seven days, stated that while his mind is clear on a great many points he will need time to investigate the voluminous records of the original proceedings.

In the concluding arguments today William H. Neblett, counsel for the petitioners, claimed that the bankruptcy has never closed because of the fact that the Government has a tax lien of $1,000,000 against the bankrupt. On the other hand, Walter K. Tuller, representing the respondents, maintained that the Government has waived the claim against the bankrupt, agreeing to file the lien against National Theatres instead.

Judge Fee intimated that several weeks may be necessary to consider all the facts and testimony before a decision can be reached.

Philadelphians Get Charter in Delaware

DOVER, Del., Feb. 14.—The independent M. P. T. O. of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware, recently organized in Philadelphia as an amalgamation of the I. E. P. A. and certain members of the M. P. T. O. unit, has been granted a Delaware charter. Incorporators are M. S. Cook, A. L. Raughley and J. M. Townsend of this city.

Other incorporators are: Stratford Pictures Corp., by Emile Bonnot, L. M. Taby and J. A. Lauridsen; Heron Prod., by Edward P. Goetz, Herman H. Butterman and Harry Fleishman, and Spencer & Spencer, by M. C. Swearer, M. B. Pinder and A. S. Foulk.

"Investigator" for Dix

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 14.—Richard Dix's next film for Radio will be an outdoor drama titled "Special Investigator." In the supporting cast are Margaret Callhan, Moroni Olsen, Ray Mayer, Lucille Ball and Harry Jans.

Rites for Francis Burton

Funeral services will be held Monday in Arlington National Cemetery, Va., for Francis Burton Harrington of the Outdoor Advertising Department of Ross Federal Research Corp., who died at his home Thursday. He was 40 years old. Marjorie Harrington, his widow, and two children, survive.

Brown Services Today

Funeral services will be held today at the Campbell Funeral Church for Martin Brown, 51, playwright and film writer, who died at Bellevue Hospital Thursday of pneumonia. He also played in numerous stage shows before turning to writing, chiefly for the stage. He is survived by a sister, Frederika Brown, of New York.

Rites for C. W. Kline

AKRON, Feb. 14.—Funeral services were held here today for Clinton W. Kline, operator of the Arcade for the past 15 years, who died after a long illness. He is survived by his widow and a daughter.

PHIL FREASE, operator of the Albany, Vacaville and Redwood, has just returned from a vacation.

Science Will Cure World Ills—Sarnoff

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—"The solution of the world's economic problems will yet be found through the progress of science," declared David Sarnoff, president of RCA, in the course of an address on "Communication and Democracy" before the Third Annual Woman Congress at the Palmer House here today.

Sarnoff sharply scored the manner in which the press, radio, the screen, theatre and printed word have been made tools of "blind prejudice" in the European dictatorships of today, and contrasted that situation with this country. "With communications free, public opinion controls democratic government and keeps the people free," the executive said. "Science and invention must remain bulwarks against the hammering tides of autocracy and intolerance," he added. Enlightened democracy must be guided in part by the necessity for the unhampered development of science, invention and industry "through the encouragement of personal initiative and rewards for achievement," Sarnoff declared.

Wilmington Theatre Rules Stir Protest

WILMINGTON, Feb. 14.—A set of counter proposals in opposition to the proposed new building code affecting theatres, prepared by Robert L. Mills of Philadelphia, has been submitted to the Law Committee of the City Council. The petition urges that the code be not retroactive and that modifications be made in the sections which exhibitors have found objectionable.

Among objectionable restrictions in the code were fixing of minimum width of seats at 20 inches and other restrictions on aisles and seats; prescribing a standard aisle width; requiring steel frame curtains for the proscenium; stipulating that rewinding rooms be separate from projection booths and also that storage rooms for films be separate.

Theatremen requested that the code should place theatres showing legitimate stage attractions and those showing only films be placed under separate classifications in reference to proposals for fireproof curtains.

Chicago Deliveries Made Despite Storm

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—Film delivery service out of this city was hampered, but not halted despite the heavy blizzard and cold weather during the past weeks. Shipments were delayed in some cases but no outlying houses serviced from here were without film, acording to reports of the various film trucking services. Other types of business were not so fortunate, as truck as well as rail shipments were held up in many of the smaller towns.

Open New Georgia House

FITZGERALD, Ga., Feb. 14.—Martin Theatres will open their new Grand here Monday evening. A dance will follow the formal opening of the house.

Withers Film Titled

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 14.—"Little Miss Nobody" is the title definitely selected for the forthcoming Jane Withers production now in work at 20th-Fox.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Wife vs. Secretary"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 14.—Here is something new in the line of comedy-drama and triangular romance. The title, the prestige of the players, including Clark Gable, Jean Harlow and Myrna Loy, plus the novelty of the story content combine to give this unusual entertainment value for both exhibitors and patrons.

Tastefully produced and directed, with considerable to stimulate the imagination, the picture is characterized throughout by an atmosphere of romantic intimacy, although there is nothing in the slightest way objectionable in it. The film is certain to appeal to women, and at the same time has something for the men, assuring a good box-office.

Gable is deeply in love with his wife, Miss Loy, and attached to his job, which keeps Miss Harlow, his secretary, at his elbow day and night. Miss Loy, inspired by Gable's mother, May Robson, becomes jealous. Although the relations of Miss Harlow and Gable are strictly business, circumstances occur which convince Miss Loy her husband is straying. The comedy contrast is provided in the reactions of Miss Harlow's friend, James Stewart, to the demands Gable makes on her time. Miss Loy is certain something is wrong when Gable refuses to take her on a business trip to Havana. When she calls and Miss Harlow answers, she is intent on separation and refuses to hear Gable's explanations until Miss Harlow, meeting her, makes her see that she has been looking for trouble.

With lively dialogue and clever situations, the film shows Gable and Miss Loy as they are preferred, and presents a surprisingly different Miss Harlow. The picture was adapted from Faith Baldwin's story by Norman Krasna, Alice Duer Miller and John Lee Mahin, and directed smartly by Clarence Brown.

Production Code Seal No. 1,989. Running time, 85 minutes. "G."

"The Leathernecks Have Landed"

(Republic)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 14.—In this action film the Marine Corps is treated slightly differently than in other pictures on the same subject. Although the story has some elements of weakness, there is enough fighting to satisfy those who enjoy two-fisted action.

Lew Ayres, scrappy private, constantly involves his buddies, Jimmy Elison and Maynard Holmes, in personal battles. When Holmes is killed in such a fight, Ayres is dismissed and joins a gang smuggling arms to Chinese bandits. Later, when the bandits and Ayres' gang are fighting the marines, Ayres returns to the marines and eventually is restored to the corps with honors. Isabel Jewell furnishes the romantic interest as the Shanghai recluse.

The Seton I. Miller screen play is from an original by Wellyn Totman and James Gruen, and is convincing in all but the fight sequence which leads to Ayres' discharge. The direction of Howard Bretherton is good. Ken Goldsmith produced. Satisfactory support is given by J. Carol Naish, Christian Rub and Clay Clement.

Production Code Seal No. 1,925. Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

"The Bohemian Girl," which opened at the Rialto last night, was reviewed by wire from Hollywood on Dec. 13.

"It Had To Happen," now current at the Roxy, was reviewed from Hollywood by wire on Jan. 28.

M-G-M Seeks Review For "Lynton" Case

M-G-M yesterday served notice that it would seek a writ of certiorari to bring to the U. S. Supreme Court an appeal from a recent U. S. Circuit Court decision holding the picture "Letty Lynton" to be an infringement of the novel "Dishonored Lady," by Edward Sheldon and Margaret Ayer Barnes.

The Circuit Court yesterday granted M-G-M's application for an order withholding that court's mandate from the district court pending the filing of the writ of certiorari.

SMPE to Hear RCA's New Sound Advances

Demonstrations of the latest developments in RCA's recording and a description of its workings will feature a meeting of the New York Section of the S.M.P.E., to be held in the studio of RCA Photophone, Inc., 411 5th Ave., next Wednesday night.

Glenn L. Dimmick of the RCA Mfg. Co., will talk on "Increased Resolution in Sound Recording and Printing Through the Use of Ultra Violet Light."

Dinner will be served at the Eastman Kodak Co. offices, 350 Madison Ave., at 5:30 o'clock.

Variety Club

Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 14.—Records and sheet music autographed by EDDIE FARLEY and MIKE RILEY, co-authors of "The Music Goes 'Round and Around," at the Tower where they appeared between trains, will be auctioned off at the annual Variety Club-Film Row charity ball.

The ball, which will be held at Pla-Mor, Feb. 17, promises to have the largest attendance of any yet.

The purpose is to raise money for the industry's charity fund. The condition of the fund has improved each year with the increased interest in the ball.

FRANK HENSLER, exchange manager for M-G-M, has been elected chief barker of Variety Club. He won by five votes over R. R. BIECHELE, who twice attempted to withdraw his name from the race, but was overridden by his supporters. HENSLER succeeds GEORGE BAKER.

BIECHELE became first assistant chief barker, HARRY TAYLOR is second assistant.

SAM ABEND was named treasurer with HOMER BLACKWELL as secretary. Directors, in addition to the officers, are FINTON JONES, ELMER RHODEN, MAX ROTH, FRED WOLFSON, ARTHUR COLE and GEORGE BAKER.

Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 14.—The regular luncheon was held last Wednesday.

Sundays are now known as preview nights; Tuesdays as stag nights; Wednesdays as Celebrity nights; Fridays as bridge nights, with special nights, Saturdays, for JIM CLARK, TED SCHLANGER, LEON LEVY, BEN AMSTERDAM.

A special Valentine Day party will be held Feb. 15.

The club is making plans to cooperate in the second annual Showmen's Jubilee at Atlantic City, Labor Day week. EARLE SWEIGERT and JAMES CLARK are directing affairs.

LEONARD SCHLESINGER, chairman of the entertainment committee, is outlining a busy season.

Washington

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—A new policy has been established in the conduct of the semi-monthly luncheons of Tent No. 11. HARRY HUNTER, supported by the Paramount personnel, had charge of the season's first noontime get-together. This was the start of a series with the barker in charge aided by his business associates.

HUNTER presented a program that included the KELLER SISTERS and LYNCH, BOB GERRITS, the Hollywood Octette from the Earle and Loew's FOX. ARTHUR A. DETITTA introduced Cameraman AL WALDRON, lately returned from Ethiopia.

Questions were fired at the newsreeler, and before he was able to resume his seat, WALDRON had used nearly 20 minutes in a fascinating account of the Italo-Ethiopian fracas.

Also on the speakers' list was ALVIN W. HALL, director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

The luncheon on Feb. 17 will be in charge of Former Chief Barker RUDOLPH BERGER, presenting "Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Day."

Until the remodeling of the club rooms has been completed, all formal evening affairs have been canceled.

Bank Night in Missouri Hit By 2nd Ruling

quest for a ruling on Bank Night came from a St. Louis attorney.

The opinion referred to a Washington state supreme court decision which held theatre drawings illegal because the theatres derive a direct benefit by attracting patrons who would not otherwise attend.

An editorial in the local Post-Tribune, headed, "On the Wane," cited the attorney general's opinion and said in part, "The artificial attendance stimulation has not brought the increased clicks in the turnstile hoped for but has resulted in arousing disfavor among those who see in that form of harmless gambling a kindergarten for the more serious forms. . . It appears that the era of chance taking has about reached its apex."

Bank Night Wins in Denver

DENVER, Feb. 14.—A victory for Bank Night was won here when District Judge Samuel W. Johnson denied the district attorney an injunction against the Rex, Brighton, Col., to prohibit the use of the stunt. The district attorney claimed that Bank Night and Divvy, which the Rex was also using, were in violation of the Colorado lottery laws, but Judge Johnson held that neither violated the state law.

The Rex is owned by Charles Yaeger of Affiliated Enterprises, Inc., owner of Bank Night. Emmett Thurman conducted the defense.

Bingo Hits Bridgeport

BRIDGEPORT, Feb. 14.—Managers are beginning to moan over Bingo games here. There are one or more Bingo games operating downtown every night in the week, and drawing plenty of customers. Some nights there are as many as four vying for the trade.

The girls have become the strongest addicts in the nightly hunt for prizes. The games are cheaper than most of the theatres and the couples can stay indoors longer these cold nights.

Beano Report Out Soon

BOSTON, Feb. 14.—According to U. S. Attorney Francis J. W. Ford, findings of an extensive investigation into Beano in Massachusetts will be presented to a Federal grand jury in Boston shortly.

Race Night in N. E.

BOSTON, Feb. 14.—Ace Night has been introduced into New England by Sol Bines of the American Film Exchange. Patrons bet on characters which are later flashed on the screen in a comedy race.

Attorneys Studying Cincinnati Ruling

nies with corporate reorganizations in the offing, such as RKO, the Roxy, General Theatres Equipment Corp. and others. Many felt, however, that the decision could have a decidedly adverse effect on corporate reorganizations if it stands.

The Circuit Court held that subsection B-5 of the reorganization statute was unconstitutional in attempting to authorize the court to provide a treament for non-assenting creditors in reorganization which lack a majority of creditor support. Some attorneys felt that if this outlawed the entire sub-section many companies would prefer to reorganize under the old equity procedure instead of under 77-B. The possibility of reorganizations already consummated, such as Paramount Publix, Fox Met Playhouses and others, being reopened for the settlement of dissenting creditors' claims was also suggested by some attorneys. It was generally believed, however, that the creditor company involved in the Cincinnati case would first move for a reargument and if it was not successful would take its case to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Walter Wanger Signs Ten-Year Contract

"Big Brown Eyes," starring Joan Bennett; "The Case Against Mrs. Ames," featuring Madeleine Carroll; "Spendthrift," a musical to be directed by Al Santell, and "Simoon," with Charles Boyer, to be directed by Anatole Litvak. The United Artists' deal calls for four yearly. Among Wanger's properties are "African Intrigue," "Spawn of the North" and "Wuthering Heights."

Wanger intends to make a trip to Europe before starting work on the new assignment.

C. E. Sasseen Passes

ATLANTA, Feb. 14.—Charles E. Sasseen, 66, retired film executive, died at his home here. He was a native of Atlanta. Until his retirement in 1933, he was district manager for Publix with headquarters in Dallas.

Sasseen began his career with the old Orpheum in 1883. He also had held executive posts in Dallas, Fort Worth, Galveston, Houston and San Antonio.

Ampa May Fete Berlin

Plans are in work to make next week's Ampa luncheon meeting a testimonial to Irving Berlin, who is observing his 25th anniversary this year as a popular song writer. Gordon White, Ampa president, is contacting a long list of celebrities who will be invited to take part in the testimonial if the plans materialize.

ITO Debts Paid

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 14.—All indebtedness of the local ITO has been paid up since the election of Harry Vinnicoff as president, it was revealed today at the annual meeting. The group now has a chest of $1,500, with former indebtedness of $2,178 entirely wiped out.

Something New

Harry Fields and James Cook, the latter formerly a cameraman with Universal, are about to launch what can be called "the last word." They have formed a company called Epilogues, with offices here, and production plans call for the distribution of 52 sound tracks a year, scored with appropriate music and some homy sort of dialogue. short poem or proverb that, at the conclusion of a screen show will hit the spot with audiences as they file out.

Writers, Managers Progress on Terms

Progress toward agreements on the new contracts between writers and managers which are to go into effect on March 1 was reported yesterday following the first meeting between the contract committee of the Authors' League and the League of N. Y. Theatres, which represents the managers. The joint meeting will be resumed next Tuesday.

The writers are preparing a new pact to correct restricted competitive bidding for film rights to stage plays as a result of the appearance of film companies as whole or part owners of Broadway plays, they say. When the new contract has been completed it will be submitted to the council and membership of the Authors' League for ratification.

Hub Gets Symphony With Its Art Film

BOSTON, Feb. 14.—When this town goes arty it goes arty in a big way. The Art Cinema Guild's Fine Arts Theatre under the direction of George Kraska is an example.

Recorded concerts are to be presented with each program. When "The New Gulliver" went on the screen, the music included the "Sibelius Symphony," No. 2 in D Major, as played by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Dr. Serge Koussevitzky.

Screen Tests on 16mm.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 14. — Edward Small of Reliance is planning screen tests on 16mm. film, conducted at various points far removed from Hollywood. It is estimated that such a test can be made on 50 feet of film at a cost not in excess of $3.50. Studio scouts will be sent into all sections of the United States and Canada for the purpose.

"Time" Worksheet Out

With the current issue, the "March of Time" has inaugurated a new group of simplified worksheets for exhibitors, which will accompany each new release. The sheet contains exploitation suggestions, newspaper release material on the content of the reel, and samples of lobby displays.

"Whispering" at Globe

Federal Judge William Bondy, was set back yesterday to Feb. 25.

Indications are that the hearing of the trustee's exceptions will not proceed while the settlement negotiations remain active enough to promise an early agreement between Rockefeller Center and RKO. The huge claim is based on the default of RKO's leases on the Music Hall, Center and office space in the RKO Building. The default made RKO liable for construction costs of the theatres.

Para. Amateurs Shine

Paramount's amateurs had their big chance last night. They furnished the entertainment at a dance given by the Paramount Pep Club at the Park Central. Eighteen of them performed after having previously satisfied the entertainment committee that they had specialties.

They were: Louis T. Davidson, harmonica; Esther Jablow, soprano; Nat Brownfelder, tap dancer; Stanley Esterson, crooner; Victor Bikel and Joe Stern, skit, "Lulu's Back in Town"; Esther Radin, soprano; Buddy Neustein, recitation; Thornton Canfield, Jr., songs; Harry Anawanda, songs; Emma Peters, soprano; Norman Siegel, pianist; Eddie Sullivan, song and dance; Bernard Solomonick, baritone; Harris Leroy, magician; Sam Dornfeld, singer; Sal Asaro, singer; Muriel Engel, songs.

"Crusoe" Third on List

Guaranteed Pictures will release "Robinson Crusoe" as the third on its schedule for the current season. It is now nearing completion. Uncle Don, radio character, plays the lead.

Song Writers Fight Warner Music Deals

Claim Right to Share In Negotiations

The Song Writers' Protective Ass'n in a letter to the Warner music subsidiaries made public on Saturday challenged the Warner companies' right to dispose of the performing rights for the music which it controls without first consulting the authors and composers. The letter was written in reply to a communication from the Warner group giving information of the company's "efforts and progress" to date in licensing music users.

"While your letter recognizes the interest of song writers in 50 per cent of the proceeds derived from the use of their songs in radio," the S.W.P.A. letter says, "yet we resent the implication, both from your letter and your recent activities, that the rights in question belong to you or your subsidiaries to handle in any way you see fit.

"Our members and their assignees are interested not only in the proceeds but in the rights themselves. They in-

National Executives Gather on the Coast

Los Angeles, Feb. 16.—Divisional operating heads of National Theatres will gather here tomorrow for a three-day annual get-together with Spyros and Charles Skouras. The men will make their annual reports on business. No changes in personnel are contemplated.

Attending the session will be, in addition to the two Skouras brothers, Rick Ricketson, Denver; Harold J. Fitzgerald, Milwaukee; Elmer C. Rhoden, Kansas City; Arch Bowles, San Francisco; Frank Newman, Sr., Seattle; E. L. Alperson, William T. Powers and Irving Barry, New York.

Conn. MPTO Split Plan of 42 Indies

New Haven, Feb. 16.—It is understood here that 42 independent theatre owners are favorable to the formation of a new independent organization, with possible affiliation with Allied. The new group, which is already considering office space in one of the film buildings as its headquarters, would be separate from the Connecticut M. P. T. O., of which the independents are now members.

Judge Julian Mack Sets Total at $333,100

Fees for services in the reorganization of Fox Metropolitan Playhouses aggregating $333,100 were allowed on Saturday by Federal Judge Julian W. Mack. The allowances represent a reduction of considerably more than one-half the amounts sought by the reorganization participants who, last Sept. 30, filed petitions asking for a total of $867,011 in fees. The court has had the applications under consideration since that date.

The allowances in most instances cover the entire four-year period during which Fox Met was in receivership or reorganization. The court allowed $100,000 to the firm of Beekman, Bogue, Leake, Stephens & Black, which, as counsel to the noteholders' protective committee, had asked a fee of $125,000, plus expenses. The Irving Trust Co., as receiver and trustee of Fox Met, was allowed $80,000, and had applied for $100,000. The firm of Dawes, Abbott & Littlefield, counsel to Irving Trust, which had asked a

Studios Slowed by Weather on Coast

Hollywood, Feb. 16.—With rain and general bad weather slowing up production, there were 35 feature pictures and five short subjects in actual work on the sound stages as compared to 38 features and the same number of shorts for the preceding week. Studio location plans were hampered by the weather. One company was snowbound in the mountains.

Warners remained at the head of the list of active studios with seven films before the cameras.

Columbia had five features in work, three being readied for filming within the next two weeks and four in the cutting room. Fox had four, one and seven; Goldwyn, zero, zero and one; M-G-M, five, zero and 12; Paramount, five, three and eight; Radio, two, three and three; Roach, one, one and zero; Universal, two, one and two; Warners, seven, one and six; independents, four, two and one.

In the short subject classification Columbia had one shooting, one preparing and three editing. M-G-M had three, two and six; Radio, zero, one and three; Roach, one, one and two; independents, zero, two and one.

Making It Tough

It may sound dizzy, but it's a fact.

The board of governors of the Monday Nighters, Inc., has adopted a resolution relative to applications for membership which provides that each exchange man must be endorsed by three exhibitors and each theatre owner must have three branch managers approve him.

The plan goes into effect immediately.

Report M-G-M Ends Dispute In So. Africa

Johannesburg, South Africa, Feb. 16.—Reports, well founded, are current that all difficulties between M-G-M and Union Theatres Proprietary, Ltd., have been settled. Termination of the difficulties is understood to have come about with the delivery of a release by Union Theatres Proprietary of a five-year contract for M-G-M pictures which had been the subject of litigation here. M-G-M some time ago filed suit against Union Theatres to set aside the five-year franchise on the ground that it had been obtained illegally.

Arthur Loew, head of the distributors' foreign activities, arrived here about two weeks ago. His mission was to attend the trial and also make a general survey of the theatre situation in South Africa. His departure from America was cloaked in secrecy. With the suit now out of the way,

Denies Injunction In "Times" Action

New Haven, Feb. 16.—Judge Alfred C. Baldwin in Superior Court here denied a mandatory injunction sought by Vuono Operating Co. of Stamford against United Artists, asking that U. A. furnish "Modern Times" for an immediate playdate. A $5,000 damage suit charging failure to supply the picture is set for hearing on March 3.

The plaintiff charged that on Jan. 31 notice of the film's availability was received, and the film was advertised for Feb. 14 showing. U. A. claimed the notice went out in error and was recalled by a second notice on Feb. 4. Richard Carroll, Paramount booker, testified "Milky Way" was available, contesting the plaintiff's contention that no other Class A picture was available to substitute for "Modern Times."

E. C. Grainger Quits Fox for Theatre Post

To Be General Manager For Feiber & Shea

E. C. Grainger, eastern division sales manager for Twentieth Century-Fox, has resigned that position to become general manager of the Feiber & Shea circuit. He will assume his new post with the Mort Shea theatres within the next few days.

E. C. Grainger

Grainger, who has held high sales executive posts with the Fox organization for the past 10 years, forwarded his resignation to John C. Clark, Twentieth Century-Fox sales manager, who is now on the west coast for product conferences at the studio. In Clark's absence no

Assert Dual's Ban Protects Property

Philadelphia, Feb. 16.—Emphasizing that clauses in exhibition contracts which prohibit the showing of a second full length feature with one covered by the contract are designed solely for the protection of the distributor's property, Paramount yesterday filed a petition for a rehearing of the Perelman double feature case before the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals here.

The petition denies that a combination or conspiracy existed among defendant distributors employing the duals clause in their contracts and

"Forest" Is Strong In Spite of Weather

Despite bad weather, which hurt Broadway grosses generally, "The Petrified Forest" did remarkably well at the Music Hall, garnering $82,000 for the first week. Expectations are that with a change in the weather, the picture will gross about the same figure for the second stanza.

The Center with "The Lady Consents" ended with a nice take. The gross was around $20,000. "King of

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, Feb. 16.

TALES from the Hollywood Hills: In the days not long back when Charlie Rogers was producing for Paramount and so rated headquarters of his own he occupied a bungalow not far removed from that which Ben Schulberg once filled. Cecil B. De Mille is the current occupant in transitory Hollywood.

But the Rogers bungalow is no more. The space now has reposing on it a film vault. When the job was under construction, steam shovels howled and snorted through the otherwise outwardly calm atmosphere.

"What's all the activity about?" inquired one who hadn't heard. "Why are all those shovels so frantically digging away?"

"Henry Herzbrun's boy has lost his ball," replied another. . . .

On occasion, word does filter through from the outside world. The dope hurdles the mountains that, for the first time since columnists came into their own, Broadway is without a resident scrivener. That is, of the top-notchers in that particular field of literary expression.

Walter Winchell and Ed Sullivan are in Miami. Louis Sobol is here. Sidney Skolsky has been for some time and likes it.

The observation followed that this was a perfect time to step out in Gotham. . . .

Young man moves blithely and with springy step from the administration building at the beautiful Fox plant in Westwood Hills, singing "Anything Goes."

"Hey," a passerby shouts, "you're on the wrong lot with that number."

"O. K.," comes his reply as he swings into "Thanks a Million."

Fredric March, grimy and battered in makeup only, of course, for "Wooden Crosses" which Howard Hawks has well under way for Twentieth Century-Fox, says he's heard Warners plan to preview "Anthony Adverse" at the six-day bicycle race with "Les Miserables" as a trailer. . . .

The suggestion has been made that Lily Pons' first night be renamed from "I Dream Too Much" to "Show Them No Mercy." Or, "I Scream Too Much."

No statement from Radio on this. . . .

"Have you seen Pine lately?" someone inquired of Gene Fowler.

"Which one," he asked, "Lonesome, Bill or Virginia?" . . .

Fowler, rapier-like on the draw, calls Hollywood the land of entombed intelligence. . . .

One producer around town, proud of his latest talent-signing exploits, is reported to have bragged the other night:

"I've signed Rimsky-Korsakov. Both of them." . . .

Alabama Men Fight Moves for 10% Tax

BIRMINGHAM, Feb. 16.—Film men are hot under the collar as they begin a fight against a bill in the legislature levying increased taxes on quite a list of "luxuries," including 10 per cent on all amusements. The "Luxury" tax was put forth by Gov. Bibb Graves after a proposed three per cent sales tax met with vigorous opposition from retail interests.

Clark East Shortly

Herman Wobber is at the studio outlining plans for the 1936-37 schedule with Joseph M. Schenck, Darryl F. Zanuck and Clark.

Closes for F. D. Product

SEATTLE, Feb. 16.—Al Goldstein of Principal Pictures with offices here and in Portland, has closed for the distribution of First Division product in this territory.

Parent-Teachers Hit Oklahoma City Films

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 16.—Double-barreled lambasting of producers "responsible for juvenile crime" and of mothers who park their children in theatres while they attend bridge parties was engaged in recently by members of the Parent-Teachers' Ass'n., film committees.

A group of 20 men and women attending a teachers' convention met for lunch at the Y. M. C. A. to hear Paul Harrup, chairman, parade the faults of the industry and suggest remedies.

The P. T. A. members dwelt at length on the refusal of film companies to provide features for showing in Oklahoma City schools.

Set Booth Bill Hearing

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 16.—The Public Safety Committee of the Board of Aldermen here will hold a public hearing Wednesday when exhibitors will be heard on the bill calling for two men in a booth, now before the Board with the backing of the local operators' union. Exhibitors are opposed to the measure.

Columbia's Annual Party Draws Crowd

Some 700 guests were present at the dinner and dance of the Columbia Club held Saturday night in the ballroom of the Waldorf Astoria. Harry Hershfield, as master of ceremonies, was assisted by Benny Rubin.

The affair, in a measure, was a testimonial to Jeanne Dressler, vice-president, who is to marry Frank McGrann of Columbia's exploitation department.

Among those attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cohn, Mr. and Mrs. A. Schneider, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Barbano, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Burkan, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schwartz, Mr. and Mrs. Saul Bornstein and Mr. and Mrs. William Germain.

Present officers of the club are: George Joseph, president; Miss Dressler, vice-president; Leo Jaffe, treasurer, and "Fan" Melmen, secretary.

Storms in Illinois Cause Booking Shift

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—Downstate exhibitors in some cities, having big pictures booked for Sunday showings, jerked the films for cheaper product when they saw business was to be extremely light on account of the blizzard and sub-zero temperature.

They explained to the few disappointed customers that the deluxe feature didn't arrive because the weather was so bad.

The other films will be shown later.

British Films Fall In Canadian Houses

TORONTO, Feb. 16.—Fewer British features were released in Canada during 1935 than during 1934, according to figures compiled by Regal Films, Ltd., and Empire Films, Ltd. The 1935 total was 65, as compared with 80 for 1934. Returns on the decreased total were higher than during the previous year, however.

Cagney Action Delayed

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 16.—The action of James Cagney against Warners in the player's suit to cancel his contract has been delayed until Wednesday in Superior Court here. Cagney had obtained a temporary order restraining Warners from interfering with his attempts to obtain a contract elsewhere. Warners must show cause why the order should not be made permanent.

To Handle Premiums

Lester S. Tobias has closed a contract for the exclusive sales representation of the Jeanette Glass Company's Windsor and Delfite lines of premiums for theatres in the New York territory.

Exhibitors Visit Coast

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 16.—Ralph Talbot, Tulsa, Okla., exhibitor, is visiting the studios.

Izzy Rappaport, Baltimore first run operator, who has been here, is en route east.

Agnew Heading South

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 16.—Neil F. Agnew, general sales manager of Paramount, is due here from Seattle and Portland in a few days.

TRADE VIEWS by W. R. WILKERSON

•SIDNEY Kent is faced with an unusual situation. He has so many big pictures to set for release that he confronts quite a problem in the handling of them. After looking at the pictures which are now ready and parts of others soon to be completed, Kent wired John Clark to come out and sit in on the situation.

Kent must be a happy guy when Zanuck hands him so many big attractions that he finds it hard to place them. It's a new sort of situation for him, since he took over Fox. But it is a burden he is glad to shoulder.

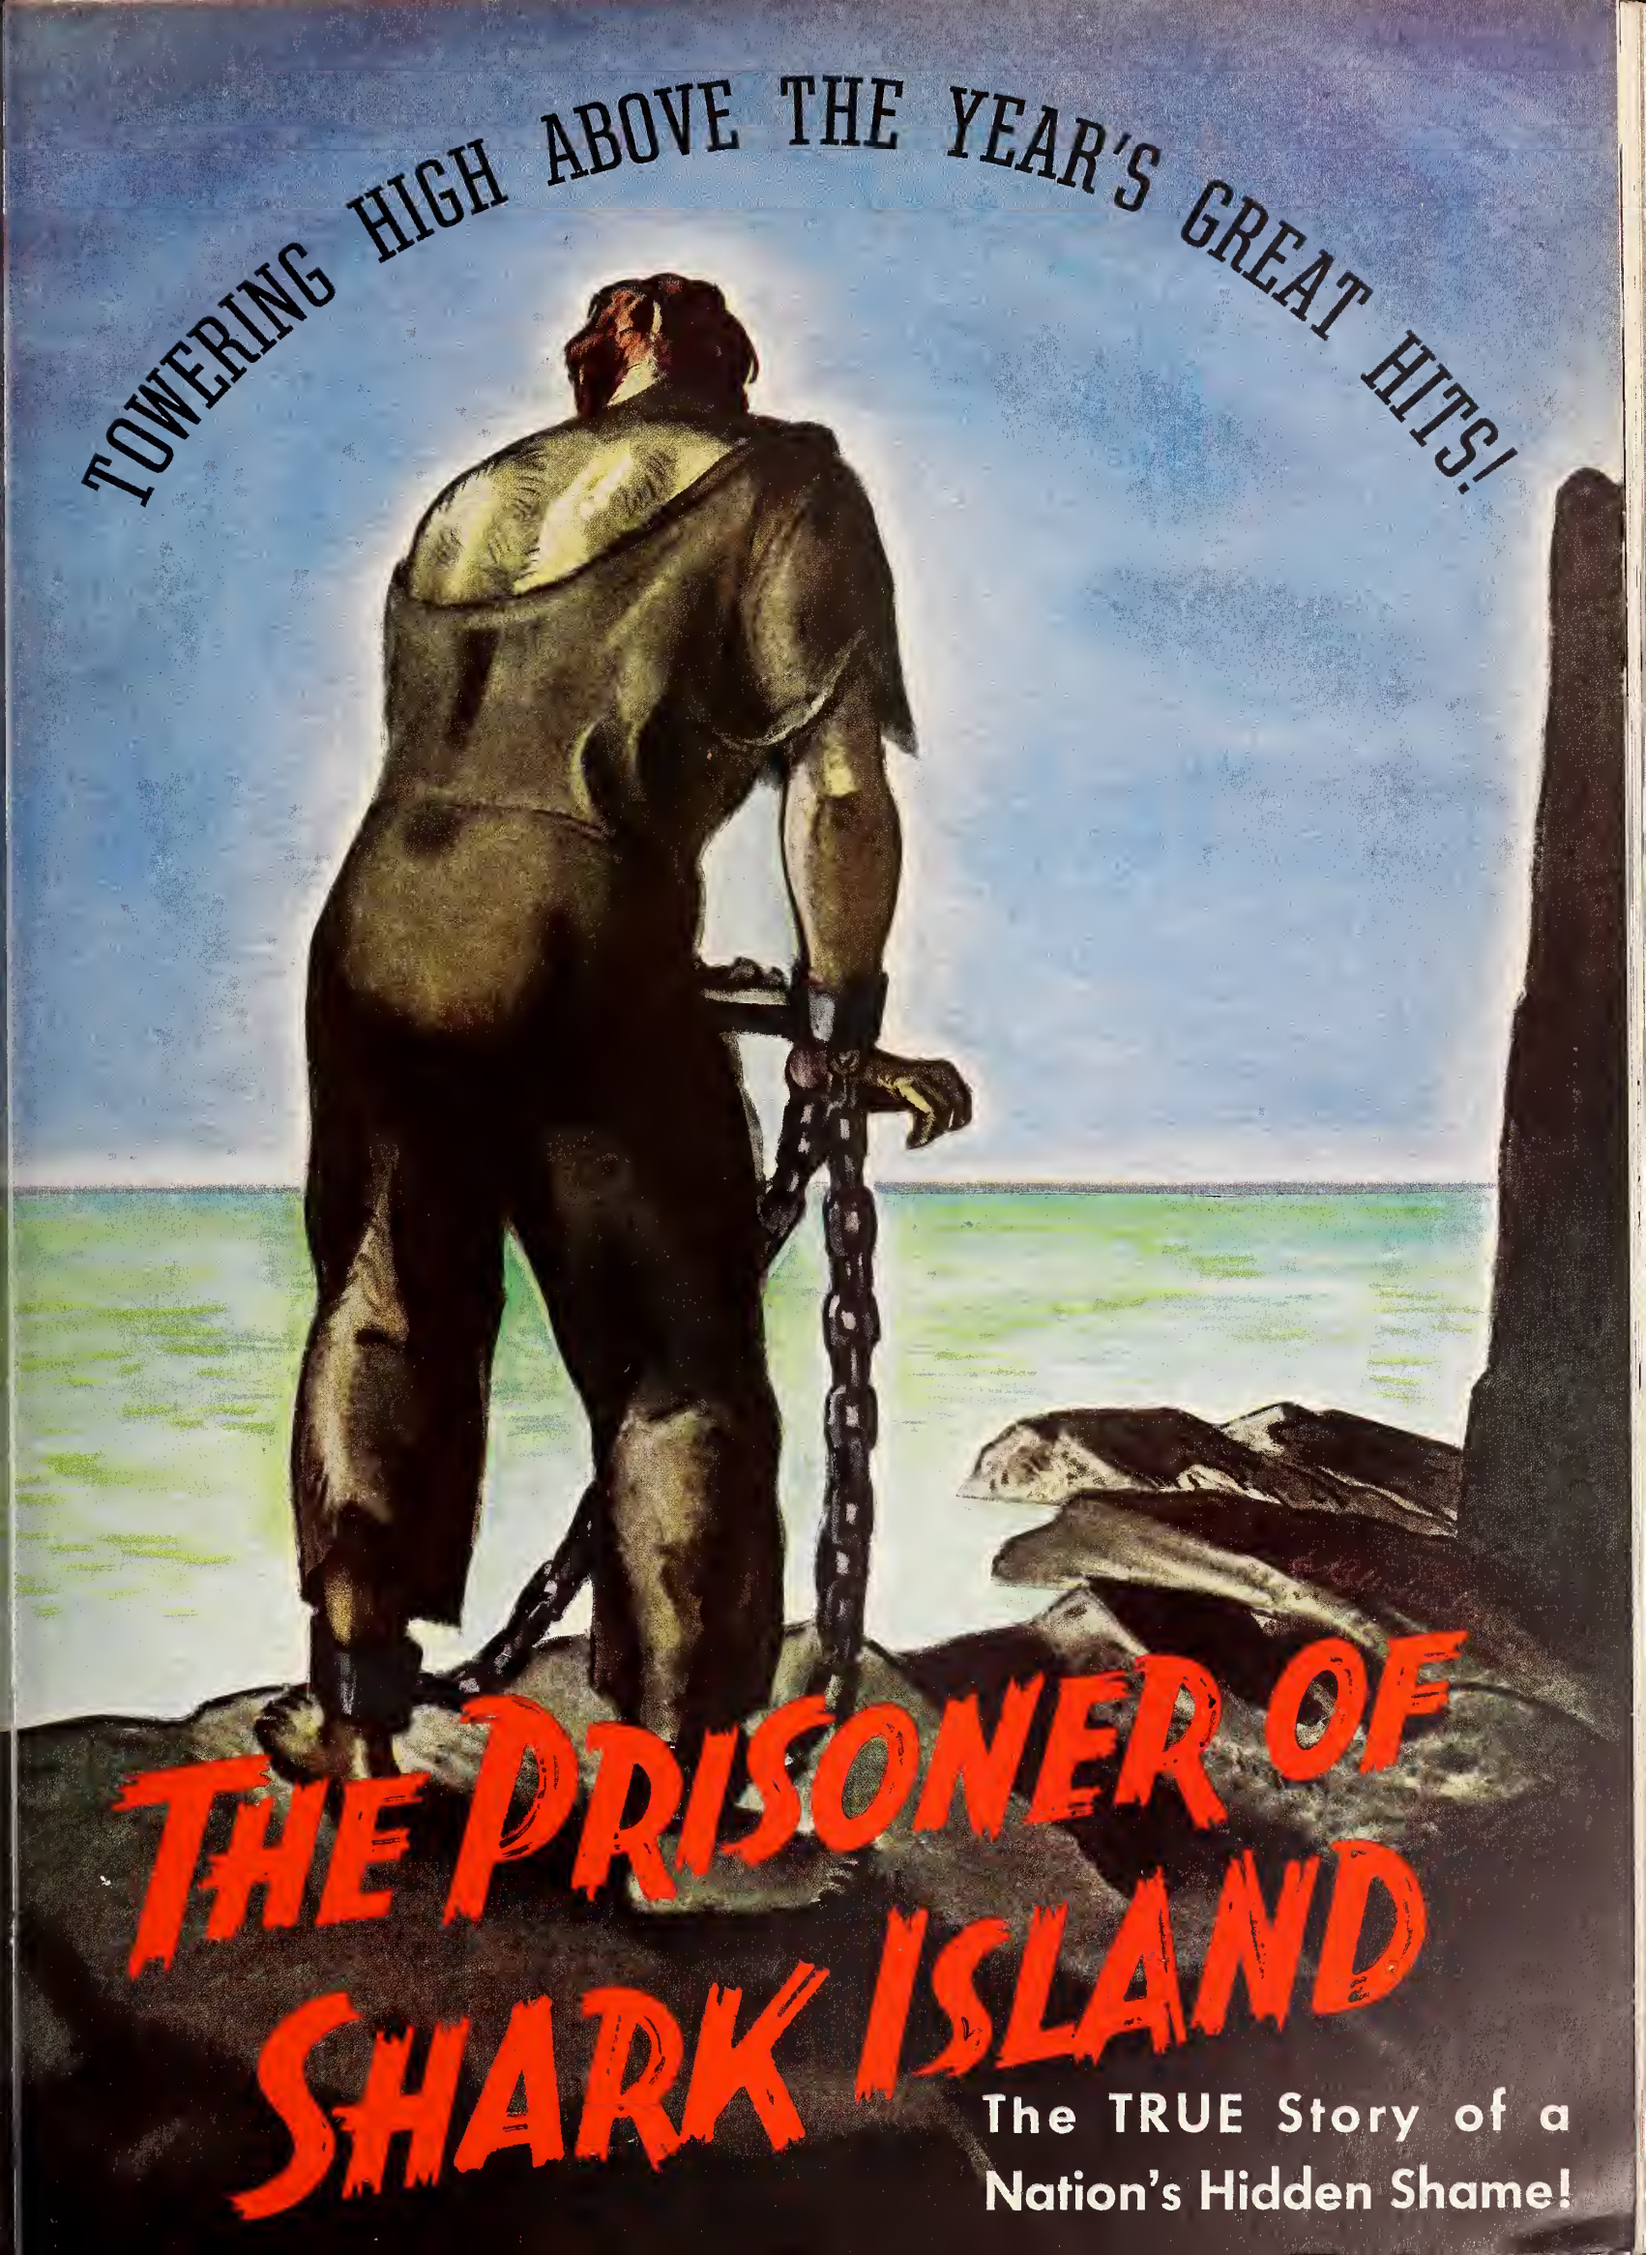
Zanuck has shown the Century-Fox president "The Prisoner of Shark Island," "The Country Doctor," and "Message to Garcia" in their completed form. Kent has also viewed lots of the footage of "Under Two Flags," "Wooden Crosses." In addition to these, he must find places for the two new Shirley Temples: "Captain January," and "Poor Little Rich Girl."

Zanuck unquestionably has a very important group of pictures. He is spending more on "Under Two Flags" than he ever sent into a picture before. He believes, as does every other person who has seen "The Country Doctor," that even without the quintuplets it is one of the greatest attractions the Century production head has ever had.

Fox in 157 Chicago Spots for One Day

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—A new booking record was set here one day last week when Twentieth Century-Fox pictures were shown in 157 Chicago theatres. This is the largest number of bookings any one company has had in local history. Practically all "C" week and first and second week release houses played the company's pictures.



Advertising in the papers showed that 95 theatres out of 124 advertising, were playing product from the company.

Chicago is but one of many! Exhibitors have demonstrated an overwhelming preference for those great 20th Century-Fox productions. And every release date proves more conclusively the wisdom of their choice!

endeavors to point out to the court what appear to be discrepancies between testimony given in the case and the findings of both the district and appeals courts that use of the clause is in violation of the anti-trust laws.

"It is the protection of its property that compels a defendant to insist that its property be not economically and artistically sacrificed by its showing with another feature picture," the Paramount petition, which was filed by its attorneys, Simpson, Thacher & Bartlett, states.

The court is expected to set a date for a hearing on the petition within the next few days and if the petition is denied efforts will be made to bring the case to the U. S. Supreme Court. Defendants in addition to Paramount include Vitagraph, RKO, M-G-M, Fox and United Artists.

Interstate Controls San Antonio Houses

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 16.—The Interstate Circuit, Inc., has obtained a monopoly of local theatres with the acquisition of our second runs, through a deal between Robert J. O'Donnell, Interstate general manager, and Eph Charninsky, operator of the Palace, Uptown, Harlandale and Highland Park, the last three suburban houses.

Under the deal Interstate will operate for 10 years, with an option for a 15-year extension. Interstate has been operating the Majestic, Aztec and Texas, the city's three ace houses, for a number of years, as well as the Empire and State, second runs. The Empire will be made a first run, but no other changes are planned.

Cincinnati's Banks Showing Heavy Gain

CINCINNATI, Feb. 16. — Another heartening sign on the local horizon is reflected in the report of 11 of the largest state banks here, which shows total deposits of $223,670,346 for 1935, an increase of practically $31,000,000 during the year. In the same period, resources jumped from $227,879,808 to $256,942,079, a gain of $39,062,271. Deposits and the corresponding amount of cash in Cincinnati banks were close to the peak year of 1929, bank executives said.

The local report was part of a tabulation released by Samuel H. Squire, state superintendent of banks at Columbus, which indicated that 46 state banks in the seven Ohio key cities had total deposits of $847,844,677 at the close of 1935, compared with $715,942,643 on Dec. 31, 1934, an increase of $131,902,034.

Burlesque" and "Paddy O'Day" at the Palace took in approximately $8,000. This house continues to be a problem with RKO because of poor intakes. However, the dual policy will continue as is.

"Muss 'Em Up" and "Idol of Millions" tallied about $7,000 in the second Rialto week. At the Paramount, "Anything Goes" and Isham Jones and his orchestra, a strong combination, got pretty close to $40,000.

Variety Club

Buffalo

BUFFALO, Feb. 16.—Variety Club will have its first annual ball and frolic in the Statler ballroom March 14.

VINCENT R. MCFAUL, president, is honorary chairman. HARRY T. DIXON and NATE SAUBER are co-chairmen of arrangements; C. ARTHUR WOODWARD, JOHN CHINELL, WILLIAM BORK, ELMER LUX and LUCIEN BLUMENFELD are in charge of reception; NICHOLAS J. BASIL and CARL W. KEMPKE of tickets; HARRY ALTMAN, DEWEY MICHAELS and MURRAY WHITEMAN of entertainment; ROBERT T. MURPHY, SAUBER and DIXON of favors and menus; WILLIAM MARTIN, JOHN SITTERLY, MIKE SIMON, RALPH MAW, I. R. LOUNSBERRY and EDGAR TWAMLEY of publicity; EPHRAIM BETTIGOLE and HERCULES WEBSTER of decorations; KENNETH ROBINSON of reservations and seating; BASIL BRADY and PHIL LAVENE of transportation, and JOE FRIEDMAN, OTTO SIEGEL, LEO MURPHY, GEORGE FERGUSON, MATTHEW V. SULLIVAN, JR., NORMAN L. SPER, EMERSON DICKMAN, NATHAN MARCUS and J. R. LEVEE of the club journal.

Barker HARRY A. SEED and MRS. SEED are in Miami for their winter vacation.

Former Chief Barker EDWARD K. O'SHEA and his first assistant, SYDNEY SAMPSON, have gone to Miami Beach for a three-week vacation.

NICHOLAS J. BASIL, former dough guy, just back from an eight-week trip to Greece and other European countries, recounted his experiences at the semi-monthly luncheon Monday. RALPH MAW and EMERSON DICKMAN were kings for the day, with SAMUEL BRONKIE, potentate of Ismailia Temple, as guest speaker. BRONKIE discussed "Organization."

Dallas

DALLAS, Feb. 16.—FRANK HARRIS of Pittsburgh, national Variety Club head, came here for induction of officers of Tent 17. He was accompanied by JAMES B. BALMER, national secretary.

R. J. O'DONNELL is head of the local tent.

Colman Deal Profitable

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 15.—Ronald Colman is reliably reported here to be a heavy winner as the result of his percentage contract with M-G-M on "A Tale of Two Cities." He is said to have refused the company's offer to buy his contract for a flat sum. His deal with David O. Selznick calls for a percentage on the untitled original in preparation by Oliver H. P. Garrett.

Para. Signs Odets

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 16 — Clifford Odets, author of "Waiting for Lefty," "Awake and Sing" and "Paradise Lost," was signed Saturday by Paramount to do the script for "The General Died at Dawn." Lewis Milestone will direct, and Gary Cooper will probably be starred.

A. E. Levoy to Marry

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 16.—Albert E. Levoy, associate producer at Republic, and Ella Arnold, secretary to Nat Levine, will be married on Wednesday.

Pittsburghers Fear Association Breakup

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 16. — Because George Jaffe refused to join the Pittsburgh Managerial Ass'n and is charging only 40 cents for pictures and stage shows at his new Casino while the set organization scale is 55 cents, theatre men see a possible dissolution of the association in the near future and possibly the outbreak of another price war.

Last year the association was formed to control prices following a battle which sent the de luxe scale down to 40 cents for combination bills. Since then Warners and Loew's have pooled their product and the Casino competition isn't expected to affect them, but the Alvin and the Fulton may find the going pretty rough.

If either of these houses secede from the association, as observers predict, it will mean the end of the organization.

Mexico to Produce Series of Scenics

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 16.—A series of shorts depicting Mexico's beauty spots, places of tourist interest and activities of the people is to be made by the Ministry of Public Education, which accepted the suggestion of a group of congressmen that these pictures would be excellent publicity abroad to attract visitors.

The first picture is being made in Michoacan, President Cardenas' home state. This film, which is featuring the activities of Michoacan women's organizations, is being directed by Elenea Sanchez Valenzuela, local journalist, and the first native woman to direct a picture. The production has musical numbers performed by crack Mexican orchestra.

Providence Grosses High Despite Cold

PROVIDENCE, Feb. 16.—In spite of the fact that highways all over the state are ice-blocked and temperatures have been hittting record lows, theatres have held up remarkably well in recent weeks. Because local houses depend on people from outside the city for about half their trade, most exhibitors are convinced, as a result, that better times are definitely on the way.

"Mutiny on the Bounty," shown during the worst of the cold spell, did heavy business, and "Rose Marie," now playing at Loew's State, is also a hit.

Kelton, Kelly Teamed

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 16.—Pert Kelton will take the place of Thelma Todd in the next Patsy Kelly short for Hal Roach. The picture, which will be the sixth in a series of nine, is scheduled to go into production Feb. 20. Miss Kelton has not been signed to complete the series, but has been engaged just for this short.

Writers Assigned

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 16.—New assignments to writers at Republic include: Wallace Sullivan and Jo Graham, on "Sitting on the Moon"; Joseph Fields, on the final treatment of Tristam Tupper's novel, "The Gentleman from Louisiana," and Isabel Dawn and Boyce DeGaw, on "My Old Kentucky Home."

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"F Man"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 16.—Here is a comedy sleeper which will make patrons of double bills feel that they have full value for the money in spite of no draw names.

Jack Haley plays a bucolic soda jerker who longs to be a G Man and after a correspondence course sets off for Los Angeles, never doubting that a letter from his local sheriff will open the door of Dickdom. Headquarters is surprisingly slow to regard him as anything but a headache from the backwoods, and his proud spirit is considerably bruised at having to scoop up ice cream, instead of criminals, in the big city, especially when his country sweetheart turns to witness his failure. First he mistakes the choleric chief for Public Enemy No. 1 and gets his man with a doped milkshake, then he blunders into the carefully arranged trap for the real criminal, driving the department to near insanity before the racketeers are caught and he decides to retire to his own drugstore on the reward money.

Plenty of action and a generous measure of gag situations give the film its chief value though Haley's roundeyed comedy is good for the part. Adrienne Marden shows marked talent as his sweetheart, William Frawley draws a full measure of laughs as a badgered G Man, June Brewster has a nice bit as a despairing 'phone girl and the excellent cast includes Onslow Stevens, Edward McWade, Norman Willis, Robert Middlemass, Walter Johnson, Franklin Parker, Heinie Conklin, Buck Mack, Phyllis Crane, Mabel Forrest, Gail Sheridan, Spencer Charters, Carol Holloway, Eddie Welch and Henry Johnson. Paul Gerard did a smooth job on the screenplay from a story by Richard Connell. The direction by Edward Cline is nicely calculated for speed. Val Paul produced.

A country sap played for a sucker by wise guys and making good is the best angle to play up.

Production Code Seal No. 1930. Running time, 68 minutes. "G."

"Love Before Breakfast"

(Universal)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 16.—Concerned entirely with Preston Foster's pursuit of Carole Lombard, her rejection of his suit until he feigns disinterest, then her pursuit of him, this picture attempts to overcome its plot deficiencies by resorting to dialogue which may or may not amuse.

The chase covers much territory and takes the characters in and out of night clubs, bridle paths, modernistically furnished offices and apartments, ending aboard a magnificently appointed yacht.

Edmund Grainger has kept the production suited to the affluence of the characters who are conceded to possess unending wealth. The screenplay by Herbert Fields from the Faith Baldwin novel, "Spinster Dinner," has some clever lines which are mostly delivered by Richard Carle and Janet Beecher. Cesar Romero does well with a part that has but slight meaning in the story. The photography by Teddy Tetzlaff is uniformly excellent. Walter Lang directed.

A pseudo-sophisticated comedy, this picture will doubtless please in many localities.

Production Code Seal, No. 1966. Running time, 72 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Dangerous Intrigue"

(Columbia)

Action and suspense against a background of a steel mill, and the regeneration of a once-famous surgeon combine to make this unpretentious but lively picture satisfying entertainment, especially in the smaller situations. The title means comparatively little.

Ralph Bellamy is effective in the lead, supported by Gloria Shea, Fred Kohler and Joan Perry. Bellamy, hospital head, is forced to resign when he refuses to leave an operation to tend the ill daughter of the hospital's chief financial supporter. Miss Perry, his fiancee, throws him over in consequence and Bellamy, his mind temporarily affected, wanders away. He finds himself in a Pennsylvania steel town successor to Grainger has been appointed.

Grainger's new post with the Shea circuit will be a specially created one in which he will act as a general aide to Shea, the circuit's operator. While the bulk of the Shea theatres are located in Ohio, it has a number of important houses in up-state New York, at Pittsburgh, Erie and Bradford, Pa.; Manchester and Nashua, N. H., and Westfield, Amherst and Attleboro, Mass. The circuit numbers approximately 50 houses in all. The circuit maintains headquarters in the Loew's State Building here.

Clark Offers Best Wishes

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 16.—Commenting on the resignation of E. C. Grainger, John D. Clark, general sales manager of Twentieth Century-Fox, on Saturday said, "I wish him every success in the world."

No indication was given as to Grainger's successor.

it is expected Loew will put the finishing touches to an expansion program planned in South Africa. This is in line with Loew's announcement some time ago that the company would build in all situations in which it found itself shut out. Loew is expected to leave here within the next few days for an unnamed destination.

Watt Republic Director

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 9.—Nate C. Watt has been signed by Republic to a term directing contract. He was formerly an assistant director. His first assignment will be the last film on I. E. Chadwick's current Republic production contract, which has not been titled as yet.

fee of $110,000, was allowed $100,000, less $30,000 already paid to it.

Milton C. Weisman, receiver of Fox Theatres and proponent of the Fox Met reorganization plan, was granted $60,000. He had applied for $75,000. Central Hanover Bank & Trust Co., trustee under the Fox Met mortgage indenture, asked a total of $20,575 and was awarded $12,500, less $5,000 paid on account. Central Hanover's counsel, Larkin, Rathbone & Perry, for whom a fee of $55,000 was sought, was allowed $30,000, less $15,000 paid on account. Archibald Palmer, counsel for independent bondholders, who asked a fee of $40,000, was allowed $5,000. Lybrand, Ross Bros. & Montgomery, auditors, was allowed a $600 fee it had asked.

Some Applications Disallowed

Among the applications for fees which were disallowed entirely were those of members of the noteholders' protective committee which sought an aggregate of $117,500 in fees and $79,927 expenses. The members of the committee were Ernest W. Niver, chairman; William Greve, Max Horwitz, Alvin J. Schlosser, Herbert P. Howell and the late Casimir I. Stralem. The court ruled that testimony on the expenses of the committee should be submitted to Referee John E. Joyce and when proper expenses were established recovery might be had from a fund set up in the reorganization plan for this purpose. The same procedure also applies wherever large expense amounts were sought by applicants.

C. Frank Reavis, who was attorney for Si Fabian in the proposal of an unsuccessful, alternate reorganization plan for Fox Met, was denied an application for $15,000. Likewise, no remuneration was made to Percival E. Jackson, attorney for independent bondholders, nor to Isidor J. Kresel, who was of counsel to Weisman.

The court made frequent commendatory references in the opinion to the work of Weisman in effecting the successful reorganization, from which Fox Met emerged as Metropolitan Playhouses under the control of Joseph M. Schenck's United Artists Theatre Circuit and with Keith-Albee-Orpheum as a participating interest.

Weisman Lauded

"In the final result," the opinion states, "some measure, indeed a large one, of what I believe to be a successful conclusion of a difficult task is due to the intervention of Mr. Weisman. The final result, a result which on market quotations is at this time far more favorable to the bondholders than had at any time been contemplated before he stepped into the picture, and a result which appears likely to be increasingly better, is due in good measure to Mr. Weisman's activities."

Looking 'Em Over

and at work in the mill. He is about to be fired when an accident occurs. He assists and is hired as assistant to the doctor.

He meets Miss Shea, daughter of a steel foreman, who has been demoted because of too frequent "accidents" in his section. From that point there is considerable action involved in the discovery by Bellamy that Kohler, mill safety chief, is actually behind the accidents and in the pay of a rival mill. Kohler, attempting a last "accident," is killed in the explosion, while Bellamy successfully completes an operation on Kohler's injured son. Offered his former hospital post, Bellamy refuses, preferring to stay in the mill town with Miss Shea.

"Bulldog Courage"

(Puritan)

Tim McCoy, starring in this western, plays a dual role and in both provides plenty of action to come up to outdoor action standards.

When his father is mortally wounded by the sheriff, McCoy follows in his steps toward achieving certain revenge on a swindling banker. This end takes him to the town of Goldfield, where he arrives on the day of the trial of a friend of his father's who is threatened with a like fate. Touched off with what he has seen he sets out and with stagecoach holdups, hard riding, wit and the required amount of shooting, brings the piece to its end with the banker caught in one of his own schemes when a mine is dynamited.

The romantic thread is carried on somewhat by Joan Woodbury, but there is little clinching, for the film ends abruptly after a shooting match.

Sam Newfield's direction plays the effort for all its thrill and action content, while Jack Greenhalgh's photography takes in the pictorial backgrounds and follows the action suitably.

Warners Delay Film

Hollywood, Feb. 16.—Warners have postponed the start of "Way of a Pirate," and because of the delay, Guy Kibbee will play the leading role instead of Chic Sale.

Tobin in Lovett Post

Providence, Feb. 16.—Henry R. Tobin has been named as manager of the Olympia, Olneyville, to succeed the late J. Fred Lovett. Tobin formerly was with theatres in Boston.

Rites for Mrs. Balaban

Chicago, Feb. 16. — Mrs. Bessie Balaban, 75, an aunt of Barney Balaban, was buried Thursday. She had been ill for some time. She is survived by three sons and four daughters.

Republic Plans Serial

Hollywood, Feb. 16.—Republic will make a 12-chapter serial of "Robinson Crusoe." Barney Sarecky will produce, and production is scheduled to start in July.

sist that you have no right to make contracts affecting those rights without their consent," the letter which was signed by Sigmund Romberg, president of the association, concluded.

Warner officials could not be reached on Saturday for comment on the S.W.P.A. letter, but it appears that the communication may have been aimed at Warners' recently stated policy of favoring a performing fee charge only at the source of music use. In the case of radio this would be the broadcasting station, rather than the hotel or other factor which disseminated the actual broadcast, and in the case of the industry it would mean that producers would be taxed both the recording and performing fee while theatres would be exempt from any tax.

Exhibitor observers on Saturday saw this policy as it relates to theatres seriously jeopardized by the song writers' stand unless Warners are successful in meeting their objections in the future.

See Court Test by Ascap

A court test of Ascap's claim that its licensed radio broadcasters are entitled to the use of Warner published music wherever writers, composers or authors have not assigned the small rights to the Warner publishers appears certain for the near future.

On the advice of its counsel after studying the agreements between the writers and the Warner publishing companies, Ascap recently issued a first list of Warner music, which, it said, was available to broadcasters under their licenses with the society. Additional lists are to be issued as the Ascap study of the agreements proceeds. Warners have described the Ascap claim as "erroneous and misleading, and if relied upon by stations which have no license from us may result in many actionable infringements." Ascap and its counsel, the Nathan Burkan office, were emphatic on the legality of the stand being taken, despite the Warner statement.

Indications are that Ascap licensed stations will shortly avail themselves of the Warner music in the Ascap list in order to provide a court test of the society's stand.

Ricketson on Coast

Los Angeles, Feb. 16.—Rick Ricketson, operating head of the Rocky Mountain division of National Theatres, exhibition arm of Twentieth Century-Fox, is here. E. L. Alperson is also in from Miami.

National Theatre heads will hold their scheduled meeting beginning tomorrow.

To Publish Film Songs

Hollywood, Feb. 16.—Republic has signed with the Sam Fox company for the publication of all the numbers from the film, "Laughing Irish Eyes." The numbers were written by Sam H. Stept and Sidney Mitchell.

Typical telegrams to M-G-M

. . . "Get ready, statue, you've got a new sweetie and her name is Rose-Marie!"

"BIGGEST GROSSES IN HISTORY!"

—wires I. Libson, from Cincinnati

"Congratulations, M-G-M. 'Rose Marie destined to be among the topnotch musicals ever made. The Albee this week will do one of biggest grosses in the history of the house and the picture will undoubtedly do four to five weeks in downtown Cincinnati."

—I. LIBSON

"HUNDREDS COMING BACK!"

—wires Chas. A. Midleburg, Charleston, W. Va.

"First four days nearly doubled the first four days of 'Marietta.

"Had we been able to take care of the crowds, our receipts would have been hundreds of dollars more.

"Receipts on the fourth day fifty percent more than on opening day. Patrons are returning by the hundreds to see it a third and fourth time. Thousands stood outside in zero weather trying to get in.

'It will break all existing records."

"THREE TIMES 'MARIETTA'"

—says Mr. Wilson, of Williamsport, Pa.

In the face of the worst possible weather conditions Rialto opened yesterday on "Rose Marie" to what we believe to be the largest number of paid admissions in the history of the theatre for a mid-week opening. The gross was more than 300 per cent of the opening day on "Naughty Marietta." Words fail me to express the comments of our patrons. Practically each one of the thousands enthusiastically endorsed it as the best picture in years. Congratulations!

LATER WIRE: "Rose Marie" engagement completed sets new house record beating "Mutiny on Bounty" previous record-holder!

FLASH FROM ICY DENVER!

"Number of admissions Saturday broke every existing record in the Orpheum Theatre, even surpassing the week they had Ben Bernie in person and also the week they had Sally Rand. Also surpassed the number of Saturday admissions on 'Top Hat' which pulled the house record. There were 8300 admissions on Saturday. 'Mutiny' at the Denver Theatre on Saturday, November 9th, played to 8022 people. Sunday attendance was approximately 8500 people, making a total of 60,800 admissions over the week end, which is a lot of sugar!"

IMAGINE! TWO FIRST RUNS ON SAME STREET!

—Miami makes theatrical history!

"After screening 'Rose Marie' we realized picture had exceptional box office possibilities. Accordingly, plans were quickly made to present simultaneous twin engagements in our Colony and Community Theatres, Miami Beach, which are located on Lincoln Road directly across street from each other. Picture doing biggest business in history of Miami Beach. Continuous lobby holdouts both theatres matinee and evening. 'Rose Marie' is a history maker as superlative entertainment as biggest local grosser and as first picture to play first-run engagement simultaneously in two theatres."

Ohio Official Warns Tax Licenses Needed

TOLEDO, Feb. 16.—A warning has been issued to all places of amusement by Guy F. Chilcote, local excise tax manager, that amusement licenses must be applied for immediately under the new state admission tax law. Penalty for failure to obtain a license is from $25 to $100 for each place involved. Under the law there is no exemption from the three per cent tax on grosses, regardless of the admission charged. The law in effect last year exempted admissions of 10 cents or less.

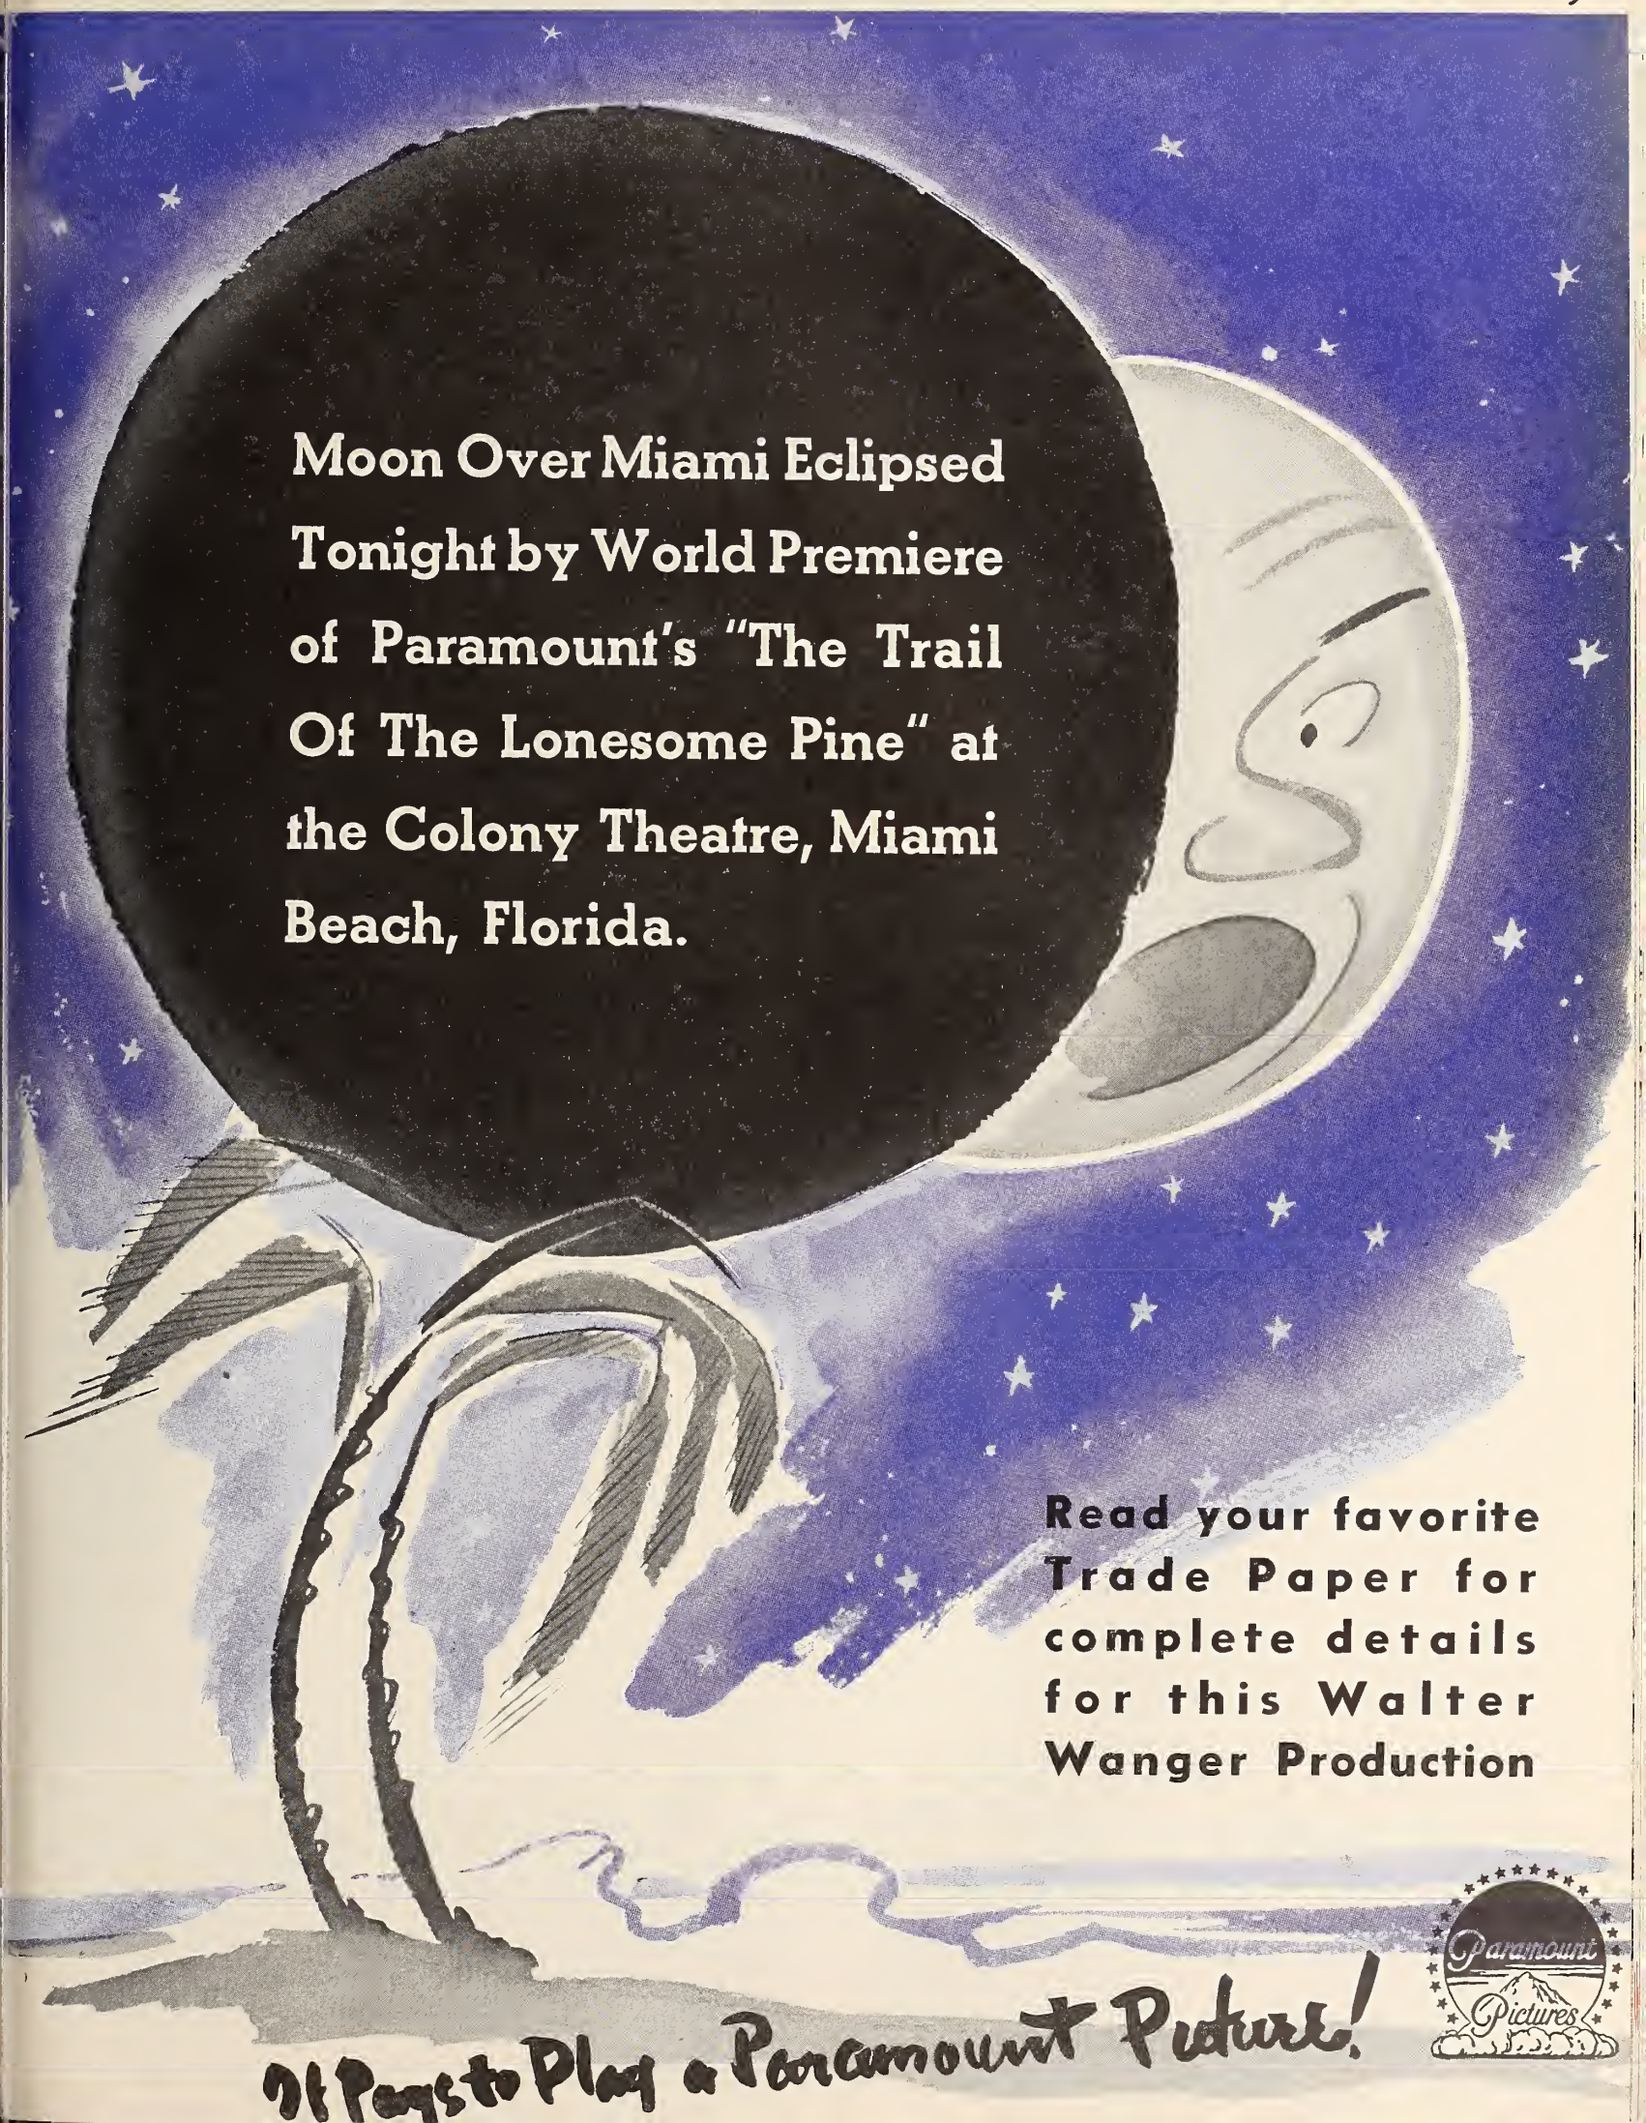
The law does not apply to performance where beneficiaries of the net proceeds include religious, charitable or educational organizations.

Kapit to Attend N. E. A.

Harry A. Kapit, vice-president of Walter O. Gutlohn, Inc., producers of 16 mm. subjects, will attend the National Education Ass'n. convention in St. Louis the week of Feb. 24, to discuss the production of subjects for school use.

Uniform Protection Sought in Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Feb. 16.—Local theatre owners will try to effect a plan whereby there will be a uniform protection plan, such as was used here during 1933-34. When that agreement expired Jan. 1, 1935, distributors each set up individual protection schedules. The 15-cent houses were most affected when the old schedule expired, being pushed back an added two weeks in most cases.



Advances Night Price

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 16.—Finding that the house was unvaryingly filled at matinee prices just before the price change on amateur night, the College has moved its change hour from 6 P.M. to 5 P.M. on that night only.

Fonda in "Intrigue"

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 16.—Henry Fonda, who has just finished work in "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," has been cast by Walter Wanger for "African Intrigue."

SPECIAL FLORIDA NEWS FLASH! FEB. 17,

"Marriage," Lowry, Lead In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 16.—Ed Lowry having lost none of his local personal popularity, the combination of his stage show and "My Marriage" on the screen at the Ambassador proved the best draw of the week with a gross of $15,250 against the house average of $10,000.

This showing was very good indeed considering that there was another week of sub-zero weather with the streets covered with ice.

"Petrified Forest" at the Orpheum did $9,900. The house average is $8,500. "Professional Soldier" and "Exclusive Story," the joint attraction at Loew's, did $10,000, or about $1,000 above average. This is somewhat behind what other recent attractions at this house have done. "Anything Goes" at Shubert-Rialto also was in the black.

Total first run business was $51,350. Average is $46,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 6:

"Ceiling" $8,500 Leader in Houston

HOUSTON, Feb. 16. — Abnormally cold weather failed to check Cagney fans, and "Ceiling Zero" at the Majestic led the field with a take of $8,500, which was $1,500 up.

"Anything Goes" beat the Metropolitan $7,000 average by $500, but all other pictures fell below normal. Bank Night at the Kirby helped "Freshman Love" bring in $1,500 for the day.

"The Ghost Goes West" at Loew's fell to $6,500, or $500 under, and "Music Is Magic" at the Kirby for midweek fell off $300, registering $1,200. "Charlie Chan's Secret" at the Kirby for the week end also took the rap, grossing $2,800. Average is $3,000.

Total first run business was $28,000. Average is $26,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 6:

"Maternelle" High In Montreal Slump

MONTREAL, Feb. 16. — Wintry weather put a damper on theatres. "La Maternelle" took $6,000 at the Imperial as compared with $3,500 par.

"Anything Goes" counted $11,000 at the Palace and this gross equalled average. Loew's made it $11,000, or $500 above the line, largely on the popularity of "Paddy O'Day" as first feature of a combination bill. "Rendezvous" topped the Capitol show for a take of $8,500. Second and last week of "Strike Me Pink" at the Princess brought $6,000 as compared with $12,000 for the previous week.

The legitimate stage was dark and chief opposition was the professional hockey matches.

Total first run business was $42,500. Average is $41,500.

"U" Decision Ready Soon, Says Cowdin

Denies Erpi Will Share In the Financing

A decision on the exercising of Standard Capital Co.'s option to acquire control of Universal can be made in the near future, J. Cheever Cowdin, head of Standard, said yesterday on his arrival from London on the Europa. The option continues in effect up to March 15.

While declining to confirm or comment on reports that the requisite financing for the exercise of the option had been set during his stay in London, Cowdin did make an emphatic deniel of a report that Erpi would be a financial participant. The Standard head said that his London trip had served to "clarify" many things involved in his company's current study of Universal's operations here and abroad and brought the study nearer to its conclusion. His London visit, Cowdin said, provided him with an opportunity of looking over Universal's foreign organization and properties and of meeting the people with whom he is dealing.

U. A. Gets Review On Sale Tax Issue

United Artists has been granted a writ of certiorari by the New York Supreme Court in a move to bring to the Appellate Division its appeal from the city's ruling that film rentals are subject to the two per cent city sales tax. The writ was served on the city comptroller yesterday and an answer must be filed with the court by March 4. The case will then be noticed for argument and a hearing will probably be held some time before the end of March.

Stebbins Quits Firm For New Connection

Los Angeles, Feb. 17.—Arthur W. Stebbins has resigned as director and chairman of the board of Stebbins, Letterman and Gates of New York and Stebbins, Letterman and Gates, Ltd., of Los Angeles to re-enter the insurance business here on his own.

Associated with him will be Cosgrove & Co., Inc., large insurance brokers and one of the largest of its kind west of Chicago.

Uses Snow Piles

St. Louis, Feb. 17.—Harold W. Evens, manager of Loew's State, took advantage of the big snow banks in various parts of the city by having his bill posters place cardboard announcements of the current films at his house atop the snow heaps.

Just a bit of old fashioned showmanship in an old fashioned Winter.

M-G-M Stand Upon Lewis Yarn in Air

M-G-M home office officials said yesterday they had not been advised whether or not the company had permanently abandoned plans for producing Sinclair Lewis' novel, "It Can't Happen Here," which Louis B. Mayer announced over the week-end would not be made "at the present time, because it would cost too much.

"If all this talk continues," Mayer was quoted as saying, "perhaps we will find it profitable to make the picture at once."

The M-G-M studio denied reports that the change in production plans was occasioned by a Hays organization ban on the novel which depicts America under a dictatorship, and its subsequent overthrow. No comment could be obtained from the M.P.P.-D.A. here which said that the matter, if brought to the attention of the organization, would be handled by the Hollywood office. Will H. Hays, who left Hollywood Friday, reiterated, when questioned in Chicago yesterday, the M-G-M denials that his organiza-

Racing Commision Opposes Dog Tracks

The New York State Racing Commission has sent to Senator John J. Dunnigan, president pro-tem of the Senate, a letter setting forth its opposition to the legalization of dog racing in New York. The letter characterized the so-called "sport" as "anti-economic, and opposed to the best interests of all sports." It pointed out that dog racing is essentially a betting proposition and that it furnishes unfair competition to theatres.

"This competition," says the letter, "becomes especially devastating in the small towns and city suburbs. The experience of the theatres in and around the tracks in New Jersey last year affords a good case history. Theatrical enterprise is entitled to protection against unnecessary hardship."

Members of the Racing Commission, who prepared the letter, are, Herbert Bayard Swope, chairman; John Hay Whitney and John Sloan.

Pantages Dies In His Sleep At Coast Home

Veteran Exhibitor And Horseman Was 72

Los Angeles, Feb. 17.—Alexander Pantages, theatre owner, veteran of the Klondike gold rush days, horseman, and colorful figure in the industry since its inception, was found dead in his home here this morning. Death was believed due to natural causes. He was 72.

For years Pantages had suffered from heart trouble. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lois Pantages, and two sons, Lloyd A. and Rodney, and one daughter, Carmen Considine.

Pantages was born on an island off the mainland of Greece. As a youth he worked at Cairo, Egypt. He reached this country, still a youth, in the gold rush excitement, and began his career in the show business by talking "Klondike Kate," song and dance girl, into working for him on a percentage basis. This was the first vaudeville in Alaska.

When he returned to Seattle he opened his first theatre, and during the succeeding years he built up a circuit of vaudeville and film houses in the west and in Canada that was said to have totaled more than 250 at one time. He sold out to RKO in 1929, and reports at the time were that he had received $24,000,000.

In 1933 he reentered exhibition and took over the Pantages, Hollywood. He announced plans for further expansion, but little was done.

Exhibitor-Ascap Talks to Continue

Meetings between representatives of the national exhibitors' protective committee and officials of Ascap will be continued from time to time as developments in the music performing situation warrant, Walter Vincent, chairman of the exhibitor committee, said yesterday. Representatives of the committee held their first meeting with E. C. Mills, Ascap general manager, late last week.

Vincent said the meeting left the discussion "in a fluid state." He said that there had been no assurances from Ascap that a reduction of its rates might be made as a result of the loss to its catalogue of the Warner music, but that Mills had advised them that "there was no intention on Ascap's part to work a hardship on the exhibitor or to ignore his problems as a result of the present music situation."

Sheehan Has Producer Post At Paramount

Agreement Calls for Ten Pictures Annually

Hollywood, Feb. 17.—Winfield Sheehan today reached an agreement with John E. Otterson to produce ten pictures annually for Paramount over a period of years. Sheehan will have his independent unit and will produce at the General Service Studios under the style of Winfield Sheehan Prod. The new producer is now on his way to New York accompanied by his wife, Mme. Maria Jeritza.

By the terms of the present arrangement, four pictures will be produced by Sheehan personally while the remaining six will have his supervision.

The present deal has been hanging fire for several months.

Missouri to Rule Again on Giveaways

Kansas City, Feb. 17.—Attorney General Roy McKittrick has termed his department's ruling that Bank Night is contrary to Missouri statutes, which was announced last week, premature. The opinion will be reconsidered.

McKittrick has written Franklin Miller, circuit attorney of St. Louis, who asked for the opinion, and who had threatened to bring charges against St. Louis theatres if they continued to use Bank Night, that in view of information theatres would take the question of legality of the promotion to the Missouri Supreme Court, he will withhold an opinion until such time as

Allied Owners Have $2,018,786 in Cash

Allied Owners' Corp., theatre owner and builder, which is reorganizing under Section 77-B of the Bankruptcy Act, has $2,018,786 in cash as of Jan. 31, last, according to a trustees' report filed in Federal court at Brooklyn yesterday. The trustees state that this represents an increase of $66,112 in the company's cash position as of Jan. 1.

Receipts for the month of January were $78,310 and disbursements were $12,197. The company has about $10,000,000 in bonds and debentures outstanding. The only proceedings remaining in the reorganization is the payment of fees to attorneys, trustees

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, Feb. 17.

WHAT to do with Mae West in these days of Production Code Administration and the resultant good will which the industry has been steadily building for itself in the press of the nation? An unhappy and perilous job at best, as each succeeding West attraction amply proves. There is her latest to consider and our first elected piece of business in Hollywood. Scarcely off the train, we sploshed our way to the Paramount projection room to see what there was to see. . . .

Once known as "Klondike Lou" and now refurbished as "Klondike Annie," her newest is decidedly average entertainment wending its way in and out of the accepted Western tradition with one eye covetously fixed on the distant past, when Mae could do what she cannot now, and the other turned to the fashioning of essentially phony story and dramatic situations which may fit the code but certainly not West. For the truth of the matter is at once simple and obvious. Miss West is the arch exponent of the hurly burly, the double entendre, the questionable-in-taste. With free wheeling of all three, she has made box-office attractions in their time. Shorn of some of each, as prevails in the instance of "Klondike Annie," you get a Mae West with her bag of tricks largely turned inside out and so leaving woefully little left. . . .

"Klondike Annie" has to do with the following situations: Miss West is first seen living with Harold Huber, an Oriental operating a joint in San Francisco in the '90s. The dialogue fails to say so, but there is the circumstance inescapably planted by situation in large degree and dialogue in lesser. Her planned escape "to associate with men friends of her own race" is discovered. In self-defense, since the Chinaman threatens to blind her, she stabs him to death and makes her escape on a tramp bound for Nome with Victor McLaglen in command and the Alaskan gold rush. At a northern point of call McLaglen learns through a police circular that Miss West is really the San Francisco Doll wanted for murder. . . .

The West-McLaglen byplay—he on the make and Mae ready although playing hard to get—fills a substantial segment of the picture at this point. Helen Jerome Eddy, a settlement worker outfitted as a member of the Salvation Army, boards the ship, hell bent for the north and soul saving. She leaves her impress on Miss West in the whitewashing process which immediately ensues. Upon her death, plus impending police discovery, the star assumes the role of Sister Annie. In this guise, assumed far less in sincerity and much more in the desire to save herself from the gallows, Miss West arrives in Nome, there to be met by a simpering set of reformers headed by Harry Beresford. . . .

Adopting what smacks of the Aimee Semple MacPherson type of religious ballyhoo, Miss West proceeds to apply her own particular style of technique to the job at hand and packs the settlement house with the riffraff of the sprawling frontier town. Steeped well in the bawdy overtones of her earlier and clearly established career, the idea clicks; Miss West thinks she salves the gnawings of her conscience and her debt to the original Sister Annie and fills the coffers of the settlement group with considerable cash. On the sidelines and waiting is McLaglen, ready to take his hotcha to the South Seas and thus out of reach of law and order. But Miss West decides to stay, Philip Reed, looking right handsome in his police outfit, having demonstrated his interest to her sufficient liking. Overhearing McLaglen yell who she really is, she confronts the officer with a genuine problem. Moved apparently by Mae's perpetual hourglass figure, he decides to step out of duty by resigning and into love by inclination. However, this Mae refuses to allow. She drops the fake psalm-singing role and returns to McLaglen, presumably on her way to the 'Frisco police to pay the penalty for easy handling of that knife in Huber's back. However, the picture instead ends in a clinch that implies her good intentions have gone bodily out of the most convenient porthole. . . .

This was directed by Raoul Walsh, who once made "The Cocked-Eyed World." That, however, was in another day. It has a production code seal, too. No. 1,856 for the record. It was based on a play by Miss West, who also did both script and dialogue, as is her wont, and who arranged production detail to include her presence in every scene, supplied with all the answers. The credit citations also set forth that the original yarn had grafted to it a story by Marion Morgan and George Dowell with further material suggested by Frank Mitchell Dazey. Adult entertainment, this. And unexciting enough in its way. The difficulty about "Klondike Annie" is that it tried hard to get naughty, as well as objectionable, but did not make the grade because of the brakes sometimes known as the production code.

Typical of the dialogue and correct in import if not always in text are lines like "It's a cold sheet with only one underneath it." There is, to boot, the song titled "It's Better to Give Than to Receive," sung by the congregation with a significant flashback to McLaglen. "A good line is hard to resist" is a third, and a fourth Mae's crack that she found McLaglen a "good loving man" all the weeks up from 'Frisco to Nome. By no means to be ignored is the deep philosophical reasoning which goes to point out: "Give a man a free hand and he puts it all over you."

"Klondike Annie" impresses as far more dull than daring. It's like a firecracker with most of the gunpowder removed. Not all, however, and sufficient to make a secondary explosion. . . .

"Modern Times" Is Banned in Germany

BERLIN, Feb. 17.—"Modern Times" will not be shown in Germany, it was revealed today, because of a ban by the Nazi Government. The Ministry of Propaganda declared the film was "contrary to the spirit of the New Germany of Chancellor Adolf Hitler."

Queried yesterday on whether United Artists would seek an appeal from the Nazi Government ban on "Modern Times," Arthur W. Kelly, executive vice-president, last night stated the company would not.

"It's up to Mr. Chaplin to do whatever he wants to about it," Kelly asserted.

O'Connor Switched From Japan to Cuba

Edward F. O'Connor, who was recently transferred from M-G-M's Shanghai office to Japan, again has been switched, this time to take charge of the company's branch in Cuba. Dave Lewis, who has been at the helm in Cuba, will assume charge of the Japan office.

O'Connor recently made efforts to enter Japan, but permission was denied by immigration authorities. He has been with M-G-M for seven years.

Arthur Loew is en route from Johannesburg, South Africa, to South America, where he will arrive March 1 for an indefinite stay.

tion had banned the production.

"No action on the book was taken by the Producers' Assn.," Hays said. "I have been out of touch with Hollywood since leaving and will not make any statement until I am in possession of the full details. I shall make a statement later if I think it necessary.

"The statement reported to have been made by Sinclair Lewis," Hays added, "is full of inaccuracies. There never was any question of this story affecting the Republican party in any way and no one, including myself, ever made any statement to that effect."

Industry opinion is that the M-G-M action was taken because of the probability of retaliatory action by Germany and Italy, spokesmen for both of which nations were quoted as saying they were pleased by the decision not to produce the picture. Paramount's recent complications in Spain, in which a ban on the company's entire product in that country was threatened for a time, because of alleged material offensive to Spain in "The Devil Is a Woman," was cited as a case in point.

Missouri to Rule Again on Giveaways

that body has ruled on the question. He also pointed out that the New Hampshire Supreme Court, as well as that of Iowa, had held the plan legal.

In the premature opinion issued by Franklin E. Reagan, assistant attorney general, last week, the Iowa statute governing lottery was explained as more technical and narrow than Missouri's. Reagan expressed the belief that Missouri courts, under the broader statute, would hold "consideration" to be any definite form of consideration recognized in the law of contract.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Desert Gold"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 17.—This handsome western, placing heavy emphasis on humor and fast riding, should appeal in a big way to boots and saddle fans. Buster Crabbe plays the part of the Indian owner of a fabulously rich gold mine which Monte Blue, bad man, wants. Blue kidnaps Crabbe and tortures him in a lonely mountain camp, hoping to learn from him the location of the mine. Mining engineer Tom Keene rescues Crabbe, thus winning the friendship of his tribe. The Indians give Keene the job of developing the mine.

Keene is in love with Marsha Hunt, who is engaged to Blue. He kidnaps her on her wedding night and flees with her to the secret mine. There follows a battle with bullets and dynamite. The villains are wiped out and the lovers are left united and happy.

Crabbe has little to do as a stoic Indian, but he looks the part. Keene is engaging as a flippant lover, and Marsha Hunt is excellent as a spirited frontier sweetheart. Raymond Hatton, as her father, has several highly amusing scenes. Robert Cummings, as a rather silly tenderfoot, draws plenty of laughs, while Si Jenks shines in the short part of a stage coach driver. Monte Blue does a really fine villain. James Hogan's direction gives full emphasis to speed and tension, especially in a scene between Cummings and a rattlesnake.

The screen play, from the novel of Zane Grey, was done by Robert Yost and Stuart Anthony. The photography by George Clemens is unusually fine. Harold Hurley produced and William Lackey supervised. The humor of the production and the prominent names deserve the stress.

Production Code Seal No. 1,931. Running time, 55 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Sunset of Power"

(Universal)

A western that is definitely in the better class, this film, with a fair story and well composed action and riding sequence played against pictorially beautiful outdoor scenery, should please.

Buck Jones plays a cowhand at Charles Middleton's ranch. Opening with the boys going to town for a drink, the narrative begins rambling, with well spaced spots of action and some shooting toward the problem of Dorothy Dix and cattle rustling. Miss Dix's problem is with her grandfather, Middleton, who has marital plans for her and harbors some hard feeling because she is the last of the Brennan line and a female. Charles King acts out a good part as the cheat who is made foreman of the ranch and just about compelled to marry Miss Dix. With a murder and a last minute kidnapping to stave off the ill-matched wedding, the piece closes when Jones and Middleton settle their accounts with King.

As usual, Jones' performance is top notch and Middleton is excellent as the grandfatherly old codger. Miss Dix handles a dramatic role convincingly. Ray Taylor directed. Allen Thompson's and Herbert Kirkpatrick's camera work is exceptional.

Connery Hits Use of Army-Navy in Films

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Free use of the military and naval forces at a time when thousands of unemployed extras are walking the streets was attacked today by Representative William P. Connery, junior Democrat from Massachusetts, speaking at the bi-monthly luncheon of Variety Club. Although declaring himself pro-film, Connery stated his intention to introduce legislation to prevent such pictures as "Annapolis Farewell."

The Congressman also expressed regret at the reappearance of double-meaning dialogue and warned that a continuance would bring censorship.

Bank Night Files 14 Actions in Indiana

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 17.—Affiliated Enterprises, Inc., of Denver, has filed suit in Federal Court here to enjoin N. C. Weinberg of this city and the management of 13 theatres from operating Cash Nights. The suit asks damages of $10,000.

Weinberg has arranged Cash Night for several local neighborhood houses and a number in smaller Indiana cities. The suit contends that despite the change in name, Cash Night is an infringement. Max M. Plesser, attorney, speaking for the theatre men, asserts the plaintiff has no cause for action.

"U" European Heads Here on Production

For the purpose of discussing Universal's plan to inject an international technique and flavor in pictures to be produced in Hollywood and in Europe, Joseph Pasternak, Herman Kosterlitz and D. Rabinowitz will arrive today on the Ile de France for conferences with Nate Manheim, in charge of the company's foreign activities, and later go to the coast where they will produce a feature with this in mind.

The sessions with Manheim will last several days, following which Pasternak, Kosterlitz and Rabinowitz will leave for Hollywood for conferences with Carl Laemmle on foreign production plans. Universal executives feel that in having the three foreign production men make one film on the coast the internationalization angle will be easier to grasp. This provides for less dialogue and more action.

Manheim will not accompany the trio west, but will depart shortly afterwards to sit in on the coast confabs.

Copyright Hearings To Open on Feb. 25

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Hearings on copyright legislation will open befor the House Patents Committee Feb. 25, it was made known today by Representative Sirovich of New York, chairman. Apparently spurred on by the petition filed last week by Representative Zioncheck of Washington for the discharge of the committee from further consideration of the legislation, Chairman Sirovich revealed that the hearings will cover both the Duffy Bill, passed by the Senate last session; the Daly Bill, submitted in the House last month as a substitute, and any other plans which may be brought up for solution of the copyright problem.

Plans for the creation of a subcommittee have apparently been dropped as a result of the Zioncheck attack, it being stated that the hearings would be held before the full committee.

Delay Sound Men Status

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 17.—The question of jurisdiction over sound men, scheduled for settlement here over the week-end, has been postponed and probably no adjustment will be made until March, it was learned from I. A. T. S. E. headquarters. Pat Casey, studio labor representative, said that no arbiter has been appointed yet.

J. D. Clark Flies East

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 17.—John D. Clark, general sales manager of Twentieth Century-Fox, left for New York tonight by air, but will return here by Feb. 25. In between will be a sales meeting of the company's top flight sales executives from the field in Chicago on Feb. 21-22 when new season's plans will be discussed.

Fox Buys "Slaver"

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 17.—"The Last Slaver," adventure story of the closing days of the African slave trade, has been purchased by Twentieth Century-Fox. Nunnally Johnson, script writer of "Shark Island," will be associate producer.

Koplar-Warner Action Concluded

WILMINGTON, Feb. 17.—Sam Morris, Warner director, and Thomas Garrett, New York attorney, were the last witnesses to testify as the Koplar action against the Warners and the organization's directorate came to a close in the U. S. District Court here this afternoon.

Morris, who testified just before the trial closed, told of a promise made to pay to Waddill Catchings, another Warner director, a sum of money in addition to the commission due him for his services to the organization.

Garrett testified as to the fairness of the compromise that was ratified at the annual stockholders' meeting of the company last December. His testimony centered about the employment contract between Renraw and the company. The stockholders at their last annual meeting approved a settlement of the controversy between the company and Renraw, Inc., over remuneration for services of the three Warner brothers. Under the terms of the settlement approved, the Warner company was to receive from Renraw 100,000 shares of Warner Pictures stock and agree to pay the legal fees and expenses of Max Goldberg who brought the suit against the company as stockholders.

Judge John P. Nields set May 5 as the date for argument. The motion for dismissal, which was made by Joseph L. Proskauer today, will also be heard on that date.

Loew's Seeks Delay In Two Bronx Cases

Attorneys for Loew's will ask for a month's postponement of the hearing scheduled Friday against the Elsmere and Grand in Bronx Special Sessions in connection with games. If the delay is granted, a similar request will be made on Feb. 28 when a like complaint is set in the same court involving the Paradise.

One of the reasons for the continuation will be that an appeal from a decision in the Appellate Division of the Brooklyn Supreme Court on the Winthrop, Brooklyn, will come up for hearing about the middle of March in the Court of Appeals, Albany. In view of this, Loew's legal representatives will try to have their cases put over until the determination of the three judges in Albany.

Leopold Freidman of Loew's is expected from the coast the end of the week. Irving Greenfield, his assistant, will seek the continuations.

Grainger to Leave 20th-Fox April 15

E. C. Grainger's resignation as eastern division sales manager of Twentieth Century-Fox becomes effective April 15, it was learned yesterday. Grainger forwarded his resignation late last week to John D. Clark, general sales manager, who was attending production conferences at the company's studio.

Clark is expected back here today, but probably will not announce a successor to Grainger until a later date. He leaves Friday for Chicago.

Grainger resigned the sales post he had held for many years to become general manager of the Feiber & Shea circuit.

"Rose" Smash In Cleveland; Gets $23,000

CLEVELAND, Feb. 17.—"Rose Marie" was a smash hit at Loew's State. It piled up $23,000, leaving par $11,000 behind, in spite of zero weather.

"The Petrified Forest" also was in the money in a big way, the $12,500 gross being $4,500 over normal. "The Invisible Ray" turned in an excellent $5,000 at the Allen.

The food show, starring Julia Sanderson and Frank Crumit, and the Playhouse stage presentation of "The Petrified Forest," combined with continued zero weather, were stiff competition.

Total first run business was $58,000. Average is $42,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 14:

CLIMACTIC SCENES FROM FILM ON LIFE OF GREAT SCIENTIST, LOUIS PASTEUR

By REGINA CREWE,
Motion Picture Editor N. Y. American.

"THE STORY OF LOUIS PASTEUR," a Warner Brothers Picture produced by Cosmopolitan Productions from a story and adaptation by Sheridan Gibney and Pierre Collings directed by William Dieterle and presented at the Strand Theatre.

THE CAST:

Louis Pasteur ..... Paul Muni
Mme. Pasteur ..... Josephine Hutchinson
Annette ..... Anita Louise
Jean Martel ..... Donald Woods
Dr. Charbonnet ..... Fritz Leiber
Joseph Meister ..... Dickie Moore

Ripped from the record of vital statistics, rich in the pulsing drama of life and vivid with the threatening menace of death's dark wings, the immortal story of Louis Pasteur greets you in graphic limning on the screen of the Strand Theatre. No more tensely dramatic truth is phrased in history's exciting pages than this struggle of a gentle hero against the allied forces of ignorance, pride and prejudice in a pitched battle to save mankind from monstrous unseen death.

Less than fifty years ago the blessing of motherhood was a curse. In giving life, every woman walked in the valley of the shadow. The percentage of mortality from a mysterious fever that followed was appalling. Less than fifty years ago, France, already impoverished by the burdens imposed by Teutonic conquerors, faced starvation with the sudden death of her herds. Less than fifty years ago the bite of a rabid animal was fatal as the sting of a cobra.

Then came Louis Pasteur. He made the world safe for motherhood. He practically paid the war debt of his native land. He rescued the world from the obscene death that once lay in the venom of maddened beasts. Such is the man, and such his story as unfolded in Warner Brothers' mighty motion picture.

They—the learned physicians and scientists of the Academy—laughed at Pasteur as he sat down at his microscope. They laughed so long and loud that the Emperor, himself, sent the little chemist into virtual exile when he dared propound his theory that disease was caused by minute life, bacteria which swarmed murderously in millions waging eternal war on all mankind.

But their laughter faded when his prophecy was fulfilled in the death of the Empress' kinswoman after motherhood. Ignorance accused him of black magic. Envy persecuted him. Prejudice hated him. Then from the quiet countryside of Arbois, where he had taken refuge, came word that in all of France only the sheep of this pleasant valley were free from the disastrous plague of anthrax. A committee of medicos was dispatched to investigate and found Louis Pasteur inoculating the healthy herds with a germ-destroying serum. He met their challenge, and won when untreated sheep died while his lived.

Back in his laboratories the dread disease of rabies takes the scientist's attention. Before his tetanus anti-toxin is perfected Russia sends a score of wolf-bitten victims who implore his healing. Fearing the results of an incomplete cure, and knowing his enemies would gladly subject his neck to the sharp embrace of Mme. Guillotine, should the loss of a single life be laid to him, the harassed Pasteur broken-heartedly declines to experiment upon the doomed and wailing Russians. Then the drama is personified in little Joseph Meister, childish victim of a mad dog. In dead of night Pasteur takes a chance. He administers the serum, and —this same Joseph Meister, a very real person, is alive today in Paris!

But while he labors to save the lives of others, his own beloved daughter faces death from the fatal fever that he knows is caused, not by Providence, but by infection from unsterile surroundings. His arch-enemy, chief antagonist of his theories, is the one physician available, and to him Pasteur must entrust his daughter's life and that of her child. The two strike a dramatic bargain. If Dr. Charbonnet will follow directions at the accouchement, then Pasteur will sign a confession that he is a pretender and a charlatan.

These, then, are just a few of the gripping moments seared in memory from "The Story of Louis Pasteur." There are many other thrilling, gasping sequences. There is the sweet romance of Mr. Muni and Josephine Hutchinson, and the tender passion of Anita Louise and Donald Cook. There is conflict galore—the heart-break of Pasteur which must be shared by the audience, and then the final magnificent, though tear-stained triumph in which the world acknowledges his sublime victory. These things must be seen. At the Strand. Now.

Paul Muni, in the title role, has never given a more vivid, a more impressive, a more vital portrayal than he offers in his powerful, ever discerning characterization of Louis Pasteur. He looks the part, and the dignity of the character has descended upon his shoulders. He keeps the man always warm, always human, always simple, ever lovable. Pasteur is re-created in Paul Muni.

A long list of carefully chosen players appear in his support. Miss Hutchinson is a sweetly understanding wife, Anita Louise an angelic daughter, Donald Woods an upright lover, Halliwell Hobbes scores as the great Dr. Lister; Fritz Leiber is perfect as the sneering doubter, Charbonnet; young Dickie Moore lends appeal as the boyish Meister, while others, too numerous to name, contribute to the picture's excellence. William Dieterle's direction breathes warm life into history's pages, and "The Story of Louis Pasteur" is a cinematic masterpiece.

"And now, Joseph," says Pasteur (Paul Muni) as he addresses Joseph Meister (Dickie Moore), "You go down in history as the first person to be cured of rabies."

"We have won," cried Pasteur, "but how could I have gone on without you?" The great French scientist, brought back to life by the art of Paul Muni, is addressing Mme. Pasteur, played on the screen by Josephine Hutchinson. Also in this picture is Anita Louise, the Pasteur daughter.

Persecuting Pasteur—"You are hereby forbidden," said the Emporer, "to practice medicine in France."

The New Talkie

Paul Muni in an Exciting and Noble Film, 'The Story of Louis Pasteur.'

By EILEEN CREELMAN.

Those amazing Warners, having successfully revived the gangster melodrama this season, have now jumped a long way in the other direction. Their current presentation at the Strand, as exciting in its own way as any tale of G-Men, is a drama of scientific research, "The Story of Louis Pasteur." The wily Warners have used their knowledge of showmanship to make the discovery of a new germ a breathless and stirring business even to audiences more used to machine-gun antics on the Strand screen.

"The Story of Louis Pasteur" is of course a picture that should be seen by every one, from disillusioned adults to children eager for adventure. It is a drama of adventure, of illusions too, and high courage in the face of ridicule and skepticism. Scientific data have been simplified so that any layman, even a young child, could follow the theories without effort. The suspense surrounding each experiment has been heightened and high lighted until its success becomes a matter of personal concern to each spectator. And Louis Pasteur, irascible, tactless, absorbed in his work, and intolerant of ignorance, becomes, through Paul Muni's interpretation, a human as well as a dignified figure.

These Warners have a daring all their own. This time they have chucked out the usual movie plot, using the dramatized biographical method of books rather than centering the film about one incident. The one romance, the love story of Pasteur's daughter and a young doctor, is both unimportant and innocuous. The drama is that of science, of men fighting to break down the unbelief and ignorance of a lazy world; and its telling here takes Louis Pasteur from his early middle age, when he fled from Paris and the jeers of the medical profession, to that final triumphant evening when all the great scientists of his country met to honor and salute him, an old and very weary man. That last scene, like that in which Pasteur proves the worth of his anthrax vaccine, is deeply moving.

Science, one may here learn, proceeds by devious means, by trial and error as much as by persistent experimentation. It was the scoffing of his principal adversary, the eminent Dr. Charbonnet, who injected the supposedly deadly rabies serum into his arm to disprove Pasteur's theory, who thus accidentally brought about a discovery of the cure for hydrophobia. He became, Pasteur later exclaimed delightedly, the great chemist's favorite guinea pig.

Then there is the scene with the sheep, with Pasteur frantically hoping that the vaccinated ones may be found alive; and that dramatic experiment with small Joseph Meister, doomed to horrible death by rabies; and the cure of the desperate Russians; and that hysterical moment in which Charbonnet, bargaining shrewdly with Pasteur, agrees to deliver Annette's child if Pasteur himself will turn against his own theories. This last incident, by the way, is perhaps the only one that seems imaginary. The rest, many of them historic moments, are vividly real.

Mr. Muni, surrounded by a host of excellent character actors wearing long beards, gives one of his typically strong and sincere performances as Louis Pasteur. Anita Louise, frail and lovely as usual, is briefly present as his daughter Annette. Donald Woods plays the eager Dr. Martell; Josephine Hutchinson has the colorless part of Mme. Pasteur.

"The Story of Louis Pasteur," a dramatic show as well as a noble tribute, is decidedly on the must list.

ROSE PELSWICK REVIEWS 'PASTEUR' FILM

Muni's Acting Brilliant in Fine Picture

By ROSE PELSWICK

Intensely impressive and stirring is "The Story of Louis Pasteur." A powerful narrative that depicts the career of the famous French chemist whose scientific discoveries and medical reforms made him one of the greatest benefactors of the human race, the Cosmopolitan production at the Strand Theatre takes its place as the most distinguished screen drama of the season.

ROSE PELSWICK

Emotionally as well as intellectually exciting, the picture is something new in screen writing. Here is a biography entirely free from the artificialities of a scenarist's imagination. Simply, and with no attempt to color facts with the movies' conventional love interest or manufactured melodramatics, the film tells the story of a man of science and his battle against bacteria, and succeeds in making it an arresting document that teems with suspense and builds to a tremendous climax.

Paul Muni portrays Pasteur, and his characterization is a masterpiece of realism and sincerity. Always a conscientious actor, here he submerges himself so thoroughly in the role that the spectator forgets Muni and sees only the obscure country chemist who devoted himself tirelessly to research for the betterment of mankind.

Life-Long Fight

With Pasteur's life-long fight against disease as its theme, the picture follows the chemist from the time that he tried to convi Napoleon 3d of the importa of antisepsis in the practice medicine until the day when, pa alyzed as the result of overwo he was finally honored by t hitherto skeptical Academy Medicine.

His entire career a strugg against ignorance and ridicule o the part of his contemporarie Pasteur is shown as he vainly at attempted to point out the death dealing connection between bacil lus and disease to the careles physicians of his day. Banished from Paris, he finds his first rec ognition 10 years later in the vil lage of Arbois where his anti-toxin saves the cattle of that district from the dread disease known as anthrax.

The picture then details his magnificent laboratory war against rabies and his triumph with what is the Pasteur treatment for hydrophobia today. And the story development by which he proves his theories—his acceptance of challenges by his chief detractor, Dr. Charbonnet; his cure of the little German boy when failure would have meant prison or the guillotine; his subsequent cure of a number of Russian peasants who pitifully offer themselves for experiment—make for tensely absorbing and inspirational drama

Brilliant Production

A brilliantly devised production, the picture will hold you enthralled from its opening sequence until its profoundly moving conclusion. Mr. Muni, naturally, is the dominating character, but Cosmopolitan has surrounded the star with an exceptional cast, even the most minor bit player contributing richly to the whole. Josephine Hutchinson gives an effective performance as Pasteur's sympathetic wife and Fritz Leiber's portrayal of the mocking Charbonnet is outstanding. A romantic theme that is made subordinate to the main trend of the story is admirably handled by Anita Louise, as Pasteur's daughter, and Donald Woods as the chemist's assistant and son-in-law. The laboratory scenes and the costumes and manners of 19th Century France are atmospherically convincing and much credit goes to Sheridan Gibney and Pierre Collings for the screenplay and to William Dieterle for his understanding direction. "The Story of Louis Pasteur" is a picture you must see.

'Story of Louis Pasteur' Opens at the Strand

Life of Great Researcher Is Told Dramatically in Paul Muni's New Picture.

By WILLIAM BOEHNEL.

BELIEVING that sometimes the public tires of run-of-the-mill screen entertainment and is willing—even eager—to accept films about something that matters, the Warner Brothers have screened impressively and excitingly Louis Pasteur's gallant and eventually successful struggle to convince prejudiced and stubborn scientists of the 1860s that germs were mankind's greatest enemies and his discovery of serums which successfully checked anthrax and hydrophobia, in "The Story of Louis Pasteur," at the Strand.

A thrilling chronicle film founded on fact, it commemorates a great man in simple, human, natural terms. Without once becoming hysterical about its lofty theme and its epochal character, the film tells its story of man's relentless warfare on germs, not as a lantern slide lecture but as a human and inspiring document. Not only is "The Story of Louis Pasteur" a gallant film adventure, it is also as exciting and thrilling in its own way as "G-Men," and I hope that it will be just as successful.

William Boehnel.

The Tragic Story of Pasteur.

THE producers begin their film in 1860 in Paris with Louis Pasteur's scathing attack upon medical men for their stupidity in refusing to admit that germs are killing most of their patients and openly accusing them of being responsible for the many deaths among women during child birth because of the unclean instruments they are using. Ridiculed by the medical profession as a charlatan, Pasteur almost wins the support of the Empress Eugenie, who becomes interested in his experiments, but instead, because of the influence several powerful members of the medical society have with the Emperor, he is virtually exiled from Paris.

More than ten years later, with France faced with the problem of paying an enormous war indemnity to victorious Germany, the new government becomes interested in the news that the sheep in a small village are healthy while others all over the country are dying from anthrax. Since the government is planning to pay its indemnity to Germany through the sale of sheep, a commission of doctors is sent to the little village to investigate.

Here the commission discovers that the sheep are alive and well because of a vaccine that Pasteur and his assistants have administered to them. Still dubious, one of the leading lights of the medical society enters into a contest with Pasteur. He insists that if he inoculates fifty sheep with the dreaded anthrax germ they will all die, regardless of the fact that he condescendingly allows Pasteur to vaccinate half of them. When the twenty-five that Pasteur inoculates with the anti-anthrax vaccine live, his fame becomes worldwide.

The Conquest of Hydrophobia.

PASTEUR'S next efforts are to eliminate the dread hydrophobia. Again his efforts are ridiculed and he is accused of being a charlatan by bigoted physicians, but in the end, although he is broken physically by overwork, Pasteur's experiments are successful and he is acclaimed by men of science from all over the world.

In the role of Pasteur, Paul Muni is superb, while the part of his understanding wife is expertly played by lovely Josephine Hutchinson. The minor roles are unusually well handled by Fritz Lieber, Henry O'Neill, Porter Hall, Raymond Brown, Halliwell Hobbes and Frank Reicher. Donald Woods and Anita Louise do a nice job as the young lovers, whose romance in no way interferes with the main purpose of the narrative, which is to illustrate conscientiously the life of one of the world's greatest benefactors, something it does with great dignity and power.

Muni's "Louis Pasteur" Superb Screen Tribute

Powerful, Poignant and Enlightening Picture Inspires Strand Audiences; Supporting Cast Splendid

By IRENE THIRER

A POWERFUL, poignant and enlightening tribute to the memory of the eminent chemist Louis Pasteur is Paul Muni's portrait of him in the Warner Brothers' vehicle current at the Strand.

"The Story of Louis Pasteur," directed dramatically and sympathetically by William Dieterle, treats in inspiring fashion of the French scientist's strife-filled carcer—a life devoted to struggle against those of the medical profession who, for years, would not recognize his theories and discoveries; his battle against microbes; his unceasing fight for the use of antiseptics and vaccine as protection against disease and death.

In Mr. Dieterle's film, Mr. Muni has thoroughly absorbed the character of Pasteur, via what must have been diligent research and untiring rehearsals. As Louis Pasteur he gives no suggestion of Paul Muni—and that is an achievement, indeed.

The picture moves with a dignity and forcefulness and conviction which should be heartily endorsed by the average movie fan, as well as those in the scientific know. For, besides being a stimulating account of a great man's activities and accomplishments, it is vastly engrossing movie material as just that. Even if "The Story of Louis Pasteur" were not a true record, faithfully filmed, it would still be a good picture. It has romance and human interest and complication, and suspense, and occasional flights of humor, and much charm, and glorious photography, and a superbly knit continuity, and a satisfying conclusion, and excellent acting.

At this time, we might mention that Anita Louise is delightful as Pasteur's daughter. Josephine Hutchinson, with believable make-up, does beautifully as the patient Mme. Pasteur. Fritz Leiber's Dr. Charbonnet—Pasteur's arch enemy until he is eventually convinced—is magnificent. Halliwell Hobbes makes the British Dr. Lister a truly fine person. Donald Woods lends youth and vitality to the role of Pasteur's assistant who weds the chemist's daughter. Porter Hall, Akim Tamiroff, Herbert Heywood, Brenda Fowler, Henry O'Neill, Niles Welch, Frank Reicher, Dickie Moore, Ruth Robinson and Leonard Mudie are seen to advantage in lesser roles. And there are flashes of Iphigente Castiglioni as the Empress Eugenie, who believed in Pasteur; of Walter Kingsford as Napoleon III, who laughed him out of court as a witch doctor, and of Herbert Corthell, as President Thiers of the new French Republic, who decorated the chemist, for the people of France, when he was finally accepted by the Academy of Medicine.

There are countless stirring sequences—especially that wherein Pasteur vaccinates fifty sheep with anthrax germ.

Among the countless stirring sequences is one wherein Pasteur first proves to an astonished world that a herd of sheep vaccinated with Anthrax germs live and thrive whereas another herd, thrown to infested pastures without being inoculated, die off like flies. This episode is thrilling beyond description—as is another, wherein Pasteur inoculates a small boy against rabies, contracted by a mad dog bite. As the days elapse, the child gradually gains in his battle for life, and the audience actually gloats with Mr. Muni's Pasteur over the lad's recovery. So many other passages are fascinating and exciting that the film will linger long in the memory of the picture peruser. And when 1936 comes to a halt, "The Story of Louis Pasteur" is certain to take its place on everybody's best-ten lists for the year.

The intensely thrilling story of the enormously important discoveries of Louis Pasteur, the great French scientist who had great direct or indirect effect on the lives of all of us, has been made into a vital motion picture by Warner Brothers. With Paul Muni in the role of Pasteur, the film is now being shown at the Strand Theatre.

Muni's characterization of the scientific Titan is impressive and sometimes deeply moving, as the story of his hunt for the microbe and his battle with the reactionary members of the French Academy of Medicine to have his discoveries acknowledged and his anti-toxin for rabies approved, is unreeled on the screen. There is the same cure for rabies approved, is unreeled on the screen. There is the same throbbing under-current of excitement in the Pasteur drama, as written originally for the screen by Sheridan Gibney and Pierre Collings, that one felt in Sidney Howard's play "Yellow Jack," while watching the historic drama of Dr. Walter Reed and his co-workers of the army in Cuba tracking down the elusive mosquito, which was killing off thousands of people every year by infecting them with the deadly virus which resulted in yellow fever.

The Muni picture has been more dramatically written and has been given a more fluid and actionable treatment than the French language film which Sacha Guitry wrote, produced, directed, and starred in, and which is now being shown at the World Theatre on 49th Street. The latter film is devoted to lengthy arguments before the Academy, while the Cosmopolitan production gives us a more intimate

The cinema is concerned with the pursuit of the germs of anthrax and hydrophobia in the new picture at the Strand Theater now playing, but not the customary encounter of a juvenile and an ingenue, but the first meeting between two great scientists when the discovery is made that the sheep treated with a new serum have lived that the photoplay's first climax is reached. The battles are fought out in laboratories and in sessions of grave scientific associations. Its villains are not sinister bandits or treacherous seducers, but merely the reactionary habits of eminent and well meaning pillars of the medical community. I could go on for some length suggesting to you the lack of presumable box-office delights in the new film, but if I continued to do any such thing I would deceive you miserably. For "The Story of Louis Pasteur," written and directed with honesty and tenderness, and stirringly played by Paul Muni, is only exciting and beautiful screen drama, but possesses a quality of nobility that actually makes you proud of the petty, hapless and bewildered human race.

If by any unfortunate chance the idea should get about that "The Story of Louis Pasteur," because it deals with adventure in science, rather than in romance in science, rather than in romance between the pedantic and laborious work that deserved merely a polite admiration and was to be applauded because it was a fine educational thing for the children to see, then a great error will be made by criticism and publicity. For the truth of the matter is that the picture is far more exciting and heart-warming than the run of films celebrating presumably less cerebral topics. The romance between Pasteur and the great Pasteur's daughter is conventional enough, but it is soon forgotten when the great French chemist begins the creation of modern medicine. His battle against charlatanism in the Academy of Medicine and his fight against disease and death becomes one of the epic struggles of humanity.

In "Yellow Jack," Sidney Howard proved the possibility of getting the quality of heroism and great drama into the somewhat similar story of a great American microbe hunter, Dr Walter Reed. For some ridiculous reason, the play was not vastly successful at the box office. It is pleasant to think that perhaps the much abused cinema audiences will change the verdict against the scientific play by a hearty approval of "The Story of Louis Pasteur." The producers of the film certainly have not cheapened it, but they have given it a certain dignity that should help to make it popular at the box office.

Perhaps it should be reported that the work is a straightforward account of the struggle of Pasteur against the superstition and backwardness of medical ideas in the early days of the Second Empire and the early days of the Third Republic. It begins with the great scientist held in scorn by his colleagues as a mountebank and ends with his acceptance by his grudging fellow scientists as one of the true heroes of mankind.

All of the slightly episodic story is not only well planned, but is extremely well played. Mr. Muni, one of the screen's most intelligent and resourceful actors, is splendid in his difficult role and I know that you will not see a more stirring moment of playing in the drama all year than the instant when Pasteur realizes that he has saved the life of the sheep and that his cure for anthrax is a success.

Miss Josephine Hutchinson as the wife and the pretty Miss Anita Louise as the daughter have little to do, but there are exceptionally fine performances by Fritz Leiber as the most relentless of Pasteur's enemies (a really first-rate portrayal), by Henry O'Neill as a loyal follower of the great man, and by Porter Hall as a dubious, but eventually convinced, doctor. There is a good impersonation of Napoleon III by Walter Kingsford.

STIRRING, dramatic and exciting, this is the first film drama close to our times and vital to our problems. Handsomely produced, splendidly acted and deftly directed, it is a film to thrill and excite all the thoughtful.

Beginning with Pasteur's early life, it pursues his vivid career to its conclusion. Paul Muni, assuming the colorful role does the most exhilarating work of his career as Dr. Louis Pasteur.

The story introduces the star as the struggling young man whose daring theories on microbes confound the austere academy. It describes his risky experiments on cattle and livestock. It builds to a mighty climax as the young chemist risks the guillotine to minister to a small boy infected with hydrophobia. Never shallow, nevertheless, small, it presents a stirring picture of the eternal battle between progress and tradition.

THE YOUNG MAN who dared everything to give the world clean milk, pure meat, aseptic childbirth, while all the medical profession fought and ridiculed him, makes a stirring and unusual figure for the film. His story introduces scenes of thrilling drama and heartbreaking loveliness.

Muni, sincere, intelligent, impressive as ever, has a role hugely enjoys. Dr. Pasteur longs to our immediate history and Muni plays him with beautiful reverence and restraint. never once lapses into the splendid character resource theatrical mood. He makes true.

IN HIS SUPPORT, Muni is tunate. He has winning Josephine Hutchinson to play his wife, vivid players as Fritz Leiber, mond Brown, Porter Hall to sent his opponents. A mellow beautiful romantic theme is duced by the sweet Anita and by Donald Woods.

Dramatic, exciting, intelligent and thrilling, "The Story of Pasteur" is one of those rare tional pictures you should miss. It is deeply moving, usual and vastly exciting a of a great and humane character.

The Current Cinema

By SEYMOUR ROMAN

Paul Muni is Starred in "The Story of Louis Pasteur," First National Production Now at the New York Strand Theatre.

"The Story of Louis Pasteur," dynamic cinema account of one of the world's greatest scientists, opened Saturday at the New York Strand Theatre with Paul Muni in the title role, and an exceedingly competent cast in support. The film records the dramatic highlights of a life essentially dramatic, and it does so with due regard to the individual, if not to history. Despite Warner Brothers' extravagant claims for their new epic as "the first original screen biography," Pasteur's life has been rewritten to some extent.

A quibbling complaint, perhaps, because "The Story of Louis Pasteur" is a tense, compelling photoplay, sincerely and thoughtfully presented. It offers Mr. Muni his finest opportunities, and it moves with a rapidity and smoothness difficult in a film which must encompass, in detail, some 32 years of an active life.

Louis Pasteur, chemist, is hated and feared by the doctors of France, who refuse to believe in, or even listen to, his theories regarding the microbe as a source of disease. His crusade for sanitary and antiseptic hospital treatment only results in his banishment from Paris by royal command.

In Arbois, ten years later, Pasteur is found busy saving the sheep and cattle of the district from anthrax, the black plague which has swept all the rest of France. Even here, though there is direct evidence of the truth of his work, he is not believed, and a gigantic experiment is planned to rid the medicine men of France "once and for all of this 'mountebank.'"

Pasteur, triumphant, turns his attention to a treatment for rabies. His subject is a little boy, and then 19 Russians who had been bitten by wolves. Again he triumphs, and the entire world of science falls at his feet.

Those are the specific items of this "Story of Louis Pasteur." They are presented in careful, conscientious manner, so that even the layman can both follow explanations and enjoy them.

But it is Pasteur himself of whom the picture takes notice. This irascible, bearded young man, husband and father, who disregards his family in order to track down "wee beasties." Who is human enough to laugh to himself at the title, "Doctor," when it is borne by men who refuse to listen. Who willingly jeopardizes his future because of his belief in himself. Who allows himself to be derided in the streets of Paris because he is working for the world to come.

It is Mr. Muni's greatest role, his greatest performance. Josephine Hutchinson is splendid as the understanding, retiring wife of Pasteur. Anita Louise and Donald Woods carry on a small romantic interlude as Pasteur's daughter and research assistant, respectively.

In minor roles, attention must be paid to Fritz Lieber, Porter Hall and Raymond Brown, as Pasteur's bitterest opponents, and to Henry O'Neill and Halliwell Hobbes, as Pasteur's aids and as Lister.

Compared to the "Pasteur" turned out by Sascha Guitry in France, Warner Brothers' "Story of Louis Pasteur" is, frequently, an infinitely superior production. But, then, the former pretended to be little more than a character study of Pasteur that fact, however. Sascha Guitry's version did contain one scene of dramatic intensity, almost disregarded by Hollywood, that moments when the boy, Joseph, was undergoing treatment for hydrophobia. Warner Brothers here has seen fit to scatter audiences interest, treating that incident with casualness, because at the same time, Pasteur's daughter is soon to become a mother, those Russian peasants are standing in the rain mutely pleading for help, and Pasteur himself is on the verge of a nervous breakdown.

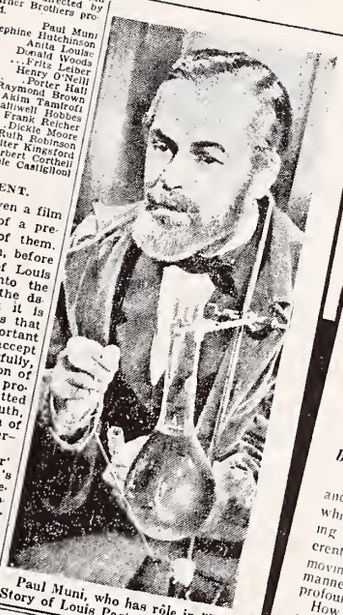
By FRANK S. NUGENT.

There are times when even a film reviewer feels the need of a preamble and today is one of them. With your permission, then, before speaking of "The Story of Louis Pasteur," which moved into the Strand over the week-end, the department will confess that it is guilty of heresy. It believes that accuracy is not the most important part of biography. It will accept errors of time and place cheerfully, and it will condone the addition of known fiction to known fact provided these untruths are committed in the interests of a greater truth, which would be the preservation of the spirit—not the chronological letter—of a man's life.

"The Story of Louis Pasteur" telescopes the French scientist's years and highlights his achievements. It embrolls him in a prolonged feud with the French Academy of Sciences and its president. It has him incur Napoleon III's displeasure and virtual banishment from Paris. It delays his recognition until the evening of his life. It portrays him as a model of scientific detachment, the laboratory method personified, a modest, academic, self-effacing man.

Most, if not all, of this is against the weight, of such biographical evidence as one might encounter in the more staid Britannica or in the lively pages of Paul De Kruif. And possibly because we have heretical notions, we believe that "The Story of Louis Pasteur" is an excellent biography, just as it is a notable photoplay, dignified in subject, dramatic in treatment and brilliantly played by Paul Muni, Fritz Leiber, Josephine Hutchinson and many other members of the cast.

To what purpose would you quarrel with the screen biographer's premise that in 1860, when the film picks up the life of Pasteur, his was the only voice crying out in a wilderness of medical ignorance for physicians to wash their hands, boil their instruments and so avoid infecting their patients with puerperal fever? Because it ignores the work of Lister, Koch and Leeuwenhoek? To what end would you deny that the French Academy and the Emperor Napoleon III were so deaf to his pleas that they one ridiculed him and the other expelled him? Because these were exaggerated reactions, because nothing of the sort happened?



Off hand, the answers would have merit, yet ignorance was the men-ace, of the time and it had to be personified—even at the expense of the Academy. Once you accept the essential accuracy of the conflict between crusading science on the one hand and entrenched medical stupidity on the other, you should be willing to condone every factual sin the film commits.

Thus Pasteur's discovery of the anthrax vaccine, which saved the cattle of France from the black plague, may not have been the instrument which restored him from exile and to a certain measure of honor; but its importance as a scientific discovery is no less because the film pretends so. In fact, it is vastly more dramatic to tell it that way.

The same argument would apply to the film's next dramatic episode, his finding of the toxin anti-toxin cure for rabies. The picture involves this, somehow, with Pasteur's bitter feud with Dr. Charbonnet of the French Academy, and with the need of his daughter for medical care when only Charbonnet is available. Charbonnet—says the script writers—offers to tend the girl if Pasteur will admit in writing that his cure for hydrophobia is worthless. He signs the paper, his daughter is attended but even the French Academy has a conscience and Pasteur, no longer regarded as a dangerous charlatan, receives at last the recognition and bomags he so richly deserved.

The biographical film can be a cold thing, and it generally is. Its most usual manifestations are the costume and period photoplays—the ravished dramas of Disraeli, Napoleon, Barnum or Diamond Jim Brady—which have little relation to modern life and depend for their appeal upon one's interest in antiquities. In this life of Pasteur, a scientist who died forty-one years ago but left a vibrant footprint to mark his passing, the Warners have chosen a subject that should speak personally to every audience and should receive, in return, something more than the transient attention accorded the ordinary photoplay.

Pasteur's life is warm and vital, of itself. It has lost none of that warmth through Mr. Muni's sensitive characterization, through the gifted direction of William Dieterle and the talents of a perfect cast. It may not be the province—and probably it was not the primary motive—of a Hollywood studio to create a film which is, at the same time, a monument to the life of a man. But "The Story of Louis Pasteur" is truly that.

SCREEN PRESENT

'Story of Louis Pasteur,' With Mun Is Credit to Warners and Industry

by Leo Mishkin

At one fell swoop the screen goes in for the contemplation of science and some really distinguished biography in "The Story of Louis Pasteur," which opened at the Strand Theater on Saturday. With Paul Muni playing the title role, and with the adaptation and direction handled in a reverential and reasonably faithful manner, the film stands forth as honestly moving epic, treated in the grand manner, and to be viewed with profound respect and deference.

How close this photoplay actually comes to depicting the life of the father of modern antisepsis this department is unprepared to say. Undoubtedly up for their values, undoubtedly there are highlights as highlights. To quibble at merits as such things would be to find fault with the whole subject of motion picture biography. It is enough that The Story of Louis Pasteur" does its touching up and dramatizing in a highly capable manner. It makes for good, sound cinema, and this department has always been found on the side of good, sound cinema.

Laughed Out of Paris

It is Pasteur's preoccupation with germs and microbes that provide the chief basis for the story of the film. In the beginning he seeks to prove that 'childbed fever" is caused by uncleanliness in obstetrics and is laughed out of Paris for his pains. Taking up residence in Arbois, the chemist saves the sheep of the countryside from the plague of anthrax that is sweeping the rest of France, but still he is doubted. Only when a test is devised, by members of the French Academy of Medicine does he come through with his victory.

Naturally, his experiments with rabies, or hydrophobia constitute the climax of the film. First he experiments on dogs and then his experiments almost come to failure when the great Dr. Charbonnet, one of the head skeptics, injects the virus into his own arm and dares Pasteur to cure him if he will die. It develops that the great Dr. Charbonnet had used a virus that was fourteen days old and comparatively weak, but that comes later. In the meantime Pasteur gives his attention to saving the life of little Joseph Meister, who had been bitten by a mad dog in Alsace, and also tries to save some Russian peasants who had been sent on to Paris for experimentation in the same field. It is already quite well known that victory comes to him in these cases as well and that he is finally recognized by the Academy as one of the great scientists of France.

Muni Startlingly Real

Mr. Muni, in a startlingly realistic makeup, plays the role of the chemist with his customary ability, giving evidence once more of being a sincere and honest performer. Josephine Hutchinson is a shy and somewhat studden wife, overwhelmed by the greatness of her husband, and the necessary romance is supplied by Donald Woods, as an assistant to Pasteur and Anita Louise, as his daughter. In the minor roles, some bunnets may be tossed at Fritz Leiber for his characterization of Dr. Charbonnet, the skeptic, to Henry O'Neill, as another assistant in the Pasteur laboratories, to Akim Tamroff, as the Russian doctor who brought the rabies-ridden peasants to Paris, and to Halliwell Hobbes, as the great Lister of England.

It is fine and occasionally really great photoplay, this "The Story of Louis Pasteur." It merits lie in both the material it has to present and the way in which it is presented. It is a matter of credit to the Warner studios and to the whole motion picture industry that it has been made at all and that it has come out

When "The Life of Louis Pasteur," Paul Muni's latest starring vehicle, was previewed recently in a New York projection room, there was present the first American ever to be treated by the great French scientist for hydrophobia.

He is William Lane, 64, of Irvington, N. J.

Lane was a messenger boy of 14 in Newark when he, along with three other youths, was bitten by a mad dog. Hydrophobia then meant almost certain death. But reports had come from France about an obscure chemist who had successfully treated the disease. Although no one particularly believed him, he represented the only hope for escape from agonizing death for the four boys. A New York newspaper quickly raised a fund of $1000 and sent the youths to Pasteur. Their cure is history. They were hailed as heroes on their return and went into vaudeville, onto lecture platforms, and exhibited themselves in medical schools.

Only once during the screening did Lane speak. He turned to his wife and, in a hushed voice, said: "It's just like it was then—Pasteur, and the room and all."

A finer compliment could not have been paid to Muni, as Louis Pasteur, nor to Cosmopolitan Productions for their faithful and painstaking efforts to make this an authentic and great biography.

The picture opens at the Metropolitan Theater on Friday.

Worth Our Support

A motion picture soon to be released presents the life of a great man of science, Louis Pasteur. The picture is reported as an honest and successful effort to present a genuine Pasteur, the scientist whose research and discovery changed the whole character of medicine. If the first critical reviewers are correct, we have here another of those really superb pictures, entertaining and instructive, offensive neither to moral sense nor intelligence.

The picture makes clear a point of great apologetic importance, namely, that scientists, even great scientists, sometimes disagree. They differ at times vehemently, with a

MARCH of EVENTS

THE LIFE OF PASTEUR

A Great Benefactor Of Humanity.

Inspiration for Every Earnest Man.

A great man as was ever born in France—mother of as many great men, was Louis Pasteur, scientist, chemist, biologist, friend of humanity, of highest, noblest, most unselfish character. The world knows him, vaguely, as the man who perfected the French vineyards from the destructive mold known as mildew, especially as the man who cured mad-dog victims. Adored and honored and loved by all farmers that raise livestock, he showed how to protect animals from disease by vaccination.

Pasteur to ever abolished the persistent idea that life, high or low, can develop "spontaneously," and showed the part that microbes play in our daily lives in disease and in death.

He solved the mysteries of fermentation, showing the breweries of England, France and all the world how to prevent the souring of beer, which had seemed impossible.

Known to all the world for his inoculations against rabies, by the satisfaction of saving many in this revolting way of life, and, thanks to his years of scientific inoculation against rabies, there came no more cases of that dreadful epochal time.

Pasteur's father fought in the army of Napoleon on the Spanish peninsula, worshipped the Emperor, treasured to his last day the Legion of Honor ribbon received from him.

His motto was: Travailler, travailler toujours. ("Work, work, work always.")

PASTEUR came of a peasant family. His near ancestors were serfs like many others. The name comes from the days of a nobleman or of a convent or monastery. They were unable to dispose of their goods or their persons.

Pasteur's great, great grandfather, Claude Etienne Pasteur, bought his freedom from the Lord of the Bâtaux. Four pieces of the land—four days—were the price paid. Pasteur's father and grandmother could not read or write, although they were able to sign their marriage certificates.

But like other French peasants they encouraged education. They could appreciate it, ignorance they knew, for instance, like loan of money when she wanted to send the boy of the family to school.

Pasteur's father fought in the army of Napoleon on the Spanish peninsula, worshipped the Emperor, treasured to his last day the Legion of Honor ribbon received from him.

Attacked by the ignorant, and particularly by the [illegible] among so-called "learned men," Pasteur, after welcoming criticism based on fact, rejoicing every thing else, worked until he had reached the summit of his glory—[illegible] her little boy, 9 years old, terribly mangled by a mad dog.

The little Alsatian, going alone to school, was attacked by the furious dog, thrown to the ground, and while covering his face with his hands, was bitten repeatedly. A fellow-worker beat the dog off with an iron bar, carried the child, covered with blood and spitting to bite, to his home. Terror the child suffering from fourteen wounds, barely able to walk, was taken by his mother to Pasteur.

The responsibility was great, but Pasteur, although not yet ready to treat human beings, decided that it was his duty to save that child if he could.

The first operation was made, an injection in the side of the throat of a little drop of a liquid prepared with some fragments of medulla of a mad dog, taken from the brain of a mad dog. Day by day the inoculations were made, the treatment more highly poisonous and dangerous. Pasteur's wife, wisely admirable, devoted herself to the child's care, and Pasteur, as he wrote to her children during their father's absence, "kept vigil during the long nights" [illegible] the fashions of the child." The treatment lasted ten days; the little boy was inoculated twelve times. The injections of medulla used on the boy, toward the end were so strong as to produce madness in rabbits and dogs. The child was cured.

SOON regular treatments were established, lines of patients from all over the world, including some from this country, the children of workingmen, [illegible] Newark, N. J., were [illegible] waiting for treatment. A temporary building was [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

"Marie" Houston's Leader at $12,000

HOUSTON, Feb. 17.—"Rose Marie" was the pace-setter at Loew's State, in spite of Bank Night opposition from five theatres, a stage show at the Metropolitan next door, and the "Hollywood" opening of the new Tower Friday night. The gross was $12,000, which was $5,000 up. It was held over for a second week.

An all negro stage revue led by Lucky Millinder with "If You Could Only Cook" raised the ante at the Metropolitan by $2,500. The total was $9,500. "Red Salute" at the Kirby for the week-end also was high with a take of $3,300. Average is $3,000. "The Great Impersonation" at the Kirby mid-week broke even with $1,500. The Majestic took the rap with "The Petrified Forest," ringing up only $5,500 as against an average of $7,000.

Total first run business was $33,000. Average is $26,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 13:

"Mohicans" Is Delayed

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 17.—The fact that Edward Small will start his first Radio picture, "Marry the Girl," on March 1 will not interfere with "The Last of the Mohicans," which will go into production shortly after April 1, according to Harry Goetz.

"The Last of the Mohicans" will be the last Reliance film for United Artists release. Its release date, set for June 19, will be postponed to some date in July, according to Goetz.

The Reliance offices still are being maintained at the RKO-Pathe lot, though Edward Small already is occupying offices at Radio.

To Form Amateur Unit

PITTSRURGH, Feb. 17. — Bernie Armstrong, house organist at the Harris-Alvin, who also conducts a weekly sponsored amateur hour every Sunday on WJAS, will form a unit of his prize-winning talent and install it at the Alvin for a week's engagement starting next Friday.

"Rose Marie" Hits $26,000 In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 17.—"Rose Marie," despite snowstorms, zero and everything else, ran up a new high at the Penn, getting close to $26,000 in nine days and showing sufficient strength at the finish to send the picture to the Warner for a continuation of its downtown run.

At the same time, the latest first-run house, the Casino, formerly the Harris, made an auspicious debut under its new operator, George Jaffe, formerly burlesque impresario here, collecting a remarkable $10,000 with "Crime and Punishment" and the "Folies de Paree" revue. A personal appearance of Phil Baker, with "The Lady Consents," took $19,500 at the Stanley. "Next Time We Love" at the Fulton, heading a double bill that also included "Dancing Feet," managed to reach par.

The other two double feature houses didn't fare so well, however. "The Invisible Ray" and "The Calling of Dan Matthews" sunk the Alvin to $3,500, while the Warner had a difficult time picking up $3,850 with "Tough Guy" and "Freshman Love."

Total first run grosses were $66,850. Average is $50,500.

"Rose" Is $12,000 Hit in Louisville

LOUISVILLE, Feb. 17.—"Rose Marie" was in the big money at Loew's State. It piled up $12,000, over normal by $6,500, and led a general upturn in grosses.

"The Milky Way" at the Rialto topped ordinary $4,500 business with a $7,000 take. "Evergreen" passed par at the National by $500, but the excellent stage show is generally credited for the above-average business.

"Ceiling Zero" was a profit-maker at the Mary Anderson, grossing $3,600 on its second week. This is $100 to the good, and a better figure than is usually returned on an extension.

Bad weather the first part of the week was followed by an abrupt rise in temperature, accompanied by heavy rainfall.

Principal opposition was a food show held all week at the Jefferson County Armory.

Total first run business was $32,800. Average is $24,200.

"Secrets" and Cortez Top in Capital Slump

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Opening with a snow storm and closing with a sleety rain, the total gross last week hit the skids. The combination of "Lady of Secrets" and a personal appearance of Ricardo Cortez, however, sent the Earle take to $19,000, or $600 over par.

Backed by a heavy campaign, the Metropolitan took $5,000 for "You May Be Next," over average by $700.

"First a Girl," on an eight-day run at the Belasco, took $3,300, or $300 over the usual seven day average.

"A Tale of Two Cities," playing its fourth downtown week—the second at Loew's Columbia an a return engagement—received $3,500, or a mere $100 under the first run average.

At RKO-Keith's "Next Time We Love" slipped $1,000 under par for a take of $9,500. "Tough Guy" and a stage show dived to $16,000 at Loew's Fox, a figure $4,900 under average. The second week of "Strike Me Pink" at Loew's Palace was weak at $7,100.

Capital Stock Par Franchise Tax Base

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 17.—Corporations of Louisiana must pay their state franchise taxes on the par value of their capital stock, without deducting any deficit for operating losses and the like in any given year, according to a four-to-three decision of the state Supreme Court, handed down recently.

The decision broke a three-to-three tie through the vote of Justice-elect A. L. Ponder, who was called in to give the deciding opinion, in the case of the state against the Bisso Realty and Investment Co. The company had sought to deduct $108,000 of operating losses from its $276,000 of capital stock.

Burroughs' Second Ready

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 17.—Burroughs-Tarzan Pictures will start their second feature, "City Pavements," immediately after completion of "The Drag-Net." Police Aid Shows

Bethel, Conn., Feb. 17.—The Methodist Church here has had to call in the police department to help it with its sound film showings. At the first showing some weeks ago street noises prevented a large part of the congregation from hearing what was going on.

The police will try to control some of the traffic movement.

Bans All Giveaways In County in Maine

PORTLAND, Me., Feb. 17.—All cash giveaways have been banned in Cumberland County by order of County Attorney Walter M. Tapley, following the conviction of three former employes of the Keith here, of conspiring to deliver a cash award in the theatre's Greyhound Derby game.

Greyhound Derby is distributed by Meyer Gruber and Harry Bloomberg of Boston, who, in connection with their handling of Parlay Cash Night, are being sued for alleged infringement by Bank Night which is particularly hit by the order, inasmuch as it was believed clear in Maine following the refusal of the state Supreme Court to declare it illegal. County Attorney Ralph O. Dale of Sagadahoc said he would not press charges further.

Western Houses Now Using Presentations

LINCOLN, Feb. 17.—Several houses in this territory have begun to use vaudeville, notably the Wilbur Cushman circuit, where the 20-person unit type of show has been found successful.

Among the smaller towns where theatres are using the stage units from one to three days a week are: Bozeman, Billings, Livingston, Mont.; Sheridan, Rock Springs and Wheatland, Wyo.; Scottsbluff, Neb.; Cheyenne, Wyo.; Rapid City, Lead, Deadwood, and Hot Springs, S. ITOA Denied Injunction on City Sale Tax

Brooklyn Court Refuses To Pass Upon Levy

The I.T.O.A.-sponsored motion for a temporary injunction against the levying and collection of the city sales tax on film rentals was denied yesterday by Justice Callahan in N. Y. Supreme Court.

In its opinion the court pointed out that while "it may be that as to some transactions involved in the rental of films no tax is collectible, such questions should not be passed on at this time or in this proceeding" and denied the motion without prejudice to any appeal action directed against the legality of the tax as applied to film rentals.

The suggested procedure of contesting the legality of the tax as applied to film rentals is the course being taken by local distributors through the appeal of the United Artists exchange from the city comptroller's ruling holding rentals to be subject to the tax. A writ of certiorari has already been obtained by the exchange to bring the case to the Appellate Division, which is the course prescribed in the sales tax law itself for contesting the city's application of the tax. The United Artists appeal, however, may not be argued before the end of March.

The injunction move was undertaken by Harlou, Inc., and Quinral, Inc., two companies operating Brooklyn theatres, for whom Weisman, Quinn, Allen & Spett, attorneys for the I.T.O.A., served as counsel. In their motion for the injunction the Block Booking Hearings Set For Feb. 27 by Senate Group

By CLARENCE LINZ

Washington, Feb. 18.—Hearings on block booking legislation will be opened Feb. 27 by the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee appointed last week by Chairman Wheeler of Montana.

The sub-committee is headed by Senator Neely of West Virginia, whose bill to prohibit block booking and blind selling will be the subject of the hearings. Similar legislation is also expected to be considered in the near future by the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

The Senate sub-committee held its first meeting this afternoon to consider what action it should take with respect to picture legislation, and decided, despite the volumes of testimony on the subject which have been taken in the past, to give all parties to the booking controversy another opportunity to present their views.

Gardner Says Much British Sound Old

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, Feb. 8.—Speaking at a luncheon tendered by RCA to signalize his appointment as European manager, Bernhard Gardner declared that a large percentage of the reproducing equipment in British theatres is out of date, producing only 50 per cent of the sound capability of films. The plant could not be modernized, he declared; it was a case of "virtually scrapping the existing equipment."

The freehold and leasehold properties on which it is secured are valued at over £5,700,000. A. B. P. operates 260 theatres.

Goldwyn Says B. & K. Split Lifts Returns

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Bookings through independents in this territory are returning more revenue for his pictures than he obtained through B. & K., declared Samuel Goldwyn here today between eastbound trains.

Goldwyn conferred with U. A. sales executives here.

"We are doing better without B. & K.," was the way he put it. "You

Census Check Uses Elaborate System

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 18. — Rapid progress in the work of taking the new national amusement census as part of the business census undertaking of the Department of Commerce is reported at the bureau's headquarters here.

In the amusement industry as in certain others the census will classify establishments or organizations as independent and individually operated, units of a branch system or units of a corporate chain system. Reports will cover operating revenues, operating expenses and employment data. However, no figures for any business classification will be published unless enough individual reports are included to make it impossible to distinguish the facts about any particular individual firm or corporation, according to census headquarters.

An elaborate system of checking and re-checking against reports received from 400 supervisor offices throughout the country has been devised at the national headquarters here to guard against inaccuracies appearing in the census of any of the business classifications. A force of nearly 3,000 workers under Fred A. Gosnell, chief statistician, is required at the census headquarters for this work, the bureau reports.

Report DeMille Deal For Nine Each Year

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 18.—It is understood here that under the pending deal with Paramount, Cecil B. DeMille, heading his own unit, will produce nine features yearly, financed by Paramount. The first will probably be "Buffalo Bill," with Gary Cooper, Fred MacMurray and Carole Lombard.

Circuits Here Move Swiftly To Get Houses

Independent Groups Aim To Solidify Holdings

At least seven independent theatre circuits in the local area are now engaged in negotiations to solidify their holdings with every important name circuit either discussing building plans or acquisition of properties from landlords.

The deals, regarded as at the peak for any one time in the Greater New York territory, find Randforce, Skouras, Brandt, Isle, Jack W. Springer, Cohen & Seigel and Sam Cocalis bidding for properties to bolster their current operations.

While the various operators named are reticent about specific sites under negotiation, all admit deals are under way, with consummation expected as soon as an accord is reached on terms. The independent moves are in direct contrast to major circuit plans. Loew's and RKO executives state no new additions are contemplated. However, developments which may bring about a change in attitude leave the major companies open to deals.

Some of the negotiations are re-

Court Move Coming On Ohio's Film Ban

COLUMBUS, Feb. 18.—Sentinels of the Republic, Inc., Philadelphia, has appealed the action of the censor board in banning "The Amateur Fire Brigade," an animated cartoon depicting President Roosevelt in caricature, and the case is heading for a court test, according to Raymond Pitcairn, national chairman of the Sentinels.

Roy Reichelderfer, censor chief, says he feels the board has acted wisely, because the film "encourages disrespect for the President of the United States."

The board reviewed the film four times before rejecting it, but passed "America's Bulwark of Liberty," a companion picture by the same producers.

Duals, 10 Shorts

Norwalk, Feb. 18.—Once a week the Rialto is offering two features plus 10 shorts. It is the longest program offered by any theatre in the state.

German Chaplin Ban Yarn Is "Premature"

BERLIN, Feb. 18.—Reports that Germany has barred "Modern Times" are described as "premature" at the Propaganda Ministry. The film has not been presented for review, it was stated, and no announcement will be made until it has.

Chaplin's "The Gold Rush" was banned when presented for revival on the ground that it did not conform to the spirit of "the new ideology."

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, Feb. 18.

CONSIDERABLE of the noise now fulminating and to come, no doubt will pivot around the selling point that "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" is the first essentially outdoor melodrama in Technicolor's new three-way blushes. But, merchandisable as that is, there is a good deal more to be said about this picture of Walter Wanger's, made for Paramount release. . . .

Based on the John Fox, Jr., opus and whipped into script by Grover Jones, this is a combination, and an adroit one, of many of the fundamental situations which have done valiant service for the industry over a long period of years. Love interest and conflict, heroism and the two-fisted he-man formula are mixed with comedy relief played off against nature in colors which are usually extremely effective and sometimes not. At any rate, there is plenty of it. . . .

It's all about hill-billies, the Blue Ridges and the onslaught of civilization in the form of a coal mining company which wants and gets, but pays for, the land owned by the traditional enemies, the Tollivers and the Falins. Fred MacMurray represents the friendly invaders. He saves Henry Fonda's life by an emergency operation on a gun wound gone to pot and so ingratiates himself to a point where the Tollivers, headed by Fred Stone and of which Fonda is one, sell. Sylvia Sidney, not entirely believably, plays the mountain girl whom everyone expects to marry Fonda. Only she does not and in the end finishes up in MacMurray's arms, where she wanted to be all along. . . .

The feud is pretty much dominant throughout. There is Beulah Bondi, as Melissa Tolliver, who wants it stopped. But by the time Miss Sidney returns from Louisville where her coating of culture is being applied by MacMurray's sister, little Spanky McFarland, her brother, dies when the Falins blow up the railroad bridge and the steam shovel parked on its tracks. Sylvia seeks revenge in the only way she knows, and that's the rifle ritual of the feud. MacMurray, however, undertakes to settle the score when Fonda, having learned Miss Sidney loves the other fellow, does the manly thing and goes alone, minus gun, to patch the generation-old argument with his enemies. It works out, but not before Fonda is plugged in the back by a scurrilous Falin who, in turn, is shot to death by his own father. Fonda dies, the MacMurray-Sidney match is thereby sealed and peace returned to the hills. . . .

"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" is, therefore, rousing melodrama in its final reels and leisurely in its early ones. Some trimming of its present 100 minutes, it is this space's idea, would tighten matters and make what is built well in the popular entertainment mould into something even better. The producer, however, advises the picture is ready to go as is. The array of sterling performances is a formidable one and includes, not necessarily in order of merit, Stone, Miss Bondi, Fonda, Fuzzy Knight, as a singing troubadour; MacMurray, Nigel Bruce, Spanky, Robert Barrat and Sam Hinds. . . .

About the color. Generally it makes the picture rich and many of the outdoor shots are beautiful. Howard Greene was at the camera with Robert C. Bruce in general charge of that department on this job, It seemed to us that Technicolor, judged from this effort, has something to overcome in its blues and its reds which are so definite they are not entirely natural. The dramatic direction was in the hands of Henry Hathaway, the "Belgan Lancer" man; his job is a good one. Stamped by production code administration, the seal number is 1,859. . . .

While all of this concerns Wanger, this seems to be the time to point out that his deal with United Artists, effective with next season, created a stir in Hollywood and leaves Paramount with a hole to plug in its production setup. Wanger has under direct contract a number of important players, their number embracing Miss Sidney, Fonda, Joan Bennett, Charles Boyer, Madeleine Carroll—for ten over the span of the next three or four years—and Frances Langford. His writing crew, now under the U. A. banner, takes in Dorothy Parker, Alan Campbell, Gene Towne, Graham Baker, Ed Chodorov, who once was a press agent in New York for Columbia, and Lynn Starling. Wanger quit Paramount, where he could have made a new deal, because he was dissatisfied with his return. That makes the reason the perfunctory one. . . .

Spear Suit on Quins Quashed in Chicago

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Ivan Spear's suit for $1,000,000 against Pathe News charging the defendant with inducing the father of the Dionne quintuplets to breach an exclusive contract he said he held for the rights for theatrical appearances and photographs, has been dismissed in Federal Court here.

In dismissing the action, the court held that the complaint failed to state the cause of action and that the Spear contract with the father of the quins was against public policy. Also named as co-defendants were Kresge's, Woolworth's, NEA, Scripps Howard, a number of radio companies and others.

Pathe, in defending the suit, contended it never made a contract with the father, but instead entered into a deal with the guardians of the babies.

Spear also alleged the various defendants conspired to freeze him out. The complainant also had a contract with the father for the appearance of the babies at the World's Fair, held in Chicago last year. Dr. Roy Allen Dafoe would not permit the quintuplets to leave Callander, Ont.

RKO Building Men In New Lunch Group

About 30 employes and executives of Quigley Publications, Republic and RKO yesterday met at Jack Lyons' restaurant and moved to make this eatery a central gathering place for film and theatre companies located in Radio City.

Among those attending were W. Ray Johnston, E. H. Goldstein, Budd Rogers, Barrett McCormick, A-Mike Vogel, Sam Hacker, Ed Finney, Robert Griffith, Robert Socas, Paul Radin, Will Murphy, Dennis J. Shea, Morris Kinzler, Bill Ornstein, Ted Sullivan, Gertrude Merriam, Robert Harrison, Dan Halperin, Al Friedlander, Ray Gallo, Ray Gallagher, M. Freise, Sam Kestenbaum, William Pierce, Fred Schaefer, Dave Strumpf, Lou Chapman, Herbert Fecke, Tim Leahy and others.

The next get together will be Monday.

Asks Delay on Loew Issue

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—An amendment to its application to SEC in connection with the offering of its proposed issue of $15,000,000 3½ per cent debentures has been filed by Loew's, Inc. The company seeks a delay in the date of the offering to Feb. 25.

Warner Meet Postponed

The regular monthly meeting of Warner directors, scheduled for yesterday, was adjourned yesterday for three weeks until Harry M. Warner returns from the coast. Warner left with Edward G. Robinson on Monday.

Lichtman Reaches Coast

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 18.—Al Lichtman arrived here after some delay. His trip by air required 43 hours. J. Robert Rubin and Leopold Friedman leave for the east tomorrow.

Kent to Go South Today

S. R. Kent today will leave for Boca Raton, Fla., for a vacation. He returned last week from the coast.

Appeal Upon Young Action Set in May

An appeal by RKO Pathe Pictures, Inc., on a motion to dismiss a plagiarism suit for $2,000,000 filed by James Young, husband of Clara Kimball Young, in the N. Y. Supreme Court, is scheduled for hearing in the Appellate Division next month. The complaint, originally brought in Oct., 1933, at first was dismissed on grounds of insufficiency and then was re-filed.

RKO Pathe attorneys contend the suit involves a copyright and as such should come within the jurisdiction of the Federal Court. The State Court has held that the manuscript involved was submitted in this city and denied the dismissal. W. S. Savage, counsel for the defendant, will argue the appeal before five judges.

Young alleges in his suit that the picture "What Price Hollywood?" which was made with Ann Harding, is an infringement on his book "What Price Sex in Hollywood?"

U. A. Board to Name O'Brien Successor

The annual meeting of United Artists stockholders is scheduled for early in April at which time a new board of directors is slated to be elected. The vacancy created by the resignation several weeks ago of Dennis F. O'Brien, United Artists general counsel, is expected to be filled at that time.

O'Brien's resignation was tendered to make a place on the board for a representative of the new Pickford-Lasky producing organization. O'Brien continues as Miss Pickford's attorney and his firm, O'Brien, Driscoll & Raftery, continues as counsel for United Artists. Ed Raftery of the same firm continues on the board as a Douglas Fairbanks representative.

Switch Columbus House

COLUMBUS, Feb. 18.—The Hartman, recently acquired by Charles F. Boda as a legitimate house, has swung into the picture column, with a first run policy. Matinee rate is 30 cents, with evening tariff 30 and 42 cents. The house, originally a legitimate stand, was taken over by J. Real Neth a few years ago and operated with various policies until released to Boda. Legitimate attractions will be played occasionally.

Dartmouth Studies Films

Caesar Asks Warners To Return to Ascap

Warners were urged to renew their membership in Ascap by Irving Caesar, music publisher and author, much of whose work is published by Warner music subsidiaries, in a letter to the company made public yesterday.

Caesar's communication was in reply to a recent letter from the Warner music companies to authors and composers affiliated with them reporting on progress being made on the licensing of Warner music for public performance. Caesar's reply challenges Warners' right to proceed with its licensing negotiations without consulting the authors and composers whose work comprises the Warner catalogues. He also challenges the company's right to transfer the theatre music tax to the producer, a move which Herman Starr, Warner vice-president, was recently quoted as saying the company was considering.

Caesar's letter criticized the recent Warner infringement actions against radio broadcasters, declaring that the size of the damages being sought might invite unfavorable revision of the Federal copyright laws by Congress.

Suit Aims to Halt Showing of "Pine"

An order to show cause why a stay should not be issued to halt the exhibition of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" was obtained in New York supreme court here yesterday by the Trail Co., which claims ownership of certain motion picture and dramatic rights to the work which it asserts have not been obtained by Paramount.

Justice Aaron Levy, who signed the order, set a hearing for Monday.

Paramount legal officials could not be reached for comment on the action. The picture was previewed at Miami Beach by Paramount Monday night and begins an indefinite run at the Paramount this morning.

Notables See "Pine"

MIAMI BEACH, Feb. 18.—Among the film folk and notables who attended the opening of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" at the Colony were Albert Warner, Irene Rich, John Golden, Daniel Frohman, H. I. Phillips, Gar Wood, Damon Runyon, Hervey Allen, Dubose Heyward, George Ade and David Wilentz.

Idaho Quarantine Ended

MOUNTAINHOME, IDA., Feb. 18.—Theatres here have reopened after a two-week quarantine. Highways between Twin Falls and Wells, Nev., are blockaded by snow. The Lincoln Highway east of Evanston is clogged with snowdrifts.

Will Open Bronx House

Consolidated Amusements on Friday will open the new Earle, seating 1,000, at 161st St. and River Ave., Bronx. This is the last of a group of houses the circuit built in this section of the city.

McMahon in Hospital

O. R. McMahon, comptroller of KAO, yesterday entered a Brooklyn hospital and today will be operated upon.

garded by the unaffiliated theatre men as "self-preservation." Others are held to be expansion moves.

All of the seven circuits mentioned have made substantial acquisitions in the last year. Consolidated, which has built three new theatres in the west Bronx during the past few months, has no plans for the new season, but circumstances which may be brought about by moves of other independents, principally invasion into Consolidated zones, will be met by Laurence Bolognino, vice-president of Consolidated.

Harry Shiffman, president of Isle Theatres, has a deal on for a number of theatres; Max A. Cohen and Arthur Seigel, who took over the George M. Cohan recently, are dickering for a few houses; George Skouras is after the Majestic, Jersey City; Randforce may build or take over a handful of Brooklyn projects. Cocalis, who operates a number of theatres independent of his joint circuit with Springer, has acquisition and building plans in work. Springer has a deal on for several units.

Century and Prudential, two circuits which usually build their own theatres, have no plans for new structures during the near future.

It is known that some of the smaller theatre owners are interested in building, principally in Brooklyn and Long Island, as well as adding a new unit here and there.

Century Files Plans for Two

Century circuit, with 25 theatres, has filed plans for two new structures in Brooklyn and on Saturday will take over from Randforce the Parkside, also in Brooklyn, a 600-seat house.

The two new units will each cost around $125,000 and will take approximately four months to build. Construction will begin as soon as the weather breaks. Both will seat 1,000.

One of the new theatres will be erected at Quentin Rd. and 12th St., the other at 19th St. and Ave. M.

Goldwyn Says B & K Split Lifts Returns

don't have to have palaces to show pictures. Make your picture the palace. The independent exhibitor should have a chance to live and I'm giving him that chance. No combination ever won out in the picture business.

"Pictures that cost a million can't be sold for a nickel. For example, in a downstate town here we used to get $100 flat rental. The last picture we played there under the new release grossed $1,300. The Balabans are good friends of mine—grand people, good showmen—but they have an exaggerated idea of the importance of their theatres."

Goldwyn said he was planning to make the "Goldwyn Follies" next fall, with beautiful girls selected from every state in the union. He also said he would make "Hurricane" in Technicolor, sending Howard Hawks to the South Seas for scenes.

Variety Club Chatter

Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Feb. 18.—One of the outstanding events of the current social season was the installation dinner held at the Hall of Mirrors in the Netherland Plaza at which HARRY J. WESSELL, new chief barker, and his aides were inducted into office. Approximately 260 attended.

Among the notables were HAROLD VAN OTMAN, former lieutenant-governor of Indiana; JOHNNY HARRIS, national chief barker, Pittsburgh; M. R. CLARK, chief barker, Columbus; MARC J. WOLF, chief barker, Indianapolis; Mayor RUSSELL WILSON, EDWARD B. IMBUS, vice-mayor; JIM STEWART and JIM WILSON, City Councilmen of Cincinnati. Large delegations were on hand from Pittsburgh, Columbus and Cincinnati.

Judge E. T. DIXON was master of ceremonies. Talent was provided by the RKO Shubert, the Lookout House, a night spot across the river on the Kentucky side, and several special acts from Chicago. PAUL KRIEGER was in charge of the entertainment. Col. ARTHUR FRUDENFELD is main guy of the side show gang.

JIM GRADY, who holds down the managerial chair at the Fox exchange, is the father of a baby daughter.

Washington

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—"Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Day" was celebrated, with RUDOLPH BERGER and NORMAN PYLE as kings for a day at the semi-monthly luncheon.

Representative WILLIAM P. CONNERY, JR., chairman of the Committee on Labor, was the guest of honor and principal speaker.

Taking for a title of his major remarks the need of humor today, CONNERY drew the analogy between circumstances obtaining during the war and now when the battle against the depression, while less gory, is nonetheless strenuous.

In satisfying that demand for humor and entertainment the Congressman paid a tribute to the industry.

CONNERY said that unless the industry stays cleaned up it will have the Legion of Decency to contend with in a manner even more militant than it was last year. Federal action—even censorship—was not beyond the realm of possibility, he stated. CONNERY declared that the industry, notwithstanding the self-imposed regulation and quasi censorship, is subtly returning to the use of sexiness and double entendre.

For the first time, Variety itself provided one of the hit bits of entertainment, a wrestling match between Butch, the Blood, alias the Whole Industry (HARROLD A. WEINBERGER), and the Gas House error, alias LEO the Lion (HERMAN P. AMSHER), with SAM M. FLAX as referee. The one-fall bout was won by Leo, but the decision was questioned and the match repeated in slow motion.

BERT GRANOFF, Earle Theatre tenor, with BOB STICKNEY as accompanist, started the program. BEN LYON responded to an introduction.

From Loew's Fox came JOHNNY WOOD, imitator, and SARAH ANN MCCABE, singer, and MELISSA MASON, dancer.

A four-piece Meyer Goldman orchestra furnished music.

WILLIAM E. S. WILCOX and ROBERT M. GRACE will be kings at the next luncheon to be held March 2.

Shortly after March 1 Architect-Barker F. KEMP MOHLER expects the remodeled clubrooms will be ready for house-warming.

LOUIS E. HARRIS, insurance broker, has been elected to affiliate membership.

Censorship Pioneer Dismissed in Penna.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 18.—Joseph A. Berrier of this city, one of the most important figures in the work of the Pennsylvania State Board of Censors since its establishment in 1914, was dismissed today from his post as administrative assistant to the board. The dismissal is thought to be of purely political origin.

Berrier was appointed by Governor John K. Tener 22 years ago, since which time more than 1,000,000 films have passed through the censors' hands. He has served as consultant to the boards of numerous states upon their inauguration of censorship in one form or another.

John C. Gore, of Uniontown, succeeds to the office.

Barrett on Ampa Bill

Wilton A. Barrett, secretary of the National Board of Review, and Joseph E. Hanson, executive vice-president of the Frank Presbrey advertising agency, will be the principal speakers at the Ampa weekly luncheon meeting at the Astor tomorrow. Peggy Fields and Roy Smeck, radio entertainers, are also to be on the program.

Injunction Denied On City Sales Tax

plaintiffs argued that the imposition of the sales tax on film rentals placed an undue burden on interstate commerce, involved the taxing by the city of a Federal instrumentality and was injurious to exhibition and might force the closing of theatres.

Justice Callahan also pointed out in his decision that I.T.O.A. had failed to advance any reasons to show that the comptroller has no jurisdiction to assess the tax.

Local exchanges will resume the collection of the tax as a result of the decision, but this will be returned to exhibitors if and when the tax is shown to be illegal.

Adds Ballet Sequence

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 18.—Columbia has added a new ballet sequence to the Grace Moore picture, "The King Steps Out." Albertina Rasche is training the troupe.

MacMurray in Raft Role

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 18.—George Raft has been replaced by Fred MacMurray in the Paramount production now in preparation which was to have starred Raft.

RKO Rent Suits End; Subsidiaries Moved

Following a settlement reached with landlords whereby RKO will pay a year's rent in lieu of cancellation of a 10-year lease, all subsidiary companies which have been in the Bond Bldg. yesterday moved to the RKO Bldg. in Radio City.

RKO originally held a 20-year lease in the Bond Bldg. at an annual rental of $60,000. With the removal of the parent companies some time ago, the landlords filed a number of suits which had been in the courts until a settlement of the lease was reached.

Dvorak Action Resumed

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 18. — Ann Dvorak's court application for clarification of her Warner contract was resumed here today before Judge Harry R. Archbold. Miss Dvorak's physicians testified that her physical condition was good at the time of the Warner suspension. J. R. Files, Warner attorney, contended that the firm was ready to reinstate the actress as soon as her physical condition was such as to warrant the action.

Warner Stock Hits 14

Warners' common stock yesterday hit a new high for the year on a turnover of 30,300 shares for the day. Up ¾ a point, the issue closed at 14, the top figure of the five-hour session. The preferred on the same exchange was off ⅝ on the day. On the bond market, Warners' 6's '39 wd gained a half point.

Pantages Rites Tomorrow

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 18. — Funeral services for Alexander Pantages, who died here yesterday, have been arranged for tomorrow at the Wee Kirk of the Heather in Forest Lawn. Interment will take place at the Forest Lawn Mausoleum.

"Goes," with Waring, Loop Hit, $46,600

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Bitterly cold weather continued to hit theatres last week, but the holiday stirred up some excitement with the result that "Anything Goes," with Fred Waring on the stage of the Chicago, piled up a magnificent $46,600. This was $14,600 over normal.

"A Lady Consents" at the Palace, with Ruth Etting and a revue on the stage, managed to get slightly over par at $20,500. "Kind Lady," helped by Jackie Coogan and Betty Grable, was $1,000 up on a take of $16,000 at the Oriental. "King of Burlesque" and "Professional Soldier," at the Garrick and Apollo, respectively, were on the profit side of the line, but all other houses were in a bad way.

Total first run business was $128,800. Average is $117,000.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Boulder Dam"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 18.—With the spectacular Boulder Dam project serving as a picturesque background, this picture is far from what may at first seem propaganda. Warners have taken occasion to build a thrilling story around the dam in addition to making the big hole in the Nevada mountains play an important part in the romantic leanings of Ross Alexander and Patricia Ellis.

Two episodes which will sufficiently hold the interest of patrons and probably have some also holding their seats, wishing the suspense were over, are: firstly, where the hero, at the risk of his life, goes to the aid of a brother dam worker who is driving a truck laden with dynamite and which has gone out of control as it races down the mountainside; secondly, the rescue of Lyle Talbot, the menace, as he is dangling from a cable in mid air. These are natural hair-raising scenes for patrons who can stand a good dose of excitement.

Prior to Alexander's getting a job at the dam, the story tells of his hasty departure from Detroit after he has killed his boss in a fist fight. Employed as a mechanic in a taxi garage, the ever-asserting hero tells his employer where he gets off picking on him and is fired, following which the fatal blow takes place. After a series of lifts on the road, Alexander reaches the dam headquarters. He finds disappointment at first in trying to land work, but eventually is put on the payroll.

Coming to the assistance of Miss Ellis, who experiences motor trouble on the highway, Alexander, as a result, is virtually adopted by the girl and her family until he gets set. As time passes on, he wins a promotion for the first daring life saving stunt involving the truck driver and also gradually wins the affection of the girl. Talbot, a former mechanic in the Detroit garage, has faint recollections about Alexander and when he recalls the incident which led to the hero's sudden flight, he gives him 24 hours to leave town. The injunction causes Alexander to drop his affair with Miss Ellis, much to the satisfaction of Talbot. After Talbot is rescued by the former killer, he reneges on his threat to reveal all, but Alexander comes clean, confesses and is assured the legal support of the organization building the project. The heroine, naturally, promises to wait for her man who is rewarded with another promotion.

Sy Bartlett, Ralph Block and Laird Doyle have patterned an engaging and entertaining screen play. Frank McDonald has done well by the direction. The entire cast is good. Sam Bischoff directed.

Production code seal, 1,753. Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

"The Music Goes 'Round"

(Columbia)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 18.—Relying principally on that infectious, tantalizing and ubiquitous tune, "The Music Goes 'Round and Around," Victor Schertzinger has bundled all the action into the last few reels of this musical. Up to the time Harry Richman introduces the zippy number in an extravaganza in which he is interested vitally, the pace unfortunately is slow. However, as soon as the first strains of the popular melody are heard, the picture takes on life.

To bring out variations effectively, Schertzinger has Herman Bing sing the song in his own peculiar style, while Michael Bartlett renders the fascinating number in an operatic vein. The composers themselves, Edward Farley and Michael Riley, join in a duet, explaining the words with the aid of an enlarged cornet. Finally, Richman sings it and then he has a first night audience attending his opening doing the same.

Lavishly produced, this film has one of the best current exploitation possibilities. Everyone knows about the song by now and it's a matter of telling the paying public that the song is a highlight of Richman's picture. Besides the star there are Rochelle Hudson, Walter Connolly, Bing, Bartlett and the composers. There isn't much to the story, which tells of Richman, a prominent Broadway musical star, falling in love with Miss Hudson, leading lady of her father's show boat. The sea-sailing melodrama is one of a by-gone era and is on the verge of sinking into the mortgagee's hands when the hero, incognito, buys an interest. He envisions big things for the troupe on Broadway.

Richman's purpose in adding to his own show the "sizzling" dramatic sketch by the troupe is to create a few laughs. Broadway doesn't receive the thespians as Miss Hudson had anticipated and this brings about discord in the romance. However, when Richman follows his fair maiden to the waterfront and sings "Rolling Along" to her a la "Romeo and Juliet," the heroine capitulates and comes a running to her Richman with open arms. Richman has a powerful voice and it is heard effectively several times. Miss Hudson confines her talents to acting.

Production code seal, 1,900. Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

"Dancing" and Show Lead in Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 18.—One cheerful spot in a dull week that still felt the sting of winter and tied-up traffic, was the Earle. With the stage combination of Bebe Daniels, Ben Lyon, Toby Wing and Sammy Cohen, to lure in the customers, the house grossed $24,000 and would have hit higher were it not for the continued bad weather break. The film was "Dancing Feet."

Starting its grind showing on Wednesday, Chaplin's "Modern Times" got off to a good holiday start, playing to 1,941 more admissions than "City Lights," which played at the same house (Erlanger) five years ago, on its first day. Business took a nosedive yesterday in face of snow and sleet storms, but the week should gross well.

"The Ghost Goes West" topped the house average a trifle with $9,000 at the Aldine and was held a second week. "Every Saturday Night" took a fall at the Fox and was yanked after five days. The $11,500 taken by "The Milky Way" at the Stanley was only so so.

Total first run business was $78,800. Average is $77,900.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 13:

"GHOST GOES WEST" (U. A.)
ALDINE—(1,200), 40c-55c-65c, 7 days. Gross: $9,000. (Average, $8,160)

No Fuel; Houses Close

OMAHA, Feb. 18.—An acute shortage of fuel in western Iowa and many sections of Nebraska is forcing many theatres to close. With the roads blocked it is impossible to truck in coal or oil. Nebraska houses have closed at Superior, Nelson, Emerson, Pilger and Arcadia, while similar shut-downs have been recorded in the Iowa towns of Battle Creek, Sanborn and Waverly.

Do Three for Shirley

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 18. — Radio has three stories in preparation for Anne Shirley, and the first complete script which receives an okay from Sam Briskin will be the first to go before the cameras. The stories are "M'liss," "Daddy and I," and "Mother Carey's Chickens."

"Goes" Leads San Francisco In Dull Week

San Francisco, Feb. 18.—Only two houses made much impression on the box-office lethargy last week. At the Paramount "Anything Goes," topping a dual bill with "Man Hunt," reached $14,200. This was over normal by $2,700.

At the Orpheum "The Invisible Ray," with "Whispering Smith Speaks," garnered $9,000, up by $2,200. "The Lady Consents" was good for $15,000 at the Golden Gate. All the other first runs, with the exception of the 400-seat Clay which had "The New Gulliver" on the screen, failed to get to first base.

Total first run business was $67,500. Average is $73,800.

"Rose Marie" Hits Oklahoma City Top

Oklahoma City, Feb. 18.—"Rose Marie" at the Criterion brought them out in the cold to the tune of $7,500, which was $2,500 over the house average.

The only other house to make a dent in the general lethargy was the Liberty which had "The Widow from Monte Carlo" and a stage show for four days. The take was $2,200. Normal for a week is $3,000.

Total first run business $15,800. Average is $14,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 15:

"ROSE MARIE" (M-G-M)

Looking 'Em Over

"Hair Trigger Casey"

(Atlantic-Berke)

All the melodramatic incidents that make for die-hard western fans a pleasing offering are present in this picture. As westerns go, however, it is an ordinary production.

Jack Perrin, as captain of a cavalry unit near the Mexican border, is called back to his ranch, warned to be prepared for trouble. He encounters his foreman in a scrap with a Chinaman before he leaves and orders for him to return soon follow. At the ranch a cowhand has been murdered and Perrin, with plenty of he-man dialogue, is soon on the trail which involves the smuggling of Chinese over the border. After some riding, shooting and general action sequences the piece ends with the capture of the criminals.

Also in the cast are Betty Mack, the feminine interest; Wally Wales, Phil Dunham, Ed Cassidy and Robert Walker.

Harry Fraser directed from a story by Monroe Talbot. Robert Cline did the photography.

"Two Cities" Gets $14,000, Montreal

Montreal, Feb. 18.—Two outstanding engagements featured the week. The Palace soared to $14,000 on "Tale of Two Cities" despite the continued Arctic weather and the film was held over for a second week. At Loew's "Hitch Hike Lady" on the screen and a Major Bowes' Unit on the stage brought $13,000.

"Dangerous," top feature of the duo at the Capitol, registered $9,000, while the Princess touched par at $7,000 with a double bill headed by "Professional Soldier." Second week of "La Maternelle" accounted for $3,000 at the Princess after a first week of $6,000 which is the tops for this house under the current policy.

Apart from hockey matches, which are drawing better than a month ago, there wasn't much opposition until Feb. 14, when St. Valentine's Day was observed with many dances.

Total first run business was $46,000. Average is $41,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 15:

"DANGEROUS" (W.B.)
"THE WIDOW FROM MONTE CARLO" (W.B.)

Set Big Lloyd Tieup

Chicago, Feb. 18.—The Paramount exchange has arranged a tieup with the Milk Foundation here, whereby 800,000 milk bottles will be capped with a special printed top telling of the opening of "The Milky Way," when the date for the premiere of the Harold Lloyd comedy is set.

To Begin Stage Shows

Cleveland, Feb. 18.—Jack Benny will inaugurate stage shows at Loew's State here, starting late in February, according to Harry E. Long, Loew's division manager.

"Story" and Calloway Wow Indianapolis

Indianapolis, Feb. 18.—"Exclusive Story," plus a stage appearance of Cab Calloway and his Cotton Club Revue, shot the take at Loew's up to about $15,000 last week. Average for the house is $4,500. Prices were upped for the attraction from the established 25c and 40c to 25c-35c-55c.

With this exception, the local houses continued to suffer from the tag-end of the cold wave. Ice-sheathed streets helped keep prospective customers home at night. The Apollo, showing "The Jones Family," reported the worst week in many years, with receipts about 35 per cent of average.

Total first run business was $34,300. Average is $26,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 14:

"THE JONES FAMILY" (20th-Fox)

Long Hearings Seen Barring Copyright Law

Administration Favors April 15 Closing

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Efforts of Administration leaders to bring the Congress session to a close about April 15 today were seen as threatening enactment of the copyright legislation, in view of plans of Representative Sirovich of New York, chairman of the House Patents Committee, to devote a full four weeks to hearings on the measure.

Under the committee's program, the hearings would not conclude until March 19, which would leave but a month in which to draft and submit a report, secure action in the House and come to an agreement with the Senate, which passed the Duffy bill at the last session.

Members of the committee have made it clear that they will not accept the Duffy bill as it stands, one of the points of controversy being the $250 minimum for infringement, so that it will be necessary to send the legisla-

Bickering Resumed Over Alien Actors

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Resumption of hearings by the House Immigration Committee on the Dickstein bill to bar alien actors today was marked by a renewal of hostilities between Representatives Celler of New York and Kramer of California.

Celler brought to the hearing a report from the British Embassy in Washington as to England's policy with respect to the admission of alien actors, in which, he said, it was declared that no legitimate actor or actress had been barred in the past three years and that only 30 vaudeville and cabaret performers had been barred out of some 1,800 admitted.

The report was immediately challenged by Kramer, who declared he

Atlas Reduces Investment in Para-Warners

Is Practically Out of Latter Company

The investments of the Atlas Corp., in Paramount and Warner Bros. securities were appreciably reduced during 1935, the annual report of the investment company to its stockholders discloses.

The largest reduction in the Atlas Paramount holdings resulted from the sale by Atlas of its controlling interest in the Blue Ridge Corp., to Harrison Williams, investment operator. Blue Ridge held 300,000 shares of Paramount stock. Certificates of deposit for $454,000 of additional Paramount securities which were listed by Atlas at the end of 1934 were exchanged for securities of the reorganized Paramount during 1935. The new Paramount securities are still held by the company. Atlas disposed of $800,000 of Warner Bros. Pictures debentures during 1935. It is reported that this practically eliminates Atlas as a Warner investor.

The most appreciable Atlas gain in

New RCA Recording Is Shown to SMPE

Features of RCA's latest development in recording by use of ultra violet rays instead of white light were described last night by Glenn L. Dimmick at a meeting of the New York section of the S.M.P.E. A demonstration also was given with Lauretta Lee singing "It's Sleepy Time Down South," Joseph Lilly giving a piano rendition and a symphony orchestra playing Kurt Weil's score for Max Reinhardt's "Eternal Road." Clarity of tone and elimination of lisping and hissing effects effectively contrasted the new development with the old.

None of the producers have put the new system to use, it was stated. It

Boys on Girders

Indianapolis, Feb. 19.—Police uncovered a lair floored with planks laid over girders high in the flies of the Tower where half a dozen street urchins have been living since October. The house formerly was the Rialto, a burlesque spot, and the lads have been undisturbed since it was switched to films and no one took occasion to look backstage.

Rugs and properties had been carried aloft by the boys. Entrance was through a skylight. Louis Goulden, manager, says he'll nail the skylight shut.

K.C. Independents End Giveaway Pool

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 19.—The 14 independent exhibitors who have operated a Sweepstakes pool for several weeks have discontinued the promotion for several reasons, according to E. Rolsky, president of the I. T. O.

One was a belief that such promotions lose their pull if used every night in the week. While the venture had been fairly successful, near-zero temperatures the past 35 days have prevented the plan from accumulating the effect expected. Another factor was the ruling of Attorney General Roy McKittrick's office last week that Bank Night was a lottery.

Independents have been the moving force behind the effort to get all giveaways, cash and premium, eliminated in the city, and they felt that discontinuing their chief offering might help to get the move toward elimination under way.

Members of the Sweepstakes pool and backers of the promotion recently were sued by Affiliated Enterprises, Inc., Bank Night patentees, for an accounting and damages.

Bernerd Now Heads All of G. B. Sales

Jeffrey Bernerd is now head of all G.B. sales, he stated yesterday upon his arrival on the Majestic. Heretofore, his distribution activities have been limited to England, but the new duties include the United States as well.

The added duties do not mean any change in the American setup, Bernerd explained. He expects to remain from four to five weeks during which he will visit Hollywood to look over production and talent possibilities.

While here Bernerd will discuss

Pioneer Will Make Four for U.A., Goldwyn

New Season List to Be 32-34, He States

John Hay Whitney's Pioneer Pictures will add four features to the United Arists program for the new season, bringing the company's list for 1936-'37 to a total of 32 to 34 pictures, Samuel Goldwyn said yesterday on his arrival from the coast. Pioneer still has two to make on its current Radio deal.

Pioneer's four will be all-Technicolor productions and a possible five additional features on the U. A. new season list also will be in color, Goldwyn said. Walter Wanger, David O. Selznick and Alexander Korda may produce one color picture each, while Goldwyn himself may contribute two. These would be "Goldwyn Follies" and "Hurricane."

The new season U. A. list, the largest in the company's history, will be made up of eight from Goldwyn, four from Pickford-Lasky, five from Selznick, four from Wanger, four from Pioneer, six from Korda, one from Douglas Fairbanks and a possible additional feature from either Walt Dis-

New Stay Obtained On Sales Tax Levy

A further stay restraining distributors from collecting the two per cent city sales tax on film rentals from exhibitors, and the city from collecting it from distributors, resulted yesterday from an appeal by the I. The appeal was taken by Harlou,

CIRCLE 7-3100

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, Feb. 19.

A PROWL through the night finally brought us to the fringe of Hollywood where one of its most colorful characters, little known and less appreciated by the film colony, resides. Before we left New York, Ali Gaga had commissioned us to ferret out Mox Shobbus, to find out what sort of a guy he was. On our own, we wanted to meet Mox anyway. One of our most ardent subscribers could not be ignored and besides paying some attention to an exhibitor, that forgotten man in Hollywood, would be different. . . .

How does a theatre operator, even on the fringe of Hollywood, feel about Hollywood? That seemed a pertinent query. So we proceeded to find out and discovered that, as an exhibitor, Shobbus wanted to become a producer. So far the trail has failed to unearth a producer who would even talk to an exhibitor unless he couldn't help himself. We asked Mox why, since he felt the way he did, he took no action. "There's L. B. Mayer, Sam Katz, Adolph Zukor and Phil Goldstone—all were exhibitors at one time or another. Now they're producers," mused Mox. . . .

"Some day—even with all my headaches—I'm going into production," he continued. "I've even got a name for my company and some rough ideas."

"And the name of your company, Mr. Shobbus, will be——?"

"I'm calling it 'The No Studios Everywhere Corp,'" he said, waxing so enthusiastic it was impossible to bottle all of his flow of conversation.

"And my pictures will be produced at 'No Place-Anywhere.'

"We start just like bankers—make plans—y'know—blueprints. We'll hold conferences, decide on a story, cast it, get a perfect script and a final okay all around." . . .

"When we make deals, we'll make only option deals. F'ringstinks. We hire some one to work for $500 a week the first year with an option to pay $400 the second, $300 the third, etc. So, after five years of hard work, everybody breaks even. Then we close up the studio which we never had in the first place.

"People want employment from us already," continued Mox. "A secretary in N'York wrote, saying she is willing to pay us $10 a week to work for us in the office we won't have in Carolina, or Jersey or any other place. . . .

"I'm just getting up my prospectus which I'm going to send to my partner in Florida where he won't be despite any talks Joe Kennedy may have had with Governor Schulz."

"And your financial setup, Mister Shobbus?"

"It's already in Washington, just like Loew's debentures issue. We're going to have no stock, no bonds, and no dividends at no time. So we'll have no receivers and no money."

Mox has other ideas, all worth recording and reporting for future industry guidance and impact. For instance, he heard John Clark had been here for Twentieth Century-Fox; that Leo Spitz and Ned Depinet for Radio, Neil Agnew for Paramount would be here in a couple of days plotting and planning for next season. He was counting his day's take. "I'll make an advance deposit on it that Roosevelt don't have to worry about inflation. Why should he? Didn't all the salesmen get plenty of inflation at their conventions from their bosses last year?"

"But this year I'll be waiting. So here I give notice to all in writing 'No booking from fancy Montgomery Ward catalogues in Technicolor.' I'll believe it when I see it in trade papers, maybe. With me, when salesmen storm the citadel, it's going to be cold kishke. Make me an offer and I'll give you half.

That's my idea of inflation." . . .

Claims "Music" in Suit

Suit has been filed in the U. S. District Court here by William Harold Hodgson, Chicago, composer, against Eddie Farley and Mike Riley, alleging that "Music Goes 'Round and Around," is identical, except in title, with his original composition, "Orange Number."

In addition to Farley and Riley, other defendants in the suit are: Columbia, Rockwell O'Keefe, Inc., distributors of the song, and Select Music Publications, publishers.

Jack Cohn, vice-president of Columbia, last night stated he had heard nothing about the suit.

"Times" Big in London

LONDON, Feb. 19.—"Modern Times," which has just ended its first week at the Tivoli, broke all existing house records with a gross of $40,000, it was stated by G.B. officials. The Tivoli, a 2,000-seat house, is one of the G.B. string.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 19.—Ben Shearer, who runs the B. F. Shearer theatre equipment company is here in connection with opening of a Los Angeles office. A. H. Pugh will be the manager.

New Dramatist Pact Ready in a Few Days

The contract committee of the Authors' League will complete the drafting of its new basic agreement for managers, incorporating the provisions for the control of sale of film rights to stage plays, within the next few days. The views of managers on the new film provisions were heard by committee members at a meeting with the League of N. Y. Theatres on Tuesday, which was the final joint session in advance of the drafting of the new agreement. The contract committee advised the managers that their views would be given consideration in the drafting of the pact.

On its completion the new agreement will be submitted to the Authors' League council at a meeting early next week and will then be offered to the membership for ratification. A final meeting with managers late next week may be held in advance of the effective date of the new agreement, March 1.

Present indications are that the new pact will call for drastically increased participation by authors in film rights to plays, gauged by the amount of the financial interest of a film company in the play's ownership. Competitive bidding for film rights has been restricted, the authors claim, by the increasing appearance of film companies as play sponsors.

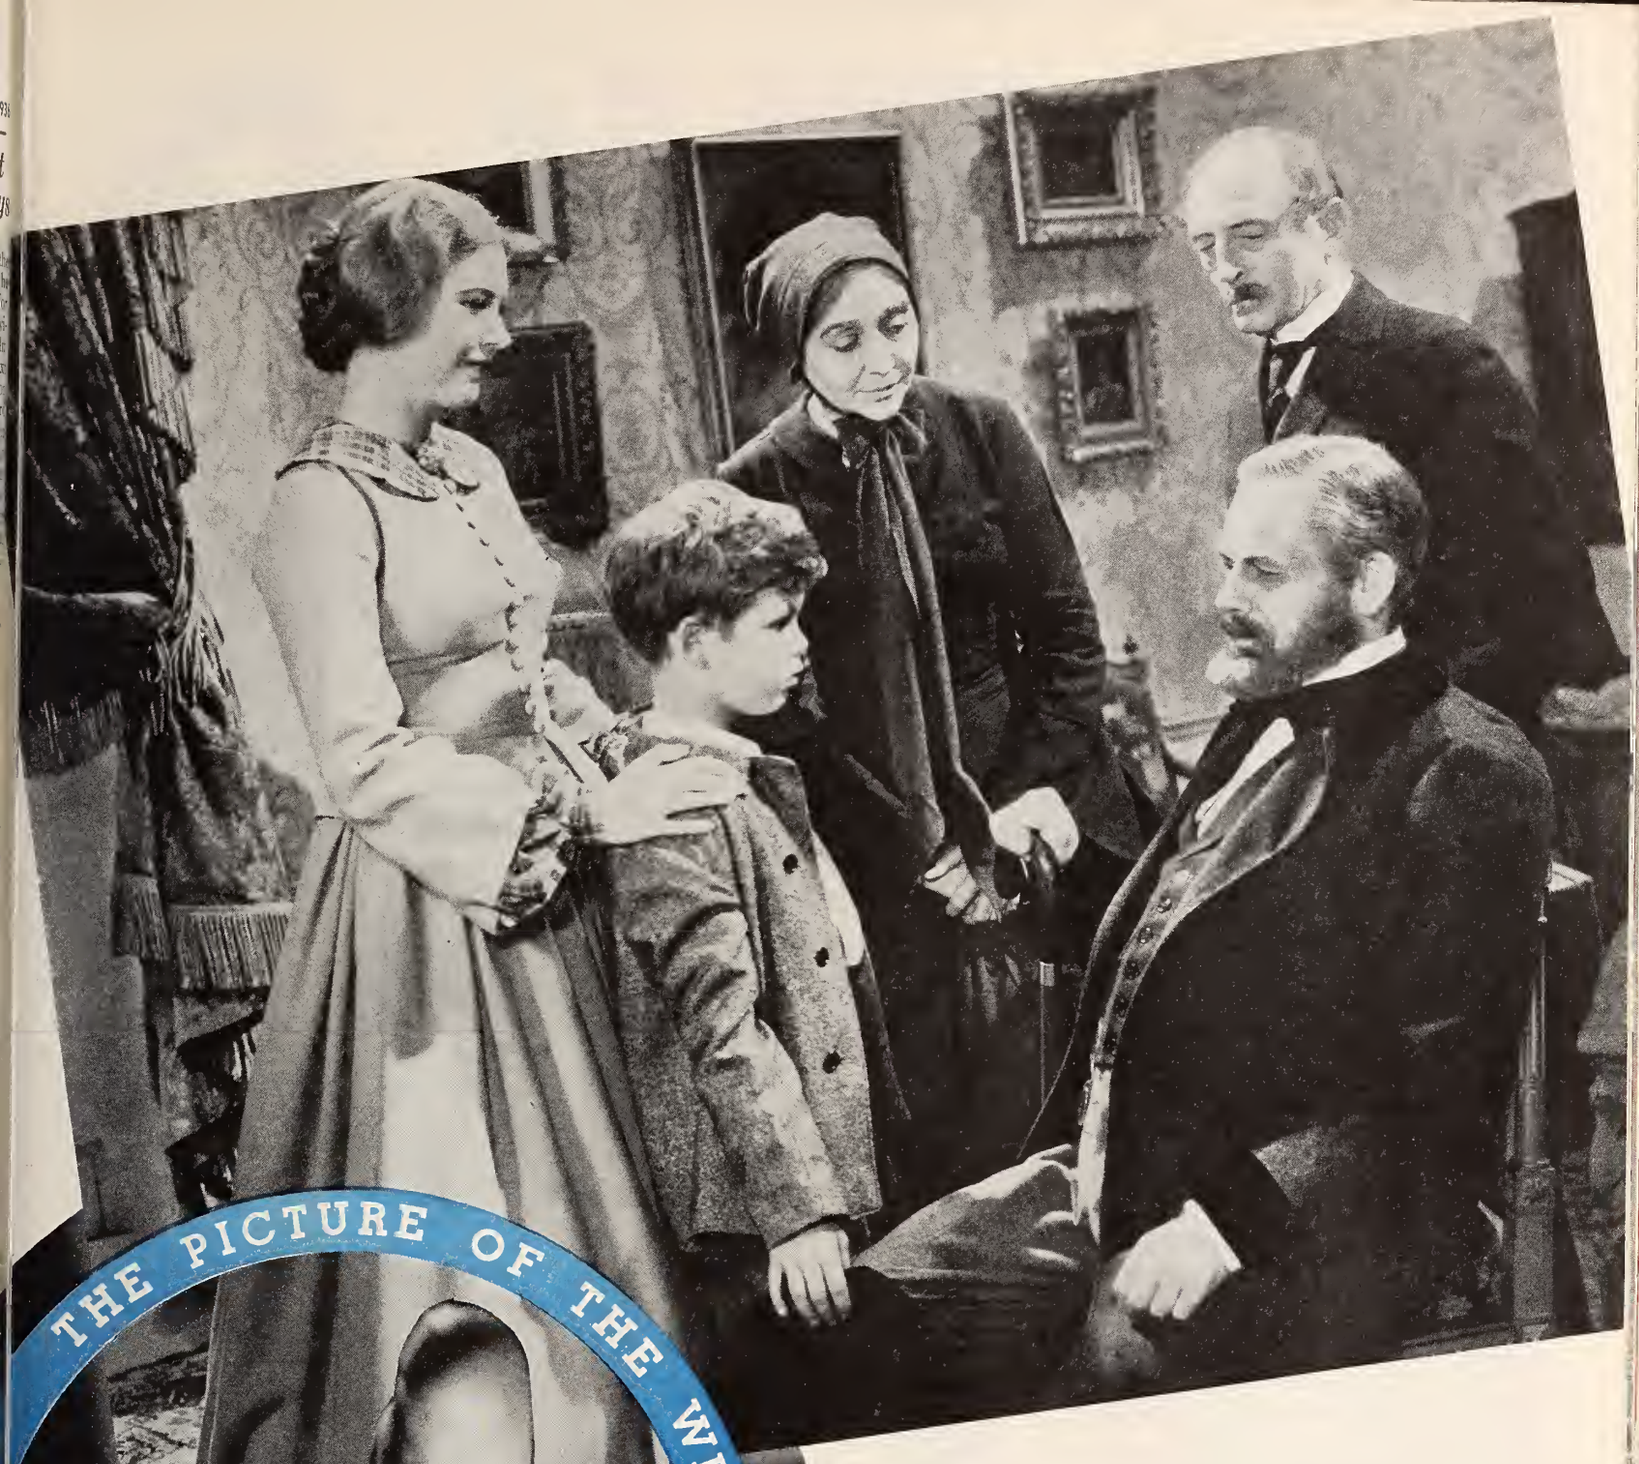
Standard Contract Upheld in Illinois

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—The Illinois Appellate Court has given a sweeping decision in favor of Paramount which upholds the standard exhibition contract in an action against George and John T. Gehring, operators of the Rosewood, for alleged breach of three contracts.

Paramount had appealed from the Municipal Court to the Appellate Court, and the latter court has reversed the Municipal Court's decision of Feb. 8, 1934, giving judgment to Paramount for $3,073.

The opinion was handed down by Judges Scanlan, Friend and Sullivan. It is said to be the first ruling on a damage clause of the standard contract. The case may go to the Supreme Court.

Studio Honors Laemmle



HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 19.—More than 200 Universal studio executives, players, directors and employes, past and present, will attend the anniversary luncheon to be tendered Carl Laemmle on Monday in observance of his 30th anniversary in the industry. The luncheon will be the high spot of the anniversary observances at the studio which will be joined in by many industry executives.

"Shark Island" $21,000

"The Prisoner of Shark Island" at the Center tallied a profitable $21,000. The film is in its second week and still holding up nicely. The second stanza of "Anything Goes" and Isham Jones and his band at the Paramount tapered off to a mild $23,000.

tion to conference if the House passes a bill.

In planning for April 15 adjournment, Administration leaders have indicated that no controversial legislation will be permitted to come up on the floor unless it is part of the President's recovery and relief program. If this attitude is adhered to, difficulty will be encountered in securing House consideration for any measure reported out by the committee.

The hearings will open Feb. 25 and carry through the following two days, during which representatives of Ascap will present their views. Hearings on March 3-5 will be devoted to the Authors' League, dramatists, newspapers and other writing and publishing interests, and the hearings March 10-12 and 17-19 will give oportunity for testimony by film producers, distributors and exhibitors and minor interests such as hotels.

knew of many cases of American actors who had been refused admission to England and read a telegram from David Dunbar saying that in 1934 he was "forced out of Hollywood because aliens are given work in preference to American citizens," and went to England where he obtained a year's contract in films, but was immediately thrown into Broxton Jail and deported for "daring to work there."

Celler declared that the proposed reciprocal arrangement provided in the bill would "merely build a wall" in retaliation for which England would build a higher wall.

Appearing with other witnesses for and against the measure, Martin Beck asserted that it would be impossible to cast American actors for all parts now given to foreigners because while the latter may not be of "distinguished merit" they have the particular qualities required for a particular role.

James Palser Passes

Los Angeles, Feb. 19.—James Palser, a theatre veteran of London, New York and the west coast died here Tuesday after a long illness. He was 85.

Palser started as an usher and rose to manager and executive, later becoming associated with Lily Langtry, Edgar Selwyn, Peggy Wood and Ralph Morgan. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Eleanor Wilkins Palser and a stepdaughter, Mrs. George R. Brennan.

Borrow Rochelle Hudson

Hollywood, Feb. 19.—Paramount has borrowed Rochelle Hudson from Twentieth Century-Fox for the romantic lead in "Poppy," the next W. C. Fields picture. Richard Cromwell will play opposite Miss Hudson. Edward Sutherland will direct.

Looking 'Em Over

"Rhodes"

(G. B.)

Painted on the broad canvas which was South Africa in the 1880's, this picture portrays the highlights in the life of one man, Cecil Rhodes, who, almost alone, and in an incredibly short space of time, carved out for Great Britain a country of fabulous wealth. That one man, whose entire picture this is, has been personified with all the power that is inherent in the role by Walter Huston, whose unquestioned ability in just such a characterization as this, is once again amply demonstrated.

The fact that the picture was produced in England, with English performers, with the exception, of course, of Huston, should make no difference whatever for any audience in this country. The force of Huston's dramatic, wholly human portrayal may be expected to carry to any audience. The performances are uniformly excellent.

Filmed in South Africa, the background scenes are an impressive adjunct to the action, which in themselves add much to the entertainment value of the picture as a whole. Perhaps the strongest portrayal beside that of Huston is the work of Oscar Homolka as the conservative, stern old president of the Transvaal, Paul Kruger, who alone stood in the way of Rhodes' dream of a united South Africa.

Rhodes, a young man, given only six months to live by Basil Sydney, who, as Starr Jameson, becomes Rhodes' physician and lifelong friend, is a diamond digger in Kimberley. Infected by the dream of empire in South Africa, Rhodes, a genius in his ability to make reality of his dream, obtained control of the Kimberley diamond fields. Driven on by his ambition, he obtained concessions from the native king of the Matabeles, north of the Transvaal, formed the British South Africa Co., and became prime minister of the Cape Colony. A battle with the Mataveles, his effort to avoid war with the Boers in the Transvaal, his sparring with Kruger, Jameson's invasion and capture, and Rhodes' surrender of his prime minister's post and his company direction, to save his friend, Jameson, from death, form interesting, often exciting episodes. Rhodes dies before the Boer War, and the eventual complete fruition of his ambitious dream, a united South Africa under the English flag.

A strong picture of a strong man, the picture should be sold without difficulty, and with the cooperation of groups interested in better pictures.

Previewed without production code seal. Running time, 95 minutes. "G."

"Second Bureau"

(Du-World)

While the story lumbers along on heavily emphasized sequences which lead to the climax, this account of the activities of the French military intelligence bureau registers as another commonplace spy drama. The vital elements of an espionage film—poisonings, Mata Hari flirtations and disguises—are all present and the Gallic humor helps out somewhat.

The story involves the counter espionage activities of the German and French governments. The former enlists the aid of Erna Flieder, who is a sort of Mata Hari as she disposes of a Count Brosilow, who has been selling information to both sides. Captain Benoit, of the French office is commissioned to get the plans of a silent airplane engine. With a disguise and the help of Dorothy, a German postoffice clerk, he accomplishes this end. Discovered, he heads for Paris taking Dorothy, who will be implicated, along with him. Their love grows after they reach their goal. Erna is ordered to get rid of Benoit, but she falls in love with him and prevents his murder, to be killed herself. The finish, manages to achieve a few thrills, which are few and scattered in the rest of the film.

Jean Murat does well as Benoit and Vera Korene of the Comedie Francaise handles the Erna Flieder role expertly. Jeanine Crispin, as Dorothy, is excellent as the blonde fraulein who loses her heart to Benoit. Jean Max is the man of the world, Brosilow. Pierre Billon directed.

Adequate English titles interpret the story intelligently and most audiences will be able to follow it.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 105 minutes. "G."

"Three Women"

(Amkino)

In the expected tradition of the Russian film, this glorifies the activity of women in the revolutionary era, personified in the work of three women. They are carried through by the story from the pre-war Czarist conditions of early 1914 to 1919 and the Revolution. The result is

Japan's Film Shows Cut by Regulations

By TETSUYA MORI

Tokyo, Feb. 19.—One of the first moves of the Japan Ass'n of Motion Pictures formed in January has been to bring about a shortening of shows in key cities and in surrounding small towns. Under the new regulations, soon to be issued, key city shows will be limited to three and one-half hours, a cut of a half hour, and small town programs will be cut to four hours, a reduction of a full hour.

Footages will be reduced from 6,000 to 5,000 metres.

The regulations were agreed upon after a visit of association members to the Home Office.

Maintenance of production schedules for the double purpose of cutting costs and meeting release dates are now a topic of discussion among producers here.

In recent months schedules have not been laid out to provide for bad weather or other unforeseen delays. As a result pictures have been presented to the censors for review on the days they have been scheduled for release. In others, release dates have not been kept and delays have been costly.

The Shochiku and Shinko Co's are bringing pressure to bear on their studio organizations for the purpose of increasing efficiency without sacrificing box-office values.

Increasingly close relations between Japan and Manchukuo have raised a number of problems in connection with duties on films and the use of Manchukuoan locations.

Conferences are under way to get some kind of an agreement worked out. Some argument was stirred recently when J. O. made "Fa Taitin" in Manchukuo. When the film was brought back to Japan the Kobe customs insisted that the film was not raw material, but finished product. The taxation threatened to destroy possible profits.

Atlas Reduces Investment in Para-Warners

film securities during the year was, of course, its purchase of 50 per cent of the RCA holdings in RKO. This comprises $2,128,597 of RKO debentures and 263,493 shares of common stock. At the time of the purchase Atlas also acquired a three-year option to purchase the remaining 50 per cent of RCA's holdings in RKO. This investment, the report states, is regarded by the Atlas management as being in the nature of a "special, temporary investment." The description is purely technical, being in conformity with SEC requirements for distinguishing between "investments" and "speculation."

In the report, Floyd B. Odlum, Atlas president, who is a Paramount director, says that it is not the policy of the corporation to manage businesses and that it does not make investments for the purpose of controlling any business or its management.

A suit by an Atlas stockholder is now pending against officers of the company in the local courts alleging that the Atlas underwriting of Paramount stock was a speculative excursion rather than an investment, and charges Odlum with an ambition to become a dominant factor in the film industry.

The Atlas report showed consolidated assets of $103,928,679 at the end of the year as compared with $110,517,809 the year before. The company reported net income of $1,149,052 for 1935, as compared with $1,250,245 for 1934.

Sacramento Getting Ready for "Sutter"

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 19.—The Joe Blumenfeld circuit has leased the Alhambra from F. W. C. for one night for the premiere on March 25 of "Sutter's Gold." After the opening, which is set for $1.65, the film will move to Blumenfeld's Sierra for a continued run. Reason for holding the opening at the Alhambra is that extensive space around the theatre allows for a colorful parade in which city officials will appear in the dress of forty-niners, and for a reconstruction of Sutter's Fort in front of the house, as well as seating accommodations for the crowd expected.

The Chamber of Commerce requested the premiere from Carl Laemmle, since much of the action of the story took place near Sacramento.

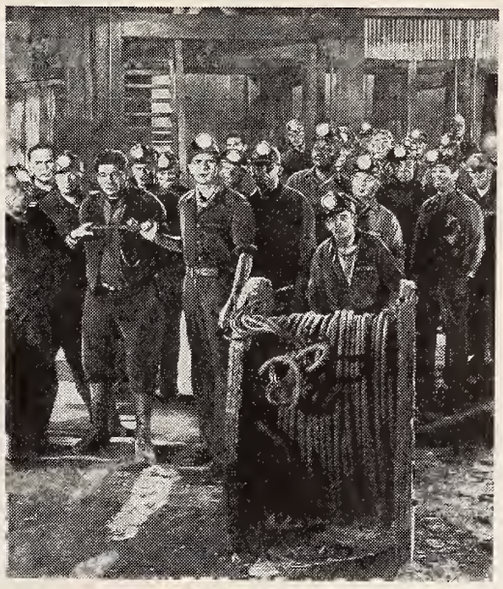
is expected that the companies employing RCA's sound-on-film device shortly will adopt the new method, it was said.

Dimmick told the engineers "the tendency for the high pitched voices of some screen celebrities to sound sharp-edged, especially in the sibilants, has long presented a difficult problem to sound engineers.

"Ordinary white light," the RCA engineer explained, "is composed of a great many different wave lengths. Since it is impracticable to focus all of these wavelengths exactly at one time, those of them that are even slightly out of focus blur the edges of the sound pattern on the negative and introduce distortion in reproduction. Additional distortion of the sound results when the light penetrates too deeply into the film emulsion.

"The new ultra-violet method involves only a few simple adjustments in existing High Fidelity sound recording systems, consisting in the main of an adjustment of the lenses in the optical system for sharper focusing, and in the use of a light filter over an ordinary incandescent lamp, which limits the radiant light energy focused on the film to a narrow band, invisible to the unaided eye. The same method permits a much wider latitude in the process of making accurate positive prints for the theatres," Dimmick said.



Sioux City Cut Off; Gets Film by Plane

SIOUX CITY, IA., Feb. 19.—Isolated from the world, this city and its 12 theatres faced a film shortage last week. Trucks and trains were at a standstill for three days. Theatres played same films over, unable to get new ones in or old ones out.

Tri-States solved the problem for the Capitol, the A house, by sending Paramount's "Anything Goes" by plane. The pilot unable to make a landing, had wrapped the films carefully in heavy sacks, dropped them overboard by long ropes until he could safely unloose them in snowdrifts. Other houses are still hoping for break in the fierce cold.

ney or Charlie Chaplin. Goldwyn said that no picture on the list would be budgeted at less than $500,000 and at least one would be budgeted at $1,500,000. He said it was his belief that pictures of this classification, supplied in sufficient numbers, would provide the answer to double features, low admissions and other cut-rate exhibition practices, by offering enough program strength to be played alone for good returns.

Goldwyn also extolled the individually-owned producer organization and made the prediction that the future will see this type of production organization contributing all of the industry's important product.

"The factory method of production is on the wane," he said. "Salaried producers will soon be a thing of the past. The best production results must come from those who have their own organizations and who stand or fall by their own efforts. The man of ability working for his own company has a greater stake than the same man who has no other interest in a company than his salary."

Goldwyn said that while a new U. A. contract with Disney had not been signed yet a virtual agreement had been reached and there were "no differences" between them. The current Disney contract expires in about a month. He said that while he had received no report of the banning of Chaplin pictures by Germany he was sure that none of them would be banned because "they are not good pictures."

The producer said that the present U. A. executive setup could be regarded as "essentially permanent" and indicated that the post of president might not be filled for some time to come. This post, temporarily occupied by Mary Pickford following the resignation of Al Lichtman some time ago, remains open. Arthur Kelly, vice-president, handles all of the top home office executive functions.

Goldwyn will be here until March 4, when he will leave on the Berengaria for London. He will be there approximately two months on a talent and story hunt and for conferences with Korda.

U. A. Seeks Speedup Of British Release

LONDON, Feb. 19.—Alexander Korda and United Artists plan to shorten in England the present clearance arrangements between pre-release and general release houses by from three to six months, officials of the company stated here today.

Crediting Korda as the sponsor of the idea, Murray Silverstone, U. A. managing director here, said that the new release system could be adopted through the cooperation of the 200 Odeon circuit theatres and the 50 C. J. Donada houses in which U. A. now has a substantial interest.

"In the future," Silverstone said, "all the big films we handle will go to the provincial centers immediately after the West End run, beginning with 'The Ghost Goes West'."

Curbing of double featuring and the use of the so-called "quota" pictures are hoped for as a result of the change, Silverstone added.

Hartford Palace Opened

HARTFORD, Feb. 19.—Loew's Palace has been reopened with a return engagement of "Dancing Lady" and "The Big House," after which it will hold over "Rose Marie" from the Poli, with a stage show. To Roadshow "Zeigfeld"

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 19.—"The Great Ziegfeld" has been definitely set as a roadshow. It will open at the Astor, New York, Easter week at advanced prices, and in 15 other cities about the same time on the same basis.

"Three Women"

occasionally moving drama, but on the whole the film offers comparatively little to the average American patron, having its greatest appeal to those in sympathy with the Russian situation. Superimposed dialogue translations make for ready understanding of the story.

For the followers of Russian films the names of Boris Babochkin and Boris Chirkov, who played in "Chapayev" and "Maxim," respectively, may be of selling value for those metropolitan houses which may have an audience receptive to the picture by reason of its origin.

The three girls suffer in the Russia of 1914, form an inseparable friendship, and, grown, become nurses in the Red army when the revolution breaks out. They serve throughout the campaign against the White Russians, until one of them is killed by White soldiers. Romance enters in the reuniting of the three with a Red soldier they had played with as children, who falls in love with one of the girls. The performances are uniformly good.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"You May Be Next"

(Columbia)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 19.—Dealing with a new form of racketeering, this picture builds excellent suspense and holds the interest throughout. The novelty of the theme is an attempt by Douglas Dumbrille and his mob to engage in hijacking on the air by creating static to interfere with commercial programs. When one network buys him off, Dumbrille's greed spurs him onward to try further. In the course of these efforts he inadvertently jams navy signals. This almost results in the sinking of a battleship and brings the wrath of the Government upon his activities.

Meanwhile, an interesting romantic plot is introduced involving Ann Sothern and Lloyd Nolan, an engineer kidnapped by the mob and rescued by the efforts of Miss Sothern and John Arledge.

Fred Niblo, Jr., and Ferdinand Reyher did the screenplay from a story by Henry Wales and Reyher. The direction of Albert Rogell blends comedy and drama deftly. First rate support is given by Berton Churchill, Nana Bryant, Robert Middlemass and Clyde Dilson. This Sid Rogell production offers several real good flashes and is always in the best of taste. As an action and novelty picture it should please all general audiences.

Production Code Seal, No. 1,786. Running time, 64 minutes. "G."

Walker Shifts Men In Comerford Units

SCRANTON, Feb. 19. — Frank C. Walker, general manager of the Comerford interests, has appointed William J. Cosgrove, former manager of the Strand here, as the firm's representative in Wilkes-Barre.

Cosgrove has been associated with the Comerford theatres for the past 22 years.

Other changes follow:

J. M. Blanchard, manager of the Strand, Sunbury, promoted to manager of the Strand, Scranton.

new product with Arthur Lee, head of the American company. Although G.B. announced 35 this season, 26 will be released. However, an increase in the schedule is anticipated next season, he said.

Five of the group of features Max Schach will produce for Capitol will be distributed in this country by G.B., Bernerd said. He added he brought the contract with him.

Mark Ostrer is now making his headquarters at the studio instead of Maurice Ostrer, it was stated.

Bernerd's trip may be cut short because of the illness of his wife in England. She was scheduled to be operated on yesterday.

Government Settles Warner Tax Claims of the brothers received 13,333 shares of Warner stock in the distribution of the estate.

A deficiency of $229,517 against Jack L. Warner was settled by agreement for $35,000 in a stipulation filed today with the Bureau of Tax Appeals, while, for $30,000 each, the Government will settle assessments of $229,997 against Harry M. Warner and $222,325 against Albert Warner.

The stipulation showed that Federal income taxes for 1930 were paid in the sum of $155,014 by Jack L.; $161,103, by Harry M., and $177,690 by Albert Warner.

Amendment Filed In the F.W.C. Case

Los Angeles, Feb. 19.—William H. Neblett, attorney for T. L. Tally and Corbar Corp., today filed an amendment to the Tally-Corbar petition to have the Fox West Coast bankruptcy adjudication set aside. The amendment alleges that Samuel McNab, the referee in the original proceedings, received a fee of $75,000 from National Theatres and split it with referees Earl Moss, Charles Irwin and Rulert Turnhill.

A copy of the new complaint was forwarded to Federal Judge James Alger Fee, who now has the case under advisement after having heard argument on the petition last week.

Special Session in Missouri Is Denied

Kansas City, Feb. 19.—Although opposing a special session of the Missouri legislature ever since talk of one became current some weeks ago, it was not until last week that Governor Guy B. Park definitely announced he will not call one to appropriate additional funds for relief.

A number of members of the legislature believe such a session would not accomplish its purpose.

The plan now is to turn back to counties and cities the responsibility for relief after April 1, when the $6,000,000 appropriated for such purposes by the last legislature shall have been spent.

Argentine Picture Releases Show Gain

Washington, Feb. 19.—The steadily increasing popularity of films in Argentina is indicated in a report to the U. S. Department of Commerce from its Buenos Aires office. During 1935, the report shows, a total of 524 pictures were released in that country, compared with 477 in 1934 and 404 in 1933. Of the 1935 releases, 412 were in English, 34 in Spanish, 26 in German, 18 in French, and seven in Italian.

It is estimated locally, the report states, that of the total 1935 releases, 409 were produced in the United States, 28 in the United Kingdom, 22 in Germany, 18 in France, seven in Italy, six in Spain, and one in Russia.

The Argentine industry accounted for approximately 21 releases, one each in the 10 small firms and the remaining 11 made and released by four companies, it was stated.

U. S. Films Leading Czechoslovak Sales

Washington, Feb. 19. — American producers regained their strong position in Czechoslovakia during the past year, supplying 53 per cent of the features passed for entry by the Prescreening Commission, according to a report to the U. S. Department of Commerce from the commercial attache at Prague.

Under a contingent system which was in operation for the period from May 5, 1932, to Feb. 8, 1935, American films were virtually excluded from the country. On the latter date a system of registration went into effect which provides basically for a free market.

Hollywood, Feb. 19.—"Little Lord Fauntleroy" will have its world premiere at the Aldine in Phildelphia on March 5, with a minimum of two weeks scheduled.

Chaplin Film Proves a Gold Mine on Coast

Los Angeles, Feb. 19.—"Modern Times"' is just about the biggest sensation here since gold was discovered. In the first seven days, it went to $26,000 at Grauman's Chinese, over normal by $14,000, and at Loew's State it was $6,000 up on a take of $20,000. This is a total of $46,000 for the two houses when other first runs are worrying about rain and resulting bad business.

The only other attraction to make much of an impression was "The Petrified Forest," which garnered $14,200 at Warners' Hollywood and $12,700 at Warners' Downtown. "Next Time We Love" and "The Invisible Ray," on a dual at the Pantages, grossed $5,700, over par by $2,500.

Total first run business was $106,600. Average is $86,150.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 19:

"MODERN TIMES" (U. A.)

Schultzes Go to Coast

Kansas City, Feb. 19.—Clarence Schultz, head of Commonwealth Amusement Corp., who has been in Mexico City with Mrs. Schultz for a short vacation, went to Los Angeles early this week from Mexico City in order to return to Kansas City with Elmer C. Rhoden, head of Fox Midwest, who has been in Honolulu on vacation with Mrs. Rhoden. They're due here Friday.

Weiner Made Salesman

Boston, Feb. 19.—Abe Weiner, office manager for United Artists here, has been appointed to the sales force of the exchange. He succeeds Louis Wechsler who went to New Haven as exchange manager there.

Chase to Buffalo Post

Buffalo, Feb. 19.—Maurice Chase, formerly in the Cincinnati exchange, has been named First Division branch manager here, replacing Basil Brady.

Bay State Enforces Old Billboard Law

Boston, Feb. 19.—Billboard laws passed in 1924 are now being enforced here for the first time as a result of the withdrawal from the U. S. Supreme Court of an appeal from a decision of the State Supreme Court upholding the regulation. The regulations add approximately $5,000,000 to the cost of outdoor advertising in the state.

An injunction against the State Public Works Department had prevented this department from enforcing the laws relative to the size of signs, their location, construction and condition. The attorney general will be brought in on a number of direct and recent violations, Commissioner of Public Works William F. Callahan says. Many billboards and other advertising devices up to within 300 feet of public highways will be removed, Callahan states.

Applications for inspection of billboards and advertising devices within 300 feet of highways must be made at once in writing. The fee is $2.

Warners Benefiting From Hartford WPA

Hartford, Feb. 19.—Warners are receiving a direct benefit from the PWA Federal Theatre program.

Warners pay $800 a week to keep a 4,000-seat house closed. They figure they save money, because when the theatre is open it kills business in nine other Warner houses. Sunday night is the only time the city can stand the extra seats provided at the State.

The WPA, having been unable to wrest the Parsons from the wreckers, will use the State at about $400 a week on Wednesdays, Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays.

With only 1,000 seats being offered for sale, Warners figure they can run it on Sunday nights and pick up the other $400, erasing entirely an $800 expense item.

Selznick Is Honored

Hollywood, Feb. 19.—David O. Selznick has been awarded the January Blue Ribbon of the National Screen Council for "A Tale of Two Cities." The Council includes 200 screen editors of newspapers, film chairmen of state federations of women's clubs and state chapters of the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae.

Bay State Vaude Hit

Boston, Feb. 19.—"There are too many hells and damns on the vaudeville stage," declared Senator William McSweeney today at a hearing before the Legislative Affairs Committee of the House on a bill presented by Rev. Robert Watson of the Lord's Day Alliance to bar obscene language on the stage and to prevent Sunday vaudeville showings before 7 P. M.

Try Out Color Stills

Hollywood, Feb. 19.—Pioneer Pictures has contracted for from 20 to 40 color negatives from the still photographers, W. Wallis Clendenin and Steffen Lindberg Hansen, who are using a newly perfected camera of their own design as well as specially treated film for color stills.

Midwest Snow Cuts Grosses By Over 50%

Kansas City, Feb. 19.—Near-zero temperatures, snow, ice and wind, which have held on steadily for 35 days in this area, have cut grosses more than 50 per cent for all houses.

W. L. Norris, head of the Consolidated Film Exchange, has just returned from a trip through Kansas and southern Missouri. He found that in almost every case grosses were off more than 50 per cent.

However, Norris reports, crop conditions are better in the territory than in some years, particularly in western Kansas, and exhibitors actually are optimistic. Their only worry now is how long the cold will hang on.

Many theatres are closing temporarily. Few, if any, are making expenses; some aren't even making film rental, where the snow has been particularly bad. This is especially true north of Kansas City—in northern Missouri and Kansas and in Iowa and Nebraska. Most of the temporary closings have been in that area.

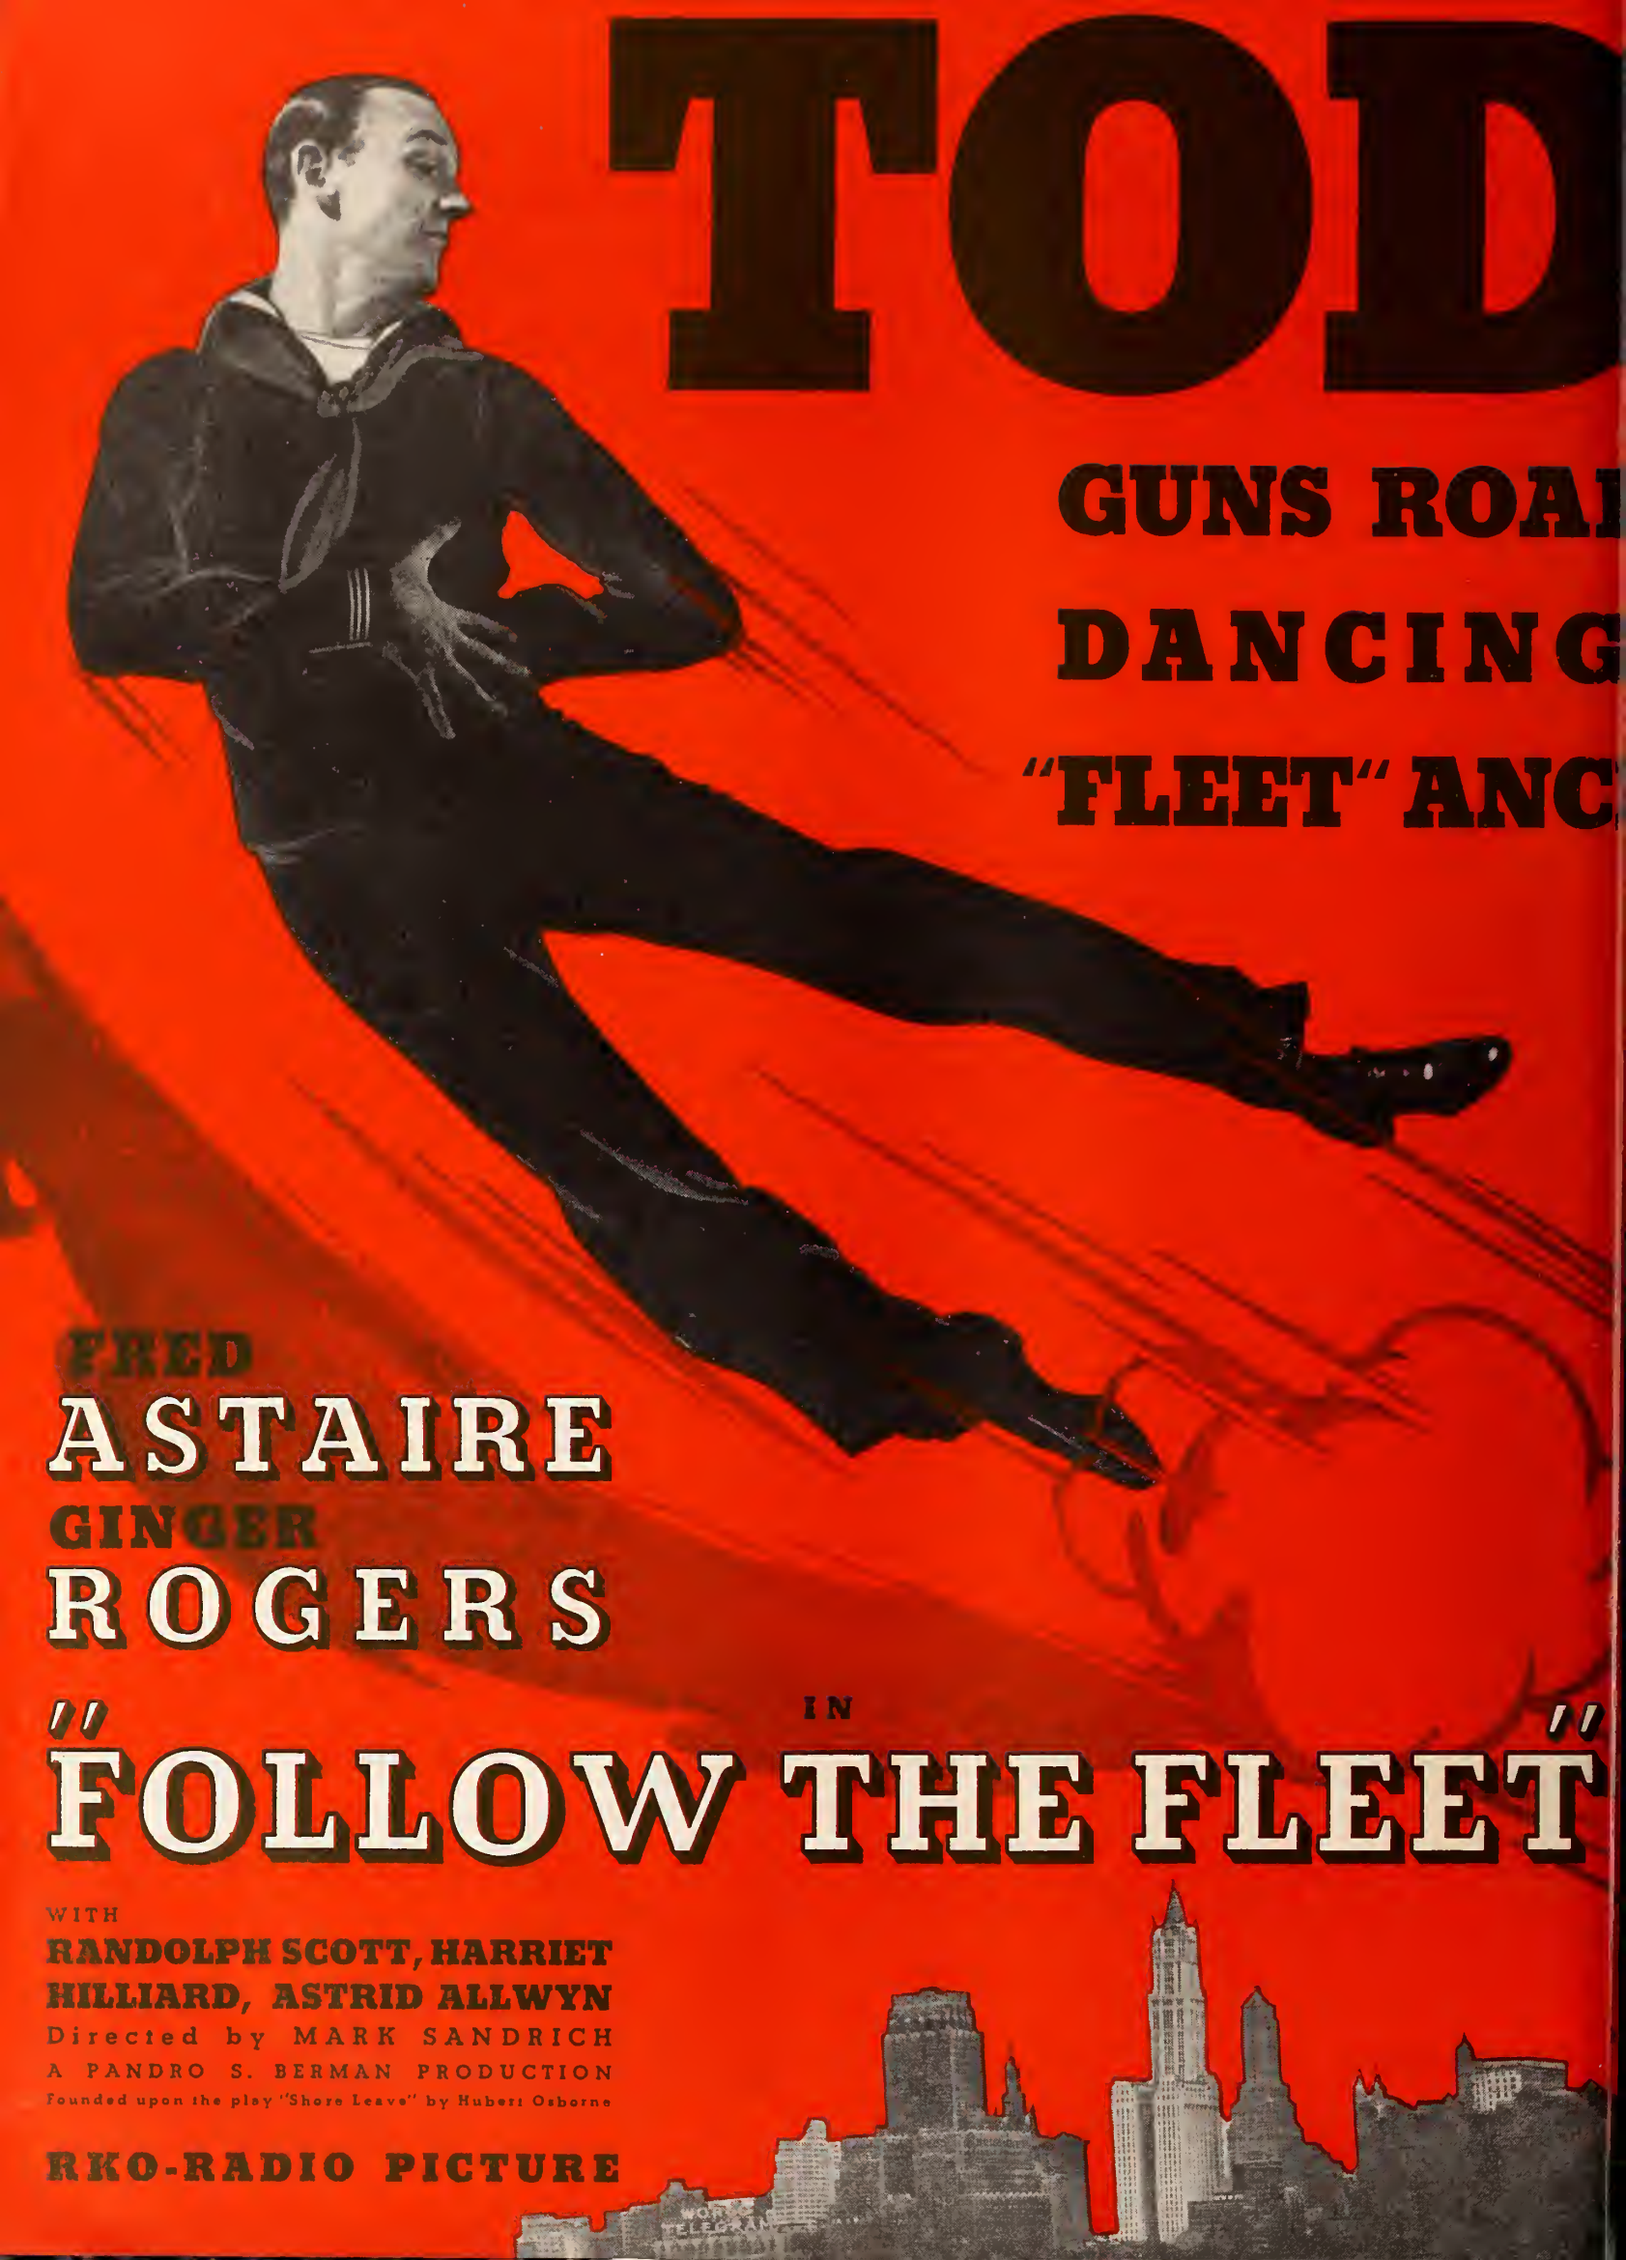
A number of isolated towns are facing fuel shortages, and theatres have been placed on fuel rations. An instance of this is Maryville, Mo., where Doc Cook reports his Tivoli was placed on rations of 500 to 1,000 pounds at a time last week.

Train schedules have been interrupted in many instances, and in some abandoned altogether.

Sam Abend of Film Delivery reports that Ridgeway, Mo., couldn't be served by trains last week. The exhibitor there called the express agent at Laclede, Mo., who told him that there was no train service, but that a Film Delivery truck had just gone through.

The delivery has been getting through and delivering film to customers, although it has required heroic efforts in some cases. All trucks going north now are equipped with shovels, and are moving in convoys. In some cases the number of trucks have been increased simply to supply more manpower for shoveling.

It required five hours for the truck to go from St. Joseph to Maryville, Mo., 40 miles, Feb. 9.



The company has accepted all orders turned down by the express companies, and so far has been able to deliver them.

Seek Reorganization For Sioux City Firm

Des Moines, Feb. 19.—The Frances-Orpheum Building Co. has asked Federal Court permission to reorganize the Orpheum theatre structure at Sioux City under the amended bankruptcy act. Pending a hearing Mar. 10 Federal Judge George C. Scott has granted an injunction restraining creditor interference with operation of the building.

Bonds now outstanding total $973,000, with no interest paid since June 10, 1932. Of the first mortgage bonds secured by a trust deed agreement, $77,000 has been paid.

"Milky Way" Cincy Leader With $14,500

CINCINNATI, Feb. 19.—Five out of the nine local first runs showed up on the profit side last week, with "The Milky Way" getting the cream at the RKO Palace, where it delivered $14,500 at the box-office, a plus figure of $4,500. It was shifted to the RKO Capitol.

"Rose Marie" continued to demonstrate its drawing power at the RKO Capitol, where it played its second downtown week to $10,250, up $3,750, after a smash first week of $23,500 at the RKO Albee. "Petrified Forest" garnered $13,500 at the RKO Albee, where the normal figure is $12,000. "The Lone Wolf Returns," aided by a stage show, headed by Lottie Mayer and diving girls, did $1,000 better than average on a $13,000 take, while "Forced Landing," plus an amateur show for one night at the Strand, was $250 to the good on a $1,750 week. The weather, although moderating in spots, still hovered near zero most of the week.

Total first run business was $63,800. Average is $60,200.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending February 11:

Majestic Now First Run

COLUMBUS, Feb. 19. — The RKO Majestic has moved into the first run division now. This originally was a first run spot until it went dark early in October concurrently with opening of the RKO Grand, acquired by the circuit several months ago. It reopened with second runs on Christmas Day.

This gives this 290,000 population town five first run houses.

Dixie Show Formed

HIGH POINT, N. C., Feb. 19.—Dixie Model Show, Inc., has been chartered to own and operate general theatrical enterprises. The incorporators are Mrs. J. P. Bolt, W. H. Royal and Hazel Bolt Royal.

"Tonight," Revue, High in Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 19.—"Two for Tonight" and the Earl Carroll Vanities were high despite another snowy week with a $10,800 take at a 55-cent top at Fox's Palace. This is $5,800 above average.

"Rose Marie" at Fox's Wisconsin rated second high for the week, grossing $8,000, just average business for that house. Business at the other houses, primarily because of continued blizzards, was below par.

Total first run business was $28,100. Average is $23,000.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Feb. 13:

"THE GHOST GOES WEST" (U. A.)

Flu Epidemic Bumps San Francisco Trade

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 19.—This city has a good sized influenza epidemic scare on its hands, with something like 13,000 school children ill, and most of the schools closed as a result. Last year this time some 5,000 kids were out of school.

Warnings have been issued by health authorities to avoid crowds. With the weather soaking wet for the past 10 days, as the result of several gales, some of the theatres have been badly hit. Down the peninsula and in the east bay regions the situation is the same with many of the theatres taking it on the chin. Spring, however, is just around the corner and the situation is expected to clear up shortly.

Interstate Refuses Offer

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 19.—Interstate Circuit, Inc., has rejected the proposal of Mayor C. K. Quin that it lease the Municipal Auditorium one night weekly to provide for large crowds that have been drawn to theatres operated here by the company. Interstate officials, in declining the Mayor's offer, said it would cost them $22,000 to wire the auditorium for sound pictures.

"Hands" Cast Is Shifted

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 19. — Warners have made two changes in the cast of "The Law in Her Hands." Warren Hull has replaced Craig Reynolds, who is still working in "Golden Arrow," and Matthew Fain has replaced George E. Stone, who is ill. Al Sheehan has been added to the cast.

McCann New Censor

WINNIPEG, Feb. 19.—C. M. McCann has been named chairman of the Manitoba Board of Censors. He succeeds Looksley McNeill, who has become private secretary to Premier John Bracken. McCann was formerly civic service commissioner in Manitoba.

"Rose Marie" In St. Louis Gets $19,000

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 19.—"Rose Marie" at Loew's topped the week with a draw of $19,000, over average by $10,000. It was held over.

The Shubert-Rialto also got into the profit division with $9,800 for "The Milky Way" and "Another Face," or $3,300 above average. The Orpheum had an average week with $8,500 for "The Lady Consents" and "It's a Great Life."

Principal attractions in opposition were furnished by the Municipal Auditorium and its free shows.

The weather continued in the sub-zero strata several days, being far below the seasonal average for this period of the year.

Total first run business was $53,300. Average is $46,000.

"Obsession" Pulls $4,100 In Lincoln

LINCOLN, Feb. 19. — "Magnificent Obsession," a natural here because of the presence of Robert Taylor, Nebraska boy, in the cast, ran the Stuart up to $4,100, the best gross for the house since early in the year. It was $1,000 over average and the pace was maintained with the thermometer at zero or below all but one day.

Roadshowing of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" at the Varsity got $2,600, which was 100 per cent over the ordinary priced average for seven days. This was strictly on matinee strength, the nights dying. At the Lincoln "King of Burlesque" got $2,400, $200 up.

Total first run business was $12,200. Average is $9,850.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending February 11:

No. Carolina Adds Two

CHARLOTTE, Feb. 19.—North Carolina Theatres, Inc., has added the Carolina and Granada in Lexington to its circuit.

M. S. Philips, now manager of the State here, will take charge of the two new theatres. Neil McGill, manager of the Victory in Salisbury, will come here to manage the State. Gene Street, manager of the Carolina here and supervisor of the Imperial will supervise the management of the State.

Bill Hits Sunday Prices

BOSTON, Feb. 19.—Sunday and holiday advances in theatre tickets will be illegal in Massachusetts if House Bill No. 737, filed with the clerk of the House by Daniel J. Hayden and referred to the Committee on Mercantile Affairs, is passed. Top prices are, in many cases, put into effect earlier on Sundays and holidays in this state because of the shorter operating period. Exhibitors generally oppose the measure.

Shaw to Springfield

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 19. — Harry Shaw, Poli-New England division manager, has transferred William MacDermott, assistant at the Poli, Worcester, to the Poli, Springfield. Walter Kessler, formerly at the Springfield house, has gone to a Loew house in Jersey City. Several other changes will be made shortly, it is reported.

"Dancing Feet" and Show Lead in Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 18.—One cheerful spot in a dull week that still felt the sting of winter and tied-up traffic, was the Earle. With the stage combination of Bebe Daniels, Ben Lyon, Toby Wing and Sammy Cohen, to lure in the customers, the house grossed $24,000 and would have hit higher were it not for the continued bad weather break. The film was "Dancing Feet." Starting its grind showing on Wednesday, Chaplin's "Modern Times" got off to a good holiday start, playing to 1,941 more admissions than "City Lights," which played at the same house (Erlanger) five years ago, on its first day. Business took a nosedive yesterday in face of snow and sleet storms, but the week should gross well.

"The Ghost Goes West" topped the house average a trifle with $9,000 at the Aldine and was held a second week. "Every Saturday Night" took a fall at the Fox and was yanked after five days. The $11,500 taken by "The Milky Way" at the Stanley was only so so.

Total first run business was $78,800. Average is $77,900.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 13:

ALDINE—(1,200), 40c-55c-65c, 7 days. "GHOST GOES WEST" (U. A.) Gross: $9,000. (Average, $8,160)

Warners Plan Expansion of Coast Houses

Bernhard, Sears Leave to Study Situation

Warner Theatres, it is learned authoritatively, are planning expansion of the circuit's holdings on the west coast. Joseph Bernhard, general manager of the circuit, and Gradwell L. Sears, southern and western sales manager of Warners, leave today for the coast to study the situation, with a view to the circuit's next moves in an effort to fill the gaps in the theatre holdings in strategic locations on the coast.

Operating in approximately 23 states, there are some 450 theatres in the circuit, although the greatest strength lies in Pennsylvania, where there are more than 130 houses, or approximately one-third of the total. On the coast the circuit has comparatively few theatres, the most recent listing showing one in Washington, two in Oregon, and 12 in California. Practically all of the California group are located in the neighborhood of Los Angeles, with three in that city, three in Santa Barbara, and one each in Beverly Hills, Fresno, Hollywood, Huntington Park, San Bernardino and San Pedro.

Grainger Successor Up at Chicago Meet

A successor to E. C. Grainger, who resigned recently as eastern division sales manager for Twentieth Century-Fox, may be named at the company's Chicago sales conference this weekend, John D. Clark, general sales manager, said yesterday on his return from the coast.

Clark and Grainger, with other Twentieth Century-Fox eastern sales executives, will leave for the Chicago meeting today. Grainger's resignation will be effective April 15, when he becomes general manager of the Feiber & Shea circuit. Following the Chicago meeting, Clark will return to Hollywood to resume conferences

Court Fines Fox $235,082 As Penalty for Contempt

William Fox yesterday was fined $235,082 in connection with a punishment order for contempt of court signed by Federal Judge William Bondy, who directed that the former film executive be taken into custody by a U. S. marshal and held until the fine was paid. Judge Bondy also assessed Fox $10,000 court costs which he directed should be paid by Feb. 28 to Cravath, de Gersdorff, Swaine & Wood, attorneys for the Capital Co., plaintiff in a judgment action against Fox out of which the contempt citation arose.

Hirsh, Newman, Reass & Becker, Fox's attorneys, obtained an immediate stay of Judge Bondy's order pending an appeal to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals. A hearing of the appeal probably can not be had before late in March.

The $235,082 fine would be paid to the Capital Co. in satisfaction of the unpaid balance of what was originally a $285,000 judgment obtained by it against Fox for the latter's alleged liability on a defaulted lease on the Fox, San Francisco. Samuel B. Stewart, of Standard's counsel, sought to examine Fox last fall on his asserted inability to satisfy the judgment and when Fox failed to answer a subpoena for this examination he was cited for contempt. The former film executive was reported receiving medical attention in Toronto at the

Motors Show Fails To Disturb Miami

MIAMI, Feb. 20.—General Motors opened its free show and exhibit, "The Parade of Progress," here on Tuesday, but after two days of performance local exhibitors said they had noticed practically no drop in business.

This locality, however, may not be an accurate test ground for the effect of the free competition on theatres, as Florida, and particularly the Miami section, is experiencing one of its greatest seasons on record. The General Motors' exhibit has attracted good crowds, but it cannot be expected to cut into theatre attendance seriously during an exceptional season such as this. With Greater Miami's present population estimated at 500,000 as compared with a normal summer population of 160,000, the local theatres are experiencing their share of the business.

Mitchel Wolfson of the Wometco circuit said that he anticipated little

Report $111,355 as Six-Month Roxy Net

Operation of the Roxy for the 29-week period ended Jan. 2 showed a profit of $111,355.50 before interest on funded indebtedness, arrears on taxes and depreciation, it was indicated in a report filed yesterday with Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey by Howard S. Cullman, trustee.

Approximately $309,000 in back taxes and penalties have been paid since June 14, 1934, the report adds. All current taxes have been paid in full. Remaining back taxes and penalties to be paid total $45,143.12. A rise of 14 per cent in attendance for the 29-week term is also noted.

Rift Indicated on Copyright Measure

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Indications of a serious rift among members of the House Patents Committee were seen today by observers here in the remarks on copyright made last night in a radio address by Congressman Deen of Georgia, a member of the committee.

Calling for a speedy enactment of the Duffy Bill, Deen criticized his committee for its failure to take action. He made no mention of the four weeks of hearings announced yesterday by Chairman Sirovich, pissibly seeing in the long drawn out consideration the possibility that the measure may be talked to death.

The Georgia Congressman attacked Ascap for its pyramiding of fees and assailed the $250 minimum penalty for infringement as entirely out of proportion to the damage which may be

Para. 1936-37 List Totals 62 Pictures

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 20.—According to present assignments, Paramount will have 62 films on the 1936-7 production list. A. M. Botsford heads the list from the standpoint of quantity with 12. Winfield Sheehan is down for 10 which he will produce at General Service Studios. Cecil B. De Mille's activities will be greatly increased. William LeBaron also will make six, as will Harold Hurley. Arthur Hornblow, Benjamin Glazer, Frank Lloyd and Ernst Lubitsch are down for four each, and Paramount will have another six "Hopalong Cassidy" action films by Harry Sherman.

M-G-M Seeks Eliminations Of Holdovers

Obligation Limited to Actual Releases

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 20.—A new M-G-M sales policy under which the company's obligations in deliveries to exhibitors will be what it actually releases will swing into effect for the new season.

The change in policy is designed to eliminate hangover product and keep M-G-M complete within each season. In paving the way for the change, the company is revamping its releasing program for the remainder of this season and is asking exhibitors to conform. M-G-M says the changes are slight and exhibitors generally are agreeing to them.

For years M-G-M has steadily fallen behind on releases, although it has occasionally regained ground. Fifty-seven pictures, or the company's greatest number in any one year, are scheduled to be released from last July to next August. Changes in star values and material, thereby necessitating changes in plans, plus the intention of clearing the decks from now

Industry Heads at Coast on Product

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 20.—New York executives are arriving here en masse for discussions on next season's programs. Leo Spitz and Ned Depinet of RKO arrived today to confer with Sam Briskin, and Harry M. Warner arrived for conferences with Jack L. Warner.

John D. Clark, Twentieth Century-Fox sales chief, will return here from the Chicago divisional sales meeting Tuesday. Neil Agnew of Paramount is expected momentarily. Edward G. Robinson was another arrival here today.

Sheehan Completing Product Plans Here

Winfield Sheehan will complete arrangements for his new Paramount production affiliation during an indefinite stay here, he said yesterday on his arrival from the coast. No definite production plans have been made yet in connection with the four pictures he will make this year. According to reports, however, Maria Jeritza, his wife, who accompanied

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, Feb. 20.

ERNST LUBITSCH is as close to a free soul as probably any mortal man might hope to be. The unvarnished truth of the change of administrations at the Paramount studio is that he is glad to be relieved of a post which, he now says, he never should have undertaken in the first place. The reshuffling takes him down from the job dubbed managing director of production and reduces him without protest to a unit producer charged with four pictures a year. He's openly glad of the change. . . .

Hollywood is rampant with speculation about the Paramount situation. Costs on that lot have been and are high, very high. It's one of those open secrets which everyone up and down the line in that studio and in all others knows about. But Lubitsch, on the defense, says of those costs:

"You know, I made it clear at all times that I was not a business man and that I would not undertake the financial responsibility for running the studio." . . .

Frank Borzage directed "Desire," the new Dietrich which is supposed to have cost $1,400,000. Lubitsch, however, supervised and, so declares, willingly accepts the responsibility for it. If, however, that were the only one in the current crop which ran to fancy figures, he adds this would be an indictment of his regime. There are, on the other hand, "Klondike Annie," the West film, down for over $1,000,000; "Anything Goes," talked about in the $800,000 class, and "Rose of the Rancho," another million dollar baby. That's his story. You take it or leave it. . . .

Once operator of the Publix de luxe theatres and later a partner in Monarch Theatres, the Sam Katz-financed circuit in the Middle West, Milton H. Feld today bulks large in a small cubicle on the Twentieth Century-Fox lot in the Westwood Hills. By searching diligently, he may be found in the writers' building with Julian Johnson, Gene Fowler and Mark Kelly as neighbors above and to the left and right and a pleasant bit of greensward on the other side of his window. Feld is learning production via the story route. Directly responsible to Darryl F. Zanuck, who is giving him his chance, this ex-theatre operator, his song unsung and his presence little known to the rest of the studio, is finding life among the palms carries a thrill a scenario. Nothing, he says, can take him back to exhibition. . . .

Mervyn LeRoy finished "Anthony Adverse" the other day and is now trying to piece it together; Quite a job. Completion of the shooting schedule almost simultaneously completed his contract as a director with Warners. Pending is a deal whereby he will become a producer, perhaps at the company's Sunset Boulevard plant.

The "Adverse" gags are mounting. Only this one is true.

LeRoy recently sent wires to a number of Hollywood critics and columnists. The text:

"This is to advise I have just completed 'Anthony Adverse.'"

An unsigned reply, also by wire:

"You're the only one who has." . . .

Bernerd's Wife Dies

LONDON, Feb. 20.—Mrs. Jeffrey Bernerd, wife of the general manager of distribution for G. B., died here today following an emergency operation for a kidney ailment. She was taken to the hospital last Friday, when she was suddenly taken ill. Bernerd is in New York.

Jeffrey Bernerd, here to confer with G. B. officials and look over production in Hollywood, had not decided last night whether he would sail immediately for London, where his wife died yesterday. He did not sail last night on the outgoing Majestic, on which he arrived on Wednesday. He said then that Mark Ostrer, G. B. head, had informed him Friday of his wife's sudden illness, when the ship was one day out en route to this country.

Speed Distributing Deals

With three territories closed within the past few weeks, Chesterfield and Invincible are speeding up plans to complete national distribution tieups within the next six weeks.

Territories closed recently have been with Charles Trampe for Milwaukee, Lee Goldberg for Indianapolis and David Komm of Majestic Pictures in St. Louis.

Rubin, Friedman East

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 20.—J. Robert Rubin and Leopold Friedman, scheduled to leave for the east yesterday, departed today after several weeks here.

Harry M. Warner and Edward G. Robinson arrived today from New York.

Censors No Aid to Pictures—Barrett

Censorship problems facing the industry were discussed yesterday by Wilton A. Barrett, executive secretary of the National Board of Review, at the Ampa.

"Neither the Legion of Decency nor any other groups with an axe to grind have improved films one bit," Barrett stated. "What accounts for the fine lineup of films is the fact that the boys on the coast have learned that the finest pictures they can make pull the patrons into the box-office.

"All attempts to hamper the industry haven't contributed one iota to the fine pictures this year," he added. He ridiculed the theory that all artistic productions have been "flops" financially.

Barrett stressed the importance of producing films appealing to juveniles who, he said, are the adult audience of tomorrow.

Joseph Hanson, an advertising executive, discussed promotional tieups, relating some of his experiences with the Bamberger company. He deplored the elastic use of adjectives in advertising copy, stating this used to be the practice of department stores, but had been discontinued long ago.

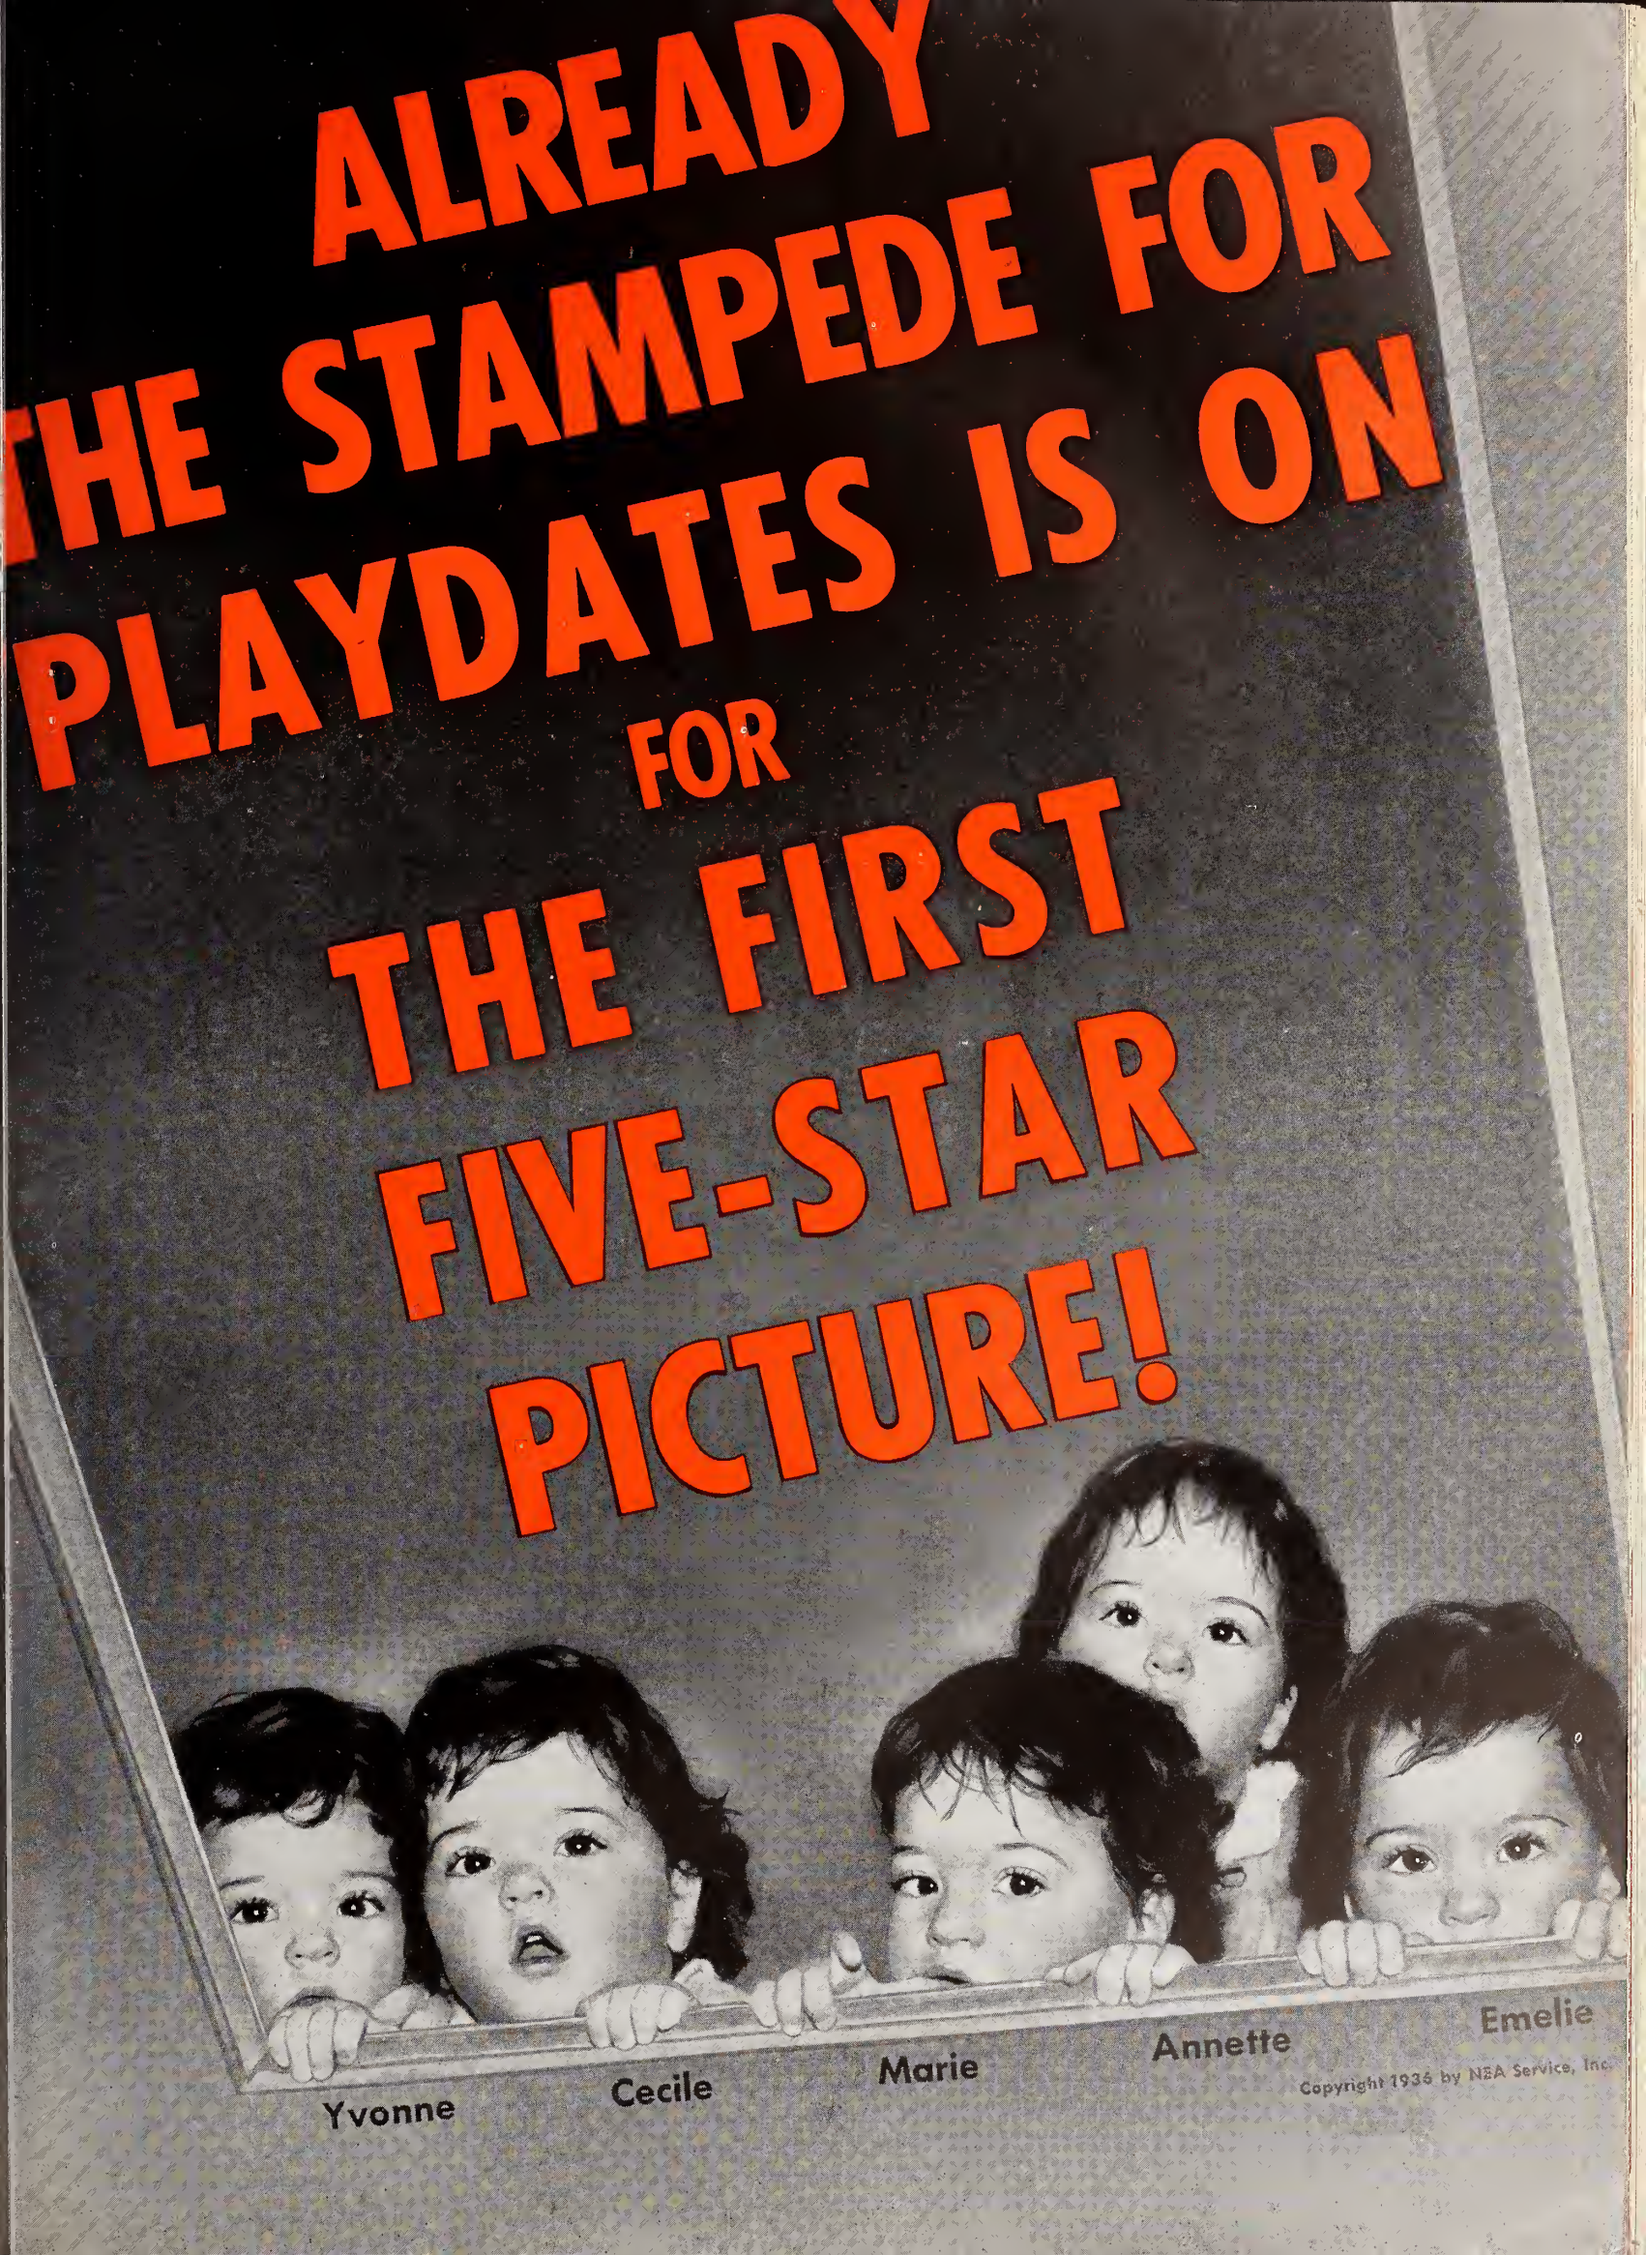
On the entertainment program were Peggy Fields, who sang two numbers; Roy Smeck, who played an electric Hawaiian guitar and gave an imitation of Bill Robinson tap dancing with the use of a ukelele, and the Ritz Quartet.

LeBaron Now Heads All Para. Production

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 20.—William LeBaron has been placed in permanent charge of all Paramount production, and his contract extended for a number of years, it was announced here tonight by John E. Otterson at a dinner which he tendered to Paramount executives at the Hollywood Athletic Club. Otterson also welcomed Frank Lloyd to the ranks of Paramount producers, and further announced that Henry Hathaway has been given a new long-term contract.

Otterson plans to leave tomorrow night for New York, where he will confer with Winfield Sheehan on pictures which Sheehan will produce at General Service Studios.

Le Maire Quits M-G-M



HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 20.—Rufus Le Maire, M-G-M casting head, has tendered his resignation, effective March 15. He will enter the agency business on that date, and will handle about six clients. Bill Grady, studio talent scout, who substituted for Le Maire recently, will take over the casting post permanently.

him here to fill concert engagements, will star in one.

Under his agreement with Paramount, Sheehan is to make four and supervise six annually, for a period of years. Sheehan said that his stay here will be of indefinite length because of the nature of some of his production arrangements which remain to be completed. He stated that he did not plan to begin producing for "several weeks."

Gains in San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 20.—With business 25 per cent better in 1935 than in the preceding year, local theatre managers are more optimistic than they have been in years. They look forward to 1936 being the best year since 1929. They base their belief on the many excellent pictures that have been shown in the past year.

Expand RKO Pathe Plant

effect on the box-office as a result of the G. M. free shows. Paramount officials said the only houses which might show a box-office decrease would be the second runs downtown and some of the neighborhoods, but so far this has not been noticeable.

Miami's theatres apparently have far sterner competition from the two dog racing tracks, which have bargain admissions and which have cut into general business enough to cause local merchants to threaten an attack on the pari-mutuel law unless racing days are curtailed.

Delay "Fleet" Opening

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—Opening in RKO's midwestern theatres of "Follow the Fleet" has been postponed from one to two weeks in most cases due to the severe cold weather. Theatre executives feel that with transportation conditions so bad it would be unwise to play the picture on the scheduled dates, so releases have been set back for a week or so.

done the copyright owner, although favoring the proposed high maximum penalty as being in line with the possible value of copyrighted works today.

. While Representative Deen discussed the Duffy Bill at length and suggested that some changes be made in that measure by the House, he did not mention the Daly Bill which was planned as the House substitute for the Senate measure. His whole speech, observers declare, was of a tenor to indicate a sharp difference of opinion among committee members on the form the legislation should take.

Blanke Re-signed

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 20. — Henry Blanke today was given an extension of his contract as associate producer with Warners. Blanke's most recent productions are: "A Midsummer Night's Dream," "The Story of Louis Pasteur" and currently, "Green Pastures."

Paramount Asserts It Controls "Pine"

Paramount has owned the recognized picture rights to "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" since 1915, the company's legal department stated yesterday in commenting on the issuance of an order to show cause why exhibition of the picture should not be halted. The order was obtained last Monday by the Trail Co., which claims ownership of certain film and dramatic rights to the work. A hearing on the order will be held in N. Y. Supreme Court here on Monday.

"Paramount does not recognize the validity of any claims to the motion picture rights of this work other than those owned by it," a member of the company's legal department said.

time and was offered an opportunity of purging himself of the contempt charge by submitting to the examination there. When he failed to do so the order fixing his punishment was signed by the court.

Under Judge Bondy's order Fox was to be held in custody either until the fine and court costs were paid or until Fox paid the court costs alone and submitted to the original order for examination concerning his resources. Stewart stated yesterday that he wanted to query Fox concerning the disposition that had been made of $15,000,000 allegedly received by Fox in 1930 for his Fox Film holdings.

Daniel Rosenblatt, of counsel to Fox, said that the latter is now under the care of a physician at Atlantic City and too ill to testify. He stated that Fox contends that the Capital judgment has been more than paid in full.

Jan. Tax Revenue Is $300,000 Under Dec.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Admission tax collections in January declined nearly $300,000 from the December level, but were approximately $130,000 above the receipts in the corresponding month last year, the Internal Revenue Bureau revealed today.

January collections totaled $1,459,694, against $1,755,059 in December and $1,328,884 in January, 1934. Analysis of the figures shows that collections from admissions sold during 1935 totaled $16,039,720, an increase of $101,834 over the 1934 total of $15,937,886. This would indicate that business during 1935 was approximately at the same level as in 1934, as far as houses charging more than 40 cents are concerned, the $100,000 increase reflecting an increase of only $1,000,000 in ticket sales.

Christie Novel to M-G-M

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 20.—M-G-M has acquired the screen rights to the Agatha Christie novel, "The A B C Murders," and has taken an option on the entire detective series centering about the character Hercules Poiret. Jean Hersholt is being considered for the lead.

Second Quota Act Is Passed in Australia

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—With the passage of the Victorian legislation, and the fact that New South Wales has a similar act, a substantial percentage of distributors throughout Australia will be compelled to use Australian features as soon as the quota can be supplied, according to a report to the U. S. Department of Commerce from Trade Commissioner E. C. Squire, at Sydney.

New South Wales production plans are well under way. Under the new Film Quota Act, a Films Advisory Board was appointed, consisting of the Commonwealth film censor, the under-secretary of the Chief Secretary's Department, and F. W. Marks, who made an industry study and upon whose recommendation the Quota Bill was passed. Australian-produced pictures, before being eligible for showing as quota films, have first to be passed by this board. It is stated that three out of eight which have so far been submitted have been rejected.

World Production Pty., Ltd., has purchased a 31-acre site a few miles from Melbourne. More than £75,000 will be spent in converting the property into a film colony. Variety Club

Detroit

DETROIT, Feb. 20.—The annual ball of Variety Club has been postponed from March 28 to April 25, because the former date is in Lent. It will be held in the three ballrooms of the Book-Cadillac and plans now are to bring a "name" band and several stage and screen stars here for the occasion.

The club is holding its second keno party of the season in the main ballroom of the Book on Saturday night. CARL BUERMELE is chairman of the committee, which includes J. L. SAXE, IRWIN POLLARD and CHARLES PERRY. Proceeds go to the club's welfare fund.

First of a series of film shows to be given by the club for children in hospitals was given last Wednesday for 60 inmates of Children's Hospital. ALEX SCHREIBER, head of the welfare committee, and LEW WISPER and WILLIAM FLEMION, were in charge. Exchanges furnished film and HERMAN HUNT, manager of National Theatre Supply Co., the sound projection equipment. The operators' union supplied an operator.

Applications of eight prospective Barkers will be acted on at a meeting of the membership committee Feb. 29.

Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 19.—ARTHUR COLE, general chairman for the fifth annual Variety Club-Film Industry Charity Ball, which went off hilariously, tells the best story of this year's effort.

The day of the ball, a man came in with $2 he had collected for the one last year, and which had lain, clipped to a notation, in his desk ever since. COLE can't figure out to which fund, this year's or last year's it should be credited.

The ball, outstanding social affair of the season for film and theatre men and their employes, as well as for exhibitors in nearby towns and cities, was a distinct success.

The Electric, Tower and Mainstreet, as well as the 85 Club, Silver Slipper, Harlem Nite Club and other night clubs contributed to the floor show.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 20.—Bill Pine, Paramount publicity man, leaves here Saturday night to work on advance campaigns for first run showings of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" through the Midwest.

Sanctions Big Help for U.S. Film in Italy

Governmental nursing of the film industry in Italy, which included a 75 per cent reduction in the film imports allowed, might have worked out dismally for American distributors had it not been for the appearance of the sanctions against Italy and the non-appearance of the United States among the sanctionist nations.

An interview yesterday with Mario Luporini, United Artists' distribution representative in Italy, and a producer in his own right, who is here for home office and Hollywood visits, resulted in this impression. Luperini related that Italian film imports, since the sanctions, are limited to 25 per cent of the footage formerly permitted and that the entire 25 per cent, naturally, must be obtained from the non-sanctionist nations. Inasmuch as, for film importing purposes, these include only the United States, Germany, Austria and Hungary, the source of supply is pretty well centralized.

Sound Track Part of Quota

Even this circumstance, however, might have resulted in an appreciable reduction in the purchases of American films had it not been for the ingenuity of the Italian importers, of whom Luporini is one. In computing the film footage imported, the Italian government measured and counted as part of the quota, the sound track—entirely apart from the film itself. Now the importers re-record the sound in Italy, eliminating the importation of sound tracks and, thus, allowing themselves that much additional footage to cover the actual importation of film. Needless to say, the bulk of the footage is of Hollywood origin.

Luporini reported that the Government's ministrations to the native industry are proving successful and greatly stimulating home production. Italian producers will make about 50 features this year, he said, as compared with 32 last year, and a smaller number the year before. Producers may obtain financing from a Government approved bank, but their scripts, casts and other essentials must first be approved by the Governmental overseer for the industry, one Commendatore Fredi. Italian exhibitors, of whom there are about 3,000, are required to play all of this native product. Much of it is "surprisingly good," Luporini said, and some of it good enough to be purchased by Joe Brandt for distribution here. About the remainder of it Luporini was noncommittal. He observed, however, that there were occasions on which patriotic exhibitors admitted patrons solely for a contribution of valuable or useful metals, i. e., iron, steel, gold. These are turned over to the Government by the exhibitor, who neither receives nor expects reimbursement.

Renovation Widespread

Luporini declined to answer when asked if this practice was permitted when United Artists' pictures were playing a percentage engagement.

The effects of the Government's film policy are being evidenced in the remodeling of theatres throughout Italy and the conversion of auditoriums into film houses. Also, he reported, construction has begun on an 11-stage studio in Rome. Italy's objectives, he said, are to bring home production up to about 100 features annually, leaving playing time in theatres there for only the best foreign-made product.

Luporini protested against what he said was an increasingly insistent demand by American home offices for economies in dubbing costs in Italy. He spiked the policy as a dangerous one and said it might, if pursued far enough, drive Italian patronage away from American pictures there. He pointed out that the economy demands were resulting in a standardization of dubbing practice which was bringing the same voices into everyone's pictures and, even now, some of the voices were recognizable from one end of Italy to the other, whether they were speaking from the screen for Wallace Beery or Shirley Temple. If the practice continues, he said, the same voice ultimately may be utilized for those two, or for Garbo and Victor McLaglen.

"Who are the most popular American stars in Italy?" Sam Cohen of the United Artists foreign publicity staff prompted Luporini.

"Will you give me a list of our stars?" Luporini smiled, as the reporters arose to leave.

Seek Examination in Film Financing Suit

A motion for examination before trial of Benjamin W. Solomon, assistant secretary of Academy Pictures Dist. Corp., was filed yesterday in City Court in behalf of Amusement Securities Corp. in connection with a breach of contract action brought by the latter.

The complaint sets forth that Amusement Securities Corp. and Academy entered into a written agreement on Oct. 22, 1935, by the terms of which Amusement Securities Corp. agreed to lend the defendant $15,000 for the production of "The Thrill of the Century," and the defendant agreed to pay the plaintiff the financing charge of $1,666 and that the plaintiff would have the exclusive right to furnish release prints. The plaintiff also charges that the defendant refused to accept a loan, to pay the financing charge and refused to deliver the negative to the plaintiff for the purpose of making positive prints.

The defendant has entered a general denial and asserts that the alleged agreement was never executed.

Gerstle Takes Over Freeman Lang Firm

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 20.—Mark L. Gerstle, San Francisco capitalist, has bought Freeman Lang Enterprises, Inc., and under articles of incorporation now being filed in Sacramento, will operate a new firm to be called Associated Studios.

The Lang Enterprises specialized in electrical transcriptions and in industrial films. Gerstle plans to continue those activities, and intimated that he would engage shortly in all phases of production. His holdings at present do not include a distribution organization, but he is interested in International Cinema, Inc., a film laboratory established last year, and an affiliate, Production Finance Corp. Frank W. Purkett, who has been with Lang for some years, is vice-president and general manager.

RKO Lawyers See Big Slash In Rent Claim

Hold Hope of Two-Thirds Off Rockefeller Item

Possibilities of reducing the $9,100,000 Rockefeller Center claim against RKO to less than a third of that amount are seen by counsel to the RKO trustees in the event opposition to the claim is forced into court through the failure of settlement negotiations.

The settlement negotiations are being continued, however, and pending their outcome, hearings of the trustee's exceptions to the allowance of the claim in the amount recommended by Special Master Thomas D. Thacher are being deferred. The hearing which was scheduled for tomorrow has been postponed to March 3 as a result.

The exceptions to the allowance of the claim would be made to the Federal court by Donovan, Leisure, Newton & Lumbard, counsel to Irving Trust Co., the RKO trustee. Among other grounds for opposing the allowance of the claim will be an effort to show that the three-year rent liability

Court Ruling Bars Zirn's Para. Suits

Suits pending in the New York state court against 12 banks formerly identified with Paramount financing will have to be withdrawn as a result of a denial by the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals of a motion for an appeal by Samuel Zirn, attorney for former Paramount Publix bondholders, from a U. S. District Court order directing Zirn to withdraw the state court actions or be held in contempt of court.

A cross motion brought by Beekman, Bogue, Leake, Stephens & Black, attorneys for the defendant banks, for a dismissal of Zirn's appeal motion was granted by the appeals court.

Zirn instituted his action on behalf of independent bondholders against

The figure should have been $44,385.

N. Y. Theatre Giveaways Up To 3 Million

Annual Cost in Greater City Is Computed

More than $3,000,000 is spent annually by Greater New York exhibitors on giveaways and games, it has been indicated by an important independent circuit operator. This is in addition to service charges theatre men have to pay distributing agents of games. At the estimated rate of $10 a theatre, the service fee total for the 12 months is figured at $1,500,000.

Of the 650 theatres in the local area, more than half are either featuring games or giving away dishes, perfumes and other novelties. In many instances theatres are doing both. The practice of giving away articles and monetary awards has reached a point where numerous theatres distribute something different every night in the week with the exception of Sundays.

About $40,000 in cash is said to be given away every week by Greater New York exhibitors. This is exclusive of giveaways which run into

Rebuilding of Many Theatres Goes Forward

Theatre changes are numerous in various parts of the country, with the greater portion of the activity concerned with remodeling and construction work. Many houses have reopened recently.

Among the changes in the south have been the following: The Martin circuit has opened the New Grand at Fitzgerald, Ga., a 1,600-seat house replacing the old Grand destroyed by fire last fall. The Beugnot Building at Mt. Vernon, Ga., is being remodeled for the new Metro, to be managed by F. L. Liggett. The new Bonifay at Bonifay, Fla., is near completion. North Carolina Theatres, Inc., has bought the Purcell Hotel in Wilmington, N. C., for a reported $40,000, and plan a new house to cost $135,000.

The Miami Valley Amusement Co., has been incorporated by Joseph G. Asbury and others at Dayton, O. Interstate circuit plans a new theatre in Houston. S. L. Pathe Natan Delay Stirs Speculation

By PIERRE AUTRE

PARIS, Feb. 23.—The impression is current in film circles here that an effort is being made to delay the reorganization of Pathe Natan, now in receivership, and to prevent Robert Dirler, representing the Pathe Natan stockholders, from obtaining control of the company through the reorganization.

Court approval was obtained for an extension of the receivership for two months, on the request of Banque de Paris et des Pays-Bas, said to be a Government affiliated bank. This has given rise to the speculation that the action relative to the receivership may be a step in the direction of Government control of the film industry.

Sussman Made Eastern Sales Head for Fox

Decision Upon "U" Option Next Week

A decision on the exercising of Standard Capital Co.'s option to acquire a controlling interest in Universal is not likely to be made earlier than the latter part of next week, it was learned on Saturday.

Standard officials said that some additional required study of Universal's operations would delay the decision for at least a week or 10 days longer than had been expected at the time of the return from London of J. Cheever Cowdin, Standard president. The option continues in effect through March 14.

Reorganization Near For Fox in St. Louis

Although no action has been taken, definite indications that reorganization plans for the Fox, St. Louis, would be filed in the Federal Court in the Mound City shortly were reported by Halsey, Stuart & Co., which will float the new bond issue.

Reorganization details are also scheduled to be sent to about 90 per cent of the bondholders which already have deposited their certificates with the committee.

The Fox is now being operated by F. & M. under an arrangement with the trustees and it is anticipated that no change in the management will take place when the court approves the plan.

Halsey, Stuart have called in $56,400 first mortgage six per cent bonds, due March 1, on the Fox Realty Corp. of California.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, Feb. 23

THE wheels go 'round and around merrily and with much precision on the Fox lot, snuggled in the Westwood Hills. There, in the short space of six months which have elapsed since Twentieth Century merged with Fox, a producing organization, better attuned to Darryl F. Zanuck's liking and method of doing things, has taken on form and such pictures have bounced through as "Thanks a Million," "Metropolitan," "The King of Burlesque" and now "The Prisoner of Shark Island." . . .

On the Twentieth Century-Fox lot, where you might expect it, the tales told of this phenomenally successful young producer's energy and horsepower are legion. But off the lot, in a community where jealousies run rampant and praise is often grudgingly handed out, much of the Zanuckiana prevails as well. There is told the story of his patience with green writing and producing talent; how, when he did not have to, he stopped more important matters to explain by lengthy memo, his favorite, as well as usual, method; why this and that were wrong and what to do. There is the story of how he is quick to praise, as well as to damn, and how there is inherent in him the ability to pass on the verve and enthusiasm which apparently are essential parts of his makeup. . . .

So we talked to Zanuck. "I once said I would never return to production in large numbers, but here I am back at it without minding it a bit," he stated. "You know we've done what I think is quite a job here when you consider the circumstances. It's only about six months since we actively stepped into production and already we have turned out 20 pictures. When Will Rogers died, the blow was more emphatic than is perhaps generally realized. Rogers was good for $4,000,000 profit a year, or $1,000,000 on each of his pictures. But along came 'Thanks a Million' which stop-gapped the loss with $1,000,000 in the black in this country and plenty to come from abroad where Rogers was not fully appreciated because he was not understood." . . .

Zanuck seemingly blossoms on work and considerable of it. In the next six months, he expects to have his organization further rounded out to a point where the pressure won't tax him so heavily. In the offing is a six weeks' vacation, but by the time the holiday comes along he will have ready at least eight on the company's schedule for 1936-37. As a matter of fact, he moves with such steam that, sandwiched in between the handful which have yet to be made in the wash-up of the current season, will be three or four of next season's. These will get under way in the next couple of weeks. . . .

"Little Lord Fauntleroy," David O. Selznick's first for United Artists, is a nostalgic and charming version of a sentimental potboiler of the sunshine and honey epoch, but in all departments it is handled with due deference to and understanding of its tear-jerking ingredients.

Freddie Bartholomew is excellent and vastly appealing in the title role and Dolores Costello, who still uses the Barrymore name professionally, is gentle and suffering. C. Aubrey Smith as the crusty old earl does his part in the accepted tradition for that type of role and does it extremely well at that. The long cast, including Guy Kibbee, Mickey Rooney and Henry Stephenson, is fine, and the entire production is well in keeping with the vast sentimentalities of the story. Where sweetness and saccharinity continue to be appreciated, "Little Lord Fauntleroy" should register substantially.

Looming large in Twentieth Century-Fox's scheme of things, with results to be demonstrated, of course, is "Under Two Flags" which already costs over $1,000,000 and which will hit the $1,500,000 mark before the final scene is shot. The cast which numbers about fifty principals, all of them in the money, is topped by Claudette Colbert, whose stipend for this job is a mere $150,000; Ronald Colman, Rosalind Russell, generally accepted here as ready for stardom, and Victor McLaglen. A cool half million, that's the charge for players alone in this one picture which Frank Lloyd is directing for the current year's schedule.

This lot is gaga over "The Country Doctor," starring the Dionne quints and for which the sales force is lining up a smash day-and-date run across the nation, totaling perhaps as many as three hundred and fifty theatres. Zanuck says of it the material built around the babies, telling the story of Dr. Dafoe as it does, would make for an ace attraction on its own. With the heavenly kids, his descriptive power plant slows down. There's a preview looming on this one quickly now. The wires out of here will tell you more on this score later. . . .

Zanuck is the works. His principal activity centers around the thirty A pictures which he will contribute to the new year in which the total number of releases will hit off on even keel with this. In the Western Avenue plant where Sol Wurtzel is the boss twenty-four in the B classification are to be made. However, nobody can tell about this alphabetic arrangement; not even Zanuck who admits readily a B may become an A or vice versa. Plenty of precedent makes the observation readily understandable. . . .

However, he thinks it the responsibility of all producers to give the gun to properties that stack up as something with a punch and to be definitely modest on stories which, per se, indicate they can only emerge as average stuff. "We have a fixed amount of money on which we operate, naturally. But it is up to us to decide on which picture we will spend that amount. Our understanding with Sid Kent in New York is very clear on that point. We are running this end of the business and New York not only comprehends but cooperates." As an indication of how matters stand on this lot, Zanuck has his thirty A subjects for next year already lined up. Twenty-five are definitely fixed; five are being toyed with and held in temporary vacuum pending a change in the market or in timeliness. "Lloyds of London," to be handled in the "House of Rothschild" manner is one of the potential dreadnaughts. . . .

Authors Draft New Basic Pact Details

The contract committee of the Authors' League met yesterday to draft the new basic agreement for writers and managers, which will include new provisions for the disposition of film rights to stage plays. The agreement will become effective March 1 and will be operative for two to five years. The definite term of the agreement has not yet been decided by the writers.

The completed draft will be submitted to the council of the league at a meeting today for approval, and following possible revisions as a result of this meeting will be placed before a general membership meeting on Thursday for ratification. Several suggestions for new provisions covering the disposal of film rights are under consideration by the contract committee and may not be definitely determined until the council passes on them today.

Quip of the Day

Asked what he thought of the scientific advances of sound since talking pictures started, Mox Shobbus, Hollywood showman, after mature deliberation, said:

"Sound has improved wonderfully. Today it's refined.

"Noiseless recording, high fidelity, hill and dale and the 'push-pull' inventions are marvelous, even though I'm not technical.

"Now, if someone could create for the foreign stars, an 'accent remover,' and for our domestic stars a 'tonsil and adenoid extractor,' such a gadget could win the Academy award, maybe.

"And if someone invented these things, I'd be willing to try-out both inventions myself—if the service charge is reasonable."

PAUL KRIEGER has just celebrated his fifth anniversary as manager of the local Universal branch.

Third Circuit Plans Reported Abandoned

Plans for a third circuit in Greater New York are understood to have fallen by the wayside.

Sponsored chiefly by a number of exhibitors who were anxious to mold the many independents into a solid string of units in an effort to break down major circuit buying power, the ballyhoo has died down and no one is even thinking of the plan any more.

Some of the men behind the idea once interested a downtown banking house in the project. A checking of books was reported under way at that time, but now it is said that the Wall Street interests have backed out.

A number of interests have been skeptical about the plan since it was broached. They claimed someone had an idea to take over theatres without giving anything substantial in return and that such a plan would never work out.

In contrast to the original idea, practically every independent today is out after theatres, large and small.

Henry King Touring By Air for "Doctor"

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 23.—Piloting his own plane, Henry King, who directed "The Country Doctor," starring the Dionne quintuplets, is barnstorming key cities of the nation addressing women's clubs and visiting newspaper publishers at large as advance ballyhoo for the attraction. Occasionally directors here do this, but the instances come along infrequently.

His schedule interrupted by snow in the Middle West, King was in Cincinnati earlier in the week. He is covering as many as three cities a day and so is due to visit Memphis, Oklahoma City and Dallas on Feb. 29 after which he will return here to start direction of "Job" for Twentieth Century-Fox.

"Voice" and Bowes' Unit Lead Denver

DENVER, Feb. 23.—The continued cold wave, with temperatures to zero and below several nights, hurt box-office receipts, and "Her Master's Voice" with Major Bowes' Amateurs on the stage, was the only combination to get above average. The amateurs packed the Denham time after time, and with heavy holdouts repeatedly.

"The Petrified Forest" was the only other film doing average. "Ceiling Zero" and "Invisible Ray," on a split week at the Broadway following a week each at other first run houses, did only fair.

Total first run business was $25,000. Average is $24,750.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 19:

"EVERY SATURDAY NIGHT" (20th-Fox)
ALADDIN—(1,500), 25c-40c-50c, 4 days. Gross: $1,000.

"KING OF THE DAMNED" (G. B.)
ALADDIN—(1,500), 25c-40c-50c, 3 days. Gross: $1,000. (Average for week, $2,750)

"CEILING ZERO" (F. N.)
BROADWAY—(1,000), 25c-40c, 3 days. Gross: $600. Following week at Denver.

"INVISIBLE RAY" (Univ.)
BROADWAY—(1,000), 25c-40c, 4 days. Gross: $600. Following week at Aladdin. (Average for week, $1,500)

"HER MASTER'S VOICE" (Para.)
DENHAM—(1,500), 25c-35c-40c, 7 days. Stage: Major Bowes' Amateurs. Gross: $8,500. (Average, $4,500)

"THE PETRIFIED FOREST" (W. B.)
DENVER—(2,500), 25c-35c-50c, 7 days. Gross: $7,000. (Average, $7,000)

"EXCLUSIVE STORY" (M-G-M)
ORPHEUM—(2,600), 25c-35c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $4,000. (Average, $6,000)

"MURDER OF DR. HARRIGAN" (F. N.) "FRESHMAN LOVE" (W. B.)
PARAMOUNT—(2,000), 25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $2,500. (Average, $2,500)

Delay U. A.-Star Case

United Artists' complaint against the Star, Manhattan, for breach of contract to the extent of $60 was indefinitely postponed on Friday by the New York Film Board of Trade where it was scheduled for arbitration.

No cases are listed on the calendar this week. It is likely the U. A.-Star complaint may be settled without trial.

Skouras Delays Return

Spyros Skouras, E. L. Alperson and William T. Powers, all of National Theatres, will not return from the coast until March 1. The trio have been in Los Angeles for the three-day meeting of divisional operating heads, but are staying over to clean up other matters.

Charter Fairfax Corp.

RICHMOND, Feb. 23.—Fairfax Corp. has just been chartered here to operate theatres with Andrew D. Christian as president, Col. Robert T. Barton, Jr., as vice-president, and A. W. Parker as secretary-treasurer.

Fox to End Gift Stamps

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 23.—Fox Midwest will end gift stamps April 30. The stamps, amounting to about 10 per cent on admissions, were used only in the Kansas City district, under L. J. McCarthy.

Yassir, the Show Went On!

By SCOTT LESLIE

Tampa, Feb. 23.—The Victory brought in one of the Major Bowes amateur units for a two-day frolic, five frolics daily, and at advanced prices—yassir! Well, they induced the Mayor to proclaim the said two days as "Major Bowes Days" and you know how 'tis, that should be good for a plug over the radio. Curses! The Major never mentioned Tampa a-tall.

But, what I started to tell you was—the first show was on, when "phlopp," just like that, a transformer burned up—maybe someone hit the gong, or sompin'—and there was a stage show where Moses was when the lights went out.

Then someone got a hunch to sing songs and have the audience join in, so that pepped things up and kept the audience good natured until another hunch came to bat. This hunch was a couple of auto headlights hooked up to an auto at the stage door, and that kept the show all lit up for the hour it required to repair the transformer and get the juice flowing again.

Pickets Protesting "Riffraff" Showing

With the opening of "Riffraff" at Loew's State on Friday, an alleged union group started picketing the house and distributing handbills in protest against the showing of the picture.

On the picket's sign was inscribed "Organized labor is not 'Riffraff.'"

The handbills were headed "Boycott Riffraff!"

The handout further said "175,000 members of organized labor and 250,000 Anti-Fascists in New York City protest the showing of 'Riffraff' in Loew's Theatres." It is signed "Auspices: Trade Union Committee, American League Against War and Fascism, New York Committee, 156 Fifth Ave."

Allied Sets Dates For Cleveland Meet

CLEVELAND, Feb. 23.—The annual convention of Allied will be held at the Hollenden Hotel, June 2-3-4, according to H. M. Richey, general convention chairman.

Levy on Coast Feb. 27

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 23.—Jules Levy, general sales manager for RKO Radio, will arrive here from Honolulu, Feb. 27, and remain here for several days to confer with Ned E. Depinet and Leo Spitz on current and new product.

Cresson E. Smith, southern and western division sales head for RKO Radio, returns today from a tour of exchanges under his supervision.

Thomas Back from Tour

Harry H. Thomas, president of First Division, has returned with Robert M. McKinney, a director, from a tour of exchanges. He declared the company's future production plans will be made known on March 21, on completion of several pending deals. A New Haven office will be opened tomorrow. Thomas noted a general improvement in business.

"Dark Victory" in Color

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 23.—"Dark Victory," David O. Selznick's second Selznick International picture, will be made in Technicolor. Lenore Coffee is writing the screenplay from the drama by George Brewer and Bertram Bloch. Merle Oberon will be starred.

Vaudeville to End In Four RKO Houses

RKO on Thursday will drop vaudeville from four theatres in the eastern division. These are the only houses in the circuit's New York and New Jersey group which have been playing vaudeville during the past few months.

The theatres eliminating the shows are Palace, Rochester; Capitol, Trenton; Tilyou, Coney Island, and Jefferson, on 14th Street. The first two will go single feature while the latter duo will revert to duals.

Big Crowd Turns Out For the Warner Ball

Warners had a turnout that taxed the capacity of the main ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria at the seventh annual banquet and dance Saturday night. More than 1,500 persons attended, it was estimated.

The festivities got under way shortly after 9:30 o'clock, with Rudy Vallee and his orchestra on the stage. During the dinner a varied program of entertainment with talent from radio acts, the New York stage and the screen on hand. The party broke up about 4 o'clock Sunday morning.

Universal Reports $677,185 Net Loss

Universal Pictures Co., Inc., and subsidiaries report a net loss of $677,185.54 for the 53-week fiscal period ended Nov. 2, 1935. The net loss is after all charges, including amortization and depreciation of fixed assets, totaling $474,052.74. This compares with a profit of $238,791 for the fiscal year ended Oct. 27, 1934.

The 1935 figure is subject to the accountant's audit, which is expected to be completed in a few weeks. However, the company indicates no substantial change in the figure is anticipated.

Rebuild Portland House

PORTLAND, ME., Feb. 23. — The Strand and the building it occupies are being put back into condition following a $25,000 blaze. The house is owned and operated by Abraham Goodside, owner of the Empire.

"Rose Marie" Hit Despite Seattle Cold

SEATTLE, Feb. 23.—"Rose Marie" was a smash hit in spite of extreme cold which sent all other first runs skidding below par. The take at the Fifth Avenue was $11.250, over normal by $4,250. The picture was moved to the Music Box for an extended run.

The only other attraction to succeed in making a slight dent in the general lethargy was "Ceiling Zero" and "Your Uncle Dudley" on a dual bill at the Blue Mouse. The $3,100 take there was $900 below par.

Total first run business was $31,600. Average is $33,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 21:

"CEILING ZERO" (F.N.) "YOUR UNCLE DUDLEY" (20th-Fox)
BLUE MOUSE—(950), 25c-55c, 7 days. Gross: $3,100. Second week. (Average $4,000)

"ROSE MARIE" (M-G-M)

Now You Can Be Sure You Won't Bore Them!

BOREDOM is the worst enemy of the Box-office. Even your best friends will stay away in crowds when you become tiresome. The first principle of showmanship ought to be to avoid putting the customers to sleep. To keep them awake, eager, and coming back for more, get variety, sparkle, laughs, thrills into your program. And here's how.

B's Worst Enemy . . . Laughter is the strongest antidote to boredom. Nothing chases the glooms faster than a BUSTER KEATON Comedy. And Buster never did a better job than in "GRAND SLAM OPERA." Film Daily says it's "The best comedy Buster Keaton ever delivered."

Human Interest . . . There's not a heart in your audience so hard that it can't be touched with "THE SEEING EYE." This "very human document" (Film Daily) will, according to Box-Office, "stimulate the emotional instinct of the most hardened movie audience" and bring the exhibitor "the gratitude of his community for showing it."

Giving 'em the Air . . . There's a breeziness added to your program that gives the air to monotony whenever JOE COOK goes on your screen. Hilarity is hitting on high in "GIV 'IM AIR," with a laugh for every man, woman and child who ever turned on a loudspeaker.

Sports Thrills . . . Imagine anyone sleeping through a hand-to-fin battle with a fighting swordfish! They've just got to sit up and thrill when you play "FISHERMAN'S LUCK," and "THE GAME OF JAI ALAI" shows all the terrific speed of the world's fastest game. Two more gems from The Treasure Chest.

Melody with Their Mirth . . . For songs and the spirit of youth, look to Educational's Musical Comedies, such as "THANKS, MR. CUPID," with NIELA GOODELLE, FRED LIGHTNER and NELL KELLY, and the Young Romances, such as "BEWARE OF BLONDES," with MARLYN STUART, ACKLAND POWELL.

Cartoonics . . . For good old, down-to-earth fun for the whole family, depend on Paul Terry-Toons. "THE 19th HOLE CLUB" is better than a highball after a hard game. And "HOMETOWN OLYMPICS" is a timely subject with a special appeal while the big games are on. Check two more winners for Frank Moser and Paul Terry.

New Star Names . . . Educational's star line-up, already the biggest in short subject history, keeps bringing you new big ones. Now it's BERT LAHR. Watch for his first one, "GOLD BRICKS." He's struck it rich in laughs. And another one to watch for is TIM and IRENE in a real button-buster, "JUST PLAIN FOLKS."

Color . . . Get a touch of beauty on your screen that will waken admiration. "MANHATTAN TAPESTRY" catches the beauties of Bagdad on the Subway in all their natural colors. "THE LEGEND OF THE LEI" is colorful Hawaii at its best. They're Treasure Chest Productions.

T. H. Duval. C. F. Fain plans a $25,000 house at Livingston, Tex., and will remodel the present theatre in the town. The Clarendon at Clarendon, Ark., has been reopened after extensive remodeling.

In New England, A. C. Barwood has taken over the Woodstock in Woodstock, Vt., from W. Lamere. W. D. Lord has reopened the Star in West Pembroke, N. H. The Star in South Portland has been remodeled and has been renamed the Seville by R. E. Curran.

The St. Louis Amusement Co. will remodel the Lafayette in St. Louis at a cost of $10,000. Other changes in the Midwest include the following: W. G. Thick will convert the old post-office building in Marshall, Mich., into a 400-seat house, to be known as the Sun. Simon Galitzki is remodeling the Princess at North Topeka, Kan. The Kaw, new 350-seat house in the same town, has been opened by W. G. McKinney. Otto Motrie and James Warba shortly will reopen the Lyric at Tiffin, O., following extensive remodeling.

Youngclaus Adds a Third

W. G. Youngclaus has added a third house to his group, taking over the Comet at Shelton, Neb., from Mrs. E. A. Phelps. The theatre will be remodeled and the name changed. Youngclaus has remodeled the Empress at Grand Island. R. H. Montgomery has opened his new 450-seat house, the Cozy, at Ottawa, Kan. The Sosna Brothers shortly will open the Sosna at Moberly, Kan., after remodeling. Hardwick & Tuggle are building a 500-seat theatre at Neosho, Mo.

TOCC-ITOA Merger Predictions Current

Reports of a merger between the T.O.C.C. and the I.T.O.A. are going the rounds again. Latest indications are that as soon as Harry Brandt returns from Florida he will confer with Charles L. O'Reilly, president of the T.O.C.C. on the amalgamation.

For a number of years the T.O.C.C. held sway in the local area until Brandt and a number of other independent exhibitors formed the I.T.O.A. The latter organization grew up to a membership of about 400, while O'Reilly's followers dwindled from the ranks.

With the I.T.O.A. membership reported down to less than 100, some minds have figured that it's about time the two units got together and united into one solid independent organization.

O'Reilly, who has been devoting most of his time to his candy vending business during the last two years, it is said will be an active factor in the combined association. Brandt, although he has resigned from the I.T.O.A., will most likely continue on the board of the new setup.

Negotiations for a merger of both exhibitor groups had been held some time ago, but fell through. With the exhibitors being nettled with a two per cent sales tax, a new children's law and other legislative measures, some important independents hold that it would be propitious to get the two groups together for solid support in fighting the various bills.

further added that the company this year cut the list of percentage pictures to four and held that the general sales policy of M-G-M was fair. As a result, he said, independent exhibitors should be fair with the company and fall in line and cancel the films.

In the case of Universal, Benas asked that exhibitors pay any additional charges sought by the company on "Magnificent Obsession." He also recommended giving Universal extended playing time on the picture.

It is likely that the same topics will be approved by Allied of New Jersey when the organization convenes. No meetings have been held within the last few weeks because Lee Newbury, president, is out of town.

A number of independent circuits in the local area already have signed cancellation deals with M-G-M, it has been learned.

RKO Completes Plan For 13-week Drive

Plans for a 13-week international sales drive under the heading of "The RKO Foreign Legion Olympics" were completed last last week prior to the sailing of Phil Reisman, vice-president of RKO Export Corp., on the Ile de France.

The drive will start March 15 and end June 13 with 39 foreign countries participating. Ned E. Depinet, Reisman and E. D. Leishman will act as judges. Field captains in charge of various territorities will be Ben Y. Cammack, Reginald Armour and Harry W. Leasim. Home office captains will be E. Smith, B. D. Lion and R. K. Hawkinson.

Lubitsch Due Wednesday

Ernst Lubitsch is slated to arrive from Hollywood Wednesday enroute for Europe where he will vacation and at the same time look over the talent market. The director has booked passage on the Berengaria for March 4. He is expected to be abroad several weeks.

New Champion

Denver, Feb. 23.—Claiming to be the champion fan in Denver, a young woman recently told Alberta Pike, Denver News dramatic editor, that she had seen "Rose Marie" over 75 times, going ahead of the man who claimed he had seen "Naughty Marietta" 60 times.

the creditor banks in 1933 as a result of the so-called "film hocking" deals by which titles to a number of Paramount film negatives were transferred to Film Productions, Inc., as security for $12,600,000 of new Paramount credit from the 12 banks in 1932. Subsequently, the Paramount trustees in bankruptcy brought an action in Federal court against the same banks in an effort to set aside the transaction. With the settlement of the banks' claims against Paramount during the company's reorganization proceedings the trustees agreed to cancel their litigation against the bank as one consideration in the settlement of the claims. The Paramount reorganization plan, when approved by the Federal court, also provided for the withdrawal of litigation against the banks.

Zirn endeavored to continue his state court action against the banks after the reorganization and counsel for the banks brought action to compel Zirn to discontinue the suits or be held in contempt for a violation of the court order approving the reorganization plan. When this order was signed by Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe Zirn appealed to the Circuit Court.

Zirn said yesterday he would endeavor within the next three weeks to obtain a writ of certiorari to bring the case to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Court Approves Kent Claim Against Para.

Sidney R. Kent's $65,000 claim against Paramount was allowed in that amount plus interest of more than $7,000 in an order signed by Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe late last week. The court's order stipulated, however, that the proceeds are to be held in escrow until recovery actions instituted by the trustees in bankuptcy of Paramount against former officers and directors of the company have been disposed of. Kent is made a defendant in one of the actions which are still pending in the New York State Court.

Kent's claim was based on a new contract made by him with Paramount in January, 1932. It claimed only the amount due him under the contract up to the time of his resignation from the company.

"Gang" Ads Unusual

Effectively depicting some of the horror scenes contained in "Road Gang," Warners have worked out an unusual campaign in a series of newspaper ads. In some of the copy actual scenes from the picture are shown with bold bannered heads and text creating immediate reader interest.

"Story" with Waring Leads Detroit Takes

DETROIT, Feb. 23.—A combination of "Exclusive Story" and Fred Waring and his band turned out to be the best draw of the week here with a take of $23,500 at the Michigan. This topped normal by $3,500.

"It Had to Happen," with a vaudeville bill, came in with second honors on a gross of $15,400 at the Fox. All other first runs were below par.

Total first run business was $64,100. Average is $65,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 20:

"CRIME AND PUNISHMENT" (Col.)
"MY MARRIAGE" (20th-Fox)

ADAMS—(1,770), 10c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $3,800. (Average, $5,000)

"IT HAD TO HAPPEN" (20th-Fox)

FOX—(5,100), 15c-65c, 7 days. Stage: vaudeville. Gross: $15,400. (Average, $15,000)

"EXCLUSIVE STORY" (M-G-M)

MICHIGAN—(4,100), 15c-65c, 7 days. Fred Waring's band. Gross: $23,500. (Average, $20,000)

"CEILING ZERO" (F. N.)

STATE—(3,000), 10c-40c, 7 days, 2nd run. Gross: $4,100. (Average, $5,000)

"THE GHOST GOES WEST" (U. A.)

UNITED ARTISTS—(2,070), 15c-55c, 7 days. Gross: $8,800. (Average, $10,000)

"THE INFORMER" (Radio)
"CHATTERBOX" (Radio)

RKO DOWNTOWN—(2,950), 15c-65c, 7 days. Gross: $8,500. (Average, $10,000)

"Fleet" Heads for Gross of $100,000

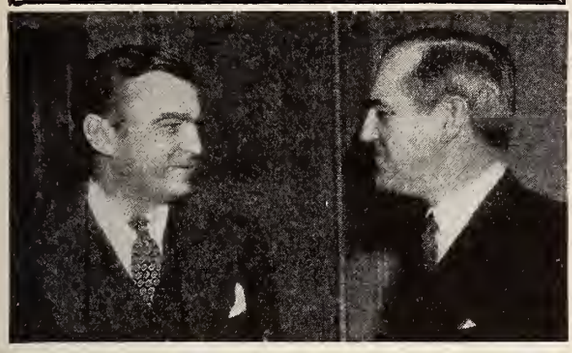
"Rose Marie" garnered $25,700, while the Rivoli on the second stanza of "Modern Times" tallied slightly over $55,000. "Bohemian Girl" at the Rialto ended with about $8,500 and the Palace with a twin bill of "Next Time We Love" and "Professional Soldier" got about $7,000.

Major Bowes' amateurs at the Roxy will probably tilt the gross to around $50,000 this week.

Lesser May Produce Two for 20th-Fox

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 23.—Sol Lesser, who has just made a new deal for the release of six through Twentieth Century-Fox, may become a producer on the same lot if negotiations for a two-picture deal materialize.



Lesser's plan provides that he personally supervise two features of the next season's lineup for Twentieth Century-Fox.

Brandt to Add Spots

Following return of Harry Brandt next month from Hollywood, Fla., several theatres are expected to be added to the Brandt circuit. Because of the increasing number of units being added to the circuit, Brandt refused to continue as president of the I. T. O. A.

The acquisitions will be in Brooklyn and Manhattan. The Brandt brothers are now interested in about 45 theatres in the local area.

CANDID CAMERA SHOTS OF WELL KNOWN PEOPLE AT MARCH OF TIME PREVIEW IN NEW YORK FEB. 11th

John Martin. March of Time Editor and Managing Editor of TIME. talks over the new release with Ned Depinet, President of RKO Distributing Corporation.

IMPORTANT!

REVIEWS — NO. 2 FOR 1936 — U. S.

NEW YORK SUN—The current MARCH OF TIME deserves applause This edition is certainly the best, a remark I've probably made when reviewing each issue, so surely and rapidly does this editorial newsreel improve.

NEW YORK DAILY NEWS—Progress of Russia's second Five Year Plan . . . Hartman's Solution delightfully demonstrated . . . and amazing scenes of Father Divine's No. 1 heaven in Harlem . . . comprise the three interesting and graphic episodes in the new MARCH OF TIME.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY—Extremely good, with expert use of the camera, is the sequence on Father Divine . . . who dominates a vast group of disciples centered in New York's Harlem.

VARIETY—Per usual, high-grade. Again MARCH OF TIME shapes up as sturdy subfeature material.

NEW YORK TIMES—. . . up to the series' usual high standard.

MOTION PICTURE HERALD—. . . The release rates high in its succession.

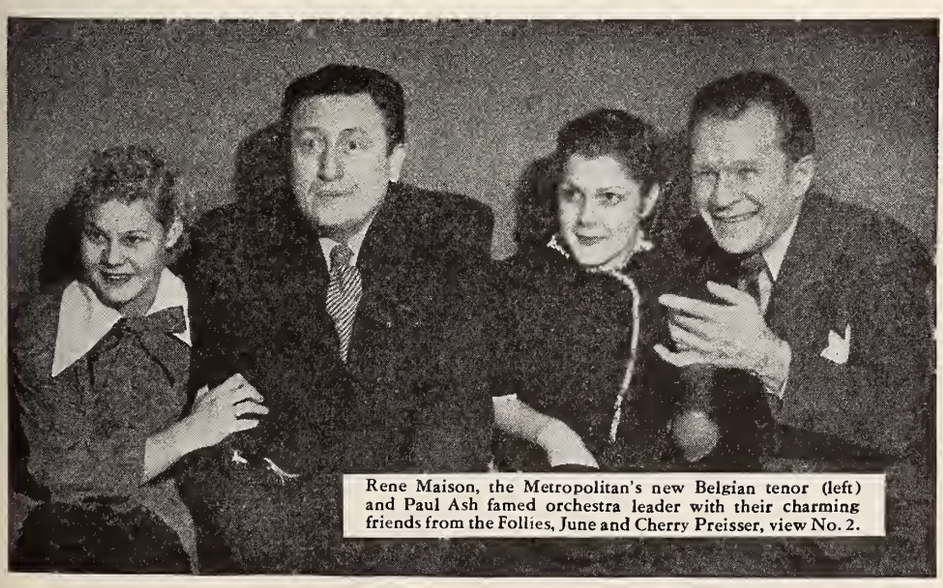
CHARLOTTE NEWS—The screen has produced only two real literary inventions: a little mouse that runs out of an inkbottle, and a dramatic method of presenting news THE MARCH OF TIME. The TIME product today gives continuity, spells out a story, tells why.

SHOWMEN'S TRADE REVIEW—. . . continues to provide finer audience-pleasing stuff than more feature pictures than you'd care to remember.

REVIEWS — GREAT BRITAIN

GLASGOW SUNDAY MAIL—MARCH OF TIME . . . almost yanked me out of my seat. Terrific is just a mild way of describing this strong and meaty fare.

NEWCASTLE SUNDAY SUN—MARCH OF TIME . . . cuts a new path through the jungle of everyday subjects and ideas. No rush to report weddings, sports, parades and floods, but a leisurely reconstruction of some outstanding events with the argument clearly pointed.



MANCHESTER EVENING CHRONICLE—When the first issue was shown . . . the management received hundreds of letters asking when the next issue would be shown.

DAILY DISPATCH—THE MARCH OF TIME, certainly the most sensational short feature ever seen on the screen.

EXCLUSIVE EXPLOITATION

Each month more than 4500 theatres show a new issue of The March of Time. Backing up their local effort is a powerful selling campaign that reaches millions—costs these theatres nothing. This month for an example:

Short Subjects

"Hit and Run Driver"
(M-G-M)

One more item in the intensive campaign being waged by intelligent people everywhere to reduce the number of injuries and fatalities which result from fast and reckless driving, this subject, No. 5 in the "Crime Doesn't Pay" series, takes its place as an important contribution to that most important work. At the same time the direction has made of the subject an intensely interesting, forceful bit of human drama, as the police chief recounts the story of a particular hit and run case to a reporter. His account is reenacted on the screen. The rushing car on a highway at night, the sharp curve, the young couple walking, the blinding crash, the mutilated bodies, and the terrified escape of the driver. Then the manner in which the police, slowly and carefully unearth sufficient evidence to pin the "crime" on the right person, and his eventual confession as he witnesses the unsuccessful operation on one of his two victims. The story is told with a stark realism which cannot fail to impress. The exhibitor is faced almost with a duty in the presentation of this subject, and it is certain civic authorities will cooperate with him. Production Code Seal No. 1,862. Running time, 20 mins. "G."

"Important News"
(M-G-M)

The work of Charles (Chic) Sale in another of his excellent characterizations makes of this an entertaining short. Herein, Sale is the small town editor of a very small town newspaper, who realizes that his readers believe the arrival of twins is real news and the warning of an approaching frost makes first page material for the farmers. When a wanted gangster is shot by G-Men before his eyes, Sale runs a short obit on the man's death, refusing to take the frost warning off the front page. He is ridiculed until a vacationing big city editor heaps high compliments on him. Production Code Seal No. 1,300. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Airhoppers"
(M-G-M)

With Pete Smith affording occasional amusement in his handling of the accompanying dialogue, this number of the Sports Parade series pictures the thrill-seeking enthusiasts of the glider, as they soar aloft in motorless planes, relying on air currents, and taking their lives in their hands. There is entertainment and often a thrill for the audience in the daring maneuvers of the pilots. An effective subject. Production Code Seal No. 1,942. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Vamp Till Ready"
(M-G-M—Roach)

Charlie Chase's antics are often amusing in this comedy, when his wife plays a neat trick on him. The Chase fans especially should find the subject entertaining. His wife is old-fashioned in her dress, and when she suddenly buys a modern gown, Chase, coming home, mistakes his wife for her twin sister, expected for a visit. The wife takes advantage of the opportunity, and proceeds to "vamp" her husband, much to his discomfiture. Eventually she tells him the truth, at which point the twin sister actually arrives to completely bewilder Charlie. Production Code Seal No. 1,888. Running time, 20 mins. "G."

"The Lucky Corner"
(M-G-M—Roach)

There are numerous laughs in this Our Gang comedy, in which the always infectious kids seek to aid the poor lemonade vendor who is ruled off a good corner by a greedy stand owner. Their ingenious plan and its laugh-provoking execution as they beat the competitor at his own game, afford a series of amusing moments. As usual, Spanky, the gang's leader, is an entirely delightful and entertaining performer, ably aided by the rest of the gang. The comedy is one which should satisfactorily fill a spot on any program. Production Code Seal No. 889. Running time, 16 mins. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Yellow Dust"
(Radio)

It's a western—or an outdoor drama, as they call them nowadays—with only one stagecoach holdup and no cattle rustling. That sets it apart for this type of film fare. It has some darn good singing by a very good looking girl, Leila Hyams, who makes her role seem real in an effortless, competent way, and Richard Dix does his stuff with a nonchalant freedom from heroics that is refreshing.

Any western that can stir up scattered applause from a Times Square audience when the hero escapes from hanging has achieved something. "Yellow Dust" did this at the opening show at the Rialto.

The story, by Cyril Hume and John Twist, is based on the play "Mother Lode," by Dan Totheroh and George O'Neil. Just how much it is based on it this reviewer can't say, but it's enough to make for a series of tense scenes and a good assortment of laughs, most of which are contributed by Andy Clyde, as an old prospector, and Moroni Olsen as a western brigand who is willing to reform.

Dix and Clyde discover a gold vein together, and then interrupt a stagecoach holdup while on their way to town to register their claim. Dix's infatuation for Nellie—Miss Hyams—and Clyde's flirtation with a bottle at the bar, interrupt their plans for filing the claim. Dix winds up in the jug and Miss Hyams files the claim in her own name to foil Onslow Stevens, a crooked hotel proprietor, who intends to get both the gold and the young woman.

There's some smart riding, a tense scene when Dix seems about to be hung, and another exciting moment when Dix interrupts Stevens' efforts to marry Miss Hyams. Some of the photography by Edward Cronjager is splendid. Wallace Fox directed.

Production Code Seal No. 1,799. Running time, 68 minutes. "G."

"Fast Bullets"
(Reliable)

Standard western drama, this one features Tom Tyler as a Texas Ranger and the plot of the film involves the rounding up of a band of gun runners. The usual excitement prevails and it should be a good adjunct to a Saturday children's program.

Tyler, when a couple of his buddies are murdered, sets out after the criminals. With unusual good luck he captures three of them in the first reel. To the third, Rex Lease, he explains the dangers of the criminal life. Lease helps him round up the remainder of the gang. After a bit of sleuthing, a narrow escape from death and the arrival of the Rangers to settle accounts, the piece ends with Lease and his sister, Margaret Nearing, in the Rangers as the cowboys sit around the campfire and sing. There is a bit of humor injected into the narrative when the Rangers use dummies to foil an ambush.

Miss Nearing recites her lines quite amateurishly. Tyler rides and fights in good style and Lease handles his role well. Al Bridges is also in the cast. Henri Samuels directed and Pliny Goodfriend photographed.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 60 mins. "G."

"Things to Come" Is Given London Start

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, Feb. 23.—"Things to Come" opened at the Leicester Square here Friday. It was previously shown at a press preview the day before the opening.

The film deals with a world of the future, after H. G. Wells, a world that is replete with the last word in modernity—great buildings that overshadow present skyscrapers, helicopters landing and taking off in the streets and a perfected television which permits leaders to address the whole world on screens thousands of feet high in the public square. The narrative involves the world's collapse to barbarism through war and its regeneration by a group of scientists. The high point is near the end when two young people, pioneers in interplanetary flight, are shown entering a rocket and being hurled to the moon. They circle it and return.

The model settings and technical work is of a high calibre and it is offered that the picture will create a great impression in America which for the first time in film history may be led to think itself technically outdistanced.

A complete review of this film will be published at a later date.

Three Union Merger Is Now Held Remote

Although Local 306 is reported in control of Empire State Union, a merger of Allied M. P. Operators, Local 306 and Empire is regarded as remote among independent exhibitors in the local area.

Reports have it that the new set of officers in Empire are representatives of Local 306. Independent circuits which have long term contracts with Empire and which call for cancellation upon three days' notice if a merger of the unions is completed are considering taking action.

However, the Empire election is now in the courts. Certain members claim that the list of officers was elected illegally and are now asking the courts to return the former setup. In the event the court holds the election void, the theatre men will continue with the Empire agreements. If the court decides the election was legal, a new union is expected to be formed by the members who are balking at the new official roster.

Curb on Long Island Wells Being Sought

Further sinking of artesian wells under Brooklyn and nearby Long Island theatres for cooling systems will probably be barred if legislation sought by Governor Lehman is enacted by the present Legislature.

Brooklyn, nearby portions of Queens and adjoining towns in Nassau County have in the past made use of the underground water supply for which Long Island has been well known. It seems, however, that the pumping done by the city in Flatbush and in the areas out on the island for water supply has drained the level, or "table," as it is called, to the point where there is danger of salt water seeping in.

Cummins Applies for Order on "Ecstasy"

Samuel Cummins on Friday in state Supreme Court applied for a show cause order preliminary to seeking an injunction restraining Intimate Theatres, Inc., Metropolis Film Exchange and the officers of the two companies from exhibiting any picture using, in whole or in part, the title, "Ecstasy." The action followed the advertising for showing at the 55th St. Playhouse, operated by Intimate Theatres, of "Ecstasy of Young Love."

Cummins, through his attorney, Henry J. Pearlman, charged unfair and fraudulent practice, claiming that he owns the rights to two pictures, "Ecstasy" and "Young Love," both produced in Czechoslovakia, and that these two titles were combined into one by Intimate Theatres. The action, in addition to the two companies, names Max A. and William Goldberg, president and treasurer, respectively, of Intimate, and Martin J. Lewis, president of Metropolis. Max Goldberg said late Friday that it had been decided not to run the picture at the theatre, but Cummins indicated that the injunction action would be pressed in any case.

The film "Ecstasy" was involved in considerable controversy some time ago when the Government refused it admittance to this country.

Raise Ohio WPA Wages

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 23.—More than 18,000 WPA workers in Ohio have been granted a 10 per cent increase in wages, meaning an expenditure of at least $1,000,000 additional each month to meet the payrolls.

The present payroll varies between $10,000,000 and $11,000,000 monthly. The State WPA has an $81,000,000 budget for operations up to July 1.

'Twas a Busy Day

Kansas City, Feb. 23.—A big day at the Newman.

A man fell down out front and cut his hand on the ice. He was taken inside and given first aid.

A tough looking customer walked up to the box-office and demanded money. A policeman standing in a nearby doorway was listening. He took the stranger to the station.

A woman patron lost her balance and fell down stairs, spraining her wrist.

Two men patrons, desiring the same seat, came to words about the matter, and went out into the foyer to have it out. Only timely intervention of the staff prevented blows.

A pipe in the alley froze, causing the water to back up and flood the main floor rest rooms about two feet deep.

John Balaban of B. & K. came to town to visit with Manager Ralph Lawler all day.

Mrs. Lawler phoned that she had fallen on the ice trying to reach the corner near the Lawler home.

The theatre had the biggest opening day in two years.

Maybe it was all because Mae West came to town in "Klondike Annie."

Fleischer Awarded $5,500 On Doll Suit

Special Master Theodore S. Kenyon, appointed by Federal Judge John Woolsey to determine the amount of damages in the copyright infringement suit by Fleischer Studios, Inc., and Fleischer Art Service, Inc., against Freundlich, doll manufacturer, has awarded $5,500 to the plaintiffs. This is exclusive of $2,000 for costs and attorneys' fees to be decided by Judge Woolsey.

Louis Nizer of Phillips & Nizer orginally tried the case for the plaintiffs before Judge Woolsey, who held there had been an infringement of the Max Fleischer cartoon of Betty Boop by the doll manufacturer. The decision was then appealed to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals and the U. S. Supreme Court and in both instances the determination was affirmed.

To Investigate Storage

DENVER, Feb. 23.—An investigation of film storage in the city will be started as a result of a $7,500 fire at the Filmcraft Laboratories, in which five firemen were overcome. Careless handling of film caused the blaze, which necessitated closing the plant temporarily. City ordinances prohibit the storing of more than five reels outside a storage vault.

Greater Union Sets Modernization Plan

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—At the beginning of December, 1935, Greater Union Theatres of Australia launched a reconstruction policy, starting work on the Brisbane Tivoli, according to a report from Trade Commissioner E. C. Squire in Sydney. About £20,000 is to be spent in modernizing the Tivoli. The entire circuit of Greater Union Theatres is to be modernized during 1936, and work is to begin immediately on four other houses—one at Brisbane, one at Newcastle, one in Sydney and one in Melbourne.

What is claimed to be the highest price paid for any theatre site in Sydney for many years is that on which a new £25,000 theatre and shopping arcade will be erected. The theatre is being built for Packer, Nacard and Packer, and is expected to open in March. A new theatre which cost about £19,000. was opened recently at Manly, a suburb of Sydney.

One independent circuit is reported to be handing out more than $4,000 in cash every week. The bill for giveaways for the same group of theatres virtually approximates this amount, it is said.

One remedy suggested by a few independents is to tax games and gifts out of the film business by a municipal ordinance. A levy of from 10 to 20 per cent has been recommended, but nothing has been done by either exhibitors individually or the I. T. O. A. to make a move in this direction.

Claim 4,000 Spots Using Bank Nights

Approximately 4,400 theatres in the United States are now featuring Bank Night, Claude Ezell, general manager of Affiliated Enterprises, owners of the game, stated Friday prior to his departure for Dallas after two days in New York.

While here he conferred with Roy Brauer, ex-film salesman in Dallas, who sailed Saturday for Rio de Janeiro to open an office and supervise the company's activities in South America.

Ezell leaves Dallas today for the coast to confer with Rick Ricketson, one of the two partners of Affiliated Enterprises.

Bank Night Appeals Dismissal of Suits

BOSTON, Feb. 23.—George S. Ryan, Bank Night attorney, has filed an appeal with the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals against the dismissal by Judge Sweeney of the U. S. District Court of a Bank Night infringement suit brought against Meyer Gruber and Harry Bloomberg, distributors of Parlay Cash Night.

In dismissing the suit, Judge Sweeney said that both stunts were gambling "within the meaning of the Massachusetts statutes."

Loew Screeno Cases Postponed in Bronx

Hearing on two cases against Loew's for alleged violation of the lottery laws as a result the use of Screeno in the Elsmere and Grand was postponed Friday to March 17 in Special Sessions, Bronx. Continuation of the cases was sought by Irving Greenfield, Loew attorney, because of an appeal pending on a decision of the Appellate Division of the Brooklyn Supreme Court.

Another hearing is set for Feb. 28 involving the Paradise on a similar situation. A request for an adjournment likewise is expected to be granted.

Delay Bank Night Case

Scheduled for hearing Friday in the Bronx Supreme Court, the Bank Night case against Harry Harris' Bronx Opera House was put over until some time in March.

Although District Attorney Foley is anxious to have the various cases involving games brought to trial, defense counsel asked for the delay because of actions pending in the higher courts.

The presidents in Hollywood are: Nicholas M. Schenck of M-G-M, Harry M. Warner, Warners; Mary Pickford, United Artists; Harry Cohn, Columbia; Carl Laemmle, Universal; John E. Otterson, Paramount; Leo Spitz, RKO.

Vacationing at Boca Raton, Fla., is S. R. Kent, Twentieth Century-Fox.

Ned E. Depinet, president of RKO Distributing Corp., also is on the coast.

May Change "Polo" Plans

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 23.—There is a strong possibility that Douglas Fairbanks will personally finance his film, "Marco Polo," without the assistance of United Artists. Production on the film is being held in abeyance pending his final decision.

Lehman Coming East

limitation applies to the RKO leases with Rockefeller Center on which the claim is based. If counsel succeeds in proving this, RKO would be liable only for rent for three years following the lease defaults, which would reduce the $9,100,000 claim to $2,900,000.

As the claim now stands, it is the largest in the unsecured creditors' group. Officials of Rockefeller Center state that they regard a final settlement agreement as "premature" at this time, and indicate that no commitment on a settlement of the claim will be made until material advancement on a plan of reorganization for RKO has been made. This may entail six months or more, in view of statements from reliable sources that little progress has been made on the development of a plan in recent months, thus leaving reorganization in a definitely elementary stage at this time.

RCA Sees Chance of Liability from RKO

Contingencies under which RCA sold one-half of its interest in RKO to Atlas Corp. and gave an option for the purchase of the remaining half could reduce RCA's return on the transaction to as little as $3,700,000, it is disclosed in the annual report to RCA stockholders issued recently.

The report states that if the option held by Atlas is not exercised, there could arise a liability on RCA, following a reorganization of RKO, which could amount to a maximum appraised value of $1,300,000. Atlas paid $5,000,000 in cash for the 50 per cent of the RCA holdings. The RCA liability mentioned in the report would indicate that the price was fixed in relation to an estimated value of the new securities which would be issued by RKO upon reorganization in exchange for the old securities. If the new do not have the anticipated value, and the Atlas option is not exercised, Atlas could be reimbursed up to a maximum appraised value of $1,300,000.

The option to acquire RCA'S remaining holdings in RKO continues to Dec. 31, 1937, at a price of $6,000,000.

RCA reported net profit for 1935 of $5,126,873, as compared with a profit of $4,249,264 in 1934.

Danziger Is Promoted

Louis Nizer, executive secretary of the New York Film Board, has promoted Henry R. Danziger to office manager, succeeding the late John T. Cronin. At the same time Peter Lewis has been named head of the investigating department, taking over a post formerly held by Danziger.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 23.—Cliff Schaufel has come here from New York to become manager of the Garden, Associated house.

Swedish Group Plan Producing Company

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—A new Swedish producing company, which will be capitalized at between 100,000 crowns and 300,000 crowns, will be established in the near future by a small group of distributors and theatre owners, it was reported to the U. S. Department of Commerce by Trade Commissioner Basil D. Dahl in Stockholm.

The studio will be located in or near Goteborg and a number of the actors and actresses of Goteborg's Stads-teater (The Goteborg City Theatre) will be employed by the new company. Production will be started in three or four months, according to present plans, the report stated.

Small in New Concern

William Small, formerly executive secretary of the I.T.O.A., has joined with his brother, Fred, in the formation of Theatre Advisory Service. William is president.

The company will finance construction and reconditioning of theatres as well as render special advisory service on advertising and other matters.

Paris, Ill., Spot Burns

Standard Capital Deal For "U" Definitely Set

Long Session On Copyright Begins Today

Sirovich Declares New Measure Ready

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Members of the House Patents Committee tomorrow will begin a four-week session on copyright legislation, with a promise from Chairman Sirovich of New York that he will have a new bill to put before them. Sirovich introduced a general copyright measure in the House last week, but withdrew it before it could be circulated, apparently with a view to making some last-minute changes. It is expected to be ready for the committee tomorrow.

For three days, beginning tomorrow, the committee will hear representatives of Ascap. On Thursday, the committee will divide honors with the Neely sub-committee of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, which then opens hearings on block booking, and possibly with a subcommittee of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee. which may hold hearings on the same subject at the same time.

Next week, for three days, the

Moss Offer on Roxy Denied by Israels

Reports current yesterday that Ben S. Moss had submitted a bid for the reorganization of the Roxy were denied by Carlos Israels of White & Case, attorneys for the first mortgage bondholders' committee.

Israels stated he had heard Moss consulted his attorney on a bid but the committee hasn't heard from either Moss or the lawyer.

All Theatres In Bridgeport Cease Games

BRIDGEPORT, Feb. 24.—Following a conference with police, managers of theatres here using Bank Night, Screeno and other cash giveaways decided to withdraw such games from their houses. In most cases Country Store was substituted, although some of the houses inaugurated Bargain Night, reducing admissions to a 10-cent top.

City Prosecutor Cotter issued a decree prohibiting all games for cash prizes, following constant complaints from business men against Bingo and Beano games running nightly at the clubrooms of various local organizations. Bank Night officials have taken no action as yet, but Adolph G. Johnson, representative in the New Haven territory, has indicated that a test case probably will be sought in the near future.

This is the first city in the state to stop cash giveaways. Norwalk's

"Pine" and "Fleet" Big Over Week-End

"Trail of the Lonesome Pine" at the Paramount and "Follow the Fleet" at the Music Hall are going great guns, the former aiming for a $50,000 take while the latter looks as though it will hit close to $110,000.

The all-color outdoor picture garnered $40,000 for the first five days at the Paramount and indications are the theatre will have a three-week tenant. The Saturday record for the Music Hall was shattered by $2,000, according to the theatre's executives, indicating the Astaire-Rogers musical may be held for a third stanza, too.

Paramount claims 18,000 patrons checked in at the box-office on the opening day of "Trail of the Lonesome Pine." On Saturday, Washington's Birthday, it is said more than 22,000 people jammed the theatre, representing about 1,000 more cash customers than have ever attended the Paramount in one day since it was opened.

Out-of-town business on "Follow the Fleet" is doing better than "Top

Maiden Speech

Ottawa, Feb. 24.—H. E. Wilton, manager of the Strand, Hamilton, Ont., a newly elected member of the Canadian House of Commons, made his maiden speech in Parliament and it was a gem. He said:

"I notice most of the members have taken their full 40 minutes for their speeches. If at any time in this House I am caught speaking more than 15 minutes I hope some member will ring the bell on me."

Under Canadian Parliamentary procedure, a member may speak for 40 minutes on any measure or motion.

Production Gains With 37 in Work

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 24.—Continued bad weather failed to hold down production here last week. Studio activity showed an increase over the preceding week with 37 features in work. The previous week showed 35 features shooting. Short subject production dropped to one, at the Roach studio. There were five shorts in work the preceding week.

M-G-M recorded the greatest activity, replacing Warners, which had held the lead for several weeks. The Culver City plant had nine features working on the sound stages.

Columbia had four features shooting, three in preparation for filming within the next two weeks and four in the cutting rooms. M-G-M had nine, one and 12; Paramount, five, six and 14; Radio, two, two and four; Roach, one, zero and zero; Twentieth Century-Fox, five, three and seven;

Control Slated to Pass To Cowdin-Rogers On Or Before Mar. 14

By RED KANN

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 24.—Control of Universal definitely will swing to Standard Capital, headed by J. Cheever Cowdin, and the group represented by Charles R. Rogers on or before March 14, when the extended option granted these interests by Carl Laemmle expires.

Official notice of intention to exercise the option is reliably learned to have been given Universal within the past 48 or 72 hours by Cowdin.

Rogers whose financial chief is Adolph Ramish, one of the original participants in West Coast Theatres long before it became Fox West Coast, today continued his policy of caution, but went far enough to make this flat statement: "We will go through.

"There remain, however, several details to be straightened out and in the face of them there seems to be no point in making any statement. We will make our announcement when the time arrives and I think it will prove a surprise. We will divulge an array of personalities whose identity with Universal has not been suspected," he said.

Asked whether or not he was referring to production personalities or executive personalities, or both, Rogers replied:

"I am referring to both."

Music Society Hit In Canadian House

OTTAWA, Feb. 24.—The 1936 session of the Canadian Parliament had barely swung into its full stride before the Canadian Performing Rights Society was mentioned. Speaking on the floor of the House of Commons, William Esling, member for Kootenay West, described the operations of the society as a "pernicious racket" and said the country was suffering a great deal from its exactions. He demanded legislation to restrict the scope of the society which, he declared, did not protect Canadian authors and composers but only foreigners.

Esling asserted that the fees de-

Hollywood, Feb. 24

ADDING significantly and at large to the inanities of press agentry, although not necessarily Hollywood style by any approach, is this picked up from the Los Angeles Examiner:

"A man with 'zwip' is a much better sweetheart than a man with 'zumph,' declares blonde Bette Davis, co-starred with Leslie Howard in 'Petrified Forest' opening tomorrow at both Warner Bros. Hollywood and Downtown theatres.

"'Zumph,' according to Bette, is that he-man quality which any red-blooded male can acquire, with big biceps, day-old whiskers and rough-and-ready mannerisms predominating.

"'Zwip,' on the other hand, is a tender, almost inspirational, quality which few men have."

Or didn't you know? . . .

Colton Wins Judgment

A judgment for $69,585 was handed down in the Supreme Court yesterday on behalf of John Colton, scenario writer who wrote "Rain" and "Shanghai Gesture," against Harry Oshrin, theatrical attorney, who was at one time Colton's manager and personal representative. The judgment was obtained after accounting proceedings were brought by Colton.

The Appellate Division ruled that all money received by Oshrin for Colton was received as trustee in a fiduciary capacity, and that Oshrin's charge of $18,337 for commission on Colton's salary was improper and should be set aside. Oshrin was also taxed the cost of the action, which amounted to $3,551.

Intermountain Takes Over Nielson Houses

Intermountain Theatres, a Paramount subsidiary, on March 1 will assume operation of four Mike Nielson theatres in Preston, Idaho, and Logan and Bingham, Utah. Nielson also has a theatre in Boise, Idaho, which is not included in the transaction.

Harry David, operating head of Intermountain, who was in town last week conferring with Y. Frank Freeman, closed the deal for the leases. Two of the four houses to be taken over are in Logan.

Fairbanks Flies East

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 24.—Douglas Fairbanks left here by plane for New York yesterday for further conferences with Robert E. Sherwood on "Marco Polo." He will remain in the East three or four days. The tentative starting date on the film has been set for May 1.

Laemmle Feted on 30th Anniversary

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 24.—More than 300 film personalities of the past and present gathered at luncheon today in the Universal studio to honor Carl Laemmle on his 30th anniversary in the motion picture industry. The gathering included such past celebrities as King Baggott, William Selig, J. Stuart Blackton, Hobart Bosworth, Grace Cunard; also such present-day tycoons as Hal Roach, Cecil DeMille, Henry Herzbrun, Hal Wallis and Jesse Lasky, as well as a veritable galaxy of current screen stars. Paramount and Universal Newsreels recorded the event.

Rupert Hughes acted as toastmaster. Among the guests were:

To Confer with Laemmle

Joseph Pasternak, Herman Kosterlitz and D. Rabinowitz, who have been connected with Universal foreign production activities, leave for Hollywood today to confer with Carl Laemmle on making pictures on the coast.

Universal is endeavoring to inject international angles in pictures to be made abroad and will have the trio work at the coast studios for a while. They arrived last week on the Ile de France and since have been discussing plans with Nate Manheim, head of the company's foreign department.

To Reopen Sabath Probe

Murray Garsson, attorney for the Sabath Congressional committee for the investigation of real estate bond reorganizations, returned from the coast yesterday after hearings on the Fox West Coast reorganization. Garsson said that additional hearings on film company reorganizations may be held in Washington before the full committee in the near future.

"TRAIL OF LONESOME PINE" A WOW!

Society Storming Colony, Miami Beach, as "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" Opens in Summer Weather

Paramount Technicolor Picture Smashes All Records in Miami Beach and Broadway Openings.

Within a single week, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," first big film drama in color, has smashed all time records in two key spots on the Atlantic Seaboard. Opening Monday in Miami Beach, the big Walter Wanger production had mobs fighting for admission to the high hat Colony Theatre. And Wednesday morning saw Broadway jammed as the New York Paramount gave New York its first glimpse of the Technicolor opus.

Critics joined with Florida society, with celebrities of the theatre, of the sports world, of the writing business, and with Mr. and Mrs. Fan to tell the world Paramount had a winner. And exhibitors all over the country had the home office haywire begging for prints. Follow up business at both houses continues strong. And it looks like Paramount has added another to the Paramount list of box office aces.

Miami Beach, Fla.—Feb. 18—There may have been a Moon over Miami last night. If there was, nobody noticed it. They were too busy fighting their way through the mobs on Lincoln Road, trying by a little straight arm stuff to muscle their way into the biggest picture opening this winter resort has ever seen . . . the world premiere of Paramount's all-color drama, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine."

The big shots of the sports world, the theatre, high society, not to mention a few hundred ordinary muggs like your reporter wrinkled their stiff bosoms, k.o'd their straw kelleys and had themselves one brawl of a time but it was worth it . . . as everybody from the moneyed top kicks to the little fellows voted without a single dissenting opinion that this big time action picture in color was aces, and set up a mark for the other boys in the picture business to shoot at.

Trail Marks New Picture Epoch says Major Warner

Miami Beach—Feb. 18—"Tonight's premiere brought me back to the day when we made the first talkie," said Major Albert Warner, interviewed at "Lonesome Pine" opening. "They said it could not be done. They predicted the public would never take to it. But the skeptics have been proved wrong. 'The Trail of the Lonesome Pine' is a magnificent production in color. It marks an epoch in pictures."

CROWDS BRAVE WEATHER, MOB BROADWAY FOR "TRAIL OF THE LONESOME PINE" OPENING

New York, N. Y.—Feb. 20—Old Weather Man slipped over a fast one and hauled the temperature down to the zero line yesterday. But the New York fans just buttoned up their overcoats, held their mitts to their ears and stood in line until they got what they wanted . . . and what they wanted was to see the world premiere of the first color drama, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine."

Before noon the New York Paramount had chalked up a new record for attendance and the fans were still streaming in. And did they like it? They did. As far as New York is concerned Paramount has topped off its recent series of box office successes with an even bigger winner.

N.Y.Paramount warms frost bitten fans with sinkers and coffee.

"The picture that opened at the Paramount Theatre yesterday before a record early morning audience marks the beginning of a new epoch in films. Henry Hathaway, the director who handled 'Lives of a Bengal Lancer' so expertly has kept the story moving at a lively pace."

"The beauties of nature and those of Miss Sylvia Sidney are brought in realistic hues to the screen of the Paramount in this handsomely Technicolored production. Each scene is a painting wrought by the hand of the Master."

—Regina Crewe, New York American

"A tremendous advance in color photography. It is beautiful enough to shine as a milestone in the movies' technical march of progress."

—Bland Johaneson, Daily Mirror

"When to the story is added a cast of unusual merit and a richly beautiful color production, then it becomes a distinguished and worthwhile picture, commanding attention no less for its intrinsic entertainment value than as another milestone in the development of the cinema."

Wanger's Production Would Be Box Office Even Without Color Novelty; Hathaway, Sylvia Sidney, Writing Splendid

Color is here. And prosperity too, for the theatres booking Walter Wanger's "Trail of the Lonesome Pine." You don't have to be a veteran in the business to remember what Irving Cumming's "Cisco Kid" did at the box office. That picture was the first outdoor talking picture. It gave the producers confidence that talking pictures were here to stay. Now comes "Lonesome Pine"... the first major outdoor talking feature in color—to prove that color is here to stay. . . . The picture would be a hit even in black and white, due to the uniformly high quality of its cast, direction and story.

"Trail" Proves Film of Magnificence Great Entertainment; Box Office Smash

"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" is a film of dramatic and artistic magnificence, a great piece of entertainment for all classes and a box office smash by every sign.

Picture is a directorial triumph for Henry Hathaway. The players score solidly, man, woman, and child. Supporting the whole pyramid of outstanding excellence is the courage, the vision, the imagination and showmanly intuition and shrewdness of Walter Wanger paving a further way into the realm of screen color on firm commercial ground."

mayor is now studying the legality of the awards, but so far has not indicated any intention of asking theatres to discontinue the practice.

At Danbury, Bank Night has grown to the extent that the city's three theatres all offer the same show with the same scale of prices on that night.

Study Bank Night Insurance

DENVER, Feb. 24.—Bank Night insurance companies are being studied by the state. Assistant Attorney General J. Glenn Donaldson has ordered two companies here, and invited theatre managers to attend a hearing to be held at the statehouse in an attempt to determine the legality and whether the state insurance laws govern.

If insurance laws govern, the companies must post large cash bonds. In Arizona the attorney general ruled the insurance laws applied and the Bank Night insurance there quit because of inability to post the $100,000 required. The Theatre Guarantee Corp., first of the Denver companies to sell Bank Night insurance, says it will post whatever bond is necessary. A second company, backed by a large drug chain, and ready to start operations, has postponed action until a state ruling is made.

The Theatre Guarantee Corp. operates through agencies, having more than 30 in the city. It charges 10 cents for the first $100 insurance, 15 cents to $200, 20 cents to $300 and 25 cents for $400 to $500.

Theatre Guarantee's plan covers 14 theatres, the Lucky Seven and Civic groups, and two others. In order to win, one must not only have the first number drawn, but must not be at the theatre.

Lottery Charge Dismissed

ELKHART, Ind., Feb. 24.—An affidavit charging Sid Holland, manager of the Elco here, with violating the Indiana anti-lottery law by conducting Bank Night was quashed in Superior Court here by Lenn J. Oare of South Bend, special judge. Oare held that since the theatre asked "no cash or other valuable consideration" from customers participating in Bank Night, the state law had not been infringed.

Cited for Contempt on Games

DETROIT, Feb. 24.—Judge DeWitt H. Merriam, of Circuit Court, has issued an order directing Jacob Schreiber to show cause why he is not in contempt of court for using cash giveaways in spite of a permanent injunction granted by the judge on Jan. 16. The order is returnable on Feb. 29. The injunction was obtained by the Temple-Sproat Co., operating the Roxy of the Ben & Lou Cohen circuit.

Schreiber has an appeal pending in the state Supreme Court. Prosecutor Duncan McCrea last week stated that he would take no further action against theatres using cash prizes until the high court had rendered its decision in the Schreiber case.

Schreiber immediately resumed cash giveaways at the Colonial and Majestic, covered in the permanent injunction and also started using them in the Forest, Garden and Blackstone, in most instances every night but Saturday and Sunday. Judge Merriam's order followed.

Schreiber declared he would continue to use the cash prizes until the contempt action and the Supreme Court ruling were settled.

Missouri Test Case Near

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 24.—G. E. McKean, St. Louis distributor for Affiliated Enterprises, Inc., patentees of Bank Night, was arrested last week for the sale and promotion of a lottery, at Fredericktown.

McKean immediately filed a habeas corpus writ with the Supreme Court of Missouri, in which it was asserted that Bank Night does not violate the state's anti-lottery law because the promotion does not involve "consideration." This is the state Supreme Court test, on the strength of which Attorney General Roy McKittrick last week withdrew his department's "premature" decision pronouncing the promotion illegal.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Feb. 24.—Local theatres have been warned by the police department that Jackpot Nights or any form of lottery contest will not be permitted. Contests of this nature, Police Chief Luther Hollums said, are violation of a city ordinance.

Remick Shifts WOR Actions to Newark

Remick has withdrawn two copyright infringement suits filed against the Bamberger Broadcasting Co. in N. Y. Supreme Court and yesterday refiled the same suits in Newark where station WOR is located. The Warner music subsidiary is seeking $10,000 damages for the use without permission of "My Isle of Golden Dreams" and "I Want to Bounce Around With You."

In addition to these suits, Harms yesterday filed an action in Newark against the same station for $5,000 for the broadcast of "Chansonette." In Jersey City, Harms has filed suit against WHOM for the use of "I Want to Woo," claiming damages of $5,000.

Papers have been sent to Philadelphia and New Orleans where actions will be filed against WPEN by Witmark & Sons in the former city for the use of "Mother Machree" and by Harms against DSU in New Orleans for using "Three Little Words."

Future policies of the group and a possible affiliation with Allied are to be discussed. The meeting place is expected to be made the permanent headquarters of the group.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Little Lord Fauntleroy"

(Selznick Inter'l-United Artists)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 24.—There is substantial merit in David O. Selznick's initial picture under his own banner for United Artists release.

Strictly in the mood which has characterized all of his recent pictures, such as "A Tale of Two Cities," this young producer has turned to the sticky and minor classic of Frances Hodgson Burnett and, by dint of considerable ingenuity and intelligence, has fashioned an attraction which should send parent-teacher associations out cheering and clubwomen into ecstatic raves over this celluloid exploration into motives pure and chivalry untarnished.

Rarely has there been such a set of unblemished characters and infrequently a group of individuals who have thought so well of their fellow man. The story tells of Freddie Bartholomew, son of the son of the Earl of Dorincourt, who married Dolores Costello and into an estate so beneath him parental forgiveness failed to be forthcoming. Comes the day when the boy, Ceddie, and his mother, "Dearest," are called from Brooklyn of the '80s to England, where the last of the Dorincourts is waiting to induct the youngster, now Lord Fauntleroy, into the magnificence of the landed gentry. The condition is "Dearest" cannot live in the great castle.

Freddie, who plays Ceddie, goes and at once captivates the earl, played gruffly and with much hiccoughing by C. Aubrey Smith, to a point where the entire household undergoes a heart-warming change. The only menacing influence in the picture is the rival claim set up by a woman representing herself to be the wife of another son and mother of their offspring, who, therefore is the legitimate Fauntleroy. But Freddie's pals in prosaic Brooklyn recognize the fraud from the newspapers and prove instrumental in puncturing the trumped up charge. Serenity returns to the countryside and "Dearest" into the household.

John Cromwell's direction is sympathetic and intelligent. Young Bartholomew's performance is expert and impressive far beyond his age. Miss Costello, returning to pictures after a lengthy absence, bears the mark of the years lightly and remains lovely to look at and pleasant to hear. Smith makes a very good job of the grumpy nobleman in the style perfunctory with a role of the type. Others who do well include Henry Stephenson, Mickey Rooney, Una O'Connor, Guy Kibbee, E. E. Clive, Constance Collier, Jackie Searl, Jesse Ralph and Helen Flint.

"Fauntleroy" has a definite mid-Victorian flavor reeking from it and that, of course, is traceable to the story which is quite light and nostalgic. If the public will take any "Little Lord Fauntleroy," it will take this one in sizable gobs.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 24.—Judge Harry R. Archbald has taken under advisement testimony given in the suit of Ann Dvorak for the legal interpretation of her Warner contract. Miss Dvorak was suspended by the studio last Nov. 1.

Short Subjects

"Down the Ribber"

(Radio)

Building up to some humorous moments, this comedy starring Leon Errol is entertaining. While the plot is not novel, the treatment is what will put it over. Errol, having quite a reputation as a practical joker, is planned a counter reception by his brother-in-law and his friends. He arrives in town and joins an automobile club and there his troubles begin. His car is stolen and when he reports the theft he is referred from one department to another. The dialogue here produces the required comic effect with the dumb answers and incompetent acting principals. At the conclusion, after much exasperation, he is inducted into the Ribbers' Club and given his badge. Production Code Seal, No. 1,262. Running time, 21 mins. "G."

"The Goose That Laid the Golden Egg"

(Radio)

This is a good entertaining color cartoon which features the return of Felix to the screen. Felix has the Golden Goose and is solving the depression problem in his town by distributing gold to the needy. However, a villain, Captain Kidd, breaks into the house and makes off with the goose. Felix, ingeniously, after the fashion of cartoons, gets on board Kidd's ship and with a good amount of animated action sequences turns the tables and returns a hero. Production Code Seal, No. 0809. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Framing Father"

(Radio)

A standard comedy plot gives this film a bit of interest. Ford Sterling, a hosiery manufacturer, breaks into print in a Broadway column and must answer to his wife, Marjorie Gateson. His son, Kenneth Howell, is really to blame and the triangle revolves about this end, with Dorothy Kent the love interest. Sterling is against his son's wish to marry Miss Kent, and by a bit of smart trickery they obtain his consent and all ends well. Production Code Seal, No. 1776. Running time, 16½ mins. "G."

"Winged Pageantry"

(RKO-Van Beuren)

Remarkable closeups of various sea birds and beautiful photographing of aerial patterns as the birds take wing together with an intelligently spoken accompaniment should put this over with most audiences. The film, after the fashion of natural history efforts, shows the migration, breeding and habits of gulls, cormorants, sea parrots, gannets and the penguin-like murre. Production Code Seal, No. 1,917. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Garcia" Plans Halted

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 24.—Plans for a special premier performance of "A Message to Garcia" in honor of Col. Andrew Rowan, hero of the Spanish War incident on which the picture is based, are being held up because of the colonel's illness at his home here, where he lives in retirement.

"Ceiling" and Show $38,000 Chicago Lead

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—Bitterly cold weather held down grosses generally, but "Ceiling Zero," with Horace Heidt and his Brigadiers on the stage at the Chicago, garnered $38,000, over the line by $6,000, for the best downtown showing.

"A Tale of Two Cities," at the Roosevelt, was good for $17,000, which topped par by $6,000. "Miss Pacific Fleet" managed to get $16,800, up by $1,800, with a stage show, at the Oriental.

cution. Karloff had been railroaded to the chair by crooked politicians and had been innocent of the crime for which he had paid the penalty. The story is concerned with his vengeance on the crooks, who all meet a violent death after their encounters with Karloff, who merely stares at them. Intertwined in the plot is a light romantic theme carried by Warren Hull and Marguerite Churchill with some interest focused on the scientific aspect of reviving the dead.

The cast includes Ricardo Cortez, Barton MacLane, Joseph Sawyer and Henry O'Neil, all of whom give creditable performances. The story and screen play are credited to Ewart Adamson, Peter Milne, Robert Andrews, Lillie Hayward and Joseph Fields. Michael Curtiz directed under the supervision of Lou Edelman. Hal Mohr photographed.

"Silly Billies"

(Radio)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 24.—The bright idea of putting Wheeler and Woolsey in a western fails to work out according to hopes, resulting in the least funny offering of the comics to date, and giving exhibitors little to promise except the usual antics of the buffoons against a new background.

Woolsey plays a dentist going west to make his fortune in the pioneer settlement of Littletown. Wheeler is his assistant who falls moonily in love with school teacher, Dorothy Lee. Richard Alexander, bad man, sells them a building on the eve of the departure of the whole town in the California gold rush. Harry Woods, bad man number two, has arranged for the wagon train to be massacred by Indians. Wheeler and Woolsey ride to warn of the plot, but are accused of being in league with the Indians. Some fairly funny scenes are contrived during the attack on the wagon train when Woolsey uses sponges soaked in chloroform to knock out the savages. Wheeler rides for the cavalry and saves the day. The supporting cast includes Ethan Laidlaw, Chief Thunderbird and Delmar Watson.

A fair sample of the dialogue is in the scene where the comics, drunk, mistake a goat for a patient. "He reminds me of my old man!" sobs Wheeler sympathetically. "Reminds you!" retorted Woolsey. "He smells like mine!" Fred Guiol directed the story which he wrote with Tom Lennon. The screenplay is by Al Boasberg and Jack Townley. Dave Dreyer and Jack Scholl wrote music and lyrics for a rather amusing cowboy song. Lee Marcus produced.

Sussman and Chicago Conferees Get Back

William Sussman, newly appointed eastern division manager for Twentieth Century-Fox, arrived yesterday from Chicago after attending a two-day mid-winter conference with John D. Clark, general sales manager. Clark left yesterday for Hollywood from the Windy City.

Among those returning with Sussman are E. C. Grainger, William J. Kupper, J. A. Clark, Charles E. McCarthy, William Clark, Nat Finkler, Edward Collins, Harry H. Buxbaum, Joe Lee, Clarence Hill, Irving Maas, Jack Bloom, Roger Ferri, Felix Jenkins and Martin Moskowitz.

Jane Withers on Tour

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 24.—Jane Withers, accompanied by her mother, has left here for Chicago for personal appearances at the Oriental. From there she will go to Detroit and Cleveland. The trip will last a month, after which the youngster returns to do "Public Nuisance No. 1" for Twentieth Century-Fox.

Coast Independents Plan Booking Office

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 24.—Independent exhibitors in this territory are laying plans for the formation of a cooperative booking office. It is believed that through such an office independent theatres might receive benefits which distributors are unable to grant individuals.

Distributors favor rather than oppose the idea, as it will enable them to make deals that would otherwise be unprofitable. A meeting of the exhibitors will be held within the next few weeks. Such an office will not effect the I.T.O. or any other independent exhibitor organization, it is said.

Bartholomew Invited

Freddie Bartholomew, star of "David Copperfield" and "Little Lord Fauntleroy," will be one of the guests of honor and possibly a speaker at the regular Ampa luncheon to be held Thursday at the Astor. Robert M. Brinkerhoff, cartoonist, is also scheduled to speak.

"Surrender," Show Top in Louisville

LOUISVILLE, Feb. 24.—"Sweet Surrender," helped by a stage show headed by Lottie Mayer's water ballet for four days, led the first runs last week, and contributed the bulk of the $5,400 gross at the National. "The Crime of Dr. Crespi" and "Lover Divine" formed the film fare for the other three days.

"The Lady Consents" took a strong $3,400 at the Brown in its second week. This was over normal by $600. "The Petrified Forest" was $100 up on a take of $3,600 at the Mary Anderson.

Total first run business was $26,600. Average is $24,200.

Hat," according to Radio-ites. At the Stanley, Philadelphia, a new record opening day was established, it was said. The Memorial, Boston; Hippodrome, Cleveland; Orpheum, Minneapolis; Colony and Unity, Miami Beach; and in Albany and Cincinnati are also showing grosses on the musical which indicate the picture will exceed "Top Hat."

"Road Gang" at the Strand opened to capacity business Saturday, Warners state, and week-end figures are far above those chalked up by "Shipmates Forever," "The Irish in Us" and "Page Miss Glory."

The Rivoli with "Modern Times" continues at a steady pace and will probably end the third week with $50,000, or better.

Attendance and box office records for several houses in widely separated sections of the country are reported for "The Music Goes 'Round and Around" in wires received at the Columbia home office yesterday. Houses reporting exceptional business for the picture were Lincoln, Miami Beach; Brandeis, Omaha; Grand, Evansville; Bijou, Rochester, and Orpheum, Terre Haute.

"Pine" Suit Hearing Postponed by Court

The scheduled hearing yesterday on an order to show cause why a stay should not be issued against the exhibition of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" was postponed to Wednesday by Justice Collins in N. Y. Supreme Court.

The show cause order was obtained by Gustavus Simons, attorney for the Trail Co., which claims ownership of certain dramatic and film rights to the work which it contends have not been obtained by Paramount.

Wilk Goes to Coast

Jake Wilk, eastern story head for Warners, left for the coast Sunday to confer with production executives on next season's output. Harry M. Warner already is in Hollywood and Joseph Bernhard, Gradwell Sears and A. W. Smith arrive at the studio today.

Hammond Fisher, creator of Joe Palooka, has been signed to turn out a series of six two-reel cartoons for three years. The company also has signed Rosalind Marquis, a singer who left for the studios yesterday, and Jeanne Madden, another singer, who is en route to Hollywood.

Walk Out at Saenger

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 24.—The engineers walked out of the Saenger here Saturday afternoon, demanding 42 hours weekly instead of 57. E. V. Richards, circuit executive, who had been seriously ill, surprised employes by appearing at his office in a wheelchair.

Wyler Heading East

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 24.—William Wyler is en route east to confer with Sidney Howard and Samuel Goldwyn on "Dodsworth," which he will direct for Goldwyn. Jock Lawrence, Goldwyn publicity director, will leave here for the east on Wednesday.

Dramatists Present Draft of New Terms

The first completed draft of the revised minimum basic agreement between the Dramatists Guild and theatre managers, which was drafted by the guild's contract committee at a meeting on Sunday, was submitted to the council of the guild yesterday and approved by it.

The revised agreement, which is scheduled to become effective March 1, will not be valid, however, until it has been ratified by the guild membership. Ratification is expected at the general membership meeting to be held on Thursday.

Details of the changes covering new methods of bidding for film rights to stage plays, which are covered in the revised agreement, were not disclosed following the council meeting yesterday because of the awaited ratification by the membership.

"Times" Big in Chicago

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—"Modern Times" opened yesterday at the United Artists here to sensational business. The house opened this morning at 8:30 for the first time in its history, and is running 10 shows daily. The opening day gross was claimed to be the greatest since the last Chaplin film ran at the house.

Bandits Get $12,500

BOSTON, Feb. 24.—Three armed bandits held up the cashier's office of the RKO Boston here last night, and escaped with the day's receipts, $12,500. The office, on the second floor in the rear of the house, is always locked, the three gaining admission by a bold use of the buzzer system.

Robbery Suspect Caught

BOSTON, Feb. 24.—Charles Malkewicz, a local resident, has allegedly confessed to participation in the $12,500 RKO Boston robbery last night. $3,500 was found in his room and tentatively identified as part of the theatre's week-end receipts.

"Obsession" Dallas Hit

DALLAS, Feb. 24.—"Magnificent Obsession" has just completed an unusual run here, with one week at the Palace and three at the Rialto. It was indicated at the Dallas Public Library that the showing of the film stimulated exceptional interest in the novel.

To Play "Times" Feb. 27

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 24.—The Vuono Operating Co. of Stamford, recently denied a mandatory injunction against United Artists for Feb. 14 service of "Modern Times" will play the feature on Feb. 27. Vuono has not withdrawn its $5,000 suit for damages, however.

Grants Examination In Pathe-Casey Suit

Justice John E. McGann in N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday granted the application of the Pathe Studios, Inc., for an examination before trial in connection with its suit for breach of contract against Patrick J. Casey. Also named as defendants were E. B. Derr, Charles E. Sullivan, Clinton J. Scollard and Pat Casey Enterprises.

The complaint alleges that Casey was appointed agent of Pathe Studios in November, 1930, to purchase in his own name for Pathe's account and with funds provided by Pathe the film dialogue and music rights to "Lonely Wives" and "The House of Glass." It also charges that Casey, without Pathe's consent and contrary to instructions, took title to the properties in the name of Pat Casey Enterprises as a conspiracy to defraud the plaintiff. Pathe claims it paid Casey $58,250 and he failed to hand over the rights to the material.

Casey has entered a general denial and further sets forth that this action is not brought in good faith, but to annoy him and discourage him from the prosecution of a stockholder's action which he had previously filed against the plaintiff.

Big 20th-Fox Stock Shifts Shown by SEC

Chase Active; Kent Cuts Holdings; Goetz Gains

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Extensive shifts of Twentieth Century-Fox stock holdings are revealed in the semi-monthly report of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

S. R. Kent's Berkshire Finance Corp. in September disposed of 2,842 shares, reducing its holdings to 100 shares. Chase National Bank in August acquired 387,377 shares of common and disposed of 1,549,507 shares of A common. Chase National also acquired 774,754 shares of $1.50 cumulative preferred, and at the close of the month held 7,381 warrants for old Class A Fox stock.

Holdings reported for August showed William Goetz, Beverly Hills, to have 214,643 shares of Twentieth Century-Fox common and 55,284 shares of $1.50 preferred, while Darryl F. Zanuck was shown to hold 183,980 shares of common and 21,946 shares of preferred.

Other details of the Twentieth Century-Fox report showed that in November Seton Porter, New York, acquired one share of common, bringing his holdings to 251 shares, and dis-

Hearing Split Hinders Bills On Copyright

Gene Buck Only Witness As Sessions Open

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Dissension among the members of the House Patents Committee as hearings opened today on copyright measures, threatened to make impossible any action on the legislation at this session of Congress.

The hearing, set for the full day, came to an abrupt conclusion shortly after noon when Congressman Church of Illinois criticised Chairman Sirovich for reversing the usual committee procedure of first hearing proponents of legislation, and called attention to the fact that no permission had been obtained from the House to sit during its sessions. Under that rule, Sirovich was forced to adjourn the hearing until tomorrow morning.

A roomful of creative talent greeted Sirovich as he opened the hearings with the announcement that in addition to the Duffy and Daly bills, the committee would consider a measure which he had introduced yesterday. After posing with Rudy Vallee, Irving Berlin and George Gershwin,

Sabath to Resume Hearings Mar. 11

Open hearings on the RKO receivership and reorganization proceedings will be held before the Sabath Congressional committee in Washington beginning about March 11, Murray W. Garsson, attorney for the committee, said yesterday.

Garsson declined to state what phases of the proceedings would be subjects of the committee's study, but indicated that the acquisition by Lehman Bros. and Atlas Corp. of one-half of RCA's holdings of RKO securities and an option to purchase

U. S. EQUITY SUIT IS FILED IN N. Y.

Grounds Broader Than in St. Louis Action; Ten Corporations and 30 Individuals Are Named—To Seek Early Trial

Carrying out plans he made known when he withdrew the civil action against Warners, Paramount and RKO in St. Louis 27 days ago, Russell Hardy, special assistant to the Attorney General, yesterday filed a similar equity suit, this time in U. S. District Court here.

That the Government was anticipating shifting the scene of the new action from St. Louis to New York was exclusively reported to MOTION PICTURE DAILY on Feb. 10.

All the acts complained of in the original equity action are the same in the new one, according to a source connected with the case, except that the papers filed yesterday are "technically broader, based on more of the statutes involved. In addition to the individual acts, the charges also state the contracts for product for the Shubert-Rialto and Orpheum are in restraint of trade."

In the suit filed yesterday, 10 corporations and 30 individuals were named as defendants. One of the corporations, Paramount Theatres Service Corp., was not named in the St.

New 2-Month Deal Set on Music Hall

A two-month extension of the agreement under which RKO and RCA are given a participation in operating profits of the Music Hall was agreed upon yesterday and will be submitted to the Federal court here for approval. The current agreement expires Feb. 29 and the extension continues it to April 30.

The agreement allocates weekly and annual profit participations to RKO, RCA and Rockefeller Center under various scales of earnings. The agreement originated in September, 1934, when Rockefeller Center and RCA took over the Music Hall lease from RKO and assumed the operating management. It provides for a joint participation by RKO and RCA on an annual basis of $500 per week in the initial earnings of the Music Hall

Jefferson Answers Frels Dallas Suit

DALLAS, Feb. 25.—The Jefferson Amusement Co., has filed in Federal court here an answer to the action brought by Rubin Frels, former exhibitor in Victoria, Texas, under the Sherman anti-trust act, charging conspiracy and asking triple damages totaling $504,024. The trial of the suit has been postponed until the May term of the Federal court. Named with Jefferson were East Texas Theatres, Inc., and various major companies.

In its answer Jefferson denies all the allegations in the plaintiff's petition. It declares that in January, 1931, Jefferson concluded that Victoria presented a good opportunity for a the-

Schaefer Talking Post at Universal

George J. Schaefer, former Paramount vice-president and general manager, will join Universal in an executive capacity if negotiations now in progress are consummated, it was learned yesterday.

The negotiations with Schaefer are being conducted by representatives of Standard Capital Co., which is expected to exercise its option to acquire a controlling interest in Universal within the next week or 10 days. Schaefer will probably occupy a managerial post to be created for him. Reports that he would succeed James R. Grainger as general sales

Motors Show Stirs Few K. C. Protests

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 25.—The General Motors show opened here for a week's run, Feb. 22, with plenty of newspaper publicity, an official blessing from City Manager H. F. McElroy, and general fanfare.

Theatre men grumbled a little about it, but haven't done, and probably won't, do anything.

"We ought to boycott General Motors," said one. "But General Motors could call attention to the fact that theatres have gone into the merchandising business—giving away cars, houses, money, dishes. The only difference is that General Motors gives the show and charges for the merchandise. Theatres charge for the show and, etc."

Insiders' Outlook

OF the many good things coming out of Hollywood, "These Three" will rank with the best of the season. The film colony may chortle over the gags recounted at the general expense of Sam Goldwyn and delight in their never-ending and largely legendary flow, but this man has the respect of the individuals who count because he knows how to produce superior films and they know that he does. . . .

"Original story and screenplay by Lillian Hellman," read the credits and nowhere a reference to "The Children's Hour" from which the film stems, with a significant shift in the nature of the scandal. The play's tongue wagging dealt with the relations between two women teachers. The picture concerns the alleged intimacy between Joel McCrea, at the time engaged to Merle Oberon, and Miriam Hopkins. Much of the stage dialogue, as we recall it, and certainly all other major situations have found their way into the film adaptation. Yet, by a craftsmanlike twist, dramatically and expertly improvised by Miss Hellman, the one alteration leaves the original essentially untouched and provides the picture with the power and the impact of the New York version. . . .

Several times in this area we have chided Goldwyn for purchase of the vehicle. These were recurring evidences of our phobia about buying books and plays only if they lent themselves to the film formula as author and playwright conceived them. The case in point now proves something which gravely damages our first contention. "These Three," very definitely and easily recognizable as a close relation of "The Children's Hour" and, at the same time, pivotally different, tends to substantiate the well-defined producer theory that material often may be worth acquiring if only for an idea, a characterization or a situation. . . .

The situation here concerns Miss Oberon, Miss Hopkins—college students and chums—and McCrea, small town doctor and the devastation heaped upon them by maliciously glib tongues chattering without restraint. The basic thought is as old as old, but its development here is powerfully different. The scene is a school for girls approaching the adolescent age. Bonita Granville, playing Mary Tilford, is the bully—a pampered child of the rich, arrogant, deceitful and thoroughly despicable. Her influence on the remainder of the class is baneful. . . .

Caught in a constant series of lies, she faces punishment, terrorizes Marcia Mae Jones, who portrays Rosalie, into complicity, and, taking French leave, returns to her grandmother's house with a vindictive and wholly fanciful tale of oppression suffered at the hands of her two teachers. The other thread of the drama finds McCrea in love with and engaged to Miss Oberon. Miss Hopkins is secretly in love with him to boot. The lie around which the tragic consequences are constructed develops through the simple and entirely innocent incident of McCrea falling asleep in Miss Hopkins' room while waiting for his fiancee. . . .

Mary Tilford spies through the open door. When her grandmother, played by Alma Kruger, fails to become impressed with the brat's fantastic tales of punishment, the youngster weaves and whispers into Miss Kruger's ear her "fears," her stories of "strange things happening there." Rosalie, completely cowed and intimidated, verifies the story. By telephone, the news is spread, the children withdrawn and personal holocaust at large let loose. Attempts by McCrea to get the truth from the Tilford girl fail and "these three"—McCrea, Oberon and Hopkins—file a libel suit. . . .

Their strongest witness, Miss Hopkins' aunt, fails to appear in answer to a trail of frantic messages and the case is lost. Some months elapse. The poison of the scandal gradually circulates through Miss Oberon until finally she voices her own doubts.

McCrea denies it in accordance with the facts and leaves for Vienna, the romance blasted. Miss Hopkins immediately learns of it, attempts to convey the truth and, for the first time, voluntarily tells her chum of her love for McCrea; then she departs with her aunt by this time returned from abroad. . . .

Conversation between them on the train imparts a clue to the truth and back to the painful scene of the difficulties and to Rosalie goes Miss Hopkins. Mary Tilford's lies are brought into the open and the situation cleared. On a note of sacrifice Miss Hopkins withdraws from the lives of the other two and Miss Oberon hurries to Vienna and McCrea for a happy ending to one hour and thirty-seven minutes of engrossing drama. . . .

The performances of all principals are dignified, forceful and brilliant and the direction by William Wyler from Miss Hellman's excellent script distinguished. Young Miss Granville, as Mary Tilford, delivers in a manner which finds us floundering for an adjective and ending with amazing. In slightly lesser measure this goes for Marcia Mae Jones as Rosalie as well. Even McCrea, who has in the past impressed this department as a merely good-looking bohunk, acts with authority under Wyler's persuasive tutelage. There is charm in the lighter sequences, stalwart drama when the time comes for it and fluidity and flow in the unfoldment of the story. . . .

One note of minor criticism. When the youthful menace finally is tripped in the meshes of her own intrigue and is ordered to her room in open rebellion, the maid gives her one resounding smack across the cheek. Every audience that sees "These Three" will at once hope for more. . . .

FWC Executives Visit WB Studio

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 25.—Fox West Coast executives and division managers visiting Warner Bros. studio today heard Jack Warner describe several of the 42 pictures which the studio plans to make during the year.

In addition to "Anthony Adverse," "Green Pastures" and "Singing Kid," Warner announced "Three Men on a Horse," "The Charge of the Light Brigade," "Green Lights," "Gold Diggers of 1937," "God's Country," "Robin Hood" and "The Gentleman from Kimberly."

Spyros Skouras spoke briefly, saying that of all the studios visited, none announced a comparable program. He paid tribute to the Warners for having starred Errol Flynn in "Captain Blood."

Others in the party included Edward Alperson, John J. Sullivan, Elmer C. Rhoden, Frank Newman, John Hamrick, Rick Ricketson, A. M. Boles, W. C. Steege and William Gossert.

Among the Warner greeters were Harry and Jack Warner, Andrew Smith, Gradwell Sears, Hal Wallis, Edward Hatrick, Joseph Bernhard Lou Halper, Jack Brower, Harry Mazlich and Edward Selzer.

posed of one share of $1.50 cumulative preferred, bringing his holdings to 500 shares. In September, John R. Dillon, New York, acquired one share of common, apparently to qualify as a director; Wilfred James Eadie, New York, acquired 125 shares, apparently to qualify as an officer, and Eadie also was shown to have disposed of 500 shares of A common and to have acquired 250 shares of $1.50 preferred, while Dillon acquired one share of $1.50 preferred and the Berkshire Finance Co. disposed of one share.

Further Details Reported

Other details of the August report show that William C. Michel acquired 311 shares of Twentieth Century-Fox common; H. G. Place, one-fourth share, and Sydney Towell, 309 shares. Michel disposed of 1,242 shares, Place of one share and Towell of 1,234 shares. In $1.50 cumulative preferred Michel acquired 621 shares, Place one-half share and Towell 617 shares. At the close of the month Towell held 7,000 six per cent convertible debentures.

In October, H. Donald Campbell was reported as the holder of one-fourth share of common and one-half share of preferred.

Reports for other film companies showed that during December Albert Warner acquired 166,000 shares of six per cent optional convertible debentures in Warner Brothers' Pictures, bringing his holdings at the end of the year to 1,731,333. He disposed of 4,000 shares of common during the month, reducing his holdings to 59,260 shares.

Cohns Reduced Holdings

Receipts of reports on Columbia Pictures Corp. covering several months was also announced by the commission. In a report for December, Jack Cohn was shown to have disposed of, by gift, 5,089 shares of common through voting trust, reducing his holdings to 32,544 shares, while Harry Cohn sold 300 shares, reducing his holdings to 69,238 shares.

A report for November shows that through a stock dividend, Harry Cohn received 509 shares of common and 23,179 shares through voting trust certificates, and Nathan Burkan received 12 shares of common. Still earlier reports showed that Harry Cohn disposed of 1,100 shares of common through voting trust certificates in October.

Reports on Consolidated Film Industry showed that in December the Setay Co., Inc., New York, disposed of 1,900 shares of $2 cumulative participating preferred, and at the end of the year held 2,098 shares of the preferred and 155,673 shares of common. In November, the company disposed of 2,100 shares of preferred and in October of 700 shares.

A report of the effective registration in April of Universal showed R. H. Cochrane to hold 22,746 shares of common and Samuel Sedran, New York, four shares.

the chairman called Gene Buck, president of Ascap, as the first witness.

Charging repeatedly that the "Power Trust" was behind the Duffy bill, which he said was written by an interdepartmental committee after one hour of hearings, and passed by the Senate with but 13 members present, Buck asserted that Congress "has been sensitized by propaganda from the users of music," including exhibitors, and declared that this propaganda was evidenced in the telegrams received at the Capital, and in the effort of Representative Zioncheck a week ago to have the committee discharged in order that the Duffy bill could be brought up on the floor of the House.

Ascap Collected $4,000,000

Buck revealed that total collections of Ascap last year were slightly more than $4,000,000, of which some $860,000 was secured from film theatres, $197,000 from 1,200 hotels and $2,500,000 from radio stations. His statement that Ascap had never collected from hot dog stands, saloons and similar places was challenged by Representative O'Malley of Wisconsin, who declared that demands had been made upon 10 taverns in his home city of Milwaukee.

Meeting criticisms from members of the committee that the 10-cent tax seemed high for the small house, Buck asserted that houses playing less than three days a week were assessed only five cents per seat.

Ascap's chief opposition to the Duffy bill is based upon the elimination of the $250 minimum damage clause and the provision that the right to produce a picture includes also the right to exhibit it, said Buck.

Referring to the latter provision, he testified, "This means that the creator and the author loses a right. That will be one of the great stumbling blocks in the bill for this nation to join the Berne Convention. You cannot take any right away from a creator and merge it, and still be a party to the Berne Convention."

Buck also objected to the clause calling for a 56-year copyright term. The 28-year term is better, he explained, since the author can retrieve the copyright then and make new disposition of it.

"Congress Being Used"

The picture, broadcasting and hotel industries, he said, are "attempting to use Congress to write their contract with Ascap," and added that "these same forces motivated the Department of Justice to bring action against us for monopoly." The picture industry, he said, should not favor the elimination of the minimum damage clause, because it, too, suffers from infringements and bicycling.

Buck charged that the provision to make the right to exhibit part of the right to produce was asked by the exhibitors "to rid themselves of paying much money for the right to exhibit pictures." This, he claimed, "is going to lead directly to the doorstep of the power trust."

When Buck, concluding his testimony, prepared to introduce Vallee as a witness, Church criticised Sirovich, pointing out also Sirovich's failure to fix any specific time for the hearing of particular witnesses who planned to come from long distances, and called the chairman's attention to his violation of House rules. Shortly after, the session was adjourned.

Sirovich, in an effort to proceed in the face of Church's opposition, questioned Buck on infringement suits, and declared that in 22 years Ascap has collected only $8,800 through such suits. Sirovich told the witness three bills were pending before the committee and asked which he favored. Buck replied, "I favor the Sirovich Bill."

The Sirovich Bill eliminates many of the provisions of the Duffy and Daly Bills. It gives to the copyright owner the right to synchronize his work for use in films, as well as to make or exhibit films, but does not join the right to exhibit with the right to produce. It also provides that copyright shall subsist in dramatizations and picturizations whether or not based in whole or in part upon works in the public domain, but where based on copyrighted material the consent of the copyright owner must be obtained.

Infringement provisions include injunctive relief and recovery of damages by suit or in lieu thereof, statutory damages, which in the case of films would be not less than $250 or more than $20,000.

Censorship Measure Introduced in Jersey sale of films if they are deemed obscene, immoral or sacrilegious.

A fee of $2 would be charged for examination by the board of each 1200 feet of film, and the same charge would be levied for each print. All funds collected would go to the general state fund. Fines are provided for violations. Jail sentences from 10 to 30 days could be imposed for failure to pay the fine.

The statement attached to the bill declares that it is designed "to prohibit the showing of any films immoral, indecent, obscene, sacrilegious, or which tend to debase or corrupt morals."

The bill was assigned by Senate President John C. Barbour to the Miscellaneous Business Committee, headed by Senator Clifford R. Powell of Burlington.

Pathe Seeks Ending Of New Spear Suit

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—With the filing of a new $1,000,000 suit in the last few days, Pathe News yesterday made a motion to dismiss Ivan I. Spear's claim that the newsreel company induced Oliva Dionne to break a contract held with the plaintiff.

Operating as Century of Progress Tour Bureau, Spear contends he had an exclusive arrangement with the father of the Dionne quintuplets which was breached. Pathe moved to dismiss on the ground the complaint doesn't state the cause of action. Two previous attempts by Spear to have this action heard in the local U. S. District Court have failed.

In addition to Pathe, respondents include S. S. Kresge, F. W. Woolworth, NEA, Scripps Howard, Dr. Allen Roy Dafoe and others.

David W. Kahane, brother of B.B. and local legal representative for RKO, will represent Pathe with the assistance of William Savage of the New York office. Luis Kutner is attorney for Spear.

Loew's $15,000,000 Debentures Offered

The public offering of $15,000,000 Loew's, Inc., 3½ per cent sinking fund debentures, due Feb. 15, 1946, was made yesterday through an underwriting group headed by Dillon, Read & Co. The debentures are priced at 99 and accrued interest. The bonds will be redeemable in whole or in part after 30 days' notice at 103 and interest if redeemed by Feb. 15, 1941, and at lower premiums to maturity.

The net proceeds from the sale will be used for the redemption on April 1 of $7,972,500 of the company's 15-year six per cent debentures, and the balance will be used to reimburse the treasury for advances made to subsidiaries for the retirement of debt and preferred stock, and for additions to the company's working capital.

20th-Fox Names Mayer

Young contends that the picture "What Price Hollywood?" is based on his book "What Price Sex in Hollywood?"

atre location, and at the time did not know Frels. The house was opened in April, 1931, Frels at the time operating the Victoria and the Uptown. Since Frels had licensed practically all of the product for the 1930-31 season, Jefferson had available only 41 films, being required to take 43 films from prior seasons.

Reviewing in detail the licensing situation for the seasons 1930-31 to 1934-35 inclusive, Jefferson sets forth that it licensed 970 first run pictures of the major companies and Frels licensed 865 films, but points out that if Frels had licensed films from several of the major companies during those seasons which had been offered to him, and which he refused, Frels would have licensed during the five-year period a total of 1,072 pictures from the majors.

For the same period, according to the defendant's answer, taking into consideration the product of all distributors, Frels licensed a total of 1,396 pictures, and Jefferson a total of 1,131. During the period, it is claimed, Frels refused to license a total from all companies of 291 pictures, of which 207 were the product of major companies. It he had licensed all the product available to him, the answer declares, Frels would have had a total of 1,687 pictures.

The defense contends in its answer that these figures prove Frels licensed more pictures than he played and was offered more than he licensed, both first and subsequent run, answering the plaintiff's charge that he could not obtain sufficient product. It is claimed that during the five-year period Frels licensed a greater percentage of the major companies' product than did Jefferson.

The answer declares also that in May, 1934, Jefferson opened the Rita, a second Victoria house, because oil fields were opened and the city's population had substantially increased, and that the action was taken entirely independently of any other of the defendants in the suit.

U. S. Equity Action Filed In New York

Louis case. All the individuals are new, the former action having been limited to nine companies, six of which were subsidiaries.

The action is an application for temporary and permanent injunctions to restrain Warners, Paramount and RKO from allegedly withholding product from the Ambassador, Missouri and New Grand Central in St. Louis. F. & M. operates the three houses.

Para. Contracts Specified

In addition, the complaint points out that Paramount "has been entering into contracts with corporations affiliated with the lessees of the Ambassador, Missouri and New Grand Central for films at the Manchester and Balboa, Los Angeles; the Strand, Long Beach, and the Studio-Phoenix, Phoenix, Ariz. Warners, the papers state, have been doing business with the Roxy, New York, and in continuance of the alleged conspiracy, neither Paramount nor Warners will sell the theatres mentioned.

The 10 defendant companies are: Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., The Vitaphone Corp., First National Pictures, Inc., Vitagraph, Inc., Warner Bros. Circuit Management Corp., General Theatrical Enterprises, Inc., Paramount Pictures Distributing Co., Inc., Paramount Pictures Distributing Corp., Paramount Theatre Service Corp., and RKO Distributing Corp.

The 30 individuals are: Harry M. Warner, Albert Warner, Herman Starr, Abel Cary Thomas, Gradwell Sears, Joseph Bernhard, Maurice Silver, Andrew W. Smith, Jr., Lester Krieger, Clayton Bond, Roy H. Haines, Nat H. Brower, Robert Hicks, Byron F. Moore, of Warners; Adolph Zukor, John E. Otterson, Neil F. Agnew, Charles M. Reagan, Ralph LiBeau, Maurice Schweitzer, Carroll Peacock, Myke Lewis, of Paramount, and George J. Schaefer, Ralph Kohn and Samuel Dembow, Jr., formerly of Paramount; Ned E. Depinet, Jules Levy, Cresson E. Smith, Bernard J. McCarthy and Louis Ellman, of RKO.

Subpoenaes to Be Served

About 45 witnesses will be called by the Government, it was said, and it is estimated the hearings will not run longer than a month.

Walter Rice, assistant to Hardy, last night completed arrangements for serving the complaints and subpoenaes. Hardy, who arrived Monday afternoon, returned to Washington last night. Rice will go back today. Both plan to return here next week.

Representing the Government in the new hearings will be Hardy, Rice, Harold L. Schilz, William Benham, John S. Claggett, John Herberg and Grant Kelleher. Paramount will not bring on Samuel W. Fordyce or William R. Gentry from St Louis. Louis Phillips of the Paramount home office legal staff will most likely handle the case for his company alone. Both Fordyce and Gentry represented Paramount in the criminal action last October and November. Fordyce was ill during the civil case and was not on hand at any time.

Warners may call in former Senator James A. Reed, who with Frederick H. Wood, acted in both cases. Wood will again represent the company in the new hearings. Robert W. Perkins of the company's home office staff, who aided importantly in assisting Reed and Wood, is in Hollywood, and is expected back in time for the new hearing.

George S. Leisure of Donovan, Newton, Leisure & Lumbard, will probably represent RKO alone. It is doubtful that Jacob M. Lashly, St. Louis attorney, who worked on both cases, will be called to assist on the new action.

Take New York Quarters

Temporary offices have been established by Hardy and Rice in the new Federal Bldg., opposite the Municipal Bldg. According to the Government men from Washington, permanent headquarters will be established in about a week or so in the same building to prepare for the hearings. Preliminary reports have it the case may be heard by Judge John C. Knox.

The complaint cites the history of the case starting in 1932. The total assets of the three companies involved are listed as $767,237,638.39, as taken from financial statements of Warners, Paramount and RKO as of Aug. 25, 1934, and Dec. 31, 1933. It is contended that during the period of the alleged conspiracy Warners had 581 theatres; Paramount, 976; RKO, 254, or a total of 1,811. The percentage of pictures produced by eight major companies from 1932 to 1935 is listed as: Warners, 16; Paramount, 17; RKO, 13; Columbia, 10; Fox, 15; M-G-M, 13; Universal, 10; United Artists, 6. The three companies involved are said to have turned out 46 per cent of the total, according to the complaint.

Signing the complaint are Homer S. Cummings, Attorney General; John Dickinson, assistant to the Attorney General; Lamar Hardy, U. S. Attorney; Russell Hardy, Rice and Schilz, special assistants to the Attorney General.

After a six and one-half week trial, the nine Warner companies, Harry M. Warner, Starr, Sears, Depinet and Schaefer were acquitted by jury of indictment charges in St. Louis. On Jan. 6, the Government brought the first equity suit before Judge Joseph West Molyneaux of Minneapolis and this case was withdrawn by Hardy after the court had refused to permit into the record certain testimony by Harry C. Arthur, complaining witness. The hearings lasted about four weeks.

Looking 'Em Over

"The Farmer in the Dell"

(Radio)

A wholly human, and often highly amusing story of the farmer who landed in Hollywood and pictures, and thereby almost lost his home and happiness, interwoven with a youngster romance and a measure of drama, this picture should be found engaging entertainment almost wherever played.

It is actually a yarn of one central character, and the player, Fred Stone, by this production, should considerably enhance his popularity with picture-goers. Comparisons with Will Rogers here are inevitable, and it cannot be said that Stone suffers particularly by such a comparison.

Taken from the novel by Phil Stong, the story has Stone selling his Iowa farm and with his wife and daughter, Jean Parker, moving to Hollywood, an idea entirely his wife's. Frank Albertson, Miss Parker's fiance, follows them on a hint from Stone that he did the same when he was a youngster. There is considerable amusement in the first visit of Stone and his daughter to a studio, the purpose of their moving to Hollywood, a career for their daughter, suddenly becoming clear to Stone. Accidentally, on the set of a farm picture, Stone is drafted to help, and is given a large contract as a result.

His wife becomes ambitious, and during his absence on location, she fits out the family like millionaires, and Albertson is in danger of losing his sweetheart, who is taken with a bogus Russian nobleman. Stone's bewilderment on his return home is a highlight of the film, but, thoroughly mad, he straightens out his household and happiness results. Robert Sisk was associate producer, and Ben Holmes directed.

Bay State Sets Back Vote on Beano Bill

BOSTON, Feb. 25.—The House has recommitted a bill to prohibit Beano to the Committee on Legal Affairs. It was felt in some quarters that the bill should be reframed so as to restrict the game to churches and charitable agencies.

An amendment to limit prizes to a $100 top was proposed by Representative Lawrence Curtis.

Threats to Impeach and "Challenges" to Fore

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Threats to impeach a Federal judge, "challenges" to produce alleged victims forced illegally to pay Ascap fees, and general bickering among members of the House Patents Committee marked today's hearing on copyright legislation.

Except for a revelation by Gene Buck, Ascap president, that the "power trust" which he said yesterday was behind the Duffy Bill, was represented by the North American Co., which is backing the development of wired radio in Cleveland, there was little discussion of the copyright legislation itself.

Buck's attack on wired radio was set off by Representative Lanham of Texas, who asked regarding the provisions of the Duffy Bill. "Nothing in this bill disturbs us more," the witness declared. "It is my opinion they are liable to be eminently successful, because there are millions of people kicking on the quantity of ad-

Chaplin Film Pulls $167,000, 3 Weeks

For the three weeks ending last night, "Modern Times" grossed a total of $167,000 at the Rivoli. For the first week, the take was $65,000, exclusive of $5,000 checked in for the opening night. The second week's tally approximated $55,000 and for the third week, ending last night, the gross was close to $42,000.

Indications are that the Chaplin film will run another three weeks, following which it will be booked into the Loew metropolitan circuit.

Decision Reserved On Stay for "Pine"

Decision on an order to show cause why an injunction should not be issued restraining Paramount from exhibiting "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" was reserved by Justice Collins following a hearing in N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday.

The injunction is sought by the Trail Co., which claims ownership of certain dramatic rights to the production. Paramount contends that it has owned all of the essential film rights to the play since 1915.

Legion of Decency Opposes Law Against Block Booking

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Opponents of block booking legislation today were given the support of the Legion of Decency, which sees in the measures pending in Congress "grave danger of political censorship."

In a formal statement by the administrative board of the National Catholic Welfare Conference following its midyear meeting, it was held that block booking has a business as well as a moral side and insofar as it is a purely business matter it is of no concern to the organization. So far as the moral side is concerned, the Legion is interested, it was said and will continue to work, as in the past, through public opinion.

Commending the producers for their cooperation in elevating the moral tone of the screen, the board warned against legislation in which "one law may lead to another" and result in the establishment of a bureaucracy. "The Legion of Decency sees in legislative measures not a means of securing a wholesome screen but rather a grave danger of political censorship," it was declared. "There would be the danger of political appointees interpreting the provisions of the law in a bureaucracy so as to set up moral standards of films. There would be danger also of appointees being influenced by political pressure in their interpretations.

"The Legion of Decency has had one simple, clear objective, to insure for the public, as legitimate recreation, a Youngstown, O., Feb. 26.—An unusual "fire" disturbance without a fire occurred at the Dome here recently when a boy upset a fire extinguisher on which he was standing. The discharged contents struck a radiator, and the resulting cloud of steam caused other boys nearby to raise the "fire" cry. Fire officials have been summoned to investigate. The show continued without interruption.

Schaefer Calls "U" Reports "Premature"

George J. Schaefer, former vice-president and general manager of Paramount, yesterday declined to comment on the possibility of his appointment to an executive post in Universal other than to describe the story as "premature." Discussions looking toward such an appointment when Standard Capital Co. exercises its option to purchase a controlling interest in Universal have not been concluded yet.

Schaefer arrived yesterday from Florida and left last night for Washington where he will spend a few days. He will return to New York before he goes back again to Florida.

Soundmen Meet Set For March in N Y C

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 26.—Jurisdiction of studio soundmen will be definitely arbitrated in New York during March, it was stated here today. Jurisdiction of first cameramen was settled here yesterday at a private meeting with producers. Approximately 100 special effects cameramen joined the I. A. T. S. E. This settlement cleans up all problems affecting the closed shop contract, with the exception of the soundmen.

Actors, laborers, painters and scenic artists have joined forces to fight for the inclusion of a basic studio agreement at the March meeting.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 26.—Major Joseph O. Donovan, business manager of the Screen Directors' Guild, has completed revision of the organization's by-laws as suggested by members and the board of directors at a recent meeting.

He will call a meeting of the directors next week for approval of the revisions.

K.C. Indies Take Zoning Row to Court

File Trust Suit Against Fox Midwest, Majors

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 26.—Local independents have filed suit in Federal court here asking temporary and permanent injunctions to prevent the operation of the zoning schedule set up by Fox Midwest last fall. The defendants are Fox Midwest, with 12 local houses, and Paramount, Universal, Twentieth Century-Fox, M-G-M, Columbia, Radio, United Artists and Vitagraph.

Based on the anti-trust law, the petition charges the arbitrary zoning eliminates the competition of the plaintiffs with the circuit's houses, which have the choice of run in every zone. Restrained from buying until Fox had its choice of pictures and availability, the complaint says the independents were forced to take contracts Fox and the distributors had determined for them, thus preventing

"The Country Doctor"

(Twentieth Century-Fox)

Even without the quintuplets this would be an exceptional picture—a fine, human story, balanced to a nicety between tears and laughter. With the five babies it is a screen masterpiece. The word is used advisedly.

It is a picture that will linger long in the memory—meaning the memories of exhibitors as well as audiences. For theatre men everywhere, it will be one of those monumental money-makers they like to look back upon year after year with fond hopes of playing another like it.

The story is as dramatic as life itself. It is shrewdly based on the element of sacrifice in the life of a country doctor, with little material reward in prospect, who ushers babies into the world under the most trying conditions; fights to preserve their lives with contagion spreading under the overwhelming menace of a northern winter with communication blocked and medicine running low; fights again for proper hospitalization when he visits Toronto, and finally in a supreme achievement brings the quintuplets into the world. Dr. Dafoe is almost a deified figure in the hearts of millions today, and Jean Hersholt does a masterly job in presenting his conception of the doctor's finer qualities on the screen.

The characterization is a blend of gentle humor, modesty, intense devotion to duty. He seems to be what the world thinks Dr. Dafoe is—a hero without heroics. Just the gentle shadings of his voice bring tears to the eyes at times.

As the long winter sets in and the lumberjacks have gone, the doctor battles a diphtheria epidemic almost hopelessly until a crippled lumberjack gets in touch with Montreal over his amateur radio. The doctor's nephew, Michael Whalen, responds by plane, thereby introducing a note of romance when he falls in love with June Lang, daughter of a village functionary, who has volunteered as nurse. Through these dark days Dorothy Peterson is the only nurse available. Her portrayal is unforgettable.

The doctor incurs the enmity of the heads of the lumber company which controls the village when he makes a public appeal at a medical banquet. A young doctor is sent in to take his place and he is about to leave his beloved countryside when the father of the quintuplets appeals to him for help. In the meantime it has been learned that the doctor has no license. Slim Summerville, constable, goes to arrest the doctor, but stays to assist at the birth. This scene will live as a classic. It has tremendous suspense, heart-warming humor, tenderness. It is extraordinary.

The story is credited to an idea suggested by Charles E. Blake, with the screen play by Sonya Levien. Darryl Zanuck and Nunnally Johnson, the former as production head and the latter as associate producer, undoubtedly had a hand in the wise blending of its elements. All concerned deserve credit.

Henry King's direction is superb. The world has been told of the problems he encountered. Unquestionably the world—especially that portion of it which devotes its attention to production—will applaud the results.

The quintuplets appear only in the closing sequence. They are remarkable. They have personality, beauty, childish abandon in the presence of strangers.

Ampa Truth Dinner In Studio Setting

The Ampa will hold its annual Naked Truth Dinner on March 14 in a film studio setting in the main ballroom of the Astor. Lights, cameras, drops and all the rest of the studio paraphernalia will decorate the room, and Naked Truth sketches will be presented on studio stages spotted all over the floor.

A hidden newsreel camera will "shoot" the guests as they enter, and the result will be shown at a special midnight screening. Ralph Stone and his orchestra will play, and Ampa authorities vow and declare there will be absolutely no speeches.

New Hearst Attack Hits West Picture

BALTIMORE, Feb. 26.—The Hearst papers here, the Baltimore News-Post and Sunday American, have instituted an editorial broadside against the Mae West picture, "Klondike Annie," and have refused to accept advertising on the film from any theatre. The advertising was accepted up to and including Sunday, when a sudden policy switch brought the denunciation and refusal of advertising.

The film opened Saturday at Keith's and is still running. It was passed by the Maryland censors. The editorial, captioned, "A Filthy Picture," scores Will Hays for permitting the film and Paramount for producing it. The editorial concludes: "The only way of influencing such producers is by the people showing that pandering to the lewd elements of the community is not profitable." The attack is coincidental with similar action by the Call-Bulletin, San Francisco Hearst paper. Other Hearst papers are expected to follow the same line as the film opens in various cities.

Warner-B. & K. Pool Details Decided On

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—Details of the pooling arrangement between Warners and B. & K. whereby the former will take over the Paramount at Hammond, Ind., have been completed. The arrangement will go into effect March 1.

Larry Stein will be district manager for Warners and Sonny MacDonald will be manager of the 2,000-seat house. Tom Bonk has been moved from the Orpheum here to serve as assistant manager and Paul Marlowe takes Bonk's place at the Orpheum.

Critics Awards Sunday

New York film critics will hold the presentation of their awards for the outstanding screen achievements of last year Sunday at the Ritz-Carlton. The awards will go to "The Informer" as the year's best picture; to John Ford for the best direction; to Greta Garbo and Charles Laughton for the best performances, and to Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur for the script most suitable for reading, "The Scoundrel."

Mrs. Elmer Pearson Dead

Mrs. Emily B. Pearson, wife of Elmer Pearson, who has been associated with the industry for many years, died yesterday in the emergency ward of Bellevue Hospital, where she was taken on Tuesday when stricken suddenly. She was 50 years of age.

Funeral will take place tomorrow at 1 P.M., from the Campbell Funeral Church.

Rites for Lennox Pawle

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 26.—Funeral services for Lennox Pawle, actor who died here last Saturday night, were held Tuesday. Pawle died in his 65th year. His last picture role was in "David Copperfield." He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Dermott Darby, of New York.

C. A. Phillips Passes

PROVIDENCE, Feb. 26.—Charles B. Phillips, who formerly ran the Rialto, is dead.

'The Singing Cowboy', DICK FORAN, gallops to the fore again in 'SONG OF THE SADDLE', the second of Warners' new western series which has had such an enthusiastic reception from the trade. This is a melodic thriller designed for action fans who like their villains bad, their heroes musical, and ever the twain shall meet. Alma Lloyd supplies the charm, Addison Richards the drama, Charles Middleton and Eddie Shubert the villainy, and Louis King the colorful direction that go to make this film noteworthy in its field.

wholesome screen against which there would be no objection on moral grounds," the statement said. "Its strongest weapon has been an aroused public opinion and public opinion will continue to be the most effectual safeguard against salacious films. The Legion of Decency regards public opinion as a much safer guide than would be any regulations made by political appointees in a Federal agency.

"The national Legion of Decency has not dealt with the exhibitor, but with the producer. To deal with the former would mean conducting campaigns on 12,000 fronts rather than confining it to one front—the producers.

"The Legion has not dealt with questions that have not at least a moral implication. Block booking, however, as it involves a moral question—that is, to force exhibition of salacious pictures—should be dealt with. Local groups in such cases should sustain the exhibitor, not merely by protest, but in any legal action taken against the producer.

"The Legion urged the producers to allow a cancellation of pictures produced prior to July 15, 1934, when there was a protest on moral grounds. Such cancellations have been authorized. Before the opening of the campaign of the Legion of Decency it is said there were few if any complaints against block booking by exhibitors when there was a question of salacious pictures which are financially profitable. The producers have invited reasonable and constructive criticism which must be of benefit morally to the public which seeks entertainment in films.

"Since there has been a marked improvement in the moral tone of pictures effected through public opinion, it seems reasonable to let the good work go on. The Legion of Decency will continue to be vigilant and to urge that all groups maintain an active interest in the moral significance of pictures."

"FLASH GORDON" ROCKETS WAY TO SCREEN IN STIRRING ADVENTURES ON STRANGE PLANET!

Buster Crabbe

Scenes from "Flash Gordon," Universal chapterplay

Buster Crabbe, as Flash, Makes the Conquest of Mongo

Flash Gordon has risen to the third plane of his eventful existence. First he made his way from Alex Raymond's mind and brush into the newspaper strip read by millions of people. Then he rocketed up to the mysterious planet of Mongo. Now he has hurtled his adventure-blazoned orbit to motion picture screens across the entire country.

"Flash Gordon" has been given the proportions of a living person in a Universal chapterplay of the same name, the character being portrayed by Buster Crabbe. All the breath-taking incidents of Flash's stirring career have been enacted before the camera and will soon be shown in this city at your favorite theatre.

According to advance information from Hollywood, the sequences retain the vivid highlights of the original narrative. The rocket ship makes its dangerous trip to the strange world of Mongo. Flash and his friends against Dale Arden.

Dr. Zarkov invent his miraculous rays and machines, including the apparatus that makes Flash invisible. All the splendors and marvels of Ming's awe-inspiring palace have been reproduced. Vultan's City in the Sky looms up in shining magnificence, declares the Universal studio bulletin.

King Thun battles against Flash, who conquers his air armada. Kala's Shark Men hold Flash captive in the underwater kingdom, where he subdues the Octoses. Strange beasts like the Gocko are defeated in terrific struggles with Flash.

Ray guns spew forth streams of destruction. Rocket ships hurl devastating bombs at rival ships. The subgraph. How the cameramen performed all their magic remains a secret of the studios, never to be revealed.

Besides Buster Crabbe as "Flash Gordon," the cast includes Jean Rogers as Dale Arden, Charles Middleton as Emperor Ming, Priscilla Lawson as Aura, Frank Shannon as Dr. Zarkov, John Lipson as Vultan and Richard Alexander as Prince Barin.

The miracles of the heavens and Ash, cameraman, astronomer and expert illusionist. It was Ash who devised the method of showing planets hurling through space as if they were apples thrown by a schoolboy. He planned all the electrical machines and the special effects for the film.

Stated as a scientific formula, Buster Crabbe plus Jerry Ash equal Mongo and further, into the imagination of moviegoers of this country.

vertising that you get in the reception of the artists."

In wired radio, he explained, the programs are offered from records, for which the creator of the composition receives a royalty of two cents, which must be split with his publisher. Asked by Lanham if the extension of wired radio would not result in unemployment among artists and musicians, he said it would parallel the situation in film theatres. "There is unemployment in theatres outside the metropolitan cities because producers put everything on the film," he declared. "The basic interest of the power companies is to sell more power."

Questioned by Representative O'Malley of Wisconsin as to his salary as president of Ascap, Buck said he received $35,000 a year, but added that for many years he did not get anything.

Pressed by the Wisconsin Congressman to explain the form of contracts which Ascap uses, Buck promised to furnish for the record copies of contracts with film, radio, hotel and other licensees, but insisted that he also be permitted to introduce copies of contracts between producers and exhibitors and between the electric companies and the broadcasters.

Burkan and O'Malley Clash

Today's fireworks began when Nathan Burkan, Ascap counsel, took the stand and delivered an oration which O'Malley said was a lecture aimed at him. Burkan bitterly criticized conditions in Wisconsin and said a Federal judge had thrown out 17 cases brought by the organization and threatened the Ascap attorney if he did not stop bringing cases. Representative Daly of Pennsylvania thereupon assailed any judge who acted improperly and promised to bring the matter upon the floor of the House. O'Malley said Daly had misquoted him and a general squabble ensued.

Reverting to his charge of yesterday that small tavern keepers in Milwaukee had been mulcted by Ascap, O'Malley asked Burkan to explain and the Ascap counsel challenged the Congressman to produce the alleged victims, promising to pay their expenses if they were brought to Washington. These allegations, he explained, are part of the "fabricated, false, malicious charges" which have been injected into the issue.

Burkan also went into the history of the Government suit charging Ascap with monopoly and asserted that during the hearings last June he showed by the Government's own witnesses that piracy was rampant in the broadcasting industry and the Government thereupon secured an adjournment of the trial because, he said, it found that those it was attacking were not the "racketeers."

He also introduced a bulletin of the National Ass'n. of Broadcasters to show that Justice Department men had been consulted with respect to the contracts broadcasters were to make with Ascap and asserted that the Government had no right to interest itself in the matter.

The first coherent explanation of Ascap's objections to the Duffy Bill was given by Deems Taylor, composer and music critic, who said that "the $250 minimum is the rock upon which Ascap rests."

Taylor explained that the Duffy Bill would eliminate the amount of damage a copyright owner had suffered through infringement. It would cost $100 or more to bring suit. On the basis of Ascap receipts the charge for each use of a copyrighted composition is about four cents. After conclusively showing infringement, he said, the court might make an award based on the charge, leaving the copyright owner a moral victory and a financial loss.

Beano, Sweepstakes Lotteries in Mass.

BOSTON, Feb. 26.—The Massachusetts Supreme Court has declared that Beano and Sweepstakes are lotteries, in upholding the ruling of Judge Daniel Gillen of Municipal Court here that the Beano game organized by the Brookline General Hospital was a violation of state laws.

Acting Attorney General James Ronan has declared he will launch a statewide drive against all such games. The decision is seen here as probably indicating the fate of Bank Night, which is now before the courts.

Giveaways Gain in Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Feb. 26.—Bank Night and Movie Sweepstakes continue to flourish in local theatres without interference in spite of Police Prosecutor Perry A. Frey's warning two weeks ago that he was going to crack down on them, and on all types of giveaways. Max Kaplan of the Grand Central, who filed complaints against Bank Night users, has gone in for two-for-ones at his house.

Isaac-Shearer Test New Sound Devices

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 26.—Lester B. Isaac, in charge of sound and projection for the Loew circuit, is collaborating with Douglas Shearer, recording director at M-G-M, in a series of demonstrations and experiments with the new Raven screen in conjunction with the push-pull system of recording and the Shearer horn.

The Raven screen is of metal. It has tiny louvres, similar to the vents on the sides of an automobile hood, only much smaller, which allow the sound to come through the screen without distortion and also without dimming the picture.

Pick Joe E. Brown's Next

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 26.—Joe E. Brown will appear in "Earthworm Tractors" as his next picture for Warners, with production scheduled to start late in March. June Travis and Carrol Hughes have also been cast, and Ray Enright will direct under the supervision of Sam Bischoff.

Koenig on Serials

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 26.—Ben Koenig, former Film Board secretary in Milwaukee, and one time attorney for the M.P.T.O. of Wisconsin, is now head of the serial department at Universal where his brother, William, is studio general manager.

ITOA Men to Study Diesel Generators

Following unsuccessful efforts to secure reductions in theatre rates from the New York Edison Co., the board of directors of the I. T. O. A. yesterday authorized David Weinstock to make a survey of local theatres for the installation of Diesel engines in a number of houses.

An official of the exhibitor organization stated that theatre men installing Diesel engines will be guaranteed the cost of light and power will not exceed one cent a kilowatt hour. This compares with five and six cents a kilowatt which now prevails. The Edison company, it was said, promised a new schedule of rates for theatres which would effect savings, but when the plan was announced exhibitors found bills increasing.

Maurice Fleischman, chairman of the board, presided. Leo Brecher, who is in Florida, and Ben Roman were the only board members absent from the meeting.

Boston Arrests Made

buying in an open market. Independents in practically all zones must play behind the circuit's houses with the same admission, it is charged. The complaint details specific instances of the alleged unfair zoning schedule. It is charged also that prior to the time the zoning was set the distributors informed the independents that they would not be able to furnish them with product except under the terms of the schedule. The independents as a result were forced to agree to the plan, complaint states.

The plaintiffs and their theatres are: Emanuel Rolsky, St. John and National; Edwin S. Young, Roanoke and Central; Charles Esterly, State and Prospect; Frank T. Mountjoy, Circle; H. F. Pautz and H. C. Rhode, Sun; Abe and Rosa Baier, Lindbergh; Saline Theatre Corp.; C. H. Potter, Baltis and Admiral, and Murray and H. H. Barrett, Ritz.

Set Play in Portland

PORTLAND, ORE., Feb. 26.—J. J. Parker Theatres on Feb. 29 will open a 12-scene stage play, "Life Begins at Sixty," at the Mayfair here, dropping pictures temporarily. The play, written by Will Maylon and George Stone, and based on the Townsend Plan, will be presented by the Maylon and Stone Road Co.

Proponents of Block Booking Bill Have Say

Raise Cry of "Big Eight" Domination at Hearing

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Raising again the cry of "Big Eight" domination, representatives of social organizations and independent exhibitors today launched a concerted attack at block booking and blind selling before the Neely sub-committee of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee.

Because of block booking, it was asserted, bad pictures are being launched upon communities which do not want them, exhibitors are receiving no assistance from distributors in meeting the demands for better pictures, the number of features produced annually has been cut, and the number of producers has been reduced, it was stated.

Today's hearing, running until late in the afternoon, practically disposed of the testimony of the advocates of the Neely-Pettengill Bill, and tomorrow, after hearing two or three women's organization representatives, the committee will call upon opponents, headed by Charles C. Petti-

Fairbanks, Jr., Not To Produce "Table"

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., has indefinitely postponed production plans for "Knights of the Round Table," he stated yesterday, because M-G-M has claimed prior rights on all the King Arthur stories. He is now negotiating for another story which he expects to announce prior to his sailing for England in three weeks.

Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., who sailed Wednesday for London to attend the Grand National races at Aintree, is slated to return immediately after the big event.

"Fleet" at $105,000 For Its First Week

"Follow the Fleet" chalked up a swell take of $105,000 for the first week at the Music Hall. Preliminary estimates indicated the Astaire-Rogers musical would garner from $100,000 to $110,000.

The second week of "Prisoner of Shark Island" at the Center ended with about $9,000. "Bohemian Girl" at the Rialto was good for around $7,500.

Ascap Pleads For Retention Of $250 Fine

Finishes Arguments In Copyright Hearing

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Representatives of Ascap today concluded their arguments before the House Patents Committee with a fervent plea for retention of the $250 minimum damage provision of the present copyright act as the only barrier to "millions of piracies" which Gene Buck, Ascap president, declared would occur if this bar were lifted.

Alleged double collections from the film industry were injected into the hearing today by Congressman O'Malley of Wisconsin, who has harassed witnesses throughout the hearings with sharp questions as to their demands on tavern keepers in his district. For the first time, Buck today admitted that infringement suits have been brought against barrooms with radios to entertain patrons, as O'Malley repeatedly asserted had been done, and Buck and Nathan Burkan, attorney for Ascap had strenuously denied.

His first objective reached when the Ascap head admitted that tavern keepers had been threatened with suits, O'Malley moved into the exhibition field with a charge that double taxation exists and that the society discriminated between neighborhood

St. Louis Theatres Await Game Ruling

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 27.—Local theatre men are awaiting with interest the outcome of the proceedings brought in the Missouri Supreme Court at Jefferson City by G. E. McKean, state representative for Bank Night. He seeks release from charges that he violated the lottery laws in operating Bank Night in a Fredericktown, Mo., theatre. Arrested Dec. 24, 1935, he has since been under the technical custody of the sheriff of Madison County.

Attorney General Roy McKittrick and McKean's counsel have agreed to

To Bring Back Hits

Indianapolis, Feb. 27.—First run managers have one means of outwitting the weather. They'll bring back several attractions which played during the recent record-cracking cold wave and look to mild weather to insure more generous takings than were possible during the storm. Included will be "Rose Marie," "Ceiling Zero," "Captain Blood" and "Anything Goes."

Advance Sales Get Approval In New Pacts

The sale in advance of motion picture and stage production rights to plays, when consummated simultaneously, is permitted in the new basic agreement between playwrights and producing managers, which was approved unanimously by the Dramatists' Guild at a membership meeting at the Shelton Hotel yesterday. The agreement will be effective March 1 and will run for two years.

The guild has forbidden the sale in advance, heretofore, but under the new agreement, if the film and stage rights to an unfinished play are disposed of simultaneously, and with the knowledge of the producing manager, it now becomes an approved practice. If both play and picture rights are sold by the author to a film company, it must be in accordance with a new form of standard contract to be devised which, however, would give the author a percentage of the earnings of both the play and picture.

The new agreement revises the manager's participation in the sale of Returning with his wife, Dorothy Jordan, from a four-month trip abroad, Merian C. Cooper, executive vice-president in charge of production for Pioneer Pictures, yesterday stated he will supervise the four all-Technicolor films the company will produce for United Artists' release next season. He also added he might make one in England, but this was indefinite.

Cooper said he could not tell what would be his first upon his return to the coast until he had conferred with

Thalberg to Get New Term M-G-M Pact

Will Produce Virtually On His Own

By RED KANN

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 27.—Irving Thalberg is about to sign a new long term contract with M-G-M which virtually will set him up in business on his own, but with finances and distribution supplied by the organization with which he has so long been prominently identified.

With three years to go on his current contract, it is understood the new agreement will run for 10 years. It will not be a renewal of the partnership arrangement with J. Robert Rubin and Louis B. Mayer under which Thalberg now functions and under which the three have been splitting profits for a number of years, but a direct contract with M-G-M.

It is expected to provide that Thalberg will produce with his own unit on the M-G-M lot, but with the studio's personnel, manpower and technical facilities available at all times. Attorneys are now going over the context and phraseology of the contract. The deal is declared to be so close to completion that signatures are expected to be affixed momentarily.

This is the chief piece of business which brought Nicholas M. Schenck west three weeks ago. The fact that he plans to leave for New York next week seems to indicate the deal will be closed before then. Joseph M. Schenck probably will accompany his brother east.

Legion's New List Passes 128 Films

The National Legion of Decency, in its second nationwide list of classified pictures, notes as unobjectionable for general patronage 128 of 225 films listed. Fifty-seven are called "unobjectionable for adults," 37 as "objectionable in part" and three are condemned. The list is prepared under the direction of the New York Archdiocesan Council of the Legion of Decency, with the cooperation of the M. P. Bureau of the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae.

Additions to the first complete list, published in MOTION PICTURE DAILY on Feb. 5, and divided into classifications, follow:

The regular meeting of the board of Paramount Pictures, scheduled for yesterday, was postponed to today for the convenience of a month-end action on the proposal to simplify the company's corporate structure by merging five subsidiary companies with Parager Corp.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, Feb. 27.

SAM GOLDWYN gets his finances from "Doc" Giannini; Dave Selznick from Jock Whitney, Brother Myron and the Bank of America; Pioneer from Whitney who, in case you didn't know it, has more than he knows what to do with, notwithstanding Technicolor, "Jumbo" and horse racing; Mary Pickford and Jesse Lasky from the Goelets; Charlie Chaplin out of his own sock; Alex Korda from Prudential Life Assurance of London; Doug Fairbanks, if and when he makes another, has the means available. . . .

Now Walter Wanger has joined up. This producer has done well in his first year as an independent distributing through Paramount as the film colony has been quick to recognize. Financing under his United Artists deal would have been easy to arrange from several sources, as we get it, but it's coming from within. It is understood the surplus rolled up by the United Artists Distributing Corp. is being converted into a financing fund and that the one to debut under this new development will be Wanger. . . .

Even in those years when U. A. faltered with a hit-and-miss releasing schedule, sales operations were handled so well and so economically that profits were the rule. With pictures coming through with far more regularity in the last couple of years, that profit has grown into a handsome surplus, part of which now will go to Wanger for production. Chaplin, Pickford, Fairbanks and Goldwyn are on the financial side of the deal personally, to boot, as is Nathan Burkan, a very active personality in U. A. since Joe Schenck and Al Lichtman stepped out. That makes Burkan one of Wanger's partners as well as his attorney. . . .

Arthur W. Kelly, former vice-president in charge of foreign sales, and since Lichtman's withdrawal, the general factotum in all sales, no matter where, stands aces high with the owner-members. Where once consideration was seriously turned toward a new sales manager, today Kelly is the tops largely because of the record he is rolling up on "Modern Times." Yet the value of added manpower in the selling machine is an important something which the U. A. group is not overlooking. This may lead to something or nothing. If it should prove something, you might have time to recall it was mentioned here today. . . .

Although the direction is charged to Frank Borzage, the oft-mentioned Lubitsch touches and that director's influence are markedly evident in "Desire," the new Marlene Dietrich attraction on which Paramount spent $1,400,000, including production trouble. Highly sophisticated and with sex implications always delicately handled, the film is completely charming in its mood, its performances, its story and its backgrounds. International jewel robbery is its idea with Marlene as the beauteous criminal, who reforms, quite naturally—Gary Cooper—he's immense—as the heart throb, and Jack Halliday, as the gentlemanly menace who tries to keep Dietrich on the crooked path, but loses out to love. "Desire" is typically Lubitsch and that, of course, stamps it as fun and fare for the more intelligent among audiences. . . .

ALBANY, Feb. 27.—Bernard J. Moran, Brooklyn Democrat, has introduced a bill in the Assembly imposing a tax of one mill per foot on negative films or prints.

Haines, Dembow Get Trust Case Papers

Roy H. Haines, metropolitan branch manager for Warners, and Sam Dembow, Jr., National Screen executive, yesterday were served with copies of the Government's complaint against Warners, Paramount and RKO, alleging a conspiracy in restraint of trade in St. Louis. The two men are among the 30 individual defendants named.

Mimeographed copies of the 24-page application for a temporary and permanent injunction have been sent to a number of marshals out of town to be served on defendants residing in those towns. Included in the list were: Maurice Silver, Warner Albany district theatre head; Nat H. Brower, coast district sales head for Warners; Robert Hicks, manager of the Orpheum, St. Louis; Byron F. Moore, in charge of the Orpheum, Shubert Rialto and Hi-Point, St. Louis; Ralph LiBeau, Paramount midwest district manager, with headquarters in Kansas City; Maurice Schweitzer, Paramount St. Louis branch manager; Carroll Peacock, Los Angeles branch manager for Paramount; Myke Lewis, coast district sales manager for Paramount; Ralph Kohn, who is associated with B. P. Schulberg in production; Bernard J. McCarthy, St. Louis manager for RKO, and Louis Ellman, former St. Louis exchange head and now stationed at Des Moines.

Eastman Head Hits New York Tax Rate

ALBANY, Feb. 27.—Eastman Kodak Co. has been increasing employment more rapidly outside New York state than within the state, partly because comparative tax rates have favored locating new developments elsewhere, Frank J. Lovejoy, Eastman president, told the Assembly's Public Relief and Welfare Committee. The statement was presented by Thomas J. Hargrave, vice-president and secretary of the company, and was on the Brownell bill to create a temporary state commission to analyze unemplyoment and its relief.

Lovejoy declared the tax burden in this state is higher than in other industrial states, and suggested that the committee study the subject to see whether the higher taxes in New York had had an adverse effect on the trend of employment in the state, as compared with others.

Ohio's Tax Figures Show General Rise

COLUMBUS, Feb. 27.—Some figures on the state's revenue from the industry, as compiled from the records of the State Treasurer, are presented by P. J. Wood, secretary of the Ohio I. T. O.

During 1934, when the 10 per cent admission tax was in effect, the state collected $3,366,705.15, the records show, whereas during 1935, when the admission impost was suspended and exhibitors paid three per cent. on grosses, the state derived $1,278,940.19.

Conversely, the state collected on the basis of $48,000 per year when charging $1 per 1,000-foot reel for censorship fees, while now the returns are at the rate of $185,000 a year with the fee advanced to $3, including newsreels, heretofore excluded.

submit the test case on briefs. McKittrick has not yet issued a definitive opinion on the legality of Bank Night. Locally Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller has threatened to proceed against any house using giveaways. Temporarily local theatres have dropped the games, but it is expected there will be a rush to revive them if the Supreme Court rules they are not in violation of the lottery laws.

Asks More Particulars

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 27.—Motion for more particulars has been filed in Federal court here by defendants in the Bank Night infringement cases. The defense has asked for the filing by Bank Night, or Affiliated Enterprises, Inc., of copies of certificates and other alleged copyright material in connection with the plan, including form of license agreement, advertising trailers, registration book.

The complaint is against A. Fishman, J. B. Fishman, Dixwell Theatre Co., Lawrence Theatre Co., Howard Operating Co., Jadams Amusement Corp., Michael Tomasino, New Haven Amusement Corp., Whalley Theatre Co., Inc., and B. S. Mysliviec. The plaintiff asks that the defendants be required to render a full account of all profits derived from cash nights, that a temporary restraining order be issued against the theatres, and that damages be paid by them.

To Investigate Beano

BOSTON, Feb. 27.—The City Council, moving against Beano, has ordered its public welfare committee to launch a sweeping investigation of the game, which has been termed a lottery by the Massachusetts Supreme Court.

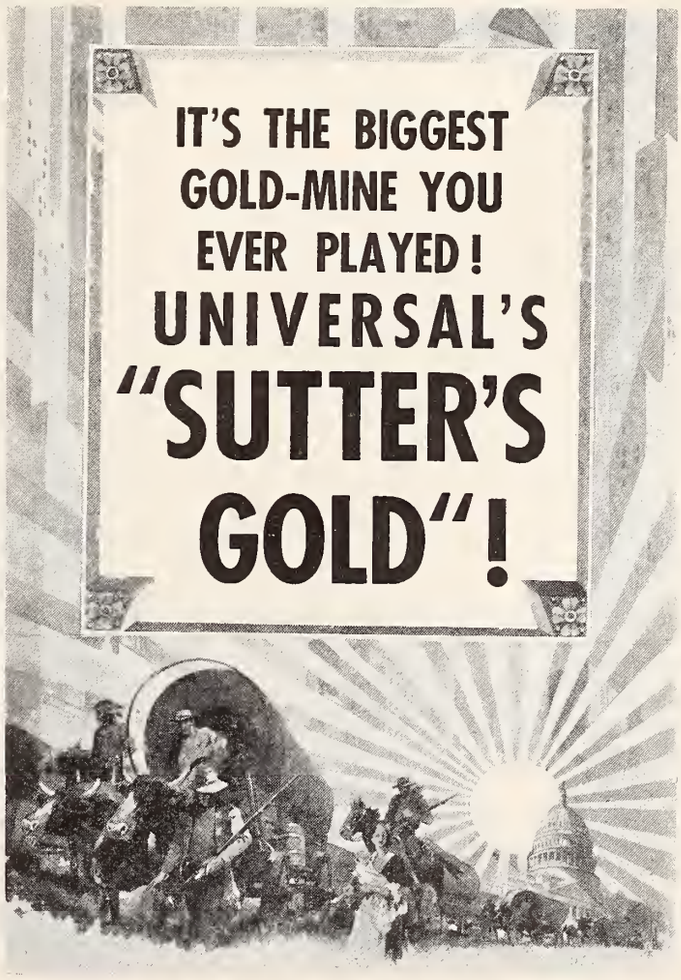
Television Cable Is Approved by F. C. C.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—The Federal Communications Commission yesterday authorized the A. T. & T. and the New York Bell Telephone Co. to construct a coaxial cable between New York and Philadelphia for use in experiments in radio television. Actual construction must start before July 1, under the permit. It is stipulated that the cable should be open to those radio companies interested in experimenting.



It is not certain that the two companies will accept the terms, but the F. C. C. in the new permit removed many of the restrictions to which the companies objected in a previous order from the commission on the cable. The petitioners are required to file with the commission in writing within 30 days, acceptance of the conditions imposed.

With the completion of the Senate hearings, the two sides will have a breathing spell, but will meet again in Washington on March 9 to appear before the Pettengill sub-committee on the House side.

A feature of today's hearing was the failure of Canon William Sheafe Chase, for years the spearpoint of the attack on block booking, to make his usual plea for adoption of the legislation. Although present, the Canon remained quietly in the background for the first time in eight years during which the matter has been before Congress.

The subject before the sub-committee was introduced by Stephen P. Cabot, representing the M. P. Research Council, but the bulk of the attack on block booking was carried by Abram F. Myers, general counsel for Allied, and his associates.

Code Adoption Called Futile

Repeatedly referring to statements and letters of various officials, both American and foreign, regarding the effect of the present day pictures on the youth of the world, Cabot told Senator Neely's group that the industry has repeatedly adopted "codes" of great promise, but has failed to live up to them.

Declaring that as a result of block booking an exhibitor has no room for meritorious pictures which may not be among those bought, he declared "if all the time is filled up there is no way of encouraging independent producers to make pictures." The bill, he said, "would open the field to independent and experimental production."

"We believe this bill will restore free competition and in the long run it will remove the constantly threatening danger of this powerful industry in Hollywood dictating its will as to what communities 3,000 miles away shall see. Under the present trade practices it is practically a dictatorship," he said.

Questioned by Senator Neely as to the situation now as compared with 1927, Cabot admitted there has been "tremendous" improvement and "there are some very beautiful pictures and fewer harmful pictures being shown today." But, he added, "there is no guarantee that this situation will continue."

Pointing out that the bill deals only with the relationship between producer or distributor and the exhibitor, Senator Barkley of Kentucky asked the witness where the public comes in, Cabot replying that it would permit the "cooperation" of the community in aiding the exhibitor to select his programs.

"Would it not be a rule that the exhibitors more usually select pictures that they thought would produce the biggest house and the community would not have any more to say about it than it does now?" Barkley asked.

"If two theatres are located in a community and one refuses to show a picture how can you prevent the other house from exhibiting it?" Cabot was asked by Senator Davis of Pennsylvania.

"There would be no way to prevent it under this bill," the former admitted.

Bill Drawn at Columbia

The Neely bill was drawn up by the Legislative drafting office of Columbia University, and the block booking clause was lifted from the cease and desist order of the Federal Trade Commission in the Paramount case, it was divulged by Thomas E. Ervin, associate on the Universal legal staff, who explained the various provisions of the measure and said his office was prepared to submit a brief should the constitutionality of such legislation be questioned.

Senator Neely introduced for the record amendments offered by the Federal M. P. Council of America, but the witness refused to give any opinion as to their desirability. Briefly, the council demanded the inclu-

Picture a crowded chamber in the Senate Office Building with five senators and 100 legislators, producers, distributors and representatives of the public listening intently to a witness extolling the virtues of a film business without block booking.

"The supply of product has been cut down from 800 features yearly in 1921 to 500 in 1936," the witness said in substantiation of a charge he had made that compulsory block booking created monopolies. "And the number of national distributors has been reduced by the practice from 22 to eight," he added.

"But how much have box-office receipts been cut as a result?" queried Senator Davis.

That stumped witness SIDNEY SAMUELSON.

ABRAM MYERS advised the senators that the bill would compel distributors to furnish a synopsis in advance, which he said was a practice of labeling products much the same as the law requires of other industries. This caused JOSEPH UNGER, EDMUND GRAINGER, JACK CONNOLLY, P. A. POWERS, GEORGE SCHAEFER, ROBERT MOCHRIE, WILLIAM KUPPER, WILLIAM SUSSMAN and other distributor representatives to squirm in their seats.

The hearing started at 10:39 o'clock with all the earmarks of a Hollywood premiere. Flash lights and reporters were as thick as ED FAY'S hair.

The day was unseasonably muggy, which explains why Senator NEELY, chairman, fell asleep while MYERS explained the intricate machinery of the business.

Two hearts—belonging to ED KUYKENDALL and M. A. LIGHTMAN—beat in waltz time when NEELY proposed that the hearing be continued next week. Both envisioned compulsory abandonment of their scheduled trip to Miami and the M.P.T.O.A. directors' meeting. DAVE PALFREYMAN felt none too well at that moment.

CHARLES C. PETTIJOHN led a Hays brigade consisting of TONY MUTO, BURT NEW, TOM PETTY, PELFREYMAN and GABRIEL HESS who found the hearing more to his liking than the copyright bill hearing not far away.

ED LEVY, M.P.T.O.A. general counsel, tried hard to bring as an exhibit of prosperity IRVING JACOCKS, new president of the Connecticut M.P.T.O., who weighs 388 pounds, and runs a 400-seat house in Branford, Conn.

The hearing room resembled a Quaker meeting place, what with all the women on one side and all the men on the other. Glimpsed among the men were FRANK JACK, Warner Theatres division manager; OSCAR LAM, Georgia exhibitor; SIDNEY LUST and JULIAN BRYLAWSKI, both on their home grounds; GEORGE AARONS, Philadelphia exhibitor leader; WILLIAM HISSNER, Lebanon, Pa., exhibitor, and JOSEPH BRENNAN of Boston.

Statistical experts were put to shame by the manner in which PETTIJOHN, MYERS, KUYKENDALL, SAMUELSON and others quoted figures on attendance, receipts, feature production, the number made by each producer, the number of theatres and their seating capacity.

Raft and Paramount Settle Grievances

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 27.—George Raft and Paramount have settled the dispute which arose when Raft walked out during the filming of "Princess Come Across" with Carole Lombard.

The actor was today put back on the payroll and assigned to "The Duchess," which Louis Gensler will produce. Filming will start March 23.

Ascap Pleads For Retention Of $250 Fine

and downtown houses by demanding equal fees from both.

Buck sought to defend the seat charge, declaring producers acquire the right to use musical compositions through direct negotiation with writers, while the exhibitor tax is for performance for profit and does not constitute a double levy.

Declaring that if $250 is a good penalty for infringement the same sum might be adopted as the statutory penalty for automobile collisions, Representative Deen recalled Buck's assertion that Ascap has collected little from infringement suits and asked Burkan why, if the provision brings in no money, the organization is so concerned about it.

The statute discourages piracy, Burkan asserted, protesting that an automobile that will last one year should not be considered in the same breath with one that will last a century. Urging that the committee scrap the Duffy Bill, Buck and Burkan asserted that if the courts were left to determine the damages, infringement suits would bring awards as low as four cents.

"Tried to Destroy Ascap"

"Thousands of infringements are going on now," Burkan told Representative Deen of Georgia. "They will keep on pirating first and pay later. The man who is not a pirate has nothing to fear."

Charging that the broadcasters sought to wreck Ascap by trying to buy the Warner library to set up an opposition pool and force royalties down, Buck explained that Warners' music firms pulled out because the association refused to increase license fees.

"Warners wanted more money and we told them we are not out for all the traffic would bear," he said. "These gentlemen thought that this society could be utilized and they could move in on the writers with all the influence they possess. They felt they should be getting millions and millions of dollars. This society has tried to be decent with the broadcasters of this nation and is furnishing them with service they cannot buy. Then they tried to form their own society, but couldn't do it with a million dollars. When Warners found they couldn't exert pressure they withdrew."

With the conclusion of Ascap's presentation the hearings were suspended until March 3, when the writing crafts will present their views.

Swarthout, Boles Meet

DALLAS, Feb. 27.—This town got itself worked into a state of excitement the other day with Gladys Swarthout and John Boles both here at the same time. Boles paid a visit to the opera singer at her hotel, accompanied by a flock of photographers.

He came here to attend the funeral of his mother, accompanied by Mrs. Boles and left later for New York. Miss Swarthout is on a concert tour.

Goldwyn Purchases "Dead End" Rights

Samuel Goldwyn has purchased the screen rights to the current Broadway stage success, "Dead End," by Sidney Kingsley, for production on next season's program. This will increase Goldwyn's contribution to the United Artists schedule for next year to nine. It is reported Goldwyn paid $165,000 for the play. No cast assignments have been set as yet.

Goldwyn recently bought the screen rights to "Dodsworth," which will star Walter Huston and Ruth Chatterton. William Wyler, who will direct "Dodsworth," is in New York for conferences on the film with Sidney Howard, who will adapt the play for the screen. Wyler will be here for three weeks, then will return to the coast.

His "Goldwyn Follies" will be an international revue featuring talent of both the American and foreign stage and screen, Goldwyn said yesterday at a luncheon given in his honor by the Ass'n of Foreign Press Correspondents at the Hotel Lombardy.

Goldwyn stated that he would visit France, Vienna and Russia and that "whenever I see interesting personalities or beautiful girls, I will sign them." His contention is that such a picture will have added interest value in every country from which the members of the cast have been drawn.

Goldwyn will sail March 4 on the Berengaria, accompanied by Mrs. Goldwyn and Samuel Jr.

C. E. Williams to Miami

OMAHA, Feb. 27.—Charles E. Williams, president of M. P. T. O. and N. I. D. E. A., was ill at his home throughout the four weeks of the extra sub-zero weather that plagued this territory. He has left for Miami where the board of directors of the M. P. T. O. A. will hold its session.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Give Us This Night"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 27.—Topheavy with music, this picture is apt to have an appeal only to class audiences.

The story is constructed on the backstage opera formula with Jan Kiepura cast as a singing fisherman who is released from jail through the efforts of Gladys Swarthout, a diva, and Philip Merivale, a composer, to replace Alan Mowbray as the tenor with the opera company. Kiepura leaves the troupe upon learning that Merivale is his rival for Miss Swarthout but returns melodramatically to his job after learning that he is the object of her affection.

Alexander Hall, who directed, strived to inject comedy relief but succeeded only rarely. Benny Baker, a first rate comedian, is practically lost in the shuffle and the laughs are drawn only by the antics of Mowbray. The musical score by Erich Wolfgang Korngold with lyrics by Oscar Hammerstein is good but offers no tune to capture the popular fancy.

Edwin Justus Mayer and Lynn Starling wrote the screen play from a story by Jacques Bachrach. The film has pictorial appeal and the Italian settings have been well conceived by Hans Drier and Roland Anderson, the art directors, and ably photographed by Victor Milner. The production of William LeBaron indicates the picture is intended as a class offering.

Production Code Seal No. 1,896. Running time, 68 minutes. "G."

"The House of a Thousand Candles"

(Republic)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 27.—A drama of international espionage, this offers everything new but the title. Well produced, with romantic love interest and comedy balancing the suspense of the motivating plot, the film has that quality which should interest general audiences.

The story concerns the efforts of an arch conspirator, Irving Pichel, to intercept a secret message carried by a courier, Phillips Holmes. Using modern methods, sending code messages by radio to his agents, Pichel causes Holmes to fall into the hands of beautiful Rosita Moreno. Holmes and his sweetheart, Mae Clarke, who has followed him in a chase across Europe, are trapped in Pichel's "house of a thousand candles." With death staring them in the face, Miss Clarke gets a message to Holmes' valet, Fred Walton, who, with Michael Fitzmaurice, orchestra leader, frees Holmes. An exciting auto chase across the mountains follows, ending in Pichel's death and Holmes' recovery of the message in time to avert a new world war.

The character of the story plus the names gives the exhibitor a fair opportunity to develop an interest-creating campaign emphasizing the novelty of the adaptation. Based on the novel by Meredith Nicholson, the modern screen play by H. W. Hanemann and Endre Bohem is an intelligent departure from the original. Arthur Lubin's direction is good.

Buys 7 Beach Stories

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 27.—Harry Sherman has concluded a deal with Rex Beach for seven stories, which he will release through a major studio. These pictures will be produced outside of his current Paramount contract. First probably will be "The Barrier" and "The Ne'er-Do-Well." Sherman is now negotiating with two majors, he said, one of which is said to be Paramount. According to present plans, Sherman will do "The Barrier" in color.

Short Subjects

"Ants in the Pantry"

(Columbia)

A sure fire comedy containing the ingredients that makes for the Three Stooges suitable material, this one should certainly be found enjoyable. The boys are employed by an exterminator and on the verge of being fired suddenly become ambitious and set forth to drum up some business. They pick out a likely looking house and break into it setting various vermin all over the place. They go around and are welcomed for their timely arrival and instructed to clean up the place. From this point on the sky, as usual, is the limit and their novel brand of slapstick is responsible for whatever humor comes out of the piece. It ends on a smelly note with the capture of a skunk while they are on a fox hunt. Clara Kimball Young is seen again as she plays the foil for their humorous sallies. Excellent entertainment. Production Code Seal, No. 1846. Running time, 18½ mins. "G."

"Just Speeding"

(Columbia)

Monte Collins and Tom Kennedy play a couple of goofs who run amuck with a doctor's car, and, meeting the police, continue their harum-scarum flight from the law through a hospital where the usual slapstick antics prevail. After eluding the operating table and the dissecting knife Collins and Kennedy escape, only to be confronted again by John Law, and, rather than go through it all again, which Kennedy is in favor of, Collins raps him on the head with a wrench and prefers jail. The comedy is of the standard grade and should entertain. Production Code Seal, No. 1802. Running time, 18 mins. "G."

"A Clean Shaven Man"

(Paramount)

Popeye and his man mountain friend, Bluto, hear Oliveoyl singing about how she could go for a clean shaven man and promptly set about cleaning up to win her favor. Bluto is well fixed by Popeye and he slices up Popeye's countenance so that he is totally unpresentable. As Popeye is being dragged out for the comparison the spinach comes into action. With the usual roughhouse, the tables are turned and they both meet Oliveoyl walking arm-in-arm with a very hairy and bearded fellow, whereupon they fall to kicking each other. If the audience likes Popeye, it will go for this one. Production Code Seal No. 0645. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

"The Collie"

(Paramount)

This is a good number that will find favorable reaction from audiences that like dogs—and who doesn't?—and there is interwoven a bit of sporting life in the demonstration of the field trials of a sheep dog. It begins with a boy who is seeking a canine companion and his selection of a dog from a kennel. It goes on with some fine camera portraits of thoroughbred collies and the evolution of the species from shepherd dogs. The latter part is given over to the roundup of a flock of sheep by a finely trained beast and is something that must be seen. Production Code Seal No. 0757. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

sion of a minimum penalty for a violation, the appointment by the President of a Federal M. P. Commission to make rules and regulations to carry out the provisions of the act, the proposed commission to be charged with the duty of instituting equity proceedings to prevent violations of the Act, and that finally, unless the bill is so amended, it be scrapped and the Culking Bill, providing for the creation of a commission, substituted.

None of the persons engaged in the drafting of the measure ever had any experience as a producer or director of pictures or as a distributor, Ervin admitted in response to questions by Pettijohn. He also admitted newsreels had been left out because, as Pettijohn phrased it, "you cannot tell the exhibitors a year in advance what the news will be." Pettijohn also secured from the witness an admission that the block booking provision of the Federal Trade Commission, which he had incorporated in the bill, had not been upheld by the courts.

The economic side of pictures is the one that interests exhibitors, Myers told the sub-committee in opening his presentation.

"These practices are the proper subjects of regulatory legislation because —first, they permit monopoly; second, they are a cloak for dishonest business practices; and third, they compel the showing of undesirable pictures and prevent the showing of desirable films," he said.

Law Violation Charged

"There is no industry in the United States that has more persistently and flagrantly disregarded the anti-trust laws than the motion picture producers and distributors."

Asserting that the present form of contract shows nothing which can be used to identify the pictures covered, Myers declared it thus was impossible for distributors to classify features as they wished, switch them from straight to percentage basis and vice versa and withhold for later distribution under a new contract pictures which showed extraordinary box-office potentialities.

It is impossible for an exhibitor to book a picture singly, he asserted, citing a letter from F. J. McWilliams of the Porthea, Portage, Wis., in which it was explained McWilliams made an offer of $75 for "Magnificent Obsession," which had been offered to him in block for $20, but was refused.

Myers held that if block booking is abolished blind selling also must be eliminated if there is to be any improvement. But, he stressed, the bill is in no sense an attempt at censorship; on the contrary, he told the subcommittee, "I think the draftsmen of the bill must studiously have tried to arrive at the very minimum of Government control."

Attempting to forestall arguments which might be offered by the distributors, Meyers declared there could be no truth to the contention that if the producers cannot secure a market for their poor pictures they will go broke. On the contrary, he asserted, they will in the end make more money because the better pictures will have longer runs. The independents are not trying to put the producers out of business, he added; on the contrary, "the theatres we represent are absolutely dependent upon the producers for pictures, it would be foolish to imagine us coming here to advocate something that is going to put the distributors out of business."

No exhibitor would be required to book singly if he desired to secure blocks, he said.

Nathan Yamins Testifies

Myers was followed by Nathan Yamins, president of Allied, who declared "the universal opinion of the independent exhibitors is in favor of this bill."

"We are opposed to block booking because it forces us to buy bad. The annual feature production has been reduced from 800 to about 500." Also he declared, his theatre is playing to fewer patrons than in 1919 although the take is greater because of the higher admission prices. "I am convinced that the elimination of this monopolistic practice will restore to this industry a great era of prosperity and a great opportunity for public service," he said.

"Play or pay," is the rule in the middle west when exhibitors attempt to reject pictures because of local opposition," H. M. Richey of Detroit asserted. Adoption of individual selling, he contended, would not increase the cost of production, but would enable the exhibitor to meet the demands of his patrons for good pictures.

Block booking is compulsory in the Maryland area and is bitterly opposed by the independent exhibitors, it was declared by J. L. Whittle of Baltimore.

Approval of the legislation was voiced by Mrs. Mary T. Bannerman, acting chairman of the committee on legislation to abolish compulsory block booking of the M. P. Research Council; Mrs. E. G. Nourse, of the American Society of University Women, and Mrs. Paul Howell of the American Home Economics Ass'n.

film rights to stage plays so that open, competitive bidding for these rights is reestablished, according to Sidney Howard, guild president. The appearance of film companies as producing managers of stage plays in recent years curtailed the competitive bidding for film rights and was one of the principal reasons for drafting the new agreement, the guild says.

Under the new minimum basis pact manager and author continue to receive 50 per cent each of the proceeds of sales of film rights up to $15,000; the participation of the author is increased by one-third on the second $15,000, and on a graduated scale on amounts above $30,000, so that if the film rights to a play sold for $50,000 the author would receive 65 per cent., or $32,500, and the manager 35 per cent, or $17,500, and if sold for $100,000 the author would receive 70 per cent and the manager 30 per cent.

Bidding for film rights will be through the guild-appointed arbiter, Joseph Bickerton, and the guild itself. Bids will be kept secret unless voluntarily disclosed to interested parties by the author. The guild hopes that these provisions will correct the lessening of competetive bidding for plays produced by film companies.

Modifications Provided

In the case of productions of any type costing the manager a minimum of $60,000, modifications of the participation percentage in film rights may be granted by the guild's council upon the intercession of the author.

A flat fee of $100 per month was also included in the agreement for six months' options taken by producers on any play. If renewed for a second six months the option fee is $150 per month. The option is cancellable at the end of any month.

The terms of the pact as approved yesterday were declared to be final despite some dissatisfaction on the part of managers. Guild officials stated that they believed a majority of managers approved the new pact.

Industry Men Defend Block Booking Use

Kent, Pettijohn Attack Senate Measure

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Resorting to a night session to clean up the hearings on block booking, the Neely Senate sub-committee today heard representatives of the industry defend block booking as the only economic method yet devised, dating back almost to the inception of the industry.

Members of the sub-committee showed little interest in the testimony, apparently planning to read the printed record of the hearings. Senator Davis of Pennsylvania, to whom Senator Neely handed over the hearing as he left for West Virginia last night, was in constant attendance; Senator Benson of Minnesota made a short stay; Senator Barkley of Kentucky did not appear.

Psychological studies of the effect of films upon youth in the Payne reports were discussed Dr. Henry James Forman, author of "Our Movie Made Children."

New Optimism Stirs Mexican Film Industry

End of Strike, Cuts in Import Tax Help

By JAMES LOCKHART

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 28.—There is more optimism along Film Row here now than there has been in many months, following the settlement of the four-month strike against eight major American distributors, the reduction of 45 per cent in import duties and the fixing of a non-progressive tax of five per cent on distributors' gross incomes.

Distribution is moving much more smoothly; exhibitors are buying more pictures, and five new houses are being rushed to completion, following building delays. All will open within a few weeks. Mexican producers have received a new incentive with the exemption of their revenues from income taxes. Six features are in work, and companies are attempting to draw the best stage and radio names for their productions.

Para. Board Hears Report on Studio

A report on Paramount studio plans and operations was presented to the company's board at its regular monthly meeting yesterday by John E. Otterson, president, who returned early in the week from a lengthy studio stay.

The board approved the merger of Paramount Pictures Distributing Corp., Paramount International Corp., Penates Trading Corp. and Parager Corp. with Paramount Pictures, Inc., the parent company. The move was taken to simplify the company's corporate setup and to effect tax economies through the elimination of non-essential subsidiaries.

No action was taken on the company's new contract with Winfield Sheehan, recently signed as an independent producer. It is understood that this matter is to await a later meeting of the full board. Floyd B. Odlum, H. A. Fortington and other members of the board are away from the city at this time.

"Pine" Injunction Is Denied by Court

An application for an injunction to prevent exhibition of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" was denied The Trail Co., which claims ownership of certain dramatic rights to the production, by Justice Collins in N. RKO Has Net Of $665,297 For the Year

Goes into Black in '35 First Time Since '30

The consolidated net profit of RKO for the year 1935 was $665,297, it was disclosed in a preliminary statement completed yesterday by Irving Trust Co., as trustee of RKO, in its report to the U. S. District court on results of operations for the year.

While the consolidated statement is subject to an audit now being conducted by Price, Waterhouse & Co., the results of this audit are not expected to alter the preliminary statement in any material respect. The year's earnings return RKO's consolidated operations to the black for the first time since 1930. The company's consolidated loss for 1932 was $10,695,503; for 1933 it was $4,384,064, and for 1934 a net loss of $310,574 was incurred.

Consolidated income for 1935 amounted to $44,879,837, of which $42,708,193 was from film rentals and admissions. Additional income from dividends received on investments, interest earned and other sources amounted to $529,315. Operating expenses aggregated $39,807,263, of which film sales and service costs of $17,355,582 comprised the largest

Percy Kent, Hoffeld Coming East for FWC

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 28.—Percy Kent, brother of Sidney R. Kent and Milton Hoffeld, both of F. W. C. leave soon for New York to assume new posts with National Theatres.

Kent will head the F. W. C. realty department through National Theatres, which is the same post he occupied here, and Hoffeld will supervise the fulfillment of booking dates. Hoffeld was head booker under J. J. Sullivan in the local office of F. W. C. The announcement of the shift was made here yesterday at a division managers' meeting by Spyros Skouras. The meetings are expected to extend into next week.

Open at Warm Springs

"Little Lord Fauntleroy" will have its world premiere next Wednesday at Warm Springs, Ga., in a small theatre prepared for the showing. The guests will be the children at the Warm Springs Foundation. Freddie Bartholomew, the star, now in New York, will attend if he recovers from a severe cold in time. Dolores Costello Barrymore, featured in the film, will be present.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, Feb. 28.

NO Hollywood exploration trip could be complete without a visit with Ben Schulberg. It was impromptu today, however, and Sunset Boulevard was the scene. His ideas are definite about things now and to come, and after twenty-six years of it in this business Schulberg's opinions are always interesting.

The chance meeting for some reason or other livened our memory. In mentally reviewing his years it was a surprise to check into the number he has spent with Paramount. It all began in 1912 as publicity manager and scenario editor combined. Four years later he became general manager of Paramount Distributing Corp. under Hiram Abrams. . . .

Preferred was born in 1918 with Al Lichtman and Jack Bachmann as partners, if you remember that far back. It was an independent venture, followed in 1925 by an invitation for Schulberg to head Paramount production here. For seven significant years, including 1928, when the company returned an $18,000,000 profit, or the biggest rolled up by any one company in any one year, he held the post, resigning in 1932 to form his own company but again with a Paramount hookup in distribution.

Three years later found that arrangement washed out and Schulberg at Columbia, where he now is completing the last four of a series of eight. This carries him to May 1. Then what? Nobody knows, but his knowledge of the Paramount lot and what makes it go suggest a resumption of the old association might not be amiss or too screwy to contemplate. . . .

Well down front on the Metro lot is a large hole in the ground. Sam Katz can hear the noise of construction from his office, which rises a couple of stories above it in a nearby building.

"What's it for?" asked Howard Dietz.

"For rejected scripts," replied Larry Weingarten.

"Rejected scripts? You mean only those on 'Good Earth,' don't you?" commented a third. . . .

Louis Sobol, columnist, of the New York Evening Journal, is here to do the studios. It's a two-month jaunt.

The other day the sun peeked from out of the hills for a minute. "Look at that," he remarked.

"Pay no attention," he was urged. "Merely a production touch." . . .

One of the studio secretariat was presented with a copy of "Boy Meets Girl" the other day.

"Did you think it funny?" she was asked.

The answer was in the negative.

"And why not?"

"Because it's too much like what we get around here every day in the week." . . .

Studio shifts create excitement in these parts. Thus, when Gabe Yorke succeeds Bill Pine at Paramount, the legend goes, the next day brought a letter reading:

"If you can find jobs for these fellows in the next week or so, a lot of your friends would be happy."

Attached was half dozen pages torn from the Los Angeles telephone directory. . . .

"How are you?" Yorke was inquiring.

"Not so good. Chills, bad back and a couple of grippe symptoms thrown in."

"What picture did you see last night?" asked Gabe. . . .

Max Gordon, whose New York season has been a wow, what with "Pride and Prejudice," "Jumbo," et al, is here working on the Metro lot.

"They keep on sending me clippings from New York, telling me what a genius I am. But a couple of flops will set them straight," he remarked. . . .

Up from nothing plus, a small producer here now uses an English valet. Every night he loads his man with scripts and these instructions:

"Read them and tell me whether the language is correct." . . .

In which, cheerfully and sans request, an error is made aright. This space's comment on the color results in "Trail of the Lonesome Pine" criticized Technicolor on the blue of its blues. It did not seem natural. Yet it is in this part of the world, at any rate. We've seen with our own optics. . . .

M-G-M, Loew Heads On Move Everywhere

M-G-M and Loew executives are keeping the various transportation lines quite active these days, what with a number of them either on, returning or planning trips.

David Bernstein leaves tomorrow for Miami on an extended vacation. Judge Isadore Frey will get away for the same resort some time next week and Louis K. Sidney has plans of leaving about March 15. Oscar Doob returned earlier in the week and E. M. Saunders will be back in about 10 days.

Fred Quimby returned yesterday from a six weeks' coast trip and Al Lichtman is scheduled to return next week. The latter arrived in New Orleans yesterday and from there proceeds to Atlanta and a few other points before hitting New York. Felix Feist is due from Hot Springs, Ark., in another 10 days. William F. Rodgers will return Monday from Cleveland.

Laudy Lawrence, who will sail from Paris shortly, will time his arrival with that of Arthur Loew, who will sail Monday from Rio de Janeiro and is due here on March 12.

Nicholas M. Schenck and Howard Dietz are scheduled to leave the coast next week. J. Robert Rubin and Leopold Friedman returned from there a few days ago.

Fabian Takes Over Two at Middletown

Si Fabian, who operates the Paramount, Strand and Fox in Brooklyn, as well as a number of upstate New York theatres, tomorrow will take over the State and Stratton in Middletown, N. Y., from the Hathaway Brothers.

Joseph Shure, manager of Proctor's, Schenectady, has been transferred to Middletown to handle both houses under the Fabian management. George Walsh of Paramount has made several efforts to pool the two Hathaway houses with the Paramount in the same town, but never got further than the preliminary stages of negotiation.

Arrest 11 Pickets

Eleven men, arrested in front of Loew's State on Broadway, where they had been picketing against "Riffraff," were held in total bail of $20 yesterday. They will be given a hearing in West Side Court on March 3.

ing and has prohibited producers from having an interest in theatres, the committee was told by Catherine Van Etten Lyford, Boston, who, with Mrs. Frederick P. Bagley, also of Boston, submitted a plea for passage of the bill from the Massachusetts Civic League.

Charges that block booking gives effective control over exhibition and programs were read into the record on behalf of Dr. Russel J. Clinchy, Washington minister. Enactment of the bill also was advocated by Mrs. B. E. Danley for the Y. W. C. A.; Izor A. Scott for the W. C. T. U.; Mrs. Sina N. Stanton for the Council of Women for Home Missions; Mrs. Louis Ottenburg of the National Women's Trade Union League; Mary Quest for the Girls' Friendly Society, and Mary T. Bannerman for the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Charging that much of the support of the Neely-Pettengill bill was coming from professional agitators, "most of whom haven't a nickel invested in this business," Charles C. Pettijohn, general counsel for the Hays organization, led the attack on the measure.

"It is my belief that 50 or 60 per cent of theatre owners and managers in this country do not belong to any exhibitors' organization," he said.

Opening an attack upon Allied which, he charged, a few years ago offered a five-year block booking, blind selling Tiffany contract, Pettijohn paid his respects to Nathan Yamins, who, he said, cried that a monopoly was being raised, and who had a monopoly in Fall River, and distributors had to deal with him on his terms.

Mae West in Demand

Pettijohn submitted data on cancellations which showed that Paramount had not had a single cancellation on Mae West, while "Alice in Wonderland" was cancelled "all over the lot." The same was true with other companies, Warners having had few cancellations on "Little Caesar" and many on "Alexander Hamilton."

Instead of the screen being a deleterious influence, he said, Edgar Hoover, chief of the Justice Department's Bureau of Investgation, had credited films with being of great service to his department.

The purpose of the bill is to improve the morals of pictures, but, he warned the committee, its enactment would merely transfer responsibility from the producers, where it properly rests, to the exhibitors.

Enactment of the bill would increase costs of distribution, Pettijohn contended, and would mean an increase in admission prices. At the present time the House in the smallest town can get for from $6 to $10 the same fine features that the metropolitan de luxe theatre pays as many thousands for. There are about 16,000 houses in the country and 12,800 are independent.

Referring to the low prices at which Pettijohn said films were given the smaller towns, Senator Davis asked: "And 13,000 of the houses are independent?"

"Nearly that many," Pettijohn agreed.

To save time of witnesses who had come from long distances, Pettijhon read but briefly from a detailed brief which he filed with the committee.

"Ostensibly written to alter the trade practices of the industry, the real effect of the present bill would be to strike a blow at the freedom of the screen, at the progress of an art and at the great popular service of motion picture entertainment," the committee was told.

"The red herring that has been drawn across the trail of this measure is that its provisions would meet an allegedly 'moral issue.'

"That issue is rank hypocrisy."

Based on Brookhart Bill

Pointing out that block booking hearings have been conducted from time to time over a period of eight years, Pettijohn declared that court decisions have affirmed the producers' contention that block booking is merely wholesale selling and a fair and lawful practice. The block booking prohibition of the Neely bill, he said, is practically the same as that in the original Brookhart bill, introduced in 1928, which in turn was copied from the cease and desist order of the Federal Trade Commission in the Paramount case.

Provisions in the bill making the measure applicable to foreign as well as interstate commerce, he asserted, would put American distributors at a serious competitive disadvantage in foreign markets.

Although the pictures themselves are beyond reproach, the witness charged, "there are still those who to harass, improve or dictate to the industry are now attacking its distribution system."

"It is an utterly false supposition that the exhibitor buys 'blindly' because he does not always see the finished picture in advance of his contract. The fact is that he is given all the details in possession of the distributor about the character of each film production at the time such contracts are made. Even in cases where the full story of the plot cannot be made available, the exhibitor is given data to judge amply of the entertainment offered.

"If it is 'blind buying' for the exhibitor to pay $25, $50 or $100 for the rental of a film which will feature stated stars, directors and artists, what is to be said for the producer who invests $100,000 or $1,000,000 in advance to produce a spectacle, the success of which can not be determined even when the picture is completed, but only when it is actually shown?"

Contract Data Introduced

The figures prove that an exhibitor's judgment does not rest on moral considerations, Pettijohn continued, submitting figures to show that pictures to which objection had been raised were taken by more exhibitors than films of less drawing power but of possibly higher moral quality. A list showing the contracts played by a long line of pictures during the 1933-34 season was topped by "I'm No Angel" with 11,558, followed by "Little Miss Marker," 9,630; "Too Much Harmony," 9,494; "We're Not Dressing," 9,267, and "Belle of the Nineties," 9,100. At the other end of the list were "Heart Song" with 1,136 contracts and "Constant Nymph" with 993.

"To assert that block booking is a public and moral problem is to reveal a total misconception of the issue," he declared.

Making way briefly for Mrs. John B. Sullivan of the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae to read the statement issued Feb. 26 by the Legion of Decency, Pettijohn paid high tribute to the work which has been accomplished by that organization in improving the morality of pictures.

Pettijohn stressed that the problem of the industry is distribution, it being necessary to circulate 30,000 miles of film a day, and referred to the efforts that must be made to keep the product moving to all houses.

As an evidence that the industry is not entirely hard boiled he called attention to the free shows for the inmates of 855 institutions throughout the country.

A striking explanation of the difficulties of the industry was given by Sidney R. Kent, president of Twentieth Century-Fox. Far from forcing blocking 100 per cent, he said, 40 per cent of his company's contracts are for less than all.

The disagreement among the exhibitors themselves on the question of block booking was evidenced by the appearance in opposition to the bill of Ed Kuykendall, president of the M.P.T.O.A. Kuykendall assailed compulsory booking and asserted there are other trade practices which the theatre men don't like, but which the average exhibitor feels are questions to be ironed out in the industry and not in public.

Several women leaders spoke in opposition to the bill.

"Film Morals High," says Cochrane

Characterizing the bill as old fashioned, Robert H. Cochrane, vice-president of Universal, said that if the need for the legislation ever existed it no longer does from the standpoint of morals.

Nathan Yamins, who charged he was forced to pay for "The Devil Is a Woman" and "Four Hours to Kill" after unsuccessfully attempting to cancel, and who was criticized for monopolistic practices by Pettijohn and made a heated rejoinder, found himself again in the limelight when George J. Schaefer, formerly of Paramount, produced contracts and records to show his side of that controversy.

Yamins, he said, sought to cancel the pictures on the ground they were put in Class C by the Legion of Decency, whereas, in fact, one of them was in Class B and both had been passed by Massachusetts authorities for Sunday showing. He played and paid for one, but did not play or pay for the other, which was withdrawn from circulation.

Schaefer also went into Yamins' operations, winding up by saying that Yamins demanded a selective contract at prices less than the average he paid for full blocks and Paramount refused to sell him. He said Yamins had a contract under which Mae West was to play for four days; made a new contract giving him seven days, and then his general manager spoke on the evils of block booking at a New Bedford cleanup rally and said he "blushed when he saw" the picture.

The former Paramount executive, presented figures on cancellations during the code period. Many of these, he said, were because the pictures were on percentage.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Hellship Morgan"

(Columbia)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 28.—A better tale than this might have been contrived for George Bancroft's return to the screen after a long absence, for the good cast has little chance against the thin story of love in the tuna industry.

Bancroft plays "Hellship" Morgan, who pops sailors on the jaw because a woman two-timed him once. On shore he roisters in dance halls for the same reason. When Victor Jory, drunk, refuses to drink with him, Bancroft knocks him out, discovering meanwhile, by some psychic method, that Jory is hungry and also the embittered victim of woman's treachery. Bancroft takes Jory on as part of his crew after words of cheer in which they exchange all but the Boy Scout oath. "Hellship" Morgan's heart of gold is next touched by the plight of broke and hungry Ann Sothern. She is so grateful when he gets her a job in a cannery that she marries him, though she has already slapped Jory on the cheek, clearly indicating the dawn of a love for him. Once married, Miss Sothern cannot keep out of the pilot house where Jory is always standing watch and Bancroft. understanding the situation, drags himself over the side, seeking a watery grave.

The shots of tuna fishing and canning are interesting. Harold Shumate wrote the screenplay and original story. D. Ross Lederman directed. The photography by Henry Freulich and the special effects by A. Roy Davidson deserve special praise.

George Regas does well with a small part and so do Howard Hickman, Ralph Byrd, Rollo Lloyd and Snoflake. The three principals struggle valiantly with the difficult dialogue. Irving Briskin produced.

single charge. Artists' salaries amounted to $1,253,418; other salaries and wages totaled $4,513,748; film service and production expenses were $5,077,996; film selling and general expenses, $3,968,680, and other operating and general expenses, $7,637,835. Other charges aggregating $4,619,430 are listed, including interest and discount of $2,199,895, and depreciation of capital assets and amortization of leaseholds, amounting to $1,470,864.

In addition, the trustee's individual account for the period from July 1, 1934, to Dec. 31, 1935, shows receipts of $509,167 and disbursements of $422,858. The report notes that during the same 18 months period the available cash of RKO and subsidiaries increased from $4,696,904 to $5,287,893, while the inventory value of films, accessories and supplies increased almost $2,000,000, fixed indebtedness was reduced by $2,362,472, and interest on indebtedness was paid in the amount of $2,259,055.

Theatre Operators Gain

The earnings of RKO Radio Pictures, Inc., and its film producing and distributing subsidiaries, had an indicated net profit after all charges, of $777,425, as compared with a net profit of $570,378 the preceding year. Theatre operating subsidiaries, exclusive of Orpheum Circuit, had an indicated profit of $69,348 in 1935, as compared with a loss of $741,718 the preceding year. The report notes that theatre admissions last year increased $1,124,844 over 1934, while operating expenses increased only $588,019. An improvement in ordinary operations of Orpheum Circuit of approximately $125,000 was shown last year over 1934, the report states.

RKO Pathe Pictures, Inc., and subsidiaries showed an unaudited net loss of $187,937, as compared with a loss of $270,477 in 1934. Pathe News, Inc., has an indicated profit of $3,921 for the year, against a net loss in 1934 of $48,646.

The trustee's report notes that the $55,104,721 in claims filed against RKO in its reorganization proceedings have been reduced to approximately $33,000,000, with further substantial reductions still probable. Of the remaining claims, the secured debt amounting to $13,768,500, and the Rockefeller Center claim of more than $9,000,000 account for the largest portion of the claims.

It was learned unofficially that little progress has been made in the preparation of a plan of reorganization, although the report notes that the trustee has conferred "from time to time" with representatives of RCA, Atlas Corp.-Lehman Bros. and RKO officers on data pertinent to a plan.

Youmans Is Bankrupt

DENVER, Feb. 28.—A voluntary petition in bankruptcy has been filed here in U. S. District Court for Vincent Youmans, orchestra leader and composer. The petition listed liabilities at $511,306 and assets, patents and trademarks with "value unknown."

studios. It was also generally voted to continue N. R. A. time and wage scales.

The subject of costume fittings also brought out at the meeting resulted in a decision to pay one quarter of the daily wage to extras detained over an hour and a half for fittings and carfare to extras detained under that period.

Doubt Guilds Will Go Into the IATSE

Although reports persist that the Dramatists' Guild, the Screen Actors' Guild and Assistant Directors' Assn. are seeking to join the I. A. T. S. E., informed opinion is that the international union will not accept such organizations as members.

George Browne, head of the I. A. T. S. E., is scheduled to return from the coast in about a week or so to confer with executive board members on the membership applications.

Jr's. story appears to be impressive, it falls short of that clarity and persuasiveness which would warrant the drastic remedy of injunction in advance of trial. Especially is this true because the picture is now being exhibited. If the plaintiff's rights are upheld, the defendants will be accountable. No good can come from a temporary injunction halting the showing of the picture; on the other hand, considerable harm will be visited upon the defendants by such summary action. The serious doubt which the papers and the clashing claims create dictate that the motion be and it is denied."

The action was placed on the calendar for trial March 30.

tallied $40,500, which means plenty of profit for the bondholders' committee. The Capitol dropped to $17,000 with "Music Goes 'Round and Around." "Yellow Dust" at the Rialto ended with approximately $8,000, while the Palace with "Ceiling Zero" and "The Chatterbox" chalked up about $8,000.

In the event "Follow the Fleet" is dated into the Center, the Albee, Brooklyn, will be held up a week.

Pizor Action Halts Segall's MPTO Use

dent M. P. T. O., composed of former Pizor organization members and members of the I. E. P. A., became an obvious move on Pizor's part to prevent the use by the Segall organization of any name similar to that of the M. P. T. O.

The result of the action by Pizor is not yet apparent, but film men here have hopes that eventually a single exhibitor organization will be evolved, to include all exhibitors, ending the long period of disagreement among various exhibitor groups.

a loss of $176,000 for K-A-O in 1934, and a loss of $650,000 in 1933.

David Sarnoff, RCA head and a member of the K-A-O board, commended Herbert B. Swope, chairman, and the K-A-O management on the improvement in operating results at the meeting. The directors voted a dividend of 1¾ per cent on the preferred stock, payable as of Dec., 1931, the quarter in which the dividend was first made payable. The dividend represents one-fourth of the regular seven per cent on the preferred and brings the past due dividends up to the first quarter of 1932.

The K-A-O managers' bonus, inaugurated a year ago by Swope shortly after he became chairman of the board, was extended for another year. The annual meeting of K-A-O stockholders will be held early in April.

Bernhard Sponsors Long Feature Films

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 28.—A strong plea for the lengthening of pictures to 14,000 feet was expressed here today by Joseph Bernhard, general manager of the entire Warner circuit. He stated that pictures running to approximately two and a half hours would accomplish the double purpose of eliminating dual bills and increasing patronage. He has advised the Warner heads, he said, to release "Anthony Adverse" in its present length of 14,000 feet, basing this judgment on his belief that the public prefers one good full-length feature plus a program of shorts.

Bernhard leaves here tomorrow, having completed a tour of Warner coast houses as well as conferences on new product with Jack Warner and Hal Wallis.

Among those expected are Walter Vincent, A. Julian Brylawski, Edward G. Levy, E. M. Fay, Lewen Pizor, Sidney Lust, J. H. Michael, William Benton and Samuel Pinanski.

Mrs. Vergesslich Dead

Jessie M. Vergesslich, 40, wife of Joe Vergesslich, who recently rejoined Warners in Atlanta, died early yesterday morning in the Park East Hospital after a protracted illness. Services will be held tomorrow morning at Vergesslich's home. Burial will be at Montefiore Cemetery, Springfield, L. I. In addition to her husband, Mrs. Vergesslich is survived by two daughters, Maxine and Lorraine; a father and brother, Charles and Harold Anderson.

Rites for Mrs. Pearson

Funeral services for Mrs. Emily B. Pearson, who died Wednesday after a short illness in Bellevue Hospital, were held yesterday in Campbell's Funeral Church. Mrs. Pearson was the wife of Elmer B. Pearson, who was prominently affiliated with the industry.

Free Lancing Seen Helping Japan's Films

Fanck Plan, Fewer Small Firms Also Factors

By TETSUYA MORI

TOKYO, Feb. 13.—Production in this country is expected to receive a definite impetus through three important recent developments: First the increased tendency to use free lance players; second, the plan of Dr. Arnold Fanck to produce films here, using Japanese players, and designed for world showing, and third, the reduction in the number of small companies.

Until recently only a few of the more progressive producers used free lance players, considering their contract talent too important a company asset. All producers today are coming to realize the importance of using in each film those players who are best suited to the roles. An increasing number of players are turning free lance at the expiration of existing contracts. P.C.L. is one of the important companies which has formed a definite policy of going afield for the most suitable players, and other companies are following the

Says 920 Theatres Are Using Screeno

Approximately 920 theatres throughout the country are now featuring Screeno, J. S. Markstein, president, stated prior to his departure yesterday for Detroit after spending a week here conferring with George West, eastern representative.

Chicago is the biggest territory for Screeno, Markstein said, and Greater New York is second with 110. The Windy City has had a high of 170 accounts at one time but because B. & K. has reinstated stage shows in a number of houses, games have been discontinued in about 25 units. In New

An order approving the payment of compensation to New York Trust Co. and Commercial National Bank for services as depositaries in connection with the reorganization of Paramount Publix was signed on Saturday by Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe.

The orders authorize compensation of $32,615 and expenses of $2,344 for N. Y. Trust and compensation of $24,582 for Commercial National.

Cold Continues to Depress Nation's Key City Grosses

Snowbound areas all across the northern part of the country and exceptional cold well into southern spots that are not accustomed to it continued to put a damper on the nation's key city box-office returns for the week ending Feb. 20-21. The total for the 30 cities reporting to MOTION PICTURE DAILY was $1,558,185.

The slump has been persistent in spite of some of the biggest pictures of the year. It began in mid-January when the first extreme cold became widespread, and reached a low point, $1,515,300, for the week ending Jan. 30-31. During the two succeeding weeks there was a pickup. For the week ending Feb. 6-7 the total rose to $1,591,350, and went up to $1,680,180 the following week, Feb. 13-14.

A general improvement is looked for now, however, in spite of Lent, because of better travel conditions.

Last week's decline was fairly uniform, except in Cleveland, Detroit, Los Angeles, Minneapolis, Montreal, Omaha, Philadelphia, Portland and Washington. [Comparative tabulation on page 14.]

SALT LAKE CITY, March 1.—Intermountain Theatres, Inc., has acquired two theatres, and plans improvements which will total $75,000. Several personnel changes have been made by Harry David, vice-president and general manager.

The Grand in Preston, Idaho, and the Grand in Brigham City, Utah, were leased from Michael Nielson, giving the circuit 18 houses in Utah and Idaho. Further acquisitions are contemplated.

Ray Hendry has been promoted from the management of the Capitol here to the post of assistant general manager of the circuit. Nevin McCord of the Orpheum in Twin Falls, Idaho, will replace Hendry at the Capitol. Earl H. Baughman has been named manager of the City and Or-

Denver Bank Night Insurance Illegal

DENVER, March 1.—The scheme to insure against loss to winners in Bank or Cash Night drawings at theatres has been declared illegal in an opinion by Assistant Attorney General J. Glenn Donaldson, and approved by Attorney General Paul P. Prosser. The plan was branded a lottery by them.

The Theatre Guarantee Corp. had conceived the idea, charging from 10 cents for $100 to 25 cents for $500 insurance, to be paid if the winner was not at the theatre. More than 40 agencies were established before the plan was ruled out.

The ruling first declared the plan was not insurance, the opinion holding that "the interest must be more than a mere hope; thus an expectation of a gift is not an insurable interest."

No "U" Move Seen Before March 10

Although satisfactory progress toward completion of Standard Capital Co.'s study of Universal operations and financial requirements is being made, there is little likelihood of any formal action being taken before March 10 on Standard's option to acquire a controlling interest in Universal, it was stated authoritatively on Saturday.

The option, which was renewed for six weeks from Feb. 1, expires March 14. There is no indication at this time, it was said, whether a new extension of the option will be required to complete the work now under way. Developments during the next 10 days are expected to determine this.

Hearst Scores West Film in Paper Here

Continuing the attacks of the Hearst newspapers throughout the country against Mae West's "Klondike Annie," the New York York American on Saturday published a lengthy editorial, under the title "Stop Lewd Films," in which Paramount and the Hays office were scored sharply. Previous attacks have been registered in San Francisco, Chicago and Baltimore, where the Hearst papers also refused all advertising on the film.

The editorial concludes: "It is to be hoped that the churches of the country are awake to the necessity of boycotting such a picture as 'Klondike Annie' and denouncing its producers. . . . The public should bring its influence to bear—by showing through non-patronage of such productions that pandering to the lewd elements of the community is not profitable."

The film is scheduled to open shortly in Chicago.

Booking Bill Called No Aid To Little Man

Lust Tells Senators It Would Help Big Spots

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The proposed block booking measure "would help the big theatres, not the little men," Sidney B. Lust, Washington exhibitor, told the Neely Senate subcommittee at a night session which concluded hearings on the bill here. Lust was one of a number of witnesses who testified in opposition to the abolition of block booking.

Lust denied that distributors demand big cuts on box-office attractions by classifying them as percentage pictures. He declared that none of his five houses runs any percentage pictures and that he does not book any company's entire output. The witness said exhibitors know well in advance what a picture is, submitting a copy of Motion Picture Herald as an example of how the trade papers carry criticisms long before films are in general distribution. "I go by the trade papers and plan my programs on the basis of their reports," he said.

Picturing himself as an exhibitor who bought 100 per cent blocks with-

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, March 1.

HOLLYWOOD'S spots have not changed. Somewhere, somehow, somebody dubbed production the life stream of the industry. Sufficient truth was in the assertion to make acceptance of the observation widespread. There is no gainsaying the fact that attractions are what make the industry, no matter how dizzily, revolve on its axis. All the rest of the paraphernalia—the mystery which surrounds the job, the social and caste systems, the political rivalry, the empiric complexes, the cock-eyed ideas which mix so freely with the good—are part of the warp and woof of the conglomerate mass which spells out Hollywood. . . .

A truth of this tour of inspection is the indisputable fact that the studios are trying hard and are generally succeeding in improving product. Whether or not the money they are spending on the "A" stuff, which means sluffing the "B," is always in the cards is another story. This is the day in Hollywood where those pictures designed as big pictures run close to and over the million dollar mark. The procedure is getting to be quite a regular affair now. So much so that one of the better manufacturers of celluloid ironically talks about anything costing less as a trailer. . . .

Hollywood at large agrees on at least two points of view. More may come to light later, but these are the two: (1) It insists and persists in its age-old opinion that New York continues to misunderstand what goes on here. Because it does and because, aside from the Mayers, the Thalbergs, the Zanucks, the De Milles, the Wangers, the Goldwyns, who keep a business eye well trained on their returns, it is a rare few who know or bother to learn what happens after the print goes East, Hollywood pays little attention to the world beyond its mountain and sea embroidered boundaries. . . .

The other slant, widely concurred in, is that, as high as negatives have been, they are going higher. The reasons, as propounded here, are several. The astute makers of pictures maintain there is an alarming shortage of genuine personalities. This department agrees, but fails to recall the day when an identical situation had not prevailed. The handful or more of men and women who actually sell tickets are in constant demand. Thus, Freddie March is getting $125,000 flat for his role opposite Katharine Hepburn in "Mary of Scotland." Radio, having established that, nobody can foretell to what figure his next job will rise. . . .

The drift now is to cluster big names in one picture. Thus, Darryl F. Zanuck has combined Claudette Colbert, Victor McLaglen, Ronald Colman and Rosalind Russell and a string of fifty name players in the support of "Under Two Flags" at a cast cost alone of about $500,000. Producers, certainly conscientious and honest enough in putting forward their best foot, often get a fixation, couple it with determination, and set out to nab the player they envision for a particular role and worry less about the price. At the same time, they are constantly establishing new price levels which fellow producers—and they as well will have to meet somewhere along the line. . . .

There must be included in this discussion the situation which confronts the studio which is shy of name players and bids for them in the open market under heavy penalties. Universal is a case in point, but there are others — practically all others with the sole exception of M-G-M. Agents, clever and well-informed boys, know what's going on. They know how great the need and how pronounced the shortage and invariably do a very good job of it for their clients and for their own ten per cent. The result is only one. It couldn't be anything else. The current market on ticket-selling names is so bullish it roars and will reflect itself in percentage terms demanded for 1936-37 product. . . .

The theatre operator will howl, of course. The buyer always does. Yet what to do is something not easily answered. One segment of substantial Hollywood opinion thinks it sees the answer in a general hike in admissions. This is a free and easy solution and the obvious suggestion. Whether or not exhibitors can is dependent upon local conditions. Business, taken in sum total, is much better, but has it recovered to a point where admissions can be booted up the line? The persistence with which double features hang on strikes as an indication that the public continues in a bargain-buying mood. For some time now it has been getting plenty for little money and patently finds the buy an attractive one. Will it, if the cost is hiked? If not, where do Hollywood and the business get off? . . .

out cancellation privileges, Stanley Sumner of Cambridge, Mass., told the sub-committee he has never had any difficulty making changes under such contracts and that passage of the bill would be a hardship because he then might lose the advantages he now has as compared with the affiliated competitor directly opposite his house.

A similar situation was detailed by M. A. Lightman, Memphis, who pointed out that as he has 45 houses he has "probably 45 times as much interest in the matter as some of the exhibitors who have appeared. Lightman brought out a phase of the problem which had not been discussed previously, asking the sub-committee to consider what would become of the gangster and other undesirable pictures under a selective buying system. The result would be, he said, that such pictures would carry the lowest prices and would be bought by men who didn't care what their community wanted, but would be sure of an audience from that part of the population which would be attracted by what could be exploited as "banned." This, he added, would bring about a tremendous expansion of 10-cent houses catering to that type of people.

Enforcement Discussed

Dissatisfaction with the provisions of the bill was indicated by Senator Davis of Pennsylvania, who asked Lightman, "How many inspectors do you suppose would be necessary to enforce this bill if it was passed?" Lightman declared that he could give no estimate. Further, Lightman asked, who is going to decide which are the good pictures, pointing out that no exhibitor would permit a committee of women to tell him that a certain picture is good and that he must run it, maybe paying four times as much for it as for a picture which will draw better at the box-office.

It was emphasized to the sub-committee that distributors have always been willing to accede to reasonable requests of exhibitors and have co-operated heartily with the efforts of local organizations to select films which can be recommended for young people.

New Haven distributors are embarrassingly cooperative, it was declared by Alfred F. Mayhew, assistant superintendent of schools there, in explaining how a consolidated group representing schools, churches and civic groups screen and select pictures which can be recommended three weeks or a month in advance of their public showing. The school system furnishes the auditorium, the distributors the films and the theatre men the operators, he said. The distributors offer for screening more pictures than can be handled, there is no difficulty in selecting excellent features and although New Haven is a double bill town the theatre men make every effort to have the co-features of a type comparable to that of the recommended pictures, he declared.

Courses in photoplay appreciation which are to be adopted by school systems throughout the country in the near future will become a strong factor toward picture improvement, it was said by Paul D. Mann of the National Education Ass'n. Any method of distribution which discouraged the production of prestige films of doubtful box-office attraction would be deadly to the growth of what he termed one of the most important developments in modern education.

In an effort to save the time of the sub-committee, both sides agreed that any further arguments they might wish to offer would be put into the form of briefs to be filed later.

York, 46 Loew houses feature the game, Markstein said.

In certain cities where the legality of the games has been disputed, Screeno is not represented, according to the president of the company. He referred to Cleveland and Milwaukee. In Milwaukee all games have been stopped.

About 70 theatres in California are now on the Screeno books, it was stated, with Warners going in for the game in Los Angeles and Hollywood units. The company is also doing well in Kansas City and Texas, he said.

One problem confronting the game distributors is that exhibitors want to play them too many times a week, Markstein declared. The public tires of the game if it is played too frequently, he asserted.

The company recently opened an office in Buenos Aires with H. S. Wallack in charge. Negotiations are under way for representation in Continental Europe, Cuba and Mexico.

The New York office, now in the Film Center Bldg., will move to the RKO Bldg. on April 1.

Freed in Milwaukee On Gift Night Count

MILWAUKEE, March 1.—William Young, manager of the Roosevelt, local neighborhood house, was found not guilty of violation of a gambling ordinance by a District Court jury here. Young was charged with operating a Manufacturers' Gift Night.

It marked the second such verdict returned by a District Court jury here. Norman Haacke, manager of the Grace, was acquitted on a similar charge several months ago.

Withdraws One Suit

NEW HAVEN, March 1.—Affiliated Enterprises, Inc., owner of Bank Night, has withdrawn its alleged infringement suit against one of the 10 defendants named, B. S. Mysliviec, operator of the Strand, Wallingford. A settlement provides that the Strand shall start Bank Night within a few weeks, discontinuing the Cash Night which has been running in common with the other theatres sued in the case now pending in Federal Court here.

Cromwell Assigned

HOLLYWOOD, March 1.—Darryl F. Zanuck has assigned John Cromwell to direct "To Mary With Love," magazine story by Richard Sherman soon to go into production. Zanuck has also assigned Francis Ford, Anne Shoemaker and Gene Reynolds to the cast of "Turmoil."

example, in order to add versatility to their product.

Recently there has been a marked tendency toward the elimination of numerous small independent producing companies, and their acquisition by the larger firms. This movement is seen in most quarters as eventually resulting in an improvement in the quality of the native product.

A total of 450,000 yen is expected to be gathered for the financing of Dr. Fanck's producing venture. The producer and his backers are expected to contribute two-thirds of the total and Japanese interests one-third. The Government stands ready to extend the fullest cooperation to Fanck. He is understood to be planning a stay of at least six months here. He will handle distribution of the product in European countries, while the Japanese interests will handle distribution to Oriental countries, the United States and South America.

Tokyo theatres are expected to enjoy a definite increase in attendance as a result of the anticipated removal of what has been virtually a ban on the attendance of high school students at film houses in the Tokyo Prefecture. The Guardian Society, composed of teachers, was formed last year to keep an eye on the out-of-school activities of children, and its work soon had the effect of establishing a practical ban on film attendance. Another factor of importance to exhibitors is the plan of the Education Department to produce films of an educational nature for students, to be shown at theatres throughout the country.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Treachery Rides the Range"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, March 1.—Offering a happy combination of good story, capable acting, excellent photography and skillful direction, this production ranks high among the current picture offerings. Dick Foran, as a scout with a cavalry regiment, gives a pleasing performance which should increase his following. His personality has definite appeal for men, women and children.

The story is laid in Kansas during the 70's, and deals with the efforts of Craig Reynolds, a buffalo hunter, to poach on Indian buffalo preserves and stir up trouble between the Indians and the cavalry. Battles between the whites and redskins are frequent and bloody until Foran learns that the uprisings have been inspired by Reynolds. He then takes the poachers into custody and peace is restored.

William Jacobs, author of both story and screen play, has furnished a well constructed, logical yarn which Frank McDonald has directed with intelligence. The cast includes Paula Stone, Monte Blue, Jim Thorpe, Don Barclay, Frank Bruno and Carlyle Moore, Jr., all of whom give good portrayals. Bryan Foy supervised production and the photography was handled by L. W. O'Connell. The story angle of the abuse visited upon the Indians by the white man should gain favor with parent-teacher associations.

Production Code Seal No. 1,870. Running time, 58 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Don't Gamble With Love"

(Columbia)

A marital drama with complications other than the usual triangular pattern, this should prove satisfactory entertainment. Bruce Cabot and Ann Sothern share the leading roles, supported in particular by Irving Pichel and Ian Keith.

Cabot and his wife, Miss Sothern, are deeply in love with one another, and concerned with the future of their infant son. They operate a swank gambling hall, on the square, and are successful. Miss Sothern concludes that a baby and a gambling career do not mix and persuades Cabot to give up the racket. His fling in the "legitimate" brokerage business ends when he is innocently involved in the firm's crooked dealings. Angry, he returns to gambling without his wife.

He turns to crooked operation in order to make money faster, and when she suddenly discovers it, stifles her inclination to return to him. Then, as he seeks to branch out, he runs into the opposition of other game operators. He is not disturbed by their threats, and Miss Sothern, tipped off to their intention, reveals his crooked operation to his clients, running him out of business before he can be hurt. She is shot by a heavy loser who attempts to kill Cabot, and that makes the reconciliation complete, as Cabot is cured of gambling as a career. Dudley Murphy directed.

Production Code Seal No. 1,902. Running time, 62 minutes. "G."

"The Lawless Nineties"

(Republic)

A western yarn built around the efforts of the lawless element to control the vote of Wyoming territory when it applied for admission to the United States in 1890, and the manner in which Government agents protected the voters, this picture is fast-moving and lively action fare, good for the week-end program or on a double bill.

John Wayne, hard rider and realistic scrapper, has the lead, with Ann Rutherford, Harry Woods, George Hayes and Al Bridge in principal supporting roles. Wayne, Government agent, is ordered to the territory to safeguard an orderly election. En route, he saves Miss Rutherford and Hayes, her father, southerner who has bought a paper.

The fast pace is maintained throughout as Wayne goes out after the gangs, despite the killing of Hayes and Wayne's fellow-officer. Eventually, of course, the gangs are cleaned out, the election makes the territory a state, and Wayne wins Miss Rutherford. Joseph Kane directed.

Previewed without production code seal. Running time, 57 minutes. "G."

Short Subjects

Screen Snapshots No. 7

(Columbia)

The Racquet Club in Palm Springs run by Charles Farrell and Ralph Bellamy opens this snapshot, and after the camera records the stars and film people who are there—there are many—it goes into awards with Walt Disney getting the French Legion of Honor cross and young George Breakston receiving an autographed photo of Mussolini for his performance in "No Greater Glory." Also seen are Mary Pickford starting her first production, how they name a polo pony in Hollywood and a scene on shipboard with Victor McLaglen and the Three Stooges cutting up aided by Wynne Gibson.

The last part presents one of the lackadaisical parties in which Anita Louise does a card trick while Dolores del Rio and Gene Raymond play ping pong and then Fred and Dorothy Stone dance a bit, but nobody seems to care. This is good fodder for the rabid film fan. Production Code Seal, No. 1968. Running time, 10½ mins. "G."

"The Voice of Experience No. 9"

(Columbia)

This issue has the Voice revealing how his advice, if taken, would avoid certain serious problems that arise in homes over trivial matters. He illustrates, before and after, and takes up the problem of balancing the budget with a young couple, how to bring up children and child psychology, and the ancient mother-in-law problem. If the audience goes to the theatre to see the silhouette that interests them on the radio rather than to forget their own problems for a brief spell, then this is their meat. Production Code Seal, No. 0827. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"Movie Melodies on Parade"

(Paramount)

With an orchestra and a choral group this short revives some of the well known hits from pictures a few years old. The film editing is well done as the actual scene from the picture is played against the musical review. Mary Eastman is featured and she does a solo accompanied by an orchestra that is calisthenically led by Andre Kostelanetz. The music is well played and the singing is of a superior grade that should pleasantly entertain. Production Code Seal No. 0774. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"Not Now"

(Paramount)

Betty Boop and her dog, Pudgy, are annoyed in this cartoon by a chorus of cats that keeps them awake. Betty "sics" Pudgy after them and there follows some swell cartoon adventures involving the dog with first one cat and then with the whole tribe that inhabits the alley. The sound effects are good for plenty of laughs and the action will more than satisfy. An entertaining bit for any program. Production Code Seal, No. 0606. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

Erber, Smith Dissolve

ST. LOUIS, March 1.—Joe Erber and Joe Smith, booking agents, have dissolved their partnership.

Comerford Managers In Another Shakeup

SCRANTON, March 1. — Additional changes have been made in managers and assistants by Comerford Theatres since the first changes were announced on Feb. 15 by Frank C. Walker, vice-president and general manager.

The following are involved in the changes: Eugene Lynch, former assistant manager of the Riviera, Scranton, transferred to the booking department; Frank Yerke, manager of the State and former artist, transferred to the art department; Willard Matthews, manager of the Bell, transferred to the State; Jack Mahon, assistant manager of the Granada, Olyphant, transferred to the Globe, South Scranton, as manager; J. Sittler, assistant manager of the Bell, promoted to manager; George Baldinger, manager of the Kingston, Kingston, transferred to the Capitol, Bloomsburg; Gregory Beck, manager of the Capitol, Bloomsburg, transferred to the Capitol, Williamsport; Byron Lynn, manager of the Capitol, Williamsport, transferred to the Kingston, where he also will be city manager; and Frank Kovaletz, assistant manager of the Granada, Olyphant, promoted to manager of that house.

Rockefeller Claim Hearing Again Off

The scheduled hearing tomorrow of the RKO trustee's exception to the allowance of the Rockefeller Center claim against RKO at $9,100,000 has been postponed again, this time to March 10, before Federal Judge William Bondy.

The claim is based on RKO's liability on its defaulted leases for the Radio City theatres and office space, the bulk of the claim being for the construction costs of the theatres. Special Master Thomas D. Thacher recommended that the claim be allowed at $9,100,000, after hearings held a year ago. Irving Trust Co., RKO trustee, opposed Thacher's report and has prepared exceptions to present to the Federal court. Meanwhile, however, negotiations for a compromise or settlement of the claim are being continued between Rockefeller Center on the one hand, and RCA, Atlas Corp. and Lehman Bros., on the other. The latter represent RKO through their controlling interest in the company.

McCullough Gets Back

HOLLYWOOD, March 1.—R. N. McCullough, technical expert of the F.W.C. real estate department, has returned from a week in Arizona where he made estimates for remodeling the Globe, at Globe, and looked into renovation requirements of theatres in Tucson and Phoenix. The Globe has been closed for some time, due to inactivity in the copper mines which supply the payrolls of that district.

Open F. D. Exchange

NEW HAVEN, March 1.—Exhibitors from all over the state and representatives of the exchanges attended the open house which marked the establishment of a First Division exchange here in the Kilfeather Bldg. Michael Thomas, brother of Harry Thomas, First Division president, and the new exchange manager, was host to the gathering.

"Marie" Hits Big $24,500 In Washington

WASHINGTON, March 1.—During a lull in the Arctic weather, grosses shot upward all along the line. Loew's Palace took $24,500 for "Rose Marie," the biggest take since "David Copperfield." It was $8,600 over average. The picture was held over.

"The Petrified Forest," plus Ben Lyons and Bebe Daniels on the stage, sent the Earle to $20,300, or $1,900 over par.

The combination of a return engagement on "The Bride Comes Home" and a 36-minute version of "Little America" garnered $5,000 at Loew's Columbia, to top par by $1,400.

A return engagement of "Ceiling Zero" at the Metropolitan was good for $5,400, over average by $1,100. A reissue of "Disraeli" at the Belasco for eight days topped par by $200 for a take of $3,200.

Total first run business was $88,100. Average is $76,700.

Center Is Denver's Seventh First Run

DENVER, March 1.—For the first time, Denver will have seven first runs with the opening here of the Center, formerly the Empress. It also will mark the first time an independent company has had a regular first run outlet here. George A. Allan, formerly with the Playhouse in Salt Lake City, signed a franchise for five years with Republic Pictures. J. T. Sheffield made a trip here from Seattle to sign the contract. The opening picture is "$1,000 a Minute."

The house will have stage shows, with three or four acts of vaudeville each week. The shows will be produced by W. Rex Jewell. A new front, marquee and improvements inside have changed the appearance of the house. A top price of 35 cents has been set.

Starts Double Bills

SALT LAKE CITY, March 1.—The Capitol, Intermountain Theatres house here, starts double bills tomorrow.

"Modern Times" Is Montreal's Leader

MONTREAL, March 1.—A crackup of the long cold spell gave theatres a break. Outstanding was the first week of "Modern Times" on a double bill at the Princess for a take of $12,500 which set a season's record at this house.

Second week of "A Tale of Two Cities" at the Palace held up to $9,000 after a first week at $14,000. "King of Burlesque," heading the screen duet at the Capitol, was responsible for $11,000, well above average, while the same figure was found at Loew's on "Sylvia Scarlett" and a stage show. The principal opposition was the hockey with the two local teams in a battling mood going into the season's home stretch.

Total first run business was $46,500. Average is $41,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 22:

"KING OF BURLESQUE" (20th-Fox)
"MY MARRIAGE" (20th-Fox)

"Marie" Beats Out Indianapolis Cold

INDIANAPOLIS, March 1.—"Rose Marie" crashed through a return engagement of the zero wave here to pull a total of $14,000 at Loew's. It was the only one to make an outstanding showing in the teeth of the new cold wave, which chilled receipts of every other first run house in the city.

"The Petrified Forest" did but $4,000 at the Indiana, a marked drop from average. Observers say that Indianapolis has always seemed apathetic toward Leslie Howard, however.

Total first run business was $31,500. Average is $26,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 21:

"IT HAD TO HAPPEN" (20th-Fox)

Aid Racing Opposition

BOSTON, March 1.—Bills for regulating and otherwise hitting parimutuel dog racing, legalized in Massachusetts last year, were strongly supported at a public hearing before the legislative committee on legal affairs. Theatre operators in the western part of the state reported their attendance dropped from 30 to 50 per cent during the dog racing season.

"Anything" Pulls $13,750 in Cincy

CINCINNATI, March 1.—Business for the most part continued on the up and up last week, especially considering the continuance of frigid blasts. "Anything Goes" went to the tune of $13,750 at the RKO Palace, where average is $10,000. It was transferred to the RKO Capitol.

The runner-up was "The Milky Way," playing its second downtown week at the RKO Capitol where it grossed $3,000 more than normal with a $9,500 take. It will probably be brought back. "Rose Marie" continued to spell box-office at the RKO Grand, grossing $4,000 in its third downtown week. Average for this spot is $2,750. The picture was held for the fourth week. "Freshman Love" was $1,000 plus at the RKO Shubert, registering $13,000 with the help of "Cocoanut Grove Revels," starring Red Hodgson on the stage.

"Dancing Feet" had a $1,700 week at the Strand, up $200. "Next Time We Love" was a disappointment at the RKO Albee with $6,500 compared with a $12,000 average, and the run was shortened by two days. Keith's, which has not used Warner product for two weeks, resumes this week.

Total first run business was $62,550. Average is $60,200.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Feb. 18:

"DANCING FEET" (Republic)
STRAND—(1,500), 15c-25c, 7 days. Stage: Amateur show for one night. Gross: $1,700. (Average, $1,500)

Nebraska Thaws Out And Theatres Reopen

OMAHA, March 1.—Exhibitors began showing up on the row here this week and activity on Davenport St., where the exchanges are located, began to assume old time proportions.

Many theatres are reported relighted, though some in the smaller towns remain dark because with the snow melting in the side roads, the roads will be as impassable because of mud created by the thaw as they were when snow obliterated fences and other country markings.

Takes L. A. Theatre

LOS ANGELES, March 1.—J. B. Sloate has purchased the Gem here from the Harry Hicks estate, and will reopen it as the Maynard, after alterations.

"Marie" Again Leads Parade In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, March 1.—"Rose Marie," in its second week downtown, was the only picture of the week to make a showing because of the continued cold. It grossed $6,000 at Loew's Stillman, which is 50 per cent over average.

"Anything Goes," with $11,000, was $1,000 under par at Loew's State.

"Next Time We Love" took $7,000, which was $1,000 under average at Warners' Hippodrome and "The Widow From Monte Carlo," with a stage show headed by Joe Cook and his "Topsy Turvy Revue" failed by $2,000 to make the $15,000 house average.

"Navy Wife" and "Personal Maid's Secret" split the week at the Allen resulting in a little better than average.

"Rose Marie" Again Strong In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, March 1.—The weather continued to plug holes in grosses all over town last week, only one house, the Warner, managing to come up with anything resembling par. There, "Rose Marie," after a sensational nine days at the Penn, claimed the best comparative take in the downtown sector, $5,900.

At the Stanley, "It Had to Happen" and the N.T.G. revue took $17,500. "The Petrified Forest" took $10,000. Bernie Armstrong's amateur revue gave "Lady of the Secrets" enough of a lift to keep the Alvin around the $6,250 mark, while the Casino, with "Escape From Devil's Island" and the "Bandbox Revue," fell off after a good opening week, getting only around $6,000.

Despite the fact that it has played practically everywhere in these parts, return engagements and otherwise, "The Informer" was chanced by the Fulton on a double bill with "Another Face" and did a fair week's business at $3,500.

Total first run grosses were $49,150. Average is $56,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 20:

"LADY OF SECRETS" (Col.)
ALVIN—(2,000), 25c-55c, 7 days. Stage: Bernie Armstrong and his amateur unit. Gross: $6,250. (Average, $10,000)

"ESCAPE FROM DEVIL'S ISLAND" (Col.)

U. S. Film Imports Show Rise in Greece

WASHINGTON, March 1.—During the last quarter of 1935 in Greece, a total of 92 films were given initial showing in that country, according to a report to the U. S. Department of Commerce from Acting Commercial Attache Don O. Bliss in Athens. By nationality these films were: American, 66; German, 12; French, seven; British, six; and Czechoslovak, one. The percentages were 71.7, American and 13, German. The percentages for the same period last year were 52 and 33⅓, respectively.

Removal of all import quota restrictions in January, 1935, has made it possible for American companies to compete in the Greek market on an equal basis.

Orders Theatre Sold

BUCYRUS, O., March 1.—Common Pleas Judge Clarence U. Ahl has ordered the local Opera House sold within 30 days after proper notice. The building was partially destroyed by fire a few weeks ago, during which all the instruments of Major Bowes' Amateur Unit No. 10 were lost. The court has set a value of $21,000 on the property.

Consider Booth Bill

ST. LOUIS, March 1.—The Public Safety Committee of the Board of Aldermen has taken under advisement the proposed city ordinance to have one operator for each projection booth in theatres.

Acquires Three Houses

MILWAUKEE, March 1.—L. P. G. Amusement Co. has been organized here to take over the Layton Park, Pearl and Grace, neighborhood houses, from Charles Washicheck on March 15. Members of the firm are George L. Levine, president-treasurer; E. L. Weisner and B. J. Miller, vice-president and secretary, respectively.

U. A. Appoints Beckman

BOSTON, March 1.—Louis Beckman has been named assistant to Joseph Carroll, office manager for United Artists here. Beckman also will handle booking, replacing Abe Weiner, promoted to a sales post.

Another RCA First

A. C. OPERATION FIRST FROM RCA

The first permanently-installed sound projection equipment operated completely by A.C. came from RCA Photophone. This made installation much less expensive, reduced first cost and maintenance, made operation much simpler. The industry adopted A.C. operation with tremendous rapidity because it had real cash value.

This is but one of many RCA Photophone basic contributions to your profits. When equipping or modernizing your theatre, be sure to get the full RCA Photophone story.

Booking Bill Called No Aid To Little Man

Lust Tells Senators It Would Help Big Spots

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The proposed block booking measure "would help the big theatres, not the little men," Sidney B. Lust, Washington exhibitor, told the Neely Senate subcommittee at a night session which concluded hearings on the bill here. Lust was one of a number of witnesses who testified in opposition to the abolition of block booking.

Lust denied that distributors demand big cuts on box-office attractions by classifying them as percentage pictures. He declared that none of his five houses runs any percentage pictures and that he does not book any company's entire output. The witness said exhibitors know well in advance what a picture is, submitting a copy of Motion Picture Herald as an example of how the trade papers carry criticisms long before films are in general distribution. "I go by the trade papers and plan my programs on the basis of their reports," he said.

Picturing himself as an exhibitor who bought 100 per cent blocks with-

Says 920 Theatres Are Using Screeno

Approximately 920 theatres throughout the country are now featuring Screeno, J. S. Markstein, president, stated prior to his departure yesterday for Detroit after spending a week here conferring with George West, eastern representative.

Chicago is the biggest territory for Screeno, Markstein said, and Greater New York is second with 110. The Windy City has had a high of 170 accounts at one time but because B. & K. has reinstated stage shows in a number of houses, games have been discontinued in about 25 units. In New

Bank Fees Approved In Paramount Case

An order approving the payment of compensation to New York Trust Co. and Commercial National Bank for services as depositaries in connection with the reorganization of Paramount Publix was signed on Saturday by Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe.

The orders authorize compensation of $32,615 and expenses of $2,344 for N. Y. Trust and compensation of $24,582 for Commercial National.

Intermountain Adds Two; Plans Changes

SALT LAKE CITY, March 1.—Intermountain Theatres, Inc., has acquired two theatres, and plans improvements which will total $75,000. Several personnel changes have been made by Harry David, vice-president and general manager.

The Grand in Preston, Idaho, and the Grand in Brigham City, Utah, were leased from Michael Nielson, giving the circuit 18 houses in Utah and Idaho. Further acquisitions are contemplated.

Ray Hendry has been promoted from the management of the Capitol here to the post of assistant general manager of the circuit. Nevin McCord of the Orpheum in Twin Falls, Idaho, will replace Hendry at the Capitol. Earl H. Baughman has been named manager of the City and Or-

Denver Bank Night Insurance Illegal

DENVER, March 1.—The scheme to insure against loss to winners in Bank or Cash Night drawings at theatres has been declared illegal in an opinion by Assistant Attorney General J. Glenn Donaldson, and approved by Attorney General Paul P. Prosser. The plan was branded a lottery by them.

The Theatre Guarantee Corp. had conceived the idea, charging from 10 cents for $100 to 25 cents for $500 insurance, to be paid if the winner was not at the theatre. More than 40 agencies were established before the plan was ruled out.

The ruling first declared the plan was not insurance, the opinion holding that "the interest must be more than a mere hope; thus an expectation of a gift is not an insurable interest."

SCHAEFER TO BE U. A. SALES HEAD

No "U" Move Seen Before March 10

Although satisfactory progress toward completion of Standard Capital Co.'s study of Universal operations and financial requirements is being made, there is little likelihood of any formal action being taken before March 10 on Standard's option to acquire a controlling interest in Universal, it was stated authoritatively on Saturday.

The option, which was renewed for six weeks from Feb. 1, expires March 14. There is no indication at this time, it was said, whether a new extension of the option will be required to complete the work now under way. Developments during the next 10 days are expected to determine this.

Poster Ass'n. Meet Is Set for Chicago

Members of the National Poster Service Ass'n., Inc., will hold their annual convention in Chicago the latter part of April, it was decided at a meeting of the board late last week. The date and hotel will be set later. Attending the meeting were Louis Weinzimmer of Progressive Poster Service, E. Behrens of Behrens Supply, Harry Schlitz of Exhibitors Poster Service of New York; Simon Libros of National-Kline Poster, Philadelphia, president of the organization, and George Aarons of Philadelphia.

M. Levin of Exhibitors Poster, Omaha, did not attend, but was notified of the developments by long distance telephone.

Deal with Goldwyn Set, Is Report; Will Be Announced Soon

Negotiations between George J. Schaefer, former vice-president of Paramount, and Samuel Goldwyn are understood to have resulted in agreement by which Schaefer will become vice-president and general manager of United Artists early this week.

It is known that Schaefer and Goldwyn have been in almost daily conference since Goldwyn's arrival here from the coast. Shortly after Goldwyn reached New York Schaefer flew north from Florida. Since that time Goldwyn has consulted other United Artists franchise holders, including Douglas Fairbanks, who stopped in New York on his way to Europe.

Negotiations between Schaefer and J. Cheever Cowdin aimed to put Schaefer in an executive sales post at Universal as soon as Cowdin had exercised his option for purchase of control of that company were definitely suspended several days ago.

Both Goldwyn and Schaefer refused to discuss the matter late last week.

Since Schaefer's resignation from Paramount several months ago and the shift of Al Lichtman from the presidency of United Artists to an executive position with M-G-M Schaefer's name has been mentioned repeatedly in connection with the United Artists position. Arthur W. Kelly, vice-president in charge of foreign distribution, has been handling domestic sales as well since the resignation of Lichtman.

Cold Continues to Depress Nation's Key City Grosses

Snowbound areas all across the northern part of the country and exceptional cold well into southern spots that are not accustomed to it continued to put a damper on the nation's key city box-office returns for the week ending Feb. 20-21. The total for the 30 cities reporting to MOTION PICTURE DAILY was $1,558,185.

The slump has been persistent in spite of some of the biggest pictures of the year. It began in mid-January when the first extreme cold became widespread, and reached a low point, $1,515,300, for the week ending Jan. 30-31. During the two succeeding weeks there was a pickup. For the week ending Feb. 6-7 the total rose to $1,591,350, and went up to $1,680,180 the following week, Feb. 13-14.

A general improvement is looked for now, however, in spite of Lent, because of better travel conditions.

Last week's decline was fairly uniform, except in Cleveland, Detroit, Los Angeles, Minneapolis, Montreal, Omaha, Philadelphia, Portland and Washington. [Comparative tabulation on page 14.]

Hearst Scores West Film in Paper Here

Continuing the attacks of the Hearst newspapers throughout the country against Mae West's "Klondike Annie," the New York York American on Saturday published a lengthy editorial, under the title "Stop Lewd Films," in which Paramount and the Hays office were scored sharply. Previous attacks have been registered in San Francisco, Chicago and Baltimore, where the Hearst papers also refused all advertising on the film.

The editorial concludes: "It is to be hoped that the churches of the country are awake to the necessity of boycotting such a picture as 'Klondike Annie' and denouncing its producers. . . . The public should bring its influence to bear—by showing through non-patronage of such productions that pandering to the lewd elements of the community is not profitable."

The film is scheduled to open shortly in Chicago.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, March 1.

HOLLYWOOD'S spots have not changed. Somewhere, somehow, somebody dubbed production the life stream of the industry. Sufficient truth was in the assertion to make acceptance of the observation widespread. There is no gainsaying the fact that attractions are what make the industry, no matter how dizzily, revolve on its axis. All the rest of the paraphernalia—the mystery which surrounds the job, the social and caste systems, the political rivalry, the empiric complexes, the cock-eyed ideas which mix so freely with the good—are part of the warp and woof of the conglomerate mass which spells out Hollywood. . . .

A truth of this tour of inspection is the indisputable fact that the studios are trying hard and are generally succeeding in improving product. Whether or not the money they are spending on the "A" stuff, which means sluffing the "B," is always in the cards is another story. This is the day in Hollywood where those pictures designed as big pictures run close to and over the million dollar mark. The procedure is getting to be quite a regular affair now. So much so that one of the better manufacturers of celluloid ironically talks about anything costing less as a trailer. . . .

Hollywood at large agrees on at least two points of view. More may come to light later, but these are the two: (1) It insists and persists in its age-old opinion that New York continues to misunderstand what goes on here. Because it does and because, aside from the Mayers, the Thalbergs, the Zanucks, the De Milles, the Wangers, the Goldwyns, who keep a business eye well trained on their returns, it is a rare few who know or bother to learn what happens after the print goes East, Hollywood pays little attention to the world beyond its mountain and sea embroidered boundaries. . . .

The other slant, widely concurred in, is that, as high as negatives have been, they are going higher. The reasons, as propounded here, are several. The astute makers of pictures maintain there is an alarming shortage of genuine personalities. This department agrees, but fails to recall the day when an identical situation had not prevailed. The handful or more of men and women who actually sell tickets are in constant demand. Thus, Freddie March is getting $125,000 flat for his role opposite Katharine Hepburn in "Mary of Scotland." Radio, having established that, nobody can foretell to what figure his next job will rise. . . .

The drift now is to cluster big names in one picture. Thus, Darryl F. Zanuck has combined Claudette Colbert, Victor McLaglen, Ronald Colman and Rosalind Russell and a string of fifty name players in the support of "Under Two Flags" at a cast cost alone of about $500,000. Producers, certainly conscientious and honest enough in putting forward their best foot, often get a fixation, couple it with determination, and set out to nab the player they envision for a particular role and worry less about the price. At the same time, they are constantly establishing new price levels which fellow producers—and they as well will have to meet somewhere along the line. . . .

There must be included in this discussion the situation which confronts the studio which is shy of name players and bids for them in the open market under heavy penalties. Universal is a case in point, but there are others — practically all others with the sole exception of M-G-M. Agents, clever and well-informed boys, know what's going on. They know how great the need and how pronounced the shortage and invariably do a very good job of it for their clients and for their own ten per cent. The result is only one. It couldn't be anything else. The current market on ticket-selling names is so bullish it roars and will reflect itself in percentage terms demanded for 1936-37 product. . . .

The theatre operator will howl, of course. The buyer always does. Yet what to do is something not easily answered. One segment of substantial Hollywood opinion thinks it sees the answer in a general hike in admissions. This is a free and easy solution and the obvious suggestion. Whether or not exhibitors can is dependent upon local conditions. Business, taken in sum total, is much better, but has it recovered to a point where admissions can be booted up the line? The persistence with which double features hang on strikes as an indication that the public continues in a bargain-buying mood. For some time now it has been getting plenty for little money and patently finds the buy an attractive one. Will it, if the cost is hiked? If not, where do Hollywood and the business get off? . . .

Browne Leaves Coast For IA Confab Here

LOS ANGELES, March 1.—George Browne will leave here tomorrow by boat for New York where he will confer with Dan Tracy, I.B.E.W. head, on the arbitration of soundmen status. This matter is the last of the problems to be ironed out by the I.A.T.S.E.

Browne's trip by way of the Canal is considered as a vacation prior to the pending meetings.

Cecelia Parker Loaned

HOLLYWOOD, March 1.—Sol Lesser has borrowed Cecilia Parker from M-G-M for the leading role opposite Richard Arlen in "The Mine With the Iron Door," second in the series of Harold Bell Wright stories which Lesser is producing for Columbia release. David Howard is directing.

pheum in Twin Falls. Earl McClurg has been named manager of the Victory here, while Paul Hendry will manage the theatre in Preston, and Mark Nielson will manage the Grand at Brigham City. Chester Price will succeed Paul Hendry in the management of the Paramount here.

The improvement program includes $25,000 on the Paramount here, $25,000 on the Paramount in Provo, Utah, and the balance on the two houses just acquired.

Showing Foreign Films

BOSTON, March 1.—Tremont Temple, downtown theatre, has been reopened for the showing of foreign films.

Divide Schnitzer Job

Irving Wormser and Sol Trauner have taken over the sales duties formerly handled by Edward M. Schnitzer prior to his resignation from the local Columbia exchange. Wormser is in charge of sales for northern New Jersey, Long Island and Upstate New York, while Trauner has Manhattan and Brooklyn. Both are reporting to Nat Cohn, district manager.

Bernerd on Way to Coast

Jeffrey Bernerd, supervisor of all G. B. sales, left Saturday for the coast on a three-week trip. He plans to make several stopovers en route. Although he will look over production activities, Bernerd is not expected to sign any talent while in Hollywood.

out cancellation privileges, Stanley Sumner of Cambridge, Mass., told the sub-committee he has never had any difficulty making changes under such contracts and that passage of the bill would be a hardship because he then might lose the advantages he now has as compared with the affiliated competitor directly opposite his house.

A similar situation was detailed by M. A. Lightman, Memphis, who pointed out that as he has 45 houses he has "probably 45 times as much interest in the matter as some of the exhibitors who have appeared. Lightman brought out a phase of the problem which had not been discussed previously, asking the sub-committee to consider what would become of the gangster and other undesirable pictures under a selective buying system. The result would be, he said, that such pictures would carry the lowest prices and would be bought by men who didn't care what their community wanted, but would be sure of an audience from that part of the population which would be attracted by what could be exploited as "banned." This, he added, would bring about a tremendous expansion of 10-cent houses catering to that type of people.

Enforcement Discussed

Dissatisfaction with the provisions of the bill was indicated by Senator Davis of Pennsylvania, who asked Lightman, "How many inspectors do you suppose would be necessary to enforce this bill if it was passed?" Lightman declared that he could give no estimate. Further, Lightman asked, who is going to decide which are the good pictures, pointing out that no exhibitor would permit a committee of women to tell him that a certain picture is good and that he must run it, maybe paying four times as much for it as for a picture which will draw better at the box-office.

It was emphasized to the sub-committee that distributors have always been willing to accede to reasonable requests of exhibitors and have cooperated heartily with the efforts of local organizations to select films which can be recommended for young people.

New Haven distributors are embarrassingly cooperative, it was declared by Alfred F. Mayhew, assistant superintendent of schools there, in explaining how a consolidated group representing schools, churches and civic groups screen and select pictures which can be recommended three weeks or a month in advance of their public showing. The school system furnishes the auditorium, the distributors the films and the theatre men the operators, he said. The distributors offer for screening more pictures than can be handled, there is no difficulty in selecting excellent features and although New Haven is a double bill town the theatre men make every effort to have the co-features of a type comparable to that of the recommended pictures, he declared.

Courses in photoplay appreciation which are to be adopted by school systems throughout the country in the near future will become a strong factor toward picture improvement, it was said by Paul D. Mann of the National Education Ass'n. Any method of distribution which discouraged the production of prestige films of doubtful box-office attraction would be deadly to the growth of what he termed one of the most important developments in modern education.

In an effort to save the time of the sub-committee, both sides agreed that any further arguments they might wish to offer would be put into the form of briefs to be filed later.

Says 920 Theatres Are Using Screeno

York, 46 Loew houses feature the game, Markstein said.

In certain cities where the legality of the games has been disputed, Screeno is not represented, according to the president of the company. He referred to Cleveland and Milwaukee. In Milwaukee all games have been stopped.

About 70 theatres in California are now on the Screeno books, it was stated, with Warners going in for the game in Los Angeles and Hollywood units. The company is also doing well in Kansas City and Texas, he said.

One problem confronting the game distributors is that exhibitors want to play them too many times a week, Markstein declared. The public tires of the game if it is played too frequently, he asserted.

The company recently opened an office in Buenos Aires with H. S. Wallack in charge. Negotiations are under way for representation in Continental Europe, Cuba and Mexico.

The New York office, now in the Film Center Bldg., will move to the RKO Bldg. on April 1.

He will handle distribution of the product in European countries, while the Japanese interests will handle distribution to Oriental countries, the United States and South America.

Tokyo theatres are expected to enjoy a definite increase in attendance as a result of the anticipated removal of what has been virtually a ban on the attendance of high school students at film houses in the Tokyo Prefecture. The Guardian Society, composed of teachers, was formed last year to keep an eye on the out-of-school activities of children, and its work soon had the effect of establishing a practical ban on film attendance. Another factor of importance to exhibitors is the plan of the Education Department to produce films of an educational nature for students, to be shown at theatres throughout the country.

Short Subjects

Screen Snapshots No. 7
(Columbia)

The Racquet Club in Palm Springs run by Charles Farrell and Ralph Bellamy opens this snapshot, and after the camera records the stars and film people who are there—there are many—it goes into awards with Walt Disney getting the French Legion of Honor cross and young George Breakston receiving an autographed photo of Mussolini for his performance in "No Greater Glory." Also seen are Mary Pickford starting her first production, how they name a polo pony in Hollywood and a scene on shipboard with Victor McLaglen and the Three Stooges cutting up aided by Wynne Gibson.

The last part presents one of the lackadaisical parties in which Anita Louise does a card trick while Dolores del Rio and Gene Raymond play ping pong and then Fred and Dorothy Stone dance a bit, but nobody seems to care. This is good fodder for the rabid film fan. Production Code Seal, No. 1968. Running time, 10½ mins. "G."

(Columbia)

This issue has the Voice revealing how his advice, if taken, would avoid certain serious problems that arise in homes over trivial matters. He illustrates, before and after, and takes up the problem of balancing the budget with a young couple, how to bring up children and child psychology, and the ancient mother-in-law problem. If the audience goes to the theatre to see the silhouette that interests them on the radio rather than to forget their own problems for a brief spell, then this is their meat. Production Code Seal, No. 0827. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"Movie Melodies on Parade"
(Paramount)

With an orchestra and a choral group this short revives some of the well known hits from pictures a few years old. The film editing is well done as the actual scene from the picture is played against the musical review. Mary Eastman is featured and she does a solo accompanied by an orchestra that is calisthenically led by Andre Kostelanetz. The music is well played and the singing is of a superior grade that should pleasantly entertain. Production Code Seal No. 0774. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"Not Now"
(Paramount)

Betty Boop and her dog, Pudgy, are annoyed in this cartoon by a chorus of cats that keeps them awake. Betty "sics" Pudgy after them and there follows some swell cartoon adventures involving the dog with first one cat and then with the whole tribe that inhabits the alley. The sound effects are good for plenty of laughs and the action will more than satisfy. An entertaining bit for any program. Production Code Seal, No. 0606. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

Erber, Smith Dissolve

St. Louis, March 1.—Joe Erber and Joe Smith, booking agents, have dissolved their partnership.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Treachery Rides the Range"
(Warners)

Hollywood, March 1.—Offering a happy combination of good story, capable acting, excellent photography and skillful direction, this production ranks high among the current picture offerings. Dick Foran, as a scout with a cavalry regiment, gives a pleasing performance which should increase his following. His personality has definite appeal for men, women and children.

The story is laid in Kansas during the 70's, and deals with the efforts of Craig Reynolds, a buffalo hunter, to poach on Indian buffalo preserves and stir up trouble between the Indians and the cavalry. Battles between the whites and redskins are frequent and bloody until Foran learns that the uprisings have been inspired by Reynolds. He then takes the poachers into custody and peace is restored.

William Jacobs, author of both story and screen play, has furnished a well constructed, logical yarn which Frank McDonald has directed with intelligence. The cast includes Paula Stone, Monte Blue, Jim Thorpe. Don Barclay, Frank Bruno and Carlyle Moore, Jr., all of whom give good portrayals. Bryan Foy supervised production and the photography was handled by L. W. O'Connell. The story angle of the abuse visited upon the Indians by the white man should gain favor with parent-teacher associations.

Production Code Seal No. 1,870. Running time, 58 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Don't Gamble With Love"
(Columbia)

A marital drama with complications other than the usual triangular pattern, this should prove satisfactory entertainment. Bruce Cabot and Ann Sothern share the leading roles, supported in particular by Irving Pichel and Ian Keith.

Cabot and his wife, Miss Sothern, are deeply in love with one another, and concerned with the future of their infant son. They operate a swank gambling hall, on the square, and are successful. Miss Sothern concludes that a baby and a gambling career do not mix and persuades Cabot to give up the racket. His fling in the "legitimate" brokerage business ends when he is innocently involved in the firm's crooked dealings. Angry, he returns to gambling without his wife.

He turns to crooked operation in order to make money faster, and when she suddenly discovers it, stifles her inclination to return to him. Then, as he seeks to branch out, he runs into the opposition of other game operators. He is not disturbed by their threats, and Miss Sothern, tipped off to their intention, reveals his crooked operation to his clients, running him out of business before he can be hurt. She is shot by a heavy loser who attempts to kill Cabot, and that makes the reconciliation complete, as Cabot is cured of gambling as a career. Dudley Murphy directed.

Production Code Seal No. 1,902. Running time, 62 minutes. "G."

"The Lawless Nineties"
(Republic)

A western yarn built around the efforts of the lawless element to control the vote of Wyoming territory when it applied for admission to the United States in 1890, and the manner in which Government agents protected the voters, this picture is fast-moving and lively action fare, good for the week-end program or on a double bill.

John Wayne, hard rider and realistic scrapper, has the lead, with Ann Rutherford, Harry Woods, George Hayes and Al Bridge in principal supporting roles. Wayne, Government agent, is ordered to the territory to safeguard an orderly election. En route, he saves Miss Rutherford and Hayes, her father, southerner who has bought a paper.

The fast pace is maintained throughout as Wayne goes out after the gangs, despite the killing of Hayes and Wayne's fellow-officer. Eventually, of course, the gangs are cleaned out, the election makes the territory a state, and Wayne wins Miss Rutherford. Joseph Kane directed.

Previewed without production code seal. Running time, 57 minutes. "G."

Comerford Managers In Another Shakeup

Scranton, March 1. — Additional changes have been made in managers and assistants by Comerford Theatres since the first changes were announced on Feb. 15 by Frank C. Walker, vice-president and general manager.

The following are involved in the changes: Eugene Lynch, former assistant manager of the Riviera, Scranton, transferred to the booking department; Frank Yerke, manager of the State and former artist, transferred to the art department; Willard Matthews, manager of the Bell, transferred to the State; Jack Mahon, assistant manager of the Granada, Olyphant, transferred to the Globe, South Scranton, as manager; J. Sittler, assistant manager of the Bell, promoted to manager; George Baldinger, manager of the Kingston, Kingston, transferred to the Capitol, Bloomsburg; Gregory Beck, manager of the Capitol, Bloomsburg, transferred to the Capitol, Williamsport; Byron Lynn, manager of the Capitol, Williamsport, transferred to the Kingston, where he also will be city manager; and Frank Kovaletz, assistant manager of the Granada, Olyphant, promoted to manager of that house.

Rockefeller Claim Hearing Again Off

The scheduled hearing tomorrow of the RKO trustee's exception to the allowance of the Rockefeller Center claim against RKO at $9,100,000 has been postponed again, this time to March 10, before Federal Judge William Bondy.

The claim is based on RKO's liability on its defaulted leases for the Radio City theatres and office space, the bulk of the claim being for the construction costs of the theatres. Special Master Thomas D. Thacher recommended that the claim be allowed at $9,100,000, after hearings held a year ago. Irving Trust Co., RKO trustee, opposed Thacher's report and has prepared exceptions to present to the Federal court. Meanwhile, however, negotiations for a compromise or settlement of the claim are being continued between Rockefeller Center on the one hand, and RCA, Atlas Corp. and Lehman Bros., on the other. The latter represent RKO through their controlling interest in the company.

McCullough Gets Back

Hollywood, March 1.—R. N. McCullough, technical expert of the F.W.C. real estate department, has returned from a week in Arizona where he made estimates for remodeling the Globe, at Globe, and looked into renovation requirements of theatres in Tucson and Phoenix. The Globe has been closed for some time, due to inactivity in the copper mines which supply the payrolls of that district.

Open F. D. Exchange

New Haven, March 1.—Exhibitors from all over the state and representatives of the exchanges attended the open house which marked the establishment of a First Division exchange here in the Kilfeather Bldg. Michael Thomas, brother of Harry Thomas, First Division president, and the new exchange manager, was host to the gathering.

"Marie" Hits Big $24,500 In Washington

WASHINGTON, March 1.—During a lull in the Arctic weather, grosses shot upward all along the line. Loew's Palace took $24,500 for "Rose Marie," the biggest take since "David Copperfield." It was $8,600 over average. The picture was held over.

"The Petrified Forest," plus Ben Lyons and Bebe Daniels on the stage, sent the Earle to $20,300, or $1,900 over par.

The combination of a return engagement on "The Bride Comes Home" and a 36-minute version of "Little America" garnered $5,000 at Loew's Columbia, to top par by $1,400.

A return engagement of "Ceiling Zero" at the Metropolitan was good for $5,400, over average by $1,100. A reissue of "Disraeli" at the Belasco for eight days topped par by $200 for a take of $3,200.

Total first run business was $88,100. Average is $76,700.

Center Is Denver's Seventh First Run

DENVER, March 1.—For the first time, Denver will have seven first runs with the opening here of the Center, formerly the Empress. It also will mark the first time an independent company has had a regular first run outlet here. George A. Allan, formerly with the Playhouse in Salt Lake City, signed a franchise for five years with Republic Pictures. J. T. Sheffield made a trip here from Seattle to sign the contract. The opening picture is "$1,000 a Minute."

The house will have stage shows, with three or four acts of vaudeville each week. The shows will be produced by W. Rex Jewell. A new front, marquee and improvements inside have changed the appearance of the house. A top price of 35 cents has been set.

Starts Double Bills

SALT LAKE CITY, March 1.—The Capitol, Intermountain Theatres house here, starts double bills tomorrow.

"Modern Times" Is Montreal's Leader

MONTREAL, March 1.—A crackup of the long cold spell gave theatres a break. Outstanding was the first week of "Modern Times" on a double bill at the Princess for a take of $12,500 which set a season's record at this house.

Second week of "A Tale of Two Cities" at the Palace held up to $9,000 after a first week at $14,000. "King of Burlesque," heading the screen duet at the Capitol, was responsible for $11,000, well above average, while the same figure was found at Loew's on "Sylvia Scarlett" and a stage show. The principal opposition was the hockey with the two local teams in a battling mood going into the season's home stretch.

Total first run business was $46,500. Average is $41,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 22:

"KING OF BURLESQUE" (20th-Fox)
"MY MARRIAGE" (20th-Fox)

"Marie" Beats Out Indianapolis Cold

INDIANAPOLIS, March 1.—"Rose Marie" crashed through a return engagement of the zero wave here to pull a total of $14,000 at Loew's. It was the only one to make an outstanding showing in the teeth of the new cold wave, which chilled receipts of every other first run house in the city.

"The Petrified Forest" did but $4,000 at the Indiana, a marked drop from average. Observers say that Indianapolis has always seemed apathetic toward Leslie Howard, however.

Total first run business was $31,500. Average is $26,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 21:

"IT HAD TO HAPPEN" (20th-Fox)
APOLLO—(1,100), 25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $3,000. (Average, $4,000)

Aid Racing Opposition

BOSTON, March 1.—Bills for regulating and otherwise hitting parimutuel dog racing, legalized in Massachusetts last year, were strongly supported at a public hearing before the legislative committee on legal affairs. Theatre operators in the western part of the state reported their attendance dropped from 30 to 50 per cent during the dog racing season.

"Anything" Pulls $13,750 in Cincy

CINCINNATI, March 1.—Business for the most part continued on the up and up last week, especially considering the continuance of frigid blasts. "Anything Goes" went to the tune of $13,750 at the RKO Palace, where average is $10,000. It was transferred to the RKO Capitol.

The runner-up was "The Milky Way," playing its second downtown week at the RKO Capitol where it grossed $3,000 more than normal with a $9,500 take. It will probably be brought back. "Rose Marie" continued to spell box-office at the RKO Grand, grossing $4,000 in its third downtown week. Average for this spot is $2,750. The picture was held for the fourth week. "Freshman Love" was $1,000 plus at the RKO Shubert, registering $13,000 with the help of "Cocoanut Grove Revels," starring Red Hodgson on the stage.

"Dancing Feet" had a $1,700 week at the Strand, up $200. "Next Time We Love" was a disappointment at the RKO Albee with $6,500 compared with a $12,000 average, and the run was shortened by two days. Keith's, which has not used Warner product for two weeks, resumes this week.

Total first run business was $62,550. Average is $60,200.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Feb. 18:

"DANCING FEET" (Republic)
STRAND—(1,500), 15c-25c, 7 days. Stage: Amateur show for one night. Gross: $1,700. (Average, $1,500)

Nebraska Thaws Out And Theatres Reopen

OMAHA, March 1.—Exhibitors began showing up on the row here this week and activity on Davenport St., where the exchanges are located, began to assume old time proportions.

Many theatres are reported relighted, though some in the smaller towns remain dark because with the snow melting in the side roads, the roads will be as impassable because of mud created by the thaw as they were when snow obliterated fences and other country markings.

Takes L. A. Theatre

LOS ANGELES, March 1.—J. B. Sloate has purchased the Gem here from the Harry Hicks estate, and will reopen it as the Maynard, after alterations.

"Marie" Again Leads Parade In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, March 1.—"Rose Marie," in its second week downtown, was the only picture of the week to make a showing because of the continued cold. It grossed $6,000 at Loew's Stillman, which is 50 per cent over average.

"Anything Goes," with $11,000, was $1,000 under par at Loew's State.

"Next Time We Love" took $7,000, which was $1,000 under average at Warners' Hippodrome and "The Widow From Monte Carlo," with a stage show headed by Joe Cook and his "Topsy Turvy Revue" failed by $2,000 to make the $15,000 house average.

"Navy Wife" and "Personal Maid's Secret" split the week at the Allen resulting in a little better than average.

Total first run business was $40,200. Average is $42,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 21:

"NAVY WIFE" (20th-Fox)
ALLEN—(3,300), 30c-35c-42c, 4 days. Gross: $2,200. (Average for 7 days, $3,000)

"Rose Marie" Again Strong In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, March 1.—The weather continued to plug holes in grosses all over town last week, only one house, the Warner, managing to come up with anything resembling par. There, "Rose Marie," after a sensational nine days at the Penn, claimed the best comparative take in the downtown sector, $5,900.

At the Stanley, "It Had to Happen" and the N.T.G. revue took $17,500. "The Petrified Forest" took $10,000. Bernie Armstrong's amateur revue gave "Lady of the Secrets" enough of a lift to keep the Alvin around the $6,250 mark, while the Casino, with "Escape From Devil's Island" and the "Bandbox Revue," fell off after a good opening week, getting only around $6,000.

Despite the fact that it has played practically everywhere in these parts, return engagements and otherwise, "The Informer" was chanced by the Fulton on a double bill with "Another Face" and did a fair week's business at $3,500.

Total first run grosses were $49,150. Average is $56,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 20:

"LADY OF SECRETS" (Col.)
ALVIN—(2,000), 25c-55c, 7 days. Stage: Bernie Armstrong and his amateur unit. Gross: $6,250. (Average, $10,000)

"ESCAPE FROM DEVIL'S ISLAND" (Col.)

"Milky" Is $8,800 Providence Leader

PROVIDENCE, March 1.—Zero weather and icy highways continued to interfere with grosses here with the suburbs literally "snowed-in." "The Milky Way" did the best business of the week with a take of $8,800 at the Strand. This is $2,300 over par.

"Rose Marie," in its second week at Loew's State, caught $8,200. "The Petrified Forest" and "The Widow From Monte Carlo" were good for an average $7,000 at the Majestic, and Fay's likewise did a par $7,000 with "The Invisible Ray" and a stage revue. The RKO Albee was $2,000 under its usual gross of $7,000, featuring "The Lady Consents" and "Yellow Dust."

"Obsession" Hits $9,600, New Haven

NEW HAVEN, March 1.—"Magnificent Obsession," on a dual with "Tough Guy" at the Poli, turned them away over the week-end, and continued to attract good houses all week in spite of near-zero weather and icy streets. The gross was $9,600, or $2,600 over par.

The College held over "Rose Marie" at Poli prices and outdistanced the $2,800 average by $1,400. The Paramount and Roger Sherman dipped considerably under the line with duals featuring "Woman Trap" and "The Widow from Monte Carlo," respectively. "Henry VIII" was brought back to the Roger Sherman for three days as an added attraction.

U. S. Film Imports Show Rise in Greece

WASHINGTON, March 1.—During the last quarter of 1935 in Greece, a total of 92 films were given initial showing in that country, according to a report to the U. S. Department of Commerce from Acting Commercial Attache Don O. Bliss in Athens. By nationality these films were: American, 66; German, 12; French, seven; British, six; and Czechoslovak, one. The percentages were 71.7, American and 13, German. The percentages for the same period last year were 52 and 33½, respectively.

Removal of all import quota restrictions in January, 1935, has made it possible for American companies to compete in the Greek market on an equal basis.

J. A. Clark Resigns From 20th-Fox Post

James A. Clark, in charge of Twentieth Century-Fox accessories, has resigned. The post has been taken over by Lee Balsley, who had been at the head of the department prior to Clark.

Orders Theatre Sold

BUCYRUS, O., March 1.—Common Pleas Judge Clarence U. Ahl has ordered the local Opera House sold within 30 days after proper notice. The building was partially destroyed by fire a few weeks ago, during which all the instruments of Major Bowes' Amateur Unit No. 10 were lost. The court has set a value of $21,000 on the property.

Consider Booth Bill

ST. LOUIS, March 1.—The Public Safety Committee of the Board of Aldermen has taken under advisement the proposed city ordinance to have one operator for each projection booth in theatres.

Acquires Three Houses

MILWAUKEE, March 1.—L. P. G. Amusement Co. has been organized here to take over the Layton Park, Pearl and Grace, neighborhood houses, from Charles Washicheck on March 15. Members of the firm are George L. Levine, president-treasurer; E. L. Weisner and B. J. Miller, vice-president and secretary, respectively.

U. A. Appoints Beckman

BOSTON, March 1.—Louis Beckman has been named assistant to Joseph Carroll, office manager for United Artists here. Beckman also will handle booking, replacing Abe Weiner, promoted to a sales post.

Another RCA First

A. C. OPERATION FIRST FROM RCA

The first permanently-installed sound projection equipment operated completely by A.C. came from RCA Photophone. This made installation much less expensive, reduced first cost and maintenance, made operation much simpler. The industry adopted A.C. operation with tremendous rapidity because it had real cash value.

This is but one of many RCA Photophone basic contributions to your profits. When equipping or modernizing your theatre, be sure to get the full RCA Photophone story.

Picquet Again Heads MPTO Of Carolinas

Martin Quigley Address Closes Annual Meet

PINEHURST, March 2.—The re-election—for the 13th time—of Charles W. Picquet, of Pinehurst, as president of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of North and South Carolina, and an address by Martin Quigley, president of Quigley Publications, Inc., featured the closing session of the organization's annual meeting at the Pinehurst Hotel here today.

Quigley's address, titled "Let Me Write the Nation's Songs, and I Care Not Who Makes Its Laws," was an impassioned plea for vigilance against the efforts to inject Communistic and revolutionary propaganda into films. Radical organizations, he said, consider the motion picture the "preeminent medium of the modern world, supplanting press and platform as a means of disseminating ideas hostile to American institutions and traditions."

The speaker scored the "small, dominant minority in the Authors' League" which recently characterized as "organized alarmists" those American individuals and organizations who are struggling to keep films free from insidious propaganda. Alarmists — of the Paul Revere type—are needed to-

Decision Reserved Upon Fox's Appeal

Decision was reserved by the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday on a motion to dismiss William Fox's application for leave to appeal from Federal Judge William Bondy's order fining Fox $235,082 for contempt of court and directing that Fox be taken into custody until the fine was paid.

The motion to dismiss Fox's petition for an appeal was made by the Capital Co., which holds an unsatis-

Pen's Pictures

Mexico City, March 2.—Inmates of the Federal district penitentiary, numbering 2,300, have lost their films because they began to criticize the pictures shown so seriously that fights resulted, until the warden grew tired of the battling, and removed the source of trouble.

The prisoners have petitioned for a return of the entertainment, giving their word that they will be on best behavior.

Warners Sign New Pact with Cosmopolitan

HOLLYWOOD, March 2.—A new long term contract has been signed by Jack L. Warner, head of Warner production, and E. B. Hatrick, vice-president of Cosmopolitan Prod., under which Warners will continue to produce and release Cosmopolitan product, including that starring Marion Davies. The present contract, signed more than a year ago, still has a year to run.

Warners thus far have released eight Cosmopolitan films: "Page Miss Glory," starring Miss Davies; "Devil Dogs of the Air," "Special Agent," "Shipmates Forever," "The Story of Louis Pasteur," "Captain Blood," "Ceiling Zero" and "Oil for the lamps of China."

Miss Davies' second under the Warner deal, "Hearts Divided," is in production under Frank Borzage's direction. The star will make another picture on the completion of "Hearts Divided" and a third in the fall. "The Green Light," based on the novel by Lloyd C. Douglas, will go into early production.

Both Jack L. and Harry M. Warner, who is in Hollywood, expressed gratification at the signing of the new contract.

Supply Men Select June 4-8 for Meet

Members of the Independent Supply Dealers' Ass'n, Inc., have set June 4-8 as the dates for the annual convention at the Edgewater Beach Hotel, Chicago.

Ken Douglas of Boston is expected to suceed B. F. Shearer of Seattle as president. Under a plan decided upon some time ago, a rotating presidency provides that a new man be elected to the top post every year.

Schaefer Goes Into New U.A. Selling Post

Arthur W. Kelly Resumes His Foreign Duties

George J. Schaefer's deal with United Artists whereby he becomes vice-president and general manager in charge of domestic and Canadian sales is for a period of three years. Formal announcement of the details confirming MOTION PICTURE DAILY's advance story were made yesterday by Samuel Goldwyn and Schaefer began his duties.

George J. Schaefer

Arthur W. Kelly, who has been handling all sales since the resignation of Al Lichtman, has been given a new two-year contract as vice-president in charge of foreign sales exclusive of England and the Continent, Goldwyn stated.

Goldwyn called in the press to make the appointments known.

"Don't get a wrong impression," he said; "the board of directors told Kelly how grateful we are to him for taking over the temporary post. To show our appreciation the board has given him a new two-year contract and an increase in salary."

Copyright Hearing Will Resume Today

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Representatives of Ascap, together with members of other writers' organizations, will appear before the House Patents Committee tomorrow for the second three-day hearing on copyright legislation.

With Representative Sirovich, chairman, definitely opposed to the Duffy bill passed by the Senate last session, indications are that that particular measure has little chance of receiving a favorable report from the Patents Committee, and that if any bill is sent to the House for consideration, it will RKO Signs for Distribution of Disney Prod.

Long-term Ticket Covers 12 to 24 Annually

By RED KANN

LOS ANGELES, March 2.—Walt Disney tonight signed a contract with M. H. Aylesworth under which all his product for a number of years will be distributed through RKO beginning with the 1936-37 season. The deal includes the "Mickey Mouse" and "Silly Symphony" series. The first feature, now in production for release within a year, is "Snow White." All Disney productions are in the three-component Technicolor.

No set number of releases is embraced in the deal. The Disney program includes from 12 to 24 shorts and one feature film annually. Negotiations for the contract have been in progress for several months. Aylesworth's presence on the coast at this time was for the purpose of completing the deal. In this he was assisted by Ned E. Depinet.

Disney, it was announced after the signing, will soon come to New York to see a demonstration of Television at the RCA studios in Radio City.

Para Eastern Work Hinges on Stories

Paramount's eastern production activity will be determined by the number of production properties on the company's new season schedule which are better adapted for production here than in Hollywood, John E. Otterson, Paramount president, said yesterday.

For this reason the company's plans for eastern production still are in a flexible state. It is unlikely, however, that more than one or two features in addition to the Hecht-MacArthur commitments, will be slated

Paramount Dropping Color Experiments

HOLLYWOOD, March 2.—After a year of experiment, Paramount has closed the laboratory on the back lot where tests for the Keller-Dorian color process were conducted by Dr. John C. Kapstaff, who has left for Rochester to continue color research.

The chief difficulty in adapting the Keller-Dorian process to screen use commercially lies in inability to strike off prints from the master negative, it is understood. A color filter is used on the camera, and a similar filter is used on the projection machine in this process, which requires more projection light than black and white film.

HOLLYWOOD, March 2.—Howard Dietz will leave for New York tonight following product conferences here.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, March 2.

TALES from the Hollywood hills:

Somewhere in these parts is an unknown who has a high-salaried job as a doctor of sick pictures awaiting him. The trouble is nobody knows who or what or where he is. It happened one night in this wise, and, merely to separate fact from fancy, it might be worth recording that this story, like many you have read here—if you have read—is fact.

A major studio had been experiencing carloads of trouble with the picture of one of its top stars. The brains of the company wearied themselves into near insensibility in an effort to figure out what to do. One step was to again preview the picture. . . .

As is the well known Hollywood custom, studio bigwigs clustered in front of the theatre later, arguing it out pro and con and making no progress at all very rapidly.

The unsung hero of this tale listened. Then upped, "Say, I don't know anything about making pictures, but this is a cinch. What's the matter with you guys? Drop the first two reels and start where the star does so-and-so and this-and-that."

He walked away. A couple of minutes later came the dawn. Struck by the light, the studio head exclaimed, "Ye Gods, that's exactly the way to do it. Where is that guy who made the suggestion? We can use him."

Nobody knew. Nobody still knows. . . .

The system faltered on one lot recently. Writers had developed the habit of reporting for work at 11 in the morning. Eventually the front office learned about it. A conference thereafter.

"I want you writers to understand that work around here gets going at nine o'clock," came the ultimatum.

"But, Mr. —," replied one, "I worked until midnight last night."

"Don't go changing the subject on me," was the rejoinder.

Not always is it the producer who pulls unconscious nifties. The true story is recounted of a prominent theatre operator here who determined on a broadcast series to "show Major Bowes how it ought to be done." He called in a writer to do the authoring and, as the discussion moved along, remarked at one point:

"And right here I think we ought to have an octette of eight voices."

"Why not an octette of ten?" suggested the writer. . . .

When studio administrations change, practically everything else does except the buildings. In a recent major house cleaning, one writer was overlooked, but not his salary. Several months elapsed. The writer met the studio head socially. The conversation ran something like this:

"When do I go to work? I'm on salary, all right, but have had nothing to do."

"You mean you were on salary," rejoined the producer. The next morning, of course, found the writer fired.

Moral: Keep your mouth shut in Hollywood. Or, let well enough alone. . . .

An almost verbatim telephone conversation between the casting director of a major plant—very major—and an unknown-to-this-reporter performer:

"Lissen, you. I'm busy. Those costumes are waiting for you, so come on over and try 'em on. You can't? You gotta and that's that. I can't be wasting my time on a lousy $2,000-a-week actor like you. I got important people to worry about." . . .

Two writing men in an altercation. The point was clear and anyone with a modicum of sense would have seen it in a hurry. Yet one of the scriveners persisted in his argument. Finally the other, his impatience cracking, concluded:

"You ought to be arrested for eavesdropping on intelligent conversation." . . .

A thinker's thumbnail description of Hollywood and what goes on here:

"It's like Coney Island. And nobody goes to Coney Island to transact business."

Blumberg on Coast

LOS ANGELES, March 2.—Nate Blumberg arrived here from New York yesterday to look over the theatre situation and confer with studio executives on new product. RKO has a three-theatre pool here with Rodney Pantages. He is due back in the east on March 15.

KAO Declares Dividend

Keith-Albee-Orpheum has declared a dividend of $1.75 on the seven per cent preferred stock, reducing acmulations on the issue to $29.75 as of April 1. This is the first disbursement since Oct. 1, 1931, at which time the stock was on a regular $1.75 quarterly basis.

Derr with Republic In Producing Berth

HOLLYWOOD, March 2.—E. B. Derr has joined Republic as associate producer with Nat Levine, and starts today on two assignments, "The Gentleman from Louisiana" and "The Devil Commands." The latter property just has been bought, but "The Gentleman from Louisiana" has been handled by Robert Welsh, Kenneth Goldsmith and Dave Silverstein at various times.

Derr's new contract is for one year, and indicates the abandonment of production plans of the Derr-Sullivan company for the independent market. Charles Sullivan, in the hospital for the past week, will not comment on his plans until he returns to his office next week.

Ben Piazza Here on Play, Talent Deals

Ben Piazza, executive assistant to Emanuel Cohen, head of Major Pictures, is here from the coast looking over a number of plays and new talent. He plans to remain here three weeks. During his stay Piazza is making his headquarters at Columbia which will release the company's first, a Bing Crosby picture.

"Mae West has been signed," Piazza stated. "We haven't decided on the number of pictures she will make, but she may do several."

Delay "Dark Victory"

HOLLYWOOD, March 2.—David O. Selznick has rearranged his plans for "Dark Victory," setting it back indefinitely, and will make "The Garden of Allah" next with Merle Oberon in the starring role and Richard Boleslawski directing.

"Dark Victory," previously announced for color, will be made in black and white, and "The Garden of Allah" will be in Technicolor.

Union Hearing Due

LOS ANGELES, March 2.—Hearing is expected this week on the appeal taken to the Superior Court by Local 150 of the I. A. T. S. E. to have the newsboy permit ordinance in Pasadena declared invalid. The case is an offshoot of the arrest of a newsboy who picketed Robb & Rowley theatres in protest against the hiring of non-union labor. Robb & Rowley's attorneys have filed an answer to the appeal.

Warner Party to Return

Harry M. Warner, Abel Cary Thomas, Gradwell Sears, A. W. Smith, Jr., Robert W. Perkins and Jacob Wilk are scheduled to return from the coast next Monday. Joseph Bernhard is due the latter part of the week.

Albert Warner, who has been spending several weeks in Miami, also is slated to return next Monday.

Pickford Goes East

HOLLYWOOD, March 2.—Mary Pickford will fly east Tuesday night after her weekly broadcast from Pickfair for two programs out of New York and then will return here for the final six. Lynn Farnol and Mrs. Farnol will leave the same evening and follow the same schedule, arriving back in Hollywood about March 19.

Eleven More Warner Music Suits Filed

Nine out-of-town and two local suits were filed yesterday by Warner music subsidiaries against broadcasting stations allegedly using without permission, songs published by M. Witmark & Sons, Remick Music Corp. and T. B. Harms. The 11 new actions bring the total of suits instituted by Warners to 36.

Five of the out-of-town suits involved Witmark and seek damages of $20,750. One of the suits is against Don Lee Broadcasting System (KHJ), Los Angeles, for $5,000 on "Mine Alone." Another is against Northern Corp. (WMEX), Boston, for $5,000 on "Gypsy Love Song." The Central New York Broadcasting Corp. (WSYR), Syracuse, is defendant in a $5,000 action on "The Words Are in My Heart." WWL Development Co. (WWL), New Orleans, is the respondent in a suit for $5,000 on "Let's Have Breakfast in Bed." A $750 action was filed against WCFL Cooperative System (WCFL), Chicago, for using "That Old Irish Mother of Mine," "Lulu's Back in Town" and "Sunrise and You."

Remick is the plaintiff on four other suits against KHJ, Los Angeles, for $5,000 on "Whistle and Blow Your Blues Away"; WFBL, Syracuse, for $5,000 on "Get Happy"; WCFL, Chicago, for $250 on "Put on Your Old Grey Bonnet"; KSFO, Los Angeles, for $300 on "Sweet Georgia Brown."

The two local suits involve Harms against WNEW for $5,000 on "Every Now and Then" and Witmark against WHN on "Where the River Shannon Flows."

In answers filed by attorneys for WHN, CBS and WNEW on previous actions, the defendants contend "that the matter in controversy does not arise under and by virtue of the copyright law of the United States; that the matter in controversy herein involves a question of title among Ascap, this plaintiff and the song writers, and that the alleged claim for infringement set forth in the complaint herein is merely incidental to such controversy."

Dismissal of the complaints are asked in all answers.

B. & K. to Redeem Shares

CHICAGO, March 2.—Balaban & Katz will redeem as of May 1, 1936, at $110 a share, half of its seven per cent preferred stock outstanding, or 13,062 shares out of a total issue of 26,126. About $1,500,000 will be required for the redemption. The company states the purpose of effecting the resulting saving is to put it in a better position to meet increased operating costs.

Townsend Play Sellout

PORTLAND, Ore., March 2.—The opening of the stage play, "Life Begins at 60," based on the Townsend Plan, at the Mayfair set a new house record. Townsendites attended from a distance of 50 miles. A total gross of $7,000 is expected.

Daughter to Ashers

LONDON, March 2.—Laura La Plante, actress and wife of Irving Asher, head of Warner production here, today gave birth to a daughter.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"A Message to Garcia"

(Twentieth Century-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, March 2.—Tactfully produced to avoid the possibility of injuring Spanish sensibilities, this is a thrill action, sometimes horror-tinged picturization of Lieutenant Rowan's famous Spanish War adventure. With much theatrical melodrama necessary to provide the emotional appeal, the story moves slowly for the most part, but builds to a suspense-laden climax.

Given McKinley's famous message to Garcia, John Boles, as Rowan, is shadowed by Alan Hale, a spy, as he lands in Cuba. Menaced by Hale and the enemy, he meets Wallace Beery, a Marine deserter, who promises to lead him to his objective. Beery, doing business with both friend and foe, gives a characteristically vivid performance. Meeting Barbara Stanwyck, a Cuban martyr's daughter, the three go off through the jungles, infested with the enemy and alligators.

As Miss Stanwyck fears treachery from Beery, and Hale's henchmen make things difficult, she is shot. Boles is captured by Hale when he goes on alone. Seeing the trap into which Boles has fallen, Beery's patriotism forces him on to Garcia. Miss Stanwyck has arrived at Hale's blockhouse, where she and Boles are being tortured, when Garcia (Enrique Acosta) and Beery ride to the rescue. In a thrilling battle, Beery saves Boles and Miss Stanwyck at the cost of his own life. Delivering the message, Boles wins Miss Stanwyck.

Based on Andrew Rowan's own story and Elbert Hubbard's essay, the screen play by W. P. Lipscomb and Gene Fowler emphasizes thrill and action. George Marshall's direction assures that where melodramatic adventure and romance are enjoyed, the film should satisfy. The historical background plus the name strength provide ample opportunity for unique and timely showmanship.

Production Code Seal No. 1,909. Running time, 90 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Colleen"

(Warners)

Three tuneful songs and some sumptuous settings in which novel dance numbers are staged, help make this a pleasant hour and one-half of entertainment. The songs are: "I Don't Have to Dream Again," "You Gotta Know How to Dance" and "Boulevardier from the Bronx." Dick Powell sings the first two and Jack Oakie and Joan Blondell do the latter, with some comedy dancing by Oakie.

Powell's appeal to the young women fans and Ruby Keeler's charm and dancing furnish the best selling arguments.

Much of the comedy load is carried by F. Hugh Herbert as a wealthy nitwit who likes to play at being a big business executive, and gets himself into varied complications, romantic and otherwise, in spite of the efforts of his nephew, Powell.

The film has a novel opening in a working man's flat when Oakie, fiance of Miss Keeler, invites himself to breakfast and outlines his latest scheme for getting rich—a plan to sell biographies at $500 each in a de luxe volume. Miss Keeler is not impressed, but before the day is over Oakie has had himself named executive assistant to Herbert. More complications develop when Herbert buys a gown shop so Joan Blondell can express her artistic longings. Miss Keeler works there.

This furnishes an opportunity to stage some luxurious style shows and leads to a romance between Miss Keeler and Powell which culminates with some more big scenes on an ocean liner.

It's not one of the best musicals in which Powell and Miss Keeler have been teamed, but it has its moments, and some good laughs furnished by Herbert and Louise Fazenda as his wife.

Alfred E. Green directed from a story by Robert Lord.

Production Code Seal No. 1,782. Running time, 89 minutes. "G."

Columbus Gets Show

COLUMBUS, March 2.—The RKO Palace, playing straight films for the past several months, will play "Let's Swing It" on the stage the week of March 6. It is not known whether the stage policy will be permanent.

Directors Re-Signed

HOLLYWOOD, March 2.—Paramount has signed to new long-term contracts, Henry Hathaway and Mitchell Leisen, directors, respectively, of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" and "Hands Across the Table."

Says Patrons Want Historical Dramas

NEW ORLEANS, March 2.—Film patrons prefer dramas with historical backgrounds, at least partly based on fact, yet with plenty of fast-moving action, in the opinion of Al Lichtman, M-G-M executive, here in the course of a three-month tour. Business has improved in every section, and the upturn is sound, Lichtman declared.

He held conferences with Thomas Conners, southern sales manager; Charles Kesnick, southern zone manager; C. J. Bryant, local branch manager, and J. Frank Willingham, Memphis unit manager.

Mardi Gras Crowds N. O.

NEW ORLEANS, March 2.—Mardi Gras, with its thousands of strangers in the city, caused the Orpheum to open two hours earlier and packed the house. Suburban houses closed on carnival night. The carnival this year was greater in number of visitors than ever before. Night clubs were jammed to capacity, many running 24 hours.

Talk Ky. Admission Tax

LOUISVILLE, March 2.—A 12-point plan of taxation for revenue purposes has been prepared, and will be submitted to Gov. A. B. Chandler for his approval before the General Assembly convenes for its special session.

One of the items listed is a tax of one cent for each 10 cent admission on amusements.

Hirsch, Schifrin Out

Harry Hirsch and Herman Schifrin, who have been employed in the film shipping room of the local Columbia exchange for the past few years, have resigned.

day, he said, because "those who wish to use the screen as an aid to the destruction of existing civilization would like to trick responsible leaders into silence to avoid protests until, under the inspiration of alien influences and precedents, these protests could be answered with confiscation of property and the neat business of the firing squad."

In closing his address, Quigley said, "If these destructionists, on the strength of their plea for freedom of expression, are permitted to inject into pictures their ideas of common property, free love, atheism, slavish devotion to materials and machines; if they are permitted to attack on the screen America's respect for the finer spiritual things of civilization, then they will not care who makes the laws, because they will have triumphed over the law by spreading their destructive ideas like a pestilence until eventually they engulf Church, home and State."

Other speakers at the sessions were Ed Kuykendall, National president; Carl E. Milliken of the Hays office; Walter Vincent of Wilmer and Vincent, and Edward Levy, M.P.T.O.A. counsel.

Officers elected, in addition to Picquet, are: Albert Sottile, first vice-president, and Harry Buchanan, second vice-president. Directors are: H. R. Berry, J. M. Gregg, H. F. Kincey, J. F. Miller, S. S. Stevenson, Robert Bryant, Lyle Wilson, E. L. Hearne and George Bailey.

Resolutions were passed endorsing the Duffy Bill and opposing the Neely-Pettengill measure.

Clarence Kuester, of the Charlotte Chamber of Commerce, extended an invitation to the association to hold its next convention in the South Carolina city.

fied judgment against Fox for the amount of the fine. Capital asked that Fox be required to post bond of $250,000 in the event he was granted leave to appeal from Judge Bondy's order.

Fox was held to be in contempt of court for failure to answer a subpoena served on him by Capital, when it sought to question him on his alleged inability to satisfy the judgment. The Capital Co. is the owner of the Fox, San Francisco, and instituted its action against the former film executive on his personal guarantee of a defaulted lease on the house. Judge Bondy's punishment order also directed Fox to pay $10,000 attorney's fees to Cravath, de Gersdorff, Swaine & Wood, attorneys for Capital.

At the same time, unless the committee gets down to actual consideration of copyright, it is probable no legislation will be framed in time for enactment this session. During the three-day hearing last week there was little discussion of the three pending bills but much talk of the aims and methods of Ascap and the activities of the broadcasters.

er remarked to reporters: "After six weeks in Florida, this feels very comfortable." He had planned to return to the winter resort, he said.

Asked about changes, Schaefer said: "I have no plans now."

He reminisced on how he started with Lewis J. Selznick, who once tenanted the same chair, to which Goldwyn interjected: "And now his son, David O., is with us."

In a mimeographed statement, Schaefer said: "I have personally known Jesse L. Lasky, Walter Wanger, and David O. Selznick for a great number of years and have great faith in their creative genius and appreciation of box-office product."

Goldwyn will sail tomorrow on the Berengaria and will return to Hollywood on April 15. Jock Lawrence, his publicity representative who arrived from the coast by plane the other day, will go west tomorrow. Kelly plans a six months' trip to a number of foreign countries. He will depart in about three weeks for South America.

All the United Artists partners joined yesterday in expressiong pleasure over the Schaefer agreement. Goldwyn described Schaefer as "an outstanding sales executive" and predicted "the biggest year in United Artists' history."

Alexander Korda cabled "that nothing could make me happier" and expressed the opinion that Schaefer would help "put the company at the top of the industry." He also complimented Kelly for "his great job in the past few months."

Mary Pickford called the signing of Schaefer "the solution of the company's greatest problem." and David O. Selznick, Walter Wanger and Charles Chaplin also issued congratulatory statements.

VOL. 39. NO. 53 NEW YORK, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 4, 1936 TEN CENTS

Para. to Keep Its Localized Theatre Plan

Only Two Partnerships Remain Unsettled

Local operation of Paramount theatres throughout the country will be continued as an established policy, John E. Otterson, president, said yesterday.

In line with this policy virtually all of the company's theatre partnership and operating agreements have been renewed for long terms. The future status of only the A. H. Blank circuit and Texas Consolidated Theatres, operated by Karl Hoblitzelle, remains undetermined, out of the approximately 1,000 Paramount theatres. Buy-back options for the partners' 50 per cent interests in these units were extended from the year end to April 1 and April 4, respectively, for further study of both situations.

The localized operating policy for the company's theatres was introduced in 1932 and is said to have proved its value to the management during the four years it has been in force to such an extent that no thought is being given now to a return to centralized operation.

Hearst Attack Does Not Hurt West Film

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3.—Editorial attacks by both Hearst papers here against "Klondike Annie" are continuing, although the picture has done considerably better than average business and has been transferred from the Warfield, where it played its first week, to the F. W. C. continuation house, the St. Francis. Concurrent with the editorial blasts the Examiner has been running a daily symposium quoting prominent people in denunciation of the picture.

Attacks on the picture did not open in the Hearst papers until heavy advertising had been run in the same papers and generous publicity given

Quigley's Stand on Propaganda Films Praised by Carolina Men

Pinehurst, March 3.—Following an address by Martin Quigley yesterday at the concluding session of the annual convention of the Theatre Owners of North and South Carolina, Inc., the following resolution was adopted:

"Whereas the Theatre Owners of North and South Carolina, Inc., in annual convention at Pinehurst, N. C., March 1 and 2, 1936, are grateful to those leaders who by their presence, enthusiasm and ability have added greatly to the value of this convention, and,

"Whereas the convention wishes to express its sincere appreciation of the time and effort expended by these guests who have so honored us,

"Be it resolved that the convention give its enthusiastic thanks to Martin Quigley for so forcefully bringing to our attention the problem of un-American propaganda, emphasizing our sacred responsibility to ourselves, this industry and our country and picturing to us through example and alarm, the grief that will be ours if we are parties to the dissemination of information and practice of those ideals which emphasize and glorify atheism or the love and worship of material things and which aim to cause disrespect for and lack of appreciation of the finer spiritual values of life, and,

"Be it further resolved that a copy of this resolution be spread upon the minutes of this convention and a copy be given to Mr. Quigley as an assurance of this convention's genuine approval of his viewpoint."

Sound Saved Films, Vallee Tells Hearing

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, March 3. — The American film industry was on the verge of destruction when talking pictures came along, members of the House Patents Committee were told today by Rudy Vallee as hearings resumed on copyright legislation.

Disney's Deal Raises Query On Van Beuren

Uncertainty Is Voiced As to Future List

Uncertainty as to the effect on Van Beuren Prod. and its association with RKO, as a result of the latter's distribution deal just completed with Walt Disney, was voiced here yesterday.

Spokesmen for RKO and Van Beuren assume that the latter's Rainbow Parade series of color cartoons will be affected by the Disney deal. Van Beuren has produced 13 of these subjects annually for RKO release. Whether the entire distribution deal, under which RKO has released approximately 46 Van Beuren subjects every season since 1930, would be abandoned with the conclusion of this season's contract, was seen as a possibility, but was regarded also as unlikely. Definite word on this is expected with the return from the coast of Leo Spitz, M. H. Aylesworth and Ned E. Depinet.

The impression here, however, is that the Van Beuren list, exclusive of the color cartoon series, probably will be continued as RKO releases. The distributor has owned a half interest in the Van Beuren company since 1930 and Depinet is a member of the Van

By RED KANN

Hollywood, March 3

SAM KATZ, now cruising up and down the coast between San Pedro and Panama, grabbing ideas from sky and water, finds the business life as it is lived at M-G-M full and, he says, exciting. The time was when Louis B. Mayer scowled at Nick Schenck's ideas about Katz on the lot, but that goes back several years, which is long enough in this industry to forget. Mayer and Katz today are something akin to the Siamese twins. . . .

Not a great deal is heard in the public prints about Katz and what he does at Metro. For one important thing, he is still working hard on the development of a department which can turn out musicals as successfully if not better than elsewhere, say Warners or RKO, for instance. Metro has not been doing so well in that particular type of attraction and has known it for some time. Therefore, Katz. "The Broadway Melody of 1936," consequently, came as a gentle zephyr of spring to Leo's lair, demonstrating as it did that Metro, once it got around to it, could make them with the best. . . .

As a matter of fact so completely encouraging was it that the plotting for 1936-37 may pile up into as many as eight or nine musicals with Eleanor Powell largely the principal figure. With talk around the lot that "Broadway Melody" will do as much as $1,750,000 domestically—a very ambitious figure—and perhaps $2,700,000 internationally, the excitement over Powell is running high. Metro-ites, strictly in the Hollywood manner, view her as "terrific," which seems to be one stage below colossal, and so are making plans to star her in five straight musicals in the next two years. One will be "Hats in the Air" with music by Cole Porter, who knows how; another, "Born to Dance," and a third, "The Broadway Melody of 1937," on which the scheming is mighty and already assuming definite story form. . . .

Katz thinks the problem with and about musicals is well on its way to solution. He hopes in perhaps six months to have an organization well rounded out for this purpose and describes as the perfect arrangement a tried and proven setup which will give him two producers on this job. Jack Cummings, who has been getting supervisory credit while Katz prefers to stay away from such screen limelight, may be one of the brace. In addition to these duties, approximately sixty per cent of the Metro lineup filters through Katz's office. In other words, he's busy. . . .

Metro will continue its path, pretty well worn now, of making about twenty B pictures averaging $175,000 each in cost and open the money bags on the bigger ones. This is a general drift all over the major lots in Hollywood. By doing the best it can on the cheaper pictures, Metro, like the others, finds it can release, without any increase in total budget, more money for A attractions and go to almost any fancy figure it likes when something of genuine proportions stacks up. The company, for years, of course, has been making big pictures, but, while proceeding on that course, has been spending young fortunes on the B type in an effort to make everything A. It hasn't worked out there as elsewhere because there is no rule which can prevent an A from growing up to be a B picture and vice versa. . . .

The explanation of Metro's B line, beyond the funds thereby released for the smashes, is that the cheaper group goes far in absorbing studio overhead which is something on that lot. The B's, furthermore, are looked upon as supplying a training and tryout school for new talent, of which the need is great, although not nearly so pressing as Metro with its Shearer, Garbo, Crawford, Gable, Harlow, Loy, McDonald, Rainer, Beery and more. Nobody mentions the double feature market and how the B's fit that niche, but it's there, nevertheless. . . .

In the new lineup about which too much is not being bruited so early, are several already set and, in some instances, in preparation. Howard Estabrook, one of the better writers, is working on Rudyard Kipling's "Kim" for Freddie Bartholomew; Garbo will do "Camille," that hardy perennial; Shearer, "Marie Antoinette" after all these years, and "Pride and Prejudice," the Max Gordon show which the company financed. Irving Thalberg has "The Good Earth" in production and has not abandoned the possibility that a way out will be found for "The Forty Days of Musa Dagh." Crawford will do four next year, one of them "The Gorgeous Hussy," a period story dealing with the times of Andrew Jackson. . . .

Hollywood's chief star-development laboratory, which is another way of describing Metro, is currently enthused over Bill Powell because of "The Great Ziegfeld," Luise Rainer for the same picture, Rosalind Russell because of "Rendezvous," Bob Taylor because the women of the nation are apparently nuts over him, and Freddie Bartholomew because of Bartholomew. "Little Lord Fauntleroy" won't do the youngster and his future any hurt either. . . .

Warners Victors in Test on Dvorak Pact

LOS ANGELES, March 3.—Warners have won the first of two suits filed by contract players. Judge Harry R. Archbald has upheld the studio in the suit of Ann Dvorak for breach of her contract.

Judge Archbald ruled that the suspension of the actress by the company Oct. 20 did not constitute breach of the contract on the part of the company. Answering Miss Dvorak's charge that she had been ill but ready to work Nov. 1, but that the company had refused to reinstate her, Warner attorneys introduced as evidence a series of pictures dating from 1934 as proof of the fact that the actress had grown thin from ill health.

The court ruled, however, that her contract is still effective and that she is entitled to $7,000 compensation for the period dating from the time the suspension was lifted last January. The current agreement runs for two years at a weekly salary of $1,500.

Cagney-Warner Trial Starts on the Coast

LOS ANGELES, March 3.—Trial on the motion of James Cagney to have his Warner contract terminated started here today before Judge Charles I. Bogue in Superior Court.

The Cagney motion is based on the claim that he signed the present agreement on the strength of Jack Warner's oral promise that the actor would not be asked to appear in more than four pictures a year. Cagney maintains that the promise has been violated.

Austin Sherman, attorney for Cagney, testified that at the time he permitted the star to sign the agreement he had not advised him of the clause in the contract which specifically stated that oral agreements were not binding.

The action will be continued tomorrow, with Fredric March and others scheduled to appear for the plaintiff.

Eight More to Tour

Alice Brady, Luis Alberni, Fred Keating, Ivan Lebedeff, Florence Lake, Lila Lee, Russell Hopton and George Bancroft will soon make personal appearances throughout the country. F. & M. handled the deals.

HOLLYWOOD, March 3.—Harry M. Warner, Gradwell Sears, Joseph Bernhard and A. W. Smith will leave by train for New York tomorrow following nine days here.

Sound Saved Films, Vallee Tells Hearing

Duffy Bill in its entirety because he had been told it was inimical to Ascap.

As the committee met, Representative Daly of Tennessee urged that consideration be confined to the legislation and that the committee cease the excursions into irrelevant matters which marked last week's hearings. This was agreed to and within a half-hour the committee discussed with witnesses and among themselves such questions as oranges, mothers-in-law, free speech and the New York building strike.

All chance of amendment of any of the pending bills to provide for United States adherence to the Berne Convention was dissipated when members of the committee declared such action would permit the importation of books printed abroad by cheap labor, now prohibited under the copyright act, and pointed out that Italy, Germany and Russia have banned American publications and ordered the destruction of books by American authors.

Launching into a discussion of the three pending bills following a statement by Vallee that enactment of the Duffy Bill "would practically nullify and kill completely the creative spirit," Representative Sirovich pointed out that exhibitors pay five to 15 per cent per seat a year as license fees and declared that "the question before the committee is which bill would protect the author and composer to see that justice is done to all without embarrassing them by exorbitant fees. I personally am convinced that the author and composer is receiving less for his work in America than in any other country," he added.

Tiffs Again Frequent

Members of the committee frequently engaged in wrangles among themselves, particularly when Representative Church of Illinois suggested that the committee "rehearse its show." Under the questioning of Representatives O'Malley of Wisconsin, Church and Deen, Vallee was forced to admit that he knew little or nothing of the respective methods of the three bills, although he unqualifiedly endorsed the Sirovich version.

Asked by Representative Barry of New York whether Ascap's license rates were fair, Vallee said, "I think they are a joke."

Vallee's assertion that sound saved the film industry was made in answer to a question by Representative Lanham of Texas whether, if picture houses were running silent films, the witness thought they would get much patronage. "I think sound came along just in time when silent pictures were doomed," Vallee replied.

A question by O'Malley as to the propriety of using the $250 statutory minimum as a basis for heavy imposts on small users brought Nathan Burkan, counsel for Ascap, into the picture to explain the method under which Ascap operates and to reiterate that it has received less than $10,000 by judgment since its inception. Burkan tacitly admitted that judgments rendered might have been much greater, telling the committee that after Ascap obtained a judgment it frequently was not collected. Burkan detailed for the committee the Washington situation, where the filing of a copy of the Government's petition in its New York suit was followed by a court order appointing a receiver for the organization. He also carried the fight into O'Malley's territory with charges that the Wisconsin bill imposing a tax of five per cent of its receipts on Ascap was part of an organized campaign of opposition in that state.

Purely Personal

ROBERT WOLFF and EDWARD RUGOFF have left for Miami and will be joined later by EDDIE STERN, HAROLD HERMAN and MYRON SEIGEL. All but RUGOFF, who will spend most of his time on the golf links, will journey to Key West for a 10-day fishing trip. It's an annual event with these boys.

Pizor, Philadelphia; Jack Miller, Chicago; Charles W. Picquet, Pinehurst; R. X. Williams, Jr., Oxford, Miss.; Morgan A. Walsh, San Francisco; Charles E. Williams, Omaha, and David Palfreyman, New York. Major L. E. Thompson of RKO, who has been recuperating here from a recent illness, and E. A. Schiller of Loew's, now residing in Atlanta and vacationing here, are also expected to put in an appearance at the meeting. Both are M. P. T. O. A. directors.

While the board meeting will be an executive session for officers and directors only, a number of other exhibitors are planning to be here during the session to confer informally outside the regular business meetings on individual problems or policies.

In addition to the annual election of officers and the transaction of organization matters, informal round table conferences will be held on plans for organized self-regulation within the industry; conciliation and arbitration of industry disputes; unfair cut-rate competition between theatres, including double and triple featuring, unreasonably low admissions and give-aways; the music tax; labor relations; legislation and taxation; distributor policies; non-theatrical competition and sponsored free shows; local censorship and restrictions on Sunday operation.

Improvement of exhibition standards and theatre management, suggestions for increasing attendance and for improving relations between the exhibitor and his community will also be topics for discussion at the meeting.

Erpi in 2,000 Spots Abroad, Says Drake

Erpi has 2,000 reproducers installed in English theatres, Whitford Drake, vice-president, stated yesterday upon his return from a six-week trip to London.

The total number of installations for Europe is 2,500, he said. Drake was accompanied by Joseph R. C. Palmer, patent attorney. While in England, Drake inspected the company's London office and also closed a deal for the installation of Erpi's recording apparatus at Boot's Pineland Studios, just outside of London.

Returning on the same liner, the Berengaria, was Mary Brian who stated she would leave for Hollywood in a few days to take a much needed vacation. She said while in England she appeared in three pictures for B. I. P. and B. & D. and also did a play. Miss Brian may go back to England later, she said, but this was not definite.

Tex Jones, head auditor for Paramount in Europe with headquarters in Paris, arrived on the boat. He will remain here several weeks conferring with John W. Hicks, Jr.

Gus Schaefer, general manager in Germany and Central Europe for Paramount, arrives tomorrow on the Washington. It's his annual visit.

Dramatists Against Change in New Pact

There is little likelihood that the Dramatists' Guild will agree to make any changes in the new minimum basic agreement between writers and managers, which went into effect March 1 for two years, despite the opposition of managers to the new provisions reducing their participations in the sale of film rights to stage plays, it was stated yesterday at guild headquarters.

Some opposition from the managers was expected, guild spokesmen said, but they believe a majority will favor the new pact after they have had an opportunity to examine it. Copies of the agreement were placed in the mail only yesterday and few managers had actually read the pact in the form in which it was unanimously approved by the guild membership late last week.

Guild officials observed that the provisions objected to by the managers were more moderate than those advocated by large sections of the guild's membership and were confident that any attempt to modify them further could not gain the approval of the membership. The provisions objected to are the diminishing scales of manager participation in the sale of film rights above $15,000, which replaced the former 50-50 division of these rights between writer and manager.

Approval of the new agreement was voiced yesterday by Samuel Goldwyn, reputed to have paid record prices for the film rights to such recent stage plays as "Dodsworth," "Dead End" and "The Children's Hour." Goldwyn especially commended the provisions of the agreement for "sale in advance" of the stage and film rights on a royalty basis for the author, declaring that he believed this would encourage authors to do their best work for the screen with resultant benefits for both playwright and producer.

Boston Expects Six Weeks' "Fleet" Run

Based on the business so far, "Follow the Fleet" will run for six weeks at the Keith Memorial, Boston, and five weeks at the Downtown, Detroit. The Astaire-Rogers musical enters its third week tomorrow in Boston. The Music Hall tomorrow begins a third week for the film.

Charles Koerner, New England district manager for the RKO circuit, leaves for Boston tomorrow after being in and out of the home office for the last two weeks.

Re-Issue Chaplin Films

RKO is re-issuing six two-reel Charlie Chaplin comedies produced about 10 years ago. About three years ago the company revived the shorts after adding sound and effects. This is the second revival of the comedies.

Among the subjects are "The Rink," "The Adventurer," "One A. M." and "The Floor Walker.'

Theatre Fetes Mayor

OTTAWA, March 3.—Howard Knevels, manager of the Capitol, put on a big Feb. 29 midnight surprise party for Mayor Stanley Lewis, whose birthday it was. All patrons were required to bring a new pot or pan, and a mass of kitchenware was donated.

"Things to Come"

(London Films-U. A.)

LONDON, Feb. 21.—There may be differences of opinion regarding the exact value of this H. G. Wells-Alexander Korda production as mass entertainment, but one thing is certain. It renders forever obsolete the hallowed phrase "Up to Hollywood standard" as the highest tribute to British production. Decisively, and by a wide margin, it sets new standards of technique far exceeding the most striking of past achievements, from America or from anywhere else.

The creators of the picture are Ned Mann, who controlled the trick and model work; William Cameron Menzies, who directed; George Perinal, the cameraman, and Vincent Korda, the art director. Two of them are Americans, one is French and one is Hungarian, and the Englishman, H. G. Wells, who gave them the material, comes last because it is emphatically a case of superlatively brilliant execution overshadowing its material. But "Things to Come" is a product of British enterprise and will violently open the eyes of any Hollywoodians who may still be sceptical of the reality of the British challenge.

The story gives the clue to the technical achievement. Wells outlines the collapse of civilization after another Great War, initiated without notice by thousands of planes bombing defenseless cities. The whole world is impoverished, machines rust and collapse and cannot be replaced; a primitive society evolves in which men live in the ruins of once splendid towns and petty dictators exercise tribal authority. Plague stalks the earth.

Order is restored by a band of aviators who, in giant planes, bomb the dictators into submission by a "gas of peace" which causes unconsciousness and no worse. Peace is established on the basis of world rule and mankind sets out on an age of progress founded on science.

Many hundreds of years pass. In the new world men are living in underground cities lighted by perpetual sunshine; helicopters rise and descend from public squares in which, from televised pictures projected without screens the people listen to their leaders. Disease has been abolished, dress is comely, leisure plentiful—but there is discontent. The world rulers have built a giant gun, which fires rockets at and around the moon; sooner or later a landing will be made there. A mob descends on the gun to destroy it but, before they can do any damage, it is fired, the rocket carrying into space the daughter of the world leader and her lover. The film concludes with the rocket still in its progress through the stars and with the leader's words: "All the Universe or nothing!"

The absence of "human interest" in the conventional sense is obvious. There is, in fact, a story of individual adventure and an identification of the personalities of the suffering men of the dark days with the triumphant men of the conclusion, but Wells and Korda have not been afraid to make not a man but mankind their theme. Daring usually brings its reward, and it may be the box-office will return an answer surprising to the believers in formula.

If so, it will be because of the simply astounding realism of each scene of Wells' new world. There are thrills in the war scenes with thousands of bombing planes filling the air, but it is with the pictures of the future that miracles begin. Planes again, but such planes as never were seen above the earth; weird in shape, huge in bulk, carrying hundreds of men. Then "Everytown" in the distant future; here the impression of colossal scale is overwhelming, with human beings no bigger than flies walking in balcony-like streets which wind from the depths thousands of feet up, or tending machinery of nightmarish size and complexity. Capping all is the huge Space Gun, dwarfing mountains and fed by machinery miraculously convincing.

Nowhere, it is safe to say, is the line between model work, camera trickery and stagecraft definitely recognizable even to the expert. Many will think the Wellsian world of A. D. 2030 (say) even more insane than that which it has superseded, but few will doubt that the Korda-Mann-Menzies-Perinal team have rendered it completely plausible. "Things to Come" is in fact of such oustanding merit as a spectacle and as a technical achievement that big success may come in spite of its lack of almost all conventional story values, its very considerable length and the fact that its acting, with the exception of that of Raymond Massey, is mostly declamatory and unsympathetic, though Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Ralph Richardson, Margaretta Scott and the rest are not to blame.

About the box-office there is this to be said: no American exhibitor can afford to take second-hand opinion about a picture which may easily set up records at either end of the scale. It has to be seen to be appreciated—or, for that matter, believed.

Running time, 110 minutes. "G." ALLAN

Applications Made For RKO Allowances

Applications for interim allowances of $150,000 for services in the RKO reorganization proceedings have been filed in the U. S. District Court here by the trustee and its counsel.

Irving Trust Co., trustee of RKO, asks for an interim allowance of $65,000. Donovan, Newton, Leisure & Lumbard, counsel to the trustee, ask an interim allowance of $85,000. The fees sought are for services rendered since July 1, 1935. Federal Judge William Bondy has set March 16 for a hearing on the application.

Judge Bondy also has signed an order granting an independent RKO stockholders' committee leave to intervene in the company's reorganization proceedings. The order entitles the committee to receive notice of all legal proceedings in connection with the organization.

Asks Lincoln to Resign

BOSTON, March 3.—Alexander Lincoln, Boston attorney, who heads the Sentinels of the Republic, organization behind the political picture, "Amateur Fire Brigade," has been asked to resign from the Massachusetts Board of Tax Appeals by Gov. James M. Curley. Lincoln is charged with having favored large corporations in giving abatements. Curley listed 14 charges which, he told the Executive Council, are sufficient grounds for removal. Lincoln has a week to prepare to meet the charges.

Beuren board. On its current release list for RKO, in addition to the color cartoons, are 13 "Easy Aces" releases; seven Bill Corum sport reels; six releases of the "Struggle to Live" series, and seven releases of the "World on Parade" series. This season's release list also includes six of the "Dumb Belle Letters" series held over from last season. More than half of this program has been completed.

RKO's current distribution deal with Van Beuren expires at the end of this season and the Disney deal is effective with the opening of the new season. If RKO abandons the release of only the Van Beuren color cartoons the possibility of a new release series being substituted and RKO making a new Van Beuren deal, is seen.

The RKO-Disney deal is also expected to result in the resignation of Disney from the board of United Artists in the near future.

the picture. Reviews of the picture were not commendatory.

Film Assailed in Seattle

SEATTLE, March 3.—In a lengthy editorial the Post-Intelligencer, Hearst paper, has declared Mae West's "Klondike Annie" immoral and indecent, and that Paramount showed stupidity in producing it. The paper advocated a boycott of the picture.

Lincoln Bars "Klondike"

LINCOLN, March 3.—After previewing "Klondike Annie," County Attorney Towle declared the picture was unfit for showing to young people and informed the Stuart Theatre he would get out an immediate injunction if an attempt was made to show it.

Chicago Passes "Annie"

CHICAGO, March 3.—"Klondike Annie" was given a general permit today by Police Commissioner Allman after varied opinions had been expressed by censor board members.

Deal Set With B & K For "Modern Times"

CHICAGO, March 3.—A deal on Chaplin's "Modern Times" has been closed here with Balaban & Katz, United Artists giving them one extra week's clearance between "C" week and the first week of release.

It is understood that the terms of the agreement have caused some resentment among Warners, Essaness and Independents. Exhibitors' representatives will meet Thursday for a discussion of the matter.

"When Knights Were Bold"

(Capitol-British)

LONDON, Feb. 24.—A tremendously successful stage farce, with an intermittent run in England extending over 20 years, "When Knights Were Bold" has already been filmed, with Nelson Keys in the role originated by James Welsh. This time the lead is Jack Buchanan and the treatment has been made semi-musical to suit his style. Whether there is not greater humor in the straight idea of a modern playboy being transported, in a dream, to the middle ages, is a matter of opinion; for Buchanan fans it is an additional attraction that he has geen given songs and a dance.

The story values are still as fresh as ever, and the transformation of the happy-go-lucky Sir Guy de Vere—bored with the obligations of his social station and with his stiff relatives—will get laughs wherever they can appreciate the broad humor of a modern pitchforked into a first class mediaeval brawl. Staging is on a good scale in scenes of warfare 'round and about a moated castle. The duplication of present day and "period" personalities is amusing. Fay Wray is the Lady Rowena of both periods, and gets over well both the shocked romantic of the present day and the fighting heroine of the 15th century.

Running time, 76 minutes. "G." ALLAN.

"Public Nuisance No. 1"

(Cecil-G. F. D., London)

LONDON, Feb. 25.—Another first film from one of the group of producers associated with C. M. Woolf's General Film Distributors. The responsible organization this time is Cecil Films, headed by Herman Fellner, lately production manager at Gaumont British studios and previously of UFA. Marcel Varnel directed and Frances Day and Arthur Riscoe are the leads.

This duo puts over a number of catchy song numbers and a good deal of real comedy within the framework of a story, very musical-comedyish in flavor, in which he is a rich hotel proprietor's nephew, put to work as a waiter in a Riviera hotel as a punishment for dissipation, and she is a shop girl who, by chance, and with his hidden aid, gets a free trip and lots of gowns to wear, at the same hotel.

As a musical frolic it is, despite dull patches, above British standards, and such song numbers as "Between You and Me and the Carpet" and "Me and My Dog" should go well with American audiences. There is real comedy in the stratagems by which Riscoe empties one hotel by creating suspicion of the food and another by the importation of live fish into the water supply. Claude Dampier is a good comic valet and amusing travesty of a film producer is provided by Peter Haddon.

Running time, 79 minutes. "G." ALLAN

Looking 'Em Over

"Laughing Irish Eyes"

(Republic)

Light and entertaining, although unpretentious fare, this should prove satisfying, in the smaller situations particularly. It is tuneful and often amusing, and a film which should be easy to sell in the Irish communities. Phil Regan, in the lead, sings several Irish songs in attractive fashion, and Walter C. Kelly, Evalyn Knapp and Ray Walker are in chief support.

Kelly, fight promoter of the Irish-American A. C., goes to Ireland to find a good fighter to restore the prestige of his club. Miss Knapp, his daughter, accompanies him. There she meets and falls in love with a blacksmith, Regan, who wins a singing contest at a fair. In a scuffle he knocks out the Irish champion Kelly is about to sign, and Kelly signs Regan, unaware he is not a fighter. Miss Knapp, with the help of Walker, sports announcer who is in love with her, gets a radio contract for Regan, while Kelly trains him for the ring.

A series of complications and misunderstandings develop as Walker, learning Miss Knapp loves Regan, reveals that he is not a fighter, and Kelly bets all he has that Regan will stay six rounds with the contender for the championship. There is suspense and lively action in the bout, which Regan finally wins. He leaves the ring for the radio and wins Miss Knapp en route.

Production Code Seal No. 1,981. Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

President for New Tax Upon All Surpluses

017,000,000 which must be made up, while at the same time immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus will add another $120,000,000 a year to Government expenditures.

Imposition of a tax on undistributed profits will give the Treasury a net new income of about $620,000,000 a year, the President proposing, as a part of the revision of the law, the repeal of the present corporation income tax, the excess profits tax, the capital stock tax and the exemption of dividends from the normal tax on individual income, which will wipe out about $994,600,000 of revenue. The program suggested by the President also calls for the imposition of taxes paralleling the processing levies outlawed by the Supreme Court, but at a lower rate and on commodities not included in the original Agricultural Adjustment Act.

"The existing difference between corporation taxes and those imposed on owners of unincorporated businesses renders incorporation of small businesses difficult or impossible," he told Congress, declaring the accumulation of surpluses in corporations affords a method of evading surtaxes which "constitutes a problem as old as the income tax law itself."

Skouras Moves Many New York Managers

Several changes in the managerial lineup of Skouras theatres in Greater New York have been made. Paul Hamilton is now at the Blenheim, Bronx, replacing Nick Mann, a cousin of the Skourases. Hugh Finnigan, formerly in Nyack, has been transferred to the Broadway, Astoria, L. I. Tom Sarras is at the helm of the Grand, Astoria, having formerly checked in at the Lynbrook, Lynbrook, L. I. Nate Simons, assistant manager of the Jamaica, Jamaica, has been promoted to manager of the Steinway, Astoria. Lou Hart, publicity director of the Crotona, is now managing the Granada, Corona, L. I., Max Cooper has been switched from the Fox, Hackensack, N. J., to the Cove, Glen Cove, L. I., while M. Guillione has been appointed manager of the Lynbrook, Lynbrook.

Hank Lowry, brother of Ed, the m. c., is now at the State, Jersey City, after having been at the Liberty, Elizabeth, for a while. George Nicolles has moved from the Terminal, Newark, to the Liberty, Elizabeth. Morris Hatoff, who has been at the State, Jersey City, now is located at the Rialto, same city. Bill Bolger, assistant manager of the Jamaica, Jamaica, has been moved up to manager of the Tivoli, Jersey City.

RKO has taken over the operation of the Terminal, Newark, from Skouras, but this house continues in the pooling arrangement with the Proctor under a five-year deal. Heretofore, RKO has been managing its own house and Skouras the Terminal. A. Belle has just been given the manager's post at the Terminal under the RKO setup.

Seek Return of Bank Night in Bridgeport

BRIDGEPORT, March 3. — Reinstatement of Bank Night is being sought by Affiliated Enterprises, Inc., in conferences with City Prosecutor Cotter. Following Cotter's order, all cash giveaways have been stopped, but organizations continue to run Bingo and Beano games with merchandise prizes. No theatre previously running Bank Night or Cash Night has attempted a substitute merchandise giveaway.

Bank Night officials question the authority of the prosecutor to put his approval on merchandise as against cash prizes and state that if they are not permitted to resume operation a test case will be sought.

"Fleet" Big In Cleveland With $20,000

CLEVELAND, March 3. — With all first runs playing outstanding attractions, business, in spite of bad weather and heavy competition, jumped. "Follow the Fleet" at Warners' Hippodrome went to $20,000 as against an $8,000 average.

"Modern Times" topped Loew's State average by $7,500, with a $19,500 take.

Fred Waring and His Pennsylvanians as the stage attraction at the RKO Palace with "My Marriage" on the screen, boosted the total to $24,000, which is $9,000 more than the weekly par.

"Whipsaw" took in $6,500 at Loew's Stillman where $4,000 is normal and "Fang and Claw" went $200 over the Allen average of $3,000.

The Washington Birthday holiday with the advanced holiday matinee prices helped boost the total take, but the Al Siratt Grotto Circus and Walter Hampden in "Cyrano de Bergerac" offered keen competition. Both "Modern Times" and "Follow the Fleet" were held for second weeks.

Total first run business was $73,200. Average is $42,000.

"Face," with Show, $4,500, in Lincoln

LINCOLN, March 3. — "Another Face," bolstered by a grade A stage show, the Will J. Harris "Kit Kat Club Revue" for three days, and following four with "Red Salute," shot the Orpheum up to $4,500, $2,400 above average for the house. The only other attraction to make a solid impression was "Riffraff" at the Lincoln; it cornered $2,700, $500 long.

The first liberation of amusement seekers after a month of bad snows and cold was partly responsible for the pickup, although "Ceiling Zero" was generally dodged at the Stuart and got only $3,300, $200 over par. At the Varsity "King of the Damned" was forgotten with $900, $400 down.

Total first run business was $12,300. Average is $9,850.

Jack Mundstuck Engaged

CLEVELAND, March 3.—Jack Mundstuck, M-G-M salesman, has announced his engagement to Miss Retta Tannenholz of Detroit.

"Fleet" Louisville Sensation, $9,000

LOUISVILLE, March 3.—"Follow the Fleet" was a sensation at the Brown with a take of $9,000. This is more than three times the normal take and beats the record of "Top Hat." It was held over.

"Modern Times" disappointed at Loew's State, grossing only $6,500, but "Klondike Annie" at the Rialto fared very well, taking $6,000, over par by $1,500. It was shifted to the Fourth Avenue Amusement Co.'s Strand.

"The Petrified Forest" continued to demonstrate its drawing power at the Mary Anderson, where it played its second downtown week to $3,500. "Radio City Revels," on the stage for four days at the National, accounted for a good share of the $4,000 take, with the film "Bad Boy" coming in for little attention. A double feature, "My Heart Is Calling" and "Ring Around the Moon," for the remaining three days were light.

"Prisoner of Shark Island" surprised at the Strand, with a take of $4,800, over the line by $1,300. This is a remarkable showing in face of the opposition.

The sun has been shining again in old Kentucky, and temperatures as high as 70 degrees were recorded.

Total first run business was $35,000. Average is $24,200.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 27:

Mae West Is Kansas City Hit, $15,000

KANSAS CITY, March 3. — "Klondike Annie" handily surmounted the General Motors show at the Municipal Auditorium, which drew 75,000 in eight days, and gave the Newman a take of $15,000 in 10 days, $6,000 over average for the period. This is the Newman's biggest business in eight months.

Other first runs felt the free show competition. About $7,900, which is $900 over par, was taken by "The Music Goes 'Round" at the Tower. The Mainstreet went $400 under a $9,000 average for combination bills with "The Lady Consents" and stage show. "Exclusive Story" at Loew's Midland took a low $7,500 against $11,500 par, and "Don't Get Personal" garnered only $2,700 in six days at the Fox Uptown.

Total first run business was $41,700. Average is $39,500.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Feb. 27:
"THE LADY CONSENTS" (Radio)

"Man Hunt," Show Lead Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, March 3. — With Olsen and Johnson, holders of the attendance pull record at the Lyric, heading the vaudeville bill, the Lyric took an estimated total of $12,500. "Man Hunt" was the picture, and the last day proved one of the biggest.

"The Milky Way" at the Indiana drew in the neighborhood of $7,000, and "The Story of Louis Pasteur" at the Apollo brought about $3,500. A return performance of "The Informer" at the Circle was good for only about $3,000.

First run business generally started slow at the beginning of the week, but virtually all houses showed better business than during the cold wave.

Total first run business was $33,000. Average is $26,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 28:

"STORY OF LOUIS PASTEUR" (W. B.)

U. A. Expects Disney Films To July, '37

Schaefer Says Producer Is Behind Schedule

United Artists does not expect its distribution contract with Walt Disney to be completed until July, 1937, due to commitments under the deal which normally could not be met by the producer much before that date, George J. Schaefer, vice-president and general manager of United Artists, said yesterday.

Schaefer stated that while he did not have the exact figures on the number of pictures which remained for Disney to deliver to United Artists he was certain that the producer was considerably behind schedule and, on the basis of past deliveries, would not wind up his United Artists' contract for another 18 months. Until Disney has delivered his final picture to U. A. no other company may distribute his product, Schaefer said.

The new RKO distributing deal with Disney, however, was announced as becoming effective with the 1936-'37 season. Under the new RKO

Warner Stock Buy Revealed by SEC

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The acquisition by Jack L. Warner of 3,000 shares of Warner common stock in January, giving him a total of 88,060 shares, and the sale of 33,000 six per cent convertible debentures, leaving his holdings at 1,823,000, were shown today in the semi-monthly report of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The report also revealed the acquisition by Jack Cohn, through a stock dividend, of 813 voting trust certificates, bringing his holdings to 33,357.

Twentieth Century-Fox reports showed that Sidney Towell, New York, disposed of 275 shares of common, leaving him with 34 shares, and Color Stereo Film Process Is Described

Boston Inventors Using Polarized Light

BOSTON, March 4. — Some of the details of the three-dimension color film process based on the use of polarized light have been revealed here by the inventors, Edwin H. Land and George W. Wheelwright following a demonstration for MOTION PICTURE DAILY.

Two cameras joined by a universal shaft are used in making the pictures, but in the projection of the double film one machine equipped with a new attachment is used. Spectators must use spectacles made of Polaroid, a grayish substance resembling glass.

A new reflector has been developed and patented that may be added in front of the lenses of present projectors and make one machine do the work of two, Wheelwright says. Film, in such instances, will be double frame. The invention is such, however, that each frame is given a full opening.

Tax Protest To Close All Paris Houses

By PIERRE AUTRE

PARIS, Feb. 26.—Exhibitors at a general meeting here have decided that all theatres in Paris will close March 20, if the 10 per cent pauper tax on gross receipts is not rescinded or greatly reduced. A similar threat, which did not materialize, was made some time ago. When the tax was passed, last July, town councils were given the option of canceling the tax if they could find another to replace it.

Thus far, Paris exhibitors have received only promises in their effort to gain relief. Distributors have promised to cooperate with the local theatres in the matter of contracts. At the present time exhibitors pay taxes amounting to almost 25 per cent of their gross receipts. They believe that the threat of complete closing will force the Paris Town Council to take action.

Theatre business in the country has suffered severely through the depression. The total of taxes collected

Big Seat Gain for South America Seen

Approximately 40,000 seats will be added to the South American total as soon as 36 new theatres, now in various stages of construction, are completed, Walter Gould, in charge of Latin America for U. A., stated yesterday. He recently returned from a seven months' trip through the territory.

A dozen theatres are set for Chile, 14 for the Argentine and 10 for Brazil, he asserted. M-G-M has practically completed new theatres in Lima, Peru, and in Santiago, Chile. The M-G-M house in Montevideo, Uruguay, is expected to be finished in about three months and another theatre in Rio de Janeiro will be ready for opening in about six months, Gould said.

Mills Assails Berne Treaty On Copyrights

Insists U. S. Adherence Would Be Disaster

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Declaring that adherence to the Berne Convention would be disastrous, not only to American composers and authors, but to the motion picture industry, E. C. Mills, general manager of Ascap, today attacked the Duffy Copyright Bill as a "pretense" under the guise of which creative talent would be stripped of such protection as it now enjoys.

Appearing before the House Patents Committee, Mills told of the conditions which prevail in Germany, Italy and Hungary with respect to American authors and composers. Those countries, he pointed out, have copyright treaties with the United States and the difficulties encountered under those agreements, he said, are but a fraction of what would be experienced under the convention.

The treaty with Germany, the committee was told, is absolutely useless to protect non-Aryan Americans. Italy has adopted a nationalistic policy and is not using foreign material, and it is

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, March 4.

THE old Cantor gag having to do with the father and husband who got home so infrequently one of his own children finally ran to her mother, exclaiming, "Mama, that strange man is here again" has an actual counterpart in Sam Briskin, now seven weeks on the job as head man of the Radio studio. Not that it is any of the trade's business, but it might be interesting, if it weren't impolite, to ascertain exactly how much of his family Briskin has seen since his deal with Leo Spitz. . . .

While it may be tough on wife and babes, not to overlook him, the Briskin activity is developing into a landslide for Radio. For sales department purposes, the company may send up its new schedule to about fifty-two pictures; this season it hovers around forty-eight. Briskin says it can be done, what with facilities and the like available, and thinks the higher figure might make for a better-rounded program. His plans for A attractions call for twenty, as against eight or nine, conceived that way, but not necessarily that way, for this year. That, we are told on all sides, is more of a job than is indicated by surface markings. . . .

Suitable material is difficult to sink hooks into and the competition continues extremely keen. Producers at any time night or day and whether in the Clover Club or the assorted Brown Derbies, will go into a complete shambles at the thought of the possibility of annexing unusual vehicles, not to overlook the price they are willing and eager to pay. Briskin's job, as a consequence, is a substantial one and yet he is optimistic. . . .

As definite as plans are in these parts, he has lined up "Gunga Din," which will give Radio its quota of Kipling exactly as "Kim" will do ditto for M-G-M. Edward Arnold is set for "The Robber Barons;" Jack Oakie for three starring vehicles; Astaire and Rogers for two nimble feet potpourris. Robert Donat, who was stepped into the august classification that counts by "The Count of Monte Crisco," goes over by the deal with Harry M. Goetz and Edward Small of Reliance, but whether or not Donat can or wants to work in this country is shrouded in some doubt. There was litigation aimed at him by the Warners and the subsequent claim that he cannot produce in this country. There is also Goetz's contention that the Warners are wrong. It's all right with us either way. . . .

At any rate, Briskin is aware of the task ahead of him. He understands one of the rocky roads over which he must bump his way is the road that finds personalities at the other end. Exactly the how, where and the what of the problem are something else again, but that's where Briskin's capabilities as a studio operator fit into the picture. For he knows the setup here, the pitfalls and the difficulties. Off the Radio lot, and naturally on it, there is general recognizance of the calibre of his merit and, while the results are misty in futures, it is a fair cross-section of general opinion to point out that the expectancy is Briskin will come through. . . .

His induction at Radio, these these things being what they are, brought in its trail a number of changes. Ben Kahane and J. R. McDonough are now subordinate to Briskin. Kahane continues his old line of duties as contact with other studios which like him and as general overseer of contracts, but always under Briskin's final say-so. McDonough, kicked up stairs to an executive vice-presidency, is in an eclipse; is being used by Briskin for far less important tasks than until recently he filled, and, by common knowledge, is sitting out his contract which runs until the summer. . . .

"Pine" Begins 3rd Week at Paramount

"Trail of the Lonesome Pine" ended its second week at the Paramount with $33,000 and yesterday began a third week. The film also is being held over for a third stanza at the Paramount, Newark, which is operated by Peter and Adam Adams. "Klondike Annie" will go into the New York Paramount on Friday.

"The Voice of Bugle Ann" at the Center garnered about $6,000. "Rhodes" is being held for a second week at the Roxy, starting tomorrow.

Legion Passes Nine Additional Pictures

In its list for the current week, the National Legion of Decency has added 19 pictures, seen this week, to the previous listings. Of the 19, nine are called unobjectionable for general patronage, seven are classed as unobjectionable for adults, and three are termed objectionable in part.

The additions, classified, are as follows: Class A, Section 1, Unobjectionable for General Patronage—"Boulder Dam," "Cattle Thief," "Das Schloss im Sueden," "Give Us This Night," "Here Comes Trouble," "Leathernecks Have Landed," "Lucky Terror," "The Lawless Nineties," "Trail of the Lonesome Pine." Class A, Section 2, Unobjectionable for Adults—"Desire," "The Escape from Devil's Island," "Gruss und Kuss Veronika," "Love Before Breakfast," "Road Gang," "Three Women," "Wife vs. Secretary." Class B, Objectionable in Part—"Hellship Morgan," "Melo," "The Walking Dead."

Schreiber Contempt Case Up Wednesday

A hearing for Jacob Schreiber on contempt of court charges arising over cash giveaways, which was scheduled before Judge DeWitt H. Merriam in Circuit Court last Saturday, will take place on Wednesday.

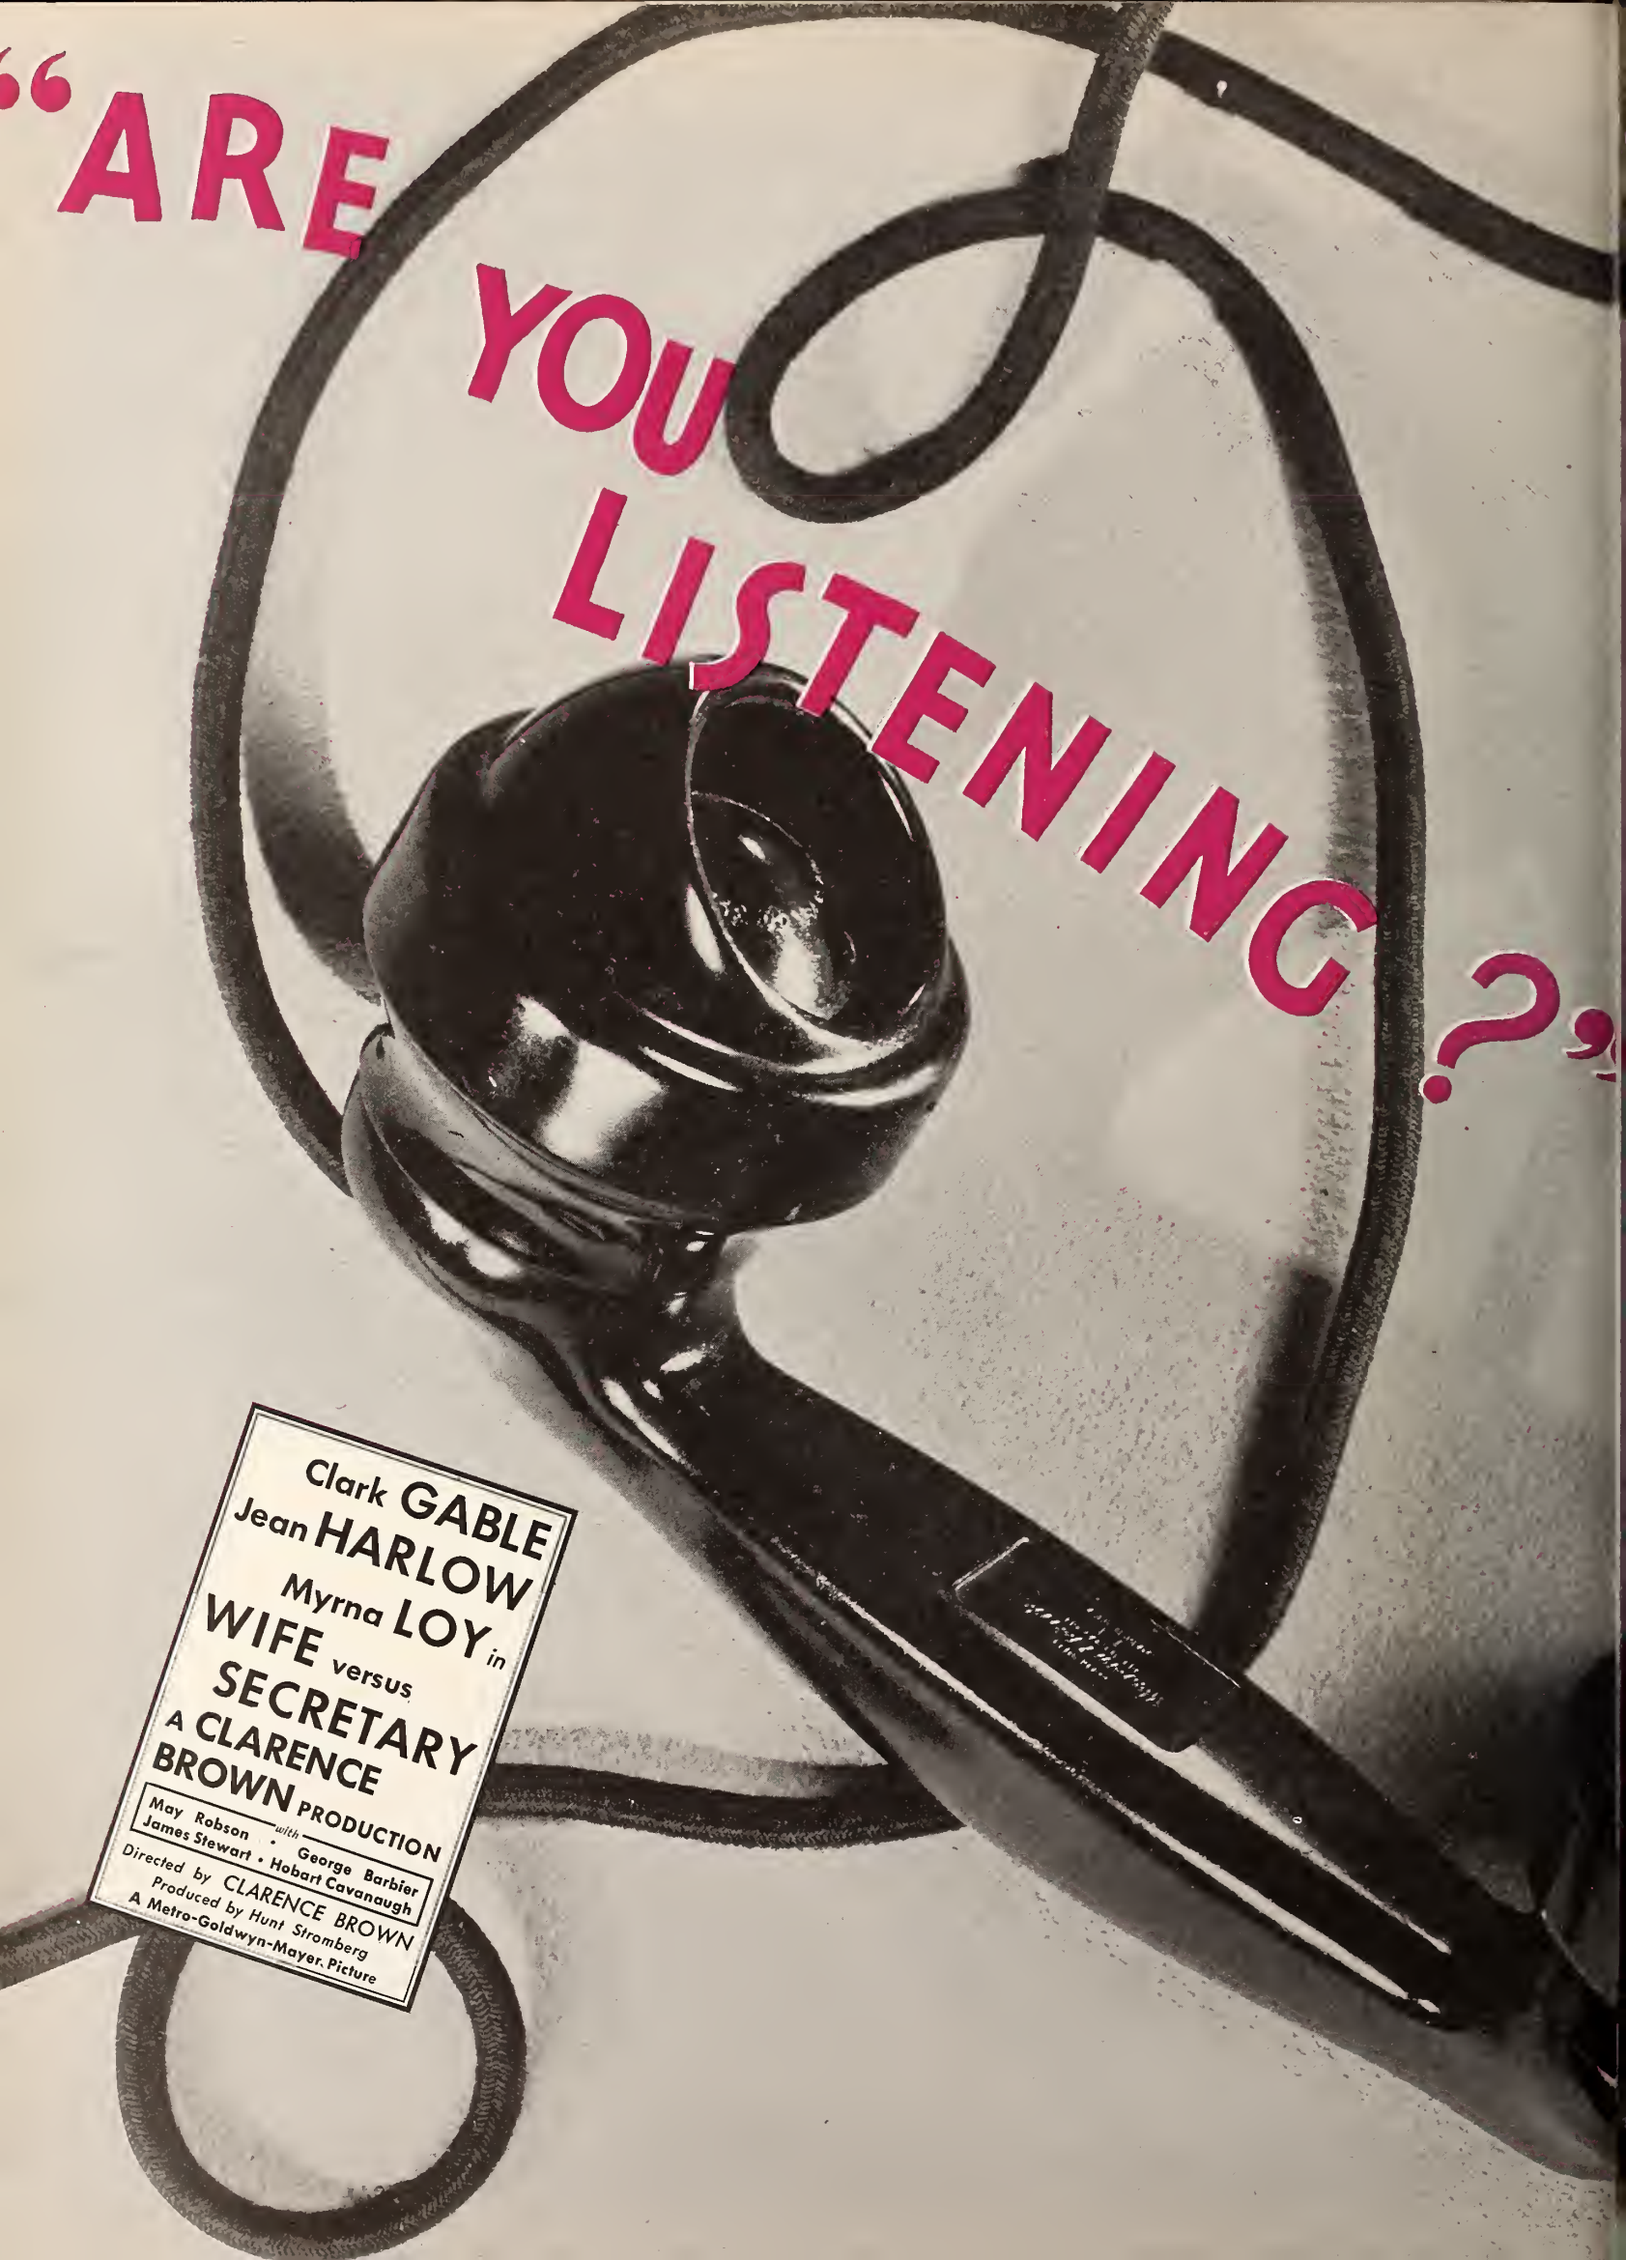
Judge Merriam issued a permanent injunction restraining Schreiber from using cash prizes on Jan. 16. Since then the prosecutor's office has announced it will not act on other theatres using the prizes until a ruling has been made on Schreiber's case pending before the Supreme Court.

In view of this and the fact that he claims the prizes as now given away are different from those banned by the injunction, Schreiber resumed them about 10 days ago.

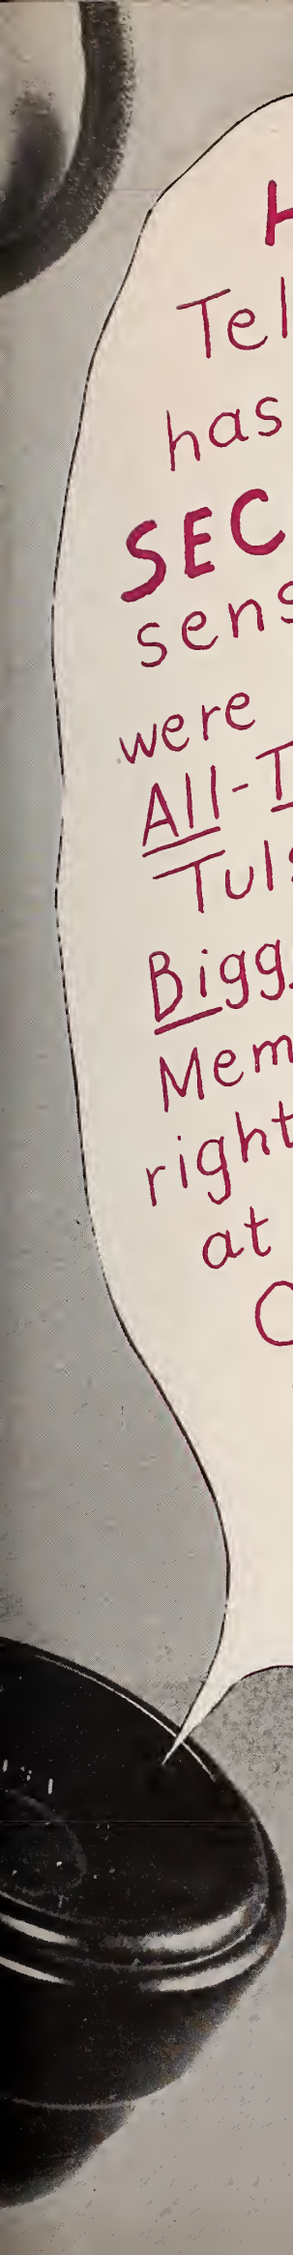
Judge Merriam's ruling for Schreiber to show cause why he should not be adjudged in contempt of court followed.

Suit Against Odlum Dismissed by Court

Observing that questions of law involved in a $14,896,032 suit against Floyd Odlum and other directors of the Securities Allied Corp., formerly the Chatham Phenix Allied Corp., for alleged waste and mismanagement had never been passed upon by N. Y. state courts, Justice Lauer granted a motion to dismiss the action with the suggestion that an appeal be taken to the Appellate Division. The suit was brought by James J. Donovan on an assigned claim of Francis M. Crawley, owner of 2,000 shares of Securities Allied.



Odlum is the president of Atlas Corp., which has extensive investments in the film industry. Donovan's attorney said an appeal from Justice Lauer's ruling would be taken immediately.



Cross Loses Libel Suit

ALBANY, March 4.—Ben S. Cross' libel suit against Eddie Cantor has been dismissed by the Court of Appeals. This upholds a decision by Justice Cuff to the effect that the complaint did not furnish enough facts to constitute a cause for action. This ruling was upheld by the Appellate Division.

Vividly pictured against the spectacular background of the greatest wonder ever wrought by man is Warner Bros.' thrilling production, 'BOULDER DAM'. 'Loaded with action and suspense', and enlivened by Ross Alexander's 'moving portrayal', Patricia Ellis' 'admirable' performance, Lyle Talbot's 'excellent characterization', and Frank McDonald's 'notable direction', 'Boulder Dam' is another illustration of Warners' flair for timely, news-value themes. Released March 7th.

Coast Is All Set On Awards Tonight

made in spite of open efforts of the screen actors' and writers' guilds to keep their members from attending.

Keen competition is anticipated in the performance division for actors and actresses. Six actresses and four actors have been nominated for those awards, instead of the usual three in each group. Balloting in all divisions has been unprecedented during the past few weeks. Nominees for the actors awards are Clark Gable, Charles Laughton, Franchot Tone and Victor McLaglen; for the actresses award they are Elisabeth Bergner, Claudette Colbert, Bette Davis, Katharine Hepburn, Miriam Hopkins and Merle Oberon.

Twelve pictures have been nominated as outstanding, from which one will be selected as the best picture of 1935. Columbia took the honor for 1934 with "It Happened One Night." For their work in that picture, Miss Colbert and Gable won the actress and actor award, respectively. Frank Capra took the award for best direction on the same picture.

Awards will be made in the following additional divisions: best original, best adaptation, short subjects, with three sections, cartoon, comedy and novelty; assistant director, best song, best music scoring, film editing, dance direction, and technical awards in cinematography, art direction and sound recording. Film editing and dance direction are new awards this year.

Los Angeles, March 4.—Representatives of the Screen Actors' Guild and the Writers' Guild today refused to issue any official statement regarding responses to wires which they dispatched to members urging them to remain away from the Academy Awards banquet tomorrow night. It was learned however, that the guilds are planning an official announcement for the day following the banquet.

The Directors' Guild has thus far maintained a neutral attitude in the matter.

from all amusement houses in France for January, 1936, was approximately $550,000, which compares with a total of approximately $700,000 for January, 1935, a reduction of about 20 per cent. The revenue for the entire year 1935 from special taxes on amusements was 15 per cent less than in 1934.

Would Allow House Bars

Albany, March 4.—Assemblyman Herbert Brownell, Jr., New York, has introduced a bill here empowering the State Liquor Authority to issue liquor licenses to theatres in cities of 1,000,000 population or more. Under the bill a license would be obtained for one year for $1,000 or for three-quarters of a year for $750.

Hearing on Lottery Bill

Boston, March 4.—A public hearing at the State House is to be held tomorrow for a discussion of the bill to amend the lottery laws of Massachusetts. Passage of the bill would make Bank Night definitely legal.

where it had stood for two years, to 20 cents. This gives him 35 days better clearance, but he questions whether this was solely responsible. He contends he draws from a wider area under the new plan, because people have a tendency to judge picture's value by the theatre's scale of admission prices.

Mary Pickford Here To Open New Office

Pickford-Lasky Prod. will open a New York office within the next 10 days, Mary Pickford stated yesterday upon her arrival from the coast by plane. Miss Pickford has several people in mind and will appoint an eastern representative before she returns to Hollywood by plane in two weeks.

As acting president of United Artists, Miss Pickford will attend a meeting of the board on Friday. Routine matters are to be discussed, she said.

Commenting on the appointment of George J. Schafer as vice-president and general manager, Miss Pickford said "he is a very fine man and he is ideally situated.

"Schaefer is the third sales head United Artists has had in 17 years," she said. Asked if the company would add new producers to its roster, the acting president declared: "We now have more pictures than we ever had and there is no reason for more producers."

Regrets that the company was to lose Walt Disney were voiced by Miss Pickford, who asserted United Artists would not replace the shorts on the program as "there is only one Disney. He is the greatest producer the industry has turned out," she said.

Accompanying her were Lynn and Mrs. Farnol, Miriam Hawkins, Nat Wolff and William Kuser. The latter two are working with Miss Pickford on her radio broadcasts.

Warner Takes Stand In Cagney's Action

Los Angeles, March 4.—Jack Warner, testifying here today before Judge Charles I. Bogue in Superior Court during the trial of the suit by James Cagney to have his contract voided, claimed that he had not mentioned to Cagney an annual limit of four pictures but admitted saying that making five would be a virtual impossibility in the 40-week period covered by the contract.

Fredric March, Lester Cowan and Oliver H. P. Garrett took the stand and stated that Warner at the Academy arbitration committee meeting held in 1932 to arbitrate the differences then existing between the star and his organization, had declared that he did not think that his distribution staff could sell more than four Cagney pictures a year. The present contract was drawn after both sides had agreed to let Academy arbitrate their differences.

William Cagney, brother and business manager of the plaintiff, told of the star's refusal to accept a new contract which, he claimed, was offered him in September, 1935.

The case will close tomorrow with James Cagney taking the stand.

Pickets at the Globe

Picketing by members of the Film Exchange Employes' Union has started at the Globe which is now showing "The Return of Jimmy Valentine," a Republic picture. About a dozen members of the union recently walked out on strike at the local Republic exchange when Herman Gluckman refused to recognize and deal with the executives on a term contract.

Two men also continued to parade in front of the Film Center Bldg. where the exchange is located.

Looking 'Em Over

"Timber War"

(Ambassador)

Adventure fare, suitable for children, this effort will amply fill in on a dual program.

Kermit Maynard is the moving spirit of the story. He becomes involved in the workings of a lumber mill through his friendship with drunken Lawrence Gray, who is a partner with Lucille Lund, in the control of the plant. Maynard sobers up Gray and takes him to the woods only to have him hit the bottle again. Mistaken for Gray, he starts off the action on his arrival with a fist fight with one of the bad men. This sets him right with the rest of the workers and he proceeds to run the place. He meets a hazard in the villainy of Wheeler Oakman, and works to beat him at the game. Miss Lund discovers his imposture and for the moment sends him away, only to be set right by Robert Warwick, an old friend. Gray, failing to get off the train in his drunken stupor, winds up a few stations beyond and, drunk again, signs trick papers put in front of him by Oakman, which work havoc on the mill. Maynard saves the day, delivering a load of pulp wood on time over a burning railroad trestle, beating up the heavy and settling accounts with Oakman. Gray, sobered up, returns in time and warns Oakman that if he doesn't leave town he will have him sent to the penitentiary. Maynard and Miss Lund embrace and it is over.

Interwoven in the narrative are some thrilling shots of falling timber, woodcutting and scenes of general lumberjacking activity which lend realism to the story by James Oliver Curwood.

Production Code Seal No. 1,750. Running time, 58 minutes. "G."

"Melo"

(Arthur Zichm)

A heavily dramatic story of the love of a married woman for another man and her eventual suicide when she cannot decide her course of action, this picture is a well done foreign importation, but may be considered too weighty for the average audience. In German, it has a sufficient number of superimposed translations of dialogue to make understanding of the story simple.

Starred is Elisabeth Bergner, who is excellent in a difficult role, supported chiefly by Anton Edthofer as her husband, and Rudolf Forster as the other man. Dr. Paul Czinner directed from the play by Henri Bernstein.

Miss Bergner, wife of a violinist in an orchestra, meets and falls in love with her husband's best friend, a concert artist. At first he rebukes her, then falls in love with her himself. She is about to follow him on a concert tour when her husband is taken gravely ill. Pitying him, she remains, but suffers a nervous breakdown, the result of her indecision. When her lover returns to take her with him, she cannot decide, and rather than hurt her husband, who is unaware of the affair, she commits suicide.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 85 minutes. "A."

Approve Music Hall Deal

Federal Judge William Bondy yesterday approved the participation by RKO for an additional two months in the agreement under which Rockefeller Center, RCA and RKO share in the operating profits of the Music Hall. The agreement, which provides for the payment of rent on the Hall to Rockefeller Center and minor fees for advisory services to RCA and RKO, was extended from Feb. 29 to April 30.

stance called Polaroid, is a young man of 26. He met Wheelwright, who is not many years older, when the latter was an instructor in Harvard where Land attended. The work has been going on for about 10 years. The two have been partners during seven years of this time.

The basis of the experiments has been the control of light. Briefly, light from the sun, for instance, is composed of innumerable waves vibrating in all possible planes at right angles to the direction of travel of the beam itself. Such light is said to be unpolarized. The new material allows only a single plane of light to pass through it, the inventors say.

This effect is produced by billions of little crystals. Land has combined these crystals and has aligned them in a cellulose acetate base. This latter substance has the appearance of grey glass.

Both Eastman Kodak and the American Optical Co. are licensees for the process. The new Eastman Pola-screen for cameras is the result. The screen enables both the polarization of light and the control of light already polarized, according to the inventors.

Under-water Photos Possible

The Pola-screen, it is claimed, permits the eradication of reflection. By means of the refinement, Land says, a cameraman may shoot an under-water scene from a boat, and do away with all the surface reflection that heretofore has made such work impossible under ordinary conditions. The camera axis is at approximately 30 degrees to the reflecting surface for such shots.

A sunlight shot of a store window may be taken with the aid of the Pola-screen without hindrance because of ordinary reflection from the glass, it is asserted.

The device is also claimed to be useful in studio lighting over lamps. Reflection is controlled, it is declared.

The principle of the invention is this. Two images are projected, one on top of the other, on the screen. The lens on one side of the spectacles is polarized so as to admit vertical light beams. The other lens is polarized horizontally. Each eye, therefore, sees one of the two images.

Dead spaces in the theatre will not be increased by the addition of a third dimension, Wheelwright declares. The seating range will remain the same as it is at present, he stated. Where side seats give a distorted view of regular pictures, this same distortion will prevail with the three-dimensional product.

The projectionist will have no extra duties, Wheelwright said. No new fire requirements will be necessitated. Speed will remain unchanged. Only a small amount of additional light, if any, will be required because of the slightly darkening effect of the grey glasses. Projection machines may be run with the lenses entirely open.

Cost problems will depend upon volume of manufacture, Wheelwright says.

impossible to get money out of Hungary except at a discount of 40 per cent. No difficulties are encountered in England or France, so far as copyright alone is concerned.

Mills attacked the Duffy Bill, declaring that his organization sought to have it confined to authorizing adherence to the convention and complaining that "in every bill introduced to improve the situation of the creator, there are tacked on suggestions by various interests to reform the law so those particular interests would be beneficially affected." Discussing the plaint of the writers, Mills asserted that there have never been more than 200 outstanding successes a year, out of more than 20,000 songs copyrighted annually. From this he embarked upon a discussion of the returns from the two greatest users.

On the basis of Federal tax returns, he said, film theatres in 1934 sold $1,560,000,000 in admissions, but only one cent out of every $47 of that total went to writers of music. No theatre uses music except to make a profit, he declared, and were it not for the necessity of using music, they would not do so, since without it they could make more money.

Makes Comparison with Radio

Without music, the broadcasting station would be inarticulate, he continued, and besides the $80,000,000 made by the broadcasters out of the sale of time, owners of receiving sets paid $150,000,000 to electric companies for power and another $500,000,000 for receiving sets and equipment, while the composers, authors and publishers in 1935 got a total of $2,680,406.

Entering upon a detailed discussion of the Duffy Bill, Mills pointed out that the manufacturing clause alone would make adherence to the international convention impossible and asserted that his organization would stand with labor for its retention.

The bill also "pretends" to give divisibility of copyright, when it does not in fact do so, he contended.

Mills defended the $250 infringement provision as the very life of Ascap, asserting that without it the organization could not exist.

Apparently smarting under the criticism which has been heaped upon him, Chairman Sirovich yesterday delivered a one-hour explanation of copyright, the copyright situation and the Berne Convention on the floor of the House.

Arguing strongly against adherence to the convention, Sirovich outlined the conditions which now exist in many of the European countries, going into detail with respect to American pictures.

"America's dominance of the world film market has contributed largely to discriminatory regulations, confiscatory taxes, excessive tariffs, unreasonable censorship demands and special laws, which, while in form applying to all countries, have in fact been enacted to curb the United States as far as possible in this field," he asserted.

Quoting liberally from Motion Picture Daily and other papers, he traced the efforts of the producers to meet this situation, in part, by the purchase of foreign films at low cost, which was met by requirements for quality and parity. Under the purchase policy of the distributors, the number of foreign films imported increased from 113 in 1933 to 190 last year, of which 59 were German, 38 Spanish and 33 British.

"It is the duty of Congress to safeguard our free system from the straitjacketing influences of alien doctrines of suppression and censorship," he asserted. "Congress can protect our citizenry by appropriate retaliatory amendments to our copyright law. Once we adhere to the Berne convention, Congress surrenders that power."

Methods of Ascap were assailed by Representatives Boileau of Wisconsin and Zioncheck of Washington, who sharply criticized the methods used by the organization in applying the $250 provision.

His petition to discharge the committee from further consideration of copyright legislation, Zioncheck disclosed, was filed at the request of radio station KOL of Seattle, but "if more signatures are not put on there this circus is going to continue until Congress adjourns, and no legislation will be enacted. It is somewhat of a pressure program," he said, "and the distinguished and learned gentleman from New York is somewhat irritated now because he seems to think it is in the nature of pin pricks that prods him on.

"There is no question, but what the Ascap has been a hi-jacking proposition," he asserted.

agreement Disney is to deliver 13 Mickey Mouses, 13 Silly Symphonies and one feature annually for three years. United Artists, it was stated, has no plans at this time for filling the gap in its short subject releases left by the Disney loss, due largely to the expectation that the latter's commitments will not be concluded for some time yet, as stated by Schaefer.

With the acquisition of the Disney cartoons RKO will drop the 13 Rainbow Parade color cartoons which it has been distributing for Van Beuren, but will continue to distribute all or part of the remaining 33 short subjects it receives from Van Beuren annually, it was learned yesterday. However, the exact extent to which Van Beuren will contribute to the RKO short subject lineup next season remains to be determined when Ned E. Depinet, Leo Spitz and Jules Levy return from the coast.

RKO owns 50 per cent of Van Beuren and Depinet is a member of the board of the latter company. RKO formerly participated in the financing of Van Beuren, but since the RKO receivership this has been discontinued. Pathe now does part of the Van Beuren financing.

Disney Has Year to Go

Hollywood, March 4.—Walt Disney has a full year's product commitment to complete for United Artists, it was stated at the producers' offices here today. There are 10 Silly Symphonies and 10 Mickey Mouses still undelivered.

Disney's contract with Radio, therefore, does not start until the first of 1937.

Cohen Plans Films For Railway Trains

Chicago, March 4.—Sidney Cohen, who is aboard the Century bound for New York, is understood to have closed a deal with the Pullman Car Company for the showing of pictures on railway trains.

A demonstration of the idea was conducted here today on a car of the Illinois Central. Several prominent persons attended as guests.

Sentry Net Is $3,622

Sentry Safety Control Corp. has reported net profit for 1935 after expenses, depreciation and other charges of $4,097, and its subsidiary, Universal Sound System, Inc., reported a net loss of $475, making a combined net profit of $3,622. This compares with net profit of $10,025 in 1934 for Sentry and net loss of $7,342 for Universal, making a combined net profit of $2,683 for that year.

Radio Signs Joe Penner

Hollywood, March 4.—Radio has signed Joe Penner to a long term contract. The screen and radio player has made two pictures, both for Paramount; "Collegiate" and "College Rhythm." His first Radio assignment has not yet been set.

"Klondike" Is Pittsburgh's Top, $14,500

PITTSBURGH, March 4.—Despite unfavorable newspaper publicity, with both the Hearst and Block papers blasting it editorially, "Klondike Annie" gave the Penn its best week in some time at $14,500.

At the Stanley, "The Milky Way" and Buddy Rogers' band were good for an excellent $23,000. The only other house to show a profit was the Warner, where "Sylvia Scarlett" and "Her Master's Voice" turned in $5,700.

At the Alvin, "The Music Goes 'Round" was plugged heavily, but couldn't make the grade, collecting only $4,200, while the Casino, with "Mimi" and "Cocktails of 1936" on the stage, slipped to a poor $5,000 after a couple of excellent weeks. The Fulton also went far down with "Here Comes Trouble" and "Dangerous Intrigue," getting only $2,900.

Total first run grosses were $55,300. Average is $51,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 27:

"THE MUSIC GOES 'ROUND" (Col.)
ALVIN—(2,000), 25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $4,200. (Average, $5,500)

Roulien Is Producing

WASHINGTON, March 4. — Raul Roulien, Brazilian star, is financing and directing a feature at Rio de Janeiro, according to a report to the Department of Commerce from Trade Commissioner J. Winsor Ives there. Spanish and Portuguese versions are being made. Later Roulian will make another, starring his wife, Conchita Montenegro, and featuring Hollywood players. The original will have English dialogue.

WPA Play in Hartford

HARTFORD, March 4.—WPA drama has started here with a production of "Barbara Frietchie" by a cast of 50, at the 4,000-seat State. Plans are to sell about 1,400 seats at every performance. The sale of more than that might leave some patrons too far from the stage to see perfectly, it was said.

Hanson to Take House

TORONTO, March 4.—George J. Tustin, member of the Canadian Parliament, and owner of the Wonderland at Napanee, Ont., has closed a deal whereby Hanson Theatres, Ltd., will take over the house, adding one more to the Ontario circuit operated by R. O. Hanson.

Dafoe at Opening

Toronto, March 4.—For the Canadian premiere of "The Country Doctor" at the Uptown tomorrow, the guest of honor will be Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe who brought the famous Dionne Quints into the world. Only one performance is being given on the evening of that day; the price of admission is $1.00 and every cent of the ticket sale will be turned over to the Toronto Star Fresh Air Fund for needy families.

Chaplin, $9,000 2d Montreal Week

MONTREAL, March 4. — "Modern Times" played to $9,000 for its second week at the Princess and was held over for a third week. The take for the first week was $12,500.

Loew's had a nice combination program headed by "In Person" that brought $11,000, above par, but the Palace was down to $10,000 on "The Ghost Goes West." Feature No. 1 at the Capitol, "Ah, Wilderness," was responsible for $9,500, equal to average.

Most of the competition for theatres were the pre-Lent dances and festivities, while professional hockey games also took their toll.

Total first run business was $43,000. Average is $41,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 29:

"AH, WILDERNESS" (M-G-M)
"LAST OF THE PAGANS" (M-G-M)

Criterion Sets Second

"Accused" will be the second Criterion picture for United Artists, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. said yesterday. He will not be in it, but production will start in London on March 25. Thornton Freeland will direct. Zoe Akins is now doing the script.

"Alcatraz" to Burroughs

HOLLYWOOD, March 4.—Burroughs-Tarzan have acquired the rights to "Alcatraz," by J. J. Gilbert, and will shortly produce it as one of four specials with the script first to be approved by Attorney General Cummings.

"Ghost" Gets $14,800 Take In Washington

WASHINGTON, March 4. — "The Ghost Goes West" sent the RKO Keith gross to $14,800, over the average by $4,200. The run was extended.

While the Earle upped an $18,400 par to $22,500 with "Millions in the Air," it is generally conceded that Wayne King and his orchestra on the stage was the greater attraction.

"Rose Marie," playing a second week at Loew's Palace, topped the first-week average by $1,600 for a take of $17,500. At Loew's Columbia a return engagement of "Strike Me Pink" took $4,800, or $1,200 over the first run average. "King of the Damned," the first G. B. going to Warners under a new agreement, grossed $5,600 at the Metropolitan, $1,300 over average.

On its first anniversary program, "Loyalties" at the Belasco Theatre, playing but five days, slipped to $1,900, where the full week's average is $3,000. "The Milky Way" and a stage show at Loew's Fox did but $18,000, dropping $2,900 under par.

Total first run business was $85,100. Average is $76,700.

Estimated takings, exclusive of tax:

Five Days Ending Feb. 26:

"LOYALTIES" (First Div.)
BELASCO—(1,140), 25c-65c, 5 days. Gross: $1,900. (Average, full week, $3,000)

Fox's Appeal Denied; Court Orders Arrest

Fine of $235,032 and Fee Of $10,000 Involved

The U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday dismissed an appeal by William Fox from an order of Federal Judge William Bondy fining Fox $235,032, and $10,000 attorney's fees, for contempt of court.

The order also directed that Fox be taken into custody by a U. S. marshal and held until the fine was paid. Yesterday's dismissal of Fox's appeal makes the former film executive subject to this arrest order whenever he enters New York. Fox is now reported to be in Atlantic City.

Fox was held to be in contempt of court when he failed to answer a subpoena obtained by the Capital Co., owner of the Fox, San Francisco, which sought to question Fox on his alleged inability to satisfy a $235,000 judgment which it held against him. The judgment represented Fox's lia-

Para. to Make New Films in Three Groups

AA, A and B Product Is 1936-'37 Plan

Paramount will classify its 60 to 65 features for the new season as AA, A and B pictures, with production budgets for each classification graded accordingly, it was learned yesterday.

The AA pictures will be specials and will have the advantage of budgeting adapted to their indicated production values, rather than being held within definitely fixed budget limitations. The A pictures will be in an advanced budget classification, probably running as high as $1,000,000 or more. The B schedule, which may consist of 26 features, is expected to include everything up to approximately $300,000.

With William LeBaron in charge of production, the company, in addition, will have at least 12 associate producers. Winfield Sheehan, who will have charge of 10 pictures, four of which he will produce himself, will make both A and B product. Present plans are that the four will be A pictures and the six which he will supervise will be B pictures. Associate producers on the remaining A pictures will be Ernst Lubitsch, Frank Lloyd,

M-G-M to Clean Up This Season's List

In keeping with its plan to clean up current year committments with the expiration of the 1935-36 season, M-G-M expects to release 30 features between Feb. 6 and Aug. 31, its sales force has been advised.

From July 1 of last year to Feb. 6 of this, the total ran to 27. Of this number, 20 were '36-'37 releases and seven carryovers from '34-'35. The final group of 30 is designed to include 28 announced for '35-'36 and two carryovers from last season.

Mae West Paramount Contract Is Ended

HOLLYWOOD, March 5.—Mae West's Paramount contract has terminated, and her last picture for this company will not be made. The studio voided the contract by failing to use the actress within the time limit specified.

Miss West is scheduled to start a picture for Emanuel Cohen on April 1.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, March 5.

JOE SCHENCK sits back in his comfortable office on the Twentieth Century-Fox lot in Westwood Hills satisfied with the progress made by the merged companies since their marriage and confident that the stride so early established merely points the way toward things to come. Hollywood, where the thrills bounce one a minute, talks a great deal about the Zanuck-Schenck setup and how the production ingenuity of the former, who, after all, actually turns out the merchandise, has set the wheels humming on that lot. . . .

Friend, counsellor and, of course, business associate, Schenck sits by Zanuck's side, keeps all ten fingers in the pie, and, like the baker who watches his cooking, constantly sees to it that the dough is neither over or under done. He told us Twentieth Century-Fox will maintain its long fixed total of features for 1936-37; that the plan is to make seventy per cent of the output A attractions and the remainder B. . . .

Here, as in other Hollywood directions, no mention was made of the B product and how it fits into the twin bill situation. Executives may deplore the rising tide of double features, but they are not ignoring the call of the market. This explains obviously enough why all studios are so irrevocably committed to the B and even lower divisions. Schenck, however, has another slant on the matter and it has to do with the two divisions into which he breaks down the domestic theatre field. . . .

"I don't know whether or not you realize it," he went on to say, "but there are untold numbers of situations in the United States where a B attraction actually is an A attraction. Why not feed that market?" Why not, indeed? While Schenck, in so many words, did not express the opinion that American exhibition, after all these years, was naturally dividing itself into sharply defined major classifications insofar as types of pictures are concerned, it appeared to us his comment suggested a belief that he saw this as fact. . . .

While story possibilities and talent explain how producers at large arrive at their A and B markings, the approach from the exhibition point of view is one of dollars-and-cents. Make and dub a picture by any alphabetic designation you like. Yet if it goes places, automatically it becomes an A attraction even if Hollywood labels it a B. This, with some slight embroidery, we took to be Schenck's observation and, of course, it is entirely accurate. . . .

On the foreign situation which always has been of keen interest to him since he comprehends the measure of the return from overseas markets, Schenck reflected high optimism. He sees nothing to be gained by production of cheap films in England merely for purposes of complying with the British quota law. Therefore, whatever Twentieth Century-Fox enters upon in London will be made on a scale comparable with the A's turned out in Hollywood. Detailing no detail, he said eight are in view at the moment and four of the total down for immediate production. . . .

He expressed, further, his satisfaction in the studio status here as it bore on the improvement of the company's gross in the United Kingdom. "Before we came in, we played in England principally as the second feature despite the fact that the company owns forty-four per cent of Gaumont British. This was true generally except in the case of the Shirley Temple. However, that has changed in the last six months so that today we are getting bookings as the main feature on British programs," Schenck declared. . . .

On color, which has this provincial town on its ear, what with excitement over "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," hailed by local scriveners as "triumphant" and other conservatisms, Schenck is cautious. "Color should be used only where the subject makes its use logical," is his slant. "We are considering 'Ramona,' for instance, as a case in point." That noiseless mental cheering which Schenck could not have possibly heard came from us, for here was one top-flight executive, at least, who had not lost himself in Technicolor's rainbow. . . .

The consolidation of Twentieth Century with Fox will lose all of its external manifestations with the close of this season. Zanuck was committed to make a round dozen Twentieth Centurys, merger or no merger. That task is practically finished. While it does not mean at all that he will not personally keep tabs on particular pictures to come, it does mean that, with the expiration of that obligation, the blending of the two corporations will have become complete and their unity one. . . .

Injunction Granted R. C. A. and A. T. & T.

WILMINGTON, March 5.—Judge John P. Nields today issued a preliminary injunction in U. S. District Court here on behalf of RCA and A. T. & T. against Collins Radio Corp. on the charge of infringement of two patents of Dr. Lee DeForest dealing with radio transmission and the vacuum tube. Patents involved are No. 1,507,017 and No. 1,507,016.

The Court denied General Electric Co. a preliminary injunction against the Collins organization for infringement of G. E. patents No. 1,297,188 and 1,344,118 dealing with the amplification of variable and small currents.

Collins claims to have sold only 46 receivers of the types under consideration prior to the bringing of the suits, and further maintains that it has no intention of buying or selling them in the future.

Jersey's Governor Talks Before Ampa

Governor Harold Hoffman of New Jersey yesterday proved an entertaining speaker at the Ampa luncheon which was held in conjunction with the Cheese Club. There was a capacity attendance.

The guest of honor proved a wit and recited a number of poems. He touched on the Hauptmann case lightly.

Harry Hershfield acted as master of ceremonies and virtually walked off with the show with his brand of humor. Among the other guests were P. Halperin of London, S. I. Hsuing, author of "Lady Precious Stream,"; George Gershwin, Louis Nizer, Albert Goldman, Donald Flamm, Gabriel Heator, Johnny Johnson, Arthur Tracy, Leon Belasco, Alice Reinhardt, William Ferguson and Gus Edwards.

The session was broadcast over WMCA.

Vogel at Phila. Meet

PHILADELPHIA, March 5.—A regular get-together of the Independent Theatre Managers of Philadelphia was put on last night at Palumbo's Restaurant with 150 in attendance. A-Mike Vogel, chairman, Managers' Round Table Club, was among the guests.

Arrangements were handled by Barney Cohen, manager, Admiral Theatre, president; John C. Ehrlich, manager, New Deal, secretary; Abe Resnick, manager, Hamilton, and George Nonamaker. The organization meets weekly at 1313 Vine St.

Just a Holdup!

Beverly Hills, March 5.—Lynn Farnol was busy on detail in connection with the Pickford broadcast Tuesday night in the lobby of the Beverly Hills Hotel. He finished, looked up and saw what he figured to be a hotel clerk, then said:

"Please put this in Box 318."

No results persuaded Farnol to think the chap a trifle on the stupid side. "In 318," he repeated, this time somewhat more sharply. For the first time, he noticed the man carried a gun. "But this is a holdup," the voice on the other side of the revolver declared.

Moved into a corner of the lobby where a frightened group had been huddled, Farnol backed into a Frenchman with a long beard and reading a newspaper. "Beg your pardon. Is this your place I have?" queried the Frenchman. "Oh, no," answered Farnol, "this is a holdup." By this time he had succeeded in throwing his wallet under a convenient chair.

The marauders never saw it.

Campbell to Exploit British Music Here

HOLLYWOOD, March 5.—James Campbell has arrived from England in company with Jeffrey Bernerd, chief of sales for G. B.

Campbell is here to exploit the music of the newest Jessie Matthews film. "It's Love Again." He will spend from 10 to 12 weeks making appearances with bands and on the air.

In the past, Campbell has placed American rights for music published by the Campbell-Connolly Music Co. in London with various firms on this side, but he will decide on this trip about establishing an American branch in New York.

AN "A"-HOUSE SUCCESS AT N. Y. STRAND

Para. to Make New Films in Three Groups

Arthur Hornblow, Lew Gensler, Al Lewis, Benjamin Glazer and Lloyd Sheldon. The production assignments for AA pictures will go to members of this group.

Associate producers on the B pictures will include Henry Henigson, Harold Hurley and A. M. Botsford. Cecil B. DeMille will make both A and B pictures, producing some himself and supervising others.

The pictures to be made here will be B product. These will come from Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur, with an additional one or two from sources not yet set.

All of the company's pictures scheduled for release during the third quarter of the current season, from February to May, have been completed and are either ready for release or in the process of final editing, according to a studio report yesterday to John E. Otterson, president. In addition, nine productions tentatively scheduled for May release are now before the cameras, 10 scripts are nearing completion for June and July releases, which complete the current season schedule, and 31 scripts are now in work in preparation for the 1936-'37 season, the report stated. Six of the latter scripts have been approved and will go into production in April.

"During the second quarter of the current season," the report stated, "the studio has established the unusual record of completing 11 pictures on schedule and within budget figures. All 11 productions were made at a substantial reduction in negative costs in comparison with previous pictures."

Paramount Board Meets

An adjourned meeting of the Paramount board was held yesterday to transact unfinished business carried over from the regular monthly meeting held Feb. 29, an official of the company stated yesterday.

The Winfield Sheehan and Frank Lloyd producing contracts, reported to be included in the unfinished business, were not passed upon at the meeting, it was stated. It is understood that details of the Sheehan contract are still in work.

Tops among assistant directors were Clem Beauchamp and Paul Wing for their work on Paramount's "Lives of a Bengal Lancer." The film editing ace was Ralph Dawson for "A Midsummer Night's Dream," and dance direction honors went to Dave Gould for M-G-M's "Broadway Melody" and "Folies Bergere," Twentieth Century-United Artists film.

The technical awards went in this fashion: sound recording—William Steinkamp, sound supervisor of "Naughty Marietta," M-G-M, on which Douglas Shearer was sound engineer; art direction—Richard Day of Goldwyn Prod., for "Dark Angel"; cinematography—Hal Mohr, on "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Best production runner-up was "The Informer," with Warners' "Captain Blood" third. In the actor division, Paul Muni, on a write-in vote, took second place for Warners' "Black Fury," and Charles Laughton third for "Mutiny on the Bounty." Among the actresses, Katharine Hepburn was runner-up for Radio's "Alice Adams" and Elisabeth Bergner third for her work in B. & D.'s "Escape Me Never." Behind Ford among the directors came Michael Curtiz, via a write-in, for "Captain Blood" and Henry Hathaway for "Lives of a Bengal Lancer," third.

Four awards went to Radio, all for "The Informer," and four to Warners.

D. W. Griffith, in Hollywood for the first time in 10 years, and accompanied by his wife, presented the awards in the actor, actress and director divisions.

Cohan Ends Battle On the Duffy Bill

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Opponents of the Duffy Copyright Bill today concluded their testimony before the House Patents Committee with the appearance of George M. Cohan, who declared he had "no particular statement to make" and had come to Washington because he resented being called a "racketeer."

Cohan and members of the committee engaged in reminiscences of old stage days and wandered so far afield that Representative O'Malley of Wisconsin expressed bewilderment about whether Cohan or the committeemen were testifying.

E. C. Mills, general manager of Ascap, completed his testimony on the bill which he had begun yesterday, with a plea for retention of the $250 infringement penalty and an attack on exhibitors, broadcasters and others who were trying to secure its elimination.

The committee will meet next Tuesday, when proponents of the legislation begin their presentation. Senator Duffy of Wisconsin, author of the bill passed last year by the Senate, is expected to be the first witness.

Waterbury Ban Hits All Cash Giveaways

WATERBURY, March 5.—A city-wide ban on cash giveaways will prevent five theatres and several organizations from awarding prizes accumulated under various systems in operation here. Affected are Warners' State and Strand, and Michael Sirica's Capitol, all operating Bank Night; Loew's Poli, which features Screeno; Steve Panora's Garden, running Auction Nite, and several organizations which have popularized Beano and Bingo games.

The ban followed a conference between City Prosecutor Mitchell G. Myers, Police Superintendent Joseph H. McLean and theatre managers, during which it was declared that cash giveaways would be prosecuted. Premiums and other merchandise giveaways are not affected.

Para. May Not Pick Lazarus Successor

HOLLYWOOD, March 5.—There is a strong possibility that Jeff Lazarus, head of the story department, will not be replaced at Paramount after his resignation, effective April 1.

If such is the case, each producer will be made responsible for selection of his own story material. Irene Francis will continue as head of the reading department, according to rumor, and will send suitable material to the producers directly instead of routing it through the story department.

No Big New Spots Abroad—Schaefer

Not one outstanding theatre has been built in the last year in any of the countries for which he supervises sales for Paramount, Gus Schaefer, general manager in Germany and Central Europe, stated yesterday upon his arrival on the Washington for a three- to four-week vacation.

"There has been very little building and the new theatres that have been constructed are the smaller type houses," he said. "Business is better than last year," Schaefer added, "and Paramount is releasing 14 or 15 features in Germany, 30 to 35 in Holland and Roumania, 20 in Austria and Hungary, 35 in Jugoslavia and 30 in Poland." Paris, Spain and England are not included in Schaefer's territory. Of the lists for Germany and Austria, 12 are "dubbed," he said.

Purnell Pratt, who will appear in seven pictures for Republic, arrived on the same boat and said he had turned down offers from G.B., B.I.P. and Capitol to make about six features in England, because of the excessive income tax in that country.

Jack Waller has offered Pratt a role in "January 16," which is to be produced on the stage in London. Unless he heard from Waller by cable within 24 hours, he would not consider the part, Pratt stated.

Raymond Milland, Paramount contract player, also was a passenger. He said he was abroad on a two and a half week vacation and although he had several offers in England, Paramount would not permit him to accept any of them. He leaves tomorrow for Hollywood and may be cast in "The Old Maid."

Mrs. Wallace Beery also returned after a vacation abroad.

"Klondike" Leads Buffalo, $12,760

BUFFALO, March 5.—"Klondike Annie" and the first faint signs of spring swept into this town together. In its first week at the Great Lakes, the picture drew $12,760, topping par by $5,460 and giving the house its best gross in a month.

At the Lafayette, a dual, "Crime and Punishment" and "You May Be Next," drew $9,600, over average by $3,600.

Walter Hampden's "Cyrano de Bergerac" had moderate houses for three performances Tuesday and Wednesday.

Total first run business was $46,100. Average is $42,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 29:

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

(Twentieth Century-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, March 5.—There is considerable opportunity for lively exploitation in this latest of the Chan mystery pictures, as is obvious from the title. With all the excitement and color that is provided by the circus atmosphere as a background, the famed Earl Derr Biggers character, as usual played by Warner Oland, solves the murder with the entertaining assistance of Keye Luke, as his son. The exhibitor has the circus atmosphere as well as the Chan mystery to sell.

Charlie takes his enormous family to the circus, is consulted by the hated co-owner of the show, who has received threatening letters, then runs into trouble when the man is found murdered. It appears that the circus's huge ape has strangled him. Chan moves on with the circus to the next town when his aid is enlisted by the show's remaining owner, and while Luke falls in love with a Chinese performer in the show, Chan pursues his case through a maze of incidents and conflicting clues, the most exciting of which is the near death of an implicated feminine acrobat, when a bullet cuts the rope of her trapeze and she tumbles to the sawdust.

With the aid of a microscope and his own sharp wits, he uncovers enough information to pin the crime in the right place, apprehending the murderer through the ruse of a fictitious operation on the hurt performer in a circus tent.

Harry Lachman drew the most from his material in his direction. Robert Ellis and Helen Logan did the screenplay.

Production Code Seal No. 1,978. Running time, 71 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Murder on the Bridle Path"

(Radio)

Although the major theme of this picture is a murder mystery and its solution, there is a large portion of enjoyable comedy, contributed by James Gleason, as Inspector Piper, and Helen Broderick, who succeeds Edna May Oliver in what is a continuation of the series which included "The Penguin Pool Murder" and "Murder on the Blackboard." Miss Broderick is on all counts a worthy successor to Miss Oliver, and Gleason is as usual highly entertaining.

When a young girl is killed while riding in Central Park, the inspector decides it was an accident, that the girl was kicked by the horse after she had fallen. But when Miss Broderick arrives on the scene, she stirs him into action by pointing to indications which upset the accident idea. Then with a variety of suspects, each with a motive and the opportunity, Gleason goes to work, Miss Broderick at his side. Romantic, dramatic and amusing complications ensue in the investigation, which has been handled in such a fashion as to hold the interest throughout.

A rapid pace is maintained as Gleason uncovers one "certainty" after another, only to have Miss Broderick spoil them in short order. Eventually Miss Broderick discovers the murderer, who had committed a second crime meanwhile, but nearly loses her own life in the effort.

Edward Killy and William Hamilton directed from a screenplay by Dorothy Yost. It is based on a story by Stuart Palmer. Leslie Fenton, Christian Rub and Sheila Terry are in the support.

Production Code Seal, No. 1,999. Running time, 66 minutes. "G."

"Colleen," Saturday morning's opener at the Strand, was reviewed on March 3.

"The Farmer in the Dell," last night's preview at the Palace, was reviewed on Feb. 26.

"Three Live Ghosts," reviewed by wire from Hollywood on Dec. 28, will be previewed at the Rialto tonight.

"Love on a Bet," now current at the Center, was previewed by wire from Hollywood on Feb. 1.

Short Subjects

"Flash Gordon"

(Universal)

From the cartoon strip of the same name comes this serial with all the fantastic creations of the future that were devised in the art of Alex Raymond brought to the screen intact and realistically.

The story, familiar to readers of newspapers, concerns the adventures of Gordon, interpreted by Larry (Buster) Crabbe, who is an exceptional likeness of the character, on a planet that is rushing headlong toward the Earth, and the way he averts the cataclysmic impact. It begins with Crabbe, Jean Rogers, who plays Dale Arden, and Frank Shannon, as Doctor Zarkov, going to the planet in a rocket ship, their arrival and the complications put in the way by the fantastic Emperor Ming, whose omnipotent desires include the domination of the Universe. All the tribulations that beset the characters in the cartoon strip occur in the film—the fantastic beasts, men, science, and super scientific devices.

The first three episodes deliver suitable thrill entertainment to make possible the venture that, with the interest of modern children and adults in super realism and super science this serial should draw them in avidly.

Also in the cast fantastically arrayed, are Priscilla Lawson, John Lipson, Richard Alexander and Richard Tucker in addition to others who give splendid support. The film was masterfully directed by Frederick Stephani. Jerry Ash and Richard Fryer did the fine camera work. The marvels of special effects and properties were handled by Norman Dewes and Elmer A. Johnson. Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 21 mins. for each episode. "G."

"Going Places No. 18"

(Universal)

This short goes into the studios where animated cartoons are made and reveals to the audience the processes in the creation of this type of screen entertainment. In detail there is shown the gradual assembly of material, the execution of the drawings and the dubbing-in of sound effects leading to the final print. As a great audience is waiting to become enlightened on this subject, this should be found interesting by all. Lowell Thomas delivers an informative and interesting narrative. Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Going Places No. 19"

(Universal)

Labeled "Guinea Gold," this number reveals how the problem of drawing gold from the interior of New Guinea was solved by airplane. With an exceptional grade of photography, the effort graphically presents the methods of transporting heavy machinery to the scene of work and the processes used in extracting the ore finally to be made into bricks and flown to the mainland. It is an interesting sort of travelogue that should be found entertaining. Production Code Seal. No. 0859. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

Gentlemen:

Find enclosed 3/ao for which please enter me for a years subscription to the Motion Picture Herald beginning with the Better Theatres issue for February.

I have been out of the show business for two years and recently purchased this theatre. Formerly the Herald was my "bible" and guide, but when I got this home, I also "inherited" two trade publications, which I thought at first would suffice. However, I am entirely lost without them. They are practically of no value to me, so I'm sending this S.O.S. for the good old Herald! I can digest every word printed in it, I am sure.

Yours Sincerely

James B. Russell Jr.

Cagney on Stand In Action on Contract

Los Angeles, March 5.—Testifying in his suit to have his Warner contract cancelled, James Cagney in Superior Court here today declared he had a definite promise from Jack L. Warner that he would not be required to make more than four pictures yearly, and he would not have signed the present contract if such a promise had not been given. He said he agreed to permit Warners to impound $1,250 weekly from his $4,000 weekly salary as a guarantee that he would fulfil his contractual obligations and only learned Warners intended using him for a fifth picture when he asked for a release of the impounded amount after finishing four films last year.

Cagney was unshaken on cross-examination by J. Ray Files, Warner attorney, although he admitted having read the clause in the contract he signed which specifically stated Warners would not be bound by any agreement not mentioned in writing. The plaintiff's case closed with the Cagney testimony. The defense called George Frank, Cagney's agent, who testified the Academy arbitration meeting in 1932 covered nothing save salary and length of contract. He said to the best of his knowledge Warner never made a commitment about the number of pictures he would require.

Harry Sokolov, attorney for Myron Selznick, observed the trial today in the interests of Pat O'Brien, Selznick client, who objected to his Warner contract yesterday.

O'Brien Suspended

Hollywood, March 5.—Pat O'Brien has been suspended by Warners following a disagreement with the studio heads over a role in "Stage Struck," a musical, slated to start next Monday.

The understanding is that O'Brien expressed dissatisfaction with the role and the company issued an ultimatum which was accepted, although it is understood O'Brien asked for the usual six-week layoff instead of suspension.

To Open McVickers Bids

Chicago, March 5.—Bids for the leasing of the McVickers will be held in the office of the Board of Education next Tuesday. The board took possession of the theatre on Feb. 5 on an eviction order for failure to pay ground rent.

Current reports are that B. & K. will probably take over the theatre and keep it dark.

Start Magazine Group

Under the supervision of Curtis Mitchell, editorial director of Radio Guide, a new group of magazines is being formed.

Ernest V. Heyn will leave his post as eastern director of Photoplay and Movie Mirror to edit the new publication, the first of which will be a magazine in the film field.

Build Denver Exchange

Denver, March 5.—Paramount is erecting a new two-story exchange building here to cost about $50,000. Advertising, shipping and storage departments will be on the first floor, with offices on the second floor.

"Klondike" on Dual Leads in San Francisco

San Francisco, March 5.—Attacks by both the Hearst papers failed to slow up "Klondike Annie." On a dual bill with "Here Comes Trouble" at the Warfield the Mae West film garnered $18,000, over par by $3,000, and the best business in town.

"Muss 'Em Up" was $1,200 to the good on a take of $15,700 at the Golden Gate. "The Story of Louis Pasteur" and "Woman Trap" pulled $13,000 at the Paramount. "Strike Me Pink," in its second week at the United Artists, grossed a par $9,000.

Total first run business was $76,950. Average is $74,400.

Poli Seeking Tax Cuts

Bridgeport, March 5.—A notice of Superior Court action to seek a reduction of assessments on four parcels of property has been filed by Poli New England Theatres, Inc.

The theatres had filed notice with the Board of Relief last month for reductions in assessment amounting to more than $300,000 on the Palace, Majestic, Lyric and Globe sites and the site of the old Plaza. The Board did not allow the application.

Theatres End Ad Fight

Lincoln, March 5.—The long battle between the Journal and Star, local papers, on the one hand, and the Westland theatres on the other, has ended, with the theatres dropping their advertising in the local shopping guide, and going over to the papers. In return the dailies are giving the theatres' product needed publicity which has been lacking for a long time.

Fire Razes Theatre

Saluda, S. C., March 5.—The Bijou here has been completely destroyed by fire.

"Fleet" Gold Mine in Two Coast Houses

Los Angeles, March 5.—"Follow the Fleet" turned out to be a gold mine in two spots. It was $10,600 over par on a take of $13,800 at the Pantages and $6,000 to the good on a gross of $14,000 at the Hillstreet, a total take of $27,800 in its first week.

"The Story of Louis Pasteur," playing day and date at the Warner Hollywood and Downtown, took $13,000 at the former and $12,200 at the latter.. The first mentioned gross was $1,000 down and the second $200 up.

"Klondike Annie" was in the money on a gross of $21,500 at the Paramount. This was $3,500 to the good.

Total first run business was $95,150. Average is $6,150 without the Filmarte.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 4:

booking bills now before Congress. "The association is on record against present booking methods," he said, "but we believe the objectionable features to wholesale buying can be eliminated without prohibiting it as a whole."

The abolition of block booking would greatly increase picture costs, Kuykendall declared, pointing out that the M.P.T.O.A. is seeking the right to reject 20 per cent of films in block booking. "The association is quite agreeable to hearing the complaints of minorities, but the whole industry is being impeded by Bolsheviks who never will be pleased," he said. "It is very damaging and should not be tolerated any longer. Professional reformers are ever ready to hear these complaints and work them for their own ends," he declared.

Board Reelected

The board reelected its entire slate of officers before opening an informal discussion of ways to combat the block booking measures and support the Duffy Copyright Bill, now pending in Congress.

The following officers were reelected: Kuykendall, president; M. A. Lightman, Memphis; Col. W. S. Butterfield, Michigan; Julian Brylawski, Washington; Ben Berinstein, Los Angeles, and M. E. Comerford, Scranton, all vice-presidents; Ed Levy, general counsel; Morris Lowenstein, secretary; Fred Wehrenberg, board chairman.

Kuykendall ridiculed the methods of Ascap in its attempt to defeat the Duffy Bill at the House sub-committee hearings in Washington. Referring to the testimony of Rudy Vallee, Kuykendall said, "They're trying to croon the bill to death."

Names Receiver in Suit

Cincinnati, March 5.——Common Pleas Judge Dennis J. Ryan has named Irvin L. Roth receiver for Harry Rogers, to hold all property of Rogers' in the name of Berni-Rogers, Inc., which played the RKO Shubert recently with "Spices of 1936." The action was in connection with a suit against Rogers by Milton Schuster of Chicago, for $700 allegedly due. A settlement is expected.

Dubinskys Drop House

Kansas City, March 5.—The Dubinsky brothers have given up their lease on the Regent, downtown 15-cent house which they have operated for more than 15 years, because of high rental and a shift in pedestrian traffic. The Regent Amusement Corp., holders of the lease from the owners of the property, plan to reopen the house shortly.

Society Honors Fishman

New Haven, March 5.—Dr. J. B. Fishman, of the Fishman circuit, retiring president of the Connecticut M.P.T.O., has been elected to membership in Sigma Xi, honorary scientific society. Fishman is a research fellow in the Yale School of Medicine. His admission to the society is on the basis of work in the physiological chemistry department.

Hearing Upon ITOA Appeal Is Postponed

Sale Tax Case Goes Over Until March 20

A hearing on an appeal from the N. Y. Supreme Court's order denying the I.T.O.A. application for an injunction to prevent the city from levying the two per cent sales tax on film rentals, which was scheduled for yesterday in the Appellate Division, was postponed to March 20 at the request of the city.

The application was made by Quinral and Harlou, Inc., operators of Brooklyn theatres, through Weisman, Quinn, Allen & Spett, attorneys for the I.T.O.A. The injunction sought would prevent distributors from collecting the tax from exhibitors, also. A separate action contesting the right of the city to tax film rentals is being pressed by distributors through the local United Artists exchange and is expected to be heard in the Appellate Division late this month.

Generous Cohn

Hollywood, March 6.—Harry Cohn garnered one of the big hands of the evening at the Academy Awards dinner which broke up early this morning. Called upon by Frank Capra, Academy president, to present part of the awards, Cohn said:

"Last year we walked out of here with an armful of statuettes. This year to give other studios a break we decided not to make good pictures, and I think we pretty well succeeded."

A special award for distinguished service was a statuette to David Wark Griffith, who received a great reception, but which caused one wit to remark: "Instead of applauding him, it might be an idea for one of the studios to give him a job."

Treasury Is Against New Ticket Taxes, Is Report

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Treasury officials today were represented as opposed to any extension of the admission tax to lower brackets as suggested yesterday to the tax group of the House Ways and Means Committee.

In a memorandum discussing the various proposals, the Treasury is understood to have opposed this and several other tax changes which had been suggested as being inadequate to meet the need for new revenue.

The sub-committee, however, is considering all the proposals which have been laid before it and it is expected to draft preliminary legislation next week on which to hold hearings.

In a memorandum discussion of possible souces of additional revenue, Collector of Internal Revenue Helvering told the tax group that any reduction in the present 40-cent exemption would fall most heavily on the poorer portion of the population.

It was revealed that the suggestion for a reduction in exemption contemplated the dropping of the figure from 40 to 10 cents, which would provide an estimated yield of $80,000,000. This, with $15,000,000 or more now being collected, would make the theatre's contribution to the tax revenue something over $85,000,000 a year.

"If all tickets costing 11 cents or more were made subject to the present 10 per cent tax on admissions," the memorandum stated, "patrons of neighborhood film houses and the like would be made subject to the tax. There, the increase in Government's revenue would be obtained largely from the lower income groups."

Para. Houses Improve 15% In 2 Months

Paramount Pictures, Inc., showed an increase of 15 per cent in net operations during January and February, according to Y. Frank Freeman, vice-president in charge of theatre operation. It was pointed out that the gain was recorded in spite of unusually severe weather.

With the improvement in weather conditions as spring approaches, and the increase in good product from all companies, Freeman anticipates an even larger increase in theatre business in the next several months.

Warners Start 45 More Music Suits

Warner music companies yesterday filed 45 additional suits for alleged infringement of copyrights, here and in other sections of the country, which asked total damages of $155,400, in addition to accountings of profits in some instances. The new actions included 10 suits against New York hotels and night clubs, marking the first time that the Warner companies have brought actions against other than radio stations for the alleged infringements.

The suits were brought by Wattenberg & Wattenberg, attorneys for

No Erpi Cuts Here Now, Says Official

No concessions in Erpi service charges to exhibitors here, such as those recently placed in effect in England, are in prospect at this time, an official of the company stated yesterday.

Western Electric of England recently eliminated, with few exceptions, the entire replacement and repair charges heretofore made to exhibitors in that country. The exceptions noted are the following, which, when they have passed their guarantee period, will be charged for at the prices established from time to time:

Standard Will Use Own Funds On "U" Option

More Money Is Reported Needed for Deal

Increased prospects of Standard Capital Co. exercising its option to acquire a controlling interest in Universal were reported yesterday following a meeting of Standard's board at which, it was reported reliably, authorization was voted for the use of additional funds of the company for this purpose. It was learned, however, that despite the new participation, the requisite financing has not yet been completed.

Prospects of the option being exercised have not been bright for the past few days, but the new financial development increases its likelihood again. The present status of the option suggests action one way or the other early next week. The option has one more week to run. To exercise it requires the deposit of $1,500,000 in cash as formal notice to a decision, and the deposit of $4,000,000 in Class A securities, bearing six per cent interest, within 20 days thereafter. Additional cash of upwards of $500,000

MIAMI, March 6.—Warner Bros. have indicated that they they are willing to negotiate a compromise with film theatre owners over music rights, Ed Kuykendall, president of M. P. T. O. A., said here tonight at a session of the association's executive board.

"I feel sure that we can settle the matter, and that Warners are anxious to come to terms," Kuykendall said, and added, "we should reach an agreement soon without much difficulty."

Gain in Loew's Net Foreseen by Journal

Loew's, Inc., is expected to better last year's net of $4.49 a share by approximately $1, bringing the net for the current fiscal year, ending Aug. 31, to about $5.50 per share on the basis of present conditions, according to an estimate by the Wall Street Journal.

The company entered the current fiscal year, starting Sept. 1, 1935, with the most expensive film inventory in its history, $29,482,479 against $24,001,631 in 1934 and $22,000,000 in 1929. Domestic gross income is said to be running better than 20 per cent ahead of a year ago and foreign income is picking up sharply.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, March 6

TALES from the Hollywood hills:

Karl Spitz runs the Hollywood Dog Training School from which most of the studios hire their canine performers. It's getting so, what with temperament and such, that Spitz now asks each studio to strike off an extra script to give the chosen dog actor a chance to study the part. Spitz also employs an agent who operates exactly like others of his ilk and makes the rounds touting the praises of collies, bulldogs, wire hairs, et al, in his client's kennels. Any minute now word is expected that one of Spitz's dogs has turned down a job because it doesn't like the part. . . .

Already told, but too amusing to pass up is the story of the commissary now building on the Metro lot. The engineer handling the steam shovel recently found himself on the beautiful "Romeo and Juliet" set where George Cukor is finishing the picture. Cukor has no liking for galleries while he works. The engineer had to leave. Shortly thereafter, the director found himself near the construction job and proceeded to watch. Then the engineer objected. . . .

The head of one of the major factories walked into a restaurant the other evening, following a preview. Four satellites trailed along. Into his pockets, his fingers rummaging hither and thither, went the producer. Four matches struck into flame in as perfect a synchronization job as the colony has turned out. Instead of a cigar, however, the Big One had merely pulled out a handkerchief. . . .

Joe Shea, who once worked for Dave Selznick and so ought to know, says Dave's plans to produce "The Garden of Allah" have had one immediate repercussion. Rentals at the well known Hollywood apartment house of the same name have jumped ten per cent. . . .

An unconfirmed report, which defies nailing, insists that Joe Schmitzer, former president of FBO and Jefferson Prod., and now head of the Western Costume Co., is responsible for the persistent cycle of costume pictures. . . .

John Ford, ace director, walked in on a producer with Harry Wurtzel, trailing.

"I see you've brought your agent along," observed the producer.

"Oh, no," replied Ford, "he's merely my interpreter." . . .

The suggestion has been made that one way to stop the Hearst editorial attack on Mae West would be for Mae to announce as her next picture "The Life of Marion Davies." . . .

Georgie Burns remarks of Hollywood:

"This is the one place where Gracie can't embarrass me." . . .

Note for sweet accuracy's sake: Charlie Chaplin, slight research reveals, actually sang the jabberwocky in the cafe sequence of "Modern Times." This department did not openly declare he had not in its review, written after the opening in New York some weeks back, but it was cautious enough to cast a doubt. . . .

Scientific Awards Triple Last Year's

HOLLYWOOD, March 6.—Scientific awards this year almost tripled last year's, establishing 1935 as noteworthy from the standpoint of technical development, Major Nathan Levinson declared at last night's Academy Awards banquet.

The scientific awards included: the certificate of merit in Class Two to Agfa-Ansco for infra red film and to Eastman Kodak for the Pola-screen. Six awards in Class Three (honorable mention) were to: M-G-M for anti-directional negative and positive development by means of jet turbulation and application; William A. Mueller, Warners, for dubbing method by which the level of dialogue automatically controls the level of accompanying music and sound effects; Mole Richardson Co., for development of solar spot lamps; Douglas Shearer and M-G-M sound department, for automatic control system for cameras and sound recording machines and auxiliary stage equipment; Erpi, for development of equipment to analyze and measure flutter from the travel of film through machines used in recording and reproducing sound; Paramount, for construction of transparency air turbine developing machine; Nathan Levinson for method of intercutting variable density and variable area sound tracks to obtain an increase in effective volume range of sound.

Pullman Co. Makes Sound Picture Test

CHICAGO, March 6.—Extensive tests were made here this week by the Pullman Co. to find out whether or not sound pictures can be shown successfully on trains.

The tests were made on an 18-mile strip of track near here and every sort of condition that exists in railroading was used to try out the plan. Stopping, starting, whistle blowing and screeching brakes were common occurrences as the trials were made. Feature pictures were shown to the railroad executives present in a standard club car. The results of the tests proved, it is said, that talkies can be shown advantageously to railroad passengers.

Sidney Cohen handled the demonstration, which used RCA Photophone equipment. It is reported that a company is being formed in Hollywood to handle this phase of the business exclusively. Just what arrangements for pictures will be made, will be announced in the near future.

The showing of the pictures is scheduled to start sometime this summer.

Tampa Gets Insurance

TAMPA, March 6.—Bank Night insurance which has appeared in various parts of the country has hit here. A plan to be launched soon proposes a premium of five cents per hundred dollars to patrons wishing protection in the event of winning while absent.

Warners to Meet Soon

With Harry M. Warner due from the coast tomorrow and Albert Warner slated to arrive from Miami on Monday, the postponed Warner board meeting will most likely be held Tuesday. Routine matters are to be discussed, according to a company official.

Bank Night Is Again Upheld In Court Here

Magistrate's Court, which referred it to Special Sessions.

After questioning Dodge, who admitted no additional charge was asked in order to participate in the game, the judges yesterday told the assistant district attorney not to make any further arrests since Bank Night does not involve a lottery.

Affiliated Enterprises of Denver and owners of Bank Night had John Keating come all the way from Colorado to attend the trial. Harris was represented by Hyman Chasler.

Harris has pending in the Bronx Special Sessions a similar complaint against the Bronx Opera House. This case has been postponed several times because of an appeal pending in the Appellate Division of the Bronx Supreme Court involving the Tremont. The Tremont is not a Harris house.

Attending yesterday's session were representatives of RKO, Loew's and Consolidated Amusements.

Giveaway Move in New Haven

NEW HAVEN, March 6.—Complaints received from social organizations in the city have prompted City Attorney M. Edward Klebanoff to call a conference for next week with Chief of Police Phillip T. Smith on Beano, Bingo, Bank Night, Cash Night and other similar games now in operation at theatres and clubrooms.

Legality of the various systems under the state lottery law will be considered. Ten theatres are now using the games.

The New Haven move follows by two days an order from Chief of Police McLean and City Prosecutor Toms banning cash games in Waterbury, and a similar order a fortnight ago in Bridgeport.

Adolph G. Johnson, Connecticut representative of Bank Night, reported today that, as a result of conferences with Mayor Frank Hayes of Waterbury, during which were discussed recent Supreme Court decisions in various states as to the legality of Bank Night, the Mayor had promised the resumption of this game within the next few days. No change has been reported in the Bridgeport situation and it is expected that the first test case will be brought in that city.

Films Much Cleaner, Mrs. Looram Reports

Productions of high character are rapidly driving salacious films from the screen, in the opinion of Mrs. James F. Looram, chairman of the M. P. Bureau of the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae, and director of the work of 100 women who preview films for the Legion of Decency.

Mrs. Looram said, "The Legion of Decency has played an outstanding role in cleaning up the films. Occasionally a salacious treatment of a situation is observable, but this is the exception rather than the general rule."

Records Fall Before Onslaught of Quins

cracked records wide open in several spots. Coast reports indicate that the picture, playing day and date at Grauman's Chinese and Loew's State in Los Angeles, grossed $5,058.45 at both, breaking the record for the two houses established only a few weeks ago on the opening day of "Modern Times," which accumulated $4,775.

Other box-office highs were set at the United Artists, Long Beach, Cal.; Keith, Portland, Me.; Palace, Bridgeport; Fifth Avenue, Seattle, and New, Baltimore. At Toronto, in the infantile stars' native Ontario, Government officials turned out for the charity premiere at the Uptown, and Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, the babies' physician, addressed the audience. The Keith in Portland opened its balcony for a matinee for the first time in months.

The film opens at the Music Hall here next Thursday.

Warners Are to Enter Broadcasting Field

KANSAS CITY, March 6.—The plans of Warner Bros. to create a third broadcasting system on a national scale are well under way, H. M. Warner said here today. Details, according to Warner, are being worked out in New York. A third system, he said, is needed because the two present systems haven't a sufficient number of really good stations to fully supply the demand for the best type of entertainment. He feels that the added competition will result in an improvement of all programs.

"Entertainment is our business," said Warner, "it is only natural that we should enter broadcasting."

for immediate working capital requirements is also said to be needed.

Specifications in connection with the deposit of $4,000,000 of securities suggest the use of Liberty bonds or some similar security bearing a high rate of interest.

Standard, according to unofficial reports, is less than $1,000,000 away from its financial requirement at this time.

Continue Union Case

LOS ANGELES, March 6.—Judge Hartley Shaw of the appellate division of Superior Court yesterday continued until next Thursday the hearing of I. A. T. S. E. Local 150 against the Robb & Rowley circuit in Pasadena in their newspaper picket campaign dispute. The week's continuance was granted on request of the circuit's attorneys, who asked additional time to prepare arguments on the I. A. T. S. E. appeal.

Open New Canada House

TORONTO, March 6.—The rich mining country of Northern Ontario has another new theatre with the opening of the Palace, seating 1,100, at Timmins in the heart of the gold belt. The house is operated by Timmins Theatres, Ltd., of which Leo Mascioli, pioneer showman, is president.

Seeks Exit Film

Albany, March 6.—Under the provisions of a bill introduced in the Senate by Joseph D. Nunan, Jr., and referred to the Education Committee, the Censor law is amended by providing that each film theatre shall flash on the screen at the beginning of each performance a sign stating where fire exits are located, the content of the sign to be determined by the director of the censor board.

SEC Sets a Hearing Upon B. & K. Issue

WASHINGTON, March 6.—The Securities and Exchange Commission today set March 20 as the date for a hearing to be held on the application of Balaban & Katz Corp. to withdraw 26,126 shares of seven per cent cumulative preferred stock from listing and registration on the Chicago Stock Exchange.

It was explained that the withdrawal is sought because half of the stock has been called for redemption on May 1, and that the company intends to redeem the remainder on or before May 1, 1939. Holders of the stock, following the redemption this year, will number less than 300.

Because trading in the stock has been negligible, the exchange agrees with the company that, with half the outstanding shares redeemed, maintenance of the listing will not be justified.

United Detroit Gets Lease on University

DETROIT, March 6.—United Detroit Theatres will operate the new University, now under construction at McNichols Road and Livernois. Grover C. Wolf, attorney, representing Detroit Consolidated Theatres, a Sam Brown circuit subsidiary, and George W. Trendle, president of United Detroit, say the circuit has signed a 15-year lease on the house.

The theatre, which will seat 1,800 and will be among the important key spots in the city, will be completed early in May.

FWC Takes Over Two

LOS ANGELES, March 6.—Fox West Coast has purchased the Compton in Compton, from Feigenbaum & Rifkind. The house had most of the major product tied up in the territory. West Coast has also taken over operation of the Long Beach in Long Beach.

T. J. Bragg on Tour

TORONTO, March 6.—T. J. Bragg, secretary-treasurer of Famous Players Canadian Corp., is on a tour of inspection of the Canadian west, visiting theatres of the circuit as far as the Pacific Coast.

To Open at Woodcliff

Avra Amusement Corp. will open the new Broadway, Woodcliff, N. J., on March 13. Carl Steinmetz is manager and David Koch will handle the publicity.

Mass Picketing to Be Resumed by 306

Indicating a widening of the breach between Local 306, Allied and Empire unions, a mass picketing campaign by Local 306 is scheduled to get under way today at 147 independent theatres, it was reliably reported yesterday.

Efforts to merge the three unions during the past few months have met with little progress, it was stated. Allied has had a number of suits in the courts involving Local 306, while some of the theatre men holding contracts with Empire have instigated legal actions to forestall any amalgamation of operators' unions.

The I. T. O. A. is said to have sent out a call to all unaffiliated exhibitors to meet at the Astor Tuesday to discuss the reputed picketing move by Local 306. After a hectic cross picketing stanza some months ago, which resulted in more than 100 Local 306 men being haled into court for various reasons, a truce was declared.

Allied recently has been in the courts with actions tending to prove the validity of a 10-year pact the organization signed with the I. T. O. A. and which the union said included all members of the exhibitor group. Local 306 in some instances has supported defendant theatre men with whom it had contracts.

Germans Censor 201 In '35; U. S. Drops

WASHINGTON, March 6.—German censors passed 201 films during 1935, according to a report to the U. S. Department of Commerce from Acting Commercial Attache Douglas Miller in Berlin.

Of the films passed, Germany accounted for 94, the United States, 50; Austria, 17; France, 15, and eight other countries for the balance. England furnished only six pictures.

Of all films run in Germany in 1935, 46.8 per cent were of German origin, 24.8 per cent of American, and 28.4 per cent "other foreign" sources.

According to the report, the German censors rejected seven American pictures, four German, and four "other foreign" pictures, a total of 15.

In Berlin, there were 171 first runs, as compared with 211 the year before. There were 93 of German origin, 35 of American origin, and 43 "other foreign" origin, as compared with 126, 47, and 35, respectively, in 1934.

Both German and American films declined, while "other foreign" films showed a remarkable increase.

Sabath Asks Change In Bankruptcy Laws

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Federal bankruptcy statutes should be tightened because 5,000,000 small investors lost life savings totaling $20,000,000,000 through fraudulent manipulation of realty securities, Representative Adolph J. Sabath told a House Judiciary sub-committee here today.

Sabath, chairman of the House committee investigating real estate bondholders' reorganization, urged approval of his bill to prevent the alleged abuses of bondholders' protective committees. It would amend the Federal bankruptcy law to provide for a Federal conservator to pass on reorganization plans to protect investors.

all valves used in Western Electric equipment; photo electric cells, exciting lamps, tungar bulbs and batteries. The concessions are effective as of Jan. 1, 1936, although they were announced only recently during the London visit of Whitford Drake, Erpi vice-president.

Western Electric, likewise, inaugurated rate concessions at the first of the year in Australia and New Zealand.

An Erpi official, questioned yesterday, said that while no new concessions on domestic charges are in view at this time, "substantial" reductions on service charges have been made here from time to time in the past. He added that the charges are based on the cost of doing business in each nation or territory and reductions in charges are guided by the same factors.

"Reductions are made wherever and whenever operating costs permit," he said.

ami Biltmore Hotel with the announcement that a committee would be appointed to talk with producers regarding block booking and the legislative fight on the method which is now in progress in Congress. Neither the association nor the producers desire passage of the legislative measure which would make block booking illegal in the industry. Since such legislation has been introduced, the exhibitors apparently feel that they can reach a satisfactory agreement with the producers in return for assistance in fighting the bill.

Theatre owners have long objected to the small percentage—usually around 10 per cent—allowed them by producers under the present blind buying methods. They have indicated that a 20 percent rejection quota would be more satisfactory.

Witnesses Describe Cagney Negotiations

Los Angeles, March 6.—Henry Herzbrun, Joseph Arthur Ball, Joseph I. Schnitzer and Herbert Freston all testified before Judge Charles Bogue in Superior Court here today that no mention of a specific number of pictures was made at the Academy meeting in 1932 which preceded the drawing of the present contract between Warners and James Cagney. The testimony was given in a suit by Cagney to have the contract set aside. The witnesses stated that matters of salary and length of employment were discussed.

Freston further testified that Cagney stated that his only difference with the studio was the "question of dough."

The defense will probably close the case Monday and a decision from Judge Bogue is expected Tuesday.

Two Canadian Bills Set on Music Group

Ottawa, March 6.—Two bills will come before the Canadian House of Commons at the present session to restrict or amend the operations of the Canadian Performing Rights Society, and some relief is expected for theatres from the proposed fee of 20 cents per seat per annum which the society has been required to hold in abeyance pending the outcome of legislation. The society has been collecting 10 cents per seat for several years.

Fernand Rinfred, Secretary of State, will shortly introduce a measure dealing with the copyright and performing rights situation while a private member bill has been submitted by William Esling, member for Kootenay West. No intimation has been given regarding the details of the proposed bills.

Pressburger Signed By U. A. for Product

London, March 6.—Murray Goldstone, United Artists' managing director in England, has closed a deal with Arnold Pressburger, head of British Cine-Alliance, Ltd., whereby Pressburger will make two pictures annually for U. A. distribution at the Alexander Korda studios here.

Pressburger has been a producer in Europe for a number of years, making films in Vienna, Paris, Rome and Berlin.

Coliseum Mortgage Payment Is Ordered

Judge Robert A. Inch, in Brooklyn Federal Court yesterday ordered Charles Kelby and Clifford Kelsey, trustees of Prudence Bonds Corp., to pay off the mortgage on the Coliseum, Broadway and 183rd St.

Payment will be made to the Central Hanover Bank & Trust Co., trustees under the indenture. The sum is $512,500. The motion was unopposed and was presented on behalf of the trustees by George Wildermuth.

Archainbaud Is Signed

George Archainbaud, veteran director, has signed a long-term Paramount contract. He will leave for the coast in a few days.

"Secretary" Pulls $47,500 at Capitol

"Wife versus Secretary" at the Capitol in its first week garnered $47,500. The building service strike cut into the take in this house as well as all other Broadway spots. Business at the Palace was fair with "Lady Consents" and "The Story of Louis Pasteur," getting around $9,000 for the stanza. The fourth week of "Modern Times" ended with approximately $25,000. The comedy goes off March 17 when it will be replaced by "These Three." The Rialto with "The Garden Murder Case" got slightly less than $8,000. "Walking Dead" at the Strand tallied close to $19,000.

Paramount is anticipating a rush business at the Paramount Wednesday when "Klondike Annie" supplants "Trail of the Lonesome Pine." The doors will be opened at 8:30 A. M. A double preview on Tuesday also is planned with Bob Weitman booking the Mae West film in for a 6 P. M. showing in addition to the regular midnight showing of coming features.

Younger Producers Battle Dramatists

A group of self-styled "younger managers" have begun a boycott move against the production of reading of plays by members of the Dramatists' Guild by way of asserting their impatience with the new minimum basic agreement adopted as of March 1 by the guild, which reduces the manager's participation in the sale of film rights to stage plays in favor of the author. The League of N. Y. Theatres said that while it had not authorized the move, many of its members were in favor of it. Virtually every recognized American playwright is a member of the Dramatists' Guild.

Spokesmen for the guild said yesterday that there was little likelihood of the provisions of the new agreement being changed as a result of the managers' protests.

Loew Houses In Bronx End Chance Games

Suspend Until Pending Cases Are Decided

Beginning today, all Loew theatres in the Bronx will discontinue Screeno and Bank Night, it was learned Saturday. About a dozen houses are affected.

The move, according to Loew executives, has been made at the request of city authorities who asked the circuit to cooperate until several cases pending in Special Sessions, Bronx, involving games, are completed, determining the legality of the giveaways.

Complaints by Assistant District Attorney Foley against the Grand and Elsmere are scheduled for hearing in Bronx Special Sessions on

Conference Called On Labor Problems

Problems relating to the local labor situation are scheduled to be discussed by major and independent circuit heads tomorrow at a special meeting at the Astor.

Harry Brandt, president of the I.T.O.A., has sent telegrams to all circuits asking that representatives be on hand for the session. Brandt did not disclose the purpose of the round-robin in the wires, but from other sources it was learned that this would be the topic to be aired.

Some exhibitors feel that the general building strike currently involving service employes may be extended to theatres. Precautionary measures

No Television Rights In Disney-RKO Deal

HOLLYWOOD, March 8.—Roy Disney told MOTION PICTURE DAILY yesterday that the new Disney-RKO releasing contract carries no television rights.

Disney said, "We are interested only in having our product shown in theatres. Any plans for television must necessarily be in the future, and we will consider the matter when and if it arises. The dispute on the subject was one of the reasons that we broke with United Artists, but we are meanwhile concerned entirely with theatre exhibition."

English See Agreement in Booking Row

KRS Delay After Suits End Pointed Out

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, Feb. 29.—Postponement of consideration by the Kinematograph Renters' Society of the situation arising from the abandonment of Gaumont British actions for conspiracy against the society is believed by insiders here to indicate a get-together of the parties.

After the K. R. S. had refused to deal with Gaumont for the H. & G. theatres, alleging a booking combine, Twentieth Century-Fox resigned from the society.

Pressure from Twentieth Century-Fox, coupled with the anxiety of the K. R. S. not to lose the membership of that concern, are factors which many think likely to result in a compromise between the K. R. S. and G. B., based on recognition of the Omaha Bishop Puts Ban on "Klondike"

OMAHA, March 8.—"Klondike Annie" was sharply attacked yesterday in a letter from Bishop Hugh Ryan of the Omaha Catholic diocese to the Legion of Decency. Catholics were forbidden to see the picture.

The picture opened yesterday at the Omaha. E. R. Cummings, district manager for Tri-States, refused to comment.

Avoca, Ia., March 8.—A. H. Lehman, manager of the Harris, is one exhibitor who made a terrific cleaning during the recent cold spell. As a matter of fact, he couldn't handle all the business that came his way. He's in the coal business besides being an exhibitor.

Reopen Many Spots in the K. C. Section

KANSAS CITY, March 8.—Theatre renovation and reopenings continue unabated in the Midwest area. J. A. Townsley will reopen the Ritz at Little River, Kan., shortly, following extensive improvements. The Majestic, A. H. Blank house at Fairbury, Neb., is being renovated at a cost of $6,000, including new sound equipment. Blank also has installed new sound in his house at Clinton, Ia.

Tuggle & Harwick will open the new Plaza at Neowho, Mo., within a few weeks. Harry Newton has taken over the Turon, Turon, Kan., from Lawrence Ely. The Regent Amusement Co. will reopen the Regent, downtown subsequent here, in about a week. The Dubinsky Brothers recently dropped their lease on the house. W. G. McKinney has opened his new 400-seat house at Topeka, Kansas. The Orpheum in Des Moines has set plans for improvements to cost

Can't Stop Applause

Kansas City, March 8.—Theatre managers disturbed by "clap-o-maniacs" should go easy with the broom handle in quieting them.

Judge Thomas V. Holland of the North Side Municipal Court March 6 ruled that film patrons can applaud when they please.

The manager of the Aladdin, G. L. Johnson, told the judge Lewis Lesnick, a young patron, disturbed other patrons when he clapped and loudly rattled ice cubes in a container while no one else was applauding. He asked Lesnick to stop. Lesnick refused, and Johnson said he had to strike him with a blackjack when Lesnick approached him threateningly. Lesnick contended he merely had been applauding newsreel pictures of Roosevelt and the American flag.

Judge Holland said other courts had held film patrons have the right to clap when they are enjoying a performance, and that Johnson shouldn't have struck Lesnick. He discharged the case.

Cancellation Concession Is Held Probable

Compromise on MPTOA's 20% Demand Is Seen

An increase of the 10 per cent cancellation privilege next season as urged by M. P. T. O. A. and other exhibitor groups is garnering support in some distributor quarters, it was ascertained on Saturday. As a result, the likelihood of an increase being made by either some or all major distributors is viewed unofficially as highly probable.

The M. P. T. O. A., which has taken the lead during the past few years in demanding a 20 per cent cancellation privilege, reiterated its stand at its annual board meeting held in Miami last week. Distribution executives who were asked on Saturday to state their attitude on an increase in the cancellation privilege displayed for the most part a willingness to bargain on the issue. Even those who were most emphatic in their assertions that additional cancellations were neither warranted nor likely to be granted, evidenced a willingness to "talk over" the subject with exhibitor representatives, should such a confab be requested. Other distribution officials flatly stated that a reasonable increase would work no serious hardship on their companies and conceded that it might prove to be good trade policy.

No support for an outright increase

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Opponents and supporters of block booking, who on Feb. 27 and 28 presented their arguments to the Senate Interstate Commerce sub-committee headed by Senator Neely of West Virginia, tomorrow will appear before a House Interstate and Foreign Commerce sub-committee headed by Representative Pettengill of Indiana to repeat the performance.

Unless the House group follows the example set by the Senate sub-committee and runs its sittings through the afternoon and evening it is expected several days will be required for the hearings.

Inasmuch as both factions laid all their arguments before the senators, it is anticipated the House hearings will develop nothing new and will be

Hollywood, March 8.

THERE is one producer, a big one, who recently refused to visit a summer theatre in the east where a play scout had happened across a vehicle suitable for a contract star. The producer thought he would be embarrassed by being recognized. The play later came into New York under another title, clicked moderately and was purchased by the same producer for $65,000 as against the original $15,000. The hike made no difference, he later added, because the public had stamped the play with its seal of approval. . . .

Exactly how much of a segment of the public saw the property is debatable; it may have played to 50,000 or 60,000 people during its run, or fifty to sixty cents a head premium over the first available price. This is another demonstration of the mystifying point of view with which all producers approach the New York stage and whatever it may have to offer. Like other nonsensicalities which prevail in this business, producers know that many plays striding the boards are kept alive by constant injections of hypo expressly for the purpose of meeting the Authors' League mandate of fixed minimum performances to the end that the film rights immediately thereafter may be sold. . . .

The argument goes that public performance in New York surrounds such material with an aura of something or other that carries weight with the public. This department maintains now, as it has for years, that this frequently is so much bunk in the case of the majority of plays acquired; that the average play means nothing to the huge expanse of the nation which stretches out from the west bank of the Hudson and that the practice, well established over the years to the complete satisfaction of the shoestring stage producer, is costing many thousands more than properly the accumulation of material should.

The custom continues a thriving one and ties in quite definitely with the Hollywood type of competition which, in turn, ties in with the social and caste system. Competition here is made up largely of ambition to acquire not necessarily what a producer may need or can use for the maximum in results, but to prevent another producer from getting it. This is accepted broadly as a coup and smart operation. By infiltration and conversation, it heightens social standing since it creates comment, dubs the principal as clever and makes him attractive to have around at parties. . . .

Because Hollywood is emphatically insular and provincial despite the presence here of men and women in the arts, the social system thoroughly dominates the scene. The twists which the obeisance before it takes, therefore, continue to be varied and amazing. Grabbing a player from Metro, for example, is viewed as great stuff, presumably because it chagrins the puissant Louis B. Mayer. The successful bidder in competition for a play which has excited attention, under the big, bigger, best principle prevailing in Hollywood, is hailed in terms of conquering adulation. . . .

In the creative center of an international entertainment it might be expected that a more definite commercial consciousness would rule. In some cases, this is so; in most, certainly not. Proving the amazing indifference to reactions of the world on the other side of the hills are two incidents of many; these happen to be fresh. One has to do with a leading producer here. He had a story to break. His publicity man, unlike the chap on one lot who asked where Reuter's might be found, this press agent, at least, knew the Associated Press served a large percentage of the nation's newspapers. "Twenty-five minutes for the A. P.?" stormed the producer. "That's too much. If they can't get it in ten, the hell with them." The local papers, however, got all the time their reporters required, but it's been to hell with producer on A. P.'s part thereafter. . . .

The second of these slightly fantastic tales, likewise, deals with one of Hollywood's aces who has just completed what is hailed, partisan-like, as one of the biggest, most terrific, etc., etc., attractions ever to wind its way through any camera. His press agent, aware of the visit of the editor of a large national monthly, did the proper thing and sought to have the picture screened. Eventually he won out, but not without verbal scars and steaming blood pressure. The reason, so Hollywood-like, was merely the producer's promise that a local paper with a couple of thousand circulation would see it ahead of all other comers. . . .

The explanation is simple, all too simple. In both instances, the producers, entrapped willingly or otherwise in the Hollywood social and prestige setup, were hot for the line or handful of lines on home ground that would put their names and their activities on local tongues. Out in the world where the tickets that make all of this possible are bought, second run is good enough. In Hollywood it must be pre-release or nothing and it's never nothing. Those who think in terms of business, and they are few, know the situation, concede it is all wet, shrug their shoulders and continue on their way. So it goes here. . . .

Big Turnout Coming To Grainger Dinner

Important exhibitor operators and distributor representatives from as far as Chicago will be on hand tonight at the Astor for the testimonial dinner being tendered E. C. Grainger, retiring eastern sales division head for Twentieth Century-Fox.

Among those scheduled to attend will be John Harris, Pittsburgh; Meyer Schine, Gloversville, N. Y.; Meyer Fine, Cleveland; Lester Kreiger, Cleveland; William Goldman, Philadelphia; Moe Silver, Albany, and numerous branch heads of Twentieth Century-Fox in the east.

All important local independent and major circuits will be represented in the 500 slated to attend. Lowell Thomas will be the principal speaker.

RKO Planning a Big Play on Quintuplets

RKO, which has booked "The Country Doctor" in 51 of its 100 theatres, is giving the quintuplets a big play, dating the film for full week stands in most instances.

The picture opened in a number of out-of-town spots over the week end and in the Palace, Rochester, broke the house record. During Easter Week, the metropolitan RKO theatres will day-and-date. There is a strong possibility "The Country Doctor" will be held over in a number of situations. It is expected that the film, which opens Thursday, will go three weeks at the Music Hall.

Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade, said in the House of Commons that the Government was considering the question of setting up a committee to inquire into the working of the Films Act.

Agitation for the revision of the act has been intensive for some time. British production interests want amendments imposing a minimum cost clause to quota films, and exhibitors ask a reduction of the present quota.

Runciman's statement removes fears very general in the industry that the advocates of increased stringency in the quota law had already won the Government to their way of thinking.

Loew's Bronx Houses Stop Chance Games

March 17, and on April 6 a similar action against the Paradise will be heard before three judges in the same borough.

Theatres dropping Screeno are the Boston Road, Victory, Paradise, Grand, Elsmere, Spooner and Burnside. Eliminating Bank Night are the Boulevard, National and Fairmount.

Reinstatement of the games is contingent on the decisions, a Loew official stated. If they are found to be legal they will be put back, he said.

Consolidated Amusements recently did away with various types of games in all its Bronx theatres. This circuit's attitude is the same as Loew's about bringing them back.

On Friday Harry Harris won an important victory when Manhattan Special Sessions dismissed a Bank Night complaint against the Gotham. Previously a similar issue against the Washington had been dismissed in the same court, by three other judges.

must be taken, it is said, in order to ward off such a move. Other theatre men are of the opinion that picketing is scheduled to break out again after a truce of several months.

The major circuits last October signed a 10-year pact with Local 306 after months of dispute over a new basic wage scale. While some independents likewise have joined the I.A.T.S.E. affiliate, the union is reported dissatisfied with the progress it has made in lining up new theatres. Plans to merge Allied, Empire and Local 306 are understood to be definitely off, despite reports to the contrary.

About two years ago a move was instituted by a Chicago group to organize theatre ushers, porters, doormen and other help, but nothing ever came of it. It is felt by some theatre operators that the current building strike may lead to a revival of the former unsuccessful plan.

No Picketing Planned, Says 306

Representatives of Local 306 on Saturday denied any picketing moves were planned by the union at 147 independent theatres. Reports had it that such a step would be taken today.

Meanwhile, committees representing the union and the I.T.O.A. met Saturday at the Astor to talk over the situation.

K. C. Unions Select Men for Convention

Kansas City, March 8.—Operators' Local No. 170 and Stagehands' Local 31 have each appointed committees of six to handle general arrangements for the biennial convention of the I.A.T.S.E. and the M.P.O.A. of the U.S. and Canada, which will be held here the first week in June.

R. R. Dillon, business representative, heads the operators' committee. Other members are L. L. Stewart, R. E. Topper, J. H. Morgan, C. L. Sargent and Joe Arnone.

Felix B. Snow, I.A.T.S.E. divisional representative, is chairman of the stagehands' group, which includes also J. R. Sanderson, Ed Purcell, Glen Milligan, Ed Maier and C. Donovan.

Variety Club

Des Moines

Des Moines, March 8.—Variety Club's annual election results follow: W. E. Banford, chief barker; Stanley Mayer, first assistant barker; G. Ralph Branton, second assistant barker; Harold Cohen, wagoner man; Louis Patz, property man.

The new directors are: Harry Hiersteiner, E. J. Tilton, Lee Durham, Harry Weinberg, John Woodren and L. C. Friedman.

New members recently received are Tom McKeen, Frank Thomas, E. M. Canty, M. D. Mitchell, Max Weintraub, Harry Wengel and Joe Jacobson.

Indianapolis

Indianapolis, March 8.—Variety Club will present its first annual charity show at midnight, March 31 in the Lyric. According to Wade Willman, chairman of the committee in charge, the program will include 10 acts of vaudeville and a showing of "Kind Lady." Use of the theatre and participation of the performers is through the courtesy of Charles M. Olson of the Lyric management.

Ole Olsen and Chic Johnson, the Olsen and Johnson vaudeville headliners, spent practically a week-end with the Variety Club. On one day they were guests of honor at a party and presented a performance at midnight. On another night they were guests in the clubrooms at a birthday dinner for Marc J. Wolf, club president. Club members attended the Lyric, where the comedians are playing, and then returned to the club for a buffet supper.

Chicago Indies May Refuse Chaplin Film

Chicago, March 8.—Independent exhibitors and the smaller circuits here are reported refusing to buy "Modern Times" since United Artists sold it to B. & K., giving them extended clearance. The exhibitors claim that when B. & K. would not buy U. A. product, they took it at high prices and expected to get a chance at the Chaplin film.

It is thought the situation may affect future deals where clearance is asked. Considerable excitement is expected when the selling of "Modern Times" gets started in full swing, as well as when the clearance problem comes up for settlement.

To Appeal on "Ecstasy"

Samuel Cummins of Eureka Prod. plans to appeal to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court for a temporary injunction before trial, following the denial by Justice Collins of the application for such a stay. Eureka seeks to prevent Metropolis Pictures from using the word "Ecstasy," in the title, "Ecstasy of Young Love." The latter picture, originally scheduled for the 55th St. Playhouse, was not shown there, but opens at the Bijou today. Eureka is now preparing its Czechoslovakian film, "Ecstasy," for early release.

Rockefeller Claims Hearing Again Off

Hearings on exceptions to the allowance of the Rockefeller Center claims against RKO at $9,100,000, which were scheduled for tomorrow, will be postponed again for another week.

The claims, which are based on RKO's liability under its defaulted Rockefeller Center leases, and which include the construction costs of the Music Hall and Center and the reduction of leased office space in the RKO Bldg., were recommended for allowance by Special Master Thomas D. Thacher in the amount named. Irving Trust Co., the RKO trustee, and its counsel, Donovan, Newton, Leisure & Lumbard, are prepared to contest the allowance on several grounds. However, efforts to effect a compromise or settlement of the claim are being continued by RCA, Atlas Corp., Lehman Bros. and RKO. Advancement of these efforts may forestall, either for a time or permanently, the hearing of the trustee's exceptions to the allowance of the claim as recommended by Thacher. This is believed to explain the numerous postponements of this hearing which have been made.

The claim makes Rockefeller Center the largest unsecured creditor in the RKO reorganization proceedings. The claim ultimately will have to be treated in a plan of reorganization for RKO, but the failure to develop a plan has correspondingly retarded efforts to compromise or settle the claim.

Loew's Not to Dual Outstanding Films

Although the circuit's policy is dual features in all Greater New York theatres, with the exception of the State, which plays vaudeville, Loew's will not twin bill a number of outstanding pictures.

"Rose Marie," now playing the various neighborhood houses, is not being dualled, nor will be "Wife vs. Secretary" and "Modern Times" as soon as available dates are set.

"A Tale of Two Cities," "Strike Me Pink" and "Mutiny on the Bounty" have previously been booked without support.

Similar bookings by RKO were the order of the day for "Top Hat" and will likewise follow for "Follow the Fleet," which begins a full week's run on March 20, and "The Country Doctor," which will play seven days during Easter Week.

Neither circuit intends to bring back vaudeville, which was ousted in numerous situations for dual programs.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Everybody's Old Man"

(Twentieth Century-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, March 8.—Irvin S. Cobb, in his first starring picture, comes through most commendably and his picture as enjoyable entertainment is geared nicely to a popular formula.

This is a remake of "The Working Man" in which George Arliss starred for Warners some years ago and has to do with the traditional fight between two food kings. It tells how Cobb, with his homely philosophy pits his own company against his dead rival's for the purpose of aiding the latter's two children to salvage their enterprise from disaster and their gin racked lives from collapse while at the same time it permits him to teach his own nephew business tolerance and greater acumen. The rival's son and daughter, played by Johnny Downes and Rochelle Hudson, naturally do not know who their benefactor actually is until the end. Neither does nephew Norman Foster know Cobb has gone over to the competitor's camp. The Pollyanna type of yarn works out to everyone's satisfaction including the romance between Miss Hudson and Foster.

Cobb reveals a definite screen personality and it may be that part of the mantle of the late Will Rogers which Darryl F. Zanuck here strives to throw around him may fit. There is no way of forecasting such an eventuality until the public casts votes in this and succeeding pictures.

Downes shows considerable promise as the profligate youngster who makes good and Miss Hudson and Foster are pleasing as the love interest.

James Flood's direction is natural and warm from the screenplay by Patterson McNutt and A. E. Thomas.

Production Code Seal, No. 1,911. Running time, 84 minutes. "G."

KANN

"Too Many Parents"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, March 8.—Played principally by children, this comedy drama has a different appeal as family entertainment.

The story centers on George Ernest, Billy Lee, Sherwood Bailey and Douglas Scott, four youngsters sent to a military school for the convenience of those charged with raising them. Ernest, son of Lester Matthews, a busy engineer, is the school leader. Matthews never writes his son and Ernest, because of the chiding by his schoolmates resorts to faked letters. The climax of the picture is reached when Ernest is exposed and demoted. Attempting suicide because of the disgrace, Ernest is saved by the timely return of his father for a happy ending.

Director Robert MacGowan has built the school life sequences convincingly and works sympathetic interest for Ernest. The supporting cast includes Francis Farmer, Doris Lloyd, Henry Travers and Porter Hall, adults, and Carl Switzer, a youngster, who scores heavily singing one number rendered during the school show sequence.

Virginia Van Upp and Doris Malloy wrote the screenplay from stories by Jessie Lynch Williams and George Templeton and A. M. Botsford produced it intelligently enough.

The elements of humor and pathos are offered to indicate good, general audience reception.

Production Code Seal, No. 2,037. Running time, 71 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Robin Hood of El Dorado"

(M-G-M)

Herein is recounted, in entertaining fashion, the almost legendary story of Joachim Morietta, a Mexican peon of the California of the golden days of 1848, when Americans swept into the territory, and the Mexicans virtually were swept out. Warner Baxter, in the title role, does handsomely by the portrayal of the farmer who turned bandit and sought an entirely justified revenge for wrongs done him and his family.

There is much in the picture to stir the sympathies of audiences, and much to stir their pulses in the rapid-fire action of a lawless era and hard-living area. The film's tragic ending in the death of Morietta is about $100,000. The house is leased by the Des Moines Consolidated Theatre Corp.

Reopen in Cleveland Area

CLEVELAND, March 8.—The Majestic, closed for many years, will reopen about April 1 under the management of Ben Nadler. Max Kaplan has sold the Grand Central here to J. L. Stein.

Other changes in the area include the opening of the New Ohio in Akron, owned by a group of city business men. The Garden at Portsmouth, O., has opened after improvements costing $50,000. The Murphy at Wilmington, O., will be improved, the refurbishing to cost about $15,000. Don Meyers has reopened the Comstock at Comstock, Neb., and the Gayety at Arcadia. Abe Sadoff has resumed control of the Granada at Sioux City, Ia., from E. E. Seff. Jack Rose and Alex Manta have taken over the Roxy at La Porte, Ind. Hal Opperman and Edward G. Zorn plan a new modern house at Pontiac, Ill.

Several Detroit Changes

DETROIT, March 8.—John Tatu and Victor Petriks, owners of the Casino, plan a 1,000-seat house, the Northtown, here. Sol and Max Krim are planning two 1,500-seat neighborhood houses, with work to begin within 60 days. A. Barnes has taken over the Gem here from Ray Schreiber.

To Build in N. E.

BOSTON, March 8.—Theatre changes in New England include: the planned building of a 1,000-seat house at West Haven by Michael Cascioli; the acquisition of the Peacedale at Peacedale, R. I., by Steve Broidy; improvements on the Carlton, Edward M. Fay house in Providence.

New House in South

HOUSTON, March 8.—D. P. Rathbone, local operator, will build a $13,000 house at Pasadena, Tex., giving the town its first film theatre. C. J. Goodwin has opened the Swan, new house at Bastrop, La. Mississippi Theatre Co. has bought the Ritz at Ferriday, La. The Oasis at Marion, N. C., will be remodeled.

Cancellation Right Seen as Possibility to 20 per cent was uncovered among distributors, however. The general opinion of those viewing an increase in a sympathetic light was that a compromise, probably at 15 per cent, would be fair to distributors and probably would not be spurned by exhibitors.

Distributors sympathetic to an increase pointed out that the cancellation privilege is being used less and less to avoid playing pictures because of their objectionable moral features or for local unsuitability, and attributed this to the improvements registered in product under the Production Code Administration and the Legion of Decency lists. The cancellation privilege, for the most part, they said, is employed to "duck the clucks" and even this has been lessened to a considerable extent as a result of the widespread use of double features, which makes room for sub-par production quality if the playing terms are right.

Distributors, it was said, have also been compensated for this use of the cancellation privilege by the extended playing time and return engagements for exceptional product, made possible by the cancelling of "clucks." A five per cent increase in cancellations, it was said, would not be a severe one for most distributors, as a result, even though the full 15 per cent privilege was taken advantage of uniformly by exhibitors, which is hardly likely. Qualifications for becoming eligible for the increased cancellation, moreover, probably would be such as to improve credit relations between exhibitor and distributor, it was pointed out.

An increase would also be an effective answer to agitators for block booking abolition within and without the industry.

softened by the indication that his death was inevitable in the preservation of law and order in the territory.

Morietta is happy on his small farm, with his affectionate wife, until drunken miners, seeking his land, attack and murder his wife. He kills the attackers, then on advice of Bruce Cabot, his friend, seeks peace on his brother's farm. Again trouble, an unwarranted quarrel and his brother is hanged; he whipped. Then he joins the bandit gang headed by J. Carrol Naish, becomes its leader, arms it and strengthens it, makes his headquarters in a hidden valley, and is at once the scourge of California, with a large price on his head.

Cabot, whose life he had saved, defends him, until a young girl is killed in a stagecoach holdup. Cabot himself leads the posse, which in a stirring battle sequence, wipes out the gang, Morietta escaping, wounded, to die on his wife's grave.

"Two in Revolt"

(Radio)

The story of a horse and a dog, both thoroughbreds, their escape into the open and leadership of their wild fellows, and their return to civilization and a suspense-laden racetrack conclusion, this is an unusually interesting and appealing picture. The human element, with its romance and complication, is a necessary but not too prominent adjunct to the story. The beautiful scenic effects against which the film has been photographed add much to the effectiveness.

John Arledge, as a trainer, and Louise Latimer, as the daughter of the owner of the stables, carry out the romantic human element. Warrior, the horse, and Lightning, the dog, are born at the same time and become fast friends. The colt is carefully trained for future racing honors, while the dog, incurring the displeasure of the owner, becomes the leader of a wolf pack. The horse, escaping from gamblers who sought to steal him, takes to the hills and heads a band of wild horses. The gamblers capture him again, the dog helps him to escape, then leads the searching Arledge to the horse, who has become tangled in the rope about his neck. Taken to the big race through the pursuasion exercised by his dog friend, Warrior wins as Lightning races out on the track to lead him on. The victory causes Miss Latimer's father to relent in his opposition to the marriage of his daughter and Arledge.

Previewed without production code seal. Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

largely a rehash of the discussion of the respective merits of block and selective booking.

With the Patents Committee planning to hear representatives of the picture industry this week if possible, Washington bids fair for several days to be overrun with film men. The Sirovich hearings, however, will hold the center of the stage so far as publicity goes, as they have for the past two weeks through the committee's policy of featuring "guest stars."

So far, the Neely sub-committee has taken no action with respect to block booking legislation, and is not expected to make a report to the full committee for some days.

Nichols Turns Back Academy Writer Award

Frank Capra Replies For Academy Members

HOLLYWOOD, March 9. — Dudley Nichols has refused to accept the Academy award for the best screen adaptation of 1935 on "The Informer" and has clarified his action in a letter which reached Academy heads today. Nichols' action is the most drastic thus far in the continued warfare between the Screen Actors' and Writers' Guilds and the Academy for producer recognition.

The Writers' Guild would make no official statement today. Donald Gledhill, executive manager of the Academy, has steadfastly insisted that the Academy, as a non-political organization, would forward awards to the winners regardless of what the receivers did with them, and without personal resentment if the winners refused to accept.

Grainger Goes West For Product Talks

Universal's annual sales convention will be held in May at a date and place to be decided in the near future, James R. Grainger, general sales manager, said yesterday.

Grainger left for the coast last night immediately after attending the testimonial dinner to E. C. Grainger. The Universal sales head will confer with studio officials on new season's product plans before returning east to complete arrangements for the company's annual sales convention.

Grainger Feted at the Astor By Exhibitors and Salesmen

E. C. Grainger, who retires as eastern division sales manager of Twentieth Century-Fox on April 15 to become general manager of the Feiber & Shea circuit, played to a full house last night at the Astor, where well wishing exhibitors and diplomatic film salesmen gathered in proud numbers by way of a testimonial to the rare transition.

Claude Saunders of Ross Federal Service clocked the house at 623 paid testimonials, which included Jack Springer, about the receipt of whose tariff some doubt was expressed by Joseph Lee, treasurer of the dinner committee. The attendance, regardless, was of sufficient impressiveness to send Mort Shea home pondering the advisability of booking Grainger over the circuit for a mess of one week stands instead of following through with the original plans of putting him behind a home office desk.

The key note of the evening, naturally, was the seeming oddity of a sales manager turned exhibitor, and it was sounded early by the Fox Movietone News crew who were permitted to speak during the soup course because word had just reached them of a war in progress in Ethiopia, for which they left early in the hope of incorporating it in a forthcoming issue of the newsreel, according to Louis Ni-

Para. Fee Appeals Are Again Delayed

Hearings on five appeals from Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe's decision on the allowance of fees for Paramount reorganization services, which were scheduled to be held in the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals here yesterday, were postponed to April 6 with the consent of the five appellants because counsel for several of them had to be in Washington before the U. S. Supreme Court this week.

The appeal hearings scheduled were those of Root, Clark, Buckner & Ballantine, counsel to the Paramount trustees, whose application for a fee of $750,000 was reduced to $200,000; Cook, Nathan & Lehman, attorneys for the Paramount stockholders' protective committee, whose application for a fee of $250,000 was allowed at $115,000; Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and their attorneys, Cravath, de Gersdorff, Swaine & Wood, whose applications were denied in toto, and the stockholders' committee appeal on behalf of its auditors, Coverdale & Colpitts, whose application for $51,000 was allowed at $27,860.

Production Holds At 37 Third Week

HOLLYWOOD, March 9.—Thirty-seven features were before the cameras last week, the third consecutive week this figure has held.

Short subject production has fluctuated, with all studio shorts departments dark, according to the week's survey. The preceding week, short subject production hit a record high with seven one and two-reelers in work.

M-G-M continued to lead the field with eight features in work. Warners ran a close second with seven.

Columbia has two features on the sound stages, five in preparation and five in the cutting rooms. M-G-M had eight, zero and 13; Paramount, six, four and nine; Radio, four, two and zero; Roach, zero, one and one; Twentieth Century-Fox, five, three and five; Universal, two, two and one; Warners, seven, zero and six; independents, three, two and one.

No short subjects were in work, but Columbia had two in preparation and three editing. M-G-M had four and five; Roach, one and three; independents, two and zero.

Culkin Drops Federal Film Board Scheme

Pettijohn, Cabot Talk On Block Booking Bill

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, March 9.—The declaration by Representative Culkin of New York that he has abandoned all efforts to secure the enactment of legislation creating a Federal film commission, marked the opening today of hearings on block booking before the Pettengill sub-committee of the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Appearing before the group to discuss his measures, Culkin admitted he was more interested in the creation of the commission than in any other phase of the situation, but added, "I do not think civilization is advanced far enough to put that bill on the books."

Urging that the industry should be made a public utility, Culkin pointed out that railroads, telephones and power already are in that category and that films are held to be utilities in England and France.

RKO to File Briefs In Sale Tax Dispute

RKO will file briefs in opposition to the levying by the city of the two per cent sales tax on film rentals as amicus curiae in the appeal by United Artists from the city comptroller's ruling that film revenue is subject to the tax.

Permission to file the briefs was granted by the appellate division yesterday, which will hear the United Artists' appeal late this month or early in April. Goldwater & Flynn, special counsel for Keith-Albee-Orpheum, will prepare the briefs in the interests of both the local Radio exchange and the company's theatre subsidiary. The United Artists' appeal is regarded by distributors as a test case in the city's move to apply the sales tax to film rentals.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, March 9.

SURROUNDED by his pipes, and walls adorned with handsome photographs of his polo stable, Walter Wanger muses over the celluloid estate and speculates if the time has not arrived for an assertion of what he regards as the industry's inalienable rights. There's a phrase for you. In political history, it's been known to have had the mob sobbing. Wanger, a good showman and on his toes, has an appreciation of publicity values and by no means is to be scored or overlooked for it. Not in this business. . . .

And so, interrupted by casting directors, Raoul Walsh, opening and closing doors and telephone arrangements for a bit of polo at Riviera in the afternoon, United Artists' latest acquisition expounded this:

"I remember when I first broke into show business, which is quite a number of years ago. It was anathema in polite society to be mentioned in connection with the film industry. Today, motion pictures have captured the world's imagination as well as its interest. New York and London society now make it a season here in Hollywood. It's smart to be around film people.

"It seems to be, therefore, and since swaddling clothes and disrepute have long since been dropped that the industry should have developed enough guts to refuse to be kicked around the way it is. I am not referring to dirt in pictures. I don't think anything not in good taste belongs, but efforts to block the normal progress of producers toward better and more courageous things is something else."

"Are you referring to the trouble over 'The Forty Days of Musa Dagh' and 'Paths of Glory'?", appeared the logical question. Replied Wanger:

"Yes, for one thing. I know about the attitude of the Turkish and French governments. Yet suppose all of us agreed to stand the gaff of our product banned in one foreign country. It might be a good idea to withdraw and to see if that nation can get along without American films. This would establish the right of the industry to proceed on its way and to make an even better grade of film."

It registered as convincing, but Wanger knew he was largely theorizing. For Paramount to essay "Paths of Glory" as Humphrey Cobb wrote it with its castigation of French army tyranny would unleash a diplomatic howl that would extend far beyond France's borders and imperil not only the specific producer's output there, but the entire industry's as well. For Irving Thalberg to produce "Musa Dagh" as Franz Werfel wrote it would outrage Turkey, but the pressure would go beyond and into all channels where Mustapha Kemal and Istanbul could marshal their influence. Yet the problem is both knotty and vexatious, for, as Wanger accurately points out, the continued hampering of Hollywood by international complications definitely retards progress. It reaches within domestic borders as well, in that a "Paths of Glory" confined to the domestic market would endanger the distribution of American production in France. . . .

Now that he is proceeding on a unit basis, Wanger sees only merit in such a system. In a local interview, he pointed out recently:

"Most of the big, the successful films of the past two years have been made under the unit system, and it is now the individual picture, rather than the mass product, that counts. And it's immediately known when you have a good picture. . . . But when a studio is grinding out 50 pictures a year, its head man can't even find time to talk to the people on the payroll. His studio accumulates contract players, writers, directors, all 'on call.' They have to do what they're told, regardless of whether they're suited to it or not, and when a story comes along that is adapted to them, they're tied up on something else. They all become part of a racket. It's the wrong psychology from an employment standpoint." . . .

And then this:

"A producer should be capable of selecting his own talent, his own stories. He should have a background in the business. He should know exhibition first."

Let's take a look. He says the unit system brought forth the big films of the past two years. There is Louis B. Mayer over at Metro, for instance. He's been doing pretty well and he has only producers. The studio head responsible for 50 pictures has been diagnosed many times before; he's more to be pitied than envied. Agreement with Wanger on that point. But when he talks about major plants accumulating talent, he ought to remember he's following the same line, modestly to be sure. Experience in exhibition, of course, is of value. Undeniably so. . . .

Through his telescope, Wanger sees other bits of this and that which strike him as wrong. Read:

"There are too many executives in the big film studios. Everybody should do more of his own work. There is probably no other business where incompetents can hold on so long and where they can find so many places to hide out. It's astounding what mistakes film executives can make and still have their companies survive. Yet the demand for pictures is so great, the probable percentage of profit so terrific [there's that word again] and the market so wide, that 'boners' which would wreck other industries still get by in Hollywood."

Pointing the nozzle away from Hollywood and toward New York, he continues:

"In the past 15 years, sales methods in every other business but pictures have been revolutionized. But here, though personnel has changed in the production end, particularly since the introduction of sound, the same old heads of companies continue in power, the same outdated ideas of merchandising and exhibiting persist. That is what has retarded artistic advance.

"New York sales forces have proved time and again that, as dictators of picture tastes and talent, they are worthless. What New York office would have given Grace Moore a new chance in a musical after two previous flops at M-G-M? Who back there could have predicted the phenomenal success of 'Mutiny on the Bounty'? Your eastern sales force wants 52 copies of what was the most successful last year, ignoring the obvious fact that no audience desires a duplicate of something it has seen before, any more than a woman wants to buy last season's hat."

If he persists in talking in this vein, Wanger will find his social status seriously impaired. . . .

Theatre Activity In South Hits New Peak

Theatre activity in the south is now at its peak with major and independent circuits participating in new building and acquisitions, according to home office sales executives returning from trips to the territory.

Expansion plans are taking some of the larger circuits into the smaller towns and at the same time bulwarking surrounding situations, the sales executives state. New structures are now going up in open situations. Kincey & Wilby is said to have taken over about half a dozen houses in the last three months. Other circuits likewise have added to their holdings.

zer, toastmaster. Lou Lehr, first speaker to be called upon, warned the honoree that "the hand of fellowship of tonight will be the salesman's fist of tomorrow", and he was followed by Laurence Stallings, who gloated that Grainger soon would be paying the high prices for film that he's always told exhibitors his own stuff was worth.

Lowell Thomas was reminded of Stallings' yarn on the manner in which an Ethiopian warrior observes St. Valentine's day, warning Grainger that while the tribute was his at the moment, tomorrow he would be the victim. Nizer, harking back to the good, old days of exhibition, B. C., (Before Cocalis), saw Grainger's transition from sales executive to exhibitor as a perilous one, because "Grainger hasn't learned to cry yet". Harry Brandt, following, offered to teach him how, qualifying by confessing that he had paid for his winter trip to Florida by his last cry in Grainger's office.

Other speakers on the dais included E. W. Hammons, Austin C. Keough, A. W. Smith, Jr., James O'Laughlin, Saul Rogers, Ed Raftery, Milton C. Weisman and J. R. Grainger. MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Snowed Under"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, March 9.—A farce comedy which draws upon the elemental slapstick methods to put over its many and hilarious socks, this is a fast-moving vehicle with plenty of fun in dialogue, action and situations. The picture has a nonsensical quality that should appeal to mass patronage.

F. Hugh Herbert and Brown Holmes did the screen play from the Lawrence Saunders novel, cleverly preserving all of the humor content of the original. It is the story of a playwright, George Brent, snowed under by snow—and women. In this situation he is first pestered by Patricia Ellis, a hero-worshipper. He has hardly sidetracked her when in comes Genevieve Tobin, ex-wife No. 1, who has been sent by Porter Hall, producer, to be Brent's inspiration for a necessary third act to his latest play. The situation becomes absolutely hectic when alimony-seeking ex-wife No. 2, Glenda Farrell, arrives, accompanied by her lawyer, John Eldredge and Sheriff Frank McHugh, plus a jug of applejack.

A blizzard isolates the whole party. By their antics the players quickly take on the character of inmates of an insane asylum. With ludicrous experiences happening to all, and with snow slides occasionally burying individuals or entire groups, Brent finally finishes his script and falls in love again with Miss Tobin. Miss Ellis considers lawyer Eldredge a pretty good catch and Miss Farrell, now certain that the alimony will be forthcoming, looks romantically upon McHugh.

The production is smartly directed by Raymond Enright, and played in the same key by the entire company in a manner which keeps the laughs coming fast and furiously without regard to rhyme or reason. For those who like their fun in broad and copious quantities this should please mightily.

Production Code Seal No. 1,811. Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

"Cappy Ricks" to Levine

HOLLYWOOD, March 9.—Nat Levine has closed with Peter B. Kyne for the production of five "Cappy Ricks" stories. The pictures will be made at the rate of one a year for the next five years. The first will go into production next fall to be released on the 1936-37 Republic program.

Sonotone Net $77,182

The report of Sonotone Corp. for the year ending Dec. 31, 1935, shows a net income of $77,182 after all deductions. This provides for 10 cents a share on 682,533 shares (par $1) of common stock, and compares with a 1934 income of $71,278, or 11 cents a share on 629,329 common shares.

Arthur Lee on Coast

HOLLYWOOD, March 9.—Arthur Lee of G. B. arrived here today with a print of "Rhodes." With Jeffrey Bernerd, company distribution head, Lee will set the local opening of the film.

20th-Fox European Meet Set in April

The annual international sales meet of Twentieth Century-Fox is scheduled to get under way next month with the arrival in London of Sidney R. Kent, president. Kent is slated to sail for England on April 17 and upon his return in May he will be accompanied by Walter J. Hutchinson, foreign manager, who is now cleaning up his affairs abroad before he moves permanently to this country.

The full text of Nichols' letter the Academy follows:

"My awareness of the honor giv to the screen play of 'The Inform and my gratitude to those individu who voted the award, only make th letter the more difficult, but as o of the founders of the Screen Wr ers' Guild, which was conceived revolt against the Academy and bo out of disappointment with the w it functioned against employed tale in any emergency, I deeply regret am unable to accept the award. accept it would be to turn my ba on nearly 1,000 members of the Wr ers' Guild, to desert those fello writers who ventured everything the long drawn out fight for a genui writers' organization, to go back the convictions honestly arrived and to invalidate three years' work the guild which I would like to loo back on with self respect.

"My only regret now is that I d not withdraw my name from the non ination, thus avoiding this most en barrassing situation.

"This rejection can in no wi prejudice the other 'Informer' award I realize the awards were voted b a generous membership who had n thought of personal partiality political intent. But a writer wh accepts an Academy award tacitl supports the Academy and I believ it to be the duty of every scree writer to stand with his own an strengthen the guild, because ther is no other representative autonomou organization for writers which aims a justice for employer and employ alike and which is concerned solel with the betterment of the writin craft."

Academy President Replies

Replying to the published Nichol statement, Frank Capra, Academ president, was quoted today as fol lows:

"Membership has no connectio with the Academy awards and neve has had in all the eight years durin which they have been conferred. Th awards constitute dignified recogni tion of the year's worthiest work b a representative group of writers, act ors, production executives, technician and directors. The statuette is a sym bol of this organization. The balloting does not in any way take into accoun the personal, political or economi views of nominees, nor the gracious ness with which they may be expecte to receive the recognition. It was and of course, remains, the opinio of the Academy membership that th screenplay of 'The Informer' writte by Mr. Nichols was the outstandin achievement in its field during th year, and was an artistic accomplish ment of which American motion pic tures may well be proud."

POPULAR NUMBER RIGHT DOWN TO EARTH WITH SWELL ACTION-LOVE STORY AND REGAN A HIT.

This one rings the gong for the b.o. as well as for the hero fighter-singer in the ring, and for the pop houses of all classes it is gaited to please their audiences of all types. And we are free to state that it carries more real human appeal and downright entertainment than a big slice of the more pretentious productions. It has fine emotional punch—fast tempo—excitement and breezy action—dandy love story—and carries a suspense kick right up to the last frame. Add to this a real comer in Phil Regan and who has been built up in a part that fits him perfectly, and you have an attraction for the masses such as your screen gets too seldom. And the lad can really sing, with a heart-warming Irish tenor, and an ability to act intelligently that is scarce in our singing actors. Plenty of personality that the femmes will go for. The hero is brought over from Ireland by the girl's dad, a fight promoter, who thinks he has in tow a famous champ, not knowing that the lad has licked the champ in a street brawl and has been passed off by the Irish manager as the real champ. Regan agrees to the deception so he can follow the girl (Evalyn Knapp) back to the United States, his only interest being in her. She has plans to make him a great radio draw with his voice, and builds him up accordingly while her dad grooms him for the big fight, still believing him the Irish champ. Then all sorts of fast and suspenseful complications building to the fight climax with a most satisfactory ending for all hands. You can shout about this as grand entertainment for the entire family and you'll have no kick-backs. For Irish communities a clean-up.

Culkin Drops Federal Film Board Scheme

before hearing testimony, the sub-committee asked for opening statements from Stephen B. Cabot, honorary vice-president of the M. P. Research Council, and Charles C. Pettijohn, counsel for the M. P. P. D. A.

Going over the ground which he traversed during the Senate hearings, Cabot discussed the growth of the industry, its influence and the effect of pictures on young people. Again he referred to the promises of the industry to clean house and its alleged failure to perform, and declared, "It is clear that the industry so far is insincere or unable to reform itself from within."

Claims Public Has No Choice

Block selling is not wholesale selling, Cabot said, because in wholesale selling the buyer at least has a sample of the product. "In this industry, in order to get some good pictures, you have to pay for some very inferior pictures at the same time," he alleged.

Cabot repeated his arguments that under block booking the people of the community have no voice in the selection of pictures, and that the exhibitor is powerless. "If the exhibitor were free to respond to the need and wishes of his patrons he would not refuse to meet their desires," he held. "He would quickly lose patronage if he did."

Discussing the present situation, Cabot admitted: "It is only fair to say that during the past year pictures have improved. However," he added, "the opponents of this bill now say that they have at last cleaned house and can be depended upon to keep it clean. What guarantee do they give us that they will continue to keep their house clean?"

A slight pruning of the "colossal" salaries paid by the industry may be necessary if the bill is enacted, Cabot admitted, but contended the advantages would far outweigh the disadvantages.

Distribution is a mechanical problem which is not considered in the bill, Pettijohn declared in presenting the distributors' side. Thirty thousand miles of film must be distributed among 16,500 theatres every day, he pointed out.

"Not Mass Production Industry"

Answering Cabot's charge that in other industries the buyer is shown samples of the product, Pettijohn declared that this is not a mass production industry and that often the producer doesn't know what he has until the picture is completed.

Stressing the contention that the film industry is one of mass entertainment, he told the sub-committee that the smallest theatre gets the same pictures as the first run de luxe house, often at a price which is no more than the depreciation charge of the print. Again he explained that the bill would raise distribution costs and be reflected in higher admissions. On the ground of moral tone, he argued that exhibitors would continue to buy box-office attractions and asserted that the good pictures would still be difficult to move, laying before the committee the table he presented on the Senate side to show that Mae West had not been cancelled and "Alice in Wonderland," "Abraham Lincoln" and other good films had been.

If a bill of this nature is to be passed, he asserted, block buying as well as block selling should be outlawed, otherwise the houses which now have protection against powerful competitors would be left high and dry, although he added, under any method of selective buying the exhibitor with the most money will get the best box-office pictures.

To Force Out Bad Pictures

Assertions by Pettijohn that the bill would not raise the moral tone of the pictures shown were challenged by Congressman Culkin, who contended the placing of responsibility on the exhibitor would force the elimination of bad pictures in favor of good ones. Culkin called the attention of the sub-committee to the recent St. Louis criminal suit, which, he said, was devoted more to "personalities" than to criminal activities, and declared that in the eyes of the Government the industry is controlled by a monopoly.

The Pettengill bill, he said, will give selective power to the local exhibitor, protect him from monopolistic practices, destroy the "vicious and indefensible" practice of block booking, and eliminate the system of blind selling. Culkin read into the record the totals of the Legion of Decency List of last December, showing that out of 1,130 pictures, 528 were given "A" rating, 512 "B" rating and 90 "C" rating. "At least 50 per cent of the pictures are anti-social," he said.

In view of the fact that there is no chance of enacting his bill providing for a Federal commission, the Congressman said, he favored his other bill, which would prohibit compulsory block booking and amend Section 2 of the Clayton Act to apply to leases and licenses, or the Pettengill bill, which he said was introduced partly at his suggestion.

Charges Films Discredit U. S.

"I am more concerned about the passage of this legislation than I am for the credit of sponsoring it," he said, although, he added, some amendments should be incorporated in the Pettengill bill. Any one of the pending measures, he said, would put into effect the reforms he advocates.

Culkin assailed the industry as "misrepresenting" America abroad and asserted our film exports have killed all respect for the United States. He said that he had 114 petitions with more than 5,100 signatures, asking enactment of the legislation.

The Pettengill bill will not prevent the sale of single pictures, it was declared by Henry R. Atkinson of the legal group of the Research Council, who read the statement submitted to the Senate committee explaining the provisions of the measure. Atkinson was closely questioned by Representative Cooper of Ohio as to how the bill would keep undesirable pictures off the screen in the absence of censorship and said local censorship could be set up.

Representative Connery of Massachusetts, appearing as a "friend of the films," urged enactment to improve the moral tone of pictures and to break the alleged monopoly which exists, after which Representative White of Idaho also pleaded for enactment.

Abram F. Myers, Allied general counsel, traced his testimony before the Senate committee, and declared the bill would improve the tone of pictures. The producers, he charged, do not force unfit films into their own first run houses but do force them into the neighborhood houses. Cancellations mean nothing, he said, and launched into a vigorous attack on block booking.

Support for the measure was given by the attorney general in an informal opinion prepared by Harold M. Stephens, assistant attorney general. It was incorporated in the record, and held that the proposed legislation "should be upheld by the courts."

The hearing will continue tomorrow and Wednesday and then will adjourn until next week.

12-Unit Bill

Torrington, Conn., March 9.—A 12-unit program, consisting of a double feature and 10 shorts, will be introduced at Warners' Palace, a second run house here. A similar program was instituted in Derby this winter.

M-G-M Seeks Dismissal

Los Angeles, March 9.—Loeb, Walker & Loeb, attorneys for M-G-M, have filed a motion in Federal court here asking dismissal of a suit brought by J. Pratt Irby for damages allegedly caused him by the M-G-M production, "Have a Heart." Irby is manufacturer of an iced confection which is known by the same name, and he claims that the M-G-M picture is an infringement of his exclusive right to the words. He seeks damages totaling $20,000 and costs. The motion holds that the Irby patent is for a different class of merchandise. Hearing of the case has been set for March 12, before Judge Albert Lea Stephens.

Supply Board to Meet

Directors of the Independent Theatre Supply Dealers' Ass'n., Inc., will hold a one-day meeting Friday at the organization's headquarters here. Discussions will pivot about the coming annual convention in June at Chicago.

Attending the March 13 session will be B. F. Shearer, Seattle; Ken Douglas, Boston; Joe C. Hornstein, New York; Clem Rizzo, Philadelphia; A. F. Marone, Pittsburgh; George McArthur, Detroit; and Joe Graham, Denver.

"Times" Big in Frisco

San Francisco, March 9.—"Modern Times" got off to such a fast start at the United Artists that it was necessary to close the box-office from time to time for the first two days. Prices were advanced five cents for matinees. It looks as though the gross for the week will reach $17,000.

Coast Pool Extended

Los Angeles, March 9.—The one-year pool between the RKO Hillstreet and the Pantages, Hollywood, has been extended for an additional year, with RKO in charge of buying and operation. This was the purpose of Nate Blumberg's trip here.

Defense Rests Case In Cagney vs. Warner

Los Angeles, March 9.—Defense in the Cagney vs. Warner trial closed here this afternoon with testimony by Herbert Freston and Ralph Lewis, Warner counsel. The testimony was a categorical denial of the Cagney charges with nothing new added.

The case will be submitted to Judge Charles I. Bogue Tuesday afternoon for judgment.

Coast Houses to Dual

Los Angeles, March 9.—Loew's State and Grauman's Chinese will adopt a double feature policy following the run of "The Country Doctor." M-G-M's "Wife vs. Secretary" is the film set to inaugurate the new policy.

Al Colombo Promoted

Hollywood, March 9.—Al Colombo was today promoted by RKO to head of its music department. He succeeds Fred Fleck who is advanced to a production berth.

Bert Perkins Is Dead

Bert Perkins, 45, and widely known exploiteer, passed away in Miami last week and has been buried in Providence, his home town.

He was with M-G-M for a number of years and for the past eight years had been with Warners. Perkins became ill last spring while on an assignment in Detroit, and although he had taken a Mediterranean trip he never recovered sufficiently to report for work again. He is survived by his widow, Edwina.

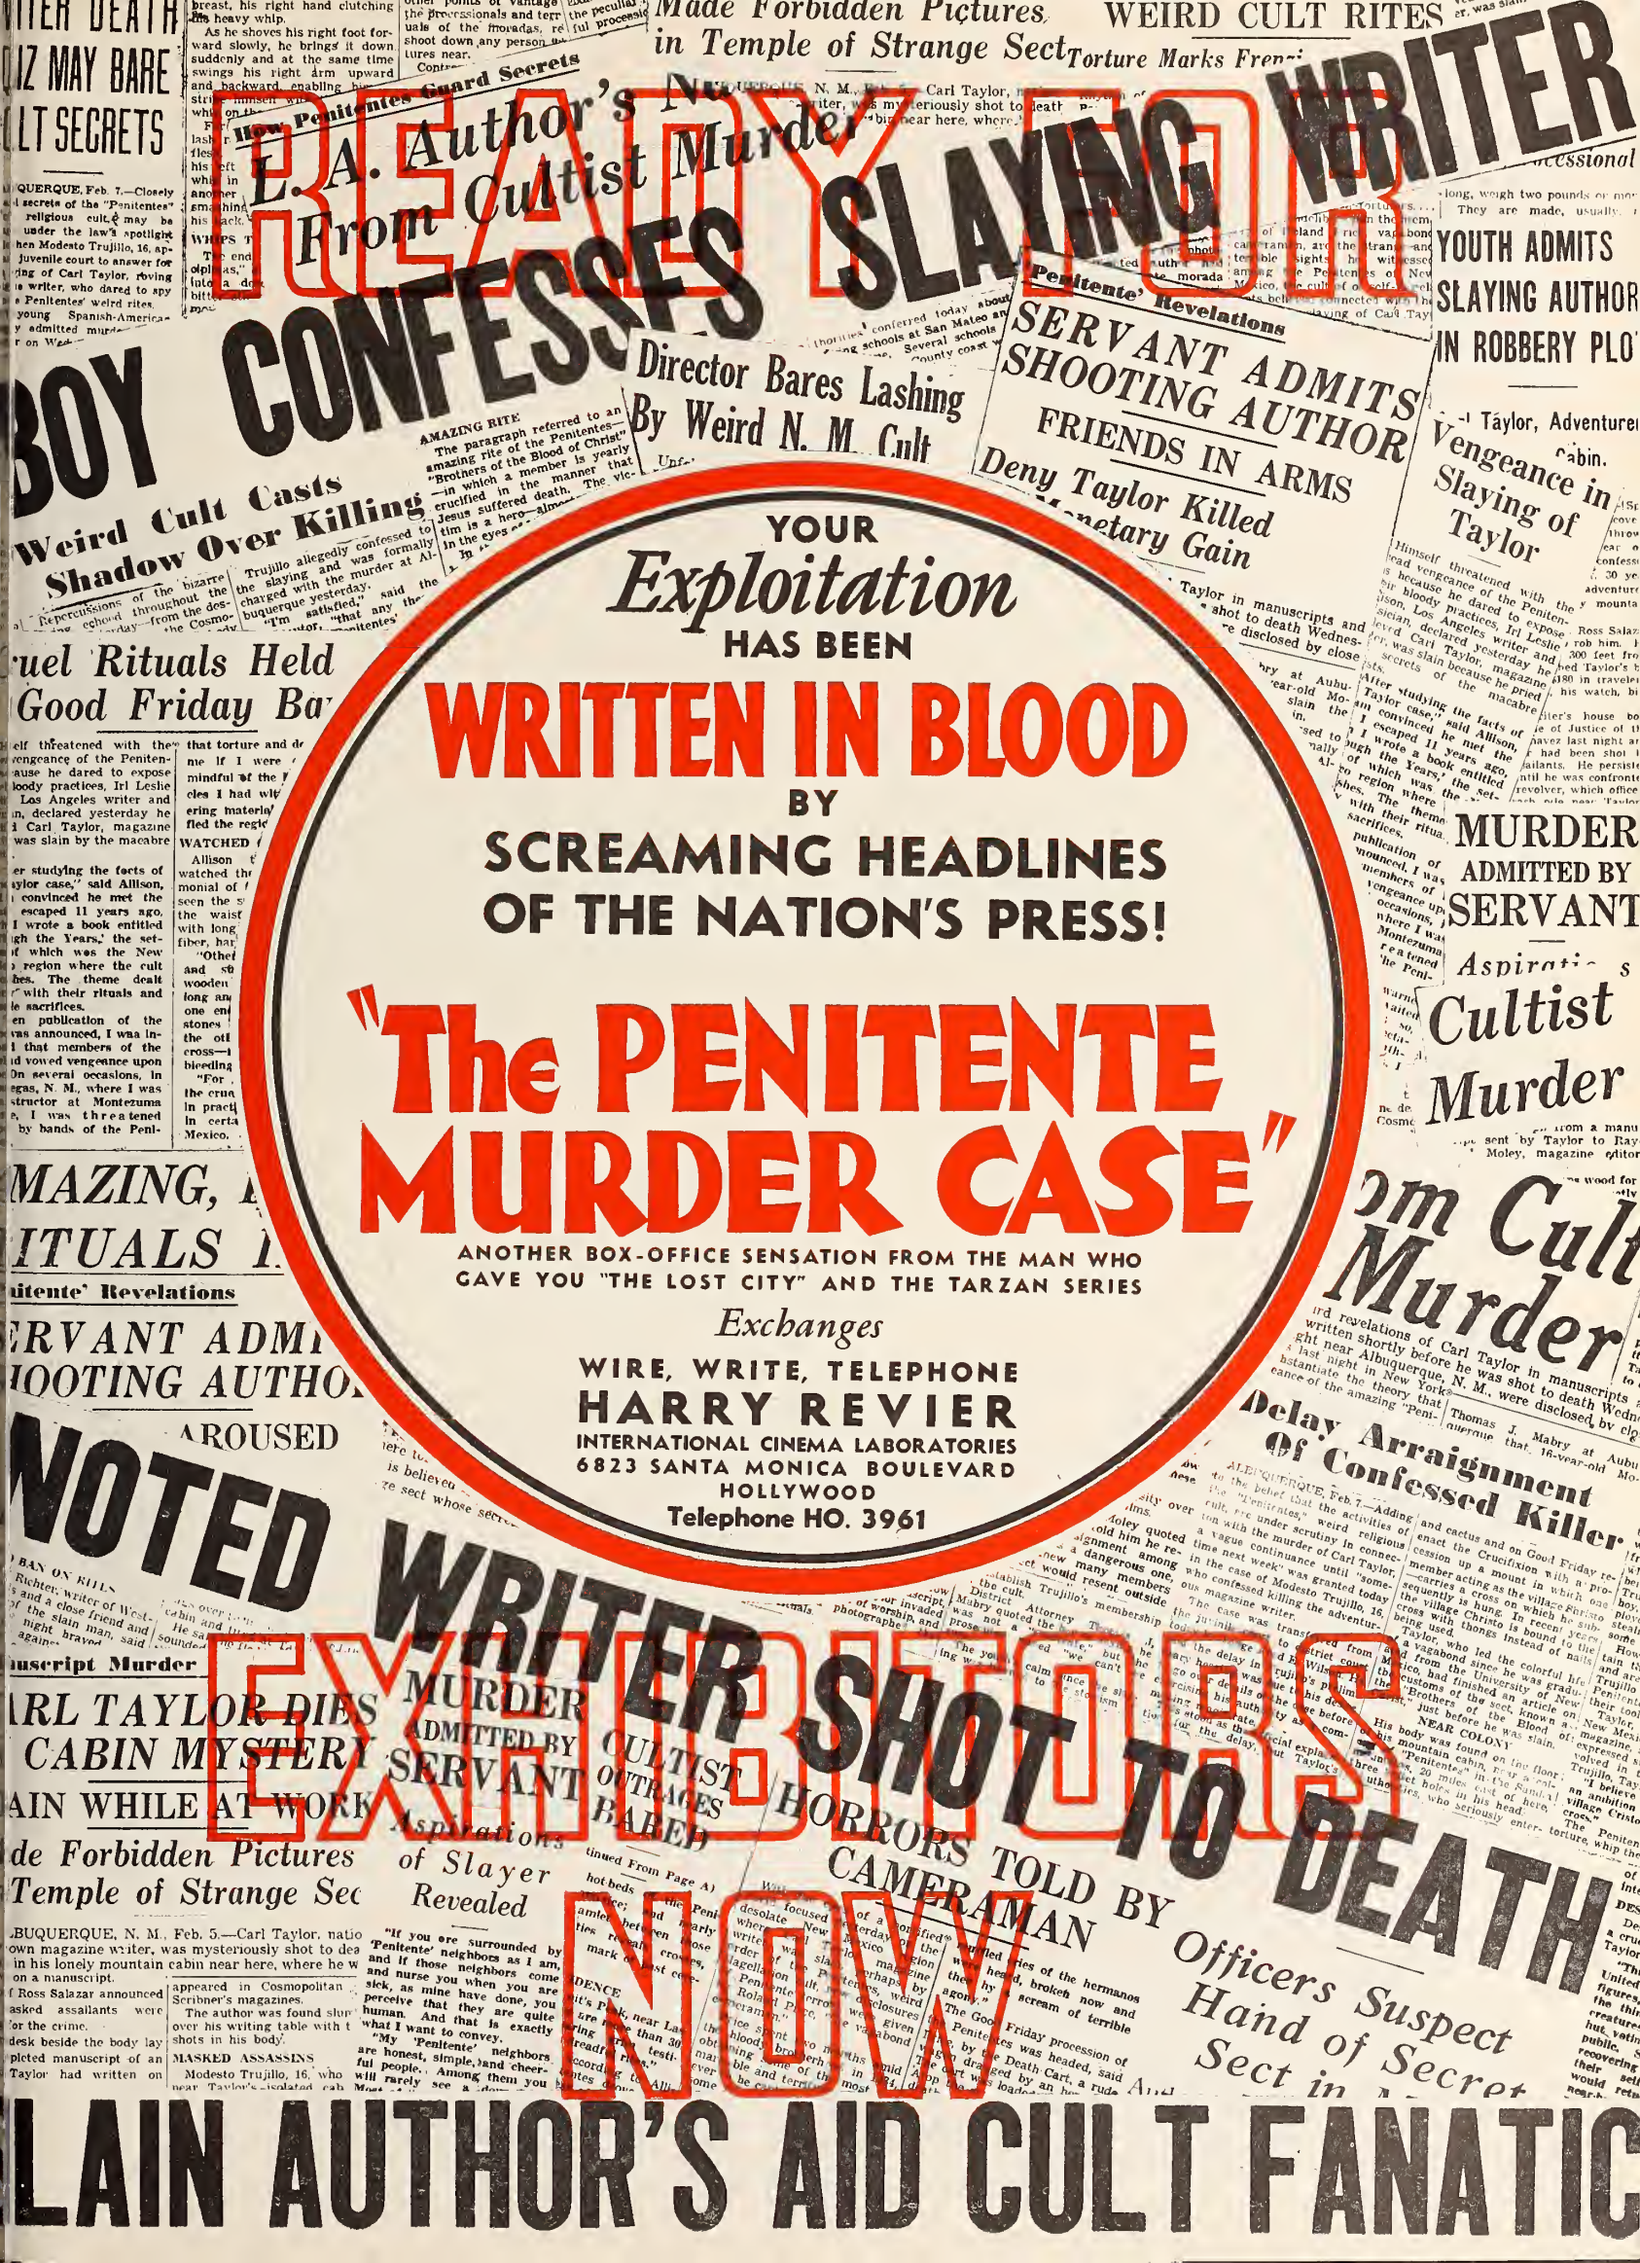
Harry Browne Passes

Word was received yesterday at the U. A. home office of the death over the week-end of Harry Browne, a salesman in the Atlanta exchange. Browne was reported killed in an automobile accident. Further details were lacking.

Arthur McCoy Dies

Ottawa, March 9.—Arthur McCoy, recently appointed manager of the Tivoli Theatre at Kingston, Ont., and formerly with the Capitol here, is dead. A brother, Thomas, manages the Regent here.

Herman F. Jans Dead



Herman F. Jans, former independent producer and at one time head of Jans Prod., died yesterday. He had been inactive for the past five years.

Jones to Do "Othello"

Hollywood, March 9.—Robert Edmond Jones will produce and direct "Othello" in New York in November under sponsorship of Max Gordon. Walter Huston will play the title role, and his wife, Nan Sunderland, will play Desdemona. Jones plans to leave Hollywood as soon as his work on Pioneer's "Dancing Pirates" is completed, which will be about the first of May.

KAO Board Meet Set

The board of directors of KAO will meet Thursday to set a date for the annual stockholders' meeting. A financial report being completed by Price, Waterhouse will be approved at the meeting and later sent out to stockholders.

vakian production soon to be released.

"Ecstasy of Young Love" opened yesterday at the Bijou, but, according to Pearlman, the title was changed to "Young Love" beginning with the 6 P. M. show. The trial of Eureka's action against Metropolis, seeking damages for misrepresentation, is expected to get under way within two weeks. The court declared the picture at the Bijou might be run if the word "Ecstasy" was eliminated.

Garmes Is Signed Again

Lee Garmes has again been signed by Charles MacArthur and Ben Hecht to act as co-director and cameraman. The next picture is tentatively titled "The Monster."

RKO Men Meet on Coast

SAN FRANCISCO, March 9.—About 40 coast sales staff members attended a one-day conference held at the St. Francis, with Ned E. Depinet and Jules Levy presiding.

Also incoming on the same boat are ALEX YOKEL, back from the London opening of "Three Men On A Horse"; JOSEPH FRIEDMAN, London representative of Columbia; ROBERT STERN, Variety's Paris correspondent, and M. BUERK of Osso Films.

Y. FRANK FREEMAN, Paramount vice-president in charge of theatre operations, left for the south over the week-end to confer with Paramount operating partners. He will be away about 10 days, visiting the company's principal affiliates in the southern states.

CHARLES STERN, southern division manager for U. A. got back yesterday from a seven-week tour of exchanges under his supervision. He is somewhat ebullient over the deals he captured on the trip.

WILLIAM E. ATKINSON, former receiver for Fox Theatres, returned yesterday from a month's vacation in the West Indies. He will leave today for his home in University, Va.

CHARLES SKOURAS is due to visit these parts again in about three weeks. SPYROS and MRS. SKOURAS, WILLIAM T. POWERS and IRVING BARRY returned from the west coast Sunday.

ED OLMSTEAD is expected from the coast next week to assume new duties as Columbia publicity head at the home office.

HARVEY B. NEWINS will leave next Monday for Asheville, N. C., for a couple of rounds of golf between business sessions.

GRADWELL SEARS returned yesterday from the coast. A. W. SMITH, JR., preceded him by a few days, having taken the air route.

MARC LACHMAN, just back from Hollywood, has moved his offices from the Paramount Bldg. to Park Ave.

LOUIS FRISCH and LOU WEINBERG returned yesterday from two weeks at Miami. Are their faces brown?

JOCK LAWRENCE, head of United Artists' publicity on the coast, left for the studios over the week-end.

LOU ANGER is in from Hollywood. JOSEPH M. SCHENCK is scheduled to arrive later.

RICHARD A. ROWLAND denies those reports linking him with a Paramount deal.

HERBERT J. YATES will sail tomorrow for England on laboratory matters.

FREDDIE BARTHOLOMEW, still weak from a bad cold, visited the U. A. home offices yesterday.

S. CHARLES EINFELD is all het up over the week-end business garnered by "Colleen" at the Strand. So much so that he's sent out telegrams to the press telling of the "standing room" crowds and that the picture "looks like one of the biggest hits of all Warner musicals."

JOE HORNSTEIN, who returned yesterday from a week-end in Atlantic City, almost scored a hole in one. A gentle breeze could have done the trick, but the elements conspired against JOE.

PURNELL PRATT left for the coast yesterday. Instead of reporting at Republic he will check in at RKO where CHRISTY CABANNE will direct him in his next film.

Former Senator JAMES A. REED has returned to Kansas City after spending a few days in town conferring with Warner lawyers on the St. Louis case.

OVER 4000 SUPREX TYPE ARCS ARE NOW IN OPERATION

SUPREX EQUIPPED?

THE Suprex High Intensity Arc has been acclaimed as "the outstanding achievement of years" in the field of motion picture projection.

The development of this improved type of carbon arc by the National Carbon Company Research Laboratories puts High Intensity Projection within the economic reach of theatres of small and moderate size.

The advantages of High Intensity Projection are:

A snow white light that gives clarity and depth to black and white productions, and natural color values in color features and sequences.

A brilliancy of screen illumination which allows sufficient supplementary lighting in the theatre for comfortable vision from the moment of entrance.

Take advantage of the patronage drawing power of this superior projection light.

Columbia May Start Making Films Abroad

Friedman Here to Talk Over the Details

Columbia is discussing plans to produce in England, it was revealed yesterday with the arrival on the Ile de France of Joseph Friedman, in charge of sales for the company in England and the continent.

Although Friedman would not discuss the Columbia plans for making pictures in London, Joseph Seidelman, head of the company's foreign activities, stated that this was the purpose of Friedman's trip.

Accompanying Friedman were Alex G. Pincus, president, and Charles A. Buerk, a director of Colodis, S. A., the parent company for Osso, which distributes Columbia product in France, Belgium and North Africa.

Seidelman, Friedman and Pincus will leave next week for Hollywood to confer with Harry and Jack Cohn. It was stated that at the coast meetings details pertaining to the number of pictures, the studio to be leased and

Federal Board May Get NRA Function

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Legislation vesting the Federal Trade Commission with functions formerly conducted by the NRA may be incorporated in a bill extending the powers of the commission, under consideration today at an executive session of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee.

Suggested by Senator King of Utah, the plan would enable the commission to cooperate with trade and industries in the adoption of voluntary agreements for the conduct of business. Any agreements made with the commission might provide for "the

W. E. Reports 1935 Net of $2,620,279

Western Electric sales increased to $105,417,000 for 1935, a gain of approximately 15 per cent over the previous year. This, with other income from subsidiaries and affiliated companies, produced a net of $2,620,279 which was carried to surplus. This compares with a deficit of $7,751,548 for 1934.

Total assets of $273,666,079 are listed. For 1934 the total was $306,294,326.

Temporary Stay Halts City's Sales Tax Levies Upon Films

A temporary stay restraining both the city and distributors from levying or collecting the two per cent sales tax on film rentals was granted to the I.T.O.A. yesterday by the Appellate Division, pending the determination by that court of an appeal from the city comptroller's decision holding film rentals to be subject to the tax.

The I.T.O.A. action was brought by Harlou and Quinral, Inc., operators of Brooklyn theatres. Hearing on their appeal has been placed on the Appellate Division calendar for March 20. The theatres' opposition to the sales tax is independent of that being conducted by distributors, who recognize an appeal being taken by the United Artists exchange as a test case.

Congressmen Seem Averse To Move Against Booking

WASHINGTON, March 10.—The apparent disinclination of members of Congress to become involved in controversies over trade practices was seen today in questions asked by members of the Pettengill sub-committee in charge of block booking legislation.

Assured by representatives of the producers and independent exhibitors that the economic question was the most important one involved and that film improvement would be secured only indirectly, Representative Cooper of Ohio declared that if this were so, millions of people throughout the country have been deceived, for most of the communications reaching him on the subject have stressed the moral question.

The testimony of a number of women opposed to the legislation was heard. They were unanimous in the declaration that the organizations which they represent were obtaining the films they wanted with little difficulty. At this point Chairman Pettengill remarked that it now appeared that the "only question is whether it is necessary to implement local public opinion by some legislation or whether it can be done in some other way."

Witnesses who objected to the bill, all of whom had appeared before the

Duffy Fights Ascap Stand On Copyright

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Representatives of Ascap, who for the past two weeks have attacked screen and other users of their material before the House Patents Committee, were attacked in turn today as the committee began to hear Ascap's opponents on copyright legislation.

It became apparent early today that if as much time were to be given each opposing group as has been granted Ascap, the taking of testimony would not be completed before the end of April and it would be practically impossible to enact any legislation this session.

Reversing the usual practice of hearing proponents of legislation first, it was not until today that the committee consented to listen to Senator Duffy of Wisconsin, author of the bill passed

Jersey Moves For 10% Tax On Theatres

Levy Expected to Yield $2,000,000 Annually

TRENTON, March 10.—A 10 per cent tax on the gross receipts of all amusements has been agreed upon by a joint House and Senate Emergency Relief Committee, it was revealed here today.

The new levy is estimated to produce $2,000,000 and is based on reports by the Department of Commerce that amusement receipts in the state totaled in excess of $19,000,000 last year.

With the introduction of the tax measure in the Assembly tonight, sufficient votes have been pledged to pass the levy under suspension of the rules to prevent opposition organizing against it. The tax would go into effect April 15 and would be payable monthly.

Charitable and religious performances would be exempt. Legislators today declared the tax would be ap-

Fligelstone Named President of CEA

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, March 10.—T. H. Fligelstone, former vice-president, today was elected president of the C.E.A. without opposition at the annual meeting of the organization. Charles P. Metcalfe defeated E. J. Hings for the vice-presidency.

The London Home Counties Branch moved to amend the rules so as to include among the objects of the association the provision that "film rentals paid by members shall not exceed the maximum sums fixed from time to time by the council." The result of a vote on the question is not expected to be available for some time to come.

About 1,000, a record number, were present at the banquet tonight at Grosvenor House.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, March 10.

GRABBING orthodoxy by the throat and silencing its last protesting gurgle, Louis B. Mayer, easily first candidate for emperor of Hollywood if anyone should consider such a political philosophy, has furnished this correspondent with his journey's outstanding surprise. L. B. knows his dramatics, off and on celluloid, but, within this knowledge, never has sprung a viewpoint more punctuated with revolution and departure from the accepted than that which now follows. . . .

He would completely overturn the existing order of sales, predicating his theory on the gentle and considerate observation, often slightly overlooked, that the exhibitor has the right to live. Where, as all and sundry are aware full well, the theatre operator now guarantees the distributor that the latter will come out and both share when there are grosses to share, Mayer would do this:

Fix the exhibitor's profit, after taking full cognizance of rent, overhead, carrying charges and the like. Guarantee him his net.

Set up a rising scale—after the theatre's end—and compute the distributor's earnings from that point on.

In other words, place the gamble on the distributor, not on the exhibitor, and let the draw of the product determine the issue. . . .

Mayer talking now:

"This is the answer on returns to the producer and distributor on pictures like 'Mutiny on the Bounty.' Why shouldn't the producer get his just reward for pictures of such calibre? The plan, guaranteeing the exhibitor his normal profit, will profit the producer in direct ratio to the quality of the product he turns out. If merit is lacking, it is the producer who would take it on the chin, and he should. The one stipulation I would make would concern the honesty of the exhibitor which, of course, must be beyond question. The idea would apply to A houses and to B theatres as well." . . .

All of this came about through a question. It was: "What is the reward for making superlative attractions in a double feature market?" Mayer's answer was: "I don't know. We are getting our share, but it is not all that we should." The verbal revolution followed immediately thereafter. Whatever roars develop from Leo's New York lair when this reaches such eyes as Al Lichtman's and Felix Feist's, not to overlook Bill Rodgers', Eddie Saunders' and Tom Connors', may be mere shouts and murmurs by comparison with exhibitor reaction. Be patient. . . .

Since Metro's costs, by popular acknowledgment, top all others in this gold-paved countryside, inquiry about the speculative outcome of more and more expensive negatives stacked up as a logical something to ask the generalissimo of the Metro domain. "They're mounting and mounting"—this with emphasis—"but I don't know where it all will end," was Mayer's judgment. "I do know, on the other hand, that whatever is in this business is in the product. You may not have heard that we once destroyed a $500,000 negative because we were not satisfied with the results and did it over again. The picture was 'Prosperity' with Marie Dressler. The rest is history." . . .

English competition is being felt in Hollywood, it is Mayer's opinion. He sees the industry there growing and finds as a contributing factor of import the manner in which the British government stands behind its film business. "In this country, the Government blocks the industry," he remarked, thereby emphasizing his long-known allegiance to the Republican party. His reference was to taxation, but our own interest was far more directly concerned with the status of production, present and future, as Mayer envisioned it. . . .

He is, of course, inordinately and justifiably, proud of his company's record in the hazardous field of manufacturing entertainment. Facts to prove his point fall easily from ready lips. "We have survived the death of Lon Chaney, of Marie Dressler, our biggest drawing card, and Thalberg's virtual inactivity for eighteen months due to sickness. With the most formidable array of starring talent in Hollywood, we are continuing our endeavors along those lines. This Metro family sticks together, as you are aware. Shearer, Crawford, Garbo and the others have been on this lot for years. Yet it is my opinion, that, in addition to the veterans, we have on hand an equally impressive group of newcomers. Take a look for yourself. There are Eleanor Powell, Rosalind Russell, Freddie Bartholomew, Luise Rainer—wait until you see her in 'The Great Ziegfeld'—Bill Powell and the new starring team of MacDonald and Eddy. What other studio can point to a record of such star development?" . . .

On manpower, Mayer was as decidedly emphatic. When he declared there was no replacement for brains, he trod on ground that brooked no argument. "We have plenty around here, but I would hire more if I knew where to find them. This aggravating, worrisome job of making pictures is no single man's task. Alert thinking power is an invaluable and necessary adjunct. It's one of Hollywood's greatest problems—to find it. There couldn't possibly be too much of it on any one lot. I've been at this a long time. I know." . . .

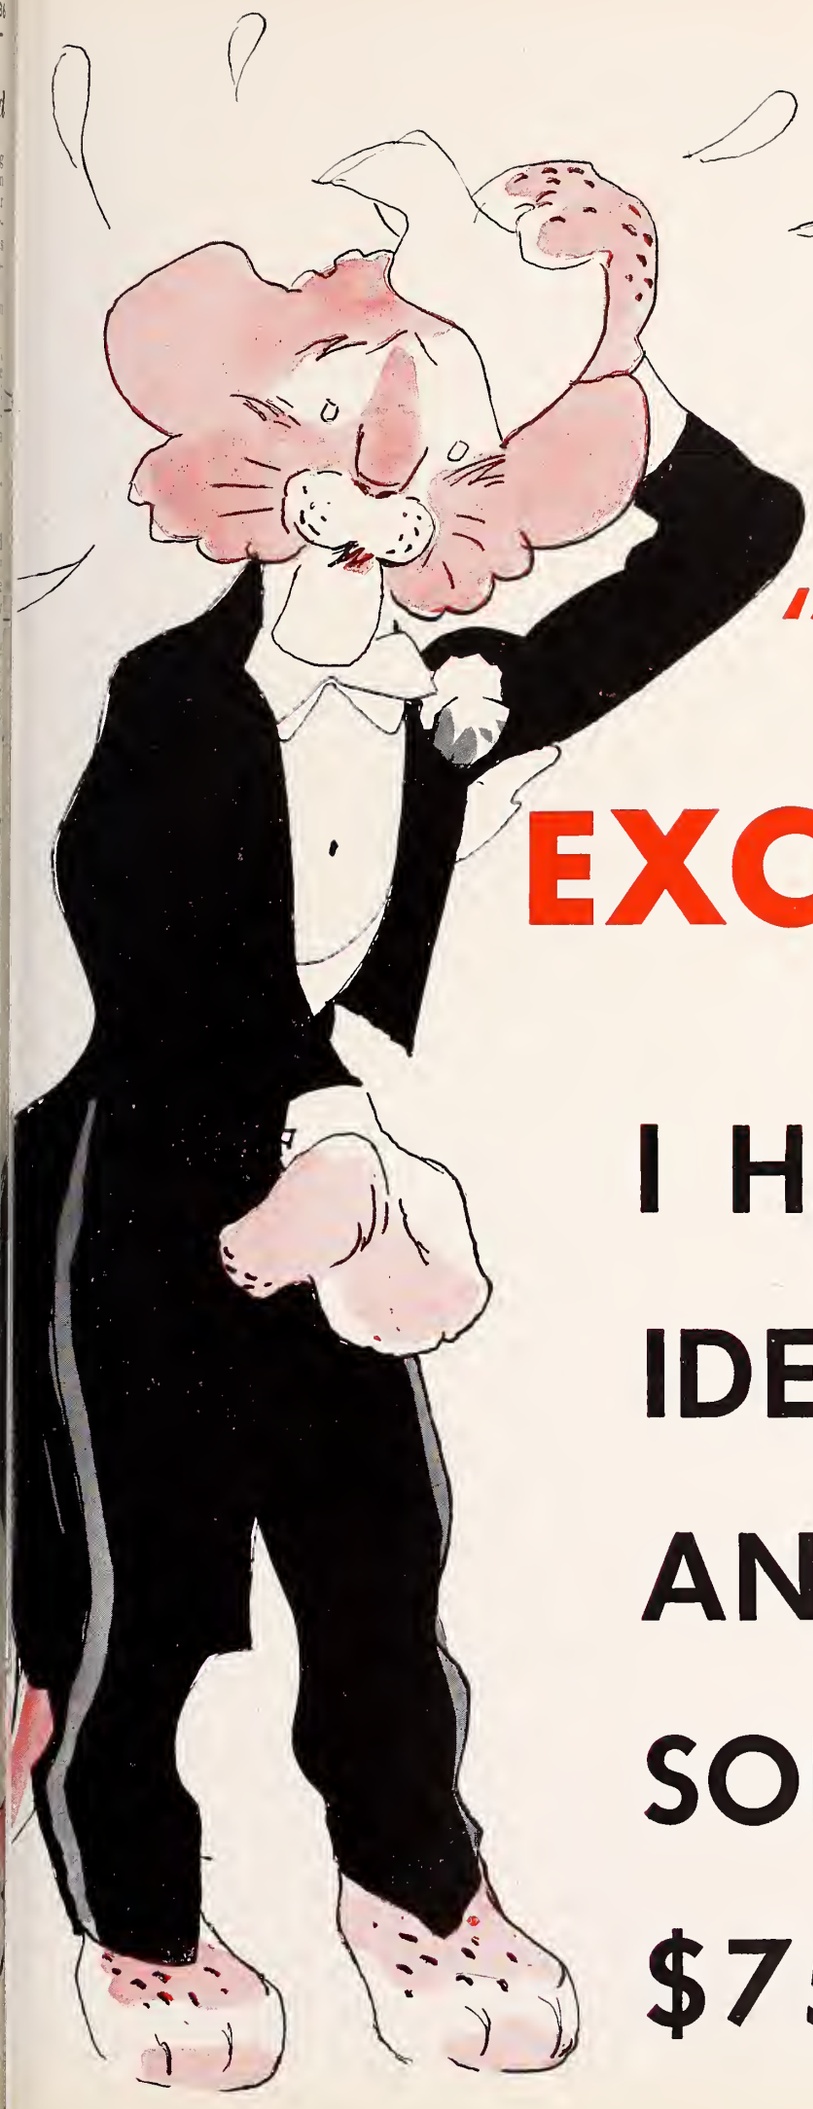
Cagney Cancellation Arguments Offered

LOS ANGELES, March 10.—Ruling that the evidence bears out the claim of James Cagney that Jack Warner promised that the studio would not require more than four Cagney pictures annually, Judge Charles I. Bogue today heard argument of counsel on the legal aspects affecting the cancellation of the Cagney contract.

W. I. Gilbert, Cagney attorney, cited numerous cases in which the courts have cancelled contracts signed with oral reservations. J. Ray Files answered this argument by making a plea for the sanctity of written instruments. Judge Bogue interrupted him, stating that the evidence in the case indicates that neither of the parties seemed to hold contracts sacred, and supported this statement by recalling the testimony of Warner in which he admitted tearing up previous Cagney contracts.

Following the conclusion of the Files argument tomorrow, it is possible that Judge Bogue will render final judgment in the case from the bench.

Fabian to Continue Amateurs After Row



Amateur shows will be continued at the Fox, Brooklyn, despite the noisy demonstration at the theatre Monday night which was followed by the arrest of eight persons, Simon Fabian, operator of the house, stated yesterday.

Fabian regards the non-professional talent as a big drawing card and has no intention of discontinuing the performances. The shows are broadcast every week.

In addition to this type of show, Fabian tonight will put on "Husbands and Wives," with professional talent, to be broadcast over WOR.

Kelly Going to Mexico

Arthur W. Kelly, vice-president of U. A. in charge of foreign sales exclusive of England and the continent, will leave Saturday for Mexico City on the first lap of a six-month tour of branches under his supervision. From Mexico City he will go to Panama and then Havana. Walter Gould, who recently returned from a seven-month trip to South America, will accompany Kelly.

Duffy Fights Ascap Stand On Copyright

last session by the Senate, who denied the allegation of Gene Buck, Ascap president, that the bill had been dictated by the broadcasters and the power trust and rushed through the Senate.

"The five men who drafted this bill were absolutely impartial," the Senator asserted. "They had no axe to grind. There is nothing to the silly charge that the power trust had anything to do with this bill; it has received very emphatic approval from many sources, except, of course, some groups which have a selfish interest in some phases of the existing law."

Duffy Aggressive

Almost from the start, Senator Duffy carried the fight into Ascap territory, showing the committee a number of letters on Ascap stationery threatening small operators of restaurants, dance halls and similar places with suits unless licenses were taken out, to prove, he said, that Ascap has done "some of these things they say they don't do."

The Senate measure, he claimed, will not deprive authors of any privileges they now have, and all the rights of the author to assign his property as he sees fit are provided for, and those rights are provided for the author rather than the publishers. The much-assailed provision including in the right to produce a picture the right to exhibit was defended by Duffy as a safeguard for exhibitors from being held up by authors attempting to collect at both ends and is designed to prevent an author who has granted film rights from preventing exhibition.

Declaring Ascap has monopolized the hearings so far in a manner which "might give the impression they are the only ones concerned," Duffy defended the proposed elimination of the $250 minimum damage clause, pointing out that no other country has such a penalty in its copyright law and that to leave the determination of damage penalties in the hands of the courts would prevent intimidation of users of music.

Infringement Guarded Against

"From the loud lamentations by representatives of the society, one would think my bill gives the composers no redress," he commented. "It contains adequate provision for infringements, but removes a blackjack which enables the society to levy an unconscionable sum on users of music."

He added that the bill amply protects against piracy, including injunction clauses, provisions for actual damages and recovery of infringers' profits, and punitive damages. Instead of limiting the recovery for infringement, he said, copyright owners "would have the right to sue for as much as $1,000,000." He charged that the $250 minimum clause has been "flagrantly abused."

"I think it is incorrect in considering copyright to consider only the persons who get the copyright," he told the committee. "I don't think the courts would hold that you must not consider the great mass of people who are the consuming public. It is up to Congress to see that the consuming public has some protection."

Duffy declared he believed Buck, Nathan Burkan and E. C. Mills of Ascap mistaken in their statements about the use of the $250 clause. "The people of my state are very resentful and I think there is a reason for it," he said. He challenged the claim of the three that the clause will put Ascap out of business.

Members of the committee clashed with Duffy on his advocacy of adherence to the Berne Convention on the ground that a number of European countries now discriminate against American authors and composers. Chairman Sirovich also objected because under the convention the importation of books printed abroad would be permitted, although Duffy contended that the Department of Labor had estimated that not more than 350 people would be affected by such importations.

Representatives of the broadcasters will appear before the committee tomorrow to reply to charges of Ascap officials that they are trying to get music for nothing and have practiced widespread piracy.

Congressmen Seem Averse To Move Against Booking

Senate sub-committee, were agreed that block booking is a trade practice of no importance to those who are seeking better films, and, it was declared by Mrs. Samuel A. Ellsworth of Worcester, Mass., few people outside the industry know what block booking is, and that organizations frequently vote condemnation of it without knowing what they are voting on.

"Full cooperation in removing objectionable pictures," was reported by Mrs. Alonzo Richardson of the Atlanta Board of Review. She asserted that "many mothers use theatres as day nurseries."

Likened to Book-of-Month Club

Declaring that conditions now are far different from those of a year ago when the Pettengill bill was introduced, Mrs. Edward Barsham of Wilmington compared block booking of pictures to Book-of-the-Month Clubs, pointing out that in neither instance did the purchaser know exactly what he was getting, but depended upon the reputation of those with whom he was dealing.

Macon, Ga., theatre managers have cooperated fully with her organization to improve the quality of films, it was said by Mrs. Pilcy Chestney of the Better Films Committee of that city, while Mrs. Ellsworth told of the success which has been achieved by the Worcester Board of Review, much to the gratification of Representative Holmes, sub-committee member who, as mayor of Worcester, created the board.

Stressing the contention that block booking is a problem for the industry, Mrs. Francis J. Flagg, of Newton, Mass., declared that a change in the distribution system would not necessarily eliminate the films which the women's organizations are fighting.

Admitting that enactment of the legislation may result in an increase in the cost of films to the exhibitor, Nathan Yamins of Fall River, Mass., president of Allied, told the sub-committee that his independents were willing to pay more because they believed that they would make more money and asserted that in the end the film cost per year would be no greater. He described block booking from the independents' point of view, telling the committee that the exhibitor was forced, in 50 per cent of the cases, to take all or none of a block of features and, in addition, was required to take shorts and, if the producer had one, a newsreel.

The four points on which the independents are attacking block booking, he said, are that it is un-American, forces the buying of poor box-office films, deprives the exhibitor of worth while product from sources other than his blocks, and compels the playing of pictures against which there may be a strong local objection, but which he must play or pay for.

Yamins was questioned at length by committee members concerning the mechanical details of distribution and the allocation of films to affiliated houses. He explained, adding finally, "the only issue is whether the system of block booking involves an unfair trade practice and whether a continuance of that practice has such an effect on the public as to require legislative action."

Yamins Lauds Distributors

The distributors have a good distributing system, the witness admitted, but, he charged, the producers are less efficient and a few men in Hollywood determine what shall be seen by the people in the east, from where the money to make pictures comes.

Yamins interrupted his testimony to admit a talk by Miss Katherine Lyford of Boston, representing the Massachusetts Civic League. Miss Lyford read to the committee the statement which she presented at the Senate hearings, after attacking the statements made by the group of women who testified against the bill earlier in the day. In answer to a question of Representative Cooper as to whether the elimination of block booking will mean the elimination of bad pictures—a query he has propounded to practically every witness—Miss Lyford expressed the opinion that it would be the "first step" toward such a result.

Probe WPA Theatre

BOSTON, March 10.—An investigation started at State WPA headquarters here will probe into the activities which disrupted the Federal theatre program in Massachusetts, resulting in the suspension of Hiram Motherwell, regional director, and Laurence Hanson, state director.

Frank Lloyd Re-Signed

HOLLYWOOD, March 10. — Frank Lloyd has been signed to a new three-year contract with Paramount. He will head his own producing unit and is slated to make four a year.

20th-Fox and S. & C. Trial Is Postponed

Although scheduled to get under way before a jury in the N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday, the suit filed by Twentieth Century-Fox against Springer & Cocalis for $18,000 allegedly due on overages from six pictures on a 1934-35 contract was put over until today because of a crowded calendar.

The distributor claims that the overages were to have been settled on each picture played while the circuit contends the contract was cumulative. Both Sam Cocalis and Jack W. Springer signed the pact.

E. C. Grainger, eastern division sales head for Twentieth Century-Fox, is slated to be the first witness when the case goes on. Harry H. Buxbaum, Joe Lee and Moe Sanders of the New York exchange are also prepared to take the stand. Cocalis and Springer will be the first witnesses for the defense.

Because of the litigation, the circuit this year did not buy Twentieth Century-Fox.

J. T. Comerford Gets New Executive Post

SCRANTON, March 10. — John T. Comerford, nephew of M. E. Comerford and brother of the late M. B. Comerford, has become supervisor of all Comerford neighborhood houses from Forest City to Plymouth.

Comerford formerly was manager of the Orpheum, Wilkes-Barre.

Other changes made by Frank C. Walker, vice-president, follow:

William Walsh, manager of the Strand and former assistant at the Penn, named manager of the Orpheum; Paul Burke, assistant at the Strand, named assistant at the Orpheum; Edward Lawler, Burgess of Larksville and assistant manager at the Irving, named manager of the Strand; William Keating, assistant at the Sterling, named assistant at the Strand; William Holmes of the Orpheum named assistant manager at the Irving.

Comerford will be given a testimonial dinner in Wilkes-Barre within the next two weeks.

Chicago Bank Night Pulls 10,000 Crowd

CHICAGO, March 10.—With $1,100 as the Bank Night prize at the Avalon recently, more than 10,000 people attended. Through the use of the matinee plan this great number of admissions were taken in and broke all records for one day's business there.

At 4 o'clock in the afternoon all available Warner theatre men at the home office had been pressed into service to help handle the crowds.

"Fauntleroy" Is Held

The first two spots to play "Little Lord Fauntleroy" will hold the picture a second week, according to U. A. The theatres are the State, Miami Beach, and the Erlanger, Philadelphia.

Milbury in Clinton Spot

L. A. Wilmot Milbury, who will give up operation of the Topaz, Highbridge, N. Y., has taken a lease on the Music Hall, Clinton, N. J., which he will begin operating next month.

Columbia May Start Making Films Abroad

the stars to appear in the films will be decided upon.

Friedman intends to spend four weeks on this side of the ocean. In a day or so he will go to Montreal.

Commenting on business conditions in his territories, the Columbia foreign executive stated they are very good and that all of the 4,500 theatres are open and doing well. All releases are distributed in England and on the Continent, he said.

Pincus, likewise, was optimistic about general business in France, Belgium and North Africa, adding that no theatres are closed. He stated that Adolph Osso is expected to come over shortly.

On the same boat was Laudy Lawrence, general manager for M-G-M in Europe. He denied any knowledge of the threatened boycott in Barcelona affecting his company. Home office executives last week stated they had received a protest from every theatre owner in Barcelona and that the matter had been cabled to Lawrence, who turned it over to one of his assistants.

Lawrence was met at the pier by his mother, who came on from Miami for the occasion, and Mort Spring and David Blum.

Sonja Henie, Norwegian skating champion, was another passenger. She said she had received offers from M-G-M, Paramount and other producers, but has not made up her mind which one to take. She added she will leave for Hollywood in 10 days. Alex Yokel, producer of "Three Men on a Horse," returned from London after attending a premier of the play.

Speigelberg Will Decide Steuer Fee

claims this is in excess to what it expected to pay and by agreement with Steuer has left the amount to be determined by Justice Speigelberg.

The action involving RKO arose when the Apollo and Hollywood, taken over from M. & S. on a long term lease, were not being given the run of pictures provided in the contract, according to M. & S., which further held that its income from these theatres was diminished as a result.

Loew's later stepped into the picture and acquired the theatres, but not until the arbiters had awarded the independent circuit the decision.

Steuer is said to have received $40,000 from RKO which had been awarded to M. & S. in the decision. This money, it was stated, has not been turned over to the independent circuit. The hearing has been set down for March 23.

Jersey Moves For 10% Tax On Theatres

plicable to all sporting events, theatres and other types of entertainments.

Decision to levy the tax on amusements came as a surprise since this classification was exempt from the general sales tax voted last year and then repealed four months later. It is part of a four-way program, other levies being placed on soft drinks, cosmetics and tobacco.

Taxes and Strikes Discussed

Pending tax legislation and the current building service strike were discussed yesterday by a number of independent circuit operators at a special meeting at the Astor. Although major circuit operators were asked to attend, representatives from Loew's and RKO failed to put in an appearance. Another session will be held Friday. Harry Brandt presided.

Matters taken up in brief related to admission of children, the two per cent sales tax and the bill recently introduced in Albany by Assemblyman B. J. Moran providing for one tenth of a cent tax on each foot of film.

The building service strike was touched lightly, since no moves have yet been taken to extend it to theatres.

Meanwhile, the strike yesterday spread to the theatre district. Elevator operators and porters at the Paramount Bldg. and 1600 Broadway walked out. The Paramount had little difficulty in replacing the men, but all service was suspended at 1600 Broadway for about two hours.

Operators at the Loew Bldg. and 729 Seventh Ave. were expected to walk out at noon yesterday, but the move failed to materialize. Men running the elevators at the RKO and RCA buildings stated they were not affected by the strike as they are not tied up with the union involved.

Warners last week settled with the union, thereby preventing a threatened walkout.

Columbus Talks New Tax

COLUMBUS, March 10. — Imposition of a 10 per cent tax by the city against local theatres to help take care of the 1936 operating budget, which must be reduced $2,100,000, looms as a possibility here.

The city, already hard pressed for funds, anticipated raising revenue through a three-mill tax levy, but it was defeated in a recent vote. As a result, Mayor Myron B. Gressman has issued retrenchment orders. This will affect the personnel of all city departments, but particularly the safety division, from which approximately 327 policemen and firemen will be dismissed within the next few days. Several fire stations will be closed, and radio cruisers abandoned, according to present plans.

The city attempted to levy a 10 per cent impost against theatres for the same purpose a year or so ago, but was unsuccessful, due to the efforts of P. J. Wood, secretary of the Ohio I. T. O.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Singing Kid"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, March 10.—Here's an Al Jolson picture that departs widely from the beaten path. A gay combination of gags, musical comedy, drama and romance, flavored with a girl-decorated backstage theatre spectacle, it has those qualities which will surely please exhibitors and audiences.

The film, which has been given elaborate production, is really two stories. One tells of Jolson, the great actor, generous to a fault, the toast of Broadway and everybody's friend, yet a man who fell victim to a double-crossing scheme. It opens to Jolson's singing of a number of his best known hits of other years on stage and screen. The backstage atmosphere is embellished by Jack Durant and Frank Mitchell, knockabout comedy duo, and is highlighted by a musical chase featuring the Yacht Club Boys and Jolson. After this talented group has the whole city dancing to its rhythm Jolson winds up with a performance of his well known mammy music. Following the culmination of these melodious interludes Jolson is the victim of a double-cross when Lyle Talbot, attorney, and Claire Dodd, sweetie, run off with his money, a tragedy that causes him to lose his voice.

In the second episode Jolson, accompanied by Edward Everett Horton and Allen Jenkins, straight comedy stooges, is recuperating in the country. He falls in love with Beverly Roberts, who is writing a play. The romance progresses nicely. Jolson gives her to understand that his producer has purchased her play. She learns later that it is he and not the producer who has bought the yarn. This sequence is enlivened by Jolson's singing with Sybil Jason.

Back in New York, Jolson has no enthusiasm for the new show until Miss Roberts and Miss Jason appear, after which he goes on to score a great triumph.

Jolson is the traditional Al Jolson that people like to see and hear. The comedy provided by the Yacht Club Boys, Horton and Jenkins is chock full of fun. The romance and drama involving Jolson and Beverly Roberts, also Talbot and Miss Dodd, is intriguing. Miss Roberts, a newcomer, shows great promise. The majority of the songs, apart from the semi-spiritual Jolson-Winifred Shaw scene, are lilty and catchy.

The tale is based on a story by Robert Lord, adapted by Warren Duff and Pat C. Flick. Bobby Connolly's dance numbers give plenty of sparkle, while William Keighley's direction keeps it moving at a pleasing pace. The exhibitor is offered a whole load of unique showmanship potentialities, making possible the liveliest kind of exploitation which should result in a wide popular response.

To Test Missouri Law

BROOKFIELD, MO., March 10.—A test of the Sunday closing law is to be carried to the Missouri Supreme Court by Steve Sooter, manager of the municipally owned De Graw Opera House where films are shown. Sooter has been arrested and released on bond several times of late for showing films between 7 and 9 P. M. Sundays.

Short Subjects

"Will Power"

(Radio)

Edgar Kennedy, Florence Lake, Dot Farley and Jack Rice are, as usual, the quartet around which the plot revolves. Kennedy has a plan to send his brother-in-law out to seek a job. Collapsing from a heart attack, he tells the family that they will have to get out and bring in the money to exist and he concentrates on the problem of his male relative getting a job. So hard does he concentrate that a miracle happens, only it is his job that is in new hands. With his brother-in-law leaving for Chicago on a sales deal, the film ends with Kennedy bewildered. The usual Kennedy antics take place and the concentrating scenes make for good comedy. Where Kennedy has a following this should go over well. Production Code Seal, No. 1,744. Running time, 15 minutes. "G."

"Moscow Moods"

(Paramount)

A couple of familiar Russian tunes such as "Dark Eyes" and "The Volga Boatman" and a few others form the musical background for this effort which consists almost entirely of music. Yascha Bunchuk in Cossack costume, but recognizable nevertheless, expertly leads the orchestra and plays one of his famous 'cello solos, later directing his own composition. There is one of those whirlwind dance teams doing a dagger dance, and a gypsy girl does a specialty. A pleasing film with that Continental atmosphere. Production Code Seal No. 0688. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

Reorganization Plan Approved in Madison

MADISON, Wis., March 10.—Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone, overriding adherents of foreclosure, has approved an amended plan of reorganization for the Beecroft Building Co., operator of the Orpheum, Parkway and Strand here. He also has ordered the special master in the reorganization hearings to poll bondholders within the next few weeks.

The reorganization as approved provides for the borrowing from the RFC of a sum sufficient to pay off $137,000 indebtedness on first mortgage bonds on one of the company's properties and the issuance of new bonds to replace those now held by the 650 bondholders of first and refunding bonds of the company. It must pay at least half of the principal indebtedness, plus accrued interest, within 15 years, under the plan.

British Films Gain

WASHINGTON, March 10. — British pictures are offering the most serious competition to American product in Colombia, according to a report to the U. S. McClure Says Duffy's Bill Fills a Need

Hits Ascap and Pleads For Rights of Many

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Members of the House Patents Committee today were reminded sharply of their responsibility to legislate for the country as a whole rather than for any special interest, as Wallace McClure, assistant chief of the Treaty Division of the State Department and chairman of the Inter-Departmental Committee which drafted the Duffy Copyright Bill, followed Senator Duffy of Wisconsin in defense of the measure.

McClure devoted much of his testimony to a discussion of the $250 minimum damage clause, eliminated in the Duffy Bill, which he said was unjust, and declared that the interests of no one would be adversely affected by provisions giving courts broad discre-

Columbia Six-Month Profit Is $781,273

Net earnings of Columbia Pictures Corp. for the six months ended Dec. 28, 1935, of the current fiscal year, were $781,273, according to the company's semi-annual report, made public yesterday by Doremus & Co.

This was equal, after deducting dividends on old preferred stock, which has since been redeemed, to $2.74 a share on the 273,573 shares of common currently outstanding following the declaration on Dec. 10 last, of a 50 per cent stock dividend. Earnings for the corresponding six months period of 1934 amounted to $919,000, which was equal to $3.26 a share on the basis of the same number of

Film Leaders Turn Out to Honor Rabbi

LOS ANGELES, March 11.—Many film leaders turned out today for a luncheon tendered Dr. Edgar I. F. Magnin, rabbi of Bnai Brith Temple and the city's leading rabbi, by Dr. A. H. Giannini, chairman of the board of the Bank of America, at the California Club.

Magnin will sail Saturday for Hongkong on a trip which will take him to Palestine. Those who attended were Louis B. Mayer, Irving Thalberg, Sol Lesser, Jesse L. Lasky, Max Gordon, Dr. Maurice Kahn, Edwin J. Loeb of Loeb, Walker & Loeb; Mendel Silberberg of Mitchell, Silberberg & Knapp, and Red Kann.

Cancellation "Worthless," Says Yamins

Allied Leaders Appear At Booking Hearing

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The restoration of conditions existing prior to the advent of present-day booking was demanded today of the Pettengill sub-committee by independent exhibitors, bringing the presentation of their side of the controversy to a conclusion, as hearings were adjourned until next week.

A film monopoly "drunk with power" was pictured to the sub-committee by the group of Allied officials who last month placed their plea for protection before a Senate committee. The 20 per cent cancellation clause proposed by the M.P.T.O.A. would only be "twice as worthless" as the present 10 per cent provision, which is so hedged about by restrictions as to be of no value, it was declared by Nathan Yamins of Fall River, completing his testimony, started yesterday.

Lavietes Made Head Of New Conn. Group

NEW HAVEN, March 11.—Harry Lavietes of the Pequot has been elected president of the newly-organized Independent M.P.T.O. of Connecticut. Forty independent theatres were represented.

Other officers are: A. Fishman, treasurer; William Brennan, first vice-president; Joseph Reed, second vice-president; Joseph A. Davis, executive secretary, and Jack Post, recording secretary. Directors include the officers and Dr. J. B. Fishman, Charles Levine, Harry Gale, Morris Bailey, Ralph Pascho, Joseph Shulman, Dave Maglena, George Comden, and Jack Schwartz.

Meyer Fine's Latest Theatre to Be 28th

With the opening of the new 1,800-seat theatre in Shaker Heights, O., to be called the Shaker, on April 11, Associated Theatres will have 26 in the circuit, Meyer Fine, president, stated yesterday.

Fine has been here since Monday with his partner, Sam H. Stecker, on business, and had planned to leave yesterday for Cleveland. Due to bad driving weather Fine and Stecker have delayed their return.

Block Censor Bill

Jackson, Miss., March 11.—The House bill to create a Mississippi board of censors was reported unfavorably today. This is believed to end chances for its passage.

Battle Lines Quickly Drawn On Jersey Tax

TRENTON, March 11.—The fate of the amusement tax bill hung in the balance tonight as legislative leaders were unable to agree on its passage.

Senate President John C. Barbour of Passaic said he "was not a mind reader" and did not know whether the legislation would pass.

At a long conference prior to the session, leaders were unable to get sufficient members to pledge themselves to vote for the bill. It was conceded at the State House the amusement tax and similar levies in the so-called luxury tax program have little chance of passage if they do not go through tonight under suspension of the rules.

Strong opposition developed earlier in the day. A determined group in the legislature favored a general sales or income tax in place of the luxury tax program. In addition theatre men, led by Allied of New Jersey, brought pressure to bear.

The amusement levy, 10 per cent on gross receipts, was slated originally as a separate tax. Then some legislators moved to consolidate four tax measures into a single bill to make the enactment easier. This encouraged theatre interests, because it united with them all the opposition

Hardu to Return for Federal Suit Moves

Russell Hardy, special assistant to the attorney general, and Walter Rice are due from Washington the end of the week in connection with the civil action filed in New York recently in which the Government alleges a conspiracy on the part of Warners, Paramount and RKO to withhold product from the Ambassador, Missouri and New Grand Central in St. Louis.

Answers to the suit are scheduled to be filed in Federal Court here early next week, when it is expected the Government will seek preference on the calendar.

Say Laemmle Will Modify Option Terms

Prospects of Sale Held Brighter as Result

By RED KANN

LOS ANGELES, March 11.—Unless unforeseen obstacles beset the path, Standard Capital will lift the option to purchase Universal by the March 14 deadline.

Today, it is understood, Carl Laemmle, who had been opposed to acceptance of $2,000,000 of the $5,500,000 sale price in debentures, consented to take $1,000,000 in that form. At the same time, it was learned J. Cheever Cowdin was within $400,000 of the goal. Of that total, it is the understanding here, $200,000 had been acquired in New York by this evening.

The original purchase figure remains. Of this, Laemmle is to get $1,500,000 in cash, $1,000,000 in debentures and the remainder in $500,000 annual payments over a six-year period. There is a possibility, on the other hand, that $4,500,000 may go to him in cash, leaving only $1,000,000 in debentures. Cowdin is re-

Premier of Spain Asks Arbitration

BARCELONA, March 11.—Following a personal request by Manuel Azana, Spanish premier, the Catalonian Regional Government has urged an arbitration of the exhibitors' protest against M-G-M's rentals and for the removal of Jacques Edelstein, local manager for the distributor.

All theatre men who have been dealing with M-G-M are seeking a revision of the distributor's contracts. M-G-M and Mutua, the local Film Board, have declined, with the latter solidly behind the distributor.

On Monday night exhibitors began a boycott against M-G-M and all dis-

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, March 11.

BOB MONTGOMERY, Myrna Loy and Reginald Owen outstrip their material with practically no effort in "Petticoat Fever," produced by M-G-M with an "A" cast, but with decidedly "B" results. . . .

This fluff comedy of what happens at a lonely wireless outpost in Labrador when an attractive woman is unexpectedly forced down has its moments and some of them are pretty good moments. It also has long talkative stretches when the fun does not bounce along in a sustained tempo and makes the going somewhat labored. . . .

It seems that Montgomery, scion of a titled British family, had relative trouble and took himself and his cares into the northern solitudes. Five months have elapsed since he has seen any women, more since seeing a native woman and two years since he had seen a beautiful one. Therefore, when Miss Loy and her fiance, Owen, are grounded on a flight to Montreal, Montgomery drops his boredom and immediately goes gaga with excitement. . . .

As a matter of fact he falls desperately in love and shortly thereafter the sentiment is returned. Owen, played off as the dull, thick-witted Englishman in a type of role which seems antiquated in this day, never appreciates what is happening under his nose. Complications pile up when Montgomery's former girl bows in without warning. He learns, however, via the mails, that he has come into the family estates and divines that the old flame showed up with the knowledge aforesaid of the new twist. Or can this old chromo be termed a new twist? . . .

Since nothing any longer blocks the road, he hastens by dog sled to the departing boat and carries off Miss Loy to wedlock and the final fadeout. Harold Goldman's treatment of the play by Mark Reed is frequently amusing and George Fitzmaurice's direction is in consonance. The chief difficulty about "Petticoat Fever," however, is that it has too little to say for itself. The attraction is therefore adequate in a purely perfunctory manner. . . .

Cagney Case Taken Under Advisement

LOS ANGELES, March 11.—Conceding that plaintiff James Cagney has proved that Jack Warner promised him that not more than four pictures annually would be required of him, Judge Charles I. Bogue today took under advisement the Warner defense claim that Cagney has waived his right to bring action by having appeared in five pictures during the years 1934 and 1935.

Judge Bogue will review the briefs in the case and render final decision on Monday.

Expect Fox Suit Delay

The suit of Twentieth Century-Fox against Springer & Cocalis for $18,000 allegedly due on overages for six pictures on the 1934-35 program was again postponed yesterday in the N. Y. Supreme Court because of a crowded calendar. It's on the docket for today, but is expected to be put over until other cases listed are disposed of by the court.

Louis Nizer will represent the distributor and Kelly & Connolly the independent circuit.

No Ampa Meeting Set

Ampa's regular meeting today has been called off because of the annual Naked Truth Dinner and Movie Studio Party to be held at the Astor on Saturday night.

Managers Talk Over Terms of Dramatists

The contract committee of the League of N. Y. Theatres, a producing managers' organization, met yesterday to draft suggested changes for the new minimum basic agreement adopted as of March 1 by the Dramatists' Guild. The suggestions will be submitted to a membership meeting of the managers' organization today.

Officials of the Dramatists' Guild said that no changes in the agreement were likely to be made unless the managers could "think of something better than we already have." The managerial opposition is centered on the provisions of the agreement which would give playwrights about $2,000 additional on sales of film rights to plays of $30,000 or over.

To Ask Contempt Order

Eureka Prod., according to Henry J. Pearlman, attorney, will seek to have Metropolis Pictures cited for contempt of the Appellate Division of the N. Y. Supreme Court, because of the failure of the Bijou Theatre to remove the word "Ecstasy" from the bills advertising the film, "Ecstasy of Young Love," until more than 24 hours after a temporary injunction so ordering was handed down by Justice Untermyer of the Appellate Division.

Ann Harding Pact Ends

HOLLYWOOD, March 11.—Ann Harding has completed her contract with RKO and is planning to go to England to make two pictures for B.I.P.

U. A. Changes Name Of Venezuela Firm

DOVER, Del., March 11.—United Artists Corp. of Venezuela has changed its name at State House here to United Artists Corp. of N. E. I., New York.

Finkelstein Theatres, Inc., has changed its name to Pioneer Theatre Corp., St. Paul.

Certificates of incorporation have been issued to the following: Jackson Amusement Enterprise Corp., Meriden Amusement Enterprise Corp., Hattiesburg Amusement Enterprise Corp., and Natchez Amusement Enterprise Corp. Each plans to operate theatres and the like with capital stock of 100 shares, no par value. Incorporators for all were L. H. Herman, Walter Lenz and W. T. Hobson of Wilmington.

Teperson Union Suit Starts in Brooklyn

Trial of an action against Benjamin F. De Agostina, president of Allied M. P. Operators' Union, involving a claim for $87,000 alleged to be due Joseph A. Teperson for legal services, was begun yesterday before Justice Henry Wenzel in Supreme Court, Brooklyn. Teperson contends that he was given a 10-year contract by the union on April 27, 1933, and alleges that he was dismissed without reason on June 18, last.

The union states that Teperson failed to appear at six meetings and denies knowledge of the contract, claiming that the fee asked is "unreasonable and eccentric."

TOCC-ITOA Merger Talks Set Tomorrow

Discussions centering about plans for merging the T. O. C. C. and the I. T. O. A. will be held tomorrow at a meeting called by Harry Brandt, head of the latter organization, at the Astor.

Every major and independent circuit has been invited to attend. With several important legislative matters pending, it is felt that an amalgamation at this time would solidify exhibitor forces in protesting new measures.

Efforts to bring the two organizations into one group have been made on and off for more than a year, but to no avail. However, it is felt by leaders of both groups that the time is ripe for one big and active exhibitor association instead of two lethargic bodies.

Charles L. O'Reilly, who has been at the helm of the T. O. C. C. for about 10 years, has not been able because of other business to devote the time to the organization. Brandt, who recently resigned as top executive of the I. T. O. A., effective with the elections in April, is desirous of relieving himself of the obligation after five years. With more than 40 theatres in his circuit and negotiations under way for several more in New Jersey and the metropolitan area, Brandt wants to concentrate on his own exhibition problems.

A number of independent exhibitors have been contacted on the merger idea and have agreed to support it. At one time the T. O. C. C. had every major and practically every independent exhibitor on its membership roster. The I. T. O. A., which started out with a bang and 400 theatres, has dwindled to about 100.

Neither O'Reilly nor Brandt want the presidency of a combined group. However, they are willing to be on the board.

Completion of the amalgamation is expected by the end of the month with the T. O. C. C. scheduled to give up its quarters in the Times Bldg. to move into enlarged I. T. O. A. offices at the Lincoln Hotel.

"Doctor" Rolling Up Highs in Many Spots

Reports reaching the Twentieth Century-Fox home office on the business in 24 cities on "The Country Doctor" indicate that the Dionne Quintuplets are the biggest box-office draws today. New records are being established and holdovers are the rule in many instances, according to the distributor's advices. In one or two spots, box-office highs set by "The Littlest Rebel" and "Steamboat 'Round the Bend" have been beaten.

Included in the 24 situations exuding enthusiasm are: Los Angeles, Detroit, Baltimore, Richmond, Louisville, Portland, Me., Toronto, Albany, Boston, Cleveland, Des Moines, Indianapolis, Pittsburgh, Seattle, St. Louis, Oklahoma City, Buffalo, Toledo, Philadelphia, Atlanta, Bridgeport, New Haven, Waterbury and Rochester.

In "THE WALKING DEAD", a strikingly unusual story of an electrocuted man brought from the dead to wreak vengeance on those who had sent him to his doom, BORIS KARLOFF adds another brilliant performance to his long list of sensational, spine-chilling characterizations. Ricardo Cortez, Edmund Gwenn, Marguerite Churchill, Warren Hull, Barton MacLane and Director Michael Curtiz contribute their usual superlative performances to make this Warner Bros. production the screen thrill of the week. Released March 14th.

EXTRA! FIRST RUNS BOOKING "FLASH GORDON"!

THE PHILADELPHIA EXHIBITOR

HOLD PRESS

"FLASH GORDON"

Universal's latest serial, "Flash Gordon," can be rightfully termed the "Magnificent Obsession" of chapter plays. Socking in plenty for production, the serial is really something to shout about. First two episodes show how Dr. Zarkov, Flash and Dale land in Emperor Ming's empire to prevent his world from crashing into the earth. They are held prisoners; plenty happens. With huge beasts, with ape men, shark men, lion men to face, the rest of the serial ought to be a honey. Universal has followed the cartoon strip faithfully; kids and adults will love it. In fact, this is the sort of a serial that can be played during the middle of the week to advantage. "Flash Gordon" looks like the company s biggest serial—and Universal has made a lot. First episode, 20 minutes; second, 20 minutes. Buster Crabbe, Jean Rogers, Priscilla Lawson, Frank Shannon, Charles Middleton head the cast.

Pantages and Hillstreet Theatres in Los Angeles! The Fox Theatre in San Francisco! And other houses following suit! For the first time in their history! For the first time in the history of serials!

UNIVERSAL'S SERIAL SUPREME

FLASH GORDON

Starring BUSTER CRABBE as "Flash Gordon". With Jean Rogers, Priscilla Lawson, Charles Middleton. Based on Alex Raymond's King Features newspaper strip. Directed by Frederick Stephani. Produced by Henry MacRae.

"Annie" with Show Boston Top, $38,000

BOSTON, March 11. — "Klondike Annie" led the first run parade by rolling up $38,000 at the Metropolitan. A stage show which included Major Bowes' amateurs, the Elida Ballet and Fabian Sevitzky helped get the take $16,000 over par.

"Follow the Fleet" was outstanding at Keith's Memorial, topping average by $10,000 on a gross of $22,000. "The Invisible Ray" and a show were well on the profit side of the line at the RKO Boston, the total being $18,000.

Chaplin $10,000 Indianapolis Hit

INDIANAPOLIS, March 11.—"Modern Times," at Loew's garnered $10,000, $4,000 over the house average.

Although "Rose Marie" showed here less than a month ago, a return showing of it at the Circle was good for better than $5,000. Another return showing, "Ceiling Zero," garnered $3,200 at the Apollo. "Klondike Annie" went to $6,500 at the Indiana.

Altogether first run takings were better than for many weeks, all five houses doing a good business.

"The Country Doctor" at the Apollo and "Follow the Fleet" at the Indiana opened auspiciously.

Total first run business was $33,200. Average is $28,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 6:

"Fleet" Huge Seattle Draw With $8,500

SEATTLE, March 11. — "Follow the Fleet" went out front at the very start here and stayed there. Its $8,100 gross was $2,100 above normal at the Orpheum. It was moved to the Blue Mouse for an extended run.

"The Music Goes 'Round," at advanced admissions, reached $6,250 at the Liberty. This was above the line by $2,250. "Rose Marie," in the third week of an extended run from the Fifth Avenue, held up to $4,350.

Total first run business was $36,850. Average is $33,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 29:

Mae West Garners $8,000, Portland

PORTLAND, March 11. — "Klondike Annie," in its first downtown week at the Paramount, annexed $8,000, or over par by $3,000. It was helped considerably by "My Marriage."

"Petrified Forest" and "Her Master's Voice" were held for a second week at the Orpheum, securing another $6,000, over the usual by $1,000.

The initial performance of "Life Begins at 60" brought out a diversified audience at the Mayfair, with heavy intake from Townsendites. The screen fare was "Yellow Dust." The gross was $7,000, over the house average by $4,000.

Bright sunshine in large doses was not so good for the matinee business.

Total first run business was $35,700. Average is $24,700.

Just a Telegram

Hollywood, March 11.—During the trial of his suit against Warners, a telegram was handed to James Cagney. Hank Mann, who was sitting nearby, said, "What's that, Jimmy? An offer for a three-day personal appearance in Pomona?"

"Yeh," said Cagney, "it's an offer for Pat O'Brien and me."

Then Mann suggested that they post a six-sheet in the courtroom reading "Coming Next Week! Pat O'Brien vs. Warners."

"Pasteur" Is $21,000 Top, Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, March 11.—Among the new films in a generally satisfactory week, "The Story of Louis Pasteur" made the best showing with $21,000 for its nine-day run at the Boyd, a good figure considering the Lenten season and a slow start.

Two holdover shows from last week still kept in the money class. For its second week (8 days) "Follow the Fleet" added another $20,000 to the Stanley box-office sheet. "Prisoner of Shark Island" maintained its good pace at the Fox with $16,000.

"Modern Times" took a slide to $14,000 for the third week. "Sylvia Scarlett" was weak at $5,000 at the Aldine and "Woman Trap" with the same figure at the Stanton and "Two in the Dark" at the Karlton failed to hold up.

The weather break on the whole was good.

Total first run business was $102,600. Average, exclusive of the Erlanger, is $87,960.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 5:

"SYLVIA SCARLETT" (Radio)

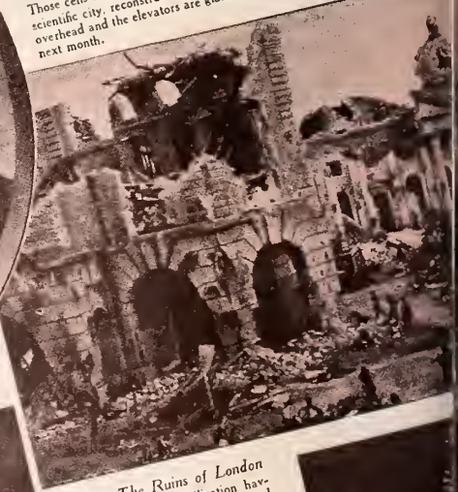
Mr. Wells Peers Into the Future

1940—Gas and Shells Land on Surprised London

H. G. Wells, who likes to construct the future by examining the past and present, portrays in his first motion picture, "Things to Come," his conception of the panic-stricken British scrambling under the attack by the "Hill folk." There are no Puritanians in the film.

2054—A Street Scene from the Wellsian City of the Futur

Those cells at the left are penthouses in an air-conditioned, artificially lighted scientific city, reconstructed upon the ruins of our present methods of living overhead and the elevators are glass-enclosed. Mr. Wells's film will be shown next month.



2059—Fashions for Street Wear

2056—Off on a Trip to the Moon

With some trepidation this couple is leaving for the first flight of humans around the moon. The old world having been cleaned up, Mr. Wells's characters are keen on overcoming the universe.

1970—The Ruins of London

Twentieth century civilization having been wiped out by war and pestilence these ruins of the old order are taken over by "Airmen," who build cities such as shown in 2054.

1972—The Airman Who Rebuilds the World

Raymond Massey as John Cabal, the single-minded world reformer whose scientific dictatorship enables mankind to achieve television in every home.

2066—Happy Toil

Right—"No smoking" signs are unnecessary for this protected worker of Mr. Wells's world. He shares his work (most of which is done by scientific apparatus anyhow) in a civilization rid of war and disease.

2055—The Space Gun

Left—It is against this machine for travel to other planets that the oldsters of Mr. Wells's new world complain. They shriek at it the twenty-first century equivalent of "Get a horse!"

"Exclusive," Benny Strong In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, March 11.—The business didn't go 'round and 'round here last week, but stuck exclusively to the two leading downtown spots, the Penn and the Stanley. At the latter house, Jack Benny in person, with "Exclusive Story" on the screen, gave the box-office its healthiest take since present scales went into effect, $31,000, just a few dollars short of Benny's 1935 record when prices were almost 20 per cent higher.

At the Penn, "Follow the Fleet" packed a terrific wallop, coming up with around $21,000 and moving to the Warner to continue its run.

These two grosses practically absorbed all the money there was in town, although the Warner managed to make a fairly creditable showing with "Rose of the Rancho" and "The Murder of Dr. Harrigan," doing $4,700. The Casino got only around $5,500 with "Confidential" and the "Oddities" unit, while the Alvin slipped to $3,000 with "Don't Get Personal" and "Hellship Morgan."

Total first run grosses were $67,400. Average is $51,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 5:

"DON'T GET PERSONAL" (Univ.)
"HELLSHIP MORGAN" (Col.)
ALVIN—(2,000), 25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $3,000. (Average, $5,500)

"CONFIDENTIAL" (Monarch)
CASINO—(1,800), 25c-40c, 6 days. Stage: "Oddities" unit, with Pall Mall. Gross: $5,500. (Average, $6,000)

"THE MELODY LINGERS ON" (U. A.)
"THE LONE WOLF RETURNS" (Col.)
FULTON—(1,750), 15c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $2,200. (Average, $4,000)

"FOLLOW THE FLEET" (Radio)
PENN—(3,300), 25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $21,000. (Average, $12,000)

"EXCLUSIVE STORY" (M-G-M)
STANLEY — (3,600), 25c-55c, 7 days. Stage: Jack Benny, Mary Livingston, Georges Metaxa, Stuart Morgan Dancers, Chicke Sisters, Liazeed Arabs. Gross: $31,000. (Average, $18,500)

"ROSE OF THE RANCHO" (Para.)
"MURDER OF DR. HARRIGAN" (W. B.)

New Sound Described In Academy Bulletin

HOLLYWOOD, March 11.—The Research Council of the Academy has issued a 28-page illustrated technical bulletin which contains an account of the M-G-M research and engineering investigation on theatre loud speakers and the resultant development of the Shearer two-way horn system.

The bulletin contains a short account of the early history of theatre loud speakers, specifications for a system which would be adequate for theatre production taking into consideration expected future developments in studio recording, wiring diagrams, a description of the high and low frequency horns which are a part of the development, the mathematical calculations and an explanation of the electrical theory upon which the system operates.

Credits for the papers are divided between John K. Hilliard, who was associated with Douglas Shearer in the engineering of the new system, and Harry R. Kimball of the M G-M sound department.

Chaplin High In Cleveland Second Week

CLEVELAND, March 11. — "Modern Times," playing its second week downtown, was the outstanding box-office attraction of the week, almost doubling the usual $4,000 take at Loew's Stillman.

"Follow the Fleet," also a second week picture, continued to draw heavily at Warners' Hippodrome, where it grossed $11,000 as against an $8,000 average.

"Klondike Annie," helped by a lot of adverse newspaper criticism, upped Loew's State take from the usual $12,000 to $16,000.

"Muss 'Em Up" and "The Murder of Dr. Harrigan divided the week at the Allen with an average total take of $3,000.

"Love on a Bet" at the RKO Palace, with a stage attraction headed by Red Hodgen and Ada Leonard, fell $2,000 shy of the $15,000 house average.

The weather was good and there was no unusual outside competition.

Total first run business was $50,500. Average is $42,000.

Battle Lines Quickly Drawn On Jersey Tax

created by the cosmetics, tobacco and soft drink interests.

Theatre men led the movement for a general state tax on all industries.

Allied of New Jersey, at a meeting at the Stacy-Trent Hotel today, adopted a resolution asking Gov. Harold G. Hoffman and legislative leaders to adopt general taxation. The organization represents 143 state exhibitors.

The resolution was signed by Lee W. Newbury, association president. It read:

"Whereas, the Allied Theatre Owners of New Jersey have been apprised through the public press that the legislature of the state of New Jersey is considering the imposition of a tax to be levied on merely a few industries, and

"Whereas, motion pictures being the only amusement of the poorer classes, it is not taxing a luxury, but a necessity, and

"Whereas, to confine the proposed tax to only a few industries would be discriminatory, now

"Therefore, be is resolved, that if any tax must be levied it should be equally distributed over all businesses, and be it further resolved that the theatre industry be granted a public hearing before the enactment of any tax legislation."

Representatives of Warners were active in the legislative corridors, informing legislators of the bad effect the tax would have on the film industry. Heading the Warner group were Donald Jacocks, zone manager for northern New Jersey, and David E. Weshner.

Newbury Rushes to Trenton

Lee Newbury, president of Allied of New Jersey, cut short a vacation in Mexico City to be in Trenton for the fireworks on the 10 per cent tax bill. Yesterday morning all members of the organization received telegrams urging their appearance in the New Jersey capital.

The telegram sent out was as follows:

"Emergency meeting called for Wednesday, March 11, at Stacy-Trent Hotel, Trenton, at 12 noon sharp. Subject: Tax on theatre admissions scheduled for passage by Legislature Wednesday night. Your presence at meeting and in Trenton for balance of day vital to the life of your theatre."

"Fleet" at $84,000 In Its Third Week

"Follow the Fleet" garnered approximately $84,000 at the Music Hall in its third week, making a total of $244,000 for the three-week run. For the first week the take was $105,000. On the second week the Astaire-Rogers musical tallied $75,000.

On April 8 "The Great Ziegfeld" will open at the Astor on a two-a-day policy.

"Klondike Annie" opened yesterday at the Paramount to capacity business. This morning the Music Hall begins a two-week run of "The Country Doctor."

McClure Says Duffy's Bill Fills a Need

tion in the fixing of infringement penalties.

Urging adherence to the Berne Convention, McClure declared that the present discrimination against American authors and composers in Europe, instead of being a reason why we should stay out of the treaty, demonstrates the need for some way of securing protection abroad, where, he said, we do not now enjoy treaty protection, since existing agreements are insufficient and unsatisfactory.

Leading up to a discussion of the Duffy measure by considering the present copyright law, which, he said, is "inadequate and inapplicable," McClure told the committee the fundamental question is "whether tens of thousands of persons," or Ascap, should be the principal beneficiaries.

"We have to think of the hundreds of thousands of persons," he said; "we cannot permit in the law a provision that causes such great inconvenience and results in injustice when applied to characteristic cases.

"Shall we legislate for large numbers or for small numbers? No man who makes secondary use of music now can escape the sword of Damocles that always hangs over his head in the form of this minimum damage provision."

Asks Protection for the Public

When the present law was enacted, he asserted, "the need of the individual copyright holders transcended the need of the people." Further, he added, the creation of Ascap filled a real need, but under present conditions it is necessary that the public should be protected against exploitation by copyright owners.

McClure lectured the committee on its responsibility under the constitution to legislate for the welfare of the country as a whole, as contrasted with the expressions voiced by Chairman Sirovich that the constitution demanded that the rights of creators be safeguarded. Copyright and patents are designed to benefit the country by encouraging creation, the State Department official said, but were never intended solely to benefit inventors.

Elimination of the minimum damage clause will not ruin the music society, McClure declared, pointing out that "their own testimony showed performing rights societies in foreign countries are doing very well, although there is no minimum fee in those countries, or anything analagous."

The provisions of the bill, he explained, are considered by the Inter-Departmental Committee to afford adequate protection against infringement.

Moray on Field Trip

HOLLYWOOD, March 11.—Norman H. Moray, Vitaphone executive in charge of shorts, has left on a swing through the south, midwest and California. He will confer with Warner branch managers and exhibitors, and on the coast will talk product with Jack L. Warner. He will return about April 20.

Variety Club

Buffalo

BUFFALO, March 11.—Chief Barker JACOB LAVENE has filled all committees for the first ball to be held by Tent No. 7 in five years. The affair will be held in the Statler this coming Saturday.

Art Kassel's orchestra and Erwin Gluckman's orchestra will supply music. Radio comedians HENRY BURBIG and STOOPNAGLE and BUDD, the latter former local boys, are scheduled tentatively to help entertain.

HARRY T. DIXON and NATE SAUBER are active co-chairmen, with tickets in the hands of NICHOLAS J. BASIL and CARL W. KEMPKE. HARRY ALTMAN, DEWEY MICHAELS and MURRAY are handling entertainment.

Favors and menus have been left to ROBERT T. MURPHY, with DIXON and SAUBER sitting in. KENNETH ROBINSON is looking after reservations and seating, and C. ARTHUR WOODWARD, JOHN CHINELL, WILLIAM F. BORK, ELMER C. LUX, LU BLUMENFELD and GEORGE ROSENBAUM on the reception committee.

BASIL BRADY and PHIL LAVENE are handling transportation, with exploitation being done by JOHN SITTERLY, MIKE SIMON, RALPH MAW, I. R. LOUNSBERRY and EDGAR H. TAWMLEY. EPHRAIM BETTIGOLE and H. H. WEBSTER will arrange for decorations.

JOE FRIEDMAN heads a journal committee including: OTTO A. SIEGAL, LEO MURPHY, GEORGE W. FERGUSON, M. V. SULLIVAN, NORMAN L. SPER, EMERSON DICKMAN and NATHAN MARCUS, J. R. LEVEE, ALEX WEISSMAN and MICHAEL KALLETT of Syracuse and A. T. HARRIS of Rochester.

Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, March 11.—The local Variety tent held a house warming in its new quarters in the Schroeder hotel. The new clubrooms are considerably larger than the former quarters in the Plankinton.

The tent will hold its annual circus at the Schroeder on Saturday, at which it hopes to raise sufficient money to provide for the furnishing of its new quarters.

Final Pleas Heard In Anti-Trust Suit

WILMINGTON, March 11.—Final argument was heard before Judge John P. Nields in U. S. District Court here today in the anti-trust suits of General Talking Pictures Corp. and Duovac Radio Corp., against Electrical Research Products, Inc., Western Electric and A. T. & T. The defendants are charged with having built up a monopoly in the film industry through a series of contracts with exhibitors.

The Stanley Company of America was formerly a co-plaintiff but has settled its grievances with the defendants. Duovac is no longer an active organization.

The trial opened last May and lasted almost two months.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Broadway Playboy"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, March 11.—This picturization of George M. Cohan's "Home Towners" is light, humorous film fare which should fulfill the producer's aim as average program entertainment.

The characters move through the hokum situations with necessary speed to sustain the action with every directorial liberty taken for the audience laugh reaction. The theme centers around the meddlesome efforts of Gene Lockhart, a hayseed from Big Bend, to put a crimp in the marriage plans of Warren William, his lifelong pal. Lockhart has William's interests at heart, but things happen when he accuses William's fiancee, June Travis, of golddigger tendencies and hops on Miss Travis' father, mother and brother for their racketeering methods in helping William spend his millions. Wrestling matches between the two families, verbal battles and much sobbing complete the comedy rigamarole, with Lockhart and his wife, Kathleen Lockhart, the central comic figures. Lockhart succeeds in ironing out the difficulties and reestablishing himself as the best man at the wedding.

Characterizations by William, Miss Travis, Barton MacLane, as the wrestling butler, Dick Purcell, the brother, and the balance of the cast are adequate. William McGann drains the story for the laughs. Roy Chanslor penned the screenplay, retaining much of the Cohan flavor.

Looking 'Em Over

"Young Love"

(Metropolis)

An entirely simple, human story of the affection of a young peasant boy and girl, this Czechoslovakian-produced film from Elekta Film, Prague, may be considered one of the more interesting importations to this country. Completely unsophisticated in every sense, the producers have told their story in terms of the people of which the picture treats.

The current furor which has been aroused by the original title of the film, "Ecstasy of Young Love," has, of course, no justification whatsoever as far as the picture itself is concerned. The use of the first word, causing the film to be confused with another Czechoslovakian picture, creates an entirely wrong impression for this film.

Photographed amid the beautiful scenery of the Sazeva Valley of Bohemia, which adds much to the effect of the whole production, the film features two players who, the program notes, have never acted before. Their work is refreshing in its naturalness. The boy, Paul, and the girl, Pepi, are close friends. The girl's dream is one day to own a pair of shoes, the boy's to be able to get them for her. Paul's father fears his son's love of the woods will lead him to a life of poaching, and decides to send him to town to school.

Paul is concerned only with catching a huge pike, which is destroying smaller fish, and for which a reward is offered. A highlight of the film is the underwater battles between the fish and the boy until he finally makes the capture. Meanwhile, his clothes having been picked up in the river, Paul is thought to have drowned. Instead, with his reward he buys the shoes he has promised Pepi, and a joyful reunion follows his safe return.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 72 minutes. "G."

Short Subjects

"March of Time No. 3"

(RKO)

As always, containing material of a high degree of interest, and produced in effective fashion, pictorially and in choice of descriptive incident, this third issue of the year features three subjects: France's penal colony at Devil's Island, the recent unsuccessful military coup in Japan and the fishing industry of New England.

The first sequence, describing the geographical situation of Devil's Island, which in the past has made escape well-nigh impossible, and survivors few, points to the growth of a new "racket," centering in Marseilles. For 20,000 francs, escape from the colony is arranged—with a money back guarantee. So successful has been the work of the escape ring, that France is seriously considering abandoning the convict camp which has been a symbol of dread incarceration throughout the world.

Extremely effective is the reenactment of the action of a group of Japanese army officers, who, dissatisfied with the military policies of the Government, one night struck down several officials, while the premier was saved by the sacrifice of his brother-in-law. The extreme spirit of patriotism and loyalty to the Emperor which prompts such actions, and the traditional and formal suicide of the perpetrators, is significantly portrayed.

The final episode describes pictorially and vocally the manner in which the center of the New England fishing industry has shifted from Gloucester and its schooners to Boston and its stream trawlers, the fight to stave off ruinous competition by a reduction of the tariff on Canadian fish, and the new impetus which came to the industry with the popularizing of the formerly discarded red fish, renamed sea perch.

Previewed without production code seal. Running time, 18 mins. "G."

"Mickey's Grand Opera"

(Disney—U. A.)

With Mickey Mouse as the orchestra conductor, Clara Cluck as the soprano, Donald Duck as the tenor and Pluto as the nuisance, this Disney color cartoon has an all-star animated cast, if ever there was one. Pluto's insatiable curiosity about the magician's magic hat he finds back stage, is the focal point about which the laughable excitement centers, while the operatic rendition of the two leading "singers" is almost too good to miss. Donald Duck is in trouble, as usual, with the expected entertaining results. Production Code Seal, No. 1,193. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

Si Fabian Talking Pool in Middletown

Si Fabian, who recently acquired the State and Stratton in Middletown, N. Y., from the estate of Hathaway Bros., is talking over a pooling deal with Paramount for the Paramount in the same town.

Some time ago George Walsh, Paramount upstate division head, tried to work out a pooling arrangement with the Hathaways, but did not complete the deal.

Reports thus far are to the effect that a joint operating deal had already been closed, but Fabian denied this.

Cancellation "Worthless," Says Yamins

a standard form of contract, Yamins said, there is in fact no such thing if by the term is meant a form including certain clauses that every distributor uses. "The distributor writes his own contract; he is not regulated and he can do as he pleases," he said. He declared that failure to enact the legislation will be construed by the producer as an invitation to make the kind of films Hollywood wants and to distributors to "change the terms of their contracts so that unfair trade practices will continue."

"I am not an endowed art museum," declared Walter B. Littlefield of Boston, discussing his efforts to "elevate" his audience by showing "The Man Who Played God," which turned out to be a loss, although it was successful in nearby houses. "I cannot afford to play such pictures," he said.

Littlefield Talks Differentials

Asked by Chairman Pettengill for his views on the bill's prohibition against differentials between blocks and less which would be "coercive," Littlefield explained that it depended on the pictures. If a distributor offered 10 films for $1,000, but demanded the same for half of them, that might be coercion, he said, but if nine of the block were cheap westerns and the tenth was a "Cavalcade," a price of $900 for the latter might be all right.

Littlefield criticized the distributors for lack of foresight in forcing pictures. He made a spirited defense of the proposal for a synopsis on every contract, declaring, "It seems to me to be just a happy medium between the unlimited license which now exists and the other extreme, which some people want, which is a trade showing of every film before it is sold. I claim that both extremes are unreasonable and unworkable," he said.

The witness was questioned at length regarding censorship, and explained that Massachusetts reviews pictures only for Sunday showings and that the board has passed many to which local organizations object. This led Representative Cooper to remark that "there seems to me to be something wrong with censorship."

H. M. Richey of Detroit, general manager of Allied of Michigan, said that local organizations throughout the country are "silent stockholders in our theatres." He contended that block booking does not apply to affiliated houses but is a device to control the independent.

Claim Affiliates Take Minority

Both Richey and Jeanette Willensky of Philadelphia, secretary of the I.M.P.T.O. of Eastern Pennsylvania, submitted figures to show that affiliated houses took only a small part of any one company's output, while the remainder was forced on first-run independents and subsequent-run houses. Miss Willensky told the committee that the heads of the industry "are drunk with power" and that it is time for Congress to step in.

She submitted a printed sheet about four feet square showing in large type the film company salaries as reported by the Federal Trade Commission, declaring them "unbelievable" and predicting they would be cut if block booking were eliminated.

While the maker of most articles can set a retail price which prevails in all sections, the exhibitor's retail price must be "based on what the traffic will bear because there is no fixed price per unit for the thing we are selling," it was said by Col. H. A. Cole, head of Texas Allied. He charged that contracts now offered in Texas towns where there is a Publix interest contain a prohibition against admission prices of less than 25 cents. As a result, he said, many exhibitors have had to increase their admissions and their grosses have fallen off.

The Ohio censors have passed all of the pictures banned by the Legion of Decency, said P. J. Wood of Columbus in answer to questions by Cooper. Wood declared he could not say why the board was so lenient. The independents' presentation was concluded by Sidney E. Samuelson of New Jersey, who declared, "We ask restoration and not innovation" and charged that the industry is mopolized despite the fact that there are eight companies. "The test of monopoly is not the number of companies doing business," he commented.

Because of hearings on another bill, the sub-committee will be unable to sit during the remainder of the week, but if those hearings conclude in time, it will resume consideration of block booking March 16, when the public organizations supporting the measure will be heard, followed by the distributors.

"Doctor" Big In First Week On the Coast

Los Angeles, March 11.—"The Country Doctor" got off to a flying start in its day and date engagements at Grauman's Chinese and Loew's State. The take at the former, $14,000, was $2,000 over average, and at the latter it was $20,000, up by $6,000.

"Follow the Fleet" had a smashing second week. At the Hillstreet it was over par by $2,000 on a gross of $10,000 and at the Pantages it was $6,500 to the good on a take of $9,700. "The Preview Murder Mystery" garnered $24,022, over the line by $6,022, at the Paramount, with a stage show headed by George Burns and Gracie Allen.

Total first run business was $101,522. Average is $88,150.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 11:

He is declared to have insisted upon cash or Government bonds, which explains why Standard Capital, which had figured on furnishing new Universal stock and debentures to cover the balance, had to scurry for additional cash.

Financially associated with Cowdin are Erpi, Eastman Kodak and C. M. Woolf, head of General Film Distributors of London. The latter's participation involves an agreement for the distribution of a certain amount of the British company's product in America by Universal and possible British distribution of Universal product by Woolf's company abroad.

Robert H. Cochrane, senior vice-president of Universal, is expected to be named president of the company, and Cowdin chairman of the board, if the option is exercised.

Jersey Levy Is Defeated In Assembly

Bill Will Be Considered Again Today

TRENTON, March 12.—Both branches of the State Legislature recessed this afternoon until tomorrow night without reconsideration of the amusement-luxury tax bill. The measure was defeated in the Assembly early today by 19 to 37, 12 votes less than needed for passage.

The tax bill is scheduled to be reconsidered in the Assembly tomorrow as the first order of business. The bill calls for a 10 per cent tax on the gross receipts of all amusements, and levies of from 10 to 20 per cent on tobacco, cosmetics, camera films and soft drinks.

A powerful lobby, headed by the film and tobacco interests, succeeded in defeating the program after legislative leaders apparently had lined up the votes to pass it. Senate leaders are bringing pressure to bear, however, and plan to hold the Legislature in session all night tomorrow and all

20th-Fox Unit In England to Make 4 Yearly

BY BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, March 2.—Furthering plans made by Joseph M. Schenck on his last London visit, Twentieth Century-Fox has formed New World Prod. for the purpose of producing four British films, costing $500,000 each, for Twentieth Century-Fox world distribution in the next 12 months.

Robert T. Kane, who came to England with Sidney R. Kent, to be director general of Twentieth Century-Fox production in England, has been associated with Dr. Paul Czinner in the production of the Elisabeth Bergner "As You Like It" for Inter-Allied. He will have full charge of New World production.

Twentieth Century-Fox will handle "As You Like It," but the role of British producers-in-chief for them, for which Inter-Allied appeared to be

Saperstein Elected Illinois Allied Head

CHICAGO, March 12.—Aaron Saperstein was reelected president, to serve his seventh term as head of Allied of Illinois, at its seventh annual election held here today at the Congress Hotel. More than 200 members attended.

In addition to Saperstein, the officers elected were: Van Nomikos, vice-president; Harry Lasker, secretary; Joe Stern, treasurer, and Harry Nipo, sergeant-at-arms. The board of directors is to be announced tomorrow.

Today's meeting was occupied with discussions concerning the labor situation and problems of relations with distributors. The first board meeting will be held next week, when a general meeting date will be set for the outlining of the organization's plans for the coming year.

Copyright Fee Fixed by Law Is Suggested

Proposal Is Discussed At House Hearing

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, March 12—Possibilities of Congressional action to fix the license fees to be paid by the film industry, broadcasting stations and other users of copyright music were explored today by the House Patents Committee as the third week of hearings on copyright revisions were brought to a close.

The suggestion was made by Representative Cramer of California after Representative Daly of Pennsylvania had criticized the attitude of Senator Duffy of Wisconsin and had precipitated an argument among members of the committee.

Appearing before the committee for further questioning, Senator Duffy was examined at length on his proposal to eliminate the $250 minimum damage clause, Chairman Sirovich taking the attitude that if the minimum were eliminated the maximum should also be.

The Senator explained that the minimum has been used "as a club in

Ampa Dinner Ticket Sales Top Last Year

Ticket sales for the Ampa Naked Truth dinner have passed the 600 mark set last year, according to Gordon White, and a record attendance is now assured.

Choice of the master of ceremonies is still to be made from three names, but the program details are complete, and one of the novelties will be a floor spectacle to wind up the entertainment program. Stage and screen talent lined up includes plenty of the best known acts, White says.

"New Astaire Deal," States Leo Spitz

HOLLYWOOD, Mar. 12.—Answering the report that a rift existed between Fred Astaire and RKO, Leo Spitz today stated, "We are negotiating a new deal with Astaire and we are sure that everything will work out satisfactorily to all concerned."

Spitz said that the star has one more film on his current contract and that the RKO option calls for three for next year. Astaire's objection to the latter figure was the cause of the misunderstanding.

M.P.T.O.A. Is To Seek New Trade Pacts

Objective Is Complete List of Practices

A master committee of the M. P. T. O. A. will be designated in the near future to meet with company heads and sales executives in an effort to work out a complete program of approved trade practices, it was stated yesterday by Ed Kuykendall.

The national exhibitor organization's annual board of directors' meeting at Miami last week authorized Kuykendall to make arrangements for the conferences and to designate either a special committee or the executive committee of M. P. T. O. A. to work with him. Kuykendall said yesterday that an active special committee would be named comprising representative exhibitors who would be able to attend the New York meetings with distribution officials at any time.

Present indications are that no attempt will be made to open the meetings until the current block booking and copyright legislation hearings in progress at Washington have been concluded.

Trade subjects which will figure in the discussions and on which agreements will be sought include either a straight 10 per cent cancellation without qualifications or an increase in

Para. Closes on New Product with Schine

Milton Kusell, New York state district manager for Paramount, has completed negotiations with Louis Schine and George Lynch on 1936-37 product which will be played in the Schine circuit of 70 theatres in New York and Ohio. Schine now has 18 houses in Ohio, has recently taken over two in Tiffin.

Mike Kallett, who has 17 units in the upstate New York territory, is in from Oneida conferring with Paramount on next season's lineup.

Skouras Theatres, the Century circuit and about 50 independent theatres in Kusell's territory already have signed for 1936-37 product.

Depinet, Levy Quit Coast

HOLLYWOOD, March 12.—Ned E. Depinet and Jules Levy will leave tomorrow for Dallas and are expected to return to New York in a week. Levy recently returned from San Francisco. Leo Spitz is prolonging his stay for further studio conferences and is not expected to return east for another fortnight.

Delay Fox-S. & C. Suit

The Twentieth Century-Fox suit against S. & C. for $18,000 on overages allegedly due the distributor on six features last season did not come up again yesterday. A crowded calendar forced the matter over until this morning. Unless cases ahead of it on the docket are disposed of the jury trial will go over until Monday.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, March 12.

HOW and why do performers who mean nothing, or next to it, at the box-office continue to get work at princely salaries? Why does the golden landslide continue for commercial near-nonenities? The answers to that are several. For one thing, this is a "name" business. The cry for personalities starts with the public, percolates through the exhibitor to the salesman, branch and district managers, New York and so over the grades into Hollywood. Therefore and because producers know that the safest course to follow in the unsafe business of making pictures is to ply casts with names, they hire what they can and hope for the best. . . .

Self-adulation which takes the form of advertising to each other locally keeps the name market flourishing. That is exactly the purpose and it succeeds very well indeed. The barrage, either ahead or behind it, is the agent, and the victim, conscious and otherwise, is the producer. He continues to be the fall guy who forever is impressed by news items published locally and occasionally elsewhere beyond the hills. On the general and silly theory that what is talked about in Hollywood will be talked about in the world beyond, deals are made and box-office anathema hired month in and out. . . .

There is the occasional producer and director who take themselves into the field in an endeavor to learn what others feel about their motion pictures. It must be an enlightening experience and suggests readily enough the wisdom in a greater number emerging from their Southern California vacuums sufficiently long to poke their heads outside. Making entertainment for the masses, it might be a thought to grace the lower levels and, by the common touch, discover what they think and want. . . .

The fruits of such slumming would divulge considerable. For instance, it would become immediately patent that some names, big in Hollywood eyes, actually keep the public away from the box-office. It could be learned that a male star, now drawing over $100,000 a picture and fought over, is regarded in this wise by one of the nation's biggest circuit operators: "He doesn't sell tickets, but he doesn't keep them out." It could be ascertained that many—surprisingly many—featured players now employed regularly here add not one scintilla of commercial draw to the pictures in which they appear. . . .

This merry-go-round, expensive beyond the dreams of a Croesus, gyrates because few here can see the woods for the trees. The name equation, persisting over the years, by this time cannot be routed out; it would be a foolhardy experiment to launch. The difficulty, however, is not one of names, but of their calibre. "Nameless names" is Ben Schulberg's apt description. He finds there is no differentiation drawn between genuine names, phony names and no names at all. The conclusion can be only one: All names, established or not, get the breaks and the wine flows freely. . . .

Harold B. Franklin, his throne not so mighty these days, sits in his small office at Columbia observing the scene, confidently biding his time. Speaking as one new in production, but drawing copiously on his long experience as a big-time theatre operator, he believes the situation can be solved only through development of new talent. Producers, all of them, are fiddling around with it, each one hoping that when he least expects it a new find will burst upon a startled world, not excluding his own. . . .

If and when, then what? The ante will skyrocket, agents willing, and they are. Salaries for the new geniuses will continue their dizzy climb and the parade will move along on its dazed, but happy, way. This righteous disturbance which is ours undoubtedly makes for a varied assortment of nonsense. Nothing will be done about it; nothing ever is. Solving nothing as we appreciate this does, the blood pressure, nevertheless, is dropping now and our sense of humor returning. We are on our way to find the two chaps who spoke so vehemently on the Metro lot the other day. One of them remarked to the other: " . . . and he's a sucker if he takes four grand a week." . . .

Exhibitors Set for Booking Bill Fight

A large exhibitor delegation will appear in opposition to the Pettengill Bill when the hearings before the House committee are resumed in Washington on Monday.

Among those scheduled to be heard are M. A. Lightman, Memphis, president of the M. P. T. O. of Mississippi, Arkansas and Tennessee, which comprises three individual M. P. T. O. A. units which consolidate activities whenever mutual interests are involved; Hugh W. Bruen, Seattle, president of the M. P. T. O. of the Northwest; Ray Morrow, president of the I. T. O. of Arkansas; Stanley Sumner, Cambridge, Mass., exhibitor; George P. Aarons, secretary of the M. P. T. O. of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware; Jack Miller, president of the Theatre Owners Ass'n. of Chicago; Morton Thalheimer, president of the I. T. O. of Virginia, and Ed Kuykendall, president of the M. P. T. O. A.

Most of these exhibitor leaders are in New York at this time and will leave for Washington on Sunday.

Quigley Award Vote Fixed for March 17

Judging for the 1935 Quigley grand awards for exploitation will be held at the New York Athletic Club March 17, under the supervision of A-Mike Vogel, chairman of the Managers' Round Table Club of Motion Picture Herald. From the 24 campaigns which received the silver and bronze plaques each month during 1935 will be selected two for the silver and bronze grand awards.

It is planned to present the awards in Hollywood late this month or early in April. Arrangements have been made with T.W.A. to transport the winners by plane to the coast for the presentation.

Smith Gets Summons In St. Louis Action

A. W. Smith, vice-president and western division sales head for Warners, was served yesterday with a copy of a complaint and a summons in connection with the Government's civil suit against Warners, Paramount and RKO for allegedly refusing to sell the Ambassador, Missouri and New Grand Central in St. Louis.

George J. Schaefer, vice-president and general manager for U. A., also has been served since he took over his new duties. Both are individual defendants in the action.

"Klondike" Seattle Hit

SEATTLE, March 12. — "Klondike Annie" registered the largest opening-day gross of any of the last three West pictures, at the Orpheum. This was in spite of, or as a result of, the campaign against the film by Hearst's Post-Intelligencer.

The picture was previewed by the censors and was passed with no eliminations.

Copyright Fee Fixed by Law Is Suggested

bargaining" and that the maximum had been increased from $5,000 to $20,000 because in the case of radio the former might not be sufficient. The first draft of the bill, he explained, carried a minimum of $100, but that was eliminated as giving the same club as $250.

Members of the committee entered into lengthy argument with Senator Duffy over the desirability of leaving it entirely to the courts to determine the amount of damage caused by infringement, the Senator explaining that it would be necessary only for a plaintiff to show ownership of a copyright and its violation and holding that the courts could be depended upon take the proper action.

Negro Exclusion Explained

It was pointed out by Representative Perkins of New Jersey that a negro refused admission to a picture theatre in his state might sue, but that the law fixed a minimum penalty, "the purpose being to deter the owner of the place of amusement from excluding people on the ground of color." He suggested that the idea of a deterrent also be applied in the case of infringement.

"I think that was the original idea," Duffy agreed. "We are dealing then with individuals and the provision was not used as a club. It had been suggested that the present minimum damage provision should not be allowed to apply where two or more people were involved on one side," he added.

Asked by Sirovich how it was, since Ascap has been permitted to collect $250 for each violation, the society has collected only $8,800 under judgments, Duffy charged that Ascap uses the judgment as a means of bargaining for a license and the money collected is then recorded as license fees. The figure on collections, he asserted, means nothing.

Duffy Ignores Sirovich

"Do you think that where we have the minimum damages fixed, the deterrent effect is more than an offset to the disadvantage of having a minimum?" Perkins asked. "That might be true as to individuals," Duffy replied, "but I think it works out that way with this rather formidable organization."

Lengthy, involved statements by Sirovich, ending up with a question mark, received little attention from Duffy, who at one point told the chairman: "You ask about half a dozen questions at once."

Duffy became restive under the questioning of Daly, who started out by asking whether the Senator saw anything "sinister" in the letters of Ascap to infringers telling them "it will be better if you do not break the law." Duffy replied that the letters did not say that, but did say: "It would be cheaper for you to take a license."

"It is that arrogant attitude that you can't bargain about this thing, but you must pay what we say or be closed up," that we object to, he explained.

Declaring that Duffy had consistently taken the part of the consumer, Daly charged that much of his material must have been furnished by "a member of his committee." Duffy replied: "I have never discussed anything with Mr. O'Malley, if that is who you mean."

"Is that the only answer you can give?" Daly continued.

"That is the only answer I intend to give to you," the Senator retorted.

Church Asks Decorum

Daly attempted to continue the argument, but Representative Church of Illinois yelled: "We are going to have a little dignity here," and objected to any further remarks from the Pennsylvania member. Representative Dean of Georgia also was angry, declaring that the Senator has been before the committee for as long a time as he had said he could spare, "and has been lectured by members of the committee and arguments have occurred between members."

"This committee is not acting in a dignified way," he said. "Personally, I am going to retire from the committee."

Duffy told Dean, after order had been restored and questioning resumed that the Department of Commerce had made a study of the laws of some 30 countries and had found none that had a minimum damage provision.

"Do you think the Patents Committee would be in better position to determine whether $250 is proper as against the judgment of the court?" Dean asked.

"I think it should be left entirely to the courts," Duffy said.

McClure Recalled

Members of the committee discussed the situation caused by the resignation of Warners from Ascap with Wallace McClure, assistant chief of the Treaty Division of the State Department, who was recalled for questioning.

McClure explained that it is now necessary for some consumers to secure two licenses instead of one "with no assurance that there may not be a third organization" at any time.

Most of the questions directed at McClure referred to conditions which would exist if this country should join the Berne Convention. The State Department official held the benefits to be derived in some 45 countries more than offset the disadvantages in two or three where Americans are discriminated against.

Congressional determination of fees was broached first by Representative Cramer, who asked whether the rate could not be fixed by statute, McClure replying that "such information as we have as to the attitudes of other countries toward Government control, is along that line."

Representative Colden declared that some way should be developed to fix the royalty to be paid, suggesting that in the case of broadcasting stations it could be based on audience and similar factors and that in the case of the film industry it could be based on admissions, "so that the copyright owner may benefit in proportion to the use of his material."

"It seems that your proposition does not face any undue difficulty from the drafting point of view," McClure said. Cramer suggested that an amendment may be incorportaed in the bill that before any film, or any other user, may be charged with any penalty fixed by the act he shall be given notice in writing by the copyright owner that he is infringing, and until such notice has been given there shall be no charge of violation.

Admitting that this is an important question, McClure suggested it might be considered as putting an undue burden upon the copyright owner.

The committee will resume its hearings March 17 with further questioning of McClure, indications being that the remainder of the week will be devoted to the hearing of broadcasters.

Halt Film for Games

Chicago, March 12—Latest laugh locally is the way some exhibitors put on give-away games. One theatre which makes a habit of stopping in the middle of the feature to let the audience play Screeno, hit a snag the other evening. The picture halted for the game was "Mutiny On the Bounty."

The customers almost staged a mutiny and the manager had to go on with the picture and play the game when the screening was over.

authorized its contract committee to open negotiations with the guild for a new agreement.

If the negotiations are unsuccessful, the league asks that the differences between the two organizations over the new agreement be submitted to arbitration, and that if this is refused, the contract committee of the league should proceed to draw up an agreement of its own to be used by the managers in their dealings with authors.

The league also authorized the drawing up of a mutual form of agreement under which managers would pledge themselves to use only the new pact drawn by their own contract committee.

The bulk of the managers' opposition is centered on the provisions of the guild's agreement which reduces the manager's share of the sale of film rights to stage plays in favor of the author. Guild officials have stated that no change in the agreement will be made unless the managers come forward with better provisions than those contained in the present one.

Jersey Levy Is Defeated In Assembly

day and night Saturday if necessary to solve the relief crisis.

Opposition to the amusement-luxury tax program has started a powerful movement in favor of a general tax on retail sales, amusements and services. This tax would be levied on all retail sales with the possible exception of food and fuel for home consumption. It would be a two per cent tax, thus quieting the opposition of the tobacco and soft drink interests to the 10 to 20 per cent schedules in the luxury program.

Efforts will be made to extend the levy to two per cent on amusements to answer the attacks of the film interests. However, this is likely to encounter further opposition because it would be a tax on gross receipts with no provision that it be passed on. Exhibitors thus would be forced to absorb the levy or raise their prices without advertising the boost as a tax.

All forms of amusement would be subject to the tax, with the exception of performances for charitable, religious, fraternal, civic and educational organizations, grammar and high school games and performances, and boxing and wrestling events already paying a tax.

Amusement operators would be required to pay the 10 per cent tax by the twentieth day of each month, the first return to be May 20. The tax would go into effect April 16 and would remain on the statute books until June 30, 1938.

ties established in 1928 under a 10-year agreement. A settlement will also be sought on the Tobis demands for payment in dollars rather than in the currency of the countries in which the royalties are applied. American companies have large credits in the central European countries involved which cannot be withdrawn and have offered payments to Tobis from these funds. Tobis has declined, however, with the result that it has collected no royalties for some time past.

Warners Start Ten More Music Actions

Warner music subsidiaries yesterday filed 10 additional actions in Federal District Court here against local hotels and cafes, alleging copyright infringement in the unlicensed performance of Warner owned music.

The actions named as defendants the Hotel McAlpin, Biltmore, Park Central, Edison, Leon & Eddie's, The Famous Door, Hotel St. George, Connie's Inn, Chin's Chinese Restaurant and the 151 E. 50th St. Restaurant. An injunction and $250 damages, plus an accounting of profits, are sought on each song allegedly performed without a license.

The new actions bring the total filed against hotels and cafes to 20. In addition, Warners have filed 97 actions against radio broadcasting stations.

Louis Mayer Honored By AOH and Shriners

SAN FRANCISCO, March 12.—Louis B. Mayer was honor guest and speaker here today at the annual luncheon meeting of the Shriners and Ancient Order of Hibernians held at the Palace Hotel.

Mayer was introduced by Henry Boyen, president of the Shriners' Luncheon Club, as "a man of international character." The producer, in a speech to the 1,500 present, which was also broadcast, stressed his intense love for San Francisco and for his friends. He attacked religious intolerance in foreign countries.

Among the guests were Max Gordon, New York stage producer; Louis Lurie, and Howard Strickling, M-G-M publicity director.

Kuykendall emphasized that the committee to be named would not be a "grievance committee," but would be a representative group of the national exhibitor organization which would be prepared to "make suggestions" and seek solutions for major problems affecting both distributor and exhibitor.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Anna May Wong today was relieved of a Government tax claim for $880 against her 1932 salary, said to have been $21,275, by an agreement to pay $146.

Arbitrators Handle Barcelona Dispute

BARCELONA, March 12.—Differences between M-G-M and local exhibitors were placed before an arbitration board today and it is expected the dispute will be settled within a few days.

Jacques Edelstein, M-G-M branch manager, is absenting himself from the sessions.

Laudy Lawrence, M-G-M general manager in Europe and now here on his annual visit with Arthur Loew, is understood to be backing Jacques Edelstein on his stand in the Barcelona dispute with exhibitors. He will not discuss the matter, but it is learned the differences arose when a number of exhibitors were found to be bicycling M-G-M's product.

Lawrence is scheduled to return to Paris, his headquarters, in about two weeks.

Five Holdovers on In Denver Theatres

DENVER, March 12—Five holdovers are current this week. One of these broke four records in its first week. "Trail of the Lonesome Pine" at the Denham broke the weekly record last Friday and set a new high on Saturday. It then surpassed the Sunday afternoon record by a wide margin.

"Follow the Fleet" is in its second week at the Orpheum, as is "Bohemian Girl" at the Paramount, following a week at the Aladdin. The latter immediately followed "Professional Soldier," which also was there on a holdover from the Aladdin. "Country Doctor" will stay at the Denver 10 days. "Modern Times" has just finished a three-week run here, with a week each at the Denver, Paramount and Broadway.

M-G-M in Paramount Theatres at Boston

BOSTON, March 12.—A unique booking situation is the spotting of an M-G-M feature day-and-date in the first run Paramount and Fenway. Loew's has two local first runs, M. & P. three, and Radio two. Loew's State and Orpheum has been regularly playing M-G-M, Columbia and some United Artists. Keith's Memorial and the RKO Boston take Radio, half of 20th-Fox, some Universal, and an occasional Republic. M. & P. books the rest of the majors with a very infrequent independent.

The conversion of the Park into a first run independent is now underway.

Occupants Bid High For the McVickers

CHICAGO, March 12—Highest bidder for the lease on the McVickers theatre building was the McVickers Theatre Co., which recently lost the lease for failure to pay ground rent.

The bid was $48,000 rent per year plus 12½ per cent on box-office grosses. The lease was for a term of years. Decision of the Board of Education will be forthcoming soon.

earmarked, will now be assumed by the new company.

Details of titles, directors and casts of the first four pictures are being held for announcement by Kent at a company convention here in April. In the same month production will begin at the London Films' plant at Denham.

That nine men control bookings of 652 theatres in England and that these theatres represent half the first runs and more or less dominate the booking situation, is one of the most striking statements in the annual report of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n., just issued.

Recommendations from the C.E.A. Council that 40 per cent should be a maximum film rental are declared to have had good effect in certain districts, but, says the report, "attempts to enforce rules by penalties or deposits revealed that they were unenforceable." The solution of high film prices is seen in "a gratifying increase in the number of films on offer," promising that "the supply is in process of overtaking the demand."

Stating that "if the quality of British films handled by the American companies was comparable with their American product" there would be no quota problem, the association goes on record with this declaration of policy: "In the absence of effective amendment of the Cinematograph Films Act to eliminate the considerable number of unusable British films, . . . the quota on exhibitors should be reduced to 10 per cent."

Two M-G-M Theatres In S. A. Ready Soon

Two of the four new M-G-M theatres now under construction in South America will be ready for opening next month, Arthur Loew, head of the company's foreign department, stated yesterday upon his return from South Africa and South America.

Loew yesterday conferred with Thomas Lamb, architect, on plans for new theatres and will return in a few weeks to South America. He denied reports he would go to the coast to confer with his brother, Dave, on the latter's plans for a production tieup.

The M-G-M foreign head, who flew most of the way from Rio de Janeiro, was grounded in Raleigh, N. C., and completed the trip by train.

"Modern Times" at $14,000 Is High Spot in Providence

PROVIDENCE, March 12.—"Modern Times" drew $14,000 to Loew's State for the week as roads cleared and the mercury rose. The take was $2,000 over par. Mae West moved into the Strand after "Timothy's Quest" and "Eagle's Brood" collared a neat $4,800 for five days. The usual week's take is $6,500.

"Follow the Fleet" is holding up remarkably well at the RKO Albee, catching $8,000 in its second week. Par is $7,000. The picture was held over again in the hope that it would establish a house record.

The Majestic, with "Every Saturday Night" and "I Follow the Sea," was down $2,000 with a gross of $5,000 and Fay's was $1,000 under the usual $7,000, playing "Ring Around the Moon" and the "Beef Trust Revue" on the stage.

Total first run business was $37,800. Average is $39,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 5:

"TIMOTHY'S QUEST" (Para.)

"Wife-Secretary" Louisville Leader

LOUISVILLE, March 12.—A bang-up exploitation campaign on "Wife vs. Secretary" rewarded Loew's State with a gross of $6,200, $700 over par. "Desire" at the Rialto ran a close second, getting $4,800, just $300 over the line.

"Klondike Annie," which was shifted from the Rialto to the Strand, did well, grossing $3,100, as did "The Story of Louis Pasteur" at the Mary Anderson. "Pasteur" took $3,800. The picture received much favorable comment for its dignified portrayal of the life of the French scientist. It was held.

"Follow the Fleet" took $3,100. This was a sizeable drop from the previous week's business. "The Widow from Monte Carlo" did just fair at the National, grossing $2,900, with the stage show accounting for the draw.

Principal opposition was a Better Homes Show held all week at the Jefferson County Armory. The weather was pleasant.

Total first run business was $25,300. Average is $24,200.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 5:

"WIFE VS. SECRETARY" (M-G-M)

Radio Moral Force Sarnoff Believes

Radio, as the greatest means of mass communication, can contribute the moral and mental enlightenment which should be the most effective deterrent of crime, declared David Sarnoff, RCA president, speaking yesterday on "Radio as a Force in Crime Control" at the Herald Tribune conference on "Youth and Crime Today." The development of instruction in cultural subjects via radio, said Sarnoff, should result in a reduction of crime.

He pointed out also the value of radio in the apprehension of criminals, calling the medium "the longest arm of the police department, the speediest method of capturing fleeing criminals."

KAO Meet Due April 8

The annual stockholders' meeting of KAO will be held April 8. At that time 13 directors will be elected. Advance indications are that no change in the present setup will take place.

The directors are scheduled to meet March 17 to approve the company's annual financial report.

Columbia in Dutch Deal

Loet Barnstyn of Standard Film of Holland has closed a one-year deal with Columbia to distribute the company's current season's product in Holland. Standard also has the releasing rights in Holland for "Modern Times." Jack Barnstyn, who is associated with his brother, negotiated the deals.

Warners Plan New House

CHICAGO, March 12.—Warners plan to build a 1,500-seat theatre here at the corner of Rhodes Avenue and East 79th St. James E. Coston will leave for New York Sunday to confer with home office executives on details.

Fred Stone Builds Home

HOLLYWOOD, March 12.—Fred Stone has purchased five acres near the Hollywood Country Club and will build a 12-room house for his permanent home. The veteran actor will celebrate his 50th anniversary in show business on March 14.

William J. Clark Resigns

William J. Clark, long associated with the Stanley Co. of America and Warners as film buyer in the theatre department, has resigned, effective April 4. His successor will be named in the near future by Clayton Bond, head of the film buying department.

See $65,000 for "Annie"

With $7,600 taken in on the opening day, "Klondike Annie" is headed for a $65,000 week at the New York Paramount. "Trail of the Lonesome Pine" ended its third week at the house with about $23,000.

"Pine" in Five Openings

"Trail of the Lonesome Pine" opens in five key cities today; Rialto, Louisville; Warfield, San Francisco; Minnesota, Minneapolis; Malco, Memphis, and Palace, Dallas.

WELL-NAMED

SUPER X . . . as unusual as it sounds, and well-named too. For it passes superlatively excellent photographic quality on to the screen. Producers, exhibitors, the public . . . everyone benefits. No wonder that cameramen choose Super X Film for the majority of the big feature pictures. Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N. Y. (J. E. Variety Club Chatter

Cleveland

CLEVELAND, March 12.—Col. HARRY E. LONG and NAT HOLT, past president, will resume king-for-a-day luncheons March 23. HOLT and I. J. SCHMERTZ, present president, will represent the Cleveland Variety Club at the national club banquet in Columbus April 18-19.

Ladies' Day at the club has been resumed as a semi-monthly activity. MRS. I. J. SCHMERTZ and MRS. HOLT were last week's hostesses. MRS. DAVE MILLER and MRS. JACK JOSSEY will be official queens on March 18.

Detroit

DETROIT, March 12.—Twelve new barkers have been elected to membership in Variety Club. They are: FRED C. BICKELY, superintendent Erpi; RALPH PECKHAM and JACK STEWART, Universal salesmen; SYDNEY J. BOWMAN, office manager, United Artists; LEONARD SOSKIN, EDWARD WEINGARDEN and BEN ROBINS, United Artists salesmen; ROBERT J. MORK, Twin City Scenic Studio; SOL and MAC KRIM and ARTHUR ROBINSON, exhibitors, and HARRY H. THOMAS, president of First Division.

MAURICE CAPLAN, Variety president, is in Florida.

MAC KRIM has returned from Miami and his brother, Sol, has departed for the same destination.

E. C. BEATTY of the Butterfield circuit has gone to the Battle Creek sanitarium for a rest.

IRVING GOLDBERG, ALEX SCHREIBER and CARL SHALIT are other filmites now in Florida.

Plans for the club's third annual ball to be held in the Book-Cadillac ballrooms on April 25 are well under way and complete details will be announced shortly.

Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, March 12.—TOM COLLINS, Sunday editor of the Journal-Post, and after-dinner (or lunch) speaker par excellence, proved "Seeing Is Not Believing" to a large crowd at the last Variety Club luncheon. COLLINS, who has talked four times to the club, submitted evidence to show that no two eye-witnesses to an incident or accident—or anything else—ever make the same report, and in some cases the story of one eye-witness will change. This comes about not from a deficiency in honesty, but inability to observe accurately and think through. COLLINS submitted it as an alibi for newspaper reporting.

All those who attended were members but one, LESTER GOODMAN, guest of RUBE FINKLESTEIN, operator of the Belmont.

Appointing "Kings" to handle luncheons and Saturday "rendezvous" nights is out. Hereafter the executive committee will be responsible for these matters. Barker NORRIS B. CRESSWELL has taken over the job of handling Monday lunches and Saturday night affairs.

C. W. GRIFFIN, of the First National Television Corp., will talk March 16 on television and give a demonstration. Images will be transmitted from down town to the clubrooms.

Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, March 12.—New members include SAMUEL H. STIEFEL, ARTHUR H. PADULA, MARTIN EPSTEIN, FRANK D. WINDELL, PHILIP HARRISON, EMANUEL ROSENFELD, NAT P. FLEISHER, DR. J. A. RITTER, GUS A. AMSTERDAM, SAMUEL ROSEN, CHARLES KAHN, DR. MAURICE ROTHMAN, IRWIN M. CHARLUP, MAX LEVEN.

A neat profit was reported on the first annual banquet.

DAVID GREENBERG is the new club manager.

Celebrity nights are being discontinued.

The four youngsters who have been receiving therapeutic treatment through the club's recent $1,000 donation are progressing nicely.

Kings for March 18 will be LEWEN PIZOR and MIKE EGNAL.

It is expected that a formal ball will be held during the latter part of April or early in May.

Committees for the new season include: House — HARRY WEINER, chairman; AMSTERDAM, LEW BACHE, MURRAY BEIER, CHARLES ZAGRANS, SAM GROSS, BILL CLARK, PIZOR, MILT ROGASNER, BILL MANSELL, JACK BERESIN; Entertainment — LEONARD SCHLESINGER, Chairman; PIZOR, HARRY BIBEN, EDDIE SHERMAN, JACK MAZER, ZAGRANS, ULRIK SMITH; Membership—EARLE SWEIGERT, chairman; LESTER KRIEGER, BERESIN, JOHN BETHELL, GROSS, FRANK FOGEL, JOHN GOLDER; Welfare, Charity—AMSTERDAM, chairman; BERESIN, GROSS; Publicity — JAY EMANUEL; Sick and Flowers—JACK GREENBERG, MANSELL.

Washington

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Variety turned out in force to pay honor to WILLIAM EUSTACE STOWE WILCOX, who, with ROBERT MONROE GRACE, acted as kings for a day, at the first luncheon of the new year not sponsored by an exchange.

More than 70 barkers and their guests assembled for the festivities, which started off with a bounteous repast. Although it was to a great extent WILCOX'S day, the modest Marylander turned the master of ceremonies job over to GRACE.

JIMMY SAVO, MURIEL PAGE, MIKE FARLEY and ED RILEY, composers of "The Music Goes 'Round and Around," and FREDDIE LIGHTNER were on the program.

To Start "Harvester"

HOLLYWOOD, March 12.—Republic is starting "The Harvester," Gene Stratton-Porter novel, this week. Russell Hardie, just returned from a New York stage engagement, will have the title role. Homer Croy made the screen adaptation; Joseph Santley will direct.

"Fleet" Breaks Record

COLUMBUS, March 12.—"Follow the Fleet" shattered all nine-day attendance records at the RKO Palace, where it played to more than 75,000 people. It is being held over at the RKO Grand this week.

"Soak Rich," With $4,100, Capital Hit

WASHINGTON, March 12.—"Soak the Rich," at the Belasco turned in the best comparative gross of the week. In seven days, helped by rave reviews, the gross rose to $4,100—or $1,100 over average. The picture was held.

Big money went to Loew's Fox with "The Prisoner of Shark Island" for a gross of $22,500, or $1,600 over par.

Two surprises marked the week. First was the pulling of an expected two-week run of "Klondike Annie" at the end of the eighth day at Loew's Palace. The take was $18,000. Par for a week is $15,900.

The second surprise was the slipping of "The Music Goes 'Round" at the Earle—plus Mike Riley and Ed Farley, the composers of that popular song, in person—to $17,000, or $1,400 under average.

A return engagement of "The Petrified Forest" at the Metropolitan took $6,300, over par by $2,000. The second week of "The Ghost Goes West" at RKO-Keith's did a nice $8,000, but $2,600 under the first week average.

Total first run business was $78,900. Average is $76,700.

Universal Control Goes To Standard Group Today

Merger Steps Discussed by Theatre Men

TOCC - ITOA Committee On Details Named

A merger of the T. O. C. C. and I. T. O. A. moved a step nearer yesterday as 32 leading independent circuit heads met at the Astor and advocated a solidification of all theatre operators.

Charles L. O'Reilly, head of the T. O. C. C.; Harry Brandt, president of the I. T. O. A.; Maurice Fleischman, Si Fabian, Sam Strausberg and Louis Frisch spoke on the necessity for grouping all theatres into a strong organization. Following the talks, a committee of three exhibitors, not affiliated with either association, was named to work out ways and means for uniting the organizations.

On the committee are Sam Rosen, Herman Becker and Strausberg. They will contact all exhibitors for support.

Fabian told the exhibitors that the only reason he has been aloof from the I. T. O. A. is because the organization has been fighting problems

Eastern Connecticut Floods Hit Theatres

NEW HAVEN, March 13.—Two Warner circuit houses, the Capitol, Ansonia, and the Palace, Norwich, suffered considerable cellar flood damage today from the constantly rising waters of the Naugatuck and Thames Rivers. Business and residential sections of many Connecticut towns have been completely inundated. Although shows continued today, it was impossible to predict what the condition would be if floods did not subside.

Transportation in the Naugatuck Valley and in other sections was practically at a standstill, and it was with great difficulty that film delivery was effected.

Read It Three Times

Chicago, March 13.—Mervyn LeRoy, passing through, en route east, said between trains, "My chief bid for fame is that I'm the only man ever to read 'Anthony Adverse' three times."

LeRoy, is traveling with his wife, the former Doris Warner, on a month's vacation.

Para. Rentals Touch Million Weekly Figure

Paramount's returns from film rentals are running in excess of $1,000,000 a week, the highest since 1931 and 10 per cent greater than a year ago, John E. Otterson, president, told financial editors of the New York daily press at a luncheon conference in his office yesterday.

Otterson also stated that with net theatre profits of the company at 25 to 30 per cent more now than at the same time last year, with negative costs having been uniformly brought within reason, and with cash reserves of $18,000,000 on hand, Paramount, in the opinion of its management, is in a better financial position than any company in the industry.

The financial writers attending the interview were requested not to use the figures divulged, which were cited

"Secretary" Tallies $26,000 Second Week

"Wife vs. Secretary" in its second week at the Capitol tallied $26,000 and was replaced yesterday by "Robin Hood of El Dorado." The Roxy on the second stanza of "Rhodes," garnered $23,300. Pinky Tomlin, who has been appearing in person, is being held a third week. On March 27, Jackie Coogan and Betty Grable will start a personal appearance with the "Hollywood Secrets" unit. On April 3, another Major Bowes' amateur unit will be the attraction.

Columbia to Discuss Lineup on the Coast

Product conferences on Columbia's program next season will be held on the coast next week with the arrival of Jack Cohn, Abe Schneider, Joseph Seidelman and Joe Friedman.

Cohn is scheduled to arrive Monday by boat. Schneider left yesterday by train and Seidelman and Friedman will leave some time next week. Foreign production plans also will be discussed in Hollywood.

Boys'll Be Chic

Creased pants—or, er, ah, trousers—and cravats, rather than old-fashioned neckties, and possibly a cutaway or two, may blossom around Fox Movietone News any day now. They're going to treat men's fashions seriously in the reel. Vyvyran Donner, fashion editor, evolved the idea.

To prove it they're going to have a masculine fashion show Monday noon, with Lucius Beebe, the Beau Brummel of newspapermen, and Heywood Broun, the Low Bummel of the craft, sartorially giving their impressions.

Abeles Is Made W. B. South America Head

Arthur S. Abeles, who has been managing the Mexico City branch for Warners, has been promoted to supervisor of South America with headquarters at Rio de Janeiro, Joseph S. Hummel, head of Warners' foreign sales, stated yesterday upon his return from a two-and-a-half-month tour. Rodrigo Rombauer, formerly assistant manager of the Brazil office, has been elevated to manager, succeeding Nat Leibeskind, who has joined RKO in charge of the company's new office in Rio de Janeiro.

Hummel covered most of the trip by plane, having visited Puerto Rico, British, Dutch and French Guianas, Trinidad, Brazil and the Argentine. After a general survey of conditions, he was optimistic over the improvements being made. The countries are developing rapidly and there is a lot

J. J. Milstein Quits M-G-M for Republic

LOS ANGELES, March 13.—J. J. Milstein, for the past 12 years branch manager of the local M-G-M exchange, has tendered his resignation to become western division sales manager for Republic. The shift will take place in five weeks.

Milstein's new post will take in all exchanges west of Kansas City, the territory being handled by Jack Fier, who has been appointed assistant to Nat Levine, production head.

Deal to Be Completed by Deposit of $1,500,000 Cash for Laemmle

Control of Universal will pass to Standard Capital Co., headed by J. Cheever Cowdin and Charles R. Rogers, this morning, when Standard's option to purchase from Carl Laemmle his more than 80 per cent interest in the company will be exercised.

Arrangements for lifting the option were formally concluded early yesterday afternoon. The final step will be taken this morning with the deposit of $1,500,000 in cash to Laemmle's credit, as required by the terms of the option. A total of $5,500,000 is involved in the transaction. The balance of $4,000,000 will be delivered to Laemmle in securities within 20 days. The securities will be redeemable over an eight-year period at $500,000 per year. Participating in Standard's financing are Erpi, C. M. Woolf and associates of London and Eastman Kodak.

Laemmle will resign as president of Universal in the near future, but will continue as a member of the company's board, which is soon to be reconstituted to include representation for the new financial interests. Cowdin will become chairman of the

By RED KANN

Hollywood, March 13.

TALES from the Hollywood hills:

A professor is a professor and there's no gainsaying that. One producer, hit by an idea, hired a prof on the general theory that, since he obviously must know all, here was an opinion which would aid mightily in developing story values. Their first meeting found the erudite one warming to his subject and embarking on a flight of rhetoric dealing with the vast, untouched possibilities in pictures.

"Think of the boon if that day will come when Hollywood will dare base pictures on the heroic proportions of the Odyssey. Or the Koran. Or the great conquerors of ancient and mediaeval history. How wonderful that would be!"

The producer, worried about a particular story problem, listened, then grew restless to a point where his politeness wore thin.

"Boy, I could learn a lot from you if I'd only listen, but what about that story for my star?" . . .

Newspapermen here catch on quickly to the fol-de-rol which blankets Hollywood. They get to learn the foibles of this and that one and what to expect. There is the producer who always issues statements loaded with bombast and little else. Came the occasion when the scribes actually sought out the man for a statement, for the nonce, therefore, reversing the procedure.

"What about this situation?" was the query.

"Gentlemen, I have nothing, nothing at all, to say," answered the producer.

"We know that, but how are you going to frame it this time?" . . .

Add Mae West: Her scrutiny and domination of all detail attendant upon production of her pictures while with Paramount was widely known on that lot. The control went far down the line to include supervision of trailer content. At a screening of a rough print of material assembled from "Klondike Annie," Miss West ordered two shots out with this comment:

"I don't like them. They make me look too much like a burley-cue queen." . . .

A writer decided to turn in his old car and was ogling a Ford. The salesmen, hot for the sale, finally visited the lot.

"I can't discuss it here. I'm afraid the boss might discover that I'm talking to you on studio time," he said.

"Don't worry about the boss," rejoined the salesman. "I just left him. He bought a Pierce Arrow." . . .

Bill Goetz, advised that Boris Morros was knee high in deep ruby shirts, promises a reformation. Nowhere in Hollywood, incidentally, do the supervisors dress as well as at Twentieth Century-Fox. It's like a whole section torn from Esquire's sportswear department. . . .

"I'd like to see ———. I hear it's a great picture," voiced one film man.

"You'd better arrange to see it in the bank vault. The studio has hocked it," answered another. . .

That recent crack by Gene Fowler who, when asked if he had seen Pine lately, inquired if it was Virginia, Bill or Lonesome, registered with all three principals, including Walter Wanger for Lonesome. . . .

The young producer, a noted hypochondriac, heard one of his writers complain at such length about chills and colds the other evening that he—the producer—went to bed for two days. . . .

Corporate protection, double feature style from one who opposes them and copied from the door at the United Artists studio:

Philadelphians Returning

PHILADELPHIA, March 13.—With each northbound train out of Florida bringing its quota of warriors, the re-militarization of Vine St. will soon be accomplished.

On the way home, or expected in the near future are B. M. Golder, amicus curiae by appointment of Judge Welsh, Dave Barrist, Lewen Pizor, president of the local M. P. T. O., and Charles Segall, president of the new I. M. P. T. O.

Lorree May Go to "U"

LONDON, March 13.—Peter Lorree is understood to be breaking with Columbia for the purpose of playing in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" for Universal.

John Wayne Goes to "U"

HOLLYWOOD, March 13. — Carl Laemmle has signed with Trem Carr for the services of John Wayne in eight pictures of the next season line-up. They will not be westerns.

RKO Theatres Unit Affairs Closed Out

A final meeting of creditors of RKO Theatre Operating Corp., a bankrupt subsidiary of RKO, was held yesterday to wind up the administration of the company and to submit final accounts to Referee Irwin Kurtz.

The company, which formerly operated the Bradder and Pollock theatres in New Jersey and Connecticut, went into bankruptcy Feb. 27, 1933. Irving Trust Co. was appointed trustee on March 9 of the same year. The principal assets of the company were its seven theatre leaseholds, five in New Jersey and two in Connecticut, which were disposed of by the trustee in a liquidation of the estate. Claims finally allowed against the company amounted to $219,244, on which a first dividend of 10 per cent was paid recently.

Academy Unit Hears Technician Reports

HOLLYWOOD, March 13.—The Academy Research Council, at its last bi-monthly meeting, heard E. H. Hansen, chairman of the sound recording subcommitttee, present reports on the committee's investigation of trailer volume levels in relation to the volume level of features as projected in the theatre.

S. J. Twining reported on changes in the standard release print leader which will be used after August 1 under the new 2,000-foot reel system and Carl Dreher, chairman of the scientific sub-committee and Virgil Miller, chairman of the silent camera sub-committee reported on recent tests.

Ampa Boys Sit Back With Plans All Set

Most of the Ampa boys who have been losing sleep over the arrangements for the Naked Truth Dinner tonight are sitting back with their fingers crossed today hoping for the best and predicting it will be—well, not colossal exactly, but at least marvelous.

Names—plenty of them—have been allowed to leak out, but the entertainment committeemen still insist the program will be full of surprises to take the place of the speeches that have been banned.

It'll be a crowd. The prediction is unanimous on that, but one of those crowds that make the Astor's ancient walls bulge.

Dietrich to Leave Soon

HOLLYWOOD, March 13.—Marlene Dietrich will leave for Europe in a few days, making one picture for Alexander Korda. She will return to Paramount in the fall. Meanwhile, the studio has borrowed Margaret Sullavan from Universal for Miss Dietrich's role in "I Loved a Soldier." In exchange, Paramount has loaned Carole Lombard to Universal for the feminine lead in "My Man Godfrey" opposite William Powell.

Depinet, Levy in Texas

HOLLYWOOD, March 13.—Ned E. Depinet and Jules Levy left by plane today for Dallas and from there will go to New Orleans and Chicago, holding brief sales meetings in each city.

for their informative rather than their news value, but within an hour after the interview closed the Dow-Jones financial ticker carried the figures and several of the press representatives who attended the meeting, observing them, promptly included them in their own stories.

Net in the first nine months of 1935 was $2,900,000 and a profit was also shown in the last quarter, the financial writers were told. It was explained, however, that provisions for setting up a reserve fund for the amortization of several high cost negatives produced last year remain to be made and definitely will affect the earnings report of the company for either 1935 or for the first half of 1936, depending on to which operating period the reserve is allocated.

Studio economies effected recently have reduced the average production cost by one-third, it was said.

Partnership Operation Favored

Paramount owns approximately 700 theatres outright, and an additional 300 in which it has at least a 50 per cent interest are operated under partnership arrangements, the financial men were advised. The company's management, it was said, is very much in favor of partnership operation of theatres and has been supported in this policy by the board. Options to repurchase the 50 per cent partnership interest in the A. H. Blank and Karl Hoblitzelle's Texas Consolidated Theatres expire April 1 and 4, respectively, and probably will be disposed of at the next meeting of the Paramount board, March 26. Thereafter, no other important buy-back options will come up for action for nearly two years.

William LeBaron's contract was extended for a year recently, and now has two years and nine months to run as a result, it was related. Cecil B. DeMille has one picture to make on his contract and no decision has been made yet on a new one.

No changes in the Paramount board are anticipated now, it was said, and no negotiations for the sale of the company's British subsidiary are under way. The immediate importance to the industry of color and television was minimized by Otterson.

Attending the conference were representatives of the Times, Herald-Tribune, American, Evening Journal, Wall Street Journal and Associated Press.

Standee Bill Presented

ALBANY, March 13.—A bill introduced by Senator Rae L. Egbert requires a seat for every patron in a place of public assembly, except that space which may be especially marked for standees if the aisles and approaches to fire exits are kept open.

Sichelman in New Job

Jack Sichelman has taken over the duties formerly handled by William Sussman, who was recently promoted to eastern division head for Twentieth Century-Fox.

Oh's and Ah's Have It as N. Y. Critics See "Doctor"

The critics of New York's newspapers went back to their typewriters after seeing "The Country Doctor" and emerged later in print with a complete unanimity of opinion. The vote read "Aye," with a considerable admixture of "Oh's" and "Ah's" for the Dionne Quins, the film as a film without the infantile starlets and the work of the players.

Representative slices from their comments follow:

American—Even without Yvonne, Cecile, Annette, Emilie and Marie, "The Country Doctor" would be first-rate heart-throb entertainment. With the babies it hits a hitherto untouched high for human interest and becomes nothing short of sensational. . . . With its virtue of simplicity, it is an excellently produced, finely directed, sensitively played smile-and-tear combination that will hit your heart just as surely as the kids will burrow into it to stay.

Daily Mirrar—A terrific smash, this handsome, human drama looms as an immediate candidate for a leading place among the ten best pictures of 1936.

It is rousing entertainment, a blend of humor, tears, tense drama, charm and substance.

Jean Hersholt, in the title role, gives the most beautiful performance of his distinguished career. . . .

But even without the quins "The Country Doctor" would have been a great and distinguished picture.

Daily News—"The Country Doctor" is one of those inspired pictures which happens rarely in a life time. . . .

There are plenty of flaws in the story and production but in spite of them this factual-fictional account of life in the North Bay country of Ontario is a refreshing, pictorial human document. . . .

Jean Hersholt gives a fine, understanding performance of the country doctor, and Dorothy Peterson, as the nurse, is scarcely less impressive.

* * *

Evening Journal—Unquestionably, "The Country Doctor" will be the most talked-of picture of the year. Even without its five stars, the Dionne quintuplets, the film is grand entertainment. And with Yvonne, Cecile, Emilie, Marie and Annette appearing for a climax, it's sensational.

Twentieth Century-Fox has done an enormously effective job.

Jean Hersholt gives a superb performance as the now famous country doctor.

Herald-Tribune—The film proved a delightful and heart-warming sentimental drama, touching, humorous and completely likable. . . .

It would be a likable picture, even if it were not enlivened by the presence of its five heroines.

There is one episode in the film which richly deserves to stand among the great comic interludes of cinema history. That, of course, is the sequence dealing with the birth of the five infants. . . .

Jean Hersholt is particularly fine as the modest physician.

Post—It would be asking too much of "The Country Doctor" to be as good as its best part. For if it could have maintained the comedy level of the scene in which an expectant father is overwhelmed by the cumulative births of five daughters it would undoubtedly have emerged as the most exhilarating picture of the year.

Jean Hersholt caps a long and distinguished career in the movies with his sympathetic portrait of the country doctor.

Sun—Although "The Country Doctor" was written to show off the Dionne quintuplets, although their presence will certainly make it a box office hit, these five highly publicized little girls are not the real stars of the feature. The picture could get along nicely without them. . . .

The comedy of the quintuplets' birth is funny enough to justify the whole picture.

Times—There is no holding out against "The Country Doctor." It is an irresistibly appealing blend of sentiment and comedy. . . .

There may have been funnier moments in screen history than those in which John Qualen becomes the astonished father of five, but somehow we cannot recall them. . . .

The truth is that the film would have been just as good with the quintuplets represented only by inference—if it is possible to infer quintuplets.

World-Telegram—Even without the quintuplets "The Country Doctor" would still be an extraordinarily fine picture—a picture full of deep, tender charm and the warming spirit of humanity.

The birth of the quintuplets is a classic. Full of suspense, humor and tenderness, it tells the birth of the quins through the reaction of the father and the sheriff, who are unable to realize what is happening. Nothing like it has been filmed in the talking pictures.

The acting of the entire cast is superb.

"Robin Hood of El Dorado," yesterday's opener at the Capitol, was reviewed March 9.

"The Country Doctor," now playing at the Radio City Music Hall, was reviewed Feb. 27.

"Song and Dance Man," now current at the Center, was previewed by wire from Hollywood Feb. 10.

"Love Before Breakfast," currently playing at the Roxy, was reviewed Feb. 17 by wire from Hollywood.

"Klondike Annie," previewed by wire from Hollywood Feb. 18, is now being shown at the Paramount.

"Tough Guy," now at the Rialto, was reviewed by wire from Hollywood Jan. 27.

Allied Board Is Named

CHICAGO, March 13.—The new board of directors of Allied named here today includes: Ludwig Sussman, Tippy Harrison, Samuel Roberts, Verne Langdon, Benjamin Lasker, B. Charuhas, Abe Gumbiner, Charles Nelson, Richard Salkin, Benjamin Bartelstein and Jack Rose. Officers were elected yesterday. Also on the board is Louis L. Abramson who was reappointed recording secretary.

HOLLYWOOD, March 13.—Bob Palmer succeeded Fred Schuessler today as RKO casting head. Palmer was formerly assistant to Schuessler, who is now casting director at Paramount.

K.C. Spot Raises Scales

KANSAS CITY, March 13.—The first run Fox Uptown, operating on a straight 25-cent policy for several weeks, will return to a 25c-40c schedule probably within three weeks. It is understood producers have been holding back some good pictures because they have objected to the 25-cent price.

Richey to Handle Ball

DETROIT, March 13.—H. M. Richey has been named general chairman for the third annual Variety Club ball, which will be held in the Book-Cadillac, April 25. He succeeds M. Gottlieb, who resigned because of pressure of business.

garnered around $20,000. "The Three Godfathers" at the Rialto ended with approximately $8,000, while the Palace with "Prisoner of Shark Island" and "Farmer in the Dell" was weak with $7,000. The Center got about $8,000 with "Love on a Bet" and "Colleen" at the Strand wound up close to $20,000.

The first day's take on "The Country Doctor" at the Music Hall was $9,000. After chalking up $7,600 for the opening day, "Klondike Annie" brought in $6,800 on the second day at the Paramount.

Salesmen Talk Insurance

Plans will be discussed today by the M. P. Salesmen, Inc., for the issuance of a $1,000 policy to all members on a group insurance arrangement. The meeting will be held this afternoon at the Park Central. At the same time seven new members will be admitted. Joe Lee of Twentieth Century-Fox will preside at the meeting.

within the industry, but if the solidified membership aimed to battle adverse legislation and other problems which affect the industry he would join.

Fleischman talked about the accomplishments of the I. T. O. A. on the low dues it has received from its members and hinted at some of the things that could be done if greater financial support were given.

Brandt and O'Reilly emphasized the need of closer cooperation among all independent exhibitors. O'Reilly stated that "you can't fight a conflagration with a volunteer fire department," and urged the theatre men to get together and be prepared for any emergency which may arise.

Frisch complimented the I. T. O. A. on the splendid work it had done and promised the support of Randforce. He added his company had always cooperated when called upon.

Strausberg urged the coalition of all exhibitors for emergency purposes. He said that the theatre men in this territory should be prepared at all times for fighting inimical legislation.

Although no major circuits were represented, Frisch is understood to have acted as their spokesman. The I. T. O. A. will hold its regular meeting Wednesday at the Astor when it is expected the developments will be brought up. Brandt, who had called the session, presided.

ury items which has been under consideration for the better part of the past week.

Of the new program, the income tax bill was the first introduced. It calls for a graduated scale extending from three to eight per cent.

The measure providing for a 5 per cent tax on theatre admissions and a number of other "luxury" items was next put before the legislature. It met with spirited opposition and at a late hour tonight had not been passed.

The Senate adopted a resolution calling for a continuous session, day and night, until the pressing problem of taxation is ironed out, but the move met with defeat in the House.

CEA Favors a Limit On All Percentages

LONDON, March 13.—The result of a card vote conducted by the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n. makes it a function of the council to state maximum film percentages and to punish members paying more.

There is considerable doubt as to whether the plan is workable. A controversy is regarded as certain.

RKO Contract for India

It came up to expectations, that Ampa Naked Truth Dinner at the Astor. The attendance ran well over the 700 mark and the entertainment, which began shortly after the dinner started, kept right on going until a late hour. The absence of speeches made a hit.

Until a late hour Friday night the boys watched a dress rehearsal. This helped, as the program went off with something resembling a schedule. Guests saw themselves doing all kinds of things at the showing of newsreel shots made earlier in the evening.

Bylaw Change Is Accepted By Directors

Completes Organization of New Guild

HOLLYWOOD, March 15. — The Screen Directors' Guild has voted unanimously for acceptance of the bylaws as revised by the directorate in collaboration with Lloyd Wright, Guild attorney. Copies will be received tomorrow by all members.

The revision completes the official organization of the group and a concentrated membership drive will follow. The most important change in the guild rules is on Article 3, dealing with membership qualifications. The first draft opened the roster to any director of recognized professional standing in the senior membership classification.

The new bylaws limit the senior group to members having directed and received screen credit for not less than two films for major release, and within the 12-month period prior to

Edelstein Seeks Aid Of Barcelona Police

BARCELONA, March 15.—After receiving three telephone calls and two letters threatening death, Jacques Edelstein, local M-G-M manager, has notified the police and an investigation is now under way.

Despite picketing activities by exhibitors at the distributors' office, M-G-M sales have increased, it is stated. Arthur Field, head of the company's Paris exchange, is due here next week to investigate the trouble.

Field is making the trip at the request of the home office in New York. However, the differences between the theatre men and M-G-M are being arbitrated. It is expected a decision will be reached within the next few days.

Total Gross 25c.

Hartford, March 15.—Major Bowes broke all records for low grosses at the State here. An ordinance prohibits stage performances on Sunday, so he opened with a film show only.

The theatre seats 4,000 and the admission was 25 cents, the lowest in town for a first run. One customer appeared. He insisted on seeing the show, so they ran it off for him. The feature was Gene Raymond in "Seven Keys to Baldpate."

Theatre Tax of 4% Suggested in N. J.

TRENTON, March 14.—A third and compromise amusement tax program which includes a four per cent levy on theatre admissions was put before the legislature this afternoon with tentative agreement for its passage. It is estimated that the new plan will yield $800,000 annually.

The original amusement tax was scheduled at 10 per cent, and was defeated. The second suggestion called for five per cent, but this also failed to pass. Legislators believe that they can put through the present four per cent levy.

The new bill is being prepared by experts of the State Tax Department and will be ready for submission tonight. It is not known as yet whether it will be a flat four per cent on gross receipts or if it will be based on a graduated scale.

Fox Seeking Stay on Arrest for Contempt

An application for a stay of judgment against William Fox pending an appeal to the United States Supreme Court from an order fining Fox $235,000 and $10,000 attorney's fees, and directing that he be taken into custody until the fine is paid, will be asked of Federal Judge William Bondy today.

If the stay is denied by Judge Bondy Fox will be subject to arrest even though his attorney's application for a writ of certiorari is pending before the Supreme Court. The fine and arrest of Fox was ordered by

Funds Placed to Credit Of Laemmle Complete Preliminaries

Formalities in connection with the exercise of the option by which control of Universal passed to Standard Capital Co. were completed on Saturday with the deposit of a check for $1,500,000 to Carl Laemmle's credit in the Manufacturers' Trust Co. The remaining $4,000,000 due is to be posted in securities during the next 20 days. These are on hand now.

It is understood that Erpi put up $2,000,000, that another $2,000,000 came from C. M. Woolf in England, and that the rest was raised from private sources.

A meeting of Universal stockholders is to be called soon to provide representation on the board for the new owners of more than 80 per cent of the company's outstanding securities. Robert H. Cochrane will be named president with Charles R. Rodgers as executive vice-president. The question of recapitalization of the company will be among the early subjects to come before the new board.

Bernhard Says More Coast Spots Sought

Warners may add a number of theatres to its coast circuit, Joseph Bernhard, in charge of operations, stated Saturday.

Bernhard recently returned from the coast where he is understood to have looked over a number of possible situations. Asked whether any deals had been consummated, Bernhard replied: "We are working on something."

Nat H. Brower, west coast district manager for Warners, has been in town several days conferring with home office officials.

American Films Hit By Polish Tax Plan

WARSAW, March 15.—Representatives of American exchanges here have indicated that they will be forced to curtail their activities in this country and perhaps withdraw entirely if a proposed tax is passed by the Government. Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

THE phone rang. It was an imperative ring. We sensed its importance. There was Mox Shobbus, calling all the way from the fringe of Hollywood. As insistent as his telephoning was his oxpostulation, topped by an invitation. "Because you have given the little exhibitor a chance to get off his chest what he's got on it, I want you should be my guest at lunch, something special." It was Ray's Delicatessen and your scribe was a trifle late. Already Mox, usually impatient, was tearing a herring apart. . . .

"I asked you here because all the top shots come here," explained Mox. "Here Louie Mayer finds his favorite dish; kishke. Eddie Cantor gets the best chopped liver here; Manny Cohen, gefillte fish; Joe Schenck, blintzes; Adolphe Menjou, chicken noodle soup; Fannie Brice, gedempfte brust; Carl Laemmle, sauerbraten with potato pancake. Now what will you have?" The regular dinner was ordered and we began to eye Mox appraisingly. Shobbus is medium in height, broad in girth, slightly bald and full of mirth, Shobbus style. By him a joke is a joke and no joking. . . .

We looked for a sour puss, but Shobbus is only slightly citrous. Sartorially, he was impeccable in his way. Naturally, he could not grace the pages of Esquire, but Hart, Schaffner and Marx might use him as a model for their stylish stouts if they stretched it a bit. Mox was smiling. He had just received his previous night's box-office report on his run of "Mutiny on the Bounty," together with "The Country Doctor." He was chuckling and clucking at his profit. "You see, Shobbus service to my public is A Number One, tip-top, aces high. It pays to lead a good, dual life." . . .

"Let's not talk business, Mr. Shobbus," your scribe suggested. "Our readers by this time are fully conversant with your viewpoints as an exhibitor, even though you are on the fringe. Tell me, have you ever been to a real Hollywood party?"

"Sure," replied Mox, rolling a hunk of salami under his tongue. "You remember I was telling you about my talk with Eddie Alperson. Well, to get on my good side what do you think happened? Charlie Skouras, that angel, told Eddie he should invite me to a hotcha Hollywood party. I was suspicious from the beginning, because a party can't get my mind off my grievances and groanings. So I went anyway. . . .

"I took Yenta, my wife, also Eriv Shobbus, my older boy, and Nach Shobbus, my little Lord Fauntleroy, to see what we could see and to get some autographs maybe. Yenta went to get gossip. It was a typical Hollywood party, the kind you never read about. First we met a scenario writer with false teeth and a brief case. He talked just like his characters talked in the days of silent pictures. I was looking all around for his typewriter. There wasn't a brunette in the place. A he-man actor we also met. He smelled from toilet water. Yenta, she's so modest, right away asked the actor the brand. She said we could spray it around our theatre. Maybe she wanted it for me. Yenta is so romantic. . . .

"The producer who invited us through Skouras through Alperson appeared with an English accent, a cocktail shaker and riding breeches. How do you like that? I knew him when he was an exhibitor, just like me. He eats also at Ray's. A buxom lady star, Miss Zaftig to you, posed alongside a fountain. Was she luxury? Did I tzopple? I looked to see if her nails were red or green, on my word, not to see the brand of perfume she carried. Yenta, who was watching, asked me 'What's she got, I ain't got?' So I told Yenta and then Yenta told me. That was the other night. Since then Yenta don't talk to me. . . .

"Today when I talked to Eddie Alperson I told him I was paying too much rental and getting too little percentage for playing Miss Zaftig's pictures. Also I told Eddie my Yenta says I give Miss Z. too much publicity and Yenta thinks I am her phantom Romeo. So I told Eddie after my first tryout of a Hollywood party, I'll kiss every film salesman who stays away from my theatre. So far as my family was concerned, the party was a success. Eriv got no autographs and my little Lord Fauntleroy embarrassed me by asking for his teppeleh. Yenta got gossip, but to me she won't talk. As for Charlie and Eddie who forced me to play the party, I left them both having a good time. But friendship or no friendship, tomorrow I ask for an adjustment." . . .

By this time we were finishing our cheese cake and tea with lemon. The check arrived and Shobbus outfumbled your correspondent; that's been done before. "Don't forget to tell all my exhibitor pals," said Mox, pulling out a wad that resembled the Metro payroll," and don't forget my enemy, Ali Gaga. Let him know Shobbus paid the check. A Shobbus always pays." . . .

British Television To Start on July 1

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, March 4.—July 1 has now been set as the opening date for the British Broadcasting Corp.'s television transmissions, under the "experimental" program arrangements announced last year. These envisage a three-hour daily service. Variety and film items will predominate, but there will also be illustrated talks.

Completion of the official transmitting station at the Alexander Palace in North London is in sight. Equipment has been installed by the Baird and E. M. I. companies and the last stage will be the erection of the 215-foot mast on the 48-foot tower of the Palace.

Television cables will link London to Birmingham, Manchester and later with other provincial cities, but the B. B. C. is also experimenting with micro-waves for direct transmission.

Zirn Seeks Contempt Order in Para. Case

Contempt of court proceedings against former Paramount creditor banks and members of the bank group committee formed under the company's reorganization proceedings will be instituted in the Appellate Division of the N. Y. Supreme Court by Samuel Zirn, attorney for petitioning bondholders in the Paramount reorganization, Zirn said on Saturday.

Zirn had actions pending against the banks in the state court when the Paramount reorganization plan, which provided for the discontinuance of all litigation against creditors whose claims were treated in the plan, was approved in the U. S. District Court. The bank creditors obtained an order from Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe directing Zirn to discontinue his actions against them or be held in contempt of court. The U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals dismissed an appeal by Zirn from this order and recently denied his motion for reargument.

The Appellate Division of the state court ruled in Zirn's favor in his bank actions more than a year ago. His contempt proceedings will be based on this and the banks' subsequent procedure in the Federal Court, he said.

underwriting of the sanitarium, it is expected that this sponsorship will be made a permanent one. In any event, there is little likelihood that the project will be permitted to go out of existence at the end of the five-year period. The five underwriting circuits, Paramount, Warners, RKO, Loew's and National Theatres, at present are studying plans for creating a sinking fund which might be sufficient to carry the sanitarium for a long term of years. Annual contribution drives in the theatres of all five circuits are expected to be utilized.

With the new sponsorship for the sanitarium its policies will be broadened and the admission privilege will be widely extended, it is said. Any qualified patient will be admitted who has been associated with the stage or films, whether in a professional capacity or not, according to present plans.

"Fleet" at $10,500 New Haven Leader

NEW HAVEN, March 15.—"Follow the Fleet" led the week's business with a $10,500 take, more than twice normal for the Roger Sherman, and a holdover for the first time since "Little Women," a year and a half ago.

"Trail of the Lonesome Pine," on a dual with "Timothy's Quest" at the Paramount, ran second, garnering $9,300, up by $4,500, and staying for an additional five days. The College hit an average $2,800 with "Fang and Claw" and "Exclusive Story"; while "The Country Doctor" and "Paddy O'Day" dipped $1,500 under the Poli par with a $5,500 week. A constant drizzle and rain affected the second half of the week.

Total first run business was $28,100. Average is $19,300.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 13:

"FANG AND CLAW" (Radio)
"EXCLUSIVE STORY" (M-G-M)
COLLEGE—(1,499), 25c-35c, 7 days. Gross: $2,800. (Average, $2,800)

"TRAIL OF THE LONESOME PINE" (Para.)

PARAMOUNT—(2,400), 35c-50c, 7 days. Gross: $9,300. (Average, $4,800)

"THE COUNTRY DOCTOR" (20th-Fox)
"PADDY O'DAY" (20th-Fox)
POLI—(3,040), 35c-50c, 7 days. Gross: $5,500. (Average, $7,000)

"FOLLOW THE FLEET" (Radio)
ROGER SHERMAN—(2,200), 35c-50c, 7 days. Gross: $10,500. (Average, $4,700)

American Films Hit By Polish Tax Plan

prepared by the Ministry of Industry and Commerce for approval of the Council of Ministers, and would affect films arriving for next season. American interests are combining in opposition to the proposed tax. Since American product totals more than 50 per cent of all films shown in the country, U. S. companies would bear the brunt of the new levy. It is understood the Government has decided that, effective April 1, 10 per cent of all features shown must be of domestic origin, and that the entertaiment tax rebate for films of educational merit will be discontinued.

Republic Signs Chaney

HOLLYWOOD, March 15.—Republic has signed Lon Chaney, Jr., for a featured role in "The Undersea Kingdom," serial now in production, which will star Ray Corrigan. Ralph Holmes, Lee Van Atta, and D. Montague Shaw also have been added to the cast.

Warners Sign Knowles

HOLLYWOOD, March 15. — Warners have signed Patrick Knowles, English actor, to a term contract, and he is now on his way here for a role in "The Charge of the Light Brigade." Knowles made several pictures for Warners in England.

Tracy, Furness Signed

HOLLYWOOD, March 15. — M-G-M has signed Spencer Tracy and Betty Furness to new long term contracts. Tracy is currently working in three pictures: "Mob Rule," "San Francisco" and "Captains Courageous."

Bylaw Change Is Accepted By Directors

the date of the last classification or meeting date received screen credit for the direction of a feature for major release or began the direction of a film for which screen credit will be given.

The voting law was changed to prevent the passing of drastic measures by non-representative or inactive members in the voting group. Several prominent directors have been waiting for this change before joining, it was learned. Members will be classified on the first of January and July of each year, or at the time membership applications are accepted. Junior and associate membership qualifications remain as they were.

The only other important amendment permits members to resign on six months' notice after the guild has been organized for one year instead of the former indefinite term.

feel that exhibitors might bear them in mind when Metro has the nerve to ask the signing of riders permitting the transfer of high percentages from undelivered '34-'35 product to '35-'36 pictures. If Metro thinks its '34-'35 pictures still undelivered are unworthy of percentage rates, can't they afford to be men enough to forget the prohibitive rentals they demanded for undelivered 'masterpieces' without trying to grab their high rentals for pictures they do not choose to deliver? Is all sense of fairness and decency dead in this business?"

LeRoy May Delay Trip

Mervyn LeRoy may postpone his sailing for Europe Wednesday, he stated upon his arrival from the coast. He is scheduled to sail on the Berengaria with Harry M. Warner and Sam E. Morris.

Queried on various reports regarding his future status with Warners, LeRoy stated he had nothing to say at this time. His trip abroad is in the nature of vacation, but at the same time he will keep an eye open for new talent and stories.

Refuses Session Change

BOSTON, March 15.—A bill favoring biennial sessions of the Massachusetts legislature, recommended by a special commission which studied the situation last summer, was disapproved by the committee on constitutional law. Many theatremen favored the measure inasmuch as it would do away with the annual avalanche of film legislation.

HOLLYWOOD, March 15.—William Thomas has succeeded Edwin Olmstead as Columbia publicity director. Olmstead will leave here today by train for New York to assume his new duties at the home offices.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Thirteen Hours by Air"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, March 15.—Timely as streamlining, this comedy-drama of crooks and intrigue moves rapidly with all the action taking place aboard a plane between New York and San Francisco.

Joan Bennett, boarding the plane just before it takes off, receives financial aid from Fred MacMurray, the pilot. Fred Keating, embarking at Chicago, anxiously strives to prevent Miss Bennett from reaching her destination. As the journey progresses MacMurray learns that his passengers are all involved in intrigue of some sort and when the plane makes a forced landing in a snowstorm the identity of each is revealed. They include Alan Baxter, a killer; Brian Donlevy, detective; Bennie Bartlett, wealthy child, with Zasu Pitts as a governess. When the plane lands, Baxter wounds Donlevy and John Howard, the co-pilot. Attempting command of the situation, Baxter is foiled by young Bartlett, whose pranks have heretofore been a nuisance, and the situations are finally straightened with MacMurray winning Miss Bennett when the destination is reached.

Director Mitchell Leisen has handled all the elements skillfully, never permitting the suspense to lapse and inserting frequent comedy that is carried on chiefly by Miss Pitts. The Bogart Rogers screenplay from the original he wrote with Frank Mitchell Dazey is topnotch and bows may also be taken by E. Lloyd Sheldon, the producer, and Hans Drier and John Goodman, whose artistic settings have been well photographed by Theodor Sparkuhl.

The production offers many exploitation angles and should be sold readily.

Production Code Seal, No. 2,038. Running time, 78 minutes. "G."

"Doughnuts and Society"

(Mascot)

HOLLYWOOD, March 15.—This is the last of the Mascot films and its release at this time serves as a gentle but very pointed reminder of the improvement in Republic product.

Louise Fazenda and Maude Eburne, after numerous disasters with an Alaska gold mine, settle down amiably to the manufacture of doughnuts. The romance between their respective children, Edward Nugent and Ann Rutherford, has a temporary setback when Miss Eburne sells a piece of property and starts a vigorous climb on the social ladder. Miss Fazenda, cut to the quick by the desertion of her lifelong friend, buys a five-story garage as her bid to social distinction and shoulders her way into the 400, too. The resultant quarrels and jealousies are forgotten when the two find themselves back in the doughnut business.

Hedda Hopper plays a society fixer. Franklin Pangborn is seen as the final word in the intricacies of etiquette. Smiley Burnette, Rafael Corio, Harold Minjir, Olaf Hytten, Robert Light and Claudell Kaye turn in good supporting performances under direction of Lewis D. Collins. Karen deWolf, Robert St. Clair and Wallace MacDonald wrote the original story and screenplay with added dialogue contributed by Gertrude Orr and Matt Brooks. William Berke supervised.

Production Code Seal, No. 2,028. Running time, 63 minutes. "G."

Local 306 and Allied Merger Progressing

Moves to merge Local 306 and Allied M. P. Operators are progressing rapidly and a deal is expected to be concluded within the next few weeks. Three meetings were held last week, the final one on Saturday, attended by a number of exhibitors as well as union officials.

Among those attending Saturday's session were: Joseph D. Basson, president of Local 306, Bert Popkin, Joe Kelbin, Maurice Fleischman, Harry Brandt, Stanley Lawton and Irving Renner.

Empire was not present at either of the sessions, but it is anticipated that this organization will join the merger shortly after details are cleared up.

Missouri Studying New Taxation Move

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., March 15.—Missouri is getting closer to a special session of the legislature. Gov. Guy B. Park has written members of the General Assembly in an effort to sound out sentiment.

The $6,000,000 voted for direct relief will be exhausted in April, Governor Park pointed out, and the demand, especially from St. Louis and Kansas City, for a special session to provide more funds, is growing.

There is some demand to appropriate more for old age pensions, payment of which now averages $10.50 per person per month. The legislature appropriated $2,500,000 at the last session.

Sentiment seems to be crystallizing around a three per cent sales tax as a solution to Missouri's fiscal problem. The last legislature raised the sales tax from one-half to one per cent, and had a difficult job doing it. It is felt this is one reason for Governor Park's reluctance to call a special session.

Returns from the one per cent levy for January dropped to the lowest figure since the tax became effective last August—$822,704, probably due to extremely low temperatures.

Brandt to Albany On Children's Bill

With the bill on the admission of children up before a committee today, Harry Brandt, head of the I. T. O. A., has left for Albany with a committee of six for the hearing.

Among the group are Rabbi Alexander Lyons, Mrs. Clarence Watterman and Mrs. M. Phelps.

D'Usseau with Halperin

HOLLYWOOD, March 15. — Leon D'Usseau has joined Academy-Halperin Prod. as a production aide. He was production assistant to William LeBaron at RKO and later held a similar post with First Division.

Short Subjects

"Headlines of 25 Years"
(Radio)

This is a serious compilation of outstanding newsreel clips which present history as recorded by the camera during the 25 years in which Pathe News has been reporting. With over a hundred episodes flashed on the screen, the film begins with Roosevelt's African trip in 1910 and moving rapidly, dramatically shows inaugurations, royal weddings and deaths, events of the war, the Armistice, a history of aviation from the Wright brothers to the present day and industrial strife and triumphs. The accompanying narrative is fitting and the historical value of the film should be appreciated by the majority of audiences, for it is an excellent job of cutting and editing. No production code seal. Running time, 12 mins. "G."

"A Wed-Time Story"
(Radio)

With Lew Fields of the team of Weber and Fields starring in this comedy, there is something worth plugging. The plot of the film, after the "Krausmeyer's Alley" fashion, concerns the difficulties of Fields when he wins a prize in a contest for his essay on "How to Be Happy Though Married."

Thick with a Germanic accent, the story proceeds, when, after being interviewed by a reporter, his son, Frank Lyman, tells him that according to the law he is not married and so is taking the money under false pretenses. This gives way to a lot of domestic tears and argument, all of which are finally straightened out. The support includes Jack Rice, Harry Bowen and Bodil Rosing. Production Code Seal, No. 1,804. Running time, 21 minutes. "G."

"Prominent Personalities"
(Radio)

One of "The World on Parade" series, this presents Leroy N. Mills, a Mt. Vernon, N. Y., lawyer who coaches young football enthusiasts as a hobby; Miss Helen Richey, the only woman air mail pilot; Grisha Goluboff, a violin prodigy who indulges in normal boyhood pursuits, and Margaret Bourke-White, the photographer, who is shown in her studio and at work on films. At this point Alwyn Bach takes over the microphone and tells of the career of Alois Havrilla, who has been delivering the narrative, and how he made his place in radio. It is a different offering and will keep the audience interested. Production Code Seal No. 0881. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Slumberland Express"
(Universal)

This cartoon with Oswald is suitable entertainment for children and amusing for others. It is about a train that runs at night and picks up an assortment of characters and takes them to a land of child's delight. Oswald's little brother wanders away into Nightmare Land and is frightened by various spectres in the form of a hairbrush and comb and a toothbrush and paste which ogle him threateningly. Oswald comes upon the scene and some fierce fisticuffs take place. It ends up with Oswald back home in bed and his brother is squeezing a tube of toothpaste over his face. He wakens and finds it was only a dream. Production Cole Seal, No. 1,849. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Tempo Massimo"
(World Pictures)

A light comedy, adapted from a novel with the same title, this Italian-produced picture probably will be found reasonably entertaining by those understanding the Italian language, and of little consequence to those lacking a knowledge of it. There are no superimposed translations of dialogue to assist in following the story and their absence is felt.

It appears obvious that the film will mean nothing to the average American audience, and that it may be sold most effectively in those theatres, probably in large metropolitan centers, which can rely upon an audience predominantly Italian.

The story tells of the modernization of a young man, who has been raised by his wealthy aunt in a strictly old-fashioned manner. When he accidentally meets an attractive girl, and falls in love with her, he completely revolutionizes his mode of living in order to win her. With occasionally amusing incidents, he takes up boxing, skiing, bicycle racing, and such vices as smoking and drinking. A misunderstanding determines her to go ahead with her marriage to an insistent and penniless nobleman, until the ardent young man, in a wild dash reminiscent of the comedy of a much earlier day, steals the girl at the church door.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 78 minutes. "G."

"Movie Maniacs"
(Columbia)

The Three Stooges rampage around a Hollywood studio in this, the latest of their series, hardly comparable with the insane, but funny, offerings of the past. Starting with some tomfoolery in a boxcar as they approach Hollywood, it uses the mistaken identity theme when they invade a studio and are taken for three experts from the east. They show how pictures should be made in some routine comic sequences, and are chased into lion's quarters, from which they hurriedly make their exit in an automobile, a lion along with them. Hardly up to the standard of the three comics, but it should be acceptable. Production Code Seal, No. 1,722. Running time, 18 mins. "G."

"The Phantom Ship"
(Warners)

Beans and his nephew are after treasure in this cartoon and their hunt takes them by air to the north where their objective is a ship frozen in the ice. With the usual spooky invention, they run into all sorts of difficulties. Finding the treasure, they load up their plane and are ready to make off when two frozen pirates thaw out and go after them. The chase takes place at this point and with an explosion Beans is wafted into the air, landing in the cockpit of the plane and they are off to home. A good standard cartoon offering that will be acceptable. Production Code Seal No. 1,839. Running time, 8 minutes. "G."

"Li'l Ainjil"
(Columbia)

This cartoon is taken from the comic strip which features the brick throwing mouse, the lovelorn cat and Officer Pup. The plot concerns the jail-breaking activities of the mouse and how he finally saves the day when a convict escapes from jail after the mouse has wrecked it. There is a good amount of action and invention interwoven, but the spoken lines are garbled as they follow the slang of the newspaper strip. It is a something new in cartoon characters. Production Code Seal, No. 1,986. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Brotherly Love"
(Paramount)

Popeye, the spinach-imbibing sailor, becomes infused with the spirit of brotherly love, as advocated by Olive Oyl, and sings his way about town, helping others. But when he sees two rival gangs mutilating each other, and his message of peace is met with fist and foot, he teaches them brotherly love in the true Popeye manner. An amusing cartoon. Production Code Seal, No. 0740. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Stop, Look and Guess"
(Columbia)

This introduces a game where the audience is invited to identify characters in the world of sport by their eyes and parts of their faces. Babe Ruth, Helen Jacobs, Lawson Little, Mary Hoerger, Danno O'Mahoney, Joe Louis and Malcom Campbell are presented and shown doing their stuff. Ford Bond introduces the piece. Sport fans should go for it. Production Code Seal, No. 0866. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"The Star Reporter"
(Paramount)

Ted Husing is the microphone master of ceremonies in this rather entertaining group of variety acts. He introduces Betty Jane Cooper, attractive dancer; Donald Novis, radio tenor, and Ina Ray Hutton, with a dynamic and sparkling personality, who conducts her own girls' orchestra in syncopated fashion. Production Code Seal, No. 0883. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

Short Subjects

"Pathe Topics No. 4"
(Radio)

On a par with the others of the series, this issue shows how chemistry aids the farmer by putting plants on a liquid diet and raising fresh winter fodder for livestock without sunlight. Then to the Good Story Club where Gene Lockhart tells how he emptied a dozen bottles down the drain in progressive stages of intoxication which is hilarious. The last is a scenic treat in which the Bavarian Alps are photographed in winter dress from clever angles. A cable car trip up the Zugspitz, above the clouds, closes a pleasing short. Production Code Seal, No. 0907. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"Orphans' Picnic"
(Disney—U. A.)

As Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck entertain the orphans at a picnic, with many laughs for the audience and disastrous results for the noisy Donald, there results a color cartoon from the Disney precincts which should be a worthwhile addition to any program. To attempt to describe what the orphans do to the duck and his reactions would be useless. Suffice it to say that this ranks with the most entertaining of the Disney cartoons in color. Production Code Seal, No. 1,675. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

"Scrappy's Pony"
(Columbia)

Scrappy and his brother are whooping it up about their home playing with a broomstick horse when a package is delivered and it turns out to be a real, live pony. Scrappy has difficulty trying to ride it, but his brother has better success when he feeds it sugar. Getting the idea, Scrappy does likewise and both are able to enjoy the ride. It closes with the pony pushing both of them out of bed. A standard cartoon offering that has the requisite situations and effects. Production Code Seal, No. 2,054. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Pictorial No. 8"
(Paramount)

An interesting and entertaining number in the Pictorial series, this subject is highlighted by a camera description of the work of Frederick W. Goudy, one of the foremost designers of type. The manner in which he designs, then develops a new style of type is highly interesting and instructive. Sailing competition in Sydney Harbor, Australia, is pictured in colorful fashion, and the results obtained by Brad Barker, leading imitator of animals, are little short of amazing. Production Code Seal, No. 0899. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Here Comes the Zoo"
(Paramount)

A British-produced short, this takes the audience on an alphabetical tour of the London Zoo, with Claude Gardner, English commentator, conducting the visit vocally, and occasionally amusingly. Some of his remarks may not rouse spontaneous enthusiasm on the part of the average American audience, but on the whole the subject may be found entertaining. Production Code Seal. No. 0834. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Anything" Pulls $2,600 in Lincoln

LINCOLN, March 15. — "Anything Goes" led the week at the Lincoln with $2,600, which was $400 over average.

"The Milky Way" went only six days at the Stuart. It was pulled to make room for an extra day of "Follow the Fleet." The take on "Milky Way" was $2,800, short of the seven-day average by $300.

The Orpheum started amateur nights in addition to the regular three days of vaudeville. The take was $2,500, which was $400 up. The Varsity, with "The Music Goes 'Round," couldn't get going.

Total first run business on the week was $9,950. Average is $9,850.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending March 4:

"GARDEN MURDER CASE" (M-G-M)
"LAST OF THE PAGANS" (M-G-M)
"SUICIDE SQUAD" (Puritan)

Ontario Exempts All Shows for Charities

TORONTO, March 15.—Premier M. F. Hepburn of Ontario, who reconsidered his decision to retire last November, has granted another concession under the Amusements Tax Act which became effective last June. After wiping out the levy on children's tickets and reducing the tax on low-priced admissions for adults, he has provided an exemption of taxation on performances held under the auspices of religious or educational organizations or for charity.

Under this third amendment, no tax is levied when the net proceeds are used as specified because, Premier Hepburn stated, of the splendid work which is being done to assist the Provincial Government in dealing with relief and social problems.

Co-Star Young, Taylor

HOLLYWOOD, March 15. — Robert Taylor, borowed from M-G-M, and Loretta Young will be co-starred at Twentieth Century-Fox in "Private Number," formerly called "Servant Girl." It is based on an original by William Counselman and a play by Cleves Kinkead. Gene Markey is doing the screenplay. Roy del Ruth will direct and Raymond Griffith is the associate producer.

Plans No Star Names

HOLLYWOOD, March 15.—Sol Lesser will not feature any one star in the series of six pictures he will make for Twentieth Century-Fox release. They will be known as "The Harold Bell Wright and Zane Grey Classics." The decision was reached after a canvass of exhibitors as to the drawing power of the authors' names.

French Tax Revenue Drops 13% in Year

WASHINGTON, March 15.—The total theatre tax revenue in France during 1935 amounted to 81,316,000 francs, according to a notice published in the Journal des Contributions Indirects, relayed to the U. S. Department of Commerce by Assistant Trade Commissioner Earle C. Taylor, in Paris.

The 1935 receipts represents a decrease of 22,007,000 francs from the budget estimates. During 1934, the tax on theatres amounted to 93,444,000 francs, or practically 13 per cent higher than during 1935.

Ocala Feels Canal Boom

OCALA, Fla., March 15.—Thousands of workers have come into this territory as a result of preliminary work on the trans-state canal started by the Government and theatres are feeling the boom. The Dixie has been redecorated.

Berlin Attendance 53,887,650 in '35

WASHINGTON, March 15.—A total of 53,887,650 people visited film theatres in Greater Berlin during 1935, according to figures sent to the U. S. Department of Commerce by Assistant Trade Commissioner Rolland Welch in Berlin. Admissions totaled 42,515,884 reichsmarks, on which 3,224,093 reichsmarks were paid in taxes. The tax represented 7.58 per cent of the gross.

The 1934 figures were: attendance, 50,225,349; grosses, 39,274,653 reichsmarks; taxes, 2,988,379 reichsmarks; percentage of gross paid as tax, 7.06.

Hoffberg Takes Series

J. H. Hoffberg Co. has closed for the world distribution of the four subjects in the "New York Uncensored" series produced by Celebrated Pictures. The subjects will be retitled "Personalities on Parade."

"Rose Marie" Hits $13,500, Montreal

MONTREAL, March 15.—"Rose Marie" started out nicely at the Palace for a take of $13,500. It was held over.

The third and final week of "Modern Times" at the Princess brought a par $7,000, as compared with $12,500 for the first week and $9,000 for the second stretch.

Loew's continued above the line at $11,000 with "The Great Impersonation" and a stage show, while the Imperial, with new low prices, registered par of $3,500 with "Mutiny on the Bounty" which had previously played the Palace. The Capitol dropped to $8,500, or $1,000 below par, with a double bill headed by "Ceiling Zero." There was nothing much in the way of opposition except hockey games.

Total first run business was $43,500. Average is $41,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 7:

"CEILING ZERO" (F. N.)
"FRESHMAN LOVE" (Para.)

CAPITOL — (2,547), 25c-35c-40c-50c-60c. 7 days. Gross: $8,500. (Average, $9,500)

"MUTINY ON THE BOUNTY" (M-G-M)

IMPERIAL — (1,914), 15c-20c-25c-34c. 7 days. Gross: $3,500. (Average, $3,500)

"THE GREAT IMPERSONATION" (Univ.)

LOEW'S — (3,115), 30c-34c-40c-50c-60c, 7 days. Stage: "Life Begins at Loew's." Gross: $11,000. (Average, $10,500)

"ROSE MARIE" (M-G-M)

PALACE—(2,600), 25c-35c-40c-50c-65c, 7 days. Gross: $13,500. (Average, $11,000). Held over.

"MODERN TIMES" (U. A.)
"GUARD THAT GIRL" (Col.)

PRINCESS—(2,272), 25c-30c-35c-50c-65c. 7 days, 3rd week. Gross: $7,000. First week: $12,500. Second week: $9,000. (Average, $7,000)

Brazil Passes All Of Films Submitted

WASHINGTON, March 15.—All of a total of 184 films submitted to Brazil's Department of Propaganda and Cultural Diffusion, of the Federal Ministry of Justice have been passed, according to a report from Trade Commissioner J. Winsor Ives, in Rio de Janeiro, to the M. S. Department of Commerce.

Of the total, 177 were approved without qualification, six classed as educational, and one called "improper for children." Of the total, 106 came from the United States, 57 were of domestic origin, seven each from Italy and Germany, two from England, one each from France and Japan, and three miscellaneous.

U. S. Leads in Colombia

WASHINGTON, March 15. — The United States supplied over 82 per cent of the total volume of films and film equipment imported into Colombia during 1935, according to a report to the Department of Commerce from Assistant Trade Commissioner Jack B. Heathery at Bogota. Germany, France and Great Britain, in that order, followed.

Plan Children's Theatre

NEW ORLEANS, March 15.—A children's theatre for pictures suitable for children less than 12 years old will be sponsored by the New Orleans Better Films Chapter of the Louisiana Co-operative M.P. Council.

They Endorse Richardson's BLUEBOOK of PROJECTION

Did you get your copy of the Bluebook?

The new sixth edition contains 714 pages plus 153 illustrations. It details and describes every piece of sound and projection apparatus in the modern projection booth and gives all instructions for operation and maintenance. It includes a complete trouble-shooting department as a first aid in breakdowns and features a quick-finding index system that provides the answer immediately to any projection problem.

Don't put off owning a Bluebook. You will find it indispensable as a daily reference.

Price $5.25 Postpaid

W. E. GREEN
President, National Theatre Supply Company

● "I find it to be a very valuable book for practical projectionists and for theatre managers as well. It is chock full of useful information and its new subject indexing system adds very largely to its value in that it enables the finding of the right answer to projection problems almost without effort, as well as permitting quick action when the projectionist is in trouble."

HERBERT GRIFFIN
Sales Manager, International Projector Corporation

● "In the seven hundred pages of illustrations and definitions, and over sixteen hundred questions and answers, with a splendid system of indexing, you comprehensively cover the fundamentals of sound and visual projection and make it very easy to use your book for study and reference."

JOSEPH D. BASSON
President Local No. 306

● "The Sixth Edition of 'Richardson's Bluebook' is an encyclopedia of projection information, and the arrangement of the material makes it extremely convenient for reference. No matter how competent a projectionist may be, no matter how steadily he may be working, it will pay him to do a little reading every day in your 'Bluebook of Projection.' As you know, I have always been greatly interested in any activities which might raise projection standards and I shall feel that I am doing the best thing for members of Local No. 306 and the industry as a whole when I urge projectionists to look up the 1600 questions in your book and the replies you supply. No matter how much practical information a projectionist may have, he will be a better member of this Local and more valuable to his employers if he makes it a habit to read your 'Bluebook' regularly."

Hardy Fights Extension on Suit Answers

Moves to Vacate Order By Judge Coxe

Following the granting of a 30-day extension Saturday by Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe for the filing of answers in the Government's civil suit against Warners, Paramount, RKO and 37 other corporate and individual defendants, Russell Hardy, prosecuting attorney, yesterday moved to vacate the order with the filing of a petition, returnable this morning before Judge Murray Hulbert.

Bruce Bromley of Cravath, de Gersdorf, Swaine & Wood obtained the month's extension and today will make a motion to refer the matter back to Judge Coxe, who issued the original order.

Louis Nizer of Phillips & Nizer, attorneys retained by George J. Schaefer, Sam Dembow and Ralph Kohn, three of the 30 individual defendants, also was successful in getting a month's extension. He will appear in the U. S. District Court this

Rules Cagney Pact Voided by Warners

Los Angeles, March 16.—The contract of James Cagney was voided by Warners, according to the judgment rendered here today by Judge Charles I. Bogue, who based his decision on the fact that Warners had given the actor subordinate rather than star billing in two pictures, "Ceiling Zero" and "Footlight Parade." The Warner claim that this billing was an error was of no avail.

The decision makes Cagney a free agent. J. Ray Files, Warner attorney, who stated that he would appeal the case within a week, added that any

Film Writers See Benefits In New Merger

Important benefits in jurisdictional authority and organizational strength for the Screen Writers' Guild are expected to accrue from a plan for reorganizing the Authors' League of America by which the full strength of the latter will be made available to its affiliated organizations.

The plan, which will be voted on at a league meeting at the Hotel Shelton, March 30, calls for the absorption of the guild by the Authors' League in order to obtain uniform contracts for members of the Screen Writers' Guild, Dramatists' Guild and Authors' Guild. The latter two organizations already have surrendered their legal entities to the Authors' League, but a "firmer solidarity" is expected to result from the plan for vesting full control of the three guilds in the council of the Authors' League.

The community of interests of authors, dramatists and screen writers was cited by league officials as the

Lent Puts New Dent in Key City Grosses After a Rise

Lent, coming on the heels of the cold spell which reached its height—or, was it low?—in late February, put a new dent in key city grosses for the first week of March after a one-week rivival. The take for the 29 key centers reporting to Motion Picture Daily was $1,689,550.

For the previous week, when the mercury showed marked rises in most of the northern sections and when several big pictures, including "Modern Times," were beginning to turn in good grosses, the total was $1,777,650.

The opening week of March, in spite of the fact that it was lower than during the previous week, was still considerably ahead of the six previous weeks when roads were impassable in many places, especially in the midwest and northwest. It is also above the high mark for last September, when the new season pickup set in, but it is $311,905 under the high mark reached at the opening of the year.

The only exceptions to the general decline for the week ending March 5-6 were in Buffalo, Detroit, Indianapolis, Kansas City, Los Angeles, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Pittsburgh and San Francisco. (Comparative tabulation will be found on page 16.)

Federal Trade Body Against Booking Bill

Report Calls Parts of It Unconstitutional

By CLARENCE LINZ

Washington, March 16.—What is regarded as the death knell of the Pettengill Bill, for this session of Congress at least, made its appearance today before the sub-committee hearings in the form of a highly critical report from the Federal Trade Commission. Parts of the measure were called unconstitutional. It was signed by W. T. Kelley, chief counsel.

Kelley called the paragraph calling for synopses of stories "arbitrary and discriminatory" and contrary to the protection guaranteed by the fifth amendment.

Canon William Sheafe Chase, appearing after the proponents of the bill, who were being heard for the first time, demanded the creation of a Federal film commission. He said the bill was all right, as far as it went, but that it didn't go far enough.

With Kelley's opinion was a brief prepared by Eugene W. Burr, commission attorney, which upheld the constitutionality of the measure with respect to some of the points challenged by Kelley, but admitted that in some respects it was "unique."

The opinions and Canon Chase's ap-

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, March 16.

THE official word on Irving Thalberg and his status at Metro is not to be had. The understanding on excellent authority is that he has signed his ten-year contract. If he has not, certainly he will. It took Nick Schenck long weeks to work it out, what with Thalberg's insistence on this and that point. Now that Schenck is back in New York, the conclusion, and an obvious one, is that the Thalberg situation was cleared up before he left this sunny clime. Where and when Irving actually will dip the pen, if he has not, are not particularly important at this late date. . . .

The slant on all of this is interesting. With three years to go on his old pact, the new agreement will keep him at Metro for the next thirteen years. In this business, that is a life contract, plus. Highlighted in the terms is understood to be one which gives him first call on all talent in the studio. Another is reported to vest in him determination to permit or not to permit talent out of the gate. Granting to Thalberg the privilege of deciding loan outs is more significant than appears on the surface. It obviously makes him the ruler of the lot again and would appear to restore him to his one-time post of supreme authority in the very formidable task of producing the M-G-M lineup. . . .

The development very likely will make M-G-M even more self-contained than it has been. One of the inside angles on Thalberg's alleged grievances tells of his disapproval over the frequency with which Metro star timber had been farmed to Twentieth Century when it was releasing through United Artists and now that it has combined with Fox. Wally Beery and Clark Gable are the two notable instances and even now talk has been revived of their possible joint appearance in a remake in sound of "What Price Glory," not for Metro but for Twentieth Century-Fox. Talent disposition placed in Thalberg's final hands immediately opens up vistas of an extremely interesting situation not only in Hollywood but with exhibitors who buy Beery and Gable from M-G-M and who, in the past, have found their opposition with the same names in their marquee lights. . . .

Beset and bedeviled with worries of its own, Hollywood is suffering from another, but not of its own making. Visitors, hordes and hordes of them, shipped in by company directors in New York and sales executives in the field have been descending on the studios in ever increasing number. Patient publicity departments do the best they can, which is pretty good. The routine ordinarily includes lunch and a couple of hours on the stages. It removes from his normal function the explanatory press agent turned guide and is saddling to the cost of production what must be a handsome amount of money each year. . . .

Visitors are not looked upon with favor since they distract from the job at hand. Many performers react nervously and the pace is further slowed down. It is, in general, a condition which ought to be alleviated and can be if courtesies are not thrown about with such inconsiderate carelessness. Exhibitors, it appears to this space, should be welcomed at all times on the other hand. As the customers, they ought to be viewed as a privileged class for conclusions which should require no explanation. . . .

Twenty-five years in the executive end of the industry and now a rapidly growing cub in production, Dario Faralla is completing his second supervisory job at Paramount with "Border Flight." It was Faralla who took on an assignment which everyone else in the studio refused some time ago. It was what to do with the 150,000 feet of negative brought back by Admiral Byrd's second expedition to Little America. The task was a rather good-sized one and had its obstacles, but the outcome has given the Paramount foreign department an attraction of substantiability and Faralla a promising start as a picture maker. . . .

Merely for laughs: Hollywooder dropped in on a friend the other evening. Waiting for him was a Busby Berkeley girl. Together they were to attend a preview. Hollywooder, jocosely, turned to the girl and remarked: "I understand Jack is sending you a Rolls Royce and a Rembrandt." Believe it or not, he insists her reply was: "Which one will I drive?" . . .

Ampa Party Produces Series of Novelties

It was different, anyway. All agreed on that point in discussing the Ampa Naked Truth dinner. And the turnout included figures prominent in practically all the companies in the business.

The orchestra was up in the balcony to the right of the stage most of the evening, and the program began during the dinner. The travesty on a producer and his publicity man went over big. When the big ballyhooed scene, with tabloid newspapers, barrels of confetti from the upper balconies and balloons, arrived there was plenty of excitement. A donkey, goat and a flock of girls and messenger boys paraded about among the tables.

Ralph Rolan and the March of Time crew did a swell job on the sketch. It was directed by Charlie Williams and was written by Williams and Marcy Klauber. The exploitation parade was conceived by Charles Curran, with Frank Ventre as musical director and Chris Benze as stage manager.

In the rooms adjacent to the ballrooms studio sets were scattered, with scripts, cameras, microphone dollies and other equipment in evidence. Gordon White succeeded in getting things quieted down long enough at a late hour to show the newsreel of the occasion turned out by Paramount News. It furnished plenty of laughs.

Revue Principals to Be Guests

The writers and principals of the cast of the Naked Truth Revue, staged at the Astor Saturday night, will be the guests of honor at Thursday's regular Ampa luncheon. The election of the nominating committee to select candidates for next year's Ampa officers also will be held.

20th-Fox-S. & C. Suit Set for Today

The trial of the suit of Twentieth Century-Fox against Springer & Cocalis for $18,000 allegedly due on overages from six pictures of last season's lineup is slated to begin today before a jury with Judge Cunningham presiding.

The case has been on the calendar for some time, but because of a crowded docket has been postponed several times. However, with the selection of a judge yesterday, the trial is due to get under way today. Louis Nizer will represent the distributor and Kelly & Connolly will represent the exhibitors. E. C. Grainger is scheduled to be the first witness.

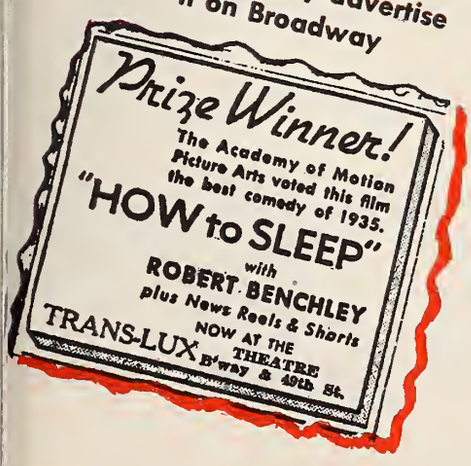
HOLLYWOOD, March 16.—The Academy Technicians' Branch on Wednesday will inaugurate bi-weekly showings of two features for the Film Editors' Section. The screenings will be followed by discussions. Harold McCord, section chairman, will preside at Wednesday's preview at the United Artists studio. Forty-five are now enrolled in the section.

Merger Talks Resumed

Another meeting between Allied M. P. Operators and Local 306 to discuss merger negotiations will be held today.

Harry Brandt, Joseph D. Basson, Frank Ruddick and other exhibitors and union executives are slated to attend.



JUNIOR WINS, TOO!

The little rascal copped a statue! After Momma and Poppa Leo brought home the big Academy Award with "Mutiny on the Bounty" there was such excitement in the family when Junior showed up with the Prize for the Year's Best Comedy Short — "How to Sleep"— featuring Robert Benchley. The Prize Committee always has a tough time picking out the winning M-G-M Short because Leo, Jr., is awful smart at making snappy short subjects. It's hard to choose among Shorts like M-G-M's "Audioscopiks" and Chic Sale's "Perfect Tribute" and those wonderful Harman-Ising Happy Harmonies Color Cartoons and Pete Smith's fun films, etc. Exhibitors solve the problem by getting them all, which pleases us of course and ditto exhibitors!

P. S. By the way, M-G-M won several other Academy Awards for Best Sound Recording, Best Dance Direction, Special Award for Technical Achievement and what not . . . sure we're proud!

Federal Trade Body Against Booking Bill

pearance followed the completion of testimony for the proponents of the bill, during the course of which the views of 11 national organizations were aired.

Appearing for the National Education Ass'n., Callie Waldran of Washington said block booking and blind selling "make it impossible for local theatre managers and parents to control the type of pictures available for children and difficult to get satisfactory consideration from the producers."

She offered a telegram from Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, former Secretary of the Interior, in which he said, "I am satisfied that the Pettengill Bill offers the most promising solution of this vitally important matter. Miss Waldran also submitted a statement favoring the bill from Dr. Henry James Forman of the M. P. Research Council.

Chairman Pettengill called attention to a New York speech on March 12 of J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, in which he estimated $15,000,000,000 as the total annual cost of crime in this country. His reference followed Forman's statement that 80 per cent of all films deal with love, sex and crime.

Witness Concedes Improvement

Representative Peyser of New York questioned at length Mrs. Mary T. Bannerman of the legislative committee of the Research Council, on whether she thought the morals of pictures have improved. She replied that she is not a "movie fan," but "had heard" that such was the case.

Support for the Pettengill measure was offered also by Mrs. Mary Nourse of the American Ass'n. of University Women, Helen W. Atwater of the Home Economics Ass'n. William H. Bristow of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers. The National Grange is in favor of the bill, it was declared in a statement introduced for Fred Brenckman, Washington representative.

Abram F. Myers, general counsel of Allied, answered questions of Representative Cooper of Ohio as to how, if films are sold before they are produced, the exhibitor would know what to buy if the bill was enacted. Myers declared the provision for a synopsis would take care of the situation.

Peyser then read into the record a letter from Michael Freedman, Pennsylvania exhibitor, opposing the bill "because it does not meet the moral situation." The exhibitor said, "You have been misled by the arguments and alibis presented to community leaders over a period of years by a selfish group of exhibitors." He added that film companies have never compelled him to play a picture he knew would cause criticism in the community. The majority of exhibitors will face a bitter fight to stay in business if the bill is passed, Freedman concluded.

Myers charged that exhibitors "have been invited to come into the exchanges and requested to write and wire the committee" in opposition to the bill.

The creation of a Federal commission as preferable to the Pettengill Bill was urged by Dr. Izora Scott on behalf of the National Women's Christian Temperance Union. Endorsements also came from the Council of Women for Home Missions, Y.W.C.A. and the National Women's Trade Union League.

Kelley, in the Trade Commission report, held the bill's prohibition against block booking and blind selling is valid and within the power of Congress, but the synopsis provision "is arbitrary and discriminatory." The provision "to say the least is a burden on the sale or lease of futures," Kelley declared, pointing out that "sales of futures are a recognized incident of property ownership."

Chase Asks Law with Teeth

"The current bill attacks a business method which has grown up with this $2,000,000,000 industry during the past 20 years," the opinion said, "stamps the practice as monopolistic, and overlooking available experienced administrative machinery for the treatment of such practice, proceeds to define it as a crime." The practice should not be termed as unfair competition, the opinion held. Raising the question of whether the Pettengill Bill could be enforced, Chase declared that if the responsibility for showing bad pictures were placed on the exhibitor, "we could bring pressure and secure punishment for exhibiting something that will incite to crime.

"I am not asking for censorship," he said, "but I am asking that a commission be appointed which would have some authority."

The sub-committee tomorrow will begin to hear testimony from opponents of the measure.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Moonlight Murder"

(M-G-M)

Hollywood, March 16.—This is something new in the line of multiple-suspect murder-mystery drama. The principal departure from the formula is an idea accentuating the show's entertainment and commercial value, the unique motive for and the novel method of killing. The highly complicated plan is to thrill, mystify and baffle until the final sequence. As it works out, an advance solution is impossible.

As the location is the Hollywood Bowl and a grand opera performance the occasion, the picture has a musical background, the highlight of which is an elaborate presentation of a choral scene from "Il Trovatore."

It it smartly directed and convincingly acted by all, with the thread of suspense adding to the pre-planned baffling complication in which tenor Leo Carrillo is warned he will be killed if he sings. Upon his death at the premiere performance, ambitious detective Chester Morris, aided by Madge Evans, scientific assistant to Grant Mitchell, sets about solving the case. Comedy is contributed by Robert McWade and Frank McHugh. Two women, Benita Hume and Katherine Alexander, with whose affections the victim has trifled, and their husbands, H. B. Warner and Duncan Renaldo, and J. Carrol Naish, madman, all of whom had motives for wishing Carrillo's death, are suspects. The progress of Morris' sleuthing, adding to the dramatic mystery and comedy of the show, builds to a surprise climax revealing the idea of a mercy killing as a motive for the singer's death and a heretofore unsuspected character as the killer.

Based on a story by Albert Cohen and Robert Shannon, with the screen play by Florence Ryerson and Edgar Allan Woolf, Edwin L. Marin's direction concentrates on providing the maximum of the novel mystery, drama, comedy and suspense. The operatic sequence by Wilhelm von Wymetal is a feature that should thrill audiences.

Rules Cagney Pact Voided by Warners

contractual move by Cagney would be made at the star's own risk. Prior to the trial the actor held a number of conferences with Darryl Zanuck.

Jack L. Warner, following the decision, issued a statement in which he said, "The issues in this case were simple and clear-cut. The Court has held that Cagney had no basis for his claim that cancellation was justified because of any defect in the instrument. His contract, including options, has a long time to run, and we intend to protect our interests throughout. Regarding subordinate billing, this was purely inadvertent and the contract stipulates that casual and inadvertent failures to comply with billing provisions do not constitute a breach of contract. As a matter of principle we will prosecute, and appeal in due course to the state's highest court."

Cagney pleaded during the trial that he had agreed orally with Warners that no more than four pictures annually were to be made, but his right to contest on these grounds was waived by his appearance in five pictures during 1932 and 1935, the court held.

all of the physical distribution of Universal product in the United Kingdom. Universal's sales organization there, however, is expected to remain virtually intact under the new arrangement.

The formal transfer of the Carl Laemmle holdings to the Standard Capital-Rogers group may take place here on April 3. This has been requested by the eastern interests although, under the terms of the option, Laemmle has the right to elect the date and place for the transfer. When this takes place Laemmle will formally resign the Universal presidency and resignations from the board will also be received. The board will be reconstituted to include representation for the new financial interests and the new officers will be elected.

No major executive changes other than those already announced are in prospect, it was stated officially. The home office executive lineup continues as is under R. H. Cochrane, who becomes president, and J. Cheever Cowdin, chairman of the board. Likewise, few, if any, major changes are in view at the studio, which will be headed by Rogers, with William Koenig as studio manager. Laemmle is expected to remain on the board and Carl Laemmle, Jr., may also continue as a producer.

The capitalization of the company may be increased in the near future for working capital purposes.

A deposit of $1,500,000 in cash with the Manufacturers Trust Co. on Saturday, as formal notice of the exercise of the option by Standard, will be followed by a cash payment of $4,000,000 in about two weeks, clearing the way for the actual transfer. Standard officials decided against the payment of the balance in securities, regarding the fulfillment of the option's requirements for the posting of bonds as a continuing obligation which could be avoided by a cash payment.

For the same reason, preliminary arrangements under which Laemmle was to have accepted either $500,000 or $1,000,000 in Universal debentures as part of the option money were not consummated.

The Memorial commission reported that $256,489 had been contributed to the Rogers' memorial fund by 541,490 individuals, although no solicitation of funds was permitted. The donations were entirely voluntary and came from every state in the Union, Alaska, Canada, Hawaii and England. The report is not a final one as banks and newspaper offices throughout the country which acted as voluntary depositories for contributions are still receiving scattered amounts.

A. T. & T. Hearings Get Started Today

WASHINGTON, March 16. — The Federal Communications Commission tomorrow will begin a series of public hearings as part of its investigation of the affairs of A. T. & T. and its affiliates. The study was ordered by Congress. The first series of hearings is expected to be devoted to the long lines department of the company and the affairs of Western Electric. The license service contracts between A. T. & T. and its associated companies are to be scrutinized.

Among those who have been subpoenaed to testify are Walter S. Gifford, A.T. & T. president; Edgar S. Bloom, president of Western Electric; T. G. Miller, vice-president of A. T. & T. in charge of the long lines department, and Charles M. Bracelen, another vice-president.

extra vote will still leave the bill's sponsors one vote short of the necessary 31. The measure received 29 votes at Saturday's session, which was not adjourned until 6 o'clock Sunday morning.

The present bill calls for a levy of 4% on gross receipts, with all admissions of 10 cents or under exempted.

The Democratic minority thus far has voted solidly against the bill. The Republican sponsors hope that if they cannot gain the necessary extra votes from among their own group, the Democrats will produce sufficient tallies to pass the measure.

Decision Reserved On Fox Stay Plea

Federal Judge William Bondy yesterday reserved decision on an application for a stay of execution of an order fining William Fox $235,000 and $10,000 in attorney fees for contempt of court, and directing that Fox be taken into custody until the fine was paid.

The stay was sought by Fox's attorneys, Hirsh, Newman, Reass & Becker, who said that papers for a writ of certiorari were now being prepared to appeal the punishment order to the U. S. Supreme Court. If the stay is granted Fox would not be subject to arrest here while his appeal was pending before the high court.

Philadelphia Meet Is Called by Segall

PHILADELPHIA, March 16.—Charles Segall, president of the new I. M. P. T. O., has called a non-partisan meeting of all Philadelphia exhibitors for March 19 at the Broadwood Hotel, to discuss problems of the new selling season and to act on the drastic new regulations of the city fire marshal.

The meeting is apparently being called by Segall as an individual, rather than as head of the new exhibitor group, as the announcement came on his personal stationery. He is specifically calling attention to non-partisan angles of the meeting, calling on both members of the M. P. T. O. and the I. M. P. T. O.

Post election changes have resulted in several drastic upheavals in the fire marshal's staff. Rules for theatres have become more stringent than they have been for years and some exhibitors have complained.

mony taken at its hearings last month, but members of the group are represented as feeling that the whole subject of block booking is so hedged about with technicalities as to demand a thorough study before any legislation is considered.

Indications are that, even though the House may pass block booking legislation this session, which is doubtful, the Senate will demand that the measure be laid aside until more careful consideration can be given. To that end, it is likely, the suggestion will be made that a special committee be appointed to study the subject during the summer, and to make recommendations next session as to the desirability of legislation.

WARNER BROS.' FIRST BIG MUSICAL IN NEARLY A YEAR

OUR ANSWER TO THE

THERE have always been in show business a few who envy anybody else's success. They take joy in spreading false propaganda about their competitors or their competitors' product.

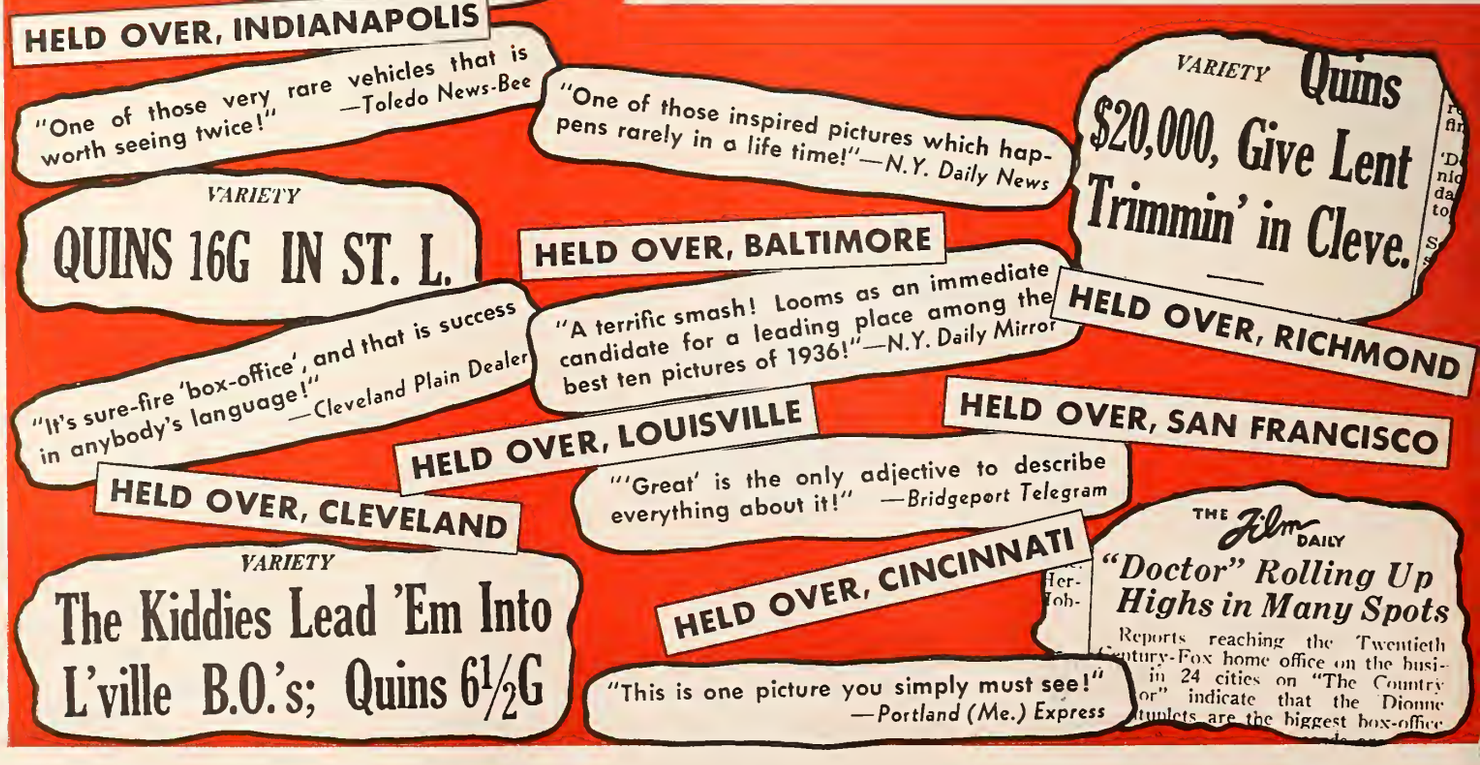
It is unfortunate that a grand production, such as "THE COUNTRY DOCTOR", which is both a credit and an asset to the entire motion picture industry, should be the victim of this propaganda.

Certain people have gone out of their way to spread the rumor that this picture is flopping. We have a good idea who is behind it and it should be to their eternal shame.

For the benefit of those who bought the picture and who have still to run it, I want to quote a few statistics about one of the most successful pictures this business has seen in many a day:—

"THE COUNTRY DOCTOR" opened in 322 theatres between March 3rd and March 8th.

Of those theatres playing the picture for a week's engagement, 53 held "THE COUNTRY DOCTOR" over for a second week or transferred it to another first-run theatre for a second week.



48 theatres extended their engagements from three to four days.

31 theatres extended their engagements two days, and 83 theatres found it necessary to play the picture an extra day.

In all, 215 theatres—or more than 67 per cent—of the 322 that played the picture in its first week of release, held the picture over for additional playing time.

One of the most successful pictures released by Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corporation this year was Shirley Temple in "THE LITTLEST REBEL." Released on Christmas Day, it played during the holidays to enormous business.

"THE COUNTRY DOCTOR" already has surpassed "THE

WHISPERING CHORUS

LITTLEST REBEL" in receipts by more than 15%.

Of course, there are individual spots affected by terrific weather conditions that have not done as well as the exhibitor might have hoped. We speak of the average.

We are proud to point to the chorus of critics' praise which has greeted the picture from coast to coast and from Canada to the Gulf. Not only have the motion picture reviewers accorded "THE COUNTRY DOCTOR" their highest rating and most enthusiastic praise, but great publishers and editorial writers have gone out of their way to urge the American people to see this great human document.

Elsewhere on this page are printed excerpts from some of these reviews.

We are not responsible for certain greedy individuals who hoped this picture would pay off the national debt. We are, however, humanly happy that "THE COUNTRY DOCTOR" has brought profits to our customers, entertainment to millions and has been a credit not only to ourselves but to the entire motion picture industry.

This picture is a sincere contribution to the business we are all making our living out of. It is an asset to the cause of better pictures, no matter who turns them out.

This, then, is the record of "THE COUNTRY DOCTOR." These figures do not lie, and if this be a flop, we pray give us more like it.

Denver Boom Gives "Pine" $9,500 Gross

DENVER, March 16.—"Trail of the Lonesome Pine" was outstanding in a general boom here last week. It was just one packed house after another at the Denham, the take reaching $9,500, over normal by $5,000. It was held over.

Six of the seven first runs were above average, with four pictures being held over and two finishing extended runs.

"Follow the Fleet" ran up to $11,500, over normal by $5,500. It was held at the Orpheum. "The Bohemian Girl" was strong at $4,000 in the Aladdin.

Total first run business was $38,200. Average is $27,750.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 11:

"BOHEMIAN GIRL" (M-G-M)

Warners' Schedule Is 75% Completed

HOLLYWOOD, March 16.—Warners have completed 75 per cent of the scheduled 60 features for 1935-36 release. Forty-five features have been completed and the remaining 15 are in various production stages. Five are shooting and 10 are set to get under way shortly.

Now in production are: "Angel of Mercy," with Kay Francis; "The Earthworm Tractor," with Joe E. Brown; "Big Business," with Guy Kibbee; "Two Against the World," with Humphrey Bogart, and "Murder in the Big House," with Barton MacLane.

Withholds Decision On RKO Interim Fees

Applications for interim fees totaling $150,000 for services in the RKO reorganization proceedings were taken under advisement yesterday by Federal Judge William Bondy.

The applications were filed by Irving Trust Co., trustee of RKO, which asks $65,000, and by Donovan, Leisure, Newton & Lumbard, counsel to the trustee, who ask $85,000. The allowances sought are for services rendered from July 1, last.

"Doctor" Is Detroit Wow With $22,200

DETROIT, March 16.—"The Country Doctor" jammed the Fox practically all week and ran the gross up to $22,200. This was $7,200 over average. Phil Baker & Co. were on the stage.

Business elsewhere was nothing to get excited about. "Desire," at the Michigan, with John Boles on the stage, went only $600 over par for a take of $20,600.

"Modern Times" and "Follow the Fleet," both in their third weeks at the United Artists and RKO Downtown, respectively, were still in the profit column.

Total first run business was $75,300. Average is $65,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 12:

"Doctor" $13,000 Milwaukee Leader

MILWAUKEE, March 16. — "The Country Doctor," on a twin bill with "Dancing Feet," went to town at Fox's Wisconsin, grossing $13,800. The picture was $5,800 above average and was held over for a second week. A favorable front page Milwaukee Sentinel editorial helped.

"Modern Times" and "You May Be Next" at Fox's Palace took second high honors for the week with $7,200, just $2,200 to the good.

With this kind of competition to face, "Follow the Fleet" in its second week at the Warner had tough sledding and was pulled after five days to make way for "Next Time We Love" and "Road Gang."

Total first run business was $29,800. Average is $23,000.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending March 10:

"Doctor" Big In Pittsburgh With $15,000

PITTSBURGH, March 16. — Despite the beginning of Lent, business was up all over town last week. The outstanding leader was "The Country Doctor" at the Alvin, which came within an eyelash of shattering the house record at $15,000, enough to win a holdover and raise hopes for a third week.

Although it did a nice $14,000 at the Penn, "Modern Times" was considered something of a disappointment. It was moved to the Warner for another week. Jan Garber's band on the stage was an effective bolster for "The Prisoner of Shark Island" and sent the Stanley to an excellent $22,000, while "Follow the Fleet," at the Warner after a week at the Penn, continued its brisk pace at $6,000.

"Love Before Breakfast," on a double bill with "The Return of Jimmy Valentine," improved the Fulton 100 per cent over the previous week at $4,000, and only the Casino, with "One Way Ticket" and Count Berni-Vici's unit, "Spices of 1936," fell a bit short of par with $6,000.

Total first run grosses were $67,000. Average is $51,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 12:

Danz Takes Long Lease

SEATTLE, March 16.—John Danz, head of Sterling Chain Theatres, Inc., has taken a 15-year lease on the original Pantages here. Danz now operates the house as the Rex, on a short-time lease. He has also taken a lease on one entire floor of the office building in which the theatre is housed, and will establish circuit offices there.

The Rex will be remodeled at a cost of more than $50,000, and will be renamed. First run pictures and vaudeville will be continued.

"Doctor" Gets $25,000; Tops Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, March 16. — "The Country Doctor" was the week's leader with $25,000 at the Fox. Pre-run estimates had put the possible take at $30,000. Business kept building steadily, and the second week may nearly equal the first.

"Little Lord Fauntleroy" rang the bell at the Aldine with $15,000 and will stay at least two more weeks. "Wife vs. Secretary" took $23,000 at the Stanley, also holding. Riley and Farley and "The Music Goes 'Round" got a pretty good $16,000 at the Earle.

Even the second runs caught the fever. The Karlton and Keith's, which have been sleepers for several weeks, roused with "The Story of Louis Pasteur," $4,700, at the first, and "Follow the Fleet," with $4,300, at the second. Both hold for second weeks. "The Milky Way" also did a neat $3,300 second run week at the Arcadia.

Total first run business was $121,800. Average, exclusive of the Erlanger, is $81,960.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 12:

"LITTLE LORD FAUNTLEROY" (U.A.)
ALDINE—(1,200), 40c-55c-65c, 7 days. Gross: $15,000. (Average, $8,160)

"THE MILKY WAY" (Para.) (2nd run)
ARCADIA—(600), 25c-40c-50c, 7 days. Gross: $3,300. (Average, $2,800)

"DESIRE" (Para.)
BOYD—(2,400), 40c-55c, 7 days. Gross: $12,000. (Average, $14,000)

"THE MUSIC GOES 'ROUND" (Col.)

Milwaukee Job Total In Month Passes '29

MILWAUKEE, March 16.—According to figures of the Wisconsin Industrial Commission, Milwaukee factory employment in January exceeded that for the corresponding month of 1929. The commission reported its index for Milwaukee stood at 95.2 of the 1925-27 normal of 100 in the first month this year as compared with a position of 92.4 in the similar 1929 month.

Based on these figures, unofficial but conservative estimates place the number of workers in plants here at roughly 84,000 for January. This would be about 2,300 more than the same 1929 month, but 10,000 under the 1929 peak in the summer of that year, when the index was about 105. As compared with the low point of the depression, a gain of about 28,000 workers is reflected in the January level.

OUT OF THE WORLD'S LARGEST AND FINEST FILM LABORATORY COME CONSOLIDATED "CERTIFIED PRINTS"

SOMETIMES your experts take an entire day to light a single scene that the audience sees for only three or four minutes. It's this devotion to detail that makes the American motion picture the most beautiful in the world. Here at Consolidated we take similar pains to produce theatre prints that bring these artistic effects to the screen with unerring accuracy. No other film laboratory anywhere has such elaborate and costly machinery for controlling quality, for assuring uniformity, for reproducing all the sound and action in the master negative, for providing the producer with theatre prints that are always "a triumph of accuracy, a miracle of uniformity".

THE GAIETY THEATRE

Agana, Guam

Gentlemen:

In the 20th Anniversary Edition of the Motion Picture Herald, I saw your advertisement of the serial "CUSTER'S LAST STAND."

We would like to get this serial in the near future and we would be pleased to hear from you concerning the booking of this production.

At present we are obtaining our serials or chapter plays from the Universal Film Exchange, and have recently played "Pirate Treasure," "Gordon of Ghost City" and are now showing "Tailspin Tommy." What advertising matter (posters, etc.) are available with this chapter play? We would appreciate your forwarding us press sheets by mail.

In the same advertisement you also mentioned "CUSTER'S LAST RIDE," a 10-reel feature. Is this a sequel, a preliminary feature showing the highlights of the serial, or is it a different picture altogether?

The pictures will be out about four months, as there is only one commercial freight ship that comes to Guam four times a year.

Awaiting your reply in this matter, we are,

Very truly yours,

THE GAIETY THEATRE,

Dear Sirs:

While reading one of the last issues of the "MOTION PICTURE HERALD" we have found your advertisement concerning the new serial you have produced under the title "CUSTER'S LAST STAND."

I will be obliged if you will send me in the meantime a synopsis of your serial "CUSTER'S LAST STAND," as well as from the new serial "JUNGLE PERILS," which you are producing at present. I am only interested in serials for the territory of Syria, therefore quote me your best price for Syria alone.

Expecting the pleasure of receiving your interesting news, and synopsis, I beg to remain, reason for the proposed consolidation. Members of any one of the guilds frequently are to be found engaged in activities within the jurisdiction of one of the other guilds. The consolidation would eliminate the necessity for a writer so engaged from joining two or all three of the guilds. Membership in the Authors' League would be made to cover activities which automatically assign the writer to any or all of the affiliated guilds.

Film Writers See Benefits In New Merger

The uniform contracts for writers with screen and stage producers, radio and book and magazine publishers would be facilitated, it was said, by the centralization of authority over the three guilds in the Authors' League.

No demand for recognition of the Screen Writers' Guild will be made of Hollywood producers if the consolidation is approved, officials of the Authors' League said yesterday. Such a demand was characterized as a "meek and unnecessary gesture" by these officials who said that if the consolidation is approved film producers would be dealing with the Authors' League, which has been in existence for more than 20 years and which "no one dealing with writers can avoid recognizing."

Draws Dramatists' Comment

Dramatists' Guild officials, commenting yesterday on the recent resolutions drawn up by the League of N. Y. Theatres, a producing managers' organization, authorizing its contract committee to attempt the drafting of a new minimum basic agreement with the guild covering the sale of film rights to stage plays, or, this failing, to submit disputed points to arbitration, said that no attempt had been made by the managers' committee yet to arrange a meeting with the guild. If efforts to obtain a new agreement and to arbitrate disputed points both fail, the managers resolved to draw up and use exclusively their own contract with writers. Commenting on this, a guild official said:, "They mean, of course, they will use their own contract to deal with non-members of the guild. That's all right with us. We're not interested in what non-members do. The managers can do that any time they want.

"The question then is whether there are enough young playwrights coming up every year to keep the theatres going, and if there are, whether these newcomers will be willing to accept the managers' contract or join the guild and have the writers' contract."

"Folies Comique" to Open

"Folies Comique," produced by RKO under the supervision of William Howard, head of the circuit's vaudeville department, will open tomorrow for a two-day tryout at the Albee, Providence.

On Thursday, the show is scheduled to open at Keith's, Boston. About 35 are in the cast. Charles Koerner, RKO theatre district head in Boston, has returned to his headquarters after spending two weeks working with Howard.

Hirliman to Patent New Color Process

Hollywood, March 16.—George Hirliman has applied for patents on the new color process which is being used for the first time in his "Captain Calamity," now shooting. "Hiracolor," the result of five years of experiment, is a two-color process which depends upon a device affixed to the camera, and not upon specially prepared film.

Hirliman claims that his process reduces color photography cost materially, and expects that within a year it will be as low as black and white. No extra lighting is required, according to Hirliman, and any color laboratory can do developing and printing.

Datig May Join M-G-M

Hollywood, March 16.—Fred Datig, who recently resigned as Paramount casting director, is negotiating with M-G-M for a similar post. The berth at M-G-M, vacated when Rufus LeMaire resigned, is now being filled by Bill Grady who was attached to the Thalberg unit.

Arrested in Shooting

Chicago, March 16.—Peter Krisoulas, 39, was arrested yesterday and charged with shooting to death Irving Fehlberg, assistant manager of the Midwest Theatre here, in his office when he was taken there after a young girl accused him of annoying her during a performance.

"Fleet" Sails To Loop Top; Pulls $26,000

Chicago, March 16.—"Follow the Fleet" sailed into the Palace followed by a crowd that piled the gross up to $26,000. This was $7,000 more than the house usually gets.

Other spots were also in the money. The Roosevelt, showing "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," garnered $16,200, which was $5,200 to the good. "Navy Wife," helped by Jane Withers on the stage, went $1,600 over the line on a take of $16,600. "Desire," in spite of bad reviews, was up by $1,300 on a gross of $6,200 at the Garrick. "Freshman Love," with NTG's stage show, was good for $14,800, up by $1,800. "Modern Times" held up to $17,000 in its third week at the United Artists.

Total first run business was $131,600. Average is $117,000.

Speed Reorganizing Of General Theatres

The reorganization plan for General Theatres Equipment, Inc., is expected to be declared operative within a week, it is understood, despite the fact that conditions set by Chase National Bank as prerequisites to turning back securities held as collateral for defaulted loans have not been fully met.

The company has been in receivership since February, 1932. Earnings have improved in the past few months and interests close to the company are anxious to relieve it of restrictions imposed by the receivership. Chase Bank had stipulated that consent to the plan must be obtained from all but $5,325,000 of debt claims, of which not more than $3,000,000 could represent debentures.

Sets Feature Policy

Hollywood, March 16.—Burroughs-Tarzan will make individual pictures rather than series, and no single star be in more than one production, according to present plans. "The White Glove" will be the third production of the current season, and "Alcatraz" the fourth. "Three Wise Monks," the company's second picture, is now ready for release.

Quigley Honor To Armstrong And Goldberg

Grand Awards Voted by 23 Film Executives

John Armstrong, manager of the Paramount in London, and Harry Goldberg, managing the Chestnut Street Opera House in Philadelphia, yesterday were voted the winners of the 1935 Quigley Grand Awards for exploitation supremacy, in the annual contest sponsored by the Managers' Round Table Club of Motion Picture Herald, of which A-Mike Vogel is chairman.

The judging, by 23 industry executives, took place at a luncheon at the N. Y. Athletic Club, where were exhibited samples of the 24 campaigns which won the silver and bronze monthly awards during the year. Armstrong, who captured the first, or silver grand award, took the honor for his campaign on Paramount's "Lives of a Bengal Lancer," while Goldberg's bronze award resulted from his work in exploiting War-

Court Refuses to Speed Up Answers in St. Louis Case

Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe's order granting Warners, Paramount and RKO an additional 30 days to file answers in the Government's latest civil suit involving an alleged conspiracy in withholding films from the Ambassador, Missouri and New Grand Central in St. Louis stands as a result of a decision handed down yesterday by Judge Murray Hulbert denying Russell Hardy's motion to vacate the extension.

Hardy stated that the extensions were granted without notice to the Government and that the additional time was unnecessary and injurious to the complaining interests. He added that "the case deals with a situation in St. Louis typical with hundreds of others throughout the country." He also asserted that the extension would "increase the losses of F. & M. and probably result in their extinction, help make a success of the conspiracy and turn the case into a post mortem."

The prosecuting attorney then went into the history of the case, but was halted by the court, which stated it was not interested, but only concerned with the issue before it. After the court refused to grant his motion, Hardy then made an unsuccessful plea to have the time reduced to 20 days. The prosecutor pointed out that F. & A. M. interests were in session while the arguments were being heard with the bondholders of the three St. Louis properties on the question of whether to continue operation. Again the court declined.

Frederick H. Wood, who played a vital part in the legal defense for Warners in both the criminal and civil actions tried in St. Louis, advised Judge Hulbert that he had been preparing papers for weeks in connection with the constitutionality of the Duffy Coal Act. He said he had been working on this case day and night, adding that some of the defendants in the civil suit had been

London Films Stage Destroyed by Blaze

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, March 17.—A fire at the Denham studios of London Films during the noon luncheon hour today destroyed one stage which was near completion. Three other unfinished stages were saved. The blaze was believed to have been caused by the igniting of sound proofing material.

London officials indicated they will concentrate all workmen on the completion of the second stage in place of the one destroyed. It was said definitely that the fire would cause no change in plans. The first Denham production will go into work late in April or early in May.

Transamerica 1935 Net Is $20,319,276.26

SAN FRANCISCO, March 17.—The consolidated net profit of Transamerica Corp., consolidated companies and all controlled subsidiaries for the year 1935 is reported at $20,319,276.26. The net profit of Transamerica and consolidated companies, not including controlled subsidiaries, amounted to $11,857,079.96. These figures are, after all taxes and other expenses.

The larger net profit was equal to 87.65 cents per share on 23,181,568 shares outstanding, which compares with a net profit of $11,450,587.35, equal to 48.47 cents per share for the year ended Dec. 31, 1934, an increase of $8,868,688.91.

Teperson alleged in his action that he had been discharged by the union on June 18, last, although he held a 10-year contract as the union's attorney, made in April, 1933.

Kent Declares Majority Want Block Booking

Wholesale Sales Always Used, He Insists

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Continuance of block booking is desired by the great majority of independent exhibitors, and proponents of the Pettengill Bill want "to hold block booking by the throat with the left hand and pick out the cherries they want with the right," members of the House film sub-committee were told today by Sidney R. Kent, president of Twentieth Century-Fox.

Appearing as the first of the star witnesses to be put on the stand by the opponents of the legislation, Kent declared that block booking is not the right name for a practice which is group selling or wholesaling.

"The atmosphere created in this hearing might lead the committee to believe that this was a poisonous method of forcing bad product down the throats of the exhibitors," he said. "This is a method that has always been in use in this industry; it is no different from the method used in hundreds of other lines in this country.

"I hope the committee won't think

Try to Start New Union

Reports were current in exhibitor quarters yesterday that a new union, to be composed of theatre service employees, is in the process of formation. It is stated that a number of ushers and cleaners already have been approached.

About two years ago a move to get theatre employes to join a service union met with little success. Theatre men could not say whether the same interests are behind the new move.

G. B. Executives East

Kindler Heads Empire

Louis Kindler last night was elected president of Empire union. He succeeds M. ("Happy") Ricca. Richard Baron, a former president, was named business agent, replacing Jack Millet. The meeting took place at the Irving Plaza.

Empire is not a party to negotiations now under way to merge Allied and Local 306. Another session between representatives of the two latter groups was held yesterday and it is expected that a deal will be struck in a few weeks.

Legion Approves 12 Of 15 New Pictures

Twelve of 15 new pictures reviewed by the Legion of Decency during the past week are classified as unobjectionable for general patronage, according to the latest list. Only two are noted as unobjectionable for adults and one is called objectionable in part. The listing of new pictures, classified, follows.

Class A, Section 1, Unobjectionable for General Patronage—"Annette in Paradise" (German), "Captain January," "Desert Gold," "Don't Gamble with Love," "Everybody's Old Man," "For the Service," "F. P. I. antwortet nicht" (German), "Murder on the Bridle Path," "Rogues Tavern," "Robin Hood of El Dorado," "Taming the World," "Silly Billies." Class A, Section 2, Unobjectionable for Adults—"La Marcia" (Italian), "These Three." Class B, Objectionable in Part—"Colleen."

GTE's Bondholders Start Another Move

Expressing a belief that the General Theatres Equipment plan of reorganization "will not go through," a committee of independent bondholders yesterday solicited authorization from debenture holders to act for them "in the event of such an emergency."

M. A. Goldsmith of Chicago, chairman of the committee, cited an appeal from the Delaware court order approving the plan which is pending and said other litigation affecting the plan has been filed in the Federal court for the western division of the State of Missouri.

"In view of all these contingencies," Goldsmith's letter states, "we are convinced that the best plan to follow under the circumstances is to actively solicit authorization from holders so that we and they may act as a group, in the event the reorganization does not go through, as we do not believe it will."

Lucas at Ampa Meeting

Nick Lucas will be one of the entertainers at the Ampa lunch at the Astor tomorrow. Others expected to attend will be the members of the cast of the sketch presented at the Naked Truth dinner.

Quigley Honor To Armstrong And Goldberg

ners' "A Midsummer Night's Dream." Armstrong's campaign won the silver award for June, and Goldberg's the bronze award for October.

All exhibits were identified by number only, the judges being supplied with ballots limiting them to numerical scoring. Voting was by ballot. The two winners are to be transported by plane to Hollywood via TWA for the formal presentation of their awards early in April.

Terry Ramsaye, editor of Motion Picture Herald, acting informally as toastmaster at the luncheon, introduced Colvin Brown, vice-president of Quigley Publications, who stressed the length of time during which the Quigley Awards have been carried on successfully. Brown read a telegram from Martin Quigley, president of the company, who was out of town. Quigley expressed his regret at being unable to attend, and said in part: "I want to acknowledge my appreciation of your interest in our efforts to promote and duly credit better exploitation methods and practices as manifest by your presence at this award luncheon."

Ramsaye, in introducing Vogel, made jocular reference to the Round Table chairman's propensity for conversation, which was accepted with due appreciation by the audience.

Vogel told the group that a questionnaire he had sent to the winners of monthly awards since the beginning of the contests indicated that 30 per cent had gained increases in salary or promotions as a result of the awards.

The 23 judges were as follows:

Leon J. Bamberger, RKO; Mort Blumenstock, Warners; John D. Clark, 20th Century-Fox; Oscar Doob, Loew's; S. Charles Einfeld, Warners; William R. Ferguson, M-G-M; Edward M. Fay, Fay Theatres; Monroe Greenthal, United Artists; Ben Grimm, RKO; John W. Hicks, Paramount; W. Ray Johnston, Republic; Irving Lesser, Roxy; Charles E. McCarthy, 20th Century-Fox; Frank McCarthy, Universal; Arthur Mayer, Rialto; Dan Michalove, 20th Century-Fox; Charles C. Moskowitz, Loew's; Alec Moss, Paramount; Si Seadler, M-G-M; A. W. Smith, Warners; J. R. Vogel, Loew's; George Walsh, Netco Theatres.

"Wife" Pulls $22,000, Top In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, March 17.—"Wife vs. Secretary" was the big draw of a big week with a $22,000 take at Loew's State, which is only slightly under the take for "Mutiny," and is $10,000 above par.

"The Country Doctor" was handicapped by a fair opening, but built up to a $12,500 gross for the week at Warners' Hippodrome, going $4,500 over average.

"Modern Times," in its third week downtown and its second week at Loew's Stillman, continued to be a big draw, grossing $5,800 as against the $4,000 weekly average.

"Love Before Breakfast" at the RKO Palace, with Jackie Coogan as the main stage attraction, grossed $12,000, which is $3,000 shy of average.

Weather was changeable and snowy. General Motors free show was the heaviest competition.

Total first run business was $56,900. Average is $42,000.

Court Denies Speed-Up in St. Louis Case

served only last Monday, meaning Harry and Albert Warner.

In addition to bringing out the fact that the two Warner brothers had 20 days in which to answer, Wood stated that he had not had an opportunity to examine the complaint until yesterday. From a cursory study of the papers, Wood said they were complicated and would require many motions for clarification prior to the filing of answers.

"Purpose Vague," Says Wood

"I can't see the purpose of this action by Hardy, who has indicted and found guilty himself the various defendants," Wood said. He brought out the fact that the Government had been unsuccessful in previous attempts to have the courts find the corporate individual defendants guilty. The Warner counsel then delved into the various setbacks the Government has suffered, adding "it seems idle for the Government to suggest an emergency in view of the past history of the proceedings." Wood also pointed out that the film companies tried to have the civil action tried first in St. Louis.

Louis Connick of Simpson, Thacher & Bartlett, was a newcomer on the legal defense forces. He represented three Paramount companies and seven individual defendants and stated he had had no connection with the two prior trials in St. Louis.

Connick told the court that Former Solicitor General Thomas D. Thacher had been busy on two other matters and therefore had had no opportunity to confer with Paramount officials. This being the case, he said, it was impossible to file answers within the prescribed time. Connick added he had asked the Government on Friday for an extension, which was denied.

Nizer to Ask Dismissal

The question of whether Federal Judge Joseph West Molyneaux's decision holding that res adjudicata did not apply when the film companies asked for a dismissal in St. Louis was being studied by attorneys in the case, Connick asserted, and this was another reason for asking more time for filing answers.

Louis Nizer of Phillips & Nizer said he was not familiar with the issues involved, not having participated in the two previous trials. He stated he had been retained by George J. Schaefer, Sam Dembow and Ralph Kohn on March 10, 12 and 13 and during the short intervening period has been engaged in two other cases, one a Supreme Court matter and the other the Twentieth Century-Fox suit against Springer & Cocalis. He further asked the continuance because, he said, he did not know whether the three men are defendants under the law. He said as soon as he checks into the law he intended to make a motion to dismiss the complaint against them.

William Mallard, general counsel for RKO, stated that most of the defendants he represented have been out of town and that he had had no opportunity to confer with them. He added that Ned E. Depinet and Jules Levy had been served the other day when a marshal left the papers at their homes, both being out of the city.

Hardy Divulges Plans

After all the arguments had been heard, Hardy informed the judge that a number of the defendants had not yet accepted service. Judge Hulbert then asked counsel if they would appear for their clients, following which Wood agreed to accept the responsibility for Abel Cary Thomas and Moe Silver and Connick for Neil F. Agnew.

Hardy told MOTION PICTURE DAILY he intended to bring in all St. Louis exchange managers who testified in the civil case in the Mound City. He also said that he planned to summon from 15 to 20 new witnesses, bringing the total to around 60. Although Walter Rice was in court he did not assist Hardy. Both left yesterday afternoon for Washington.

Kent Declares Majority Want Block Booking

we are so foolish as to toss millions of dollars of business over our backs just because we want to sell 50 pictures and a man wants to buy only 30 or 40. That is 1,000 per cent away from the truth."

As before the Senate sub-committee Kent related the efforts of Paramount to sell singly, which resulted in a drop in business from $500,000 to $350,000 a week, and told Chairman Pettengill that if the sub-committee wanted to know the truth about cancellations it could subpoena the records of the various companies and get the actual figures.

He referred to the Federal Trade Commission case and the recent St. Louis criminal suit, both discussed at length by the proponents of the bill, and pointed out that in the former the Government claimed Paramount had a monopoly, although it did only 25 per cent of the business, and in the latter only three companies were involved, and, instead of the Government losing the case because of a personal quarrel between the Government and the defense counsel, there was a "not guilty" verdict returned by a jury.

The whole theory of wholesaling pictures is to level out the cost, Kent explained. Thus a man will get a good picture for less than it might bring singly, although he may pay more for a bad picture than it is worth. On the whole, however, he gets all his films at a price he can afford to pay. The proponents of the abolition of this method, he said, probably represent less than one per cent of the investment in the industry on a dollar basis.

"Block Booking Stifles Nobody"

"There are some rights on our side even if we are big," he declared. "The great majority of independent exhibitors are running their own business and running it profitably. If block booking had stifled anybody in the industry, the industry could never have grown to its present proportions. No other industry has as many as eight major companies competing fiercely for business."

Kent suggested that if the committee is interested only in the moral aspects of the situation, it should pass a bill prohibiting any producer from selling a picture until it has been completed and at the same time prohibit an exhibitor from buying a picture until after he has seen it.

Kent was preceded on the stand by Stanley Sumner, manager of the University, Cambridge, Mass., and Rev. Joseph A. Daly, executive secretary of the National Legion of Decency.

Sumner told the sub-committee that he buys about 300 features a year, trading with all eight of the majors, and runs about 200, securing cancellation or adjustment on those he does not play.

"I believe that the independent exhibitor would be seriously harmed if this bill were to pass," he declared. "I believe I would have serious difficulty in obtaining pictures that my audience demands, in that the chain operator whose sources of information are far greater than mine, if he were permitted to buy pictures individually or in small lots, would get the cream and I would get what was left after he had made his choice.

"The operation of a theatre is a matter of common sense," he continued, "and it is up to the exhibitor to sense the type of pictures required by his audience and obtain those pictures."

Sumner declared he had never had any difficulty with the distributors in the matter of cancellations, explaining in response to questions by Chairman Pettengill that he sometimes has to pay the contract prices, sometimes half and sometimes nothing.

Questioned by Pettengill

Pettengill in his questions attempted to show that Sumner was getting far greater cancellation privileges than other exhibitors, which the witness denied.

"You know that exhibitors for years have been seeking a greater cancellation," Pettengill said.

"I believe in that," the witness replied.

"But you get that benefit 'without benefit of clergy' so to speak," the chairman insisted.

"Simply because the distributors realize the particular conditions surrounding the operation of this theatre," Sumner contended. "I don't get off scot free."

"Do you think it is good public policy that contracts should require a man to take the entire block and the right to cancel depend on the distributor?" Pettengill insisted.

"I think that in many instances the brains back of production and distribution are perhaps better than the brains of the average exhibitor," Sumner said, "and it is just as well that some of us are forced to run pictures. I have never been coerced by a distributor. I do not think that producers could make good pictures if they did not have advance contracts."

"You admit that the exhibitor is forced to help to underwrite the expenses of the producer?" he was asked.

"Yes, I am afraid that is a necessary evil," Sumner replied.

The representatives of the various Catholic organizations which have appeared in favor of the bill could not speak for the Catholic church and its 22,000,000 communicants, for whom the voice of authority is the Council of Bishops, the committee was told by Dr. Daly, who read the statement issued last month in favor of control of pictures by public opinion rather than legislation.

"Censorship Likely," says Dr. Daly

Seizing upon the statement that possibilities of censorship were seen in the pending bill, which might lead to still more legislation, Pettengill asked whether there was anything in the bill that calls for a censorship setup.

"It is simply a speculation on the ground of the possibility that once legislation is adopted interfering in the motion picture business, further legislation may follow," Dr. Daly explained.

"What you are afraid of is that the bill might be amended to set up a board of censors," Pettengill insisted.

"We look to the possibilities," he was told.

Pettengill and Dr. Daly indulged in argument over the church's stand on block booking, the former insisting that numerous Catholic organizations had gone on record in opposition, while other members of the committee inquired as to the views of the various church officials throughout the country. Dr. Daly explained that the organizations could speak for themselves and that both they and various bishops and other officials need not necessarily agree with the Council of Bishops, but insisted that only the latter had authority to speak for the church as a whole.

"I want to say to you and the bishops for whom you speak, that I congratulate you and them for the splendid contribution you have made to this work," Pettengill said, "We are simply confronted with a problem; the question is whether it requires a legislative remedy and, if so, what it is."

M.P.T.O. Head Heard

A brief in opposition to the Pettengill Bill was submitted by Hugh Bruen of Seattle, president of the M. P. T. O. of the Northwest, who had spent several days here hoping to be heard.

Detailed refutation of many of the charges made against the producers by proponents of the bill was undertaken by George Schaefer, vice-president of United Artists, whose exposition was suspended when the sub-committee adjourned until March 23.

Schaefer told the sub-committee he is opposed to the bill "because it is impractical and would work an unnecessary hardship, contains no practical substitute for block booking and would freeze capital."

"Times" $217,000

"Modern Times" ended a six-weeks run at the Rivoli last night with a total take of $217,000. The first week's gross tallied $65,000; the second, $50,000; the third, $42,000; the fourth, $25,000; the fifth, $20,000; the final week, $15,000.

White Pin Team Leads

The results of the RKO pin toppling which took place Thursday evenings during the winter puts Captain Art White's five-man team from the Capitol, which included Stickerling, Dvorak, Sherman and Johnson, in first place. The team won 41 games out of 63.

The Columbia team under Jimmy Mulhall took second place and Jack White's Majestic team was third. High team marks went to the Franklins with a score of 948, second high to the Capitol with 896. High individual honors went to Horton and Level, both making 235. George Roman of Pathe News won high individual average with 180, followed by Mulhall, J. White and Johnson. Ann Marden beat out 30 men for the season's high feminine average.

Samuel Becker, counsel for the F. C. C., conducted the examination. He asked whether or not it was true that A. T. & T. had acquired two film studios and Gifford replied that the company had come into possession of them through non-payment of debts.

Becker also wanted to know whether the company had helped William Fox finance the Loew's stock acquisition some years ago. Gifford replied that Becker was getting in "over his head" as he did not know.

"U", General Deal Provides Interchanges

Talent, Stories, Other Facilities Included

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, March 18.—A complete interchange of stars, directors, story material and technicians between Universal and General Film Distributors is provided for under the terms of the C. M. Woolf organization's participation in the Standard Capital Corp.-Charles R. Rogers acquisition of a controlling interest in Universal, it was stated here today by the London company.

The reciprocal production terms are in addition to the arrangements for the distribution of all Universal product, including the newsreel, by General Film Distributors throughout the United Kingdom and the world-wide distribution by Universal of a selected

British Expecting More Warner Films

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, March 10.—Harry Warner and Sam Morris, due here in two weeks, are expected to O.K. further increases in the already enlarged production plans for the Warner-F. N. Teddington studios. Twenty pictures a year, with a prospect of American release for the best of them, is the program. Hollywood staffing on a large scale is expected; the first appointment is that of Russell Medcraft as story editor.

To Honor Schaefer At Party March 30

George J. Schaefer, vice-president of United Artists, will be honored at an informal dinner in the grand ballroom of the Astor on March 30. The committee in charge of the dinner, which is now working on arrangements, includes: Austin Keough, Charles Freeman, Sidney R. Kent, Harry Kalshein, Joseph Bernhard, Paul O'Brien, Leon Netter, Marvin Schenck, Edward Raftery, George Skouras and Monroe Greenthal.

A program of entertainment is on the schedule, with outstanding screen personalities participating.

Ascap's Brief Attacks Stand Of Exhibitors

Hits Merging Recording, Exhibiting Rights

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, March 18.—A lengthy brief attacking the position of exhibitors and other users of copyrighted music, filed by Gene Buck, Ascap president, was made public today by the House Patents Committee as representatives of the broadcasters continued their fight for adoption of the Duffy Bill.

As far as the film industry is concerned, Ascap's criticisms were devoted largely to the proposed merging of exhibition with production rights and the $250 minimum damage clause. The former, it was declared, is an industry dispute which the exhibitors are seeking to settle by legislation.

Far more money is collected from the exhibition tax than from the sale

SWG Plans Fight on Reported British Ban

HOLLYWOOD, March 18.—Screen Writers' Guild, through its president, Ernest Pascal, today expressed deep concern regarding the reported clause in the new film act now before Parliament in London banning American screen writers from working on British films in England.

Pascal communicated immediately with London and with the Authors' League of America in New York but was unable to get confirmation or denial.

A special board of directors' meeting of the Screen Writers' Guild will be held tomorrow to plan appropriate action for the protection of members now in England and others for whom British contracts are being planned.

Dramatists Take No Action on Managers

The council of the Dramatists' Guild took no action at a special meeting yesterday on the recent request of the contract committee of the League of N. Y. Theatres for a reopening of the new minimum basic agreement embodying the sale of film rights to stage plays which the guild placed in effect March 1.

The producing managers have protested the revised terms increasing the playwright's participation in the proceeds from the sale of film rights

THEATRES HIT BY FLOODS IN EAST

New to Him

San Francisco, March 18.—Nate J. Blumberg, who runs the RKO circuit, has seen a variety of early bird prices and shows in his time, but it took an auto trip from Los Angeles with Cliff Work, RKO's western theatre district manager, to unearth a new one.

It was in the mountains where a roadside sign read: "26-Ounce Glass of Beer—10 Cents." Underneath in barely readable letters, this: "15 Cents After 7 P. M."

Percentage Ruling Upsets Sale Pacts

A decision which is regarded by film company attorneys as likely to have widespread effects on the designation by distributors of percentage engagements, if it stands, was won yesterday in N. Y. Supreme Court by Springer & Cocalis and Consolidated Circuit in an action brought against them by Twentieth Century-Fox.

The decision would make the distributor's overage on a group of designated percentage pictures dependent upon the earnings of the entire group, rather than upon the earnings of each picture individually.

Fox was suing Springer & Cocalis on a 1934-'35 contract for 58 of the distributor's pictures at a flat rental of $2,750 per picture for 30 S. & C. theatres. The contract stipulated that "on six pictures to be allocated by Fox the distributor shall receive a 50 per cent overage." Fox was suing for

Eastman Net Up to $15,913,251 in 1935

ROCHESTER, March 18.—The Eastman Kodak Co. and wholly owned subsidiaries have reported for the 52 weeks ended Dec. 28 last a consolidated net profit of $15,913,251 after taxes and reserves. After dividend requirements on the preferred stock, the net was equal to $6.90 on the common stock, which compares with $14,503,247, equal to $6.28 a share on 2,250,921 common shares the year before.

Income from operations totaled $18,-

Houses Flooded, Service Impeded in 6 States, Reports Show

After passing through an abnormally severe winter that affected theatre attendance to a large degree, theatre men in Pennsylvania, Maryland, the Shenandoah Valley region of Virginia and West Virginia, upstate New York, and the Connecticut River valley now have the spring thaw to worry about as reports from these areas of rivers and streams overflowing their banks and flooding cities and towns reduces attendance.

Parts of Ithaca, located near Cayuga Lake, which was the scene of the heaviest damage of the flood following torrential rains last summer, is again under water. In Buffalo the heaviest snow storm of the winter blanketed the city with 14 inches of snow. Binghamton, at the junction of the Susquehanna and Chenango rivers, is almost cut off by rising water. Film delivery services are having difficulty supplying houses in these towns, due to highway washouts. Only one bridge is open leading from Binghamton.

Pennsylvania is the hardest hit with

Nebraska Ruling Is Blow to Bank Night

LINCOLN, Neb., March 18.—Under a definition given here today by Assistant Attorney General Paul Chaney, Bank Night is a lottery as conducted by many Nebraska theatres. Chaney ruled that three elements constitute a lottery—a prize of value, drawing to determine the winner and payment of a consideration for the opportunity to participate.

If a winner is outside a theatre when

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, March 18

TALES from the Hollywood hills:

The talent fixation which so frequently hits producers probably touched a new high with this incident:

A supervisor, name deleted, wanted Walter Catlett, who has done a thing or two on the stage in his time. The actor did not want the part. Finally, he submitted to persuasion and called at the studio.

"He knows all about your career. No one else can play this part," Catlett was informed.

The next circumstance found the performer in the producer's office, but the latter, by his questions, made it obvious early that he knew little of Catlett or his work. Standing it as long as he could, the latter turned to leave with this reported shot:

"Never mind asking who I am, what I've done and my qualifications for this part. I'll tell you. I'm Richard Mansfield and I died twenty years ago." . . .

Most of the studios have one or more important and permanent sets which other studios lease when required. It's less expensive. Customary, however, is the procedure by which the working studio staffs the set with its own crew.

Four men pushing lights around were stopped a handful of days ago by the head of the plant. "Too many men on that job. Take two off," he ordered.

"Sorry. You can't do that."

"Why not? Don't I run this plant? Isn't that my set they're on."

"It's your set all right, but the men work for Paramount." . . .

Two writers discussing a script.

One: "I think it is good, but I would do so-and-so in this situation. It would add more suspense."

Two: "A good idea. Do you mind if I come over this afternoon to get into it further with you?"

One: "Not at all. Drop in."

Two: "Where do I find you?"

One: "I sleep in Room 412."

An ex-studio head, determined to get the lowdown on all possible angles, is declared to have had his ten-year-old son read all scripts.

Those carloads of toys reaching the youngster's side at regular intervals came from the writers on the lot. . . .

The local yen for swank gets the hired help after a time. Sidney Skolsky, columnist for the New York Daily News, does not drive. He advertised for a chauffeur, but has never been able to employ one. They usually reply in livery and keep on walking upon discovery all Skolsky has is a Ford. . . .

A legend maybe, but the report goes Twentieth Century-Fox hired Kenneth MacGowan away from Radio because he was a producer of pictures with tone. First assignment on the lot was "King of Burlesque." . . .

Text of a wire from his buyers to a circuit head now visiting here:

"What's ahead for April and May?"

The reply:

"Nothing but storms and hot weather." . . .

"If I do make a deal with that studio and the boss's son continues to lose his ball, he'll have to find it himself"—a producer talking to the assemblage at The Brown Derby. . . .

Says Race Services Use A. T. & T. Wires

WASHINGTON, March 18.—T. G. Miller, vice-president of A. T. & T. in charge of the long lines department, testified at the Federal Communications Commission's inquiry into company affairs today that A. T. & T. leases wires for $43,000 a month to two horse race news services, Nation-Wide News Service and Interstate News Service. These and other sporting news services paid $2,841,071 for wires between April 1, 1931, and Dec. 1, 1935, Miller testified.

Lina Basquette Sues

BOSTON, March 18.—Lina Basquette, through her attorney, George S. Fishel Ryan, has filed suit for $100,000 in U. S. District Court here against Harry and Fisher Zeitz, New Bedford theatre operators. Miss Basquette charges the illegal use of her photograph which later appeared in the newspaper advertisement of a colored troup.

Schenck Heading for NYC

LOS ANGELES, March 18.—Joseph M. Schenck left for New York tonight by train to discuss distribution and theatre expansion with Sidney R. Kent. Later he will hold similar conferences in London and Chicago.

Finney On Coast

HOLLYWOOD, March 18.—Edward F. Finney, Republic advertising and publicity head, arrived here yesterday by plane for conferences with Lindsley Parsons and studio executives. He will return to New York by plane tonight.

Mary Pickford Departs

After interviewing many persons during her stay, Mary Pickford left for the coast yesterday to confer with Jesse L. Lasky on the appointment of an eastern representative for Pickford-Lasky Prod. Miss Pickford, who has signed for an additional six broadcasts when her current contract expires, is not expected to return until July. She has seven more radio programs to do before her current pact runs out.

M. Luporini to Italy

LOS ANGELES, March 18.—Marion Luporini, Italian representative of United Artists, will leave here tomorrow by train. She is on her way to Italy.

Revamp Prudence Unit

Federal Judge Grover M. Moscowitz has approved the application of Amalgamated Properties, Inc., subsidiary of Prudence Co., to reorganize under Section 77 B of the bankruptcy act, separately from the parent company. The court continued the present officers of the company and set April 10 for a hearing on whether they should continue to hold office or whether reorganization trustees should be named.

Vallee Out of "Scandals"

Rudy Vallee, following a spirited fracas with George White, "Scandals" producer, was eliminated yesterday from the cast of the production.

Fox Gets an Arrest Stay Pending Appeal

A stay of that part of a Federal court order which made William Fox subject to arrest for contempt of court was granted yesterday by Judge William Bondy providing an appeal from the order punishing Fox is filed with the U. S. Supreme Court by his attorneys within 10 days after the record of the case is completed.

Hirsh, Newman, Reass & Becker, Fox's attorneys, said that the record could be completed within a week and that application for a writ of certiorari would be made to the high court within the specified time. The appeal will be sought on the complete punishment order signed by Judge Bondy and upheld recently by the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals which, in addition to directing that Fox be taken into custody also prescribed a fine of $235,000 and $10,000 attorney fees.

Fox was cited for contempt for failure to answer a subpoena obtained by the Capital Co. in supplementary proceedings in connection with an unsatisfied $280,000 judgment it was awarded against Fox for a defaulted lease on the Fox, San Francisco.

Carewe Asks Listing For New Securities

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Filing of a registration statement by Edwin Carewe Prod., Inc., Los Angeles, covering 40,000 shares of $25 preferred and 80,000 shares of 25-cent par value common capital stock was made known today by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The preferred stock is to be offered publicly at par under a permit issued by the California Corporation Commissioner. The officers and directors of the corporation may purchase 40,000 shares of the common at par on the basis of one share for each share of preferred stock sold, and the remaining 40,000 shares are to be held in the treasury for the redemption of the preferred on a share for share basis. S. H. Woodruff of Los Angeles is president of the corporation.

Disney Men Seek Talent

HOLLYWOOD, March 18.—Carter Ludlow, publicity director, Don Graham, art instructor, and George Drake, head of animation instruction of Walt Disney Prod., Inc., will leave for New York by train March 19 on a search for talent. Headquarters will be established in New York, and Graham and Drake will interview applicants who have answered advertisements for jobs. Prospects will be given a course of training in the east, and those with sufficient talent will be sent to Hollywood.

Warners Sign Hoeffler

Paul Hoeffler has signed a contract with Warners to produce 13 single-reel animal shorts under the title of "Dangerous Game." The shorts will be released during the 1937-38 season and are subject to approval by the distributor.

Horne West For Talks

HOLLYWOOD, March 18.—Hal Horne will arrive here tomorrow for discussions with Walter Wanger regarding five films scheduled for release during the next two months.

Judging by the success of its pre-release hold-over engagement current at the N. Y. Strand, "COLLEEN" is sure of the royal reception usually accorded Warner musicals. Topping a truly 'all-star' cast of experts in romance, rhythm, and risibilities, are DICK POWELL, RUBY KEELER, JACK OAKIE, JOAN BLONDELL, Hugh Herbert, Louise Fazenda, Paul Draper, and Bobby Connolly's luscious easy-on-the-eyefuls. Alfred E. Green directed. Released March 21st.

Theatres Are Hit by Floods In Six States

another Johnstown flood. The western part of the state along the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers is suffering heavily.

Shenandoah Valley Swamped

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Floods in the Shenandoah and the upper Potomac valleys, together with heavy rains in other locations disrupted the flow of films from exchanges here.

The worst hit town in the region is Cumberland, Md., where water 10 feet deep flooded the business section. Martinsburg, W. Va., was also cut off from the outside world by rising waters.

Maryland State Troopers called out in the emergency patrolled the highways leading to the stricken areas.

Horlacher's Film Delivery Service trucks could not make Cumberland or Martinsburg and returned. Deliveries returnable to the exchanges here this morning did not arrive from the flood area. To the south heavy rains during the past few days made passing to Richmond possible, but hazardous.

Horlacher's Richmond-Norfolk route was changed and went via Newport News in order to get into Petersburg, the hardest hit spot south of Washington. The film delivery company also encountered difficulty on the eastern shore of Maryland because of damaged roads and water.

Newsreel Men Busy

Newsreel crews sprang into action last night with Paramount News sending a unit to Johnstown and Cumberland areas. Pathe and Hearst Metrotone also were on the spot. Fox Movietone sent a crew from the New York office to cover Johnstown, Cumberland and Pittsburgh, leaving the local unit to stand by for developments. All the units are shooting from the air and some will remain in the distressed areas until entry afoot can be made.

The Weather Bureau here reports that the crest of the flood will reach Washington sometime Thursday night.

Details of the damage are not yet available. Exchanges are maintaining a service to theatres outside the flood area despite the tieup of prints in some of the affected spots.

Pittsburgh in Bad Way

PITTSBURGH, March 18.—Theatres were hit by the flood in this city and some are under 10 feet of water. The Pitt, Penn, Stanley and the Fulton have been considerably damaged by the water and it is impossible to tell when they will reopen since the rising waters have practically paralyzed the entire community.

The Red Cross has taken over all of the city's water and medical supplies. The same organization has been given supervision over the city police as well as all welfare and relief agencies.

At a late hour today the City Council appropriated $1,000,000 to be used in assisting those made homeless by the flood.

number of the British firm's films.

Arrangements have also been made for Woolf and Herbert Wilcox to represent the British financial interests on the new board of Universal Pictures Corp., soon to be reconstituted.

The production arrangements also provide for the use of the Universal studios in California by producing units of General Film Distributors, when desirable. Wilcox will be in charge of the production liaison here between the two producing centers, Universal City and London. Frank Ditcham, the present head of Universal's London office, will continue with the company here as an associate of Woolf. Identified with the latter in the syndicate participating in the Universal acquisition are Lord Portal, J. Arthur Rank, Paul Lindenberg and L. W. Farrow.

A private holding company with a capital stock listing of 1,225,000 shares is being formed here to acquire the syndicate's Universal holdings. The company will be similar to the Universal Corp. which was formed in America by Standard Capital Corp. as a voting trust to acquire the holdings which are being taken over from Universal Pictures Corp. The British interests will also be represented on the board of the new Universal Corp. by Rank and Farrow.

This is the first opinion from the state law department, although occasional litigation has come up in various parts of the state and in at least one instance an exhibitor has been fined.

Bank Night Writ Refused

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., March 18.—The Missouri Supreme Court here today rejected the application for a writ of habeas corpus filed by George E. McKean of St. Louis, Bank Night representative, who sought to ascertain whether his giveaway games violate the Missouri lottery laws.

McKean was arrested at Fredericktown last December for operating Bank Night in a theatre there. The high court held that this proceeding was not the proper method of testing the issue. McKean will carry his case through the Circuit Court on an appeal from an adverse Justice of the Peace ruling.

"Doctor" Gets $75,000

First week of "The Country Doctor" at the Music Hall ended last night with $75,000. Opening at a slow pace, the film built steadily. It is being held a second week.

With the opening of "These Three" yesterday, United Artists reported that by 2 P. M., more than 7,000 persons had entered the Rivoli.

phasized the need of a strong exhibitor unit at the regular meeting of the I.T.O.A. at the Astor. The theatre leaders also pointed out the necessity for a permanent committee, to be composed of representatives from every major and independent circuit, to take care of legislative, labor and other problems confronting the exhibitor.

O'Reilly was scheduled to attend, but because of a business appointment in Brooklyn could not be on hand. Brandt presided.

Impending moves for the formation of a service union of theatre employes was discussed.

Clevelanders Object To Daylight Saving

CLEVELAND, March 18.—A group of representative members of the local industry, including Col. Harry E. Long, Loew division manager, Jess Fishman of Warners, Ernest Schwartz, president of the Cleveland M. P. E. A., and G. W. Erdmann, association secretary, called on Mayor Harold Burton to explain why the proposed daylight saving plan would be injurious to the entertainment business. It is thought the bill will not be introduced in the City Council.

to more than the former 50 per cent, in some instances. The managers ask for new negotiation of the terms or submission of the disputed points to arbitration, and if both are refused by the guild have declared that they will draw up and use their own form of agreement with writers.

The guild council is expected to meet on the managers' requests again before taking final action.

Close Five Fox Houses

DENVER, March 18.—Theatre business in five towns in this territory was not enough to warrant two Fox houses in each town, so those opened recently for this purpose have been darkened again. These were the Del Rio at Las Cruces, N. M.; Plaza, Las Vegas, N. M.; Isis, Trinidad, Col. and the Kit Carson, La Junta, Col. Also the State at Boulder, Col., bought by Fox the past year, has been closed following the opening of a new Fox house there.

"Living Dangerously"

(Associated British Pictures)

LONDON, March 10.—Good story values, suspense, live acting and a surprise finale with a real kick in it are the assets of this Elstree effort from the Reginald Simpson-Frank Gregory play, directed by Herbert Brenon and offering another American value in Otto Kruger. The question is whether this last episode will escape censorship; it shows the District Attorney in New York assisting a murderer to escape justice by inflicting a flesh wound on him with a shot from his victim's revolver, so providing convincing evidence of self-defense.

With or without this twist, it is a workmanlike film, even though the main action is a fade back narrative, told to the District Attorney in a New York apartment as justification for a killing. The story told is of two doctors in partnership in London, one of whom is a dope-peddler and the other an idealist, innocently in love with his friend's wife. The crook, with the aid of his secretary-mistress, hauls his partner before the General Medical Council and has him struck off the list, on the grounds that he has made love to his partner's wife. The crook later goes to prison for the drug crime and the doctor and the woman go to America. When he is a famous specialist, the other turns up to blackmail him and gets plugged. Follows the episode just told.

Of special interest is an authentic reproduction of the proceedings when the ruling body of British medicine deals with erring doctors. There's exploitation value there, and more in the two problem angles of professional codes and human instincts in conflict and of "justifiable" murder.

Otto Kruger and Francis Lister put up fine shows as the medical men and all the company is well cast and well directed. Leonora Corbett is the girl. Audience material well above British average.

Looking 'Em Over

"Ring Around the Moon"

(Chesterfield)

Only mildly effective at best, and strictly of double bill caliber, this George Batcheller production concerns itself with the complicated romantic and marital affairs of a newspaper reporter and two girls, one of wealth, the other a co-worker with whom he is in love.

Donald Cook, reporter, in love with Anne Doran, is fired and receives a marriage proposal from Erin O'Brien-Moore. daughter of the paper's chief stockholder. When he learns that she had caused his discharge in order to insure his saying yes, he accepts in a drunken moment. Their marriage is a failure, and Miss Doran, angry at what she considers his duplicity, marries someone else, and will not listen to his explanations.

Following a series of complications, including the suicide of Cook's father-in-law and the failure of the bank he owns, Miss O'Brien-Moore is left penniless. Cook, living apart from her, knows nothing of her poverty, and she is too proud to approach him. Eventually, as Cook attains success through the sale of a play he has written, he comes to realize the good qualities of his wife, and a reconciliation concludes the film. Charles Lamont directed.

$18,000, plus interest, which it claimed was due it under this clause.

The exhibitor defendant admitted a profit on two of the six pictures allocated by Fox for the overage, but claimed a loss on the other four which offset that profit. It claimed the right of cumulative accounting for the six, under which it could compute profit or loss on the group rather than on individual pictures in the group. Judge Cunningham, a visiting jurist from Rochester, upheld this contention which automatically disposed of Fox's claim against the exhibitors.

Louis Nizer, who represented Fox, plans to take an appeal. Bruce Bromley of Cravath, de Gersdorff, Swaine & Wood, represented the exhibitors.

Ascap's Brief Attacks Stand Of Exhibitors

of production rights, it was said. For the use of copyrighted music with films, it was shown, Ascap last year received $117,551, compared with $97,430 in 1934 and $76,525 in 1933. The brief asserted there is no reason why newsreels should be exempt from copyright responsibility and "permitted to make a profit from the use of copyrighted material without payment." Use of theatres for free shows by broadcasters also was attacked as competition with legitimate productions.

Assailing the effort to eliminate the $250 minimum damage clause, Ascap said "the exhibitors, hotels and broadcasters are clamoring for elimination of the clause," although, it was held, only the pirate is affected by the provision. The attack on the clause, the brief contended, was sponsored in the "hope to dictate the license fees that they will pay by using the works and bargaining for the license after the use. They hope by this legislation to reduce to a minimum the amounts they will pay."

Production-Exhibition Treated

The brief went more deeply into the production-exhibition clause than any other phase affecting films, and declared that the amendment to the existing law in the Duffy Bill providing that the right to produce should include the right to exhibit, is an "attempt to settle by legislation a long-drawn-out dispute between producers and exhibitors as to who shall pay the music fees. The amendment violates the divisibility requirements of the Berne Convention," it was held, and "will prevent the composer from taking advantage of the best opportunity to dispose of performing rights in his legitimate attractions for reproduction in films."

The brief explained the method of sale of film rights of a musical stage attraction, and noted that contracts for the sale of film rights provide that no exhibition shall take place until the run of the stage attraction has been completed. It points out that the Duffy amendment merges exhibition with production, and the composer loses the right to control the exhibition rights. "He is confronted with two alternatives," the brief said, "either to sell the picture rights at the most opportune moment when competition is keen, or to wait until the attraction has run its course before entering negotiations for their sale. By that time all interest in the attraction has been lost and the composer will suffer irreparable loss."

The Duffy amendment, according to the brief, is aimed against the producer for the benefit of the exhibitor. Producers, it was said, contract for the rights on the basis that they will pay a nominal sum for the right to record the work to the publisher and the substantial return is to come from the royalties paid by the exhibitors to the society.

"In theory and practice it is no different than the case where the author grants the right to picturize his work upon the payment of a fixed sum, plus a percentage of the gross receipts derived from the rental paid by the exhibitor for the right to exhibit the work. This additional amount is unvaryingly added to the rental that the exhibitor pays for the license to exhibit," the brief declared, adding, "there is no question as to the reasonableness of the fee. The point is whether the producer or the exhibitor shall pay it."

The price will be prohibitive if the producer is made to pay for the use of the work, according to the claim of the producers, the brief pointed out, because the character and number of the theatres in which the film will be shown is an important factor in arriving at a price if the producer alone is to pay the fee. Because of the uncertainty involved, the producer believes the exhibitor should bear the charge, the brief said.

Concluding, it declared, "Now by legislative fiat, it is proposed that the burden shall be carried by the producer. This is unwarranted and improper legislation and is no concern of Congress. It has nothing to do with copyright protection. It is nothing more or less than an attempt to change a trade practice by legislative action."

RKO-Comerford Men Shift in Rochester

ROCHESTER, March 18.—Virtually everybody in the RKO organization and some in Comerford, with which RKO has an operating agreement, went up a notch in reorganization here this week.

William W. Risley, manager of the RKO Temple, became manager of the RKO Palace, succeeding Jay Golden, who recently was transferred to managing director of RKO and Comerford houses in Syracuse.

Charles Freeman, for seven years assistant manager at the Palace, went up two notches in a week, first becoming manager of the RKO Temple and then being shifted suddenly to manager of the Comerford Century, a larger house. Harry Holt was promoted from assistant to manager at the Temple.

Change Managers In Loew-Poli Circuit

NEW HAVEN, March 18. — Several circuit personnel changes have been made by Harry F. Shaw, division manager for the Loew-Poli New England Theatres.

Wallace Cooper has been promoted from assistant at the Palace, Hartford, to the Poli there, with J. Feschler, formerly assistant at the Poli, now assistant at the Palace. Sam Badamo, former assistant at the Majestic, Bridgeport, is the new manager at the Globe, to replace P. Alonzo, resigned. Larry Stark, recently sent from New York to assist Frank Henson at the Bijou, New Haven, has been transferred to the assistant's post at the Majestic, Bridgeport.

Barrios Now Has All Panama's First Runs

With the acquisition of the Wilcox circuit of three houses, the Barrios circuit now has a monopoly of first and second runs in Colon and Panama, Jerome P. Sussman, division manager in Central America for Paramount, stated upon his arrival yesterday on the California. The new Barrios circuit has a total of six theatres.

Paramount recently sold its interest in the Wilcox group of theatres, which it owned because of its affiliation with the Saenger circuit in the south. Sussman stated that film men in Panama believe the newly created monopoly will lead to theatre building. He added that the company is distributing 60 films in the 15 countries he supervises. In Trinidad, the Canal zone, Jamaica and some of the islands the same prints as in America are used. In the other countries, however, superimposed Spanish titles are employed.

Sussman will remain here several weeks on business and pleasure. He plans to leave with Mrs. Sussman for Hollywood after conferring with John W. Hicks, Jr.

Rosalie Stewart of the Eddington, Vincent and Rosalie Stewart agency on the coast was on the same boat. She plans to spend a two-week vacation here.

K-A-O Grosses at $12,000,000 in '35

Keith-Albee-Orpheum Corp. and subsidiary companies grossed $12,998,229.03 in theatre admissions for the year ended Dec. 31, 1935, it was reported in the company's consolidated statement, issued yesterday. Net profit for the year totaled $403,073.40 after all charges. Expenses for film service and production amounted to $3,424,023.69, while artists' salaries totaled $826,250.57.

B. F. Keith Corp. and subsidiaries reported a net profit for the year of $464,644.94, after all charges. Theatre admissions for the year totaled $9,033,895.45.

The annual meeting of KAO stockholders will be held April 8 in the RKO Bldg.

Keep Reliance Marking

HOLLYWOOD, March 18. — The six films which Edward Small is to make for Radio under his new contract as an associate producer will be released with the Reliance trademark following the radio mast trademark of RKO, according to Small.

"Robber Barons" is the only story property on Small's list which is the property of Reliance, the other pictures preparing under his supervision being Radio properties.

The Vitaphone studio in Brooklyn will close down temporarily about the last week in June for approximately six weeks. The shutdown usually takes place in late March or April.

Variety Club

Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, March 18.—Variety Club had two teams, a first and second, in the citywide bowling tournament at the Pla-Mor.

Captain of Team No. 1 was FRANK HENSLER, chief barker of Tent No. 8. Other members: WALTER and FRANK LAMBADER, CHARLES KNICKERBOCKER and ROGER IEATON. These men have a team average of 960.

Second team was led by JOE W. MAGUIRE, and has A. HODSON, TOMMY FISHER, M. ANDERSON and CHUCK DECKER.

Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, March 18.—LEWEN PIZOR and MICHEAL EGNAL kings for the day at the luncheon today. AL BLOFSON and SIMON LIBROS will act in the same capacity April 15.

LEONARD SCHLESINGER is chairman of the entertainment committee and has been doing a swell job.

Amateur Night is scheduled for April 11.

March 21 will be EARLE DWEIGERT night; March 28, JOE ENGEL night; April 4, JAY EMANUEL night.

A formal dinner-dance will be held in April or May to wind up the spring season.

Washington

WASHINGTON, March 18.—One of the first official acts of Chief Barker J. LOUIS ROME upon taking the oath of office last January was to appoint a committee to consider a remodeling of the quarters of Tent No. 11. The committeemen—SAM A. GALANTY, chairman; CHARLES KRANZ, CARTER T. BARRON, HARRY S. BROWN, CHARLES E. SCHULMAN, WILLIAM E. S. WILCOX—have just completed their work.

While the club's suite remains the same, the elimination of partitions, the changing of others, has resulted in making available about 35 per cent more space. Modernistically decorated and furnished, the central exhibit of the new clubrooms is the semi-circular cocktail bar. The interior decorations were from ideas and designs by A. JULIAN BRYLAWSKI, with construction work in charge of F. KEMP MOHLER.

The "christening" was held as a Ladies' Night, with a four-man orchestra—one of PETE MACIAS' units—furnishing music for entertainment and dancing.

BRYLAWSKI's Committee on social activities is planning a spaghetti dinner and card party for March 29.

A new record was set at the semi-monthly luncheon when about 140 barkers and their guests appeared. It was Warner day.

General Zone Manager JOHN J. PAYETTE was in New York, but his associates carried on, with District Manager HARRY E. LOHMEYER the guiding genius. NAT B. BROWNE was master of ceremonies. The entertainers included BERT GRANOFF, tenor; BOB STICKNEY, accompanist; the Alabama Five, GEORGES METAXA, the Three Weir Brothers and JUNE KNIGHT.

On March 30 exchange-sponsored luncheons will be resumed with HARRY S. BROWN in charge.

20th-Fox Net For Year Is $3,563,087

Profit Is $2,290,018 Better Than in 1934

Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp. and wholly owned subsidiaries, for the year ended Dec. 28 last, report a net profit after Federal taxes and all charges of $3,563,087, according to the financial statement issued yesterday. The net compares with a profit of $1,273,069 for 1934, an increase of $2,290,018.

For the 13 weeks ended Dec. 28, 1935, operating profit, after Federal taxes, totaled $1,566,763, which compares with a loss of $233,143 for the last quarter of 1934.

The 1935 net is equal to $2.62 per share on the 1,359,041 shares of $1.50 cumulative convertible preferred stock, and after providing for a full year's dividend on the preferred, is equal to $1.24 per share on the 1,226,530 shares of common outstanding.

The figures do not include earnings from National Theatres Corp., in

Guild Refuses Bid For New Agreement

A flat refusal to negotiate a new minimum basic agreement for playwrights and producing managers with the contract committee of the League of N. Y. Theatres was made yesterday by the Dramatists' Guild in replying to a letter from the managers' committee which requested a meeting for this morning to open the new negotiations.

The guild, however, in a reply to the managers signed by Sidney Howard, president, stated that while the negotiation of a new agreement "is out of the question," and the guild, likewise, feels that nothing will be "gained by a conference," the writers'

Admiral Blumm Reports

Paramount News rushed Jack Blumm to Harrisburg to get pictures of the Susquehanna River flood.

Yesterday morning at 11 o'clock William Park, makeup editor, reached for his phone.

"Yes, this is Park—what?—Certainly we want it—whadda you suppose we sent you down there for?"

Blumm's end of the conversation was something like this:

"I got the shots, all right. Some night stuff of rescues, flooded houses; some day stuff, too. There's a train going out at 1 o'clock, but I'm not sure I'll be able to make it.

"You see, I hired a rowboat. I'm not very good with a boat, and I fell out. It's tied outside the hotel window now. Then I got a boy and sent my suit out to get it dried, and the tailor shop got flooded. I ain't got no pants . . . and it's a long row down to the railroad station. I'll do the best I can. So long!"

At 5:40 Park received this wire: "Train did not leave until 2:30. Using changing bag for bloomers. Now looking for pants."

Editor's Note: A changing bag is a black bag with two openings for the arms the men use to load unexposed negative while in the field.

U. S. Firms Reach Tobis Agreement

Complete elimination of Tobis' multiple dubbing charges, reductions in the royalties paid by American companies and a compromise on arrangements covering currencies in which the royalties are to be paid were effected in an agreement between American distributors and the German company which was concluded late Wednesday night.

One of the principal issues covered by the agreement is that relating to the currencies in which the payments to Tobis will be made. The German sound company heretofore has asked for payments in dollars despite the fact that American distributors have large credits in the central European countries subject to the Tobis royalties, which cannot be withdrawn from those countries. The distributors have insisted upon the payments to Tobis being made from those credits, rather than in dollars, with the result

Move Made to End Copyright Hearing

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The closing of the current copyright hearings which was sought today by Representative O'Malley of Wisconsin, will be considered March 23 at an executive meeting of the House Patents Committee. O'Malley declared that unless some action was taken the hearings would go on indefinitely. He is a bitter opponent of Ascap, and during the sessions repeatedly has baited the witnesses regarding alleged shake-downs of Milwaukee tavern keepers.

The O'Malley motion to close the hearings would have been passed had a vote been taken today, but it was sidetracked by Chairman Sirovich after considerable debate, following which it was decided that the matter be taken up at the beginning of the week.

The testimony today was devoted to a consideration of broadcasting problems, during the course of which the Seigel had been associated with Cohen for a number of years. He is a stepson of Albert Warner.

Floods Leave Theatres Hit In Many Spots

House Damage Limited, But Business Is Off

Flood crests moved southward yesterday down the Blackstone and Connecticut Rivers in New England, the Hudson in the vicinity of Troy, the Susquehanna in central Pennsylvania and the Monongahela and Allegheny Rivers in the vicinity of Pittsburgh, leaving exhibitors aghast over the damage wrought in a few hours.

Actual damage to theatres is limited largely to towns along the Susquehanna and in the Pittsburgh area, but the effects on business in hundreds of towns in New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, southern New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia cannot be calculated at this time.

Operators' Pickets Again Busy in Bronx

After a truce of several months, cross picketing has been revived. The latest move, however, is limited to the Bronx where the University, an independent house, discharged Local 306 men for Allied. As a result, Local 306 has started picketing in front of the house with Allied retaliating by having its men parade in front of Loew's Grand and RKO's Fordham.

Despite the picketing, Local 306 headquarters insist this will have no bearing on negotiations for merging the two unions. It was also stated that as soon as Local 306 and Allied are linked, Empire will be brought into the combine.

HOLLYWOOD, March 19.—Hal Roach has signed Fred Newmeyer, director, to a new long term contract. No assignment has been given as yet.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, March 19

FROM his seat, the double feature market has completely ravaged the two-reel comedy field. After years at it and a reputation in standard comedies, Hal Roach, who has been reading the signs, has given up that ghost for other plans. For next season, he contemplates six features and twelve "Our Gang" comedies, each in one reel. Anyone at all alert would have seen the gradual compression in the two-reel market, and Roach, of course, has been alive to it. . . .

As a matter of fact, he has been moving in his new direction gradually. Currently, his commitment with M-G-M provides for only twenty-four two-reelers broken up into three series of eight Todd-Kellys, Charley Chase and the "Our Gangs" as against the time, not so far distant, when Roach made forty-two with regularity. He has, moveover, lost none of his faith in the salability of comedy. "I see a great demand for comedy next season, but not necessarily in two-reel form. It has been my idea to make four-reelers on the theory they would replace the second feature, but the sales department in New York told me they wouldn't sell," he stated. . . .

Roach shed no light on the reasons leading to his conclusion that next year will reflect a more pronounced demand for fun. It has always been our own thought that comedy is a staple in this business, sensitive in no clearly defined manner to changing tastes like the gangster or any other sort of cycle, although laugh pictures are not easy to turn out. In Hollywood, the impression, hardly new by this time, prevails that they are the most difficult of all. Hoping, therefore, to furnish a substantial percentage of the nation's giggle quota, Roach is quite ambitious about his feature intentions. . . .

Two of the six will star Laurel and Hardy, while a third with them is not remote. The remaining contributions will include several from Patsy Kelly, who has just finished "Kelly, the Second." The Laurel and Hardy features run to a surprising gross, the domestic figure, as usual, varying with the quality, and the foreign going places essentially because the comedy pair is in them. These and the "Our Gangs," cut to one reel, will hit the Metro program next season under a rearranged contract with Roach, who, years ago, signed with the distributor and has been running on season after season under the general provisions of the original pact. . . .

Not much is heard about shorts in Hollywood today, but a good deal about the double features which have caused them such hurt. One of the leading producers of shorts asked us what the reward for making good abbreviated attractions was these days. Our reply, which seemed to impress him not too convincingly, set forth that merit will seek and find its level, regardless of footage. Once having spouted our wisdom, highly perfunctory in this instance, we began to wonder about it. We speculated in our mind if the conclusion was entirely accurate. . . .

For aside from the newsreel which is always a "must" and the Disney cartoons, there is a serious question whether exhibitors will give quality in shorts its proper recognition. The question was a moot one in the days when single features were around. Now that twins have so largely supplanted them, the average show leaves little time for a one or two-reeler apart from the two lucky exceptions mentioned earlier. That some shorts are far better than the second feature is undeniable, but it doesn't help them anyway. Exhibitor lethargy is one reason. Fear of upsetting an apparently satisfactory policy is another. Indifference to the maximum in results is a third. The combination has well nigh completed its job of bottling up short subject outlets and, in this specific direction, stifled further progress in production. . . .

Ampa Names Seven To Elect Officers

Although 15 names were suggested, the seven members to be elected to the Ampa nominating committee yesterday were: Charles Leonard of Universal, George Gerhard of Cosmopolitan Prod., Ralph Lund and Rutgers Neilson of RKO, Ray Gallagher of Quigley Publications, Tom Waller of Paramount, and Milton Silver of National Screen Service.

Those who lost out included Bert Adler, Arthur Jeffrey, Herb Berg, Vincent Trotta, Barrett McCormick, Charles Curran and Charles Alicoate.

Because of his splendid work in connection with the Naked Truth Dinner and Movie Studio Party last Saturday, Ralph Rolan of March of Time was made an honorary member. Elections will be held April 16.

See No Ascap Trial Until Congress Ends

No likelihood of a final disposition of the Government's monopoly trial against Ascap is foreseen by attorneys identified with the case until after adjournment of the present session of Congress, at which time the fate of the Duffy Copyright Bill probably will have been settled, it was stated yesterday.

The Attorney General's office and Nathan Burkan, counsel for Ascap, have been working on stipulations of facts in the case since trial of the suit was stricken from the Federal court calendar here last fall. With the stipulations completed, they will be presented to a Federal judge at some future date for determination as to whether or not sufficient causes of action remain to resume the trial. Present indications are that this will not be done during the current session of Congress while the possibility of regulatory legislation directly affecting Ascap remains. The passage or defeat of this legislation is seen as having a direct bearing on the continuance or dismissal of the Government's suit.

Barcelona Dispute Remains Deadlocked

BARCELONA, March 19.—After a stormy session before a Government labor head, arbitrators of the M-G-M exhibitor dispute were deadlocked today. The cause of the stalemate is said to be a disagreement over conditions for fulfillment of prior contracts.

RKO, which up to now has kept aloof from Mutua, has advised the local Film Board of its intention to join. Regardless of the RKO move, Mutua has voted its support to M-G-M.

M-G-M foreign executives at the home office have not been in touch with the Barcelona situation in the last few days and cable advices reporting the deadlock were said to be news to them.

Warner Subsidiaries File 12 Music Suits

Warner music subsidiaries yesterday filed 12 additional suits against radio broadcasting stations and cafes here and elsewhere, alleging infringement of copyright in the unlicensed performance of Warner-owned music.

Defendants named in the actions are Dempsey's restaurant, Greenwich Village, Inc., The Libertino and Stations KTFI, WDSU, WOWO, WTOC, WTAL, WSPD, WHIO. Damages ranging from $250 to $5,000 are asked in the actions.

Sharp Back at Work

HOLLYWOOD, March 19. — Henry Sharp, Paramount cameraman who was badly injured in a plane crash last spring with other Paramount people flying to Annapolis, has returned to work. He is photographing "Early to Bed."

Krimsky Sets First

John Krimsky has bought for independent production the screen rights to "High Winds in Jamaica," published here as "The Innocent Voyage." It will be made as the first of a series of three for 1936-37 planned by Krimsky.

Harry Cohn Adds to Holdings, SEC Shows

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Acquisition in January by Harry Cohn of 1,730 shares of Columbia Pictures common through voting trust certificates and 37 shares of the stock itself is shown by the semi-monthly report of the Securities and Exchange Commission, issued today. At the close of the month, it was shown, Cohn held 1,565 shares of common and 70,968 shares through voting trust certificates.

Reports on Universal Pictures for January showed the acquisition of 100 shares of common by Samuel Sedran, New York, which represented his total holdings at the close of the month; and the disposition by Willard S. McKay, New York, of 30 shares of special cumulative first preferred, leaving him with 317 shares. The Wilkay Holding Corp. disposed of 50 shares of the preferred, apparently its entire holdings.

A report for December showed that McKay disposed of 532 shares of Universal common, bringing his holdings down to 168 shares and also of 46 shares of second preferred, his entire holdings.

S-P Prod. Chartered

DOVER, Del., March 19.—S-P Prod., Inc., has been formed here to deal in films of all kinds, listing capital stock of 100 shares, no par value. The incorporators are Russell H. Wilde, Howard A. Seitz and David Klinger of Brooklyn.

Form Two Companies

ALBANY, March 19.—Two new companies formed here are: Hatikvah Amusement Corp., by Herman J. Rubenstein, Sophie Dollinger and Alexander Kronhart, and Beacon Prod., by Lillian Zucker, Anne Cohen and Herman Wald.

Agreement on RKO Claims Is Approved

Stipulations providing for the allowance of 18 creditors' claims against RKO for a total of $2,427,000 have been approved by Federal Judge William Bondy.

The stipulations were entered into by Irving Trust Co., as trustee of RKO, after lengthy negotiations with the creditors, conducted by Donovan, Leisure, Newton & Lumbard, counsel to the trustee. The claims were originally filed for a total of slightly more than $3,000,000 and comprise the largest single claim group disposed of in the RKO reorganization proceedings to date.

Judge Bondy took no action on an amended stipulation for the allowance of the late S. L. (Roxy) Rothafel's claim against RKO, which was originally filed for $231,500 plus the value of 10,000 shares of RKO Class A stock. A stipulation for the allowance of this claim at $179,271 had been made at the time of Rothafel's death, last January. However, inasmuch as the claim was based on an uncompleted contract, the settlement stipulation was submitted to Judge Bondy for amendment to cover the period of the contract only up to the time of Rothafel's death. This amendment is still under consideration by the court. No action, likewise, was taken by the court on the stipulation for the allowance of a claim by Alfred E. Fiegel at $11,629.

An application by the RKO common stockholders' protective committee for leave to intervene in the RKO reorganization proceedings has been made in U. S. District Court by Sullivan & Cromwell, attorneys for the committee. The application was referred to Judge Bondy for hearing today. Leave to intervene was recently granted to an independent RKO stockholders' committee.

Inactive Unit a Bankrupt

The Memphis Orpheum Co., an inactive subsidiary of RKO, yesterday filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the Federal District Court here. The company formerly operated the Orpheum at Memphis, which had the distinction of showing the heaviest individual losses of any theatre in the RKO fold, company officials said.

A bankruptcy schedule is now being prepared which is expected to show Stadium Theatres, also an RKO subsidiary, to be the largest creditor of the bankrupt. Memphis Orpheum will be dissolved under the bankruptcy proceedings.

Bankay Is Dissolved

ALBANY, March 19.—A certificate of dissolution has been filed here for Bankay Amusement Co., New York.

Western Surprise

Hollywood, March 19.—"Powder Smoke Range," directed by Wallace Fox for Radio, is a seven days' wonder at the studio, in that, after playing neighborhood houses and small towns since last September, it was booked into the Astor, in New York, on a single bill.

And raked in $6,000 for the week of March 7!

Brides Are Like That

Warners release of First National production, supervised by Bryan Foy. Directed by William McGann. Screen play by Ben Markson. From the play, 'Applesauce,' by Barry Conners. Photography by Sidney Hickox. Assistant director, Carroll Sax. Dialog director, Harry Seymour. Cast: Ross Alexander, Anita Louise, Joseph Cawthorn, Kathleen Lockhart, Gene Lockhart, Richard Purcell, Mary Treen, Joseph Crehan, Frank Darien, Robert Emmett Keane, Kay Hughes. Previewed at Warners Hollywood. Running time, 67 mins.

Comes as near perfection in sprightly, heart-warming comedy as the average diversion seeker will find. And if it doesn't return handsomely on the investment it will be because of inadequate selling.

Freely adapted from the Barry Conners play, 'Applesauce,' the screen version is a happy collaboration by Bryan Foy, who has given it perfect production coaching in every respect; by Ben Markson with a sparkling and poignant screen play; by the delightfully idyllic teamwork of Ross Alexander and Anita Louise and their able support, and by William McGann, whose direction crisply captures and delicately balances all the richly human comic and romantic elements.

For Ross Alexander and Anita Louise, and for Director McGann the picture certainly marks hightide. To expound the amusing tribulations of a young bridal pair beset by the harsh practicalities of a world represented by their elders and guardians, two youngsters couldn't have been found in the film roster who might better have done the job than Alexander and Miss Louise. This is intelligent use of talent by Warners-First National, and the two young leads have taken every advantage of the opportunity. Alexander's boyish, ingratiating personality will endear him to women particularly, young and not so young, and he plays the role of the applesaucer, who believes honeyed words are worth more than gold, with delicate skill and persuasive romantic manner. Part should put him in high demand, especially for pictures appealing to youth.

Miss Louise complements with charming appeal as the ingenue torn between the ardent lovemaking of the glib young man and the practical, plodding doctor, Richard Purcell. She reveals fine, facile talent.

Joseph Cawthorn, as the applesaucer's irascible uncle, fed up on his free spending-without-spinning, nephew contributes his standard tongue-twisting character, unleasing plenty laughs and a humorous gustiness. Gene Lockhart and his wife, Kathleen Lockhart, are playing together for first time in pictures, are a comic combo standout in their domestic squabbles as girl's parents. Customers will want to see more of their teaming. Lockhart's valid character antics are especially effective for wow laughs. Richard Purcell, playing the straight and deliberately dull-witted antagonist to Alexander does a capital job. Mary Treen is in for good short role, as is Joseph Crehan. Kay Hughes is bright and clear-cut in role of Miss Louise's temporary rival. Frank Darien and Robert Emmett Keane ably complete well selected cast.

Ben Markson's script, sparkling with well-selected dialog, is a top job of writing, blending comedy with constantly entertaining story advancement, keeping characters legitimate in the homespun-idyllic mood of the piece, and beautifully rounding his scenes with nice emotional quality and the genuine feel of youth in the love scenes.

William McGann's direction is always crisp, well in hand, alert to every value, deftly balaned and timed. And in both direction and writing, a lilting cheeriness and buoyancy has been kept as essential quality, to send audiences out in happy amusement.

Technically the picture is well put up, with Sidney Hickox's photography rating high, and dialog direction by Harry Seymour deserving very honorable mention.

A First National Picture with Ross Alexander Anita Louise • Joseph Cawthorn • Gene and Kathleen Lockhart • Directed by Wm. McGann damage is so widespread and thousands are homeless exhibition is hard hit.

Floods Leave Theatres Hit In Many Spots

Warner houses were closed in Troy, Wheeling, New Haven, Hartford and Pittsburgh.

Erpi said yesterday that an emergency parts depot has been established for the flood area in Western Pennsylvania and a crew of emergency engineers are on hand to install new equipment or repair damaged equipment wherever needed as soon as the flood subsides. The emergency service is expected to minimize delay in reopening theatres in the stricken areas.

Pittsburgh Waters Recede

PITTSBURGH, March 19.—Waters had receded to the street level in the downtown section here today, but there was no indication when theatres might be able to reopen. One Loew manager spent last night in the balcony with 40 patrons.

Harry Kalmine, Warner district manager, hastily took up carpets and chairs and moved them into balconies to protect them. It is believed this saved valuable furnishings at the Stanley and William Penn.

Comerford Houses Hit

WILKES-BARRE, March 19.—Seven Comerford houses here faced the prospect of closing tonight as the Susquehanna continued to rise.

The circuit already has houses dark in Williamsport, Kingston, Plymouth, Milton, Towanda and Sunbury.

Southern N. Y. Emerging

SYRACUSE, March 19.—With the flood subsiding somewhat in cities and towns in southern New York along the Pennsylvania border, theatres in Binghamton tonight were receiving and exhibiting films which went through to the affected area after encountering some difficulty en route.

The Ritz, Cameo and Sun in Binghamton were under water and no performance was given. The other 12 houses were open. Horlacher's Film Delivery Service reported difficulty, but nevertheless was getting prints through to houses in the affected areas.

Ohio Houses Operating

CLEVELAND, March 19.—Film delivery service from here was uninterrupted, air express continuing delivery where roads were impassable for trucks. Exchanges report delay up to 40 hours in the return of prints. No houses in the surrounding territory have been reported closed.

South Now Better Off

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Receding waters and emergency road repairs have made possible the delivery of films to all theatres in this section. Houses in Cumberland, Maryland, which was hardest hit by the flood, will probably remain closed until Saturday or Monday, since lack of adequate power and their damaged condition make operation impossible. Access to the city is made via Bedford, Pa.

The flood threat to Washington is abating, but high water and flooded approaches have resulted in the closing of the principal bridges, leaving the Key Bridge as the only exit to southern points.

Routes to the eastern shore are now being made via Annapolis, while Newport News is being served by way of Norfolk.

New England Carries On

BOSTON, March 19.—With parts of New England hard hit by devastating flood conditions, the film industry in this part of the country tries desperately to continue in the face of odds which are at times insurmountable. Many theatres in various sections have been actually flooded while shipments of film to hundreds of others have been slowed up or prevented entirely by washed out railroads or highways.

Three of the five trucks of Interstate Film Transfer are marooned while all of the five trucks of Film Transportation Company of Hanover are out of commission. In sections where the roads are open, delivery services during the past few days have been handling product for a week in advance.

The Boston & Maine is not running beyond Lewiston, Me. on one of its lines, nor beyond Augusta on the other.

The wrecking of dams has darkened many spots. Power plants have failed in Rumford and Livermore Falls, Me. In some of the affected areas theatre patronage has reached the disappearing point.

Mack Gets Six More Midwest G. B. Spots

CHICAGO, March 19.—W. V. A. Mack, recently appointed mid-western division manager for G. B., has been given six additional exchanges to handle in this territory. His office now supervises exchanges in Chicago, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Omaha, Des Moines, St. Louis and Cleveland.

Mack has just returned from a visit to these various branches during which time he made several changes in personnel. At Des Moines George Hartley of Dallas replaced Lee Durham, resigned, as manager of the Des Moines exchange.

Beilenson on Coast

HOLLYWOOD, March 19.—Lawrence W. Beilenson, attorney for the Screen Actors' and Writers' Guilds, arrived here today by plane and went into conference with members on the proposed English legislation designed to ban American writers from Great Britain. Writers' Guild officers have been asked to stand by for an emergency call.

Goldwyn Using a Train

LOS ANGELES, March 19.—Samuel Goldwyn is using a 58-foot trackless train to exploit "Strike Me Pink" for the benefit of independent exhibitors who have booked the Goldwyn product in this territory. The train is driven by Earl R. Collins, and theatre tieups are arranged by Ben Fish. The train will also be used for other Goldwyn pictures.

with B. & K.'s Metropolitan. Both are located in the colored district.

In addition, Warners within the next few weeks will start building a new 1,500-seat theatre in an outlying district of Chicago.

Coston, who has been in town conferring with Joseph Bernhard, returned to his headquarters yesterday afternoon by plane

Aside from the Chicago expansion, Warners intend to build a new house in Paterson, N. J.

Pool Two in Wisconsin

GREEN BAY, WIS., March 19.—Harold J. Fitzgerald, operating head of the Wisconsin Amusement Co., is pooling the Orpheum and Strand with H. Grand's Bay. The Orpheum and Bay are first run and will continue this policy under Fitzgerald's supervision.

DeKalb Houses Pooled

CHICAGO, March 19.—Fred Anderson of the Anderson circuit downstate has closed the Barb in DeKalb and has entered into a pooling arrangement with C. G. Lekander, owner of the Fargo there. Anderson also operates the Egyptian in DeKalb. The Barb was remodeled last fall and is one of the most modern theatres in this part of the state.

General Theatres' New Setup Operative

The plan of reorganization of General Theatres Equipment, Inc., has been declared operative, subject to the approval of the Chancery Court of Delaware, by the reorganization committee, of which Arthur W. Loasby is chairman.

The total of debentures and claims deposited with the committee is approximately 88 per cent of the total claims allowed, it was said. Although this is slightly less than the total required under a provision of the plan as a condition for participation in it by Chase National Bank, the bank has waived that condition. The Chase agreement to participate includes arrangements to loan the new company $2,000,000 for the reorganization and to turn over to it all collateral held by the bank for company indebtedness, and to grant options on a maximum of 158,313 shares of preferred and 79,157 shares of common of Twentieth Century-Fox stock. Such options are to be distributed directly to debenture holders and other creditors depositing under the plan.

Weiss Completes Cast

HOLLYWOOD, March 19.—Louis Weiss of Weiss Prod., Inc., has completed casting of "The Clutching Hand," 15-episode serial. Rex Lease, Ruth Mix, Marion Shilling, William Farnum, Mae Busch, Robert Frazer and Mahlon Hamilton have the leads.

Stubblefield on Leave

LOUISVILLE, March 19. — Flynn Stubblefield, for the past five years manager of the Fourth Avenue Amusement Company's Strand, has been granted a leave of absence due to illness. He will leave shortly for Arizona.

which Twentieth Century-Fox has a 42 per cent interest. Consolidated net income of National Theatres and its voting controlled domestic subsidiaries was $2,192,194 for the year ended Dec. 28 last. The interest of Twentieth Century-Fox in National's earnings is equal to $920,721, which would raise the earnings of Twentieth Century-Fox to $4,483,808, equal to $3.30 per share on the preferred and $1.99 on the common.

Gross revenues of the company for the year amounted to $43,942,678, compared with $37,546,586 for the previous year, an increase of $6,396,092. Current assets are listed at $26,644,572, and current liabilities at $6,260,522, including $1,696,600 five-year six per cent convertible debentures maturing April 1, 1936. Fixed assets after deducting reserves for depreciation total $10,179,300. The net worth was listed at $43,679,123, including earned surplus accumulated since April 1, 1933, of $6,096,947.

Hinman, Plainfield, Wins Model Contest

I. B. Hinman of Plainfield, N. J., has been awarded first prize for his "Mutiny on the Bounty" model at a luncheon at the Astor. William R. Ferguson, exploitation head of M-G-M, had Lowell Thomas, Gordon Grant and Jack Wenner as judges.

Lawrence Kelmel of Kansas City was given second honors, while C. P. Krupp of Akron, was third. There also were 10 honorable mentions.

Of the 10,806 models submitted, 39 were exhibited in addition to President Roosevelt's miniature.

Attending the luncheon were Si Seadler, William Costa, Capt. Vollney Phifer, William Scully, Dave Levy, Mel Heymann, Phil D'Angelis, James P. Cunningham, Marion McCall, Elias Sugarman, Don Mersereau, Lou Guimond, Tom Hamlin and others.

Honorable mentions were given George W. Hayman, Lynbrook, L. I.; Waldemar Onanheim, Honolulu; Raymond Dugynski, Minneapolis; M. A. Brule, New York City; Col. F. Wing, Colorado Springs; Robert Rose, New Orleans; Jack Smith, Los Angeles, E. J. Whetzle, Buffalo, J. Q. Groot, Detroit; and James Gaiangos, Jersey City.

Respondents Default In Two Arbitrations

Complaints filed by Paramount and U. A. against independent exhibitors for breach of contract were defaulted yesterday when the respondents failed to put in an appearance before the local arbitration board.

One of the complaints was filed by Paramount against the New Ozone, Ozone Park, L. I., for $24 for failure to continue payment on shorts under the weekly payment plan. The second case was that of U. A. against the Model, Brooklyn.

Guild Refuses Bid For New Agreement

organization requested that the managers reduce any suggestions for amendments to or clarification of the present agreement to writing for consideration by the guild.

Howard's letter explains his organization's stand in stating that suggestions from the League of N. Y. Theatres were considered by the guild in drawing up the agreement which became effective on March 1. The letter adds that "in view of the fact that no organization of New York managers has the power to bind its members, and further because our contracts are made with individual managers, we do not feel that anything will be gained by the conference to which you invite us. We must ask your committee, therefore, to reduce its recommendations to written form so that we may consider them along with those we have received from managers not members of your association."

The League of N. Y. Theatres, last week, authorized its contract committee to seek either the negotiation of a new agreement or arbitration of disputed sections of the present one. The League stated that if the guild refused both procedures it would draw up its own contract and use that exclusively.

The principal objections of the managers to the guild's new agreement are centered on the provisions increasing the author's participation in the proceeds from the sale of film rights to stage plays to more than the former 50 per cent, where the proceeds amount to $30,000 or more.

RKO to Capitalize On Academy Awards

San Francisco, March 19.—Seeking to capitalize on the Academy award winners, the RKO circuit shortly will double feature a national revival of "Of Human Bondage" and "The Lost Patrol." The former has Bette Davis, who won the '35 statuette for "Dangerous," in the feminine lead and the latter was directed by John Ford, who won last year's best direction award for "The Informer."

William Wolff, local RKO exchange manager, suggested the plan to N. J. Blumberg while the latter was here. Blumberg conferred with Ned E. Depinet in Los Angeles and the idea was voted in. Blumberg is now in Rochester and will reach New York Saturday.

Jones Will Miss Play

Denver, March 19.—Robert Edmund Jones, producing an all-color film for Pioneer, will not be able to direct this year's production at the old Opera House in Central City as he has done for the past four years. The film will keep Jones in Hollywood. Backers of the annual Central City Play Festival are looking for a new director and star for this summer's show.

Margaret Sullavan Hurt

Hollywood, March 19.—Margaret Sullavan suffered a broken arm as a result of a fall here today at the Paramount Studios and was rushed to Cedars of Lebanon Hospital.

Sets Date to Hear Reorganizing Plan

St. Louis, March 19. — Federal Judge George H. Moore on April 3 will consider the proposed plan of reorganization of Theatre Realty Co., operating the Fox and the adjoining Humboldt Building. Under terms of the plan the holders of $4,447,000 in defaulted first mortgage bonds would acquire the leasehold on the Fox and the fee to the Humboldt Building. The plan was submitted to the court by a committee representing about 75 per cent of the bondholders of Theatre Realty, which has pending a petition to reorganize under the amended bankruptcy laws.

The bonds, issued by Theatre Realty, a subsidiary of Fox Theatres, have been in default since Oct. 31, 1931. The plan calls for leasing the house to Fanchon & Marco at an annual rental of $104,000, plus 15 per cent of the gross receipts. F. & M. has operated the house since January, 1934, under a lease. To provide working capital and pay reorganization expenses they would take a new first mortgage of $250,000 on the Humboldt Building.

Ohio's Film Library Gets 1,200 Subjects

Columbus, March 19. — B. A. Aughinbaugh, superintendent of visual education, who installed the first school room projector 25 years ago, has built up the state film library to 1,200 different subjects, valued at $60,000. He has added 300 since last September, and expects to acquire 2,000 more during the current year.

As a result of enactment of legislation several months ago, schools now may borrow films and lantern slides without cost. Although only scientific subjects are provided with sound for class rooms, Aughinbaugh expects to have sound pictures of historical highlights.

Development of visual education in Ohio has been fostered by an increase of censorship fees from $1 to $3 per 1,000-foot reel.

Assume Operation

Essex, Md., March 19.—The New Essex here is now operated solely by the owners, Abraham and Louis Cohen. It was formerly supervised by Robert Scheck and Meyer Leventhal, executives of Scheck Theatrical Enterprises.

Move Made to End Copyright Hearing

Warner withdrawal from the music society was declared to have presented the worst problem ever faced by the radio industry.

Objection to the plan to discontinue further testimony was voiced by Gabriel Hess, general counsel for the Hays office. O'Malley is in favor of the Duffy Bill, but the producers and distributors want the $250 minimum damage clause retained as a deterrent to bicycling and other evils, and to that extent are siding with Ascap in its fight against elimination.

If the O'Malley motion for closing the hearings fails, the committeee, when it meets again March 24, will hear film representatives.

Maryland Exhibitors Hit 10 Per Cent Tax

for one year only to raise $3,700,000 for relief purposes.

Other speakers were: Frank Hornig, president M.P.T.O.; Frank H. Durkee, J. Louis Rome, Isadore M. Rappaport and Thomas D. Goldberg.

The points which the speakers sought to establish were that the tax would be paid in the end by the very people whom it is intended to help and that exhibitors cannot pass it on and yet cannot absorb it.

M. Roycroft, Baltimore Theatre stockholder, also spoke, saying that a tax of 10 per cent is unfair when there is a tax of only one per cent on other businesses. It was the speaker's opinion that exhibitors would be willing to pay a fair tax that would be applied equally to other forms of commercial enterprise.

Cincy WPA Shows Free

Cincinnati, March 19.—With eight persons employed, the Federal Theatre Project here is providing free entertainment for thousands of persons, according to a report of D. H. Heim, supervisor. A new Federal theatre has been installed in the Odd Fellows' Temple, with a seating capacity of 400. Since Dec. 19, the various units have given 24 shows, with audiences totaling approximately 8,000.

U. S. Firms Reach Tobis Agreement

that Tobis has received nothing for some time past from the American companies.

Under the new agreement the distributors on Wednesday paid Tobis in dollars for the royalties accrued to date. Tobis, on the other hand, agreed to seek authorization from the German monetary exchange control by which it may accept future royalties in the currency of the country in which they become due. If this authorization is obtained, Tobis will waive its demands for future payments in dollars and royalties due will be paid by American distributors from the funds which they may have on hand in the countries involved.

The agreement also provides for the payment to Tobis of only one dubbing charge, regardless of the number of versions made. In the past royalties have been collected by Tobis on individual versions. In addition, slight reductions in all charges were agreed to by Tobis.

The charges are established as amendments to the arrangements which have been in effect between the American companies and Tobis and are to continue as long as they are found to be practical. No definite effective period or expiration date for the agreement was set. The changes do not affect the socalled Paris agreement of 1928, which was never recognized by American companies.

Bank Night Ban Killed

Boston, March 19. — A bill introduced by Senator McCarthy of Lowell to make Bank Night illegal in Massachusetts has been killed. Another bill, this one to amend the lottery laws so that Bank Night, now before the Massachusetts Supreme Court, would be specifically legal, is pending following a committee hearing at which no opposition was advanced.

Seek Giveaway Tax

New Orleans, March 19.—Opponents of giveaways here are expected to ask the legislature when it convenes in May to set a license tax of $500 on each theatre for each night a game is used. A special tax will be asked on the companies handling the games and on local salesmen.

Police Hit Cash Night

Savannah, Ga., March 19.—City police have ordered a local theatre operator to stop Broadway Handicap, a cash night feature, in their crusade against gambling. The operator contended in defense that the stunt is no more gambling than the cash awards at other houses.

Plan St. Louis House

St. Louis, March 19.—The Leko Realty Co., newly organized syndicate, plans a theatre and store building at a cost of $100,000. It will be on the site of the old North Grand, closed for several years.

Town to Remove Theatre

North Attleboro, Mass., March 19.—The Elm, which has been taken over by the town for non-payment of taxes, will be torn down, according to an edict of town officials. Bids for the work are being received.

Those Good Old Days

Cincinnati, March 19.—Members of the Federal Writers' Project, working on a national and state theatre guide, came upon the following set of rules, dated May 1, 1830, posted throughout the abandoned Columbia St. Theatre here:

"Gentlemen will be particular in not disturbing the audience by loud talking in the barroom.

"Gentlemen in boxes and the pit must please remove their hats, refrain from sitting on the railings, and not lean forward from the side boxes during the performance.

"The cracking of nuts will be avoided while the curtain is up.

"Persons on the upper floors will be careful to avoid the custom of throwing nuts at persons on the lower floor, and those on the lower floors will refrain from climbing the box rails during the performance.

"Persons in the gallery are cautioned against the use of rude or boisterous language and striking the seats with sticks.

"Spectators will not be permitted at rehearsals or on the stage during the performance, as their presence distracts the attention of the managers and players."

Variety Club

Albany

ALBANY, March 19.—CHARLES A. SMAKWITZ, district manager of Warner theatres here, has been elected chief marker of Tent No. 9. He will succeed RALPH PIELOW.

Other officers named are: PHIL FOX, first assistant chief barker; RAY SMITH, second assistant chief barker; JAMES P. FAUGHNAN, dough guy; MOE GRASSGREEN, property man; directors, MOE SILVER, CLAYTON EASTMAN, ABE STONE, LOU GOLDING, HENRY GROSSMAN and PETE DANA.

Plans have been made for the installation to take place April 3.

Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, March 19. — ARTHUR M. FRUDENFELD, who wears the prefix of colonel (a real army one, and not the Kentucky variety) has proved tops in staging "amateur contests" for the club's affairs. It's a talent heretofore unsuspected.

New members include SAM FRANK, J. SCHNEIDERMANN and LOUIS STEWART.

HARRY RICE, U. A. exploiteer from New York and an associate member, is in town.

MAURICE WHITE and family have gone to Florida.

Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, March 19.—One of the largest crowds in the history of Variety Club's Monday luncheons—75—heard the talk on, and witnessed the demonstration of, television by C. W. GRIFFIN of First National Television, Inc.

Television reception definitely has been perfected, GRIFFIN told film men. A receiving set selling for $225 shortly will be on the market, he said. Heretofore the lowest price was $400.

"I don't believe television ever will replace films because people like crowds," GRIFFIN told his audience.

GRIFFIN envisioned a time when theatre circuits would buy the right to televise such events as the World Series. Football games, he said, already have been televised successfully.

Twenty guests attended, among them D. S. LAWLER, PHIL WILCOX, A. A. WARD, G. E. SWANEY, A. H. CHAFFEE, R. W. M'EWAN, AL CARF, H. F. BROWN, GEORGE MERRILL, H. B. GARBER, D. R. ALEXANDER, CHET CORDRY and LES TAYLOR, son of HARRY TAYLOR, who officiated at the luncheon.

DR. KURT ROSENFELD, one time minister of justice in Germany, who once fined ADOLPH HITLER, and who was banished upon Hitler's accession to power, will talk March 23.

Omaha

OMAHA, March 19.—D. V. McLUCAS, chief barker, says that on only the first Saturday of each month will the members have to pay for their lunches. All other Saturdays the food is gratis.

Century List to Cameo

BOSTON, March 19.—Cameo Screen Attractions, headed by Sam Davidson, has taken over distribution of product of Century Pictures. Henry Sperling continues as Century manager. The tieup gives the independent outfit approximately 80 features this year.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Great Ziegfeld"

(MGM)

SANTA BARBARA, March 19.—An amazed preview audience paid homage here last night to a picture that sets a new milestone in screen entertainment. It roared its approval of the production with its beauty and splendor of costumes, production effects and settings of eye-filling pageantry.

The production is replete with melodious music, specialty features and an abundance of excellent performances. Audience appreciation of the picture's heart-gripping human interest and the dramatic, romantic quality of its two motivating love stories, narrating in a welter of color and comedy Florenz Ziegfeld's mature career, would seem to indicate that the men and women who saw the picture considered it one of the greatest in years.

Ziegfeld, played by William Powell, is seen starting his career at the World's Fair ballyhooing Sandow, played by Nat Pendleton. His friendly rivalry with Dillingham (Frank Morgan) over billings starts here. Following his break with his father (Joseph Cawthorn), Ziegfeld goes to Europe, where he steals Anna Held (Luise Rainer) away from Morgan after hearing her sing "I Wish You'd Come and Play with Me." Beginning a thrilling romance, he takes Anna to New York and cajoles Morgan into getting Erlanger (Paul Irving) to produce a show starring her.

Ziegfeld and Anna marry and their life is idyllic. Then comes the idea to glorify the American girl and the birth of the "Follies." Paraded are the old stars, Eddie Cantor, Buddy Doyle, Will Rogers and Ray Bolger as himself, in episodes preceding the staging of the first big spectacle staircase number in which hundreds of girls are posed in tableaux, while the background music features "A Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody."

Then comes the discovery of Fanny Brice, who sings "Yiddle on Your Fiddle" and "My Man," which is followed by the "Look for the Silver Lining" spectacle. Drama enters as Anna leaves and divorces Ziegfeld after seeing him kiss Audrey Blair. Following more spectacle numbers, Ziegfeld meets and falls in love with Billie Burke, played by Myrna Loy. Their romance and marriage are equal in heart appeal to that of his life with Anna, and a touch of pathos is added as Anna telephones to wish him happiness.

Things go bad for the producer when he is unable to finance a show; his wife sells her jewels, and the production, featuring Harriet Hoctor in the animal ballet, is staged. It is a flop. Ziegfeld hears gossip that he is slipping, but he confounds the skeptics by presenting "Kid Boots," "Rio Rita," "Three Musketeers" and "Rosalie" in one season for his greatest triumph.

Then comes the market crash and he is alone, except for Billie Burke and Patricia. Morgan comes to see his physically-wrecked rival. Visions of his great successes dance before Ziegfeld's eyes as he dies.

The show is a veritable feast from an eye and ear standpoint, but it is more than merely a lavishly mounted girl-song-dance spectacle. Stripped of all its embellishing grandeur, it is dramatic romance with a heart interest that will thrill the emotions of all who see it. It marks the high spot in the acting careers of Powell, Morgan, Virginia Bruce and Myrna Loy, while it elevates Luise Rainer to front-rank stardom.

The excellence of Hunt Stromberg's production indicates that he was merely warming up in such pictures as "Naughty Marietta" and "Rose Marie." The direction of Robert Z. Leonard doesn't miss a single entertainment angle that either audience or showman could possibly want. In addition to the five modern song numbers by Walter Donaldson and Harold Adamson, there are eight or nine old time Ziegfeld favorites, souvenirs of his famous series of "Follies" and backed up by the incidental music from all of his shows. The dance ensembles directed by Seymour Felix are beauty plus.

With the story overflowing with glamour and excitement, the original screen play by William Anthony McGuire, writer of several "Follies," and Ziegfeld's lifelong friend, the picture is an all-audience attraction and a showman's show that is headed for big box-offices everywhere.

Production Code Seal No. 2,000. Running time, 124 minutes. "G."

Plans New Theatre

KNOXVILLE, TENN., March 19.—T. W. Smith, operator of the Rialto here, has incorporated Peerless Enterprises, Inc., which plans to build a theatre at Fountain City.

Swarthout Film Is Set

HOLLYWOOD, March 19. — Gladys Swarthout's next will be "The New Divorce," in which she will be supported by Herbert Marshall and Cary Grant. Mitchell Leisen will direct.

Short Subjects

"An Old Fashioned Movie"

(RKO-Van Beuren)

The entertainment in this number of the Easy Aces series lies not so much in the accompanying comment of the Aces pair as they presumably sit in the theatre and watch the picture, but in the subject matter, which reproduces a heavy "drammer" of early 20th Century vintage. Its film technique and its weighty dramatics should provide a chuckle or two for today's screen audiences. Production Code Seal No. 0908. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Neptune Nonsense"

(RKO-Van Beuren)

An entertaining color cartoon, featuring the lively Felix the Cat in search of a companion for his pet goldfish, this subject's best spots are in Felix's pursuit of a goldfish on the floor of the ocean. When he makes his capture he is "arrested" by the fish police, but Neptune supplies him with a goldfish from the ocean orphanage. Colorful and amusing. Production Code Seal No. 0846. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

M-G-M Sets 11 More "Ziegfeld" Openings

Eleven out-of-town openings for "The Great Ziegfeld" on a two-a-day policy have been set by M-G-M. A half dozen of the dates are scheduled for April 12. On this night the special will make its debut at the Chestnut St., Philadelphia; Cass, Detroit; Erlanger, Buffalo; American, St. Louis; Colonial, Boston, and Erlanger, Chicago.

On April 13 the picture will open at the Alexandra, Toronto, and six days later is scheduled to be launched at the National, Washington, and His Majesty's, Montreal. On April 26, the Nixon, Pittsburgh, and Hanna, Cleveland, start showing the musical.

General Motors Show Draws Akron Protest

AKRON, March 19. — The Akron I.T.O.A. at a recent meeting adopted a resolution protesting the "invasion into the amusement field" of General Motors Corp., which is sponsoring free shows advertising its products in cities over the country. The resolution calls the entertainment unfair competition.

A copy of the resolution has been sent to the general sales manager of General Motors at Detroit, who was informed that the exhibitor group will seek passage of a local ordinance to prohibit shows of the type backed by General Motors.

Motors Sets N. O. Show

NEW ORLEANS, March 19.—General Motors has leased the Municipal Auditorium here for a free show which will run from March 31 to April 4. Gordon Kirst and his orchestra have been signed to supply the music.

Raises Sunday Scales

HAMILTON, O., March 19.—The Palace, one of the local units of the Southio circuit, has advanced Sunday prices to 30 cents, all day. Weekday scale is 15 to 25 cents for matinee and night, respectively.

"Fleet," "Doctor" Indianapolis Hits

INDIANAPOLIS, March 19.—"Follow the Fleet" sailed along to a gross estimated at $12,000 in the Indiana, about $5,000 above average for the house.

"The Country Doctor" doubled the house average at the Apollo with $8,000. The picture was held another week. "Fleet" also was given a second week, too, but in the Circle.

First run business was good in all houses, top notch attractions and presence in the city of visitors to the American Bowling Congress tourney swelling receipts. The Indiana announced that double features would be run hereafter as a permanent policy. The Circle showed repeats on two films that were hampered here by the cold wave, "Captain Blood" and "Anything Goes."

Total first run business was $40,150. Average is $28,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 13:

"THE COUNTRY DOCTOR" (20th-Fox)

LYRIC—(2,000), 25c-40c, 7 days. Vaudeville. Gross: $9,100. (Average, $7,000)

"Fleet" Is $8,500 Leader in Lincoln

LINCOLN, Neb., March 19.—"Follow the Fleet" was the bonanza of the week here at the Stuart and clipped off a profit of $1,800 over average with an eight-day run to $4,900.

"Ah, Wilderness" at the Lincoln, gathered in the change in fancy fashion, taking $3,100.

The Varsity finished weakly with the second week of "Music Goes 'Round" at $600. The Orpheum's stage show, one amateur night and two pictures on a split, "Rose of the Rancho" and "Tough Guy," garnered $2,600, $500 up.

Total first run business was $12,200. (Average is $9,850)

Estimated takings:

Week Ending March 11:

"SUNSET OF POWER" (Univ.)

"Fleet" Grabs Washington's Top, $18,000

WASHINGTON, March 19.—"Follow the Fleet," at RKO-Keith's, crashed through to an $18,000 week, topping average by $7,400. The second week opened strong, and the gross is expected to better the same period of the earlier Astaire-Rogers picture.

"Anything Goes," at Loew's Fox, with "Fats" Waller and his orchestra and Roger Pryor in person on the stage, took $22,600 to better average by $1,700.

A return engagement of "Rose Marie" at Loew's Columbia grossed $5,400, over the first run average by $1,800. "Soak the Rich" held up in its second week at the Belasco, taking $2,200, only $800 under the first-week average.

"Wife vs. Secretary," which reached the Loew's Palace for a Saturday opening, received $19,800, over par by $3,900. The picture continued its run.

Total first run business was $90,200. Average is $76,700.

Estimated takings, exclusive of tax:

Fox Midwest Starts Doubling in Topeka

KANSAS CITY, March 19. — Fox Midwest has introduced double bills for the first time in Topeka, Kan., at the Orpheum. It will dual the last half of the week and show holdover first runs from the Grand the first half on a single bill policy. The Grand, Orpheum and Jayhawk are Fox's three first runs in Topeka.

Devoting half its time to extending the first runs which first play a week at the Grand, the Orpheum will have an accumulation of pictures too great to play off under the former single picture schedule, Fox Midwest officials at Topeka say.

Columbia Signs Dix

HOLLYWOOD, March 19. — Columbia has signed Richard Dix to a long term contract. Four stories are under consideration for the actor.

Big "Sutter" Start

San Francisco, March 19.—The local industry is expected to turn out en masse for the premiere of "Sutter's Gold" at the Alhambra, Sacramento, on March 25 which will be a gala event in that city.

"The Tenderfoot Special" will carry the San Franciscans to the opening at $10 a throw, including two meals on the train, hotel accommodations in Sacramento and theatre tickets.

Edmund Grainger, the producer, will come up from Hollywood for the event, as will his father, James R., and other Universal studio executives.

"Klondike" Grosses $47,500 First Week

"Klondike Annie" chalked up a $47,500 gross for the first week at the Paramount. "The Milky Way" is scheduled to replace the Mae West film on March 25. However, the Harold Lloyd picture may be put back a week if the current tenant holds up during the second stanza.

"Love Before Breakfast" garnered a nice $39,500 for the first seven days at the Roxy and is being held over. The Center, with "Song and Dance Man," ended with a weak $7,000. Fred Waring and his musicians are the stage attraction at the Paramount, while Pinky Tomlin headlines the Roxy stage show.

"Secretary" Leads Houston, $10,000

HOUSTON, March 19.—"Wife vs. Secretary" at Loew's State led the slate, although dropping somewhat under expectations with a seven-day total take of $10,000. Average is $7,000. "The Country Doctor," at the Majestic, was also a disappointment, although it upped the average there by $2,000, with a total of $9,000.

Major Bowes' Amateur unit sent box-office figures skyrocketing at the Metropolitan where the take was $13,000. The picture was "The Voice of Bugle Ann."

"Drift Fence" at the Kirby over a week-end broke even with $3,000, as did "Man Hunt" plus Bank Night for one day, with a take of $1,200. "It's a Great Life" was under by $200, grossing $1,300 for the three days midweek.

Total first run business was $35,000. Average is $26,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 12:

"DRIFT FENCE" (Para.)
KIRBY—(1,450), 15c-35c, 3 days. Gross: $3,000. (Average, $3,000)

"Secretary" $15,000 Hit In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, March 19.—"Wife vs. Secretary" was an outstanding hit at Loew's with a take of $15,000, which was $6,000 above par. It was held over.

"The Country Doctor" and "Tango" at the Fox had the biggest gross for the week, $15,750, but also a bigger par to overcome, $12,000. It was held.

"Escape from Devil's Island" and "Dangerous Intrigue" with Ed Lowry and his stage show at the Ambassador went very strong with a $12,900 take, which is $2,900 above par.

"Love on a Bet" and "Man Hunt" at the Shubert-Rialto also were in the money-making class with $7,350, topping par by $850.

"Wife" Pulls $19,700 Take, Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, March 19.—"Wife vs. Secretary" filled the money bags at Loew's Midland during an uneven week for first runs for a total of $19,-700, $8,200 over normal. The weather was excellent, but the flu epidemic had abated only a little. Opposition was "Personal Appearance," which drew well at the Orpheum.

"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," set in at the Newman four days after regular Friday opening, went to $10,-000 for the first five days, $4,000 over average. It was held.

"A Midsummer Night's Dream," roadshowed at Fox's class house, the Apollo, seven days, took a good $8,500.

"Love Before Breakfast" lasted for eight days at the Uptown and the take of $3,100 was an improvement over recent pictures, several of which were pulled after a few days. The picture took $1,100 the last four days, $400 under par for the period.

"Lady of Secrets" at the Tower felt the competition and dropped $2,000 under the theatre's average of $7,000. "Follow the Fleet" faded to $4,500, $3,500 under average, its second week.

"Doctor" a $7,500 Louisville Smash

LOUISVILLE, March 19.—"The Country Doctor" proved to be almost as big a draw at the Strand as the late Will Rogers, and grossed $7,500, over by 100 per cent. Male patrons were in the minority, but women and children kept the box-office busy all week, necessitating a holdover.

"Little Lord Fauntleroy" at the State also pulled, and took $6,500, on the profit side by $1,000.

"Pasteur" did well at the Mary Anderson on its second week, getting $3,-400. The picture received fine notices and evening shows were well attended, although the matinees were rather light.

Dual features at both the Rialto and Brown were light at the box-office. "Freshman Love" at the National was helped by Gertrude Avery's Diamond Revue, which was responsible for the bulk of the $3,800 gross.

Opposition was furnished by the General Motors Show held at the Armory. The weather has been springlike and pleasant, with the exception of occasional high winds.

Hamrick-Evergreen Managers in Shift

SEATTLE, March 19. — Hamrick-Evergreen managers will be shifted tomorrow, according to John Hamrick.

Frank L. Newman, Jr., will move from the Fifth Avenue to the Alder and Blue Mouse in Portland. He will be succeeded here by Andrew Saso, former Hamrick executive in Portland.

Herbert Sobottka, manager of the Orpheum here, will move to a similar position at the Orpheum in Portland. He will be succeeded by Don Geddes, at present manager of the Paramount here. Geddes will be replaced by Bill Hamrick, now assistant at the Paramount.

Jack Rosenberg, manager of the Coliseum here, will move to the Mt. Baker in Bellingham. He will be succeeded by George Appleby, another Hamrick manager from Portland. James Q. Clemmer and Dan Redden will remain as managers of the Music Box and Blue Mouse, respectively.

Close Ambassador Deal

BOSTON, March 19.—Eighteen features of Ambassador Pictures have been acquired for New England distribution by Academy Pictures exchange. Maurice Conn closed the deal with Phil Smith. Century Film formerly handled Ambassador product here.

THE PICTURE OF THE MONTH

H. N. SWANSON
Ace Redbook Critic, Catches New Capra Production at Sneak Preview and Writes Double-barreled Rave!

"Any time FRANK CAPRA makes a picture it's news! MR. DEEDS GOES TO TOWN, his very latest one, DESERVES ALL THE ADJECTIVES WE HAVE BEEN SAVING FOR JUST SUCH AN OCCASION AS THIS!

The script was done with a dash by Robert Riskin, Columbia's ace scenarist, from Clarence Budington Kelland's story. Easy laughs are combined with swift story progression in a smooth-as-silk manner. Enriched by the cream of Hollywood's character actors, the picture emerges as GARY COOPER'S BIGGEST VEHICLE IN A LONG TIME, and certainly JEAN ARTHUR'S BEST TO DATE!

Capra's sure and nimble touches are lavishly displayed in every single scene! I can't guess what its chances will be of snaring the ACADEMY AWARD THIS YEAR, but let me tell you, IT VERY DEFINITELY WILL BE A STRONG CONTENDER FOR THAT HONOR!"

Decision Is Reserved on N.Y. Sale Tax

Arguments Are Heard by Appellate Division

The Appellate Division of the N. Y. Supreme Court reserved decision following a hearing yesterday on the I.T.O.A.-sponsored application for an injunction to restrain the city from levying the two per cent sales tax on film rentals, and distributors from collecting it.

Melvin Albert of Weisman, Quinn, Allen & Spett, attorneys for the I.T.O.A., acting for the petitioners, Quinral and Harlou, Inc., operators of Brooklyn theatres, argued that the city already has ruled that film rentals are subject to the sales tax and that the injunction procedure is immediately necessary to prevent the collection of a "discriminatory" tax. He said an Illinois sales tax had been held unconstitutional for similar discriminatory levies.

Columbia May Join Mutua in Barcelona

BARCELONA, March 20.—Bernard J. Gottlieb, local manager for Columbia, has received word from Joseph Seidelman, head of the company's foreign department in New York, authorizing him to join Mutua, provided such a move can be arranged locally.

Under the present setup, all Columbia contracts with exhibitors must be approved by the Barcelona courts. However, this procedure will be eliminated if the company joins the local Film Board of Trade.

Columbia opened its office in Barce-

Dionnes See Film

Elzire and Oliva Dionne, parents of the quintuplets, visited the Music Hall in state yesterday, and saw their offspring from the luxurious vantage point of loge seats. Mrs. Dionne was delighted with the work of her children.

After the show they were escorted back stage, and through the lobbies and rest rooms and were entertained in the studio apartment on the top floor.

Formal Transfer of Universal Set in New York for April 2

The date of the transfer of Carl Laemmle's controlling interest in Universal to Standard Capital Co. and Charles R. Rogers has been definitely set for Thursday, April 2, it was learned yesterday. The purchasers had asked that the transfer be made on April 3, but the new date was agreed upon after communicating with Laemmle.

The $4,000,000 balance of the $5,500,000 option price will be paid to Laemmle in cash in New York on the day of the transfer. A meeting of stockholders to elect a new board of directors will be held shortly thereafter. New members of the board will include J. Cheever Cowdin and Lawrence Fox of Standard Capital; Rogers, C. M. Woolf and Herbert Wilcox. The latter two will be the representatives of the British financial syndicate which is participating in the purchase.

Production Leaps; 41 Features Going

HOLLYWOOD, March 20.—Producers turned on their heavy production guns here last week boosting studio work schedules to 41 features and five shorts. This is a noticeable increase over the preceding week which showed 37 features and no shorts being filmed. Nearly every studio registered a gain.

Paramount hit a new high with 12 films shooting.

Camera work was expected to gain grade for the next few weeks with 14 films scheduled for the sound stages within the next 14 days.

Columbia had two features in work,

Emanuel Cohen Unit To Have 4 Features

Major Prod., of which Emanuel Cohen is head, will make four pictures next season, the first to star Bing Crosby. Writers are now working on the initial script. The second will be with Mae West. Columbia will distribute.

Ben Piazza, executive assistant to Cohen, is prolonging his stay in the east another week. He is looking over suitable talent.

Another prominent star is expected to be signed by Major shortly, it was stated.

Fourteen in Color Are Set for Season

HOLLYWOOD, March 20.—Thus far this season fourteen features in Technicolor have been produced or are definitely set, while several more are included in tentative plans for the rest of the year. In addition, there are more than 100 color shorts planned for the year, including cartoons, travelogues and two-reel comedies.

Repair Need Seen Result of Floods

As flood waters poured down the Connecticut River valley with undiminished power, sweeping down on Hartford and forcing the closing of all Loew theatres in that city and in Springfield, Mass., exhibitors in other stricken areas counted the toll in damaged walls and interior fixtures, and saw ahead the probable necessity of closing their houses until renovation —in some instances extensive—could be completed.

No RKO theatres were closed, although the circuit's seven first runs in Cincinnati were prepared for emergencies over the week-end, as waters

Film Salaries Transmitted To the House

Internal Revenue Bureau Gives Detailed List

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Additional salary reports covering companies operating on a fiscal year basis, and showing payments made during the fiscal year ending in 1935, were filed here today with the House Ways and Means Committee by the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

Organizations in the nation's film industry filed detailed reports. Among the companies so represented are Columbia Pictures; Fox Films, California; Fox Films, New York; Twentieth Century; Crosby Productions, Inc.; Renraw, Inc.; Movietown News, Inc.; Samuel Goldwyn, Inc.; RKO Service Corp. and a number of the larger theatre circuits throughout the country.

The following list of these companies, in alphabetical order, shows executives and personnel affiliated with the organizations at the end of the fiscal year in 1935.

COLUMBIA PICTURES: Joseph H. August, $16,158; Sidney Buchman, writer, $40,016; John Buckler, actor, $18,916; S. J. Briskin, general manager, $139,750; Edward N. Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, March 20

RICHARD offered his kingdom for a horse when the screws began to tighten. Here, where stories, good ones, are sometimes classified with kingdoms, if not horses, the same sort of sacrifice stands any time day or night. This chronicler earlier reported the alacrity with which many producers stand willing to swoon once it is made possible for them to sink their hooks into what bears the earmarks of dramatic meat. Others there are, however, who breast the tide with another and different tale. It has to do with the Hollywood merry-go-round. . . .

Story editors, whose futures would be mud were any attempt made to essay their names, view the situation variously, for example. At the outset it is the correct statement to make that there is nothing resembling a plethora of material. It is further the fact to set down that the distance between story departments and producers often is so impossible to traverse that many properties either are muffed, disappear entirely in the shuffle, are relegated to another day, or lost to another studio. . . .

The yarns, tall and true, about the inordinate difficulties of galvanizing the distinguished upfront legion into action are many. This department prefers to back its observations with facts. Well, then, here are the facts of one situation in full regalia, except for names and places. This episode ties in a swell story, five producers and the man for whom they work, sometimes described as the head of the plant. The particular property was submitted, hurdled the story department, funneled through each of the five producers, all of whom voted it in, and got nowhere because the studio chieftain to date has not had the time or the inclination, perhaps, to read it. . . .

Then, too, there is constantly around the circumstance of the producer who simply will not read. He is either busy with too much detail, polo, the social life or a nervous system so attuned he cannot find the patience to go through. One top rater here practically never reads. Occasionally, he loosens enough to recline on the couch in his studio office while a secretary does his reading to him. Another type, painfully plentiful, is the man who cannot recognize good material when he sees it. . . .

This is no endeavor at labeling all of Hollywood with such shortcomings. Not at all. Whether predominant or not—we think not—many in the production melee put in long days at their stint to return to their shacks at night loaded down with scripts, synopses, treatments and novels as part of their constant search for something new, something different. They, at least, apply a genuine effort at trying, with varying results, quite naturally. . . .

The producer, in a larger way, understands the need for the base of his picture which is the story that picture has to tell. It would, therefore, appear only logical that those appointed to ferret out such material would be aces in their line. This does not seem to prevail in the majority of instances. Probably a classic in its way is the man, occupying a high post in a major studio which annually turns out a varied program, who has never heard of the Scottsboro case. He has not been out of Hollywood in years. Yet his is the disposal of suggestions from New York, his the almost final word on what his studio is or is not to produce. . . .

A more direct route from story to producer would dispose of part of the problem. In many studios, the circuitous course through which suggestions reach their goal either for acceptance or rejection and the space of time required to reach such decision is difficult to comprehend. Many things may and do happen and defy understanding. A few days back, to illustrate, one lot discovered a mere thirty minutes before preview time that it did not own the story rights to the completed film. How can this be? It was. . . .

Chaplins for Russia

Amkino has signed with United Artists for the showing of Charlie Chaplin's "City Lights" and "Modern Times" in Russia, the first time Chaplin sound films will be shown there. The deal was concluded here by Arthur W. Kelly, vice-president of foreign sales for U.A., and V. Verlinsky, Amkino president.

Seigel May Join Warners

Arthur J. Seigel, who has sold his half interest in the Cinema Circuit to Max A. Cohen, is reported rejoining Warners to handle the circuit's theatres in Milwaukee.

Seigel, previous to becoming an independent, was affiliated with Warners in New Jersey. He is a stepson of Albert Warner.

20th-Fox to Start Studio Enlargement

HOLLYWOOD, March 20.—A $4,000,000 construction program will be launched at Twentieth Century-Fox on April 1 in preparation for the consolidation of activities of both lots at the Westwood studio.

Plans include eight new sound stages of 237,000 square feet each; a three-story property building, 90 by 280 feet; new film vaults and cutting rooms, and a complete water system which includes wells and two reservoirs holding 360,000 gallons each.

Work is expected to be completed within four months under supervision of Robert Fairbanks, studio manager. Walter Strohm is chief engineer, and Joseph Baslon is engineer in charge of design.

Bank Night's Fate Up to Mass. Court

BOSTON, March 20.—The fate of Bank Night is now before the Supreme Court, to which convictions on lottery charges in both District and Superior Courts have been appealed. A bill to amend the lottery laws so as to make Bank Night legal in Massachusetts has been killed by the legislature. This action leaves the game situation in a highly critical state here.

Pending a decision in the Supreme Court, Bank Night has been withdrawn from most of the Bay State theatres.

W. T. Carr Succumbs

TRENTON, Ill., March 20.—W. T. Carr, father of Trem Carr, former Republic production head, died here last night as a result of injuries sustained in a recent automobile accident.

Trem Carr and Mrs. Carr sailed a few days ago on the Ile de France and were due in London today.

were rising in that section. Loew's theatres also were closed in Pittsburgh, where receding water left considerable theatre damage.

In Troy, N. Y., three Warner houses were closed, although the RKO Proctor, beyond the limits of the flood waters, remained open.

An exhibition problem faces neighborhood subsequent run operators in the cities affected by the flood, even though their theatres were beyond the reach of the waters. These subsequents will be forced to wait for product in many cases until first run houses, damaged, are reopened and play the product.

The Delaware River finally began to drop yesterday, bringing Trenton and other New Jersey towns out of danger.

Ohio Deliveries Cut Off

CLEVELAND, March 20.—Film delivery services operating out of Cleveland report train and truck services entirely cut off from Steubenville, Martin's Ferry and Bridgeport owing to unprecedented flood conditions. Delivery service to Canton and Akron is reported as normal.

Shenandoah Valley Hit

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., March 20.—This entire area of the Shenandoah Valley is eight to 10 feet under water, with many towns, including Winchester, Hagerstown, Cumberland and Staunton cut off entirely, and theatres in those situations seriously affected. Despite conditions here, however, the Paramount did excellent business with a show featuring a Major Bowes amateur unit.

Hartford Situation Acute

HARTFORD, March 20.—With many sections of New England paralyzed by flood conditions Hartford was hardest hit, with streets flooded, theatre auditoriums inundated and troops in control of the community. Thousands of houses throughout the New England sections are unable to get films, while others are setting holdover records by continuing to play what they have on hand.

Pitt Theatres in Ruins

PITTSBURGH, March 20.—Wreckage to theatres in the downtown district alone here is estimated at $5,000,000. The Stanley, Penn, Alvin and Fulton are in total ruins and will have to be entirely rehabilitated. This will probably take at least two months.

Bob Newkirk, manager of the Penn, is down with pneumonia as a result of exposure, while Ken Coffman, artist at the Alvin, is in Mercy Hospital for the same reason.

Radio Sets New Title

HOLLYWOOD, March 20.—Radio has selected "Make a Wish" as the title of the Edward Hartmann original recently purchased under the tentative title, "Twinkle, Twinkle." Leigh Jason will direct, with Lee Marcus as associate producer.

Jackson said the company intended to redeem half of the stock on May 1 at $110 per share, plus accrued interest, and that the remainder would be redeemed on May 1, 1939.

The Chicago Stock Exchange reported that only 1,840 shares were traded in 1933; 1,950 shares in 1934; 1,580 shares in 1935. The stock rose from a low of $15 in 1933 to $110 this year.

Joe Hornstein Takes On Motiograph Sales

Joe Hornstein has closed a three-year deal with Joseph B. Kleckner, president, and Walter Hirschfeld, vice-president and general manager, to handle Motiograph projectors exclusively in northern New Jersey, southern New York and eastern Connecticut.

The first installation will be in the new theatre Henry Sussman is building in Yonkers. It will be called the Central and will seat 1,000. It is expected to be opened March 25.

Kleckner and Hirschfeld were in Philadelphia yesterday and are due to return here today. They will leave for Chicago, their headquarters, over the week-end.

comptroller's office, opposing the application for the injunction, contended that the tax legislation itself provided a remedy for its rulings by making them subject to certiorari proceedings in the Appellate Division. T. Newman Lawler of O'Brien, Driscoll & Raftery, attorneys for the United Artists exchange, told the court that certiorari proceedings had been begun by the exchange already in opposing the levy made by the city against its rentals for the first three months of 1935. The Appellate Division is expected to hear the United Artists' appeal from the city's ruling some time next month. This procedure does not seek an injunction, but comprises an attempt to prove that film rentals are not properly subject to a municipal sales tax.

Albert said that if his application for an injunction was denied he would take an appeal to the Court of Appeals.

between now and Jan. 1: "Dancing Pirate," "The Life of Custer" and a story with a New York setting which is as yet untitled. Selznick International has on schedule "Garden of Allah" and "Dark Victory," both to star Merle Oberon. Selznick may make one or two others in color. Twentieth Century-Fox plans "Ramona." Walter Wanger, in addition to "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," plans "Spawn of the North," and possibly one other.

Alexander Korda and Henry Wilcox, in England, plan a minimum of two Technicolor features each this year. Paramount definitely has set "Good for Nothing" and tentatively "The Life of Buffalo Bill." Samuel Goldwyn declared recently that the planned "Goldwyn Follies" will be in color, and reports indicate that he may do "Hurricane" also in color. It has been reported as well that Warners are giving consideration to the production of "The Sea Hawk" in color, and Radio is said to be toying with the idea of doing a group of westerns in Technicolor.

"Robin Hood" $20,500

"Robin Hood of El Dorado" was a weak tenant at the Capitol last week, garnering $20,500 for the seven-day run. "Petrified Forest" and "Every Saturday Night" at the Palace ended with about $7,000. The Rialto, with "Tough Guy," tallied approximately $8,000, while the Strand on the second stanza of "Colleen" wound up with close to $12,000.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"O'Malley of the Mounted"

(Twentieth Century-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, March 20.—Once more the mountie gets his man and gets his girl, and once more George O'Brien gets his audience. This smoothly produced outdoor action film starts with O'Brien as the star sleuth of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police sent into the Canadian wilds to track down a vicious border gang and avenge the death of a fellow officer.

Pretending to be a desperado, O'Brien stages a fake jailbreak with James Bush, a member of the gang, who then leads him to the gang's hideout. Irene Ware, Bush's sister, aids in the escape and nearly upset's O'Brien's plan by going along. Stanley Fields, gang member, suspects O'Brien, but his suspicions are allayed when O'Brien stages a holdup. Dangers continue to beset the group until the gang is finallly rounded up, Bush is cleared of the murder charge and O'Brien gets the girl.

A good cast includes Victor Potel, Reginald Barlow, Dick Cramer, Tom London, Charles King, Olin Francis and Crauford Kent. From William S. Hart's exciting story Dan Jarrett and Frank Howard Clark did a neat screen play. David Howard directed. Best exploitation angle is that featuring the battle of wits by one man in the stronghold of outlaws.

Production Code Seal No. 2,077. Running time, 59 minutes. "G."

Brandt Circuit May Total 75 by Summer

With 51 theatres now in the Brandt circuit, negotiations are under way whereby a number of new units will be added and pooled, William Brandt has indicated. It is expected that by the time the new season gets under way the circuit will have around 75, Brandt added.

Admits Owing on Tax

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Marion Davies filed a stipulation with the Board of Tax Appeals here today conceding she owes the Government $30,000 plus interest, in additional income taxes for 1931. The Internal Revenue Bureau had charged her with a deficiency of $52,044. She had paid a 1931 income tax of $100,292.

The deficiency was assessed on $260,000 received by the actress from the Forty-five East Fifty-seventh Co. of which she was the sole stockholder. She contended that the money was part repayment of funds advanced by her to the corporation.

"M'liss" Next Shirley

HOLLYWOOD, March 20.—Dorothy Yost has completed the screen play of "M'liss," from the story by Bret Harte, and it will be the next Anne Shirley picture. Radio had four scripts in preparation, but Miss Yost was first to get an okay on a completed draft.

Anita Louise with Flynn

HOLLYWOOD, March 20.—Warners have assigned the feminine lead in "The Charge of the Light Brigade" to Anita Louise. The male lead will be played by Errol Flynn.

Variety Club

Cleveland

CLEVELAND, March 20.—COL. HARRY E. LONG, Loew theatre division manager, and COL. NAT HOLT, RKO theatre head here, will be kings for the day at the weekly luncheon Monday in the Hotel Statler. BEN LYON, Mayor HAROLD L. BURTON, Safety Director ELLIOTT NESS and others will be guests.

Keno games Saturday nights are proving popular, with JACK SCHULMAN, DICK DEUTSCH and NAT WOLF in charge.

Chief Barker I. E. SCHMERTZ and a party motored to Buffalo for the annual ball and banquet of the Buffalo tent.

Barker DEUTSCH and MRS. DEUTSCH celebrated their 13th wedding anniversary at a party in the Mayfair Casino.

Leonard Goldstein Quits

HOLLYWOOD, March 20. — Leonard Goldstein today resigned as executive assistant to Ben Goetz, Consolidated Laboratories, and accepted a similar post with George Hirliman Prod. He will leave for New York in two weeks and will then go to England to negotiate deals.

M. Sullavan Replaced

HOLLYWOOD, March 20.—Margaret Sullavan, who suffered a broken arm in an accident here yesterday, will be unable to work for six weeks. Paramount will borrow a feminine lead for "Hotel Imperial" in which Miss Sullavan had been cast.

McCormick Coming Back

HOLLYWOOD, March 20.—Barret S. McCormick, RKO advertising and publicity head, will entrain for New York tomorrow night, having completed several days of conferences here.

Chance Games Expanding In Many Sections

Giveaway Insurance Is New Development

Giveaways as a means of bolstering theatre attendance continue to hold the attention of exhibitors throughout the country, as numerous situations are expanding the use of chance games of some sort, and state and municipal authorities are taking cognizance of a new offshoot of the games, giveaway insurance, under which participants in giveaways are insured against loss if their names are called when they are absent from the theatre.

Following are the outstanding recent developments in various parts of the country.

Free Games Approved

NEW HAVEN, March 22.—Chief of Police Philip T. Smith and Assistant City Attorney M. Edward Klebanoff have agreed to approve Bank Night, Cash Night and all other games in which free participation is possible. No decision has been handed down

ITPA Protests Cuts In Electric Scales

MILWAUKEE, March 22.—A protest has been entered with the Wisconsin Public Service commission by the I. T. P. A. against the commission's recent order reducing the electric light rate for athletic and baseball fields.

The association charges the new rate is discriminatory. Under it, these fields pay a rate of three cents per kilowatt hour for the first 2,000 kilowatts and two cents per hour for all over this amount. It is charged that theatres pay for their electric current nearly double that which is charged athletic fields.

Reade Gets Mineola On Surrogate Lease

Surrogate James A. Delehanty has leased the Mineola, Mineola, L. I., to Walter Reade for a term of 10 years. Matty Chrystamas had been operating the house for some time. Reade will alter the house extensively, Leo Justin stated Saturday. About two weeks ago a fire caused considerable damage.

With the acquisition of the Mineola, the circuit totals 36. The Rialto, Asbury Park, is being converted into a market. The house has been open six weeks in the past two years, Justin said.

Board Changes Due March 30 In the MPPDA

Shifts in Major Company Personnel the Reason

Several new directors will be elected to the board of the M. P. P. D. A. at its annual meeting March 30, in accordance with the Hays organization's practice of including in its directorate the heads of member companies.

Executive changes in member companies of the M. P. P. D. A. during the past year have resulted in making four or five officials eligible for election to the organization's board. Leo Spitz became president of RKO in November following RCA's sale of one-half of its RKO holdings. John E. Otterson was elected president of Paramount following the reorganization of that company last June. George Schaefer was recently appointed vice-president and general manager of United Artists, the top eastern post in that company. R. H. Cochrane, executive vice-president of Universal, will become president, and J. Cheever

C. E. Elliott Forms China Roars, Inc.

HOLLYWOOD, March 22.—Clyde E. Elliott today told of the formation of a company under the Nevada charter to be called China Roars, Inc. He stated that financial backing has been arranged through a syndicate of western capitalists. Release is indefinite.

Elliott has obtained the sanction of the Chinese government to film a picture. He sails with a complete crew April 27, aboard the Chichibu Maru for Nanking where he will confer with officials regarding protection of his unit in the interior of China.

The company is entirely new and separate from the unit formed a year ago with a Columbia releasing setup.

F. & M. Darkens Big House in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, March 22.—Fanchon & Marco will close the Ambassador here on March 26, after the current week's show, for an indefinite period. Harry C. Arthur, F. & M. vice-president, declared the move was forced by an inability to obtain suitable product.

The theatre figures in the Government's action against RKO, Paramount and Warners, charging conspiracy, which is pending in Federal

Has Six Lined Up

With independent Broadway theatre operators hot after product for Easter Week, the Music Hall has six pictures from as many major companies tentatively lined up for April 10. So far W. G. Van Schmus hasn't decided on the attraction and the film companies involved are hoping for the best.

The attractions tentatively dated are: "Sutter's Gold," (Universal); "Captain January," (Twentieth Century-Fox); "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," (Columbia); "Desire," (Paramount); "Little Lord Fauntleroy," (U. A.); and "The Witness Chair," (Radio).

Expect Golder To Delay Dual Move in Phila.

PHILADELPHIA, March 22.—Benjamin Golder, local attorney, who was appointed amicus curiae by the U. S. District Court here to attempt to determine whether or not a conspiracy existed among distributors to restrict the exhibition of double features by contract prohibitions, will make no significant move in this capacity while the distributors' petition for a rehearing of the duals case is pending, in the opinion of members of the local industry.

Golder, who was attorney for Harry and Louis Perelman in the case which resulted in the district court pronouncing illegal the anti-double feature clauses in contracts, returned from a Florida vacation some time ago, but has made no request of local exchanges yet for any records from their files. Distributors' attorneys do not recognize any authority in Golder's appointment as "friend of the court" to examine their private documents and, it is learned here, any attempt

Poster Men's Board To Meet Wednesday

The executive board of National Poster Service Ass'n. will hold a special meeting Wednesday at the Lincoln to complete details in connection with the annual convention slated for April 18-19 in Chicago at the Palmer House.

Attending the local session will be Simon Libros, president, and George Aarons, secretary, Philadelphia; Louis Weinzimmer, Harry Schlitt and Edward Behrens, New York.

See Flood As Hard Blow to Film Grosses

Theatre Damage, Jobless To Affect Business

As flood waters began to recede in the stricken areas of New England, Pennsylvania and the Ohio Valley, theatre men were making efforts to take stock of the damage done to houses and foresaw a probable serious curtailment of grosses for the next several weeks, at least.

In addition to the necessity of closing for repairs in many instances, exhibitors are faced with a situation wherein thousands have been thrown out of employment, although only temporarily, thousands are homeless and many communities are confronted with the threat of disease, food and water shortages and the failure of power facilities. All potential theatre patrons, these thousands obviously will have little funds or opportunity to attend theatres.

Circuit executives were reluctant even to attempt to estimate the extent of damages to theatres or the amounts which would be required to put theatres in shape again, until it was possible to survey the situations affected.

Loew's reported that its two houses in Hartford were only slightly damaged, water having come into the cellars but causing little damage. The managers of the houses were able to move most of the equipment. The same was true in the one house in Springfield, Mass. Those theatres were closed, it was stated, because of

Pathe Still Holds $248,000 RKO Notes

Pathe still owns $248,000 of RKO gold notes, it was disclosed on Saturday in a stipulation entered into with the RKO trustee. The holding represents the last of more than $3,000,000 of notes issued in 1930 when RKO acquired the Pathe assets.

Approximately 50 per cent of the original issue was in secured notes and was turned over to creditor banks by Pathe in 1930 and 1931. The balance comprised $1,696,000 of unsecured notes, all of which with the exception of the $248,000 remaining, were sold to Time magazine in April, 1935. Pathe received $340,000, or approximately 20 cents on the dollar, from Time for the $1,448,000 of notes. The

Extend Restriction On German Theatres

WASHINGTON, March 22.—The president of Germany's Federal Film Chamber has indefinitely extended his decree prohibiting the erection of new film theatres, according to a report to the U. S. Department of Commerce from Assistant Trade Commissioner Rolland Welch, in Berlin. The original decree would have expired on March 31.

An additional clause provides that, in cases where building permission has already been granted, the permit expires unless the house is put in operation within six months after the permit is issued.

Vitaphone 88% Finished

Of the 130 Vitaphone shorts scheduled for 1935-36 release, 115 have been completed, 88 per cent of the list. Of the full schedule, 92 will be done at Sam Sax's Brooklyn plant and the remaining 38 at Warners Burbank studio on the coast.

Seigel Not for Warners

Arthur J. Seigel denied on Saturday that he had any intention of rejoining Warners for the purpose of handling the Wisconsin theatres. He said that reports to that effect were "embarrassing."

"Boulder Dam" has been booked into the Astor, starting Friday.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, March 22.

THE chariot, a quivering Ford, was bouncing over Beverly Hills' boulevards and dodging automobiles as your correspondent hurried Dave Selznick to a prior appointment. Between traffic lights, rolling hills and the need for speed, it was a precarious undertaking, this job of poking into the Selznick mind for approaches on matters, current and future, in the celluloid world. . . .

"With Hollywood tumbling over itself in the production of highly expensive negatives, don't you think it's about time to figure out how the money is coming back?" was one question as we beat a husky limousine to the crossroads. "I think the danger mark is reached on pictures costing one million," thought Selznick, his eyes on the road, not on us. "And yet, there is the case of 'Mutiny on the Bounty.' Look where that's going. I've made a number of pictures that cost a lot of money, but they've worked themselves out. Yet you're right in seeing a danger. The scramble for talent is responsible, but don't overlook the new competition coming from London. It's done considerable in sending up salaries. . . .

"The answer is percentages for the real stars, not percentages based on the net which nobody here will go for, but percentage on the gross. The agents—you've heard of them—are for percentages, but only on the take from the first dollar," he continued. "I know it's a difficult thing to work out under the current system with pictures sold in blocks, but it no longer is for me. My arrangement with United Artists allows me to approve sales and that, naturally, gives me control over the rentals I get for my pictures. You know, I can see how the adoption of percentages will work out. The genuine stars draw them in any way and regardless of the picture quality. These performers will be very apt to gravitate toward the better type of producer because there will be a greater degree of assurance in the quality of the attractions. This in turn, would obviously mean that the combination of star and producer will result in smash attractions. That, to carry it further, would mean a greater return to the star on his or her percentage split." . . .

Selznick has definite slants along other lines as well. "You may recall several seasons ago I struck a warning note on the cycle of costume pictures," he observed as interviewer and interviewed bounced along merrily. "Don't misunderstand. I think the costume attraction will continue, but only in moderation. There has been a flood of them in the last couple of years, perhaps too many. In parallel manner, the danger exists over classics. The good ones will get by, but something to watch out for is the filming of works of any noted author merely on the strength of his name. Dickens, for instance, wrote a lot of novels, but the public knows and remembers best only four or five." . . .

"Well, then, what's coming next?" was the query. Selznick replied he saw a trend toward biography. "The evolution there will be first, biography with a romantic thread intertwined. Later, but gradually, I see no reason why producers cannot turn to straight biography without necessarily dragging in a fake romantic story. I think the public will go for it." Between traffic worries, the time was found to ask, "Do you propose trying it?" The answer, "Yes, I do, but I cannot tell what the subject will be. Ideas are too often pilfered out here." This commentator seemed to recall he had heard of that in his ramblings around Hollywood. . . .

Immediately, this young and dynamic producer is rushing "The Garden of Allah" into production. Merle Oberon, whose tests in Technicolor turn Selznick breathless faster than you can read this, will be starred. Others in color will play a large part in his lineup what with John Hay Whitney and his Technicolor interests and his $750,000 investment in Selznick International Pictures. In this direction, Dave has a great deal of company. The first flush of success enjoyed by "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" has made the Hollywood consciousness keenly aware of the possibilities. . . .

Those possibilities nowhere, so far as could be discovered, embrace a long view. They are confined to an appreciation of the commercial value which no doubt is inherent in the first half dozen or so in color. This reporter goes anti-Whitney long enough to point up the strong probability that the uproar is very apt to subside after the rainbow has paid six visits or so at the box-office. Most of Hollywood, however, is excited no end and refuses to look beyond the end of its nose, red or not. Predictions that all pictures will be made in color in five years are as plentiful as the five dozen oranges anyone can buy for two bits, if he has the two bits. . . .

New Haven Criteria For Film Value Set

NEW HAVEN, March 22.—Local film study groups in the public schools criticize current pictures, as follows: (1) Does the picture come up to the boasts of their producers? (2) If it is a well-known novel, are the familiar characters portrayed as the author had intended? (3) Are minor points over-emphasized; are major points treated with indifference? (4) Do we find in the picture that the moral viewpoint, if there is any, is put across in the right way?

Criticisms are combined into a recommendation which is posted so that the school may be guided in its choice of current films.

The notes held by Pathe and Time rank in the RKO reorganization proceedings with the unsecured claims of general creditors.

Roberti-Kelly Teamed

HOLLYWOOD, March 22.—Lyda Roberti will be teamed with Patsy Kelly in the next Hal Roach comedy. Roach is seeking someone to replace Thelma Todd as Miss Kelly's partner and will try three different players on the three remaining pictures to come of the original series of eight Todd-Kelly comedies. Pert Kelton was tried in the sixth, Miss Roberti will be used in the seventh, and another player will be found for the eighth.

the failure of electric power in the area.

The Comerford houses in the eastern Pennsylvania section appeared to be the most seriously affected as a unit, 14 theatres having been hit in eight towns. No estimate of damage could be made for several days, it was indicated.

The Reade circuit, with five houses in Trenton, N. J., and two in Kingston, N. Y., reports business off at least 10 to 20 per cent because of the impeding of highway traffic. None of the circuit's houses is closed, however.

Offers Relief Programs

The 16mm. division of J. H. Hoffberg Co. has offered to furnish gratis a complete show, including features, shorts, projection equipment and operator, to any organization seeking to raise funds for the relief of flood sufferers.

Hartford Houses Damaged

HARTFORD, March 22.—With film shipments from Boston stranded as flood waters sweeping down the Connecticut valley washed out railroad rights-of-way and inundated highways, theatres in this city and neighboring towns are suffering serious damage. A great number of them are closed.

The waters of the Connecticut River rose above 36 feet on Saturday and caused much damage, with this city bearing the brunt of the ravaging torrent, and without telephones and lights.

Many theatres here were closed as well as stores. The Poli State, Astor and Crown were flooded. Loew's rushed pumps through from New York to Springfield, Mass., where the flood waters showed signs of receding. Crews were working night and day removing all seats from theatres in Middletown, Windsor, Collinsville and Thompsonville, towns in the path of the waters, where all houses were closed.

Delivery Service Maintained

PHILADELPHIA, March 22. — Horlacher Delivery Service, with headquarters here, reports that it has maintained its film delivery service in the Philadelphia and Washington flood area to all theatres which were able to present performances. The company also delivered to the far northwestern part of Pennsylvania, where houses usually get their film by rail. It was necessary on many occasions to travel as much as 100 miles out of the way to make deliveries, the company reported.

Close Houses in Ohio Town

MARIETTA, O., March 22.—The rampaging waters of the flooded Ohio River swept into this town on Saturday, covering the downtown streets with 10 feet of water and forcing the suspension of all business. Business houses and all theatres on Pomerox St. were boarded up.

Other towns along the river in this area were momentarily expecting the crest of the flood to strike, with the possibility that the downtown business sections will be in the direct path of the flood.

Further down the river Cincinnati was waiting anxiously, expecting the river to reach flood proportions today or tomorrow. However, no theatres are located in the immediate vicinity of the river. It is expected they will be safe unless the waters spread beyond expectations.

Mass. Houses Closed

LOWELL, Mass., March 22.—All theatres in this town and others along the Merrimack River are closed. Film deliveries are seriously impeded to those houses in the area which are able to remain open. Many of the houses, although not damaged to any extent by water, have been unable to open because of the failure of power lines.

15 Feet in Auditorium

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., March 22.—The Wilmer & Vincent Embassy here, forced to close the other night in the midst of the show, reported 15 feet of water in the auditorium. No estimate could be made as to when the house would be able to reopen.

Vehicle for Fonda Set

HOLLYWOOD, March 22. — Henry Fonda's first starring role for Radio will be in "His Majesty's Bunker Bean." John Grey is writing the screen play from the novel and play by Harry Leon Wilson, and the picture will be directed by Edward Killy and William Hamilton. William Sistrom will produce and the picture is scheduled to start late this month.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Bridge of Sighs"

(Invincible)

HOLLYWOOD, March 22.—For entertainment purposes this is a sober toned crime drama carrying a formula love interest contrast. Commercially it provides the value of several better-than-ordinary names in the featured parts, including Onslow Stevens, Dorothy Tree, Jack LaRue, Walter Byron, Oscar Apfel and Maidel Turner. A well knit plot and good acting maintain suspense. The picture is acceptable as a second feature.

It opens in a court room. An innocent man is convicted of murder. Love interest develops immediately between District Attorney Onslow Stevens and Dorothy Tree, sister of Paul Fix, the convicted man. Convinced of her brother's innocence, Miss Tree contrives to get herself imprisoned in the women's penitentiary. Striking up an acquaintance with Mary Doran, a gangster moll, she participates in a jail break after getting necessary information identifying the real killer. In a quick action-packed auto chase climax she leads the police to the gangsters' hideout and with the aid of Stevens makes it possible for Police Chief John Kelly's officers to capture Walter Byron, the murderer, and Jack LaRue, his henchman, Oscar Apfel and others.

The original screen play by Arthur Horman makes for maximum dramatic thrills and excitement, some laugh-provoking comedy contributed by Kelly and an adequate romantic contrast, qualities of which Phil Rosen's direction takes good advantage.

Production Code Seal No. 1,990. Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

"Little Miss Nobody"

(Twentieth Century-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, March 22.—Offering Jane Withers in her most interesting characterization to date, Sol Wurtzel has produced a picture which nicely balances humor, pathos and heart throbs.

Miss Withers, cast as an inmate in an orphan home, finds avoiding trouble an impossibility. When she is caught changing identification records, the authorities decide to commit her to a reform school, not knowing that she has made a change to give the benefit of a good home to Betty Jane Hainey, at a personal sacrifice. Escaping while traveling, Miss Withers is befriended by Harry Carey, who himself is a fugitive from justice. The situation is cleared when Carey's enemy, Thomas Jackson, is killed while robbing the home of Ralph Morgan, who becomes identified as Miss Withers' real father.

John Blystone directed, skillfully getting much from the scenes that are dominated by children. The adults in support include Sara Haden, Jane Darwell and Clarence Wilson, all contributing good performances. The screen play is by Lou Breslow, Paul Berger and Edward Elliscu from a story by Frederick Hazlitt Brennan.

The picture should please all general audiences.

Production Code Seal, No. 1,979. Running time, 72 minutes. "G."

Short Subjects

"Bottles"

(M-G-M)

Taking an ordinary plot, the producers of this colored cartoon have turned out a superior film with new twists and innovations. The story is of a chemist who makes a poison. After bottling it in a black bottle that has a realistic death's head for a cork he falls asleep. The bottle comes to life as do the others in the shop, reduces its filler, bodily, to miniature size and proceeds to wreak havoc. There is novelty with baby bottles singing and crying, bay rum bottles doing rumbas and the other possibilities in a drug store that make for remarkable innovation. The chemist is pursued by the death's head, and some thrilling chase sequences follow which show clever distorted animation as the victim is forced through his chemical apparatus and various hazards. The coloring and action is superb. It ends with the chemist waking from his nightmare and laughing it off. An artistic and imaginative cartoon, it is certan to please. Production Code Seal, No. 2,005. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

"For the Love of Pete"

(Vitaphone)

Joe Palooka, played by Robert Norton, comes to the screen in a comedy patterned after the comic strip. It is quite authentic with a Knobby Walsh, portrayed by Shemp Howard, that is realistic. The story concerns the efforts of Howard to get started in the fighting game again, and how he achieves this end. Norton is a baggage handler in a small town railroad station and brushes with the visiting champion who knocks him down after a pup tears his clothes out of his bags. Howard takes Norton under his wing in the haberdashery business, using his great strength around the shop. When he is informed that the challenger is in jail he substitutes Norton, who starts training. The expected happens in the big fight and Norton becomes champion. There is some humorous slapstick in the film which will find favor with the comic strip readers. Production Code Seal, No. 0734. Running time, 21 mins. "G."

"I'm a Big Shot Now"

(Vitaphone)

This is a color cartoon with action and invention which should put it over. Birdville's leading gangster is loafing in a saloon telling the world how tough he is and beating up a policeman to prove it. He decides to rob the bank, and, calling his gang together, pulls the job off. He retreats with the whole police force on his tail feathers, but is discovered in a hideout. The police lay siege with much shooting taking place. At length he is taken, quite ingeniously, and lodged in jail from where he sings what a jailbird he is now, somewhat mournfully. Production Code Seal, No. 2,019. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Paris in New York"

(Vitaphone)

Irene Bordoni is featured in this musical. She sings a few numbers which are spotted around a somewhat meager story. Miss Bordoni is the hit of a show. In an interview she reveals how she has tricked George Franklin, her producer, while drunk, into believing he had arrived in Paris when as a matter of fact he had been on a cruise-to-nowhere ship and was back where he started. The flash back method is used and when it reaches the supposed scene in a Paris cabaret a few vaudeville acts perform routine continental stuff. There is a burlesqued xylophone turn that provides good comedy. Franklin signs up the lot and still under the influence of liquor returns on the Hoboken ferry with his finds. A few novel dances and good musical numbers accompany the plot. Production Code No. 0778. Running time, 22 mins. "G."

"Wash Your Step"

(Vitaphone)

Hal Leroy, Cherry and June Preisser and the Eton Boys are involved in this amusing comedy of the washing machine business. Leroy is a super salesman and shows the boss how he sells machines with his singing and tap dancing. He is given Park Ave. territory and tries to sell a machine to his boss' wife while he is entertaining the Preisser sisters. For doing this Leroy is fired and he gets another job with what he thinks a rival company, as selling instructor. He finds out while wooing the boss' daughter, June, that the company is one of the former's large holdings. He gets the girl, however. This is a tuneful comedy with good entertainment. Production Code Seal, No. 0731. Running time, 22 mins. "G."

"Beauty Shoppe"

(Universal)

An Oswald, the rabbit, cartoon number not up to the standard of some of its predecessors. Oswald pursues three monkeys into a beauty shop with a net. They get permanent waves, do tricks with dummies, shave each other and perform other mildly amusing stunts. Production Code Seal, 1,955. Running time, 6 2/3 mins. "G."

Short Subjects

"The Vaud-O-Mat"

(Mentone-Universal)

A set built to resemble the tiny food compartments of an automat is used to introduce a series of vaudeville acts. Biglow and Gerald, comedy tumblers, get change at a cashier's booth and drop coins in various slots to start the acts. Vaudeville fans probably will enjoy the number. The acts presented are: Donatella Brothers, accordion players; the Smart Set Foursome; Edith Mann, dancer; Toto, the clown, with Meryl Mento; Adele Lawrence, singer, and Biglow and Gerald, themselves, in their comedy gymnastic stunts. Production Code Seal, 0890. Running time, 16 minutes. "G."

"The Blow-Out"

(Vitaphone)

Porky, a cartoon character, has a thirst for sodas, but lacks the necessary cash. He does one good deed after another and runs into a villainous character who goes about blowing up buildings with time bombs. He trails after the culprit and returns the bombs to him as often as he plants them. Eventually he brings about the capture of the criminal and gets the reward. The fadeout has him guzzling one soda after another. Average cartoon entertainment. Production Code Seal, No. 2,020. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Vitaphone Spotlight"

(Vitaphone)

Four vaudeville acts make up the material for this short. There are seen the Five Elgins, who do a juggling act with hats and Indian clubs; the Balabanow Accordion Revue, dancing and playing at the same time; Frank Conville and Sunny Dale, the former doing an impersonation of Chaplin, and acrobatic roller skating by Helen Reynolds and her troupe. Production Code Seal, No. 0886. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Stranger Than Fiction" Nos. 18-19

(Universal)

Two interesting numbers. The first shows an extraordinary house never finished at Santa Barbara by Sarah L. Winchester who believed in spirits and tried to confuse them. Other subjects are a tidal wave at Hangchow, the making of gold leaf, a church in a glass case, a woman blacksmith, and a machine that melts metal by using the sun's rays. Production Code Seals, 0896 and 0897. Running time, 9½ mins. each. "G."

"Going Places"

(Universal)

This is very interesting and beautifully photographed, with narrative by Lowell Thomas. Land and air shots of Morro Castle at Havana; gorgeous street scenes with public buildings; a current human interest touch with Colonel Battista giving out presents to children, and tourists in cafes and night clubs are shown. There is plenty of good music, too. Production Code Seal, 0860. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

"THESE THREE" FINE SCREEN STORY

By REGINA CREWE

Samuel Goldwyn is one of those motion picture miracle men who makes a practice of accomplishing the impossible. His latest achievement is in evidence upon the Rivoli's screen where he offers exquisite dramatic entertainment, a triumph of ingenuity, and, as a dramatic vehicle, "These Three" retains all the grim power, the irresistible forcefulness.

Karen Wright and Martha Dobie labor together in the establishment of a New England girls' school, aided always by young Dr. Cardin and the socially powerful Mrs. Tilford. Paradise are the shallow and garrulous Aunt Lily Mortar and the particularly venomous, diabolically malicious little liar, Mary Tilford. It is this thoroughly unpleasant child who learns through the intimidation of eaves-dropping schoolmates that there has been a scene between the evil-minded Aunt Lily and Martha Dobie in which the elder woman has accused her niece of undue friendship with Karen's fiance, Dr. Cardin.

With this information in her possession, this small slice of Satan romps home to a credulous Grandma with wild tales which are seemingly substantiated by the perjured testimony of the completely subjugated Rosalie, a girl ensnared in the vicious thrall of the sardonic Mary. Ruin follows. The righteous and doting Mrs. Tilford spreads the tidings, and the school is fled as a plague spot. Martha, Karen and Joe—"These Three"—are encompassed by disaster. A libel suit is brought and lost for lack of a word from the precious Aunt Lily. The Doctor is dismissed from his hospital. The girls face a bleak and dreary future of ostracism.

Worse, even, than this is the doubt that looms large in Karen's mind regarding the fidelity of her fiance and her friend. The engagement is broken, and an honest confession from Martha of her silent love for the unsuspecting Joe brings utter dissolution and desolation. It is from the blathering lips of Aunt Lily, returned "at long last," that the first gleam of truth penetrates the fog of doubt and falsehood. Rosalie confesses her bondage to Mary, Mrs. Tilford tries vainly to make amends, Martha reunites Karen and Joe, so that there is a happy ending for at least two of "These Three."

The piece is well-cast and exquisitely played. Acting honors go to Marcia Mae Jones and Bonita Granville, as the Rosalie and Mary of the drama. Carmencita Johnson distinguishes herself, as well, as others do nicely. Alma Kruger is ruthlessly righteous as the first proud, then pitiable Mrs. Tilford, while Catherine Doucet is a properly irritating Aunt Lily.

The starring trinity works well, Miss Oberon is most effective, Mr. McCrea does some of his best trouping as the Doctor, and Miss Hopkins graciously subordinates herself to the requirements of her part.

The part of Mary Tilford emerges as one of the most truly terrible ever conceived, and its portrayer, the talented Bonita Granville, excels as the chilling child whose skin you'd love to touch—with a paddle. Director William Wyler tells his story with strength and skill.

"THESE THREE," AT RIVOLI, EXCITING DRAMA OF SLANDER

By BLAND JOHANESON

"These Three" is a stirring and fascinating drama of slander's effect on innocent and civilized people.

With Merle Oberon and Miriam Hopkins in the leading roles, and Joel McCrea opposite them, it is a brilliantly acted and forcefully true story; an adult picture of strength, tenderness and charm.

HERALDING THE ARRIVAL OF "THESE THREE," AT THE RIVOLI

By FRANK S. NUGENT

Miss Hellman's job is little short of brilliant. She has constructed an absorbing, tautly written and dramatically vital screen play. To it, in turn, a gifted cast headed by Merle Oberon, Miriam Hopkins and Joel McCrea has contributed lavishly of its talents, aided by superb direction and exceptionally fine photography. In its totality the picture emerges as one of the finest screen dramas in recent years.

The film has that quality of muddled helplessness which three persons experience when they find themselves struggling vainly to cut through the porous fabric of lies told by a venomous little girl. Because of an unreasoning lie, three lives have their courses changed and nothing can ever again be the same for any of them. Not even the film's happy ending can hide the realization that this is a tragedy.

Miss Hellman's story is of the two young head-mistresses of a school for small girls, both in love with the same man, Dr. Cardin, or, if you prefer, Joel McCrea. Miss Oberon has his heart, while Miss Hopkins is content to worship from afar. Then little Mary Tilford, a malevolent vixen who lies by preference and has a pathological hatred for her teachers, runs home to her grandmother and, to escape a punishment, whispers the venomous untruth about the misconduct of the doctor and his sweetheart's best friend.

The tale, confirmed by another little girl for reasons which must be seen to be believed, is accepted with horror and spread with indignation and her friend. The engagement is broken, and an honest confession from Martha of her silent love for the unsuspecting Joe brings utter dissolution and desolation. It is from the blathering lips of Aunt Lily, returned "at long last," that the first gleam of truth penetrates the fog of doubt and falsehood. Rosalie confesses her bondage to Mary, Mrs. Tilford tries vainly to make amends, Martha reunites Karen and Joe, so that there is a happy ending for at least two of "These Three."

Samuel Goldwyn has produced a magnificent picture.

Miss Hellman has done her usual practically perfect job. She has had rare help, too, in making "These Three" one of any year's outstanding pictures. She had Mr. Goldwyn to insure perfection of detail. She had William Wyler to direct, to get every last emotion out of those tense situations. She had a cast-made box office by the presence of Merle Oberon and Miriam Hopkins, with the secondary roles brilliantly acted by two little girls, Bonita Granville, as the detestable Mary Tilford, and Marcia Mae Jones, as her frightened aid.

The skill of Mr. Wyler's direction is best illustrated by the performance of Joel McCrea, who really acts now and then. He plays Dr. Cardin, about whom the tragedy centers. The two young teachers are the important characters, but the script gives the doctor's role significance.

Mary Tilford is the hateful brat, with Bonita Granville seeing to it that the audiences want to strangle her. Mrs. Tilford listens to Mary's lies when she runs to from school; she destroys the school and its young principals by repeating, in sober good faith, lies to the mother of each pupil.

Mary overhears Martha's aunt taunting her with Karen's fiance, with that final sequence when the two girls have lost their scandal suit against Mrs. Tilford, admits her own unguessed torment about Joe. Having remained together through all the agony of a trial, the three separate.

Its punch is double that of any film since "The Informer," which it resembles not in the slightest.

"These Three," although a play has its share of real gayety. Its mood, until the world cracks up about its young trio, is happy and heart-warming. It's not likely any one will miss this.

"THESE THREE" AT RIVOLI SUPERB FILM

By KATE CAMERON

Miss Hellman has done a superb job. She has kept the drama and the action throughout at a high tension pitch. The dialogue is most effective. There is ncither an unnecessary nor a phony word in the picturc. Every scntence uttered by the actors rings true and even the hysterical outbursts of the little wolf in chit's clothing, who is the ten-ycar-old villain of the piece, are too vividly rcal to be comfortable.

The story is not a pretty tale. The villain-child, Mary Tilford, who is a pupil at the New England girls' school run by Martha Dobie and Karen Wright, builds up a fictitious case against Miss Dobie and Miss Wright's fiance, Dobie Joseph Cardin, which she presents to her horrified grandmother. Mrs. Tilford refuses to believe that lurid tale until Mary's story is backed up by Rosalie Wells, another pupil whose weakness for wearing a roommate's bracelet unknown to the latter, has put her under the evil influence of Mary.

Mrs. Tilford feels called upon to rescuc the other children from the school and in her righteous anger she succeeds in thoroughly ruining the lives of the three people concerned in the lying tale. The two girls and the doctor bring Mrs. Tilford to court for their slander but they lose the case. Then slander begins to doubt her friend and her lover and the three go their various ways until Martha gathers from the prattling of her selfish and scatter-brained aunt, Mrs. Mortar, that Rosalie was forced by Mary to back up the latter's lie. Martha sees Rosalie and gently extracts the truth from her, in time to send Karen off to meet Dr. Cardin in Vienna.

CHILD ACTORS HAILED

Thc three principal performers Miriam Hopkins, Merle Oberon and Joel McCrea, distinguish themselves by their fine, understanding interpretation of the roles of the school-teachers and the doctor. But it is the children of the cast that make the deepest impression by their realistic performances. Bonita Granville, who is the daughter of the well known stage actor, Bernard Granville, is magnificent in her portrayal of the perfect brat and little Marcia Mae Jones, who falls under the spell of the wicked child, gives a heart-tearing performance.

Catherine Doucet, as Aunt Lily Mortar, and Alma Kruger, in the role of the grandmother, give the able support to the principals. The less important roles are capably handled, too.

The production, as a whole, is a fine, artistic accomplishment on the part of the producer, the director and the cast. William Wyler, who directed the story, has fitted each scene beautifully into the other and has skillfully adapted the tempo of each incident to the mood created by it.

N. Y. POST

By WILLIAM BOEHNEL

An honest, sensitive, beautifully acted film that deserves the admiration and respect of all moviegoers.

Lillian Hellman herself fashioned the screen play—fashioned it with sincerity, super-fine writing, unflinching character observation and unerring feeling for showmanship. Samuel Goldwyn, the most tasteful and courageous of the Hollywood impresarios, produced it with his customary brilliance; William Wyler directed it with a sure touch, and it is played to perfection by Miriam Hopkins, Merle Oberon, Joel McCrea.

THE HISTORY OF A MALICIOUS LIE

With nothing more than college degrees and a grim determination to make a success of their future the Misses Karen Wright and Martha Dobie take over the former's old and dilapidated Connecticut farmhouse and with the aid of Dr. Joseph Cardin, a local medico, rebuild it so that they can use it as a school for young girls. With much labor, deprivation and heartaches they develop their enterprise so that it attains an enviable reputation.

But among their pupils is a poisonous little imp Mary Tilford, the granddaughter of the school's most influential patroness. Given to cheap lies and bullying, this loathsome little creature is punished by Miss Dobie, and purely out of malicious revenge spreads the rumor that Miss Dobie and Dr. Cardin have been having an affair.

The effect of her malicious lie is fatal. Not only does it destroy temporarily Karen's faith in Cardin, with whom she is in love, but horrified parents, convinced of the truth of the rumor by Mary's grandmother, withdraw their children from the school, leaving the enterprise a financial wreck and the two schoolmistresses social exiles. To regain their self-respect Martha and Karen, aided by Cardin, bring a libel action against Mary's grandmother, but are unable to prove their innocence. Eventually, when Martha, Karen and Cardin have gone their separate ways, Martha forces a confession out of Mary, and the grandmother tries to make restitution. But the real damage has been done. A beautiful friendship between three young people has been forever destroyed by a detestable lie, even though Karen and Cardin do eventually find happiness together.

All the players give their best to it. As the diabolical adolescent Bonita Granville plays it superbly. But hers is not the only fine written into the role—plays it for all the venom that Miss Hellman has piece of acting. Little Marcia Mae Jones, as the youngster who is bullied into silence, is in many respects better than Miss Granville, and if there are any acting honors to bestow they should go to her without reservation. Miss Hopkins, Miss Oberon, Mr. McCrea and all the others, too, give performances that are a joy to watch.

See "These Three," then, and in doing so see a film of real distinction.

N. Y. TELEGRAM

By RICHARD WATTS, Jr.

Miss Lillian Hellman has wrought a stirring, mature and powerful motion picture, a genuinely distinguished photoplay that is a vast tribute to all concerned in its production.

It is the story of how the lives of two young school teachers were wrecked by the malicious lies of a spiteful child. In "These Three" the child's slander deals with the relationship between the two girls and the doctor who has befriended them.

The idea works out with high effectiveness. By her lie, the child succeeds in poisoning her credulous aunt against the young teachers, in turning the community against them and in destroying their school. The other girl really did love the doctor, even though innocently, and there is reason for the mutual suspicion that is the ironic cream of the tragedy. By showing you the way in which the two heroines had built up their school, gives its eventual destruction a quality of pathos while the ending is none the less moving.

Of course, it is the character of the child that dominates the proceedings. The youthful actress, Miss Bonita Granville gives as always a believable and impressive portrayal. I wish, however, that the drama had been written so as to throw more light on the social and psychological background responsible for the girl's maliciousness of spirit.

Miss Merle Oberon brings her personal attractiveness, her increasing expertness as an actress and her excellent voice to the role of the school teacher engaged to the doctor and Miss Miriam Hopkins plays with directness, honesty and admirable reticence the part of the girl who loves the part man silently and hopelessly. Joel McCrea, for the first time as I recall it, provides a genuine and forthright characterization as the guiltless physician. But the most moving performance of all is that of little Miss Marcia Mae Jones, who is quite heart-breakingly soft and helpless as the innocent tool of the monstrous child. William Wyler's direction is exceptional and, as usual, Mr. Goldwyn's production is tasteful and handsome.

with reference to Screeno, Bingo and Beano, although it is intimated that Bingo is looked upon with disfavor.

No further action will be taken, it is said, unless further complaint is received warranting police or court action. State police, however, have been checking all theatres in this vicinity for overcrowding on game nights. About 10 theatres here operate cash awards.

Bans in Bridgeport and Waterbury remain in effect. The Lido in Waterbury is the first there to offer merchandise prizes on Prosperity Night, instead of cash, a substitute suggested by the authorities.

Plan Wichita Giveaways

KANSAS CITY, March 22.—Wichita, free of giveaway troubles all through the depression, will join the procession within the next few weeks when Fox Midwest introduces Bank Night at the Miller, Palace and Orpheum, first run houses there.

Fox shortly will introduce the promotion at the Watson, Eldorado and the Brown-Grand at Concordia, Kan. At Hutchinson the circuit probably will add the Fox to its other two there using Bank Night.

Outside of Topeka and Winfield in Kansas, and Springfield in Missouri, the circuit is using Bank Night in all of its important towns. Topeka has been kept fairly clean of extra-theatre promotions, although at least one independent is using Screeno there.

Commonwealth Amusement Corp., operating about 25 theatres in western Missouri, Kansas and Iowa, is using Bank Night almost 100 per cent. Among the few exceptions are the Gillioz, Monett, Mo., and State, Garden City, Kan., both newly added.

Texas Insurance Illegal

HOUSTON, March 22.—Bank Night insurance as offered here has been declared a lottery and ruled illegal by Attorney General McCraw of Texas. District Attorney Barkley plans a local test case.

Insurance associations here have been offering a 25-cent policy insuring the purchaser from losing on Bank Night in the event his name is called when he is absent from the theatre.

The attorney general has been asked to rule on the Bank Night question, but has not handed down an opinion. Independent theatre owners protested Bank Night practices as unfair competition.

The opinion on insurance pointed out that this type of organization could not under the law receive a permit from the insurance department.

Iowa Bans Insurance

DES MOINES, March 22.—The Iowa Insurance department has refused to sanction a plan for Bank Night insurance here. Maurice V. Pew, deputy insurance commissioner, assured the applicants that the department would interfere if such a plan were launched.

All the independent theatres here have joined in starting Bank Night, inspired by the crowds drawn by Tri-States' Bank Night plan. The first drawing last week started at $200 and the money was collected at the Beaver.

Reserves Bank Night Verdict

GREENWICH, Conn., March 22.—Decision in the first Bank Night test case in Connecticut has been reserved by Judge L. Paul Burke in Town Court here. Henry C. Dreyer, manager of the Pickwick, was arrested when he refused to discontinue cash awards and is at liberty under bail of $500. He plans to continue the weekly Bank Nights until a decision is handed down.

Prosecuting Attorney Henry B. White brought two charges against Dreyer. Throughout a lengthy trial witnesses were examined to bring out the method employed by the theatre on Bank Nights.

The defense contended that the management did not raise the price of admission on Bank Nights, that it was not necessary for a patron to pay any more for the extra ticket handed him and that no inferior pictures were shown on the designated nights. Also it was shown that it was not necessary that a person be in the theatre when his name was called to receive the award.

Kansas to Study Games

TOPEKA, Kan., March 22.—Attorney General Clarence V. Beck of Kansas plans to move against Bank Night and other promotions.

Complaints have come to his office, Beck said, indicating that some schemes were becoming rackets. Another worry of the Attorney General is the fire hazard created by people blocking doorways during drawings. He is asking cooperation of local law enforcement officers.

Sues on Bank Night

KANSAS CITY, March 22.—Affiliated Enterprises, Inc., patentees of Bank Night, has filed suit here against Dusty Rhodes' Gillham and Rube Finkelstein's Belmont, asking $300 each from the exhibitors, who refused to pay rentals on the promotion because the company allowed Fox Midwest to use a Bank Night pool plan in their 13 Kansas City houses. Both exhibitors continue to use Bank Night.

Plan Tampa Insurance

TAMPA, March 22.—It is reported here that a company is to be formed to offer insurance on Bank Night drawings. The plan, to operate under state insurance regulations, calls for the insuring of patrons at the theatre, at a rate of five cents for each $100, the policy to be good for only one week.

Win Milwaukee Case

MILWAUKEE, March 22.—Local exhibitors won their third victory on charges of violating lottery and gambling ordinances when a district court jury decided Hollywood was not a gambling game. The case was brought against Earl Williams, manager of Fox's Oriental. Police raided the house recently.

Foresees Legal Ban

NEW CANAAN, Conn., March 22.—A forecast that the 1937 Connecticut legislature will enact a law banning cash awards in theatres of the state has been made by Judge Stanley P. Mean of this town. "There is no law against it now, but there will be when the legislature meets again," he said.

Bank Night in Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, March 22. — Bank Night has reached the first run sector here. The Alvin, Harris house, institutes the game this week, in conjunction with five of the circuit's neighborhood houses. The Alvin has used an automobile giveaway and will replace it with the cash awards.

Has Two Kinds of Nights

NEW ORLEANS, March 22. — Ben Dudenheffer, local agent of Bank Night, is now handling Buck Night as well. He took over the latter after W. O. Tuttle quit.

Senator Impressed

Washington, March 22.—"The Story of Louis Pasteur" broke into a Senate debate and made the Congressional Record the other day.

In discussing the Public Health Service appropriation Senator McKellar of Tennessee said he had just seen the picture at the Earle and that "Paul Muni's wonderful characterization had further impressed him with the vital importance of the Public Health Service."

Therefore, the case is still in the process of appeal, it is pointed out, and any move Golder may make now in his capacity of amicus curiae would be invalidated should the distributors win their appeal steps.

Approve Operator Bill

ST. LOUIS, March 22.—The Public Safety Committee of the Board of Aldermen has approved a bill sponsored by local projectionists requiring an operator for each projector in local houses. The measure, if passed, will have little effect immediately, as practically all houses employ at least two operators on each shift. Theatre men at public hearings had declared the bill unnecessary.

"Pasteur" Is Sensation in Chicago Loop

CHICAGO, March 22.—"The Story of Louis Pasteur," in after an outstanding exploitation campaign, piled up a huge $11,800 at the Apollo. It built from day to day with remarkable word-of-mouth advertising. Par for the house is $4,500.

"The Lone Wolf Returns" garnered $13,700 at the State-Lake, and "The Petrified Forest," with John Boles on the stage at the Chicago, pulled an excellent $39,000. This was over the line by $9,000.

Hollywood, March 22.—With eight films scheduled for production at the Goldwyn studios for the coming season, writers at work include: Jane Murfin, making final revisions on "Come and Get It"; W. P. Lipscomb, on "Hurricane"; Sidney Kingsley, on "Dodsworth," in New York, and Samuel and Bella Spewack on the screenplay of "The Princess and The Pauper."

Joins Supply Company

Boston, March 22.—William Hawkins has been appointed by manager Ken Douglas as the Vermont and New Hampshire sales representative for Capitol Theatre Supply Co.

Shreve Gets K. C. Post

Kansas City, March 22.—Walter Shreve has been made manager of the local office of National Theatre Supply Co., succeeding Walter Denney, resigned.

Shreve has been with the company for 10 years, and most of that time he has spent in the western Missouri and Kansas territory.

A. G. Smith has rejoined the branch and will cover Kansas and part of Missouri.

Atlantic Acquires Two

Atlantic Pictures Corp. has closed with Twickenham Prod., London, for American distribution of "Last Journey" and "His Private Secretary."

"Secretary" Is Seattle Best, Getting $8,300

Seattle, March 22.—"Wife vs. Secretary" was the big noise of the week. It grossed $8,300 at the Fifth Avenue, thereby passing par by $1,300. It was moved to the Blue Mouse for an extended run.

"The Country Doctor" was good in its second week at the Music Box, an extended run from the Fifth Avenue. The $4,250 take was up by $250. Other sports failed to impress.

Total first run business was $31,650. Average is $33,500.

Silent Scenes Out, Dreher Report Says

Hollywood, March 22.—Hardly a single silent scene is made in films today, according to a report by Carl Dreher, head of the Radio sound department. Radio's consumption of sound stock rose in 1935 to 7,000,000 feet, after remaining at approximately 5,000,000 for three years. Last year nine pictures used over 200,000 feet of sound each as against two such films in 1934.

The total footage run through the recorders since Radio began making sound films, according to Dreher's report, was more than 32,000,000 at the end of 1935. More than one-third, or 37 per cent, of all features released by Radio in 1935 contained music, the report said, with an increase expected this year.

Klinger to Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh, March 22.—Jack Klinger, manager of the Granada in Toledo, O., for a group headed by William Skirboll, has come here to handle the newly reopened Barry, formerly the Pitt. Klinger will remain until the house is running smoothly, then will name his own successor.

Erlanger Holding Films

Philadelphia, March 22. — The Erlanger, managed by Samuel F. Nixon-Nirdlinger, which turned film house for "Modern Times," will continue in this policy.

Owing to a temporary jam on first run product at the Stanley and Boyd, Nirdlinger expects to get other major product for the season.

Block Sales Measure Hit By Schaefer

Answers Independents on Pettengill Bill

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, March 23.—No industry in the country has keener competition than prevails among the affiliated houses of distributors, the Pettengill sub-committee was told here today by George J. Schaefer, vice-president of United Artists. "It is a case of dog eat dog," he declared, explaining that while the various distributors sell to each other's affiliates they do on the same basis as to independents, and protect the latter either by splitting the product or by refusing to sell the affiliate.

"This is the 'monopoly' of which the proponents of the block booking bill complain," he said. Shaefer devoted his testimony almost entirely to a categorical answer to the charges of

Copyright Hearing To End on Apr. 15

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Members of the House Patents Committee today agreed definitely to close the hearings on copyright revision April 15, and, if necessary, to appoint sub-committees to take testimony simultaneously.

As the committee tomorrow begins another week of hearings on the Duffy Bill, with representatives of the film industry scheduled to be heard, the Neely sub-committee on block booking will meet to discuss the course to be taken with respect to the Neely-Pettengill Bill on which hearings were held last month.

During the executive meeting which is planned it is expected that the pro-

Nathanson Contract Talk to Be Resumed

Negotiations for renewal of N. L. Nathanson's contract as operating manager of Famous Players Canadian Corp. are to be resumed by Y. Frank Freeman, Paramount theatre head, in the near future. Nathanson's contract expires in June and the renewal is expected to be on a long term basis.

The negotiations to date are reported to have proceeded "satisfactorily." Freeman returned last week end from a 10-day visit to Paramount southern theatre headquarters.

Flood Repairs Are Rushed With Outlook Much Better

Quick surveys of theatre damage as flood waters recede have left circuit heads and individual operators in a somewhat more cheerful frame of mind than they were late last week.

The heaviest damage is concentrated in Pittsburgh where both Warners and Loew's have emergency crews at work and are arranging to send in reserve seat equipment and new carpets.

Hartford and other Connecticut river towns are still without light, but actual damage to houses in that territory is not as great as was at first anticipated.

Pittsburgh Digging Out

PITTSBURGH, March 23.—Downtown theatres began digging themselves out of the flood wreckage over the week-end and losses are now being estimated at well over $2,000,000. The Penn, hardest hit of all, has $500,000 damage alone and it will be at least six weeks before this house can reopen. The Alvin and Stanley managements are more optimistic and believe they can resume operations Easter week. It is

Bergner Films to U. A. for 5 Years

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, March 23.—United Artists has signed a contract with Elisabeth Bergner and her husband and producer, Dr. Paul Czinner, whereby U. A. will handle world distribution on all Miss Bergner's pictures for the next five years. The deal was negotiated by Samuel Goldwyn, who declared today the closing of the contract was one of the chief reasons for his trip here. Miss Bergner, who was taken ill recently, is in a nursing home.

All the Bergner films will be made at Denham, and the stories will be left entirely to the discretion of the star. Her first three will be Sir James Barrie's "The Boy David," George Bernard Shaw's "St. Joan"

Symphonic Again

These symphony orchestras can't scare Dave Rubinoff and his Stradivarius. He has just accepted an invitation to conduct the Seattle Symphony in July—and has accepted. The 62nd annual convention of the Shrine will be there.

Several months ago when Rubinoff went to Cincinnati to conduct the Sinsinnahtee Symphony Orchestra a flock of girls kissed him at the railroad station. Then some of the musicians with upraised brows walked out before the allegro movement, but nevertheless they paid off the deficit.

Jersey Shifts To Lower Rate On New Taxes

TRENTON, March 23.—A new amusement tax program of one cent on each 25-cent admission bracket with no exemptions was under consideration by legislative leaders tonight as part of a move to impose a broad-base tax.

Veteran legislators want to bring the thrice-defeated amusement-luxury tax bill to a vote again tonight before turning to the far-reaching new levy. The amusement tax in the present bill is four per cent on gross admissions, to be absorbed by exhibitors who, they say, could raise their scale to cover the tax or absorb the loss.

If this bill is defeated again, plans are to abandon it and turn to a general state tax. Included with amusements in the present bill are taxes on

RKO to Have At Least 48, States Levy

March of Time, Bowes, 36 Shorts Scheduled

RKO Radio will have no less than 48 features next season, Jules Levy, vice-president and general sales manager, stated yesterday upon his return from a two-month trip to Honolulu and Hollywood. This is the same number as for the current season.

The short subject schedule will virtually be the same with the exception of the Walt Disney subjects. There will be 36 two-reelers, the March of Time and Major Bowes' amateur shorts.

Branch managers from Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Albany, Philadelphia, Washington, Boston, New Haven, Cleveland, Cincinnati and Detroit will convene today for a regional sales session with Levy. On his way back from the coast, similar meetings were held in Dallas, New Orleans and Chicago.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, March 23.

TALES from the Hollywood hills:

Mox Shobbus, the exhibitor from the fringe of Hollywood, was visiting one evening shortly before Eddie Alperson left for Miami where the Chamber of Commerce says the sunshine rivals Hollywood's. Eddie was on the phone.

"I wanna talk to that fella," insisted Shobbus, whose ebullience knows no limitations. And so he talked, the conversation running something like this:

"Mr. Alperson, this is Mox Shobbus talking. You don't know me? Well, I operate a theatre on the fringe of Hollywood. I can't get Charlie Skouras on the telephone, but I insist on talking to you. You're one of those Fox West Coast guys. Well, I wanna tell you, Mr. Alperson, that I don't like the protection you get over my theatre. It's not fair. Furthermore I don't like the way you run Bank Nights. What? You won't listen to me? You better, even if you never did hear of me. I am an exhibitor and I got a right to live just like you. Furthermore, I am thinking about filing an anti-trust suit. Harry Arthur is no bigger than I am."

Alperson cutting in:

"An anti-trust suit? Why didn't you say so in the first place and cut out the unimportant stuff. Now we're getting down to big business." . . .

From the bottom of the pile, this program note, reverting to the preview of "Little Lord Fauntleroy":

"That was the beginning of what has been, along with 'Trilby,' 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' and a few others, consistently one of the most popular plays of modern times. It has been revived constantly in England and America and has been played in a variety of foreign languages. Among the actors and actresses who have played the part of 'Fauntleroy' have been Wallie Eddinger, Ray Haskell, Maudie Sinclair, Elsa Lanchester and Mae West, who played it in Brooklyn as a child of seven." . . .

There is the agent with an "in" at one of the studios. He was also interested in a young woman and insisted that the producer give her a chance.

"She can act and dance, I tell you. At least give her a chance to show what she can do."

"All right," grudgingly consented the producer who later reported in this fashion:

"I'll tell you. Although your friend is a poor singer, she is also a bad actress." . . .

A Zanuckdote.

Darryl picked up the office phone one day and called into it:

"Where's Baxter?"

An electrician on the "Wooden Crosses" set, more concerned with horse racing than his job, answered absent-mindedly:

"He's not even in the running." . . .

"Why do so many folks stop at the Beverly-Wilshire? Is it because the hotel is closer to the studios?" asked an in-and-outer unaccustomed to Hollywood ways.

"No," replied a regular, "it's because the hotel is closer to Myron Selznick." . . .

Gloria Stuart, working in "The Poor, Little Rich Girl" refuses to talk to Shirley Temple. Miss Stuart asserts she was never introduced.

This is a vital development in Hollywood. It is of the stuff that makes crises. . . .

Now that Santa Anita has closed for the season, the studios might be able to return to work if it weren't for the widespread worry over state and Federal income taxes. Always something to keep the colony in a dither. . . .

The Italo-Ethiopian war entered conversation at a party. An excerpt:

"Selassie should have ended this months ago. He can't win and besides he's out of money. Why does he try to continue on that basis? Who does he think he is anyway? John Stahl?" . . .

The reportorial conscience becomes quiet with assurance from Cecil B. DeMille, who should know, that the actor who played the asp in "Cleopatra" has finally returned to Egypt bragging no end. . . .

Seat Makers to Meet

Theatre chair manufacturers from all over the country will hold a special meeting Friday. William Gedris, head of Ideal Seating, arrived from Grand Rapids, Mich., yesterday. preliminary to the session.

The Center will have a preview of "Everybody's Old Man," starring Irvin S. Cobb, tonight following the last showing of "Charlie Chan at the Circus." Cobb's friends and New York literary critics have been invited.

Production Spurts With 41 Shooting

HOLLYWOOD, March 23.—Production facilities were taxed last week to handle 41 features in work, 52 in the cutting rooms and 21 in preparation for the cameras within two weeks. Short subject production showed a slight drop, however, with only two in work. At least 10 of the features shooting should have particular interest for exhibitors from the exploitation and entertainment standpoints.

Paramount led the field with eight features in work, Warners running a close second, with seven. Columbia had three features shooting, three preparing and five editing. M-G-M had six, one and 11; Paramount, eight, two and six; Republic, three, three and five; Radio, two, three and four; Roach, one, zero and one; Twentieth Century-Fox, five, five and five; Universal, one, zero and four; Warners, seven, zero and nine; independents, five, four and two.

On the short subject schedule Columbia had one in work, two in preparation and two cutting. M-G-M had zero, three and five; Radio, one, two and three; Roach, zero, one and three; independents, zero, three and two.

"These Three" Heads For a $45,000 Week

With $35,600 in the till for the first five days, "These Three" is expected to tally around $45,000 for the first week at the Rivoli.

"Sutter's Gold" has been booked into the Music Hall starting Thursday and "Little Lord Fauntleroy" is dated in beginning April 2.

Para. Seeks New Lead

HOLLYWOOD, March 23—Paramount's hard luck with "Hotel Imperial" continues. Margaret Sullavan, who broke her arm on the set last week, is definitely out of the picture and will have to be replaced. This is the film originally launched with Marlene Dietrich and which was about one-third through production when the player withdrew from the cast. Miss Sullavan replaced her.

Oscar Asche, Actor, Dead

MARLOW, England, March 23.—Oscar Asche, famous Shakespearian actor and author of "Chu Chin Chow," in which he starred in for five years, died here today of heart disease. He was 64 years old.

cigarettes, cosmetics, playing cards and non-commercial camera film.

The proposed new state general tax is sponsored by one of the Administration leaders, Senator Charles E. Loizeau of Union, chairman of the Appropriations committee. His political ally, Assemblyman Thomas M. Muir, will introduce the bill for Loizeau in the Assembly, where all tax proposals must originate.

The one cent on each 25-cent admission bracket for amusements in the new bill is estimated to yield $1,600,000. Amusements in the present four per cent measure are counted on to produce only $1,000,000.

Amusements constitute only a fraction of the new bill, which includes a three per cent state income tax, a general two per cent gross receipts tax on all business, and other levies. The total yield is figured at $31,000,000.

Pass Maryland Tax Bill

ANNAPOLIS, March 23.—Despite the opposition put up by exhibitors, the Senate today passed by a vote of 24 to 4, the bill to levy a 10 per cent tax on all amusement admissions in Maryland. The bill has been sent to the House, where a fight is planned against it.

The program previously adopted by the Senate Finance Committee sought $1,000,000 from theatres alone toward a total requirement of $2,700,000.

One new proposal advanced is for a levy of three-quarters of one per cent on gross receipts. It is estimated that this would raise $425,000.

Pooling Moves Stir Milwaukee Interest

MILWAUKEE, March 23.—Rumblings of a battle for control of neighborhood houses between the Wisconsin Amusement Enterprises and the combined Saxe Amusement Management, Inc., and Warners is seen in the pooling of the Comet independent west side neighborhood house, with the Tivoli, operated by Saxe. The two houses are within a block of each other and will operate under the Saxe banner with John Honthaner, operator of the Comet, managing both.

This move is seen as an answer to the recent announcement that the L. P. G. Amusement Co., reported to be aligned with Wisconsin Amusement Enterprises, is taking over the Layton Park, Pearl and Grace, southside neighborhood houses from Charles Washicheck. Originally scheduled for March 15, the transfer will become effective April 1.

Up to the advent of the L. P. G. Amusement Co., Saxe and Warner had the south side situation well in hand as a result of the pooling some six months ago of the Granada and Modjeska, the former a Warner house, both now operating under Saxe.

Wisconsin Amusements is reported dickering for several other spots in Saxe-Warner territory, while various independent exhibitors in the affected territories are viewing the situation with no little concern.

Committee Is Named

An advisory committee consisting of men prominent in the film industry, the arts, education and philanthropy has been formed to aid in the activities of the Museum of Modern Art Film Library. Will H. Hays, Jules E. Brulatour and Irving Thalberg represent the film contingent, and Stanton Griffis, Cornell University; Dr. Irwin Panofsky, professor of fine arts at Princeton, and David H. Stevens of the Rockefeller Institute represent the other fields. The committee will meet once a month with the museum's trustee committee.

Conn Forms Chelsea

Maurice Conn, who will produce 30 features next season for Conn. Prod. and Ambassador Prod., has formed Chelsea Pictures to distribute the product locally. He is president of the local company and Adolph Pollak is vice-president and general manager.

A New York exchange will be opened in about a week at the Film Center. Conn is due in the east in two weeks. For the current season, Conn has 16 scheduled.

FIELD REPORT

GIVES MARCH OF TIME No. 1 RATING

A year ago some showmen questioned the idea of audiences liking the March of Time and its hard-hitting drama of real life. Its worth in small rural theatres was doubted. Questioned, too, was the importance the public and the press would place on the monthly issues. But with its second year now under way, these questions have answered themselves.

DO PICTURE AUDIENCES WANT TO SEE THE MARCH OF TIME?

Here is one answer from a large suburban house in a big mid-western city.

*"*Recently I attended the.....theater here to enjoy the March of Time. After the so-called feature a 'Screeno' game was conducted. Finally the feature began again.

"Leaving my seat I asked the usher when I might see the March of Time. In a characteristic gush of courtesy he showed me the manager. This tuxedoed dignitary explained that the March of Time was omitted to save time. But this was the last show! He offered me a refund and I refused it.

"By this time a large group had gathered and they took up the argument. None would accept refund or invitation to leave. Some became angry and the super-manager was called. He wailed that the cost of running extra time was too great; that the contest had taken too long. Receiving no sympathy he offered to show our request after the feature now on.

"Leaving the unsatisfied crowd I returned to my seat. Presently the house lighted and an announcement made that through an error the March of Time had been omitted and would be shown immediately. It was."—H. M.

And another from one of the largest first run houses in the Southwest.

*"Our weather here has been pretty severe, but the March of Time, proven by figures, has meant an awful lot of money for us at the box office and has been established in the minds of our patrons as one of the greatest film features the theater has ever seen."—P. S.

HOW IMPORTANT AN EXPLOITATION MEDIUM IS THE MARCH OF TIME?

This letter is from the General Seafoods Corporation to its branches and dealers all over the country.

"The March of Time during the past month has been filming a picture of the New England Fishing Industry. It impressed us so greatly that we are writing this letter to advise you of the March of Time play dates in the theaters in your territory with their names and addresses.

"It is quite possible that you may wish to incorporate this news in your local advertising, and we feel sure that such action will be of material benefit to you."

WHAT IS THE MARCH OF TIME WORTH TO THE SMALL-TOWN THEATRE?

The operator of a 200-seat house in this Montana town (pop. 468) says:

*"Being a comparatively new subscriber to the March of Time I have been noticing the increased interest my patrons are taking in your news and look forward eagerly to the next issue.

"I admire the courage and bravery of the March of Time in giving the public unbiased facts. We want more leaders like you in the motion picture industry."—H. O. E.

Radio City's Center Theater displays the March of Time and its three exciting episodes on a huge lobby easel as well as on its Sixth Avenue marquee.

RELEASED BY RKO RADIO PICTURES

From a 500-seat house in an Idaho town (pop. 1500) comes this letter.

*"In my opinion this is THE greatest item in short subjects available to exhibitors today.

"I feel that this subject has not only added prestige to our program presentation but has also built our business on the days of its showing to the extent of bringing patrons to our theater who do not come at any other time.

"The exhibitor of today who has the March of Time available for his screen and does not use it, is not doing his duty to his community."

HOW IMPORTANT DOES THE PRESS CONSIDER THE MARCH OF TIME?

This review is from the Washington, D. C., News.

"Showmen are pretty well agreed that only two short subject series have any influence on the box office. One- and two-reel films enhance programs. But the only shorts that consistently affect prospective patrons' choice of theaters are the March of Time and Walt Disney's cartoons."

Australia's famed Smith's Weekly finds it important too:

"The greatest sensation in the moving picture world since the advent of the 'Talkies' has arrived in Australia—a series entitled 'The March of Time.'

"They are 'The Thinkies'—the term is 'Smith's'.

"They deal with subjects of world interest in a manner which sends the audience away with something to ponder."

As does London's Observer:

"March of Time is, on every count, the most lively, intelligent, and important departure of the recent screen."

Buenos Aires Firm To Have 16 in '36

WASHINGTON, March 23.—The Cia. Industrial Film Espenola, Sociedad Anonima—better known in Buenos Aires as the C. I. F. E. S. A.—has embarked upon an ambitious program for 1936, and has announced that there will be available from Spain about 16 features, according to a report to the U. S. Department of Commerce from Trade Commissioner DuWayne G. Clark, in Buenos Aires.

During the last year this company became fairly well established in the territory, and it is expected to set a more satisfactory record for the new year.

Two Companies Formed

ALBANY, March 23.—Two new incorporations here are the W. G. Amusement Corp., Brooklyn, formed by Leonard M. Halpern, Gustave H. Sperber and D. Benjamin Mason, and Mt. Vernon Biltmore, Inc., by Samuel I. Resnick, Max D. Cohen and David Sherman.

Horwitz Drops Games

HOUSTON, March 23.—Will Horwitz, operating four subsequent runs here, has dropped Bank Night. He used the game in two of his larger twice weekly. Suburban exhibitors recently protested Bank Night as unfair competition, and a test case is pending. The Kirby, an Interstate house, continues Bank Night every Tuesday.

M-G-M Buys "Sari"

M-G-M has purchased "Sari," Broadway operetta of 20 years ago. No production deal has been outlined.

HOLLYWOOD, March 23.—Clark Gable will be starred in "No Hero" by J. P. Marquand. Jack Conway will direct and Larry Weingarten will produce.

George Gordon Promoted

George Gordon, for six years on the Terrytoon cartoon staff, has been promoted by Paul Terry. He is now head of the animation department.

"Fleet" Hits $12,300 2nd Capital Week

WASHINGTON, March 23.—With flood waters of the Potomac offering stiff opposition, theatres held up. "Follow the Fleet" at RKO-Keith's took $12,300 in its second week, to top the regular first-week average by $1,700. A third week was ordered.

"The Voice of Bugle Ann," plus Jack Benny in person, sent the gross at Loew's Fox to $23,200, bettering par by $2,300.

At the Metropolitan, where "The Walking Dead" skyrocketed the take to $6,600, over average by $2,300.

A return engagement of "The Prisoner of Shark Island" at Loew's Columbia was good for $4,500, over the first run par by $900. A revival of "Arrowsmith" at the Belasco took $4,100 on seven days, which was increased to $4,900 by two extra days. The average week is $3,000.

"Wife vs. Secretary" at Loew's Palace for a second week, took a satisfactory $11,400, which was but $4,500 under the first week average.

At the Earle, "Desire," with a personal appearance of June Knight, slipped to $17,500, under average by $900.

Total first run business was $80,400. Average is $76,700.

Estimated takings, exclusive of tax:

Set "Diamond Night"

George Weeks and A. P. Waxman of G.B., have arranged a tieup of Bank Night and the film "Rhodes," with Claude Ezell of Affiliated Enterprises, Inc., which controls Bank Night. The variation of the chance game will be called Rhodes Diamond Night, the awards to be diamonds instead of cash.

Paramount Renewals

HOLLYWOOD, March 23.—Frances Farmer's option has been picked up by Paramount.

George Hayes has been placed under a term contract by Harry Sherman for the "Hopalong Cassidy" series.

Ann Evers and Wilma Francis also have had their options lifted.

Block Sales Measure Hit By Schaefer

independent exhibitors, in the course of which he said the independents did not show sex pictures in the neighborhood houses because they knew the public would not stand for them and that the affiliates refused to show them for the same reason. Wherever shown, he declared, they were exhibited by independents.

A statement from Schaefer that contracts called for the playing of percentage pictures on Saturdays and Sundays because of the "sharp practices" of some exhibitors in playing them on poor days because they could use any pictures on the week-end, brought a sharp question from Chairman Pettengill. He asked if it was more moral for the exhibitor to do that than for the distributor arbitrarily to name the play date.

Schaefer explained that only by getting week-end showing could the distributor be sure of a fair return on the heavy investment involved in such pictures and told the committee that contracts with the largest houses called for the showing of a fixed proportion of pictures on the two best days. He declared many exhibitors canceled pictures because of price rather than on moral grounds. He answered the charge that where high classification pictures were canceled the price of others was increased, by pointing out that the whole purpose of the contract was to assure a fair average for the full block.

Clarifies "Shuffling"

He denied that pictures are "shuffled," declaring that films may be in different classifications in different territories because they may be popular in one and not in another. The witness took up questions propounded earlier in the hearing by Pettengill as to the possible results of a hypothetical film showing both Italy and Ethiopia and explained the industry cannot afford to make films which offend foreign countries because it would result in the barring of the company from any such market.

Schaefer went into the question of selection, submitting figures presented before the Senate sub-committee to show that half of the contracts in the 400 leading cities are for less than full blocks, and said many small town exhibitors take 26 or less pictures and that a still greater number take from 7 to 60. He was referring to Paramount distribution figures.

"It seems to me the present line of argument is a two-edged sword," Pettengill commented. "You say block booking is necessary and then show that in town after town you are not selling in blocks."

"I do not say that block booking is necessary, but that I object to this bill because it puts shackles on the seller and leaves the buyer to do as he pleases," Schaefer replied.

He expressed approval of the proposal by Sidney R. Kent, Twentieth Century-Fox president, that if the seller could not offer blocks the exhibitor should be prohibited from buying them. Even in England, where films cannot be sold until previewed, block booking is permitted, he pointed out.

"The greatest revenue in this industry is from the larger situations," he said, "and this bill would deny me the right to go to a customer of long standing and offer him an entire block."

Representative Peyser of New York read into the record a letter from Mary Pickford opposing the Pettengill Bill, and pointing out that the making of films is not a mass production operation.

Looking 'Em Over

"Lucky Terror"

(Diversion)

An average western, this has all the requisite action and romance which will please children and fans. It is definitely for dual bills.

Hoot Gibson, riding along innocently, gets himself involved in the accidental death of George Cheseboro, who is fleeing from a gang of outlaws with his gold and who makes Gibson change mounts only to be killed when he is dragged over a cliff with his horse when it becomes panic-stricken. Gibson takes the saddlebags containing the gold and moves along, coming upon a medicine show in which Lona Andre, the dead man's niece, is working with Charles Hill and Frank Yacconelli, as a means to reach the mine. Gibson strings along with them and is arrested for the murder of Cheseboro. He is finally cleared in a coroner's inquest, but runs away.

Later he comes to the mine bringing with him the gold, which he had hidden. The outlaws raid the place. While Miss Andre goes for the sheriff he outwits them, and later, by some fancy riding, throws them off their horses into the hands of justice. Charles Hill demonstrates how his cure-all "elixir" can even separate gold from the ore when he takes the metal from the container in which Gibson had hidden it.

The performances by Gibson and Miss Andre are convincing. Yacconelli sings a short Italian song very well and Hill supplies the typical medicine man humor, delivering laughs with every mouthful of words.

Alan James directed from a story written by himself and Roger Allman. Arthur Reed's photography of the natural settings and the action are well done.

Ban Sunday Dancing

HARTFORD, March 23. — Sunday bowling and dancing have been banned here as a result of an attempt of the Loew-Poli Palace to present a stage show on the Sabbath. Previously both have operated, despite the law forbidding them. It had been determined nothing would be done until a complaint was made.

"Doctor" Big Detroit Hit In 2nd Week

DETROIT, March 23. — This town went for "The Country Doctor" in a big way for its second week at the Fox by piling up $21,300, above normal by $6,300.

Other houses also had good showings. "Voice of Bugle Ann" at the Michigan reached $24,600, "Rose Marie" garnered $11,400 at the United Artists, and "Klondike Annie" pulled $11,600 at the RKO Downtown.

Total first run business was $77,500. Average is $65,000.

posal will be made to turn the whole matter of block booking over to a sub-committee for investigation this summer, with a report to be rendered to the full committee next year. Whether this proposal will be acceptable could not be forecast, but there were no objections today from members of the full committee.

If the matter is not referred to a sub-committee, it is expected that the Neely group will make a report on the bill to the full committee. It is not expected, however, that the latter will get behind the measure in sufficient strength to force its passage during the present session.

At the Patents Committee meeting this morning, a sub-committee was appointed to draw up a schedule of hearings, noting the time to be given to each witness. Every effort will be made to keep to the schedule even though it means cutting short the speeches of committee members who for several weeks have been lecturing the witnesses.

Managers Propose Pact Arbitration

The League of N. Y. Theatres yesterday proposed that disputed issues in the new minimum basic agreement between playwrights and producing managers, which was placed in effect March 1 by the Dramatists' Guild, be submitted to arbitration. The suggestion was made in a telegram sent to Sidney Howard, guild president, and followed refusal by the guild last week to meet with the managers' contract committee for the negotiation of a new agreement.

A reply is being sent to the league today and is expected to contain a refusal to submit any part of the new agreement to arbitration, but will probably reiterate a suggestion made by the guild last week that the league put its proposals for changes in the agreement in writing for study by the guild council along with other proposed changes which are being received from managers.

The league recently authorized its contract committee to attempt either to negotiate a new agreement or to have the disputed issues submitted to arbitration. If the guild refuses both procedures, the managers have stated, the league proposes to draw up and use exclusively its own agreement.

Reductions of the managers' participations in the proceeds from the sales of film rights to stage plays under the new agreement have drawn most of the managers' fire.

Flood Repairs Are Rushed With Outlook Much Better

doubtful whether the Fulton will reopen until fall, since repairs will carry it well into the warm weather, and this house customarily closes during the summer.

Reports that Warners had suffered throughout the Tri-State area were denied today by Harry Kalmine, zone manager, who said the circuit was affected outside of Pittsburgh only in Johnstown, Erie and Wheeling. In the last named city the only thing preventing operation is lack of power. At Johnstown and Wheeling houses are open. Utility crews are working night and day to restore power in Wheeling and expect to have it on in a few days.

At the Stanley here the stage has buckled and an order has been placed for a new one. Seats are being taken out for replacements. New carpets have also been ordered and crews are working on 24-hour schedules shoveling out mud and debris.

Estimates place the Stanley damage at $200,000; Alvin, $150,000, and Fulton, $100,000, although this may be increased when the cooling plants are thoroughly inspected. Basements are still full of water.

Joe Vogel and Charles Moscowitz surveyed the Penn over the week-end and ordered replacements from New York. An orchestra leader's desk was found in the second row of loge seats.

National Guardsmen are patrolling the downtown streets.

Virginia Repairing Damage

RICHMOND, March 23.—With rivers back to normal in this territory after one of the most disastrous floods since 1870, exhibitors are surveying the outlook with more optimism than they have felt for several days.

Few theatres were actually damaged. Property loss has been widespread, but the necessity for cleaning up silt and making repairs is absorbing the unemployed.

Epidemics are a source of worry in places where drinking water has been contaminated. Travel conditions are bad as highways and bridges were damaged.

Hartford Still Dark

HARTFORD, March 23.—This city was still without electric power today, but the Connecticut River was rapidly receding. The Poli has water in the basement, but other houses are not damaged and will be ready to operate as soon as current is turned on.

The State, housing the WPA show, was inundated, but the damage seems to be smaller than anticipated as the water recedes.

Several houses attempted to run with emergency electrical equipment, but the Lenox was the only one open Saturday night. George Freeman, manager of the Poli, did not leave his house for four days. At Middletown conditions are slightly improved, although the three Lockwood houses are dark.

Richard J. Coleman, who was running a carnival, turned his lighting unit over to the hospital and armory where refugees were cared for.

In Waterbury, where many expected trouble, only the Lido was flooded, and this only in the basement. The State, a Warner house, which was damaged last year, escaped. Warners' chief damage was in the Palace, Norwich, where the lower part of the house was flooded.

The Capitol, Springfield, where new electrical equipment was installed recently, suffered heavily. Four Warner houses in Lawrence, Mass., also reported damage.

In Essex, Deep River, Collinsville, Williamantic and other towns films were delivered by roundabout routes. Houses served out of Boston made emergency requests for New York films.

Rhode Island Not Hard Hit

PROVIDENCE, March 23. — Rhode Island theatres have come out of the flood with no actual damage to buildings and no apparent effect on business.

Runs Flood Benefit

DANBURY, March 23.—Jack Harvey, manager of the Palace here, opened for a special Sunday matinee, the receipts of which were sent to the Red Cross to aid the flood victims in the Hartford area.

In Shelton, Morris Handleman, manager of the Shelton, was named treasurer of the drive for funds conducted by the Red Cross there.

Ciney Houses Unaffected

CINCINNATI, March 23.—Not one of the seven RKO theatres here was forced to discontinue operation because of the flood, according to Ike Libson. Most of the theatres are situated on a hill and were unaffected by the on-rushing waters which caused considerable damage in the business district.

RKO Closed at Lowell

LOWELL, Mass., March 23.—The only RKO house to close because of flood damage in the east was the Keith's here which was dark all day Saturday. The house was reopened yesterday. Little damage was done to the interior.

Harrisburg Near Normal

HARRISBURG, March 23.—Herman Nowitsky, of New York, in charge of construction work for the theatres of the Wilmer & Vincent chain, stated here today that first run spots in Harrisburg were able to operate during the period of the flood although seriously handicapped by lack of steam heat. This condition has been corrected.

Urges Flood Aid

Philadelphia, March 23. — Lewen Pizor, president of the M.P.T.O. of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware, yesterday addressed a letter to all members, urging that they communicate with the Red Cross in their communities, and offer their cooperation in the relief work for flood sufferers, through trailers, benefit shows or other means.

and Jack London's "Little Lady of the Big House." The films will all be part of next season's schedule.

Miss Bergner will fit a stage engagement for C. B. Cochran into her film schedule. She expects to go to Hollywood shortly to convalesce as the guest of Goldwyn.

Goldwyn said U. A. also had signed a contract with Victor Saville, who is forming his own company to make two big pictures annually. U. A. will handle world release and it is expected the film will merit release in the United States.

Twentieth Century-Fox will release Elisabeth Bergner's "As You Like It," produced by Dr. Czinner, in this country. The film was completed shortly before Miss Bergner's illness and is now being edited.

The RKO head denied any deals are on for new producers. He doesn't plan to go to the coast again for some time, he said.

Asked about reorganization of RKO theatres, Spitz answered: "That's going on all the time."

May Keep Van Beurens

RKO may continue to distribute the Van Beuren color cartoon series for another season, although probably on a picture-to-picture basis, Ned Depinet said yesterday.

Uncertainty as to the time by which Walt Disney can complete his United Artists commitments and begin deliveries for RKO distribution, make a picture-to-picture deal for the Van Beuren cartoons almost essential for RKO next season, it was said. United Artists states that Disney has 20 pictures remaining to be delivered to it and estimates that it will take the producer until July, 1937, to complete delivery of these. RKO expects to have Disney subjects ready for distribution by January, 1937.

RKO now distributes 46 Van Beuren subjects annually, 13 of which are the Rainbow Parade color cartoons. Distribution arrangements for the other 33 subjects will not be distributed by the Disney-RKO deal, it was said.

Delay Vaudeville Decision

No decision was made yesterday on the return of vaudeville to the Palace Chicago. RKO executives are still mulling over the probability of putting stage shows back, but no definite action has been taken at this time.

Griffiths Elected K.R.S. President

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, March 24.—D. E. Griffiths of First National was elected president of the Kinematograph Renters' Society at the annual meeting here today. Gaumont British rejoined the society, which is taken here as a forerunner of the withdrawal of the resignation of Twentieth Century-Fox, although no definite action has been taken on the latter move as yet.

With the return of G. B. and the retention of Twentieth Century-Fox, K. R. S. would have a 100 per cent representation among distributors.

Damage Estimates Await Flood Study

Joseph Bernhard, general manager of Warner Theatres, is expected back today from a survey of the damage to Warner houses in the flood area about Pittsburgh, McKeesport and neighboring towns. No estimate was available on the extent of the damage suffered by the circuit's theatres, pending the return of Bernhard.

The Comerford interests, which were the most seriously affected group in the eastern Pennsylvania area, with 14 theatres hit, also are unable to esti-

Warners May Refund Issue Of Debentures

Operation Might Total To $50,000,000

Warners may retire a $31,924,000 issue of six per cent debentures, due in 1939 and callable at 102, it was disclosed yesterday. The action would probably be in the form of a refunding program which might aggregate as much as $50,000,000.

In addition to the debentures, Warners are estimated to have approximately $50,000,000 in mortgage indebtedness and a refunding program would probably be scaled to care for approximately $20,000,000 of these. Preliminary discussions concerning a new issue of four and one-half per cent convertible debentures have already been held with investment bankers, it was said. The conversion price into common would be from $20 to $25 a share, it is expected. Definite action on the proposal is expected following the return of H. M. Warner from Europe about May 1.

Stuart McDonald, Warner assistant treasurer, said yesterday in commenting on the refunding reports that action in the matter "is a long way off." He admitted that the company had conferred recently with investment bankers on the subject but said that the discussions had been "inconclusive."

To Only One Other

Winter Park, Fla., March 24.—"The Story of Louis Pasteur" yesterday achieved a distinction attained by only one other film. It was praised in public by a President of the United States.

In his speech accepting an honorary degree from Rollins College, President Roosevelt described the film as "remarkable." At the time, he was speaking of the opposition often faced in introducing new ideas.

The only previous instance of a President thus praising a picture was the occasion when President Harding endorsed "The Covered Wagon," en route to Alaska in 1923.

Hit Equipment Price Rise; Form New Dealers' Group

Any attempt to take advantage of the plight of theatre owners whose houses were damaged by the recent floods by increasing prices of equipment and materials will be opposed by the Independent Theatre Supply Dealers' Ass'n., J. E. Robin, head of the organization, said yesterday.

The association has received no reports of increased prices for theatre equipment from flood sufferers, Robin said, and his statement was made in reply to rumors that the concentrated demand for new equipment occasioned by the flood probably would result in a general advance in prices.

Robin pointed out that the dealer members of the association had been doing business for years with customers who were well known to them and would be unlikely to endanger a

A cooperative buying organization for dealers, which at the same time will provide for equipment manufacturers a needed outlet at present unavailable, will be the basis of the Associated Theatre Supply Dealers, a new association in the process of formation by George De Kruif, at one time vice-president and general manager of National Theatre Supply.

The new group will be in competition with the Independent Theatre Supply Dealers' Ass'n., of which J. E. Robin is executive secretary, and National Theatre Supply. It is the intention of the new organization to have between 35 and 40 members, one in each of the smaller centers and more in the larger centers, depending on the size of the territory.

N. L. Nathanson, operating head of Famous Players Canadian Corp., is expected to acquire a substantial stock interest in the Paramount Canadian theatre subsidiary under the terms of the new contract being negotiated between himself and Y. Frank Freeman, Paramount theatre head.

By the acquisition of the stock, Nathanson would become an operating partner for the Canadian circuit, although his interest will be a minority one, probably limited to 20 or 25 per cent. The agreement is expected to be on a long term basis, presumably for a minimum of five years with provisions for extensions.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, March 24.

A PLANNED procedure for Hollywood. And a very impressive phrase falling from the sincere lips of a man who wants to see it in this land where the topsy-turvy is the normal. The idea belongs to Jesse L. Lasky, whose years of experience with Paramount, then on his own with Fox, qualify him to propound such a plan despite the obvious difficulties of, firstly, setting it up and, secondly, doing anything about it after it reaches paper. . . .

He would, to go specific, take measures to launch seriously and in organized manner the development of new talent, the undoubted need for which long has been coursing through his mind. He concedes that studios are experimenting and hoping new stars, public-blessed, will break through the existing firmaments. He continues to retain an old scheme of his which is to some day people a picture by cast, not starring, demands in the firm belief that, by judicious endeavor and proper judgment, new talent will develop. But Lasky, while he comfortingly ponders the plan, is not apt to move for its execution. He has reasons. . . .

"The blame goes back to the sales department and on through to the public, but chiefly the former. Producers, all of them, are constantly reminded by New York that pictures must have names in order to sell. All right, what happens? Producers go out after names. All kinds of names. Good, indifferent and downright bad. Everyone knows that players of merit are far too few and much too difficult to sign. That's one factor which shoots up the price of the availables to inordinate and staggering heights. It goes beyond. The fetish for names, reflecting sales department and public demand, today finds major studios coupling two, three and four drawing cards in the one picture. . . .

"This automatically makes it mandatory for competitive studios to follow suit. It sharpens again the name equation, makes the demand even more pronounced and skyrockets talent prices to an even higher level. The result is more and more expensive negatives, but the result also is that studios are fearful of experimenting with unknown names which conceivably some day could loom as large as those who now make up the favorites. Thus, the circle continues its cycle with no remedy in sight. You hear talk calling for action, but nothing beyond conversation." . . .

This is one condition which Lasky believes calls for a planned procedure. Another concerns a circumstance, already touched upon. It is color. There was "Becky Sharp." Now there is "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine." Dave Selznick is preparing "The Garden of Allah." Others are on the way. Local critical comment, effusive like virtually everything else in Hollywood, already has modestly dubbed "Lonesome Pine" as "superb" and "triumphant." Many are the naive folks in and around these hills who believe all they read. That makes the rush toward color inevitable. And that finds Lasky, for one anyway, concerned with the outcome and again stressing his thoughts about a procedure, docketed and planned. He foresees trouble ahead if the color urge persists. Unless all the signs are wrong, he is right, and how right. . . .

What to do with color and what to do with prices for talent, in theory, might be fit subject matter for a planned procedure, but only on paper. For one, the industry is too competitive in the production end. For another, there are too many would-be emperors and emperors, as history narrates, can do no wrong. Thus is justified wild expenditures. There is to consider as well the Hollywood social system where achievement, actual or otherwise, dictates position and prestige. There is too little knowledge here of who clicks and who does not click at the box-office, too much excitement over local sensations, too little regard for what goes on elsewhere in the country. . . .

Because Hollywood knows production is the industry's lifeblood, too great advantage is taken of the fact. New York advice gets a hearing, but usually not a break. New York is tolerated because it has to be tolerated. By preference and by inclination, Hollywood prefers to go it alone and, more often than not, actually does. Anybody can build bricks and mortar; but not anybody can make the attraction to fill seats. So goes the age-old observation about that huge portion of this business on the other side of the mountains. Yet, a glance at much of the product conveys the impression anybody might do better. . . .

A planned procedure, as a matter of fact, was tried in 1933 when the New York executive roster, led by Will H. Hays, traveled west to straighten out the coast forever more. There were meetings. Story editors were to gather weekly and sell each other dormant material. Standing sets were to be leased. Patents were to be pooled. A Central Booking Office, designed to lick the agents, was in the offing. In distribution, a physical merger was aired. The newsreels were to operate thereafter on the Associated Press formula. It was impressive on paper. . . .

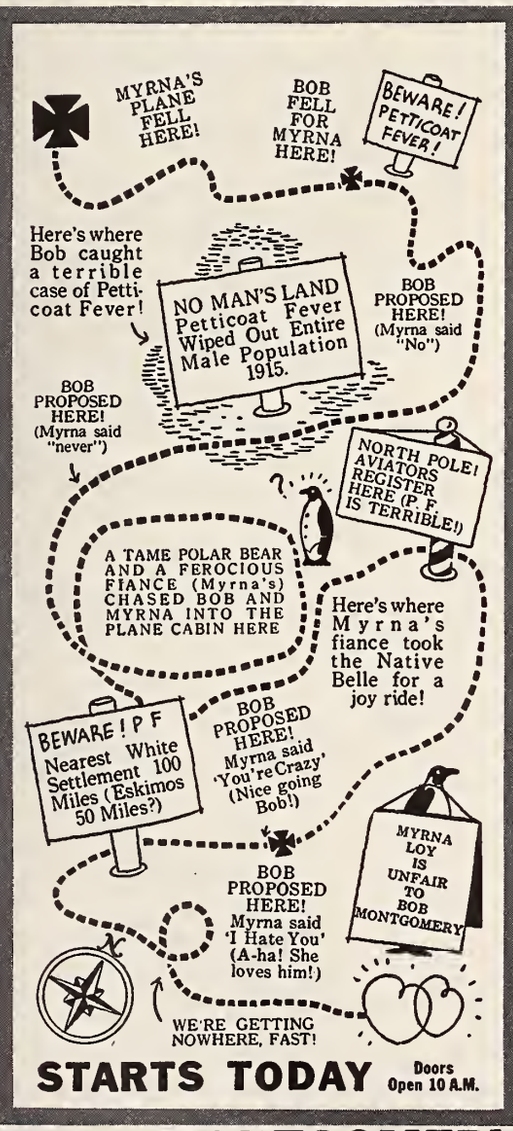
The results? Story editors met, but as soon as one studio evidenced interest in another's property, the latter refused to sell on the theory there must be unsuspected values in that vehicle if there was bidding for its purchase. Standing sets had been leased to other studios and still are for that matter which was never of stupendous import anyway. Patents were to be pooled. Were they? The Central Booking Office plans sent talent, goaded by agents, into a furore and nothing thereafter developed. Ideas for physical distribution mergers were returned to New York and subsequently quietly pigeon-holed for dust and disintegration to take them over. Newsreels are continuing as they were, swelled to a higher total with the addition of "The March of Time." Planned procedure went down to ignominious defeat as of that day, never since to raise its head. . . .

Jersey Tax Program Faces a Long Delay

TRENTON, March 24.—New tax legislation, including an amusement levy, may be postponed for New Jersey until after the May 19 primary election. The House and Senate adjourned for the week after short sessions last night without considering tax legislation. The tax bill, which provides a levy of four per cent on gross admissions, was not even brought up in conference.

So far apart are the Republicans on the tax bill that leaders are considering postponing everything until after the primaries.



Despite a strong demand for a recess, a determined group of Senate leaders want to resume daily sessions next week until a tax bill is enacted. The two divergent programs will be considered at a Republican caucus next Monday.

duce four pictures annually himself, and to give personal supervision to six others. The Sheehan productions were to be made at General Service Studios.

Sheehan came here from the coast early this month to complete negotiations with Paramount officials. He plans to return to Hollywood tomorrow, but beyond his brief statement had nothing to say concerning any new plans he may have.

A Paramount official stated that inability to agree on terms of the deal was responsible for the discontinuance of negotiations. It was also intimated that rumors concerning the negotiations, which it was said were without foundation, influenced the decision to discontinue the discussions.

Several meetings of the Paramount board held since the negotiations were begun, took no action on a Sheehan contract. It was explained by officials of the company at those times that the agreement was still under discussion and not in shape for submission to the board.

Otterson and Adolph Zukor plan to leave for Hollywood on Friday, where they will spend two weeks completing plans for next season's production schedule with William Le Baron and the latter's associates. The possibility of the negotiations with Sheehan being resumed on the coast while the company heads are there was suggested within Paramount.

The production conferences at the Paramount studio will take the place of a second meeting of home office and studio officials which it had been planned, would be held in Chicago. The first such meeting was held there last December but it was believed advisable to hold the final one at the studio to save the time of production officials and make unnecessary their absence from the studio at this time.

trade relationship so well established by adopting unfair policies in a time of emergency. He said that liberal credit undoubtedly would be available to flood sufferers and that supply dealers had established deferred payment plans which could be utilized by exhibitors in need of either a few items of equipment or complete theatre renovation.

Robin said that reports indicated that most of the theatre equipment flood damage was to carpets and seats, projection equipment, with the exception of wiring, being out of reach of the water, for the most part.

mate the damage until a complete study of the situation is completed.

In Hartford all downtown theatres are reopening following the restoration of electrical power. It was the failure of the power rather than the flood waters directly, which forced the closing of the Hartford houses. Theatres in the city are planning a benefit matinee for flood sufferers on March 29, when each house will donate theatre and film for the special showings, which have been approved by Mayor Spellacy. Only the State in Hartford was seriously damaged. About 2,500 of 4,000 seats were damaged there. The WPA Civic Repertory expects to resume stage performances April 2.

Patrons at the Roxy in New York have contributed $2,039.50 to the Red Cross for flood relief during the past three days.

Brighton Aids Flood Needy

BRIGHTON, MASS., March 24.—An after-school matinee at the Egyptian here tomorrow will be one of the first moves to aid flood sufferers hereabouts. Cans of food will be used for admission and the gifts will be distributed by the Red Cross and other organizations. Joseph Marquis, manager, arranged the move.

owner of the association. Letters were sent to approximately 110 dealers throughout the country and, according to Rudolph Eisenberg, who will be general counsel for the organization, the response has indicated a desire on the part of many to join the new group. Replies received thus far from questionnaires sent to about 500 equipment manufacturers pointed to a widespread desire to cooperate, Eisenberg declared.

De Kruif will act as general manager of the new association. It is planned to open a New York headquarters and showroom where equipment will be on permanent display. The admission fee for members is $50, for which the dealer will receive one share of stock. Dues will range from $50 to $100 a year, depending on the size of the dealer's territory.

It is not the intention of the organization to conclude exclusive arrangements with manufacturers, but it is expected, according to Eisenberg, that the prices obtained from manufacturers through the cooperative buying arrangement will be the best obtainable. The organization also plans to standardize prices, so that all dealer-members will sell the same piece of equipment for the same price, no matter where they may be located.

A clearing house will be established for the disposal of second-hand equipment and overstock. Assistance in sales and promotion through various methods, advertising for the dealer-members as a whole, help in credit and financing arrangements, accounting methods and a weekly bulletin of information are planned by the organization, according to the prospectus.

When the prospective dealer-members have been selected from the various centers, a meeting of those approved by De Kruif will be held here. No decision as to time and place has been made as yet.

National's Product Buys to Start Early

With the arrival of J. J. Sullivan and Edward Zabel next week from the coast, buying conferences between National Theatre executives and the sales managers of major companies will get under way a month in advance of last year.

During the previous year, Sullivan and Edward L. Alperson started negotiating new product deals in May. National now operates 382 theatres throughout the country.

While Alperson was on the coast recently he closed with Twentieth Century-Fox.

Milt Kusell, New York state district manager for Paramount, has closed a two-year deal with George Skouras for the Skouras Theatres and also has signed a number of other deals for next season's output.

Eugene Picker, film buyer for Loew's, states he doesn't intend to move up his negotiations for new product.

Schaefer Talk Starts Clash Over Booking

of United Artists, gave members of the sub-committee copies of a stenographic report on a stage show which he said had been presented by two of the independent exhibitors who have advocated the adoption of the bill on moral grounds, and which contained a number of suggestive quips. At this point, Abraham F. Myers, general counsel for Allied States Ass'n, declared heatedly that the witness was descending to new low levels, and added, "When it comes to our turn we are not going to pull our punches in regard to Schaefer. We are going to introduce matter which may be called to the attention of the Department of Justice."

Congressman Cooper of Ohio, after reading the script, asked, "How can any man appear before this committee and advocate decency when he permits such a show as this to go on in his theatre""

Myers, in reply, declared, "I feel very confident that if anything like this was said on the stage and came to the attention of Yamins, he would not permit it to go on," to which statement C. C. Pettijohn, counsel for the Hays organization, answered, "Since Myers has made the statement that he is going to call the attention of the Department of Justice, and that he is not going to pull his punches, we won't do so either. I have some things which I was not going to introduce in this hearing, but now I'm going to put them in. I want to say right now that we accept the challenge of Myers."

"I am not in the least intimidated by what Pettijohn said," countered Myers, "but I will withdraw, in the interest of fair procedure, what was said about the Department of Justice."

Kuykendall Testimony Lengthy

Declaring that the Pettengill Bill will solve none of the complaints which have been registered, Ed Kuykendall, president of the M.P.T.O.A., told the sub-committee that the matters which have been discussed are chiefly problems best settled within the industry. He declared that a 20 per cent cancellation clause, at the least, is necessary to enable exhibitors to select the pictures best suited for their audiences. There is much confusion between the terms "independent," "affiliated" and "circuit," the witness said, explaining that there are over 400 circuits of four houses or more, and that they operate 5,656 theatres. Of these, he said, five circuits, with 1,094 houses, are affiliated organizations. The average seating capacity of individually operated houses, he added, is 515, while that for circuit theatres under local or independent management is 897 and that of the national circuits, 1,445.

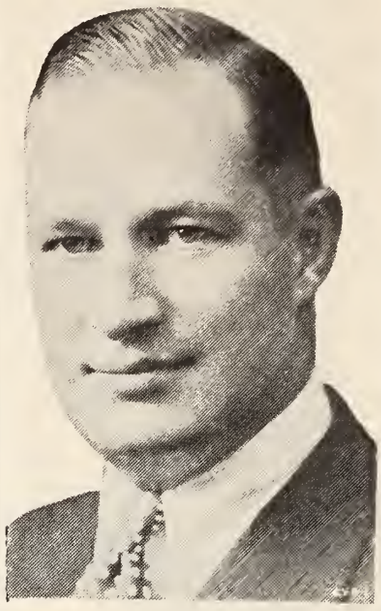
"We have many disputes with the producers," Kuykendall continued, "concerning what should and should not go into pictures. The whole world loves to argue the point, but, even before the advent of the Legion of Decency, the producers were taking steps to improve their product. There are a number of trade practices to which exhibitors are opposed, but they are controversial matters in which neither the public nor the committee have any real interest.

"The Pettengill Bill, however, will not solve these difficulties," added Kuykendall, "but will merely serve to increase film rentals for the smaller theatres. A major point of difficulty will be that of controlling the differential in the price between a picture sold separately and one sold as part of a block. This will lead to continual litigation, with the courts placed in the position of having to determine the value of the picture. So stringent are the terms of the bill that no distributor would move one step beyond its provisions, and exhibitors will lose whatever cancellation and other privileges they now have. The difference between block and selective buying is exemplified in the case of United Artists, whose films are sold singly, bringing much higher prices than do those of the other producers. But full line forcing is a short-sighted, stupid business practice that should be abandoned.

"The only practical solution of the problem," Kuykendall added, "is a 20 per cent cancellation clause, which is one of the matters to be discussed at a meeting soon to be held with the distributors. If this bill becomes a law, we are convinced not only that it will not work, but that positively it will completely destroy any possible chance to secure a minimum rejection privilege to the exhibition contracts by a voluntary modification of sales policy."

At this point Pettijohn interjected, "I would take the position of Sidney R. Kent, that for moral and social reasons the exhibitor should have a 100 per cent cancellation privilege, but when it comes to cancelling because of the box-office the matter must be settled within the industry."

Ray Morrow, of Malden, Ark., was the next witness. He told the committee that he never had any difficulty in getting rid of pictures which he felt would offend his audiences, and stated that the small town exhibitor who has no competition, can settle his problem easily, pointing out that if a distributor is difficult to deal with it is necessary merely to refuse to deal with him the following year.



Briefs in opposition to the bill were introduced by Kuykendall for Jay Emanuel of Philadelphia; Hugh W. Bruen, president of the Theatre Owners of the Northwest, and M. A. Lightman, president of the Tri-State M.P.T.O.

Theatre League Now Has Dramatist Pact

The League of N. Y. Theatres, a producing managers' organization, has drawn up its own contract for the use of its members in their dealings with playwrights, Dr. Henry Moskowitz, president of the league, said yesterday. The contract is designed to take the place of the new minimum basic agreement placed in effect March 1 by the Dramatists' Guild, which is being rejected by the managers as a result of the refusal of the guild to negotiate a new agreement or to submit disputed points to arbitration.

A membership meeting of the league will be held today at which the managers' new contract will be explained and members will be asked to use the pact exclusively.

Hake Moved Up

C. V. Hake, Twentieth Century-Fox manager in Japan and Korea, has been named an executive aide to W. J. Hutchinson, foreign manager. He will arrive in New York about May 1 and will organize the 1936 Overseas Kent Drive as his first assignment.

News of Hake's appointment was received at the home office in a cablegram from Hutchinson, who is now in England.

Hake has represented Twentieth Century-Fox and its predecessor company in the Far East since 1928. Before joining Fox Film he was with First National and F.B.O. Before entering the film business he was with the Irving Trust Co. He is a native of Salt Lake City.

RKO Sales Problems Up at Meeting Here

Current sales problems were discussed yesterday at a meeting of RKO Radio eastern division sales officials at the Waldorf-Astoria, which was presided over by Ned E. Depinet, president, and Jules Levy, vice-president and general sales manager of RKO Distributing Corp.

Attending the meeting were E. L. McEvoy, eastern sales manager; Harry Michalson, short subject sales manager; Leo Devaney, Canadian district manager; Nat Levy, east-central district manager, and the following branch managers, C. R. Halligan, Albany; R. C. Cropper, Boston; H. T. Dixon, Buffalo; S. C. Jacques, Cincinnati; H. Greenblatt, Cleveland; A. J. Mertz, Detroit; R. E. Churchill, Indianapolis; B. Pitkin, New Haven; S. L. McNamee, Philadelphia; G. M. Lefko, Pittsburgh; R. C. Folliard, Washington, and R. S. Wolf, manager, and the entire sales force of the New York exchange.

Representing the home office were A. A. Schubart, M. G. Poller, William E. Dahler, Lou Miller, J. P. Skelly, Tom Quinn, William E. Clark, Harry Gittelson, Lou Gaudreau, Sid Kramer, Ed Smith, Jr., Rutgers Neilson and Leon J. Bamberger.

The meeting was the fifth regional sales conclave held by Levy in recent weeks in the course of a transcontinental tour of RKO branches.

Producers Authors' Targets at Hearing

WASHINGTON, March 24.—"Incompetent" producers who destroy the main values of the author's works were today attacked before the House Patents Committee by representatives of the writers, appearing in opposition to the Duffy Bill.

Features of the measure that would permit freedom of editorial revision were criticized by Ben Lucian Berman, author of "Steamboat 'Round the Bend" who declared it would undermine the authors' moral rights, and added that "98 per cent of the screen writers in Hollywood are taking orders from producers who are quite incompetent to direct them."

Other complaints were registered by Mary Heaton Vorse, who criticized the name "Sea Beast" used on one of her stories, starring Milton Sills, and complained that one studio used "only two lines" of her script.

The hearings through the remainder of the week will be devoted to the testimony of the various authors' groups.

Pass New Deal Short

COLUMBUS, March 24.—The Ohio censors have passed "The Amateur Fire Brigade," animated cartoon satirizing the New Deal, submitted in revised form by the Sentinels of the Republic. The board rejected the original script after having reviewed the film four times.

Flood Damage Extent Still Not Estimated

Bernhard Reports Work Now in Progress

An estimate of theatre flood damage is still impossible to make, Joseph W. Bernhard, Warner theatre head, said yesterday on his return from an inspection visit to the company's houses in the Pennsylvania flood area.

All of Warners' 14 Pittsburgh theatres are closed and three additional Warner houses in Johnstown are closed, Bernhard reported. Cleaning and refurnishing of the theatres are progressing rapidly and reopenings now appear to be dependent upon the restoration of power and light services in the flood territories, it was stated. All neighborhood theatres, as well as the downtown first runs in Pittsburgh are closed, due to the continued lack of electric power, Bernhard said.

Comerford representatives yesterday toured houses in the Susquehanna

Warners to Offer 5-Year Music Pact

Warner music subsidiaries will offer five-year music licensing contracts to radio stations, effective April 1, in place of the short term agreements which have been in use since the companies' resignation from Ascap, Jan. 1, Herman Starr, Warner vice-president, said yesterday.

The contracts result from an agreement on revised rates for the use of Warner music reached this week by Starr and James W. Baldwin, manager of the National Ass'n. of Broadcasters. The new rates will retain the monthly fee arrangement inaugurated in January, but will be Lynch in Milstein's M-G-M Post in L. A.

Los Angeles, March 25.—Clayton Lynch, former St. Louis branch manager for M-G-M, has been transferred to the local branch as manager, succeeding J. J. Milstein, who resigned recently. W. E. Banford, former Des Moines manager, has been shifted to St. Louis in Lynch's place, and D. C. Kennedy, former Des Moines salesman, has been promoted to the manager's post at that branch. The changes all will be effective next Monday.

Says Loss Should Be Shared By Theatres and Producers

By CLARENCE LINZ

Washington, March 25.—"Weak-kneed exhibitors who are afraid to admit they run a picture because it makes money for them," were assailed today before the Pettengill block booking sub-committee by E. D. (Jack) Miller, president of the Chicago Exhibitors' Ass'n.

Appearing in opposition to the Pettengill Bill, Miller told the sub-committee he differed from Ed Kuykendall, M.P.T.O.A. president, on the question of cancellations, and did not believe that the privileges should be carried so far as to lay the entire loss of a flop picture on the producer. It should be more of a 50-50 proposition, he said, explaining that when he contracted for a company's output and got a number of bad pictures he demanded, and got, an adjustment in price or refused to buy the output the following year.

"This bill will not stop any immorality in pictures," he said. He defended the exhibitors who have been charged with showing anything that had box-office appeal, and pointed out that "immoral pictures would not bring us any money over any length of time." Indicating that he deliberately overbuys, Miller explained that he plans on setting aside a certain percentage of pictures each year, but in

Court Holds Ruling On Union Picketing

Decision was reserved yesterday by N. Y. Supreme Court Justice Carewe on an application by Harry Brandt for an injunction to restrain the Film Exchange Employees' Union from picketing the Globe, a Brandt house on Broadway.

Picketing of the theatre was begun last Saturday by the exchange employes' union with the opening of "The Leathernecks Have Landed." The union has concentrated picketing activities on houses playing Republic pictures since 11 union employes walked out of the Republic exchange here recently. Weisman, Quinn, Allen & Spett appeared as attorneys for Brandt in the injunction proceedings.

Capra Again

Hollywood, March 25.—For weeks, Hollywood has been developing excitement over "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," the Frank Capra picture for Columbia which has been in work for a full year.

The advance word, originating from no known source remotely or otherwise identified with the producing organization, has been that the director has delivered one of the topflight attractions of the new year; that Gary Cooper climaxes his career as the male lead and that "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town" makes a brand new star in Jean Arthur.

Previewed here last night, the picture was afforded a rousing and enthusiastic reception. Motion Picture Daily's reviewer, throwing all restraint to the breezes, frankly characterized the picture as topping "It Happened One Night."

This and other comment, bouncing through the coast wire, are published on page 6 today.

U. A. Seeks Outlets In Illinois Towns

Chicago, March 25.—United Artists have promoted deals for the opening of the Masonic Temple Auditorium in Elgin and an armory in Kewanee as theatres, both to be known as "The Home of United Artists Pictures." This marks the beginning of what may be a battle between U.A. and Great States. Having sold away from Great States, U.A. is trying to get dates in spots where the circuit operates.

The Elgin house will be called the Temple Auditorium. It will be remodeled, redecorated and wired for

Three Million AT&T Funds In Production

Federal Probe Details Loans on Pictures

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

Washington, March 25—Investigation of the film activities of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., today by the Federal Communications Commission revealed that the telephone company had advanced a total of $3,413,400 for film production.

A. T. & T. advanced $15,000,000 to Fox Theatres Corp. in 1929, it was testified by Samuel Meisells, assistant accountant of the commission. The money was advanced by Erpi, which borrowed it from Western Electric, of which it is a subsidiary. Western Electric, A. T. & T. subsidiary, at the same time obtained a $12,000,000 advance from the parent company.

Meisells testified that he could find no information in the A. T. & T. records to show why the loan was made through Erpi instead of directly by A. T. & T. or Western Electric. Later, the accountant said, Erpi loaned $5,000,000 to General Theatres, Inc., the funds being used to pay off the advance originally made to Fox Theatres, and $9,775,000 to Halsey, Stuart & Co.

"Erpi furnished $15,000,000 to repay itself the $15,000,000 to Fox and substitute new debtors for the old one, at the same time reducing the original indebtedness by $225,000," it was explained by Samuel Becker, special

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, March 25.

NEVER let it be bruited about that Hollywood fails ever to recognize genius. Exactly what genius is and what makes it tick may be a matter of opinion and climate, but Hollywood, on and off the Metro lot, has voted Stromberg has it. For Hunt today is the white-haired boy in that studio. There is no need for him to bay at the moon; somehow or other Louis B. Mayer and Sam Katz will get it, or an acceptable substitute, if the Stromberg inclination should run into astronomical channels. . . .

Stromberg is the chap who set Metro up in the business of making operettas. He has done so good a job that the studio feels it no longer has any worries along such lines as, for instance, it has had and still has with musical comedy. The reward for Stromberg thus has been a new five-year contract, grafted to the two years yet to go on the old, at terms to which no genius possibly could find exception. That deal, as this department gets it, proved a disappointment to Sam Goldwyn, who for long had hoped to bring not only Stromberg, but Thalberg, into the United Artists fold. You see, Nick Schenck knew all about it. . . .

Since '33, the record shows Stromberg has been forging steadily ahead as one of the most successful producers of money pictures in Hollywood. In that year, the archives finally divulged after much patient effort, he produced "Penthouse" with Myrna Loy and Warner Baxter. This was the opus which took Miss Loy out of Oriental siren garb and made of her an attractive American girl; she's been that ever since. "Bombshell" with Jean Harlow and Spencer Tracy was another Stromberg of '33 vintage. Others pinned to his chest are "The Prizefighter and the Lady," a swell attraction thwarted by its title; "Eskimo," "Chained," "Hideout," "Treasure Island," "The Painted Veil," "The Thin Man," about which nothing further need be said; "Naughty Marietta," "Ah! Wilderness," "Rose Marie," "Wife vs. Secretary," "Small Town Girl," in production now with Bob Taylor and Janet Gaynor, and "The Great Ziegfeld," the picture which makes Metro-ites weak with emotion whenever they talk about it, which is practically all of the time. . . .

It's a far cry from the days when Stromberg was press agent for Lewis J. Selznick and later for Tom Ince. It was an exploitation two-reeler for Ince, our memory seems to recall, which gave Hunt the production fever at high pitch and propelled him into the creative end of the business on his own. Long with Metro, his record, naturally pinpricked with some attractions which missed, has been an outstanding one. What they think there is expressed by an unnamed M-G-M executive: "If I had to choose from all the producers in Hollywood, I'd take Stromberg." He doesn't have to; he's got him.

Newspaper and magazine correspondents sailing under false credentials are a bother to the studios. One method is to write important publications of plans to submit material at regular rates until one paper replies it will accept manuscript on such a basis. On publication stationery obviously, this allows the phony to print cards and launch operations for whatever purpose he may have in mind. The suspicions of a major studio were aroused recently and the resultant investigation brought to light the above technique. Instances of this nature are invariably turned over to the Hays office here for probing. In the case cited, the man was caught and frightened to a degree which probably will dispel any similar attempt on his part for some time to come. However, no doubt another is prepared to follow his trail. The studios expect it. . . .

Mox Shobbus, Hollywood's Balaban without Katz, after counting up his matinee take in competition with Santa Anita, slot machines and Marion Davies' beach house, let loose a few iconoclastic bombshells:

"If the Government used to pay farmers for not farming and cotton men for plowing under every other row of cotton, maybe it would be a good idea if some exhibitors should be paid when they don't exhibit and if some exhibitors plowed under every other seat.

"Better still, if exhibitors plowed under every other feature and producers plowed under every other exhibitor, maybe we would all go out of business together." . . .

One method, induced by necessity, of disposing of visitors with dispatch and courtesy is the A and B tour, a reflection of current drifts in production, no doubt. The visitor whose introductions stamp him as of some pumpkins gets the A tour which embraces the works. The others are given the B. It is not the visitor, however, who should be given the works, but those outside of Hollywood who send him here to further hamper picture making. . . .

Legion Approves 8 Of 10 New Pictures

Of 10 pictures reviewed and classified by the Legion of Decency in its latest listing for the current week, eight were called unobjectionable for general patronage, only two were classified as unobjectionable for adults and for the first time none was classed as objectionable in part.

The additions, classified, are as follows: Class A-1, Unobjectionable for General Patronage—"The Border Caballero," "Charlie Chan at the Circus," "House of a Thousand Candles," "King of the Pecos," "Tempo Massimo," "Too Many Parents," "Two in Revolt," "Young Love." Class A-2, Unobjectionable for Adults—"Der Fluechtling Aus Chicago," "Petticoat Fever."

Theatre Men Discuss Dramatist Contract

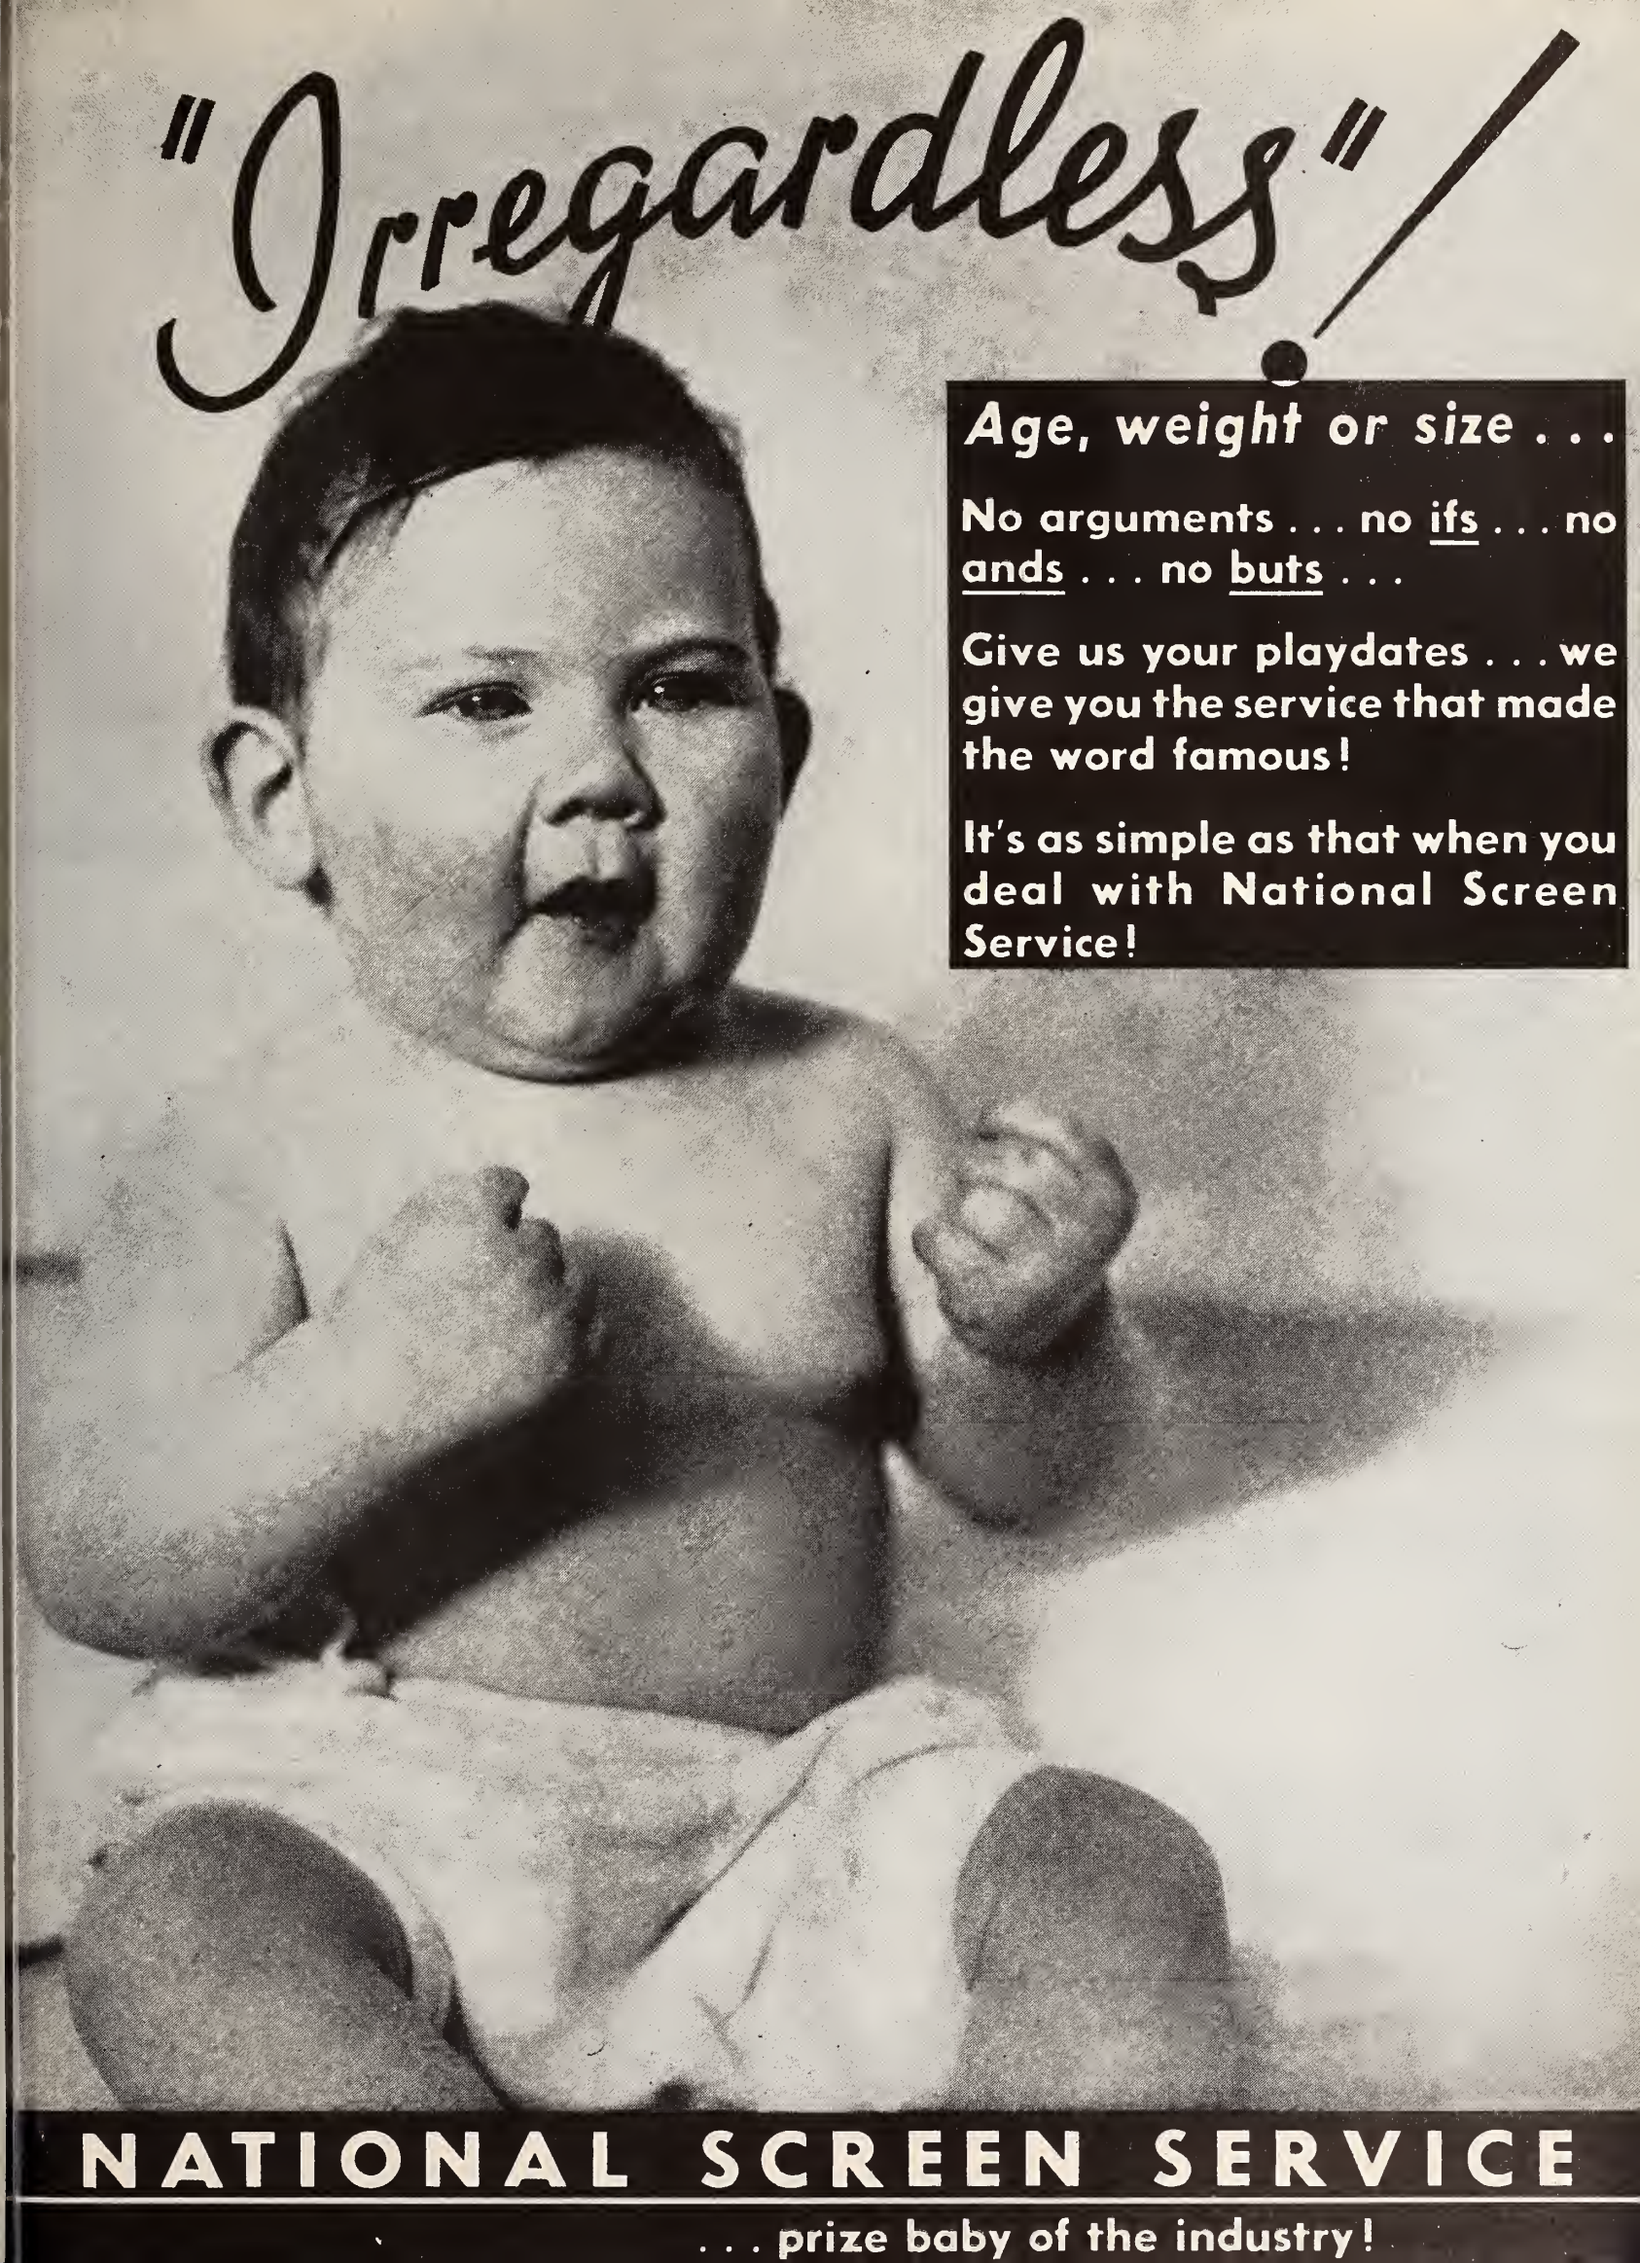
Provisions of the new contract to be offered playwrights by producing managers were discussed yesterday at a meeting of the League of N. Y. Theatres. The contract is understood to be similar in practically all respects to the one in use prior to March 1.

The league is attempting to obtain a solid managerial support for the use of the new contract, which is designed to supersede the one placed in effect March 1 by the Dramatists' Guild. This pact drew the objections of the producing managers by curtailing their participation in the proceeds from the sale of film rights to stage plays. The guild refused overtures from the managers aimed at either the negotiation of a new agreement or the submission of disputed points to arbitration.

Murphy, Paul Added To Universal Staff

HOLLYWOOD, March 25.—Charles R. Rogers, who will be executive vice-president of Universal in charge of production, has named Val Paul, who has been associated with him in other companies, to a production post at Universal.

Rogers also has signed Ralph Murphy, who directed a number of films for Rogers when he was a Paramount producer, to a contract as a Universal director.



"Rose Marie" Heads Herald's Champions

"Rose Marie" heads the list of Motion Picture Herald box-office champions for February.

Six others to get this rating are: "Modern Times," "The Story of Louis Pasteur," "A Tale of Two Cities," "Exclusive Story," "Follow the Fleet" and "The Ghost Goes West."

Para. to Do 4 in Color

HOLLYWOOD, March 25.—Paramount has signed with Technicolor for four features in color during the next 12 months.

counsel for the commission, under whose questioning Meisells disclosed the financial moves of A. T. & T.

A number of other operations in film fields were disclosed by the witness, including the purchase by Weco Corp., Western Electric subsidiary, of $8,500,000 of film securities notes with funds supplied by Western Electric. Graybar Electric Co., another A. T. & T. subsidiary, purchased $500,000 of the notes, he said.

Exhibitors Reliance Corp., owned by Erpi, it was revealed, put up funds for production, advancing Picture Alliance Corp. $805,000 to finance the making of 12 features, nine westerns, 29 two-reelers and 10 one-reelers. It loaned Educational $400,000 for 26 shorts. A loan was made to Universal for the production of "Moonlight and Pretzels." Krinsky and Cochran obtained $168,620 to make "Emperor Jones." Hecht and MacArthur were loaned $307,984 for "Once in a Blue Moon," and $187,000 for "The Scoundrel" and another film. Arnold Pictures Corp. obtained $70,000 for "His Double Life." Exito Prod., Inc., got $81,000 for "Unofficial Wife" and the Take-a-Chance Picture Co., obtained $100,000 for "Take a Chance." A credit of $50,000 was extended to the Quigley Publishing Co. in June, 1932.

Quigley Statement Issued

[The following statement was issued last night by Quigley Publishing Co.:

"On June 30, 1932, at which time, on account of the depression, the normal sources of credit to legitimate business were closed, Quigley Publishing Co. negotiated a credit, in amount of $50,000, with the Exhibitors' Reliance Corp., a subsidiary of Erpi.

"The credit above referred to was negotiated in full and mutual realization of the fact that it involved no implications or commitments beyond, or in addition to, repayment with interest at the normal rate.

"Repayment in full, together with interest, was completed on April 18, 1935."]

An explanatory statement issued by Charles F. Hurd, special counsel for A. T. & T., showed that the development of sound was more or less accidental, growing out of research on equipment for telephone testing. It was first applied as a new method of sound recording and later experiments were undertaken in the synchronization of sound and picture.

The company does not deny that it has a monopoly on the manufacture of sound equipment, but Hurd contended it was drawn into the picture situation legitimately when it became necessary to take over a producing company which found itself unable to meet a debt to A. T. & T. For a time, he said, the company was producing pictures at the Long Island studio of Paramount, but he admitted that none of its productions was successful.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Mr. Deeds Goes to Town"

(Columbia)

HOLLYWOOD, March 25.—Mr. Deeds goes to town and so will any exhibitor who books this hilarious combination of comedy, satire and romance, in which Frank Capra tops his "It Happened One Night." Gary Cooper gives by far the best performance of his career as the sensitive, sensible small town citizen who makes all the money he wants from a little factory and the writing of poetry for postcards.

A legacy of $20,000,000 takes him to New York, where hordes of chiselers attempt to take him over. Deeds evades all the traps with a shy, mild positiveness, placing his trust only in Jean Arthur, a newspaper girl, who betrays his confidence for a series of front page stories. Discovering that she has made him a byword as the "Cinderella Man," Cooper decides to give away his fortune. Parasitic relatives bring insanity charges and Deeds' defense, aided by Miss Arthur, is one of the funniest climaxes seen in many a day.

Capra's handling of the characters and situations deserves all possible praise. Robert Riskin's screen play from the original by Clarence Budington Kelland is packed with unexpected comedy twists. The same high praise goes to the impressive cast for its excellent work. Miss Arthur is telling as the alternately cynical and tender reporter; George Bancroft makes every minute count as the human editor and Lionel Stander introduces his own wild comedy as the press agent.

Deserving of comment are Douglas Dumbrille as the two-timing attorney, Raymond Walburn as the butler, H. B. Warner as the judge at the insanity hearing, Walter Catlett as the intoxicated poet, John Wray for a fine emotional scene as the desperate bankrupt, and Mayo Methot and Jameson Thomas as grasping relatives.

The film's highlights include the scene where Deeds toots his beloved tuba in the band at his own farewell celebration, his gentle, but efficient, distribution of knockouts, and the uproariously funny and touching insanity hearing, which supplies the best exploitation angle, if one is to be selected from many.

Theatres Shut as "Luxuries"

PITTSBURGH, March 25.—A score or more of Warner and Harris neighborhood houses which reopened for business over the week-end were closed again today. The Duquesne Light Co. placed theatres in the luxury classification and asked the circuits to keep them shut in the interests of power conservation. The utility company did not intimate when the houses would be permitted to relight, but it was felt certain that they would remain dark until next Sunday at least.

Hartford Getting Power

HARTFORD, March 25.—Borrowing electric power from outside, the city has recovered its lights in several sections and theatres have reopened for the most part. Loew's Poli and Palace, however, remain closed, and the Allyn, Rialto and E. M. Loew were unable to predict certain opening tonight. Those theatres which had been successful in securing light the night before, reported poor business, with the 9 o'clock curfew still in effect, and police discouraging all automobile traffic.

Tom Norman and Fred Schmitendorf are leasing these auditoriums on a percentage basis and are playing the pictures the same way. They also plan to send DeVry portable equipment on a truck into towns having small theatres, or none at all, and play U. A. pictures, forming a small circuit for one night stands, weekly, and if this is successful they may start a fleet of trucks on the same plan in order to give U.A. full showing in this territory.

Says Theatre Should Share Film Losses

doing so is able to obtain attractions that more than offset the loss.

"I feel we should assume a fair part of what the distributor paid when he made the picture," he said. "Every distributor starts out to make a great picture, but it doesn't always turn out that way. I do not believe the producer should take an absolute cancellation on that picture, but I do believe he should take 50 per cent," Miller declared.

Exhibitors are interested mostly in box-office returns, it was declared by Judge Roy L. Walker of Lampasas, Tex., president of the Theatre Owners Protective Ass'n. in the state. Showmen in the small towns rely more on star value than anything else. The bill would take away the small theatre owners' ability to insure a steady flow of product, he contended.

If a company ever produced a picture which adhered strictly to a synopsis issued six months earlier, the public would not want it, was the opinion of Morton Thalheimer, president of the M.P.T.O. of Virginia.

Previous Testimony Expunged

Testimony offered earlier in the week by George J. Schaefer of United Artists regarding an allegedly undesirable act which played one of Nathan Yamins' houses in Fall River, Mass., was expunged from the record today upon receipt by Abram F. Myers of Allied States of a wire from Yamins, in Miami Beach. Yamins explained the Capitol is under lease to a company of which he owns 50 per cent of the stock, the balance owned by William Purcell, who has management control.

A change in policy from pictures only to Saturday vaudeville was instituted by Purcell while Yamins was out of the city, and immediately upon learning of the change he wired Purcell that he would take the house over for non-payment of rent unless the acts were discontinued, which was done immediately. Yamins called the Schaefer statement "just another despicable poison gas attack to act as a smoke screen to conceal the vicious effects of block booking."

The constitutionality of the four block booking bills pending in Congress was challenged by Charles C. Pettijohn, in a brief filed with the sub-committee at the close of today's session. "Producers and distributors are engaged in an entirely private business and in the absence of any purpose to create or maintain a monopoly have the right to select their own customers and dispose of their film in wholesale lots of two or more at prices which in their judgment are adequate and also to enter into contracts for the future delivery of such film in advance of either production or delivery," he contended. "This right is denied by all four of these bills."

He argued further that the film industry is not a public utility and is not "affected with such a public interest as to justify Federal regulation and control." He pointed out that there are certain well defined limits to the power of Congress to regulate interstate commerce, among which is the Bill of Rights. He termed the denial of the inherent right of producers and distributors to market their films wholesale by future contracts a violation of the fifth amendment.

"The film industry cannot be legislated under the control or regulation of any Federal agency and subjected to Governmental price fixing," he said.

The hearings will be brought to a close tomorrow, with the time to be divided between Pettijohn and Myers for final argument.

Warners to Offer 5-Year Music Pact

based on the local quarter-hour program rate of each station, instead of the national rate, as heretofore. The change will result in appreciable reductions in the music fee paid by many of the 250 Warner-licensed broadcasting stations. The Warner policy of charging broadcasters on a "per piece" basis, that is on actual use of the music, rather than a bulk rate, had to be abandoned, Starr said, because of the bulk rate agreements signed by the large networks with Ascap. Warner music would be subjected to discrimination if the per piece policy was adopted in the face of these agreements, Starr said.

"Our own five-year contract," he added, "is evidence of our determination to remain outside Ascap."

The new contract was submitted to radio stations throughout the country yesterday. Warners have not yet announced a policy for the licensing of theatres to perform their music.

Writers Again Aim Fire at Producers

son declared the proposed bill would deprive writers of some of the benefits won under the existing law. He blamed studio executives for questionable films, complaining that highly paid playwrights were treated like office boys and the advice of experienced dramatists was ignored, leading to low moral standards on the screen.

The committee was told that while the writers have reached a satisfactory working agreement with legitimate producers about the revision of scripts, conditions in Hollywood are very unsatisfactory. The merger of the production and exhibition rights proposed by the Duffy Bill, said Lawson, would disorganize the theatre industry by permitting the release of films before legitimate runs had concluded.

He also criticized the limitation on infringement penalties in the case of newsreels, declaring the provision ambiguous. Hearings during the remainder of the week will be devoted to music and magazine publishers. Next week the committee will hear other interests and plans to permit the film industry to present its case during the final week of the hearings.

Pettijohn, Myers Sum Up; Exchanges Hot

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, March 26.—A final barrage of aspersions against witnesses who have appeared both for and against the bill, today marked the conclusion of three weeks of hearings on block booking legislation before the Pettengill sub-committee of the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Summing up for the opponents, C. C. Pettijohn, general counsel for the Hays organization, called attention to Allied States' Tiffany contract which he said was the "block bookingest, blind sellingest" contract ever offered exhibitors, adding that "the contract was called Tiffany, but the pictures were Woolworth."

Answering for the exhibitor proponents, Abram F. Myers, general counsel for Allied, declared that the Tiffany contract was devised shortly after talking pictures were introduced and when it was hard and expensive

No Quorum, Delay Para. Board Meet

The regular meeting of the board of Paramount Pictures was postponed yesterday for lack of a quorum. The meeting will be held some time within the next two weeks.

Postponement of the meeting was caused by the absence from the city of a number of directors and attendance of others at funeral services for Gerald Brooks, a member of the board and executive committee, who died Tuesday. The deferred meeting will not change the plans of John E. Otterson, president, and Adolph Zukor, chairman of the board, for leaving for the coast today, it was said. The committee, of which Lord Moyne, Minister of Agriculture from 1925 to 1929, is chairman, will "consider the position of British films having in mind the approaching expiration of the Cinematograph Films Act of 1927 and inquire whether any and, if so, what measures are still required in the public interest to promote production, renting and exhibition such films."

Ascap Members Get Officers' Reports

Annual reports of officers of Ascap were submitted to the annual membership meeting and dinner of the society at the Ritz Hotel last night. The business session was a routine one as the society's annual membership meeting is not called upon to transact business. Gene Buck presided. E. C. Mills, Ascap general manager, was detained in Washington by the Duffy Bill hearings in progress before the House Patents Committee.

Leslie Adams Dies

Leslie Adams, actor, died yesterday at New York Hospital following a brief illness. He collapsed a week ago during rehearsal of a new play in which he was to play the lead. Adams, who was 49 years old, is survived by his widow, the former Gwendolyn Williams, and two sons, Charles and Robert Adams.

W. T. Robinson Dead

BELMONT, N. C., March 26.—William T. Robinson, 62, retired theatre owner, died at his home here after a prolonged illness. He owned and operated the first theatre in Belmont, retiring some time ago because of ill health.

Hallstrom, Jr., Passes

SALT LAKE CITY, March 26.—Carl I. Hallstrom, Jr., who was stage manager of the Orpheum Theatre here, died yesterday of pneumonia following a brief illness.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, March 26

THE office is spacious in keeping with the accepted Hollywood manner. Off to the left and running on generously to the administration building wall are a sunken bathtub, a steam room, quarters for a masseur and a complete kitchen equipment, all done in tile, once white but now that slightly yellowish which comes from improper application of soapsuds and brush. Built by Mack Sennett before he fell on less lucrative days, then annexed along with the rest of the studio layout by Mascot, this is now the production headquarters of Nat Levine and Republic Pictures. . . .

Levine is busy. So busy in fact that nobody, except a visitor like us, is escorted into those uninhabited regions. Perhaps the attempt at conveying to what peak industry on the Republic lot reaches was the idea beyond Jack Fier's idea in showing us around. A matter of contrasts scheme. At any rate, here was the inactive layout to emphasize Levine's active days and nights on the job. The approach to that job may be right. Then again it may be all wet. The facts in the case, however, are that he often reaches his desk as early as seven-thirty in the morning, to remain at it until far into the evening, six days a week. The seventh finds him trying out a round of golf in the afternoon and the remainder of the rest day devoted to poring over scripts. . . .

Levine is a babe in swaddling clothes if you are to compare him with the high and mighty estate which other and far better established producers here have attained. That, however, does not bother Levine. If he does not know first hand the jibes which are thrust at Republic, he must have heard of them in passing. That also does not bother him. On occasion, they kid here about the measure of Levine's drive. There is the gag about the renaming of his studio from Republic to the S.S.S, meaning sunrise, sunset and Sundays. Also the wit was around recently who, after the Academy awards dinner, cracked, "Levine ought to get a statuette for the plant maintaining the longest hours." This space has no idea how Republic's production head feels about the pokes, but it does know that he might well feel complimented. . . .

Whether he will lick his problem is in the laps of the gods. At least, Levine knows what confronts him. He knows that with him and his operations where a limited budget makes pennies look like dollars the opportunity for shenanigans is virtually not at all; that in his market, limited in point of first runs, pictures have to be turned out for a price which is nothing like the price prevailing in other Hollywood parts and that any encroachment in the carefully worked financial program is simply no good. It's simple. The outgo and the intake won't end up within hailing distance of each other. . . .

What Levine is heading for has precedent in this business. It's another Columbia. Once C.B.C., meaning Cohn, Brandt and Cohn, Columbia had a time of it back in the days before it nationalized its exchange system, before it had gotten into its real stride, before anybody much was paying attention to, or was interested in, what the company was doing or trying to do. But the chance came with maturity in production and the hardest sort of endeavor. What has happened before, can and may happen again. Stranger things go on in this business. . . .

In his desire, therefore, to lead toward better product, Levine is planning to trim his main line program next season from thirty-two to twenty-six features, all assortments, all types. In the action field which Republic importantly caters to, the total will run twenty-four in three series of eight as compared with sixteen currently. Serials, which do an international gross of surprising proportions, will bulk four in order to round out Republic's conception of what its complete program ought to be. . . .

In this day and age when the studios are so sharply conscious of alphabets and when A, B and C pictures are reckoned in all calculations, Republic is hitting it off between $2,500,000 and $3,500,000 in domestic gross annually. Levine makes no pretense at competition with the old-line studios; he couldn't very well. His efforts rather are concentrated on an output of very moderately priced attractions for the rank and file of the nation's theatres. As a producer of B pictures with an occasional A popping through, Republic, it is merely fact to report, is capturing greater and greater attention in the essentially double feature market prevailing today. Later, who knows? . . .

Connolly Theorizes On "Green Pastures"

"Green Pastures" as a stage play was the product of a Marc Connolly theory. It became a legend of the American stage, and in Sweden producing and seeing it developed almost into a national pastime.

As a film, it will be an enlarged development of the same theory, and what it will become is already a big question mark in the minds of both producers and distributors.

Connolly's theory, as he explained it yesterday, is that showmanship consists of enchanting an audience through purely emotional reactions so that it goes away pleasantly satisfied.

"An executive's scream is not showmanship," he says. "Neither is plastering a poster on a billboard, or surrounding a picture with opulent production values."

In putting "Green Pastures" on the stage, he says, he tried to give the colored actors the feeling they were producing it themselves. He made it theirs. The scenery was so crude it seemed to have been made by the players. This technique was carried into the film. Soft lighting prevails, he points out. William Keighley co-directed with him and Hal Mohr was behind the camera.

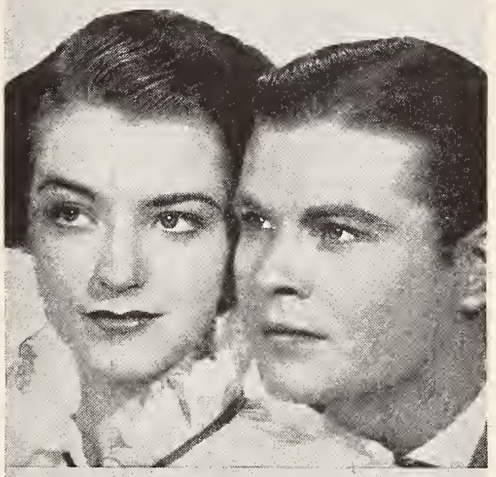
From an exhibitor's viewpoint the picture will be a curiosity, Connolly admits. It is one of the first to use an entire colored cast. In costuming, settings, acting—all details—it sticks to the formula of simplicity.

Unlike any previous colored picture, he believes, it has practically no advance sales resistance, because the stage play made two tours of the south, played in bankrupt cotton towns, and finally in the larger cities.

"The colored race adopted it as its own," he says, "and the whites everywhere accepted it enthusiastically."

He believes the work has been enhanced by the enlarged production facilities of films, and that it will be accepted in non-English speaking countries where people are familiar with the Old Testament without any attempt at translation into other languages.

Grants an Examination



Justice Aaron J. Levy in N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday granted a motion for an examination before trial to G. Hill in connection with his suit for $15,000 against Universal. Hill charges Universal is withholding three manuscripts which he submitted in May, 1934, and that since June, 1934, the company has refused to return them. The titles of the manuscripts in dispute are: "Finnigan's Ball," "Irish Visitors" and "Peggy O'Neil."

Astaire, RKO at Peace

HOLLYWOOD, March 26.—Fred Astaire and RKO today reached an agreement on the actor's current contract. The studio picked up the option. The disagreement arose when Astaire balked at a provision calling for three pictures next year.

Court Orders Sale Of Three Theatres

the action are Walter Reade, Cora Harris, the 217 West 45th Street Corp. and the Astor, Bijou, Morosco Realty Corp.

On March 18, Gustave Hartman, referee, appointed by the court to take testimony in the foreclosure proceedings, reported that City Investing was entitled to $1,230,112 on its second mortgage, subject to the prior lien held by Metropolitan Life. The referee recommended that the properties be sold at auction and added that an appraisal indicated that a sale should bring a sufficient amount to satisfy both mortgages.

S. S. Krellberg, lessor of the Bijou and Astor, said that the leases on the three theatres would not be disturbed by the sale of the properties at auction. The Shubert Estate is the lessor of the Morosco.

It has been widely reported on Broadway that the three theatres would be demolished to make way for a new theatre and store building, similar to the one nearing completion on the old Criterion site, opposite. However, City Investing, which was qualified by the referee as a bidder for the properties when the auction is held and, through its $1,230,000 lien, occupies an advantageous bidding position, said through an official that no definite plans can be made until after the sale.

Stubbins Quits Republic

Los Angeles, March 26.—Howard W. Stubbins today resigned as manager of the Republic Exchange, bringing to an end ten years with the company, including the old Monogram firm. Floyd St. Johns of San Francisco is filling the post temporarily. A permanent successor is now being considered.

It is understood that Stubbins' resignation has no connection with J. J. Milstein's joining the company.

More Double Bills Coming in Lincoln

Lincoln, Neb., March 26. — More double featuring is promised here April 1. Lincoln Theatres Corp., a J. H. Cooper Enterprise controlling six houses, will drop the Colonial, and the product normally used to feed it will be shoved into the Liberty which will go dual on a split week basis.

The Orpheum will dual on first halves until vaudeville goes out, when it will have dual splits.

It is understood the L. L. Dent Westland circuit is going to take over the Colonial to use as a lever for more product, thereby bringing the local string up to three.

Distributors contend that if the injunction were granted they might be required to release all pictures simultaneously to 60 theatres and that there are not enough prints to do this. They also assert that bidding for pictures at the opening of each season constitutes fair and open competition.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Sutter's Gold"

(Universal)

Sacramento, March 26.—Told against a background of historical fact, the entertainment element in this picture is in the blending of drama, comedy, romance and tragedy. Colorfully produced, the show moves to the tune of a thrill, action and adventure. The production technique, directing attention to the dramatic value of the incidentals and the subordinate players, sets the feature apart from formula historical biographies as Edward Arnold plays the lead.

It tells John Sutter's story. In New York he meets Lee Tracy, and the pair, lured by tales of riches, start west. As comedy dominates, they cover half the world before reaching their destination, founding a vast farming empire in which Arnold and Tracy are kings. Romance enters as Binnie Barnes turns Arnold's thoughts to love. With this love the picture changes from a comedy to drama. Gold is discovered.

Greedy for wealth, workers desert the fields. Arnold and Tracy quarrel and part. Miss Barnes deserts him when Arnold's lucky star begins to dim. His wife and family come to him. Tracy also returns, his wealth spent, to protect the land and holdings. Fortune fades, Sutter's wife dies, his son is killed and his daughter gets married. Carrying the case to the highest court Arnold, made the victim of a hoax, dies in Tracy's arms.

Two factors stand out in "Sutter's Gold" as exploitation material—the vivid episode of American history involved and the fine character portrayal of Arnold, whose "Diamond Jim Brady" put him up front rank among screen players in one picture.

Sutter was a man with a dream of empire—a Napoleon in a wilderness, whose Waterloo, strangely was the discovery of gold. The unbridled greed of men gone mad in the presence of unlimited wealth turned civilization upside down. It's powerful material but the continuity falters. James Cruze has pieced his episodes together instead of making them blend into a moulded whole. The romance falters. It has its gripping moments, but it leaves the beholder with confused impressions.

Production Code Seal No. 2,007. Running time, 90 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Comin' Round the Mountain"

(Republic)

Falling into the classification of routine western material, this has Gene Autry, who seems equally adept with horse and voice, and an exciting moment or two in a race, western style, to make it satisfactory entertainment as the second half of a double bill program. Its best playing position is probably the week-end, when the youngsters will be looking for action.

The film rather lacks the usual quota of gun fighting, but makes up for that to a large extent in the lively display of horseflesh in wild and other moments. Ann Rutherford supplies the feminine portion of the romantic phase of the film.

Autry, a pony express rider, is attacked and a letter containing money which would save Miss Rutherford's ranch is stolen. Autry saves and makes friends with a wild horse being attacked by wolves and makes his way out of the desert. Obtaining a leave of absence, Autry tracks the gang behind the robbery, the leader of which is trying to sell horses to the pony express in competition with Miss Rutherford. Autry stages the race, the winner to get the contract. There is excitement and a fast finish in the conclusion which finds him winning both race and a bride.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 58 minutes. "G."

"Everybody's Ol' Man," now current at the Center, was previewed by wire from Hollywood on March 9.

"The Milky Way," which is being shown at the Paramount, was reviewed on Jan. 27 by wire from Hollywood.

File Action Against Warner Music Firms

sic Corp., Shubert Music Publishing Corp., Victoria Publishing Co., directors of Warner Bros., Edwin Morris, Max Dreyfus and Herman Starr and the estate of Moe Mark.

The complaint set forth that Warners paid $1,000,000 in cash and $9,000,000 in Warner stock for controlling interests in the seven music publishing companies named as defendants. It was asserted that this amount was grossly excessive and unwarranted and a gross and culpably negligent waste of corporate assets. It was pointed out that all seven music publishers were members of Ascap and that Ascap made five-year contracts with National Broadcasting Co. and the Columbia Broadcasting System in June, 1935.

The complaint charges that the withdrawal of the Warner music companies from Ascap resulted in severe financial losses, and that an attempt is being made to set the groundwork for a rival organization to Ascap. An accounting injunction and the naming of a receiver are asked.

A statement from Herman Starr declared that the company welcomes the opportunity to prove in court its contentions that the profits derived by Warners from the use of music by radio were "ridiculously small" and "disproportionate to the profits radio was making out of the use of Warner music."

E. R. Burroughs Sues 'Lion Man' Producers

Hollywood, March 25.—Edgar Rice Burroughs, author of the Tarzan stories, has started action through his attorney, A. L. Armstrong, to enjoin Alexander Brothers Cinema Finance Co. and First Division from using the title "Lion Man." The complaint further seeks to restrain them from using the Burroughs name as author of the picture.

In addition to the producers mentioned, the action also names as defendants Far West Exchanges, B. N. Judell and Adams Film Exchange, Dallas distributors.

The guild revealed yesterday that seven producers had signed the new minimum basic agreement since it went into effect March 1 and that production rights to a number of new plays already have been negotiated under the new agreement and have been approved by the guild's council.

The new agreement will be explained to non-voting members of the guild at a meeting at the Biltmore today, following which the guild's council will meet. No action in regard to modification of the agreement will come before either meeting, it was stated at guild headquarters yesterday.

Personalities End Argument Over Booking

to secure such films. Independent theatres, he said, were given pictures on an agreement where the price would be determined at a percentage of the exhibition value. "That franchise, and the RKO franchise," he said, "did more than anything else to bring the price of films down at the time and gave the exhibitors a break."

During the course of his summation, Myers read an affidavit from William H. Canning, manager for Nathan Yamins of Fall River, Mass., to the effect that he was refused Fox product unless he took the entire output, but was offered Shirley Temple at the price paid for all Fox product during the preceding year. Myers also discussed the Paramount advertising used in newspapers throughout the country a few months ago and explained that it was placed with a Fall River paper on the representation that it was designed to coerce Yamins to take Paramount. He rejected it and ordered the money returned.

Pettijohn called the attention of the committee to the testimony of George J. Schaefer on the same subject and asked that Myers submit the documents to the Dep't of Justice.

Answering Myers' statement of the distributors' claims that block booking was a necessity, and the simultaneous admissions that not all exhibitors buy blocks, Chairman Pettengill declared, "I have never attended a hearing on any subject where there were so many contradictions."

Myers Mentions Extensions

Myers explained that Yamins had taken Mae West's first picture for seven days instead of the four days of the original contract, the result of a distributor practice of ignoring contracts and forcing extended playing time for some of their films. He also asserted that Will Hays' promise that an exhibitor could cancel any picture condemned in his community on moral grounds has never been kept.

H. M. Richey, of Detroit, following Myers, also assailed the testimony of distributor witnesses and charged that "fear of reprisals" kept many independent exhibitors from appearing as witnesses and influenced others to oppose the bill.

Richey launched a bitter attack against Dr. Daly, who had appeared as representative of the Catholic Bishops' Motion Picture Committee, and Martin Quigley, publisher of Motion Picture Daily. He read a telegram from Arthur D. McGuire, president of the Detroit Council of Catholic Organizations, in which Dr. Daly's testimony was referred to as a "canned" statement, "no doubt influenced by his advisor," Quigley, whom he called Daly's "Man Friday" and the "producers' Catholic contact man" who was "trying to serve two masters" and who "takes the producers' money for advertising dirty films and at the same time is trying to kill the bill."

The attack on Quigley immediately aroused the resentment of Pettijohn, who declared:

"Quigley is one of the finest men I have ever known either in the motion picture industry or without," and asked the committee's permission to file a detailed answer to the charges.

The exchange of personalities which has constantly marked the hearing was deprecated by Chairman Pettengill, who expressed as "regrettable" the constant impugning of the motives and integrity of witnesses.

The schedule of the demands to be served upon the distributors at the meeting planned by the M.P.T.O.A. was filed with the committee by Ed Kuykendall, president, showing that the principal subjects will be a reasonable and unconditional minimum rejection privilege in all contracts for 10 or more pictures; removal of the conditions and restrictions in the 10 per cent clause now in use; an increase in cancellations from 10 to 20 per cent; establishment of local joint boards on grievance committees; elimination of unreasonable clearance and zoning plans; elimination of overbuying; elimination of competition between theatres in the way of premiums, lotteries, double features and cut admissions; control of non-theatrical exhibitions of professional entertainment pictures; clarification of the standard contract; elimination of the score charge; elimination of playdate designations by distributors, and elimination of the forcing of shorts.

The hearings were closed with a final plea for the enactment of the bill by Mrs. Mary T. Bannerman, of the M. P. Research Council, who asserted that the sole object of the bill is the establishment of community freedom in selection by abolishing block booking and blind selling, and charged that present practices are "undermining the constitutional principle of self government."

He also said biographical material should be kept up to date, news should be furnished on stars, their private lives, their goings and comings, technical developments in the industry, and company news as well as pictures. Only about one per cent of the material furnished is usable, he said.

however, Paramount's option to repurchase from Karl Hoblitzelle and A. H. Blank their 50 per cent stock interest in Texas Consolidated Theatres and the A. H. Blank Circuit, repectively, are extended from the expiration dates, April 1 and 4, to such time as the board meeting is held. There are no indications at this time that the Paramount board will not concur in the management's recommendation not to exercise the options.

No action is required by the Paramount Pictures board on the three-year producer contract recently made with Frank Lloyd. This contract has been approved by the board of Paramount Prod., Inc., the producing subsidiary, and requires no further action by the company.

Otterson and Zukor will leave for Hollywood today, if they keep to the schedule planned earlier, and will confer with William LeBaron on current production problems and plans for next season. They expect to be away about two weeks.

Launch Move For British Quota Change

British Film Institute and secretary of the British Broadcasting Corp's. council for school broadcasting; J. Stanley Holmes, member of Parliament from Harwich; J. J. Mallon, the warden of Toynbee Hall, university settlement in the East End of London; the Hon. Eleanor M. Plumer, member of the advisory committee of the Board of Trade, and Lieut. Col. Sir Arnold Wilson, member of Parliament for Hitchin.

There is a strong official and educative flavor in the personnel. Holmes is a chartered accountant, a director of several companies and the only business man on the committee. Eleanor Plumer and Wilson presumably aided in drafting the confidential report on the Act prepared by the advisory committee of the Board of Trade. This report is still unpublished, but their participation in its preparation may have led to their designations on the committee which will now consider a future course.

The quota became effective on distributors with the year ending March 31, 1929, when seven and one-half per cent of their product had to be English-made. The percentage bracket rose successively until last year when it reached its maximum 20 per cent figure to remain fixed there until the law ends with the year ending March 31, 1938.

The quota on exhibitors began at five per cent for the year ending Sept. 30, 1929, and rises to a similar high bracket of 20 per cent for the year ending Sept. 30, 1936. There it stays for the next two years, terminating with the year ending Sept. 30, 1938.

The Council of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n has passed a resolution protesting against the registration for quota of two Indian films, "Vasant Bengali" and "A Wager in Love," handled by First National and Warners respectively. It decided to report to the Board of Trade and also to circularize members advising them not to book the films. A demand for the withdrawal of the films was also made to the distributors. The two films in question are silents and the descriptions "a museum piece" and "of no practical use" are applied to both in Kinematograph Weekly reviews.

Producers Change Stand

LONDON, March 18 (By Mail)—The Film Producers' Group of the Federation of British Industries, which includes practically every British production company, has unanimously decided not to carry any further its suggestion of discussions with the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n., aiming at the formulation of an agreed policy on quota reform.

An official statement ascribes the decision to the fact that the Government recently announced the appointment of a departmental committee to inquire into the problem. Each section of the trade will have an opportunity to present its special case to this committee.

Previously the Board of Trade had asked the industry to try to arrive at an agreed policy and in some quarters it was thought possible that producers and exhibitors might get together at the expense of distributors, the theatre men conceding the "minimum cost" clause wanted by producers in return for the latter's support for a reduction in the exhibition quota only, leaving the distributors' quota untouched.

With a judicial hearing now assured to all opinions, it seems that three policies will be strongly urged, producers asking a minimum cost of £10,000 for British films, exhibitors urging that the exhibition quota shall be reduced, and distributors pleading for a modification of the footage quota in the direction of a system of cost quotas under which it will be permissible to spend the British production budget on one or two good films instead of on a number of quickies.

Potomac Territory Begins Rebuilding

damaged, but has reopened. The Garden was hit hard and is still closed, while the Strand is expected to open Saturday.

At Martinsburg, W. Va., theatres lost two days due to the failure of power plants. Harrisonburg, Va., lost one day through lack of power. The Virginia was the only Warner house in the area to lose time.

Horlacher Delivery Service reported that all theatres which were able to operate had their film on schedule, although many changes in truck routes were necessitated by the flood.

Many Reopen in Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, March 26.—Theatres throughout this district, except in the downtown area, were operating again late this afternoon. The power company gave the word to go after the houses had been shut down in order to conserve electrical power.

The Warner, Casino and Davis are still awaiting word to go, but the power problem still remains acute. The downtown section in which these houses are located was roped off entirely yesterday when a gas main sprang a leak. Because of the danger of an explosion, pedestrians may be barred from the section for several days.

The Stanley, Penn and Alvin are making rapid strides in the direction of normalcy, but the task may take several weeks. At the present time the only entertainment in town is the stage production, "Three Men on a Horse" at the Nixon, a house which has its own emergency power plant and has thus been enabled to operate right through the flood period. Business at the Nixon is about 50 per cent of capacity.

Ohio Houses Run Benefits

MANSFIELD, O., March 26.—Warners' Ohio, as well as other circuit houses in this district, are staging special 11 P.M. shows at 50 cents admission, the proceeds from which are being turned over to the Red Cross for flood relief. Tickets are being sold by various local groups, and all employes are contributing their services.

Cincy Refugees Are Aided

CINCINNATI, March 26.—The American Legion is sponsoring two matinee performances at the Madison, neighborhood house, for the benefit of the Red Cross. Patrons are asked to bring discarded clothing to be given the Red Cross for distribution. Charles Weigel and the theatre staff are donating their services.

Mass. Benefits Planned

BOSTON, March 26.—As many theatres in this area remained closed as a result of the flood, other houses were planning flood benefits. The local M. P. T. O. is sponsoring midnight shows Saturday at the de luxe Metropolitan and RKO Boston for flood relief. Richard Rubin, operator of the State in Saugus, is giving all of today's receipts to the Red Cross.

The Warner in Lawrence and the Capitol in Springfield are still closed, as are the Calvin and Plaza in Northampton, and several other houses.

Star Floats Away

Dover-Foxcroft, Me., March 26.—The Star Theatre, which used to be here, is somewhere down the Piscataquis River, and the proprietor can't figure out how to get it back, because when the river isn't in flood it won't accommodate a tug.

K. C. Drops Plan to Eliminate Giveaway agreement, many have signed new premium contracts.

Fox Midwest, favorable to elimination, has reintroduced Bank Night in all local houses except the first run Uptown and Plaza, which will resume later. The promotion is on a one-night-a-week basis. According to Emanuel Rolsky, president of the I. T. O., two independents made elimination impossible, Ruben Finkelstein of the Belmont and Jay Means of the Oak Park and Bagdad.

Kansas Takes Action

KANSAS CITY, March 26.—In a friendly action to determine whether or not Bank Night is a lottery under the Kansas laws, Attorney General Clarence D. Beck filed quo warranto proceedings in the Kansas Supreme Court to oust the Fox Kansas Theatre Company and enjoin it from doing business in the state. The complaint holds that the company has forfeited its charter by operating the promotion.

The Fox circuit wishes to reach a decision in the matter since it plans to extend the use of Bank Night in Kansas.

Burroughs Sets Six

HOLLYWOOD, March 26. — Having completed its first, "The Drag Net," Burroughs-Tarzan has set five more releases. They are: "Three Wise Monks," "The White Glove," "Murder at the Carnival," "S.O.S Coast Guard" and "Girl with the Red Feather."

pacity. He is a former president of Liberty Pictures, Inc.

Governor Dave Scholz, commenting on the new development, expressed the hope the project would lead the way for other producers to transfer operations from the coast to Florida, and added that the plan has always been very close to his heart. Negotiations with Hoffman, he said, had been in progress for some time.

V. E. Coster Moved Here in W. E. Shift

V. B. Coster, former manager for Western Electric in Argentina, has been named to a supervisory post in Erpi's Latin American department in the home office. He will arrive Thursday on the Western World.

W. S. Tower, Jr., will sail Friday for Mexico to replace William DeMello as manager of the W. E. office in Mexico. After a short vacation in the United States, DeMello will replace F. P. Young as manager in Brazil, and Young will return to this country.

Pathe Weighs Producing

New season production activities involving both Pathe and First Division were discussed informally at a meeting of the Pathe board yesterday. Tentative discussions, it was said, leave open the possibility of Pathe resuming production under its own name next season and until a decision has been reached new production plans for First Division are being held in abeyance.

Empire Charges Dropped

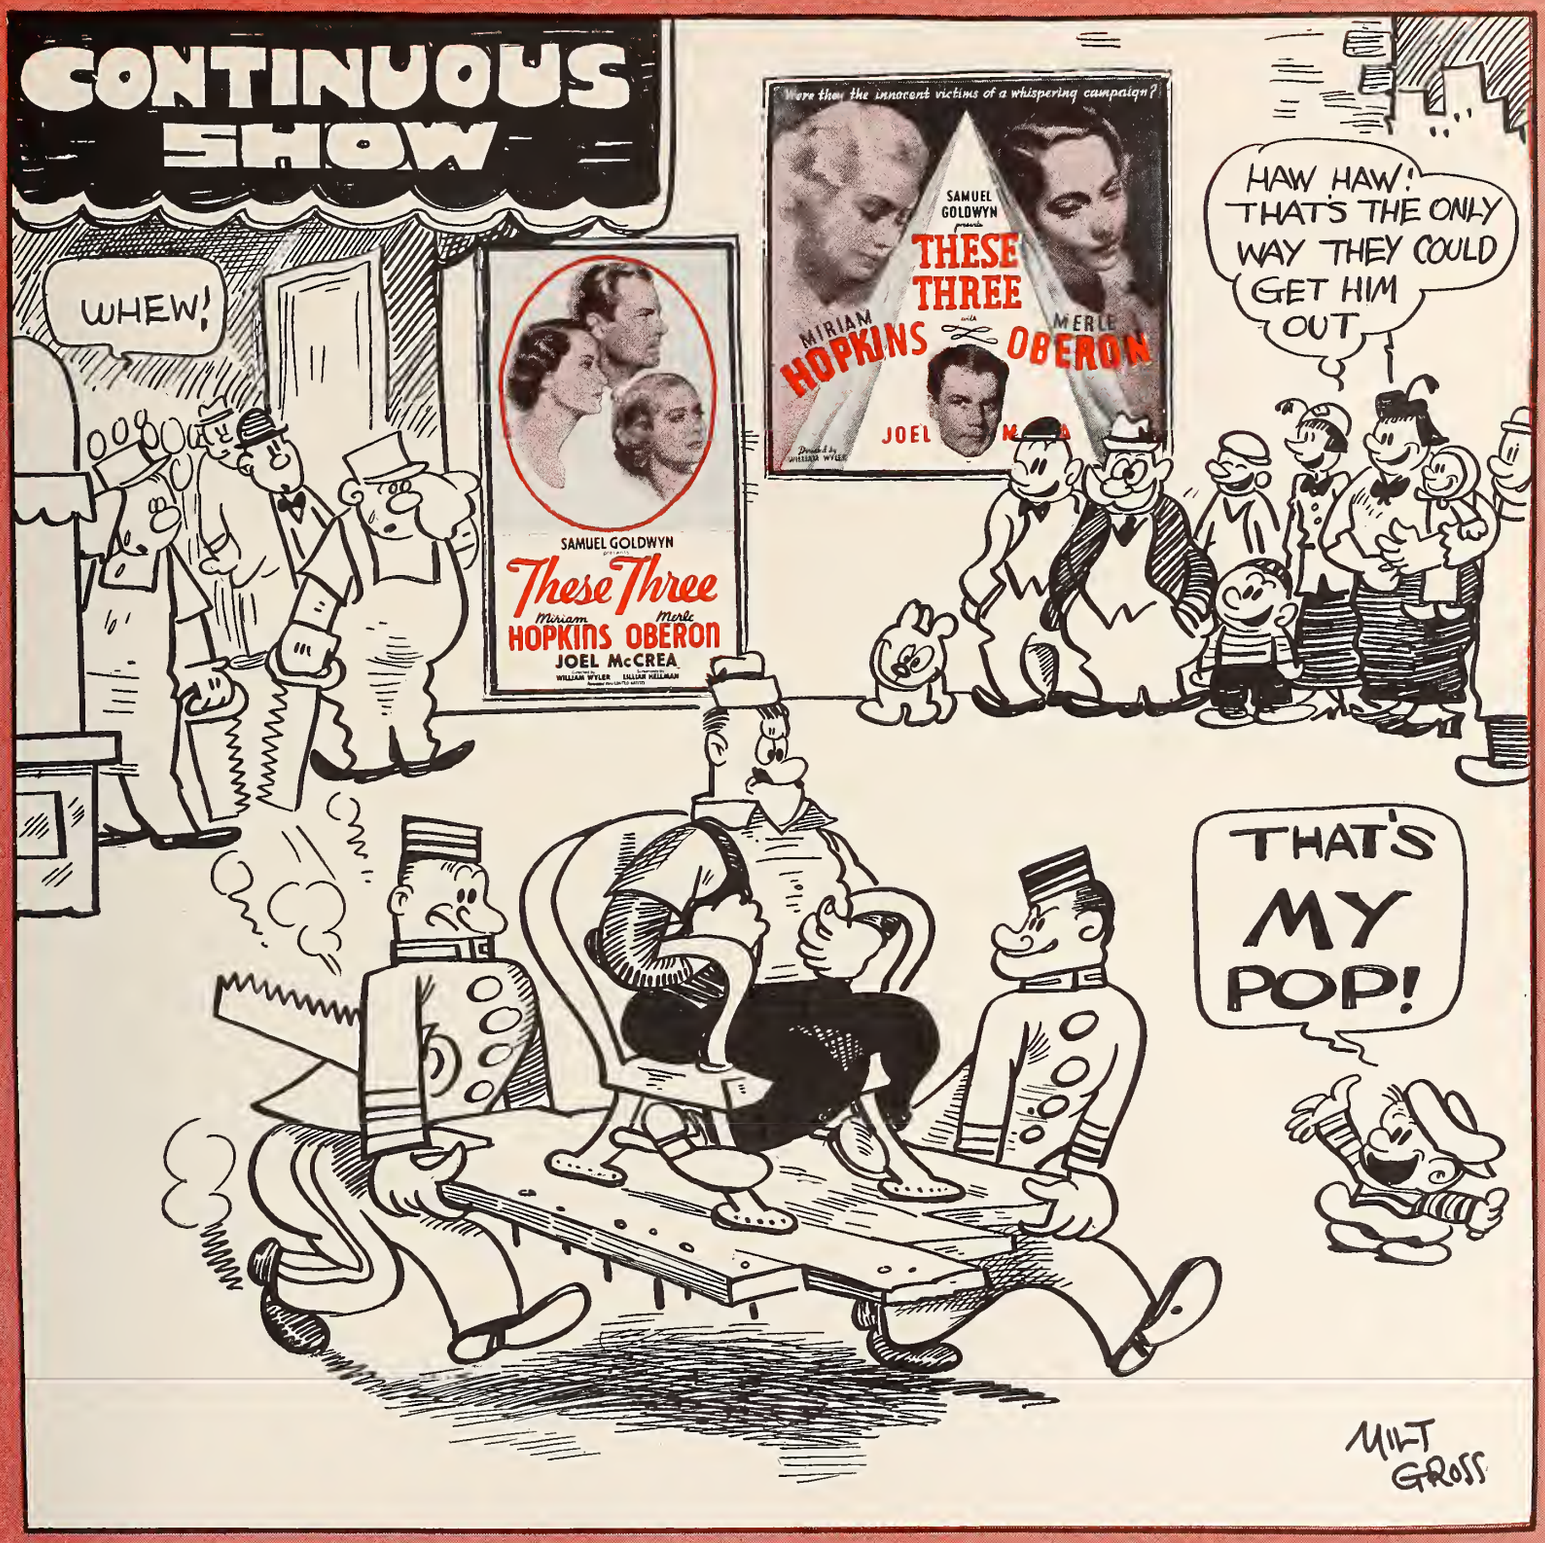
Impeachment charges against Benjamin S. Greenstein, vice-president of Empire M. P. Operators' Union, and Jack Millet, business agent, have been dismissed following a hearing. The ruling was that they were "baseless and had been brought by disgruntled members."

The union is now negotiating a new contract with Springer & Cocalis.

New House Planned

SALT LAKE CITY, March 26.—William Littlejohn and Mrs. Littlejohn are planning a new theatre for Elko, Nevada. A site has been purchased adjacent to the Elks Home.

Changes to Pioneer



MINNEAPOLIS, March 26.—Finkelstein Theatres, Inc., have changed their name to the Pioneer Theatre Corp. L. D. Field is president and Daniel E. Field, vice-president.

Seek a Picketing Stay

PORTLAND, Me., March 26.—Keith's, a Frederick E. Lieberman house, is seeking an injunction in the Supreme Judicial Court to stop picketing by the operators' and stagehands' unions.

Moray Reaches Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO, March 26.—Norman H. Moray, in charge of Vitaphone shorts and trailers, is here for conferences with exhibitors, branch manager and salesmen. He will spend five days at the Warner studios.

Snow Hits Grosses In Buffalo Houses

Buffalo, March 26.—Paralyzed by a week of record-breaking storms, box offices here reached a new low for the winter. Streets and highways were impassable after Tuesday, with even street car service stopped for a day and a half. The only house to come up to average was the Lafayette, with a dual, "Grand Exit" and "Clairvoyant," just making it with a $6,000 draw.

Snow removal was hampered by lack of funds and equipment. City authorities urged motorists to stop driving to aid in clearing the wet, hard-packed drifts.

Total first run business was $39,600. Average is $42,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 21:

ITOA Starts Monopoly Suit In N. Y. Court

Action Involves Payment On Short Subjects

Major distributors yesterday were charged with violation of the New York state anti-trust and monopoly laws in the alleged forcing of shorts with features in an action which opens the long promised warfare by the I.T.O.A. on this sales practice.

The charges are made in an answer filed by Ridgewood Amusement Co., a Harry Brandt company operating the Star, Brooklyn, to an action brought by RKO Distributing Corp. for a claim of $61 on a short subject contract. The action was instituted by the distributor in Municipal Court. In its answer Ridgewood alleges that it was required to take the short subjects in order to obtain the distributor's features and further alleges that this sales practice is also followed by Warners, Fox, M-G-M, Paramount, Universal and Columbia in violation of the Donnelly Act, the New York state anti-trust and monopoly statute.

Weisman, Quinn, Allen & Spett, counsel for Ridgewood, said that an action naming all major distributors would be filed in Federal court here in the near future alleging the violation of the Federal anti-trust laws.

Fox-Midwest Case Under Advisement

KANSAS CITY, March 27.—Judge Merrill E. Otis, in Federal District Court tonight, took under advisement the independents' application for a temporary injunction against Fox-Midwest and major distributors on charges of conspiracy after the submission of affidavits by both sides and oral arguments by W. G. Boatright, for the plaintiffs; Sam Sawyer, for Fox-Midwest, and Edward C. Rafferty for the distributors.

Judge Otis denied the application

Union Groups Will Operate Mexico Houses

To Take Over Those Hurt By Bad Management

By JAMES LOCKHART

MEXICO CITY, March 27.—In order to keep many houses open in several sections of the country, where bad management has ruined business, the first national convention of representatives of 36 industry employes' unions here has decided to establish cooperative societies of employes to run the theatres. The necessary financing will be obtained through small prorata assessments on wages. Theatres thus operated will specialize in films with labor and proletarian themes.

It is hinted that Government aid is anticipated, since the plan is expected to stimulate the industry in the country. The convention also voted to

About 600 Expected At Schaefer Dinner

Plans are being made to accommodate more than 600 bon vivants at the testimonial dinner to George J. Schaefer, vice-president and sales manager of United Artists, at the Astor, Monday.

Ranking executives of all large producing and distributing companies, theatre men, industry attorneys, field sales executives and others have made reservations. Warners have invited all of the company's eastern division and branch managers into town for the occasion. Many United Artists' field executives will also come here Monday, together with numerous other out-of-town sales and theatre officials.

Boston Fires Spur Safety Rule Study

BOSTON, March 27.—The three recent booth fires in Greater Boston, at the Olympia in Somerville, Elite in Walpole and Mattapan in Mattapan are understood to be spurring Department of Public Safety officials to fresh efforts in making a survey of motion picture safety regulations for Massachusetts. The regulations have not been changed to any extent for the past 16 years.

George Parsons, chief of inspectors, is in charge of the investigation. Rules against the adoption of the 2,000 foot reel are understood to have been offered for consideration by union members.

Petition Hits Duals

Lincoln, Neb., March 27.—Petitions for discontinuance of double features are being circulated in North Platte, Neb., this week. Several hundred have signed.

M-G-M Boycott Is Ended in Barcelona

BARCELONA, March 27.—Exhibitors here yesterday terminated their boycott against M-G-M, which had been carried on for several weeks because of objection to Jacques Edelstein, local M-G-M manager. The exhibitor group had demanded the ousting of Einstein, which was flatly refused by M-G-M. Members of Mutua, the local organization of foreign distributors, stood squarely behind M-G-M.

Attempts to arbitrate the differences between exhibitors and distributor, which had spread from a personal objection to Edelstein to a demand for contract revision, accomplished nothing, resulting in a deadlock after several sessions.

Allied Unit Approves Metro Pact Request

MINNEAPOLIS, March 27.—Northwest Allied has approved M-G-M's request for the cancellation of 10 films on the 1935-36 program with a provision for the purchase of eight additional pictures to fill the gap, according to Greater Amusements. The organization previously had refrained from giving members advice on the contract rider pending suggestions from national Allied, which is telling members to use their own judgment.

S. G. Lebedoff, vice-president, said the majority of the exhibitors in the twin cities already have signed the rider. He declared, "The eight pictures offered should be as good or better than the ones which the company will not make and the withdraw-

Laemmle Not To Take New Post at "U"

Decides to Quit Company And Take Long Rest

Carl Laemmle has declined a proffered post on the new board of Universal and will sever all connection with the company with the transfer of control on April 2 to the Standard Capital-Charles R. Rogers interests, it was learned yesterday.

The decision means Laemmle's complete withdrawal from the company which he founded more than 20 years ago and from the industry with which he has been identified for 30 years.

Laemmle's decision not to serve on the board following the transfer of control is understood to be motivated by his desire to take a lengthy rest and vacation, free of all obligations. He will arrive here on Monday and spend several weeks in New York, following which he plans to leave on an extended European trip.

The new Universal heads received Laemmle's decision with disappointment. J. Cheever Cowdin, president of Standard Capital, has been desirous from the outset of continuing Laemmle's association with the company, it is said, and caused a provision for Laemmle's selection as chairman of the board to be included in the option which his company obtained, to be effective in the event the option was exercised. When Laemmle de-

M-G-M Club Frolics Atop the Astor Roof

The Astor Roof resounded last night to the festivities conducted by the Pep Club of M-G-M. Jay C. Flippen, assisted by Harry Rose and Ed Sullivan, masters of ceremonies, had no difficulty in keeping the party going full blast.

Prominent figures of the stage and screen helped along the entertainment. Among this group were Lois Revel, Harry Hershfield, Jackie Cooper, Josephine Huston, Jackie Coogan, Betty Grable and Jack Benny.

Among the M-G-M luminaries who participated were Al Lichtman, Bill Scully, Dave Levy, Jack Bowen, Gene Picker and Si Seadler.

At three o'clock this morning the joy was still unconfined.

New Operator Bill In

ALBANY, March 27.—New regulations covering projectionists are provided in a bill introduced in the Assembly by Bernard Austin.

The bill would make it illegal for anyone other than a licensed projectionist to thread up a machine for operation and also would bar theatre owners from requiring projectionists to do any other form of work.

Bateman Joins Republic

LOS ANGELES, March 27.—Francis Bateman, of the M-G-M sales department, today became Republic branch manager here, replacing Howard Stubbins, recently resigned. Bateman will move in April 6.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"I Married a Doctor"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, March 27.—This version of the Sinclair Lewis novel, "Main Street," seems somewhat out-of-date, although the uniform excellence of the cast performances will result in a strong bid for popular favor.

The story tells of a city girl who marries a small town physician and struggles thereafter to raise the cultural standards of her adopted home to city levels. This theme has lost much of its significance since more important problems, including the depression, have descended on the scene of which Lewis wrote.

The Casey Robinson screen play wisely attempts to compromise with the original theme on which the main dramatic incidents are based, but the story still centers on the bigotry and clannishness of the small town country club set which, by present standards, seem somewhat trivial.

The disadvantage of an outmoded theme is more than offset, however, by the excellent acting of Pat O'Brien as the doctor, Josephine Hutchinson as his wife and Ross Alexander as a young artist. These skillful portrayals can be counted upon to arouse sufficient sympathetic interest to assure favorable audience reaction. Supporting performances by Guy Kibbee, Louise Fazenda, Ray Mayer, Olin Howland and Willard Robertson are splendid characterizations. Even the small bits are well cast.

The direction of Archie Mayo is up to his usual standard. Harry Joe Brown produced. With proper exploitation, the picture should show good returns.

Production Code Seal No. 2,024. Running time, 87 minutes. "G."

"Song of the Trail"

(Ambassador-Conn)

HOLLYWOOD, March 27.—Though constructed on a routine action formula, this picture offers a cast headed by Kermit Maynard and Evelyn Brent and the name of James Oliver Curwood as author of the original story to attract followers of hard-riding drama.

The plot is concerned with the efforts of Maynard to save an old miner who has signed a quit claim to his property in favor of gamblers. Proving the poker game in which the mine was lost was not conducted in strict accordance with Hoyle, Maynard recovers the deed and saves the girl as six shooters bark and hoofs beat.

Fuzzy Knight, cast as Maynard's mounted stooge, lends able comedy relief, which breaks up the chases. Russell Hopton has done a good job on the direction and Arthur Reed's photography shows to good effect on several beautiful outdoor settings. The supporting cast includes Antoinette Lees, George Hayes and Lee Shumway who contribute competent performances. Didheart Conn contributed one pleasing musical number which is well handled by a male chorus. George Sayre and Harry Barrington wrote the screen play.

Previewed without production code seal. Running time, 67 minutes. "G."

Overseas Preview

"Once in a Million"

(Associated British Pictures)

LONDON, March 25.—Buddy Rogers, bandless and back in comedy; a good farce plot; low comedy successfully purveyed by Haver and Lee and, less successfully, by W. H. Berry; Mary Brian and Iris Hoey in the woman roles that matter. A bright and amusing effort.

Rogers is a bank clerk sent on Saturday to pay a million in notes into the bank. His taxi collides with another, carrying a pretty girl, and that delays matters so that the bank doors shut in his face. Taking refuge in a hotel, his deposit of the notes earns him a status, and royal suite, appropriate to a millionaire. The girl, also, is sailing under false colors as a Countess, to push the dress goods of her employer. Comic detectives, a gold digger and mother and a Continental adventurer play their part in a hectic week-end, concluding with the discovery that the bank has gone smash. Buddy gets a directorship for saving the money, and the girl.

There are plenty of laughs in it for general audiences. Running time, 75 minutes. "G."

"Doctor" $12,000 Montreal Grosser

MONTREAL, March 27.—"The Country Doctor" at the Palace was the hit of the week with a take of $12,000, but even with that figure the picture was not held over.

An Irish program at Loew's, to help celebrate March 17 and headed by "Laughing Irish Eyes," was good for $11,000, also above par. "First a Girl" topped the doublet at the Capitol for $9,000 while the second week of "The Story of Louis Pasteur" at the Princess brought in $6,000.

The breakup of winter brought bad traffic conditions and, outside of the St. Patrick's Day enthusiasm, it was an off week for the theatres. Night clubs and dances for the 17th provided the chief opposition.

Total first run business was $44,000. Average is $46,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 21:

"FIRST A GIRL" (British)
"ANOTHER FACE" (Radio)
CAPITOL—(2,547), 25c-35c-40c-50c-60c, 7 days. Gross: $9,000. (Average, $9,500)

"FORGOTTEN MEN" (British)
HIS MAJESTY'S—(1,700), 35c-50c, 7 days, 2nd week. Gross: $3,000. (First week: $5,000. (Average, $5,000)

"BLACK FURY" (F.N.)
IMPERIAL — (1,914), 15c-20c-25c-34c, 7 days. Added revival: "6-Day Bike Rider." Gross: $3,000. (Average, $3,500)

"LAUGHING IRISH EYES" (Republic)
LOEW'S — (3,115), 30c-34c-40c-50c-60c, 7 days. Stage: "Continental Carnival." Gross: $11,000. (Average, $10,500)

"THE COUNTRY DOCTOR" (20th-Fox)
PALACE — (2,600), 25c-35c-40c-50c-65c, 7 days. Gross: $12,000. (Average, $11,000)

"STORY OF LOUIS PASTEUR" (F.N.)
"THE RETURN OF JIMMY VALENTINE" (Republic)
PRINCESS—(2,272), 25c-30c-35c-50c-65c, 7 days, 2nd week. Gross: $6,000. First week: $8,000. (Average, $7,000)

Looking 'Em Over

"Re Burlone"

(Mazzavini-Brandt)

Broadway's own Italian film house, once the Warner, now the Cine Roma, opens its doors with a production from Capitani, Italian producer, which seems to have pleased the Italian-understanding audience, but which was hardly of a character to bring rounds of applause from one lacking a knowledge of the language, despite the occasional use of superimposed dialogue titles. The title translates as "Daughter of the Revolution."

It is, in effect, a picture which must have a market limited to those theatres which are able to draw upon a patronage conversant with the language of the film. Outside of a few sumptuous sets and several large groups of extras, it does not reach a complete justification of the program line: "First Italian Million-Dollar Film."

The story, of romance and intrigue in an Italian kingdom of 1840 or thereabouts, has its moments, is for the most part a light-hearted treatment of the theme of struggle for a united Italy, and is, one may gather from audience reaction, studded with amusing moments. Unfortunately, however, for one not understanding the language, the comedy is of the dialogue variety for the most part. The performances are good on the whole, with Armando Falconi as the king, in a Wallace Beery manner, and Luisa Ferida as the young revolutionary, outstanding.

The girl falls in love with an army captain with whom she rides on a test run of a new train. She is invited by the inspecting king to visit the palace. But when she learns the king has signed the death warrant of her father, she joins a revolutionary group and gains employment at the palace. There follow intrigue and complication as the captain's best friend is found to be plotting against the king. The two are imprisoned and their sweethearts effect their escape. The four flee the country, as the king visions his eventual downfall and a united Italy. Enrico Guazoni directed.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 98 minutes. "G."

"Panic on the Air"

(Columbia)

A lively and active yarn of murder and romance and mystery, with a news and sports commentator of the radio taking a major part in all three phases of the story, this picture should be found entertaining for those who like active material even though it is not pretentious.

Lew Ayres makes a satisfactorily energetic amateur sleuth and professional commentator and is adequately supported by Florence Rice, as the girl who becomes involved in the mystery and is befriended and pursued by Ayres. The action is supplied with gusto via a horse race or two described by Ayres and the swift-moving activity of the police as they swoop down on the gang trapped by the cleverness of Ayres while the police are baffled.

Ayres is in danger of losing his contract and sponsor for his radio program because he is slipping with respect to the uncovering of exclusive stories. Suddenly he comes upon a mysterious five dollar bill, with a series of code numbers, and is thereupon tossed into the center of what proves to be murder, with a background of a kidnapping, hidden ransom and a girl who is seeking the money and who proves to be Miss Rice. With the police hounding him for information and the sponsor after him to stir up the program, Ayres traps the gang and wins the girl.

Production Code Seal No. 1,967. Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

Roxy Back Taxes Paid

Past due taxes and penalties, together with current taxes, have been paid to the city by the Roxy Theatres Corp., Howard S. Cullmann, trustee, informed Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey this week. "Pine" Pulls $30,000 Take At Boston Met BOSTON, March 27.—Floods in nearby New England spots and heavy rains here failed to dampen the enthusiasm of crowds trying to get into the Metropolitan to see "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine." The $30,000 gross passed normal by $8,000.

A dual, "Modern Times" and "Give Us This Night," day and dated at the Fenway and the Paramount, took $7,000, up by $2,500, at the former, and $12,000, up by $3,000, at the latter.

"Love on a Bet," helped by the "Folies Comique" on the stage, garnered $29,000 at the RKO Boston. This was $12,000 to the good, and the stage show was held over as a result.

Total first run business was $109,000. Average is $87,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 27:

Fox-Midwest Case Under Advisement

of eight distributors to intervene, basing his denial on the grounds that they had insufficient interest in the action; however, he allowed their attorney, Leland Hazard, to enter the case as amicus curiae, with 30 minutes to argue on a temporary injunction which Hazard used to remotion for intervention. This also was taken under advisement.

The oral arguments in the case hinged on the question of whether or not the defendants act in concert to set up a zoning plan. Boatright asserted that the defendants made no denial of the charge in affidavits. He put Elmer C. Rhoden on the stand to show that Fox was supplied M-G-M pictures without contract.

Boatright pointed out that the plaintiffs, despite their need of pictures, have had to play some from past seasons and buy from minor producers. He asked that the present arrangement be dissolved and that the independents be given the right to buy pictures in a free market for day and date showing.

Rafferty, pleading for the distributors, denied concerted action, adding that the independents set up their 1934-1935 schedule but didn't confer on the present season with the result that the distributors had an open market for the first time in years.

Sawyer, for Fox-Midwest, referred to Rhoden's offer last Fall to re-negotiate all contracts if the independents thought he had been unfair. He declared that the petition based solely on the allegation of conspiracy doesn't mention "when," "where," or "by whom."

MAPLETON, Iowa, March 27.—The Mapleton Amusement Co., formed by Abe Friedman, has taken over the Princess here from Opal Brown, who lost the lease in a court action and plans to open a new house here.

Somebody Else

Oklahoma City, March 27.—Frank Cassota, assistant manager of the Criterion, went to work the other morning and was chided—to put it mildly—by his superior.

Later in the day he was pretty generally kidded.

It developed that Frank Cassota had been arrested for crossing a stop line on a downtown street, but that he was one of the other local Cassotas.

"Doctor" 2d Week Lead in Cleveland

CLEVELAND, March 27.—"The Country Doctor," in its second week downtown, took in $4,750 at the Allen where $3,000 is par.

"Wife vs. Secretary," also in its second week downtown, grossed $6,000 at Loew's Stillman as against a $4,000 average.

"The Story of Louis Pasteur" topped the Warners' Hippodrome $8,000 average by $3,500 with a total of $11,500 for the week.

"The Lone Wolf," as the RKO Palace screen attraction, with Cab Calloway and His Cotton Club Orchestra on the stage, upped the usual $15,000 take to $17,500.

"The Prisoner of Shark Island" grossed more than half of the Loew State average of $12,000 over the week-end.

Outside competition was practically nil.

Total first run business was $51,750. Average is $42,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 20:

APPEAL GIVEN ON ST. LOUIS RULING

No Additional Studio Shifts, Otterson Says

Details Being Set for New List, He States

ALBUQUERQUE, March 29. — No further important studio changes are contemplated and production details are being set for next season's lineup, asserted John E. Otterson, Paramount president, here today en route to the coast.

"I think everyone will be pleased to know this," he added.

"William LeBaron will have full charge of production on the coast," Otterson declared. "I am going out to look over stories arranged for production during the coming season."

Otterson's only comment on the Winfield Sheehan deal was that it was "definitely off, but that discussions might possibly be renewed later."

No additional producers are to be lined up, the list now being complete. No new chairman for the editorial board would be named to succeed Jeff Lazarus, he said, as that was a problem for studio executives to handle.

Ohio Houses Urged To Secure Licenses

COLUMBUS, March 29.—The Ohio I.T.O. is urging all exhibitor-members to take out theatre licenses if they have not already done so. The new tax law provides that every theatre must have an operating license in order to participate in the returns of three per cent tax on grosses. The license deadline is April 1, with a $100 daily penalty thereafter for failure to procure a license.

The unit also suggests that members cooperate to the fullest possible extent with the Red Cross, by giving benefit performances and running slides appealing for funds for that organization.

Senator Seeks Vote On Jersey Censoring

TRENTON, March 29.—Senator Horace G. Prall, Hunterdon County Republican, declared yesterday that he will seek a vote by the Miscellaneous Business Committee tomorrow on his film censorship bill.

The censorship measure was introduced Feb. 29, but no action has been taken upon it because the Miscellaneous Business Committee chairman, Senator Clifford R. Powell, Burling-

Ex-Colonels Now

Frankfort, Ky., March 29.—There are 17,000 former colonels, admirals, adjutants, etc., scattered about the country today as a result of a ruling by Attorney General B. M. Vincent of Kentucky. Hundreds of them—some say thousands, but film men are careless with figures—are in the picture business.

According to the Attorney General, a commission in Kentucky expires when the Governor who grants it goes out of office. Ruby Laffoon has been a private citizen for some time, and his successor, Albert B. Chandler, hasn't developed into much of a colonel-commissioner.

Para. Options Upon Circuits Are Extended

A 90-day extension of Paramount's options to repurchase the 50 per cent stock interests in the A. H. Blank and Karl Hoblitzelle circuits has been agreed to by the theatre operators, it was stated on Saturday.

The current options expire April 1 and April 4, respectively. New extensions were made necessary by the postponement last week of the regular meeting of the Paramount board, which was scheduled to act on the options. Indications now are that the new three-month extensions will be ratified today at a meeting of the Paramount executive committee.

Negotiations for a new five-year

Warner Flood Loss Mostly in Grosses

The greatest damage to Warner theatres in the flooded areas of New England and Pennsylvania was represented by loss of income, rather than actual physical damage, declared Joseph Bernhard, general manager of the circuit, following a survey of properties in the flood sections.

Considerable repair work will be necessary in the Johnstown and Pittsburgh theatres, Bernhard reported, but it is mostly the replacement of furnishings and redecoration. There was only slight damage to property and machinery. The income loss, however, is expected to be more than made up in the next several months through increased employment on flood repair work in the affected sections, he said.

Editors Rush Big List of Features

HOLLYWOOD, March 29.—Predicting a flood of pictures at an early date, studio editors worked feverishly on 59 features last week.

This was the principal center of company activity with actual camera work doing a nosedive. Only 33 features and one short were being filmed, against 41 features and two shorts for the week preceding.

Distributors to Take Dismissal Order To High Court

ST. LOUIS, March 29.—Federal Judge Charles B. Davis has allowed Warners, Paramount and RKO to appeal direct to the U. S. Supreme Court from the ruling of Federal Judge Joseph West Molyneaux of Minneapolis here on Jan. 29, which permitted the Government to drop without prejudice its civil anti-trust case against the companies named.

The defendants' attorneys have filed an assignment of errors which charged that Judge Molyneaux erred when he allowed the motion to dismiss and erred again at the opening of the civil case in that he failed to hold the issues involved as having been previously decided, in view of the not guilty verdict in the earlier case Nov. 11.

The appeal was opposed by Harry C. Blanton, U. S. attorney for this district, on the ground that since the civil case had not been decided on its merits, the ruling could not be appealed.

The appeal here is seen as probably delaying the trial of the new civil case brought against the three companies and various individuals by the Government, which is now pending in New York Federal court.

Planes Will Speed Prints in England

Reservations Top 700 Mark On George Schaefer Dinner

Reservations for the testimonial dinner to George J. Schaefer to be held at the Astor tonight flooded the ticket committee over the weekend. The volume of reservations and sales boosted attendance estimates to more than 700, with tickets remaining on sale throughout today.

The ticket list indicates that practically every company executive of importance in the east will attend. A partial list of those who have made reservations includes Austin Keough, Louis Phillips, Arthur Israel, Norman Collyer and Ed Cuddy of Paramount; A. H. Blank, N. L. Nathanson, M. J. Mullen, Abe Pinansky, George Trendle and George Walsh of Famous Theatres Corp.; W. G. Van Schmus, Leon Leonidoff, Russell Markert, Gus Eysell and Russell Downey of the Music Hall. Sidney R. Kent will head a delegation of Twentieth Century-Fox executives.

United Artists will be represented by Harry D. Buckley, Paul Lazarus, Harry Gold, Haskell Masters, Charles Stern, Monroe Greenthal and others. From the company's New York ex-

"These Three" Shows Strength at Rivoli

"These Three" with a gross of $42,000 for its first week at the Rivoli displayed outstanding strength among the first line Broadway houses last week. With the picture now in its second week, the gross makes a third stanza look like a certainty.

"Klondike Annie" and a stage show headed by Fred Waring and orchestra held up well in a second and final week at the Paramount. The gross was $33,000. The Roxy also fared well with the second and final week of "Love Before Breakfast" and a stage show featuring Pinky Tomlin. The gross for the week was $25,500.

Jobless Town Hits House

PLAINFIELD, Conn., March 29.—The Lily, owned by Henry Fontaine, is still closed, with no prospect of operating for the present. With the failure of employes and the governor to influence the Lawton Mills to resume operations, the town is almost entirely unemployed and may be deserted. A canned goods benefit was run by the Moosup nearby for the benefit of the unemployed.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, March 29.

ON the elusive, yet laudable, ambition of making more intelligent product for the dear American public, these several tidbits, picked more or less at random from the fan mail of a Hollywood player, may be interesting, sad as they are:

Dear Miss ———

I having seen you in a picture by the name of ——— and have come to find out that you have answered a question that I could never had answered myself because I have never known who was my favorite actres but now I find out that it is you and nobody but you, because you see I do not care for women actresses that is I never did until I seen you upon the screen because you remind me so much about somebody that I really know (I hope this will not hurt your feelings). Every actor I ever wrote too, always wanted money for their pictures, I hope ——— is different and will send me her picture free of charge, and even if she dont I guarantee I wont miss any pictures with you in it. So here's to ——— who by my prediction will be a big S-T-A-R according to the cards which I am now reading for your Future use they say that you should refrain from liquor and cigarettes and after that you will be tops, that is you will a Lucky Star This is my first fan letter to a movie actress I hope you wont be laughing at me as all the women in my life do. I only know that you will only throw this letter into the waste basket like all the other mail you get but I cant help that you are now and always will be my Favorite Movie Actress.

From Yours Truly,

———

And another:

Dear Miss ———

Miss ——— I saw you play in ——— You are beautiful Miss ——— Will you please send me your photograph Miss ——— I sure like you and Miss Jean Rogers Miss ——— Has this been the first time you ever played in a cerial Miss ———

Suggested technique for reaching any studio executive, the higher the better:

Caller: "I wanna talk to Mr. Big Shot."

Outer Secretary: "Who are you?"

Caller: "I'm Mr. Zilch. I wanna talk to Mr. Big Shot."

Outer Secretary: "Just a minute. I'll connect you with his secretary."

Inner Secretary: "Does Mr. Big Shot know you? What do you do and what is it you want?"

Caller: "I'm Mr. Zilch. Tell Mr. Big Shot I have a hot tip on the sixth race at Tanforan."

The next voice, quickly, is that of Mr. Big Shot. . . .

From Film Row which is in Los Angeles, a suburb of Hollywood, comes a roundabout outline of what Charlie Skouras wants in his trailers from now on:

1.—They must come wrapped in cellophane.

2.—They must be in Technicolor for black and white features.

3.—They must not cost any more.

And this is Skouras' analysis of a visiting sales manager:

"He's asking more to get the same price." . . .

To those in Hollywood who think all theatres are coining fortunes, there is the story which somehow or other managed to slip through the canyons of the Wisconsin theatre which grossed 30 cents in a night performance during the blizzard peak.

Now if the picture was one of those thirty-five percenters, behold the poor distributor. . . .

Reflective note: As to the present reactions of the two top Radio studio executives who flatly rejected a feature starring the Dionne quints on the ground it didn't have a chance. . . .

Oberon Out of "Allah"

HOLLYWOOD, March 29.—Marlene Dietrich and Charles Boyer have been signed by David O. Selznick for the lead roles in "Garden of Allah," Technicolor feature. Merle Oberon, scheduled for the film, will play the lead in "Dark Victory" only. She requested the switch because her arrangements with Alexander Korda permit her time for only one feature here. "Garden of Allah" starts April 11 and "Dark Victory" a week later.

BUFFALO, March 29.—Charles E. Goodwin, Universal salesman for nine years, and with Educational, has joined the First Division exchange here as a salesman.

Bank Night Scores In Waterbury, Conn.

WATERBURY, March 29.—Bank Night received a favorable decision when City Prosecutor Mitchell Myer announced it would not be considered as violating the state lottery law. Reconsideration followed Frederick Van Doren's operation of Bank Night at the Hamilton last week in defiance of the citywide ban.

Adolph Johnson, Bank Night agent for Connecticut, stated that Mrs. Lena Sirica has substituted Bank Night for Prosperity Night at the Lido, and that Warner's Capitol and State will also use the plan, although no date had been set.

The Greenwich test case has as yet not been decided, but the Pickwick continues Bank Night without intervention from officials.

Dramatists to Vote Upon a 60-40 Split

A general membership meeting of the Dramatists' Guild will vote on a proposal to substitute a 60-40 split of royalties between playwright and producer for the present sliding scale on royalties, at the Biltmore, April 8. The proposal apportions the larger amount of all royalties to the playwright in place of the 50-50 split of royalties up to $35,000 and a graduated scale in favor of the author above that amount as incorporated in the new minimum basic agreement adopted by the guild on March 1.

Producing managers who have already signed the March 1 agreement will have their choice of either that or the new 60-40 arrangement if the latter is approved by the membership on April 8, a guild official stated.

Screen Writers' Guild Hits Duffy Bill Wire

HOLLYWOOD, March 29.—A wire signed by 65 screen writers repudiating the statement credited to John Howard Lawson, spokesman for the Screen Writers' Guild before the House Patents Committee hearing on the Duffy Bill in Washington, resulted in a near split in the Guild's ranks here and necessitated the calling of a special meeting of the board which lasted until early yesterday.

Ernest Pascal stated at the meeting that many signers of the wire to the House committee were not Guild members and that several who are members tried to rescind their signatures. He said that every writer, no matter what his field, is against the Duffy Bill and he added that the Guild board would be asked to send a wire to the House committee worded to that effect.

New Orleans Starts Daylight Time Move

NEW ORLEANS, March 29.—Another movement for adoption of daylight saving time has been started here by the executive committee of the Ass'n. of Commerce. The committee has recommended that the association petition the Commission Council to pass an enabling ordinance.

The movement gained momentum last year, but the Commission Council found that under the political conditions prevailing at that time it had no authority to act.

20TH-FOX 'MESSAGE TO GARCIA' GRAND THRILLER, B. O. WOW

Notable Portrayal By Wallace Beery

"A MESSAGE TO GARCIA"
(20th Century-Fox)

Producer .....Darryl F Zanuck
Associate Producer....Raymond Griffith
Direction .. ..George Marshall
Story Lieut Andrew S. Rowan and Elbert Hubbard.
Screen Play W P. Lipscomb and Gene Fowler
Photography .....Rudolph Mate
Assistant Director....Booth McCracken
Cast Wallace Beery, Barbara Stanwyck, John Boles, Alan Hale, Herbert Mundin, Mona Barrie, Enrique Acosta, Juan Torena, Martin Garralaga, Blanca Vischer, Jose Luis Tortosa, Lucio Villegas, Frederick Vogeding, Pat Moriarity, Octavio Giraud.

The message of this robustious adventure picture, with its story straight out of revered American history, its triple stellar draw and its consummate production values, is one of profits and more profits at the little glass cage Darryl Zanuck has struck 12 for exhibitors again

For this is as high-tension a discharge of entertainment voltage as anyone could desire It brings vividly to life the heroic Spanish-American war story immortalized by Elbert Hubbard and known to almost every American It packs a swift succession of hairbreadth escapes that makes the Perils of Pauline and all her successors seem child's play on the front lawn And it brings to the screen a serio-comic character portrayal destined for the cinema hall of fame

Sergeant Dory, the renegade ex-marine who helped Lieutenant Rowan get through the Spanish lines and into the interior of Cuba as played by Wallace Beery, emerges as engaging and heroic a scalawag as any modern Falstaff Not since Beery's Villa has he had such a chance or enacted so superbly well-rounded and engaging a portrait

John Boles plays the undaunted Lieutant Rowan, bearer of the message to Garcia, and his too, is an impeccable portrayal, vigorous and dynamic Barbara Stanwyck is the high-bred and courageous Cuban girl of history who in the screen version not only aids the lieutenant but accompanies him on most of the perilous trip Miss Stanwyck is not an exotic Latin but she gives a forthright and unaffected performance that combines appealing beauty and convincing heroism

Events move rapidly from the very beginning and the pace never slackens Following a brief prologue in which President McKinley gives Rowan the message the lieutenant is found as a Canadian stoker on a British tug off the Cuban coast But Spanish spies have wind of him and the villainous Captain Krug has been hired to capture him at all costs Krug intercepts the boat and in the first of many chases Rowan swims ashore under a blanket of bullets

In a low Cuban bodega he is picked up by the disreputable but resourceful Dory For a price the mercenary ex-sergeant offers to get him through the lines to the ranch of the Cuban Maderos and he is forced to accept the doubtful aid. From this point onward the comical rogue dominates the story, pitting his wits against the relentless Krug.

They see Maderos shot down by Krug's men just before his lovely daughter (Barbara Stanwyck) arrives. In those circumstances they meet and the girl resolves to help the Cuban cause by seeing Rowan through. Soon the three alone are working their way through the pathless and miasmic tropical swamps, constantly harassed by the ever-following Krug.

Beery unwittingly leads Boles to the stronghold of Krug He himself is captured by the Cubans and persuades General Garcia into a ride to the rescue of the tortured Boles and, as it happens, of the wounded girl It is a gory and spectacular finish

This is a grand job of picture-making throughout and there are a host of credits earned The skillfully devised script by W P Lipscomb and Gene Fowler is carefully built on Lieutenant Rowan's own published account and a vast amount of research for picture purposes is evidenced Tact has been used to avoid wounding Spanish sensibilities as witness the employment of the foreigner Krug for everything beyond the Spanish code of honor in war

The direction of George Marshall is unsparingly vigorous in its development of never-slackening pace and menace and of pungent and telling detail at every turn, however swiftly taken The photography of Rudolph Mate, with its multitudinous problems of night lightings in uncanny places, is impressively atmospheric and he is splendidly aided by the art contributions of William Darling, Rudolph Sternad and Thomas Little

Of the extensive and admirable support Alan Hale stands out as the merciless Krug Herbert Mundin supplies a touch of comedy as a cockney tinware peddler lost, with his stock-in-trade, for weeks in the jungle This is a bit hard to take but is dramatically justified at the end The numerous Spanish parts are taken by members of the studio's gifted Spanish stock company, with handsome, young Juan Torena notable as the girl's soldier brother and Enrique Acosta as General Garcia There are also meritorious bits by Mona Barrie, Blanca Vischer, Martin Garralaga and Jose Luis Tortosa

Short Subjects

"Broken Earth"

(Edward Spitz)

HOLLYWOOD, March 29.—This is a distinguished one-reeler written and directed by Roman Freulich and starring Clarence Muse, Hollywood's ace negro actor. Negro spirituals, sung by the Freita Shaw Ethiopian Chorus, supply musical background and lend emphasis to the mood. The simple plot shows Muse toiling on a windy upland behind his plow, worried because his little son lies sick in the cabin. Believing the child dead, Muse prays. The child stirs. Muse gives thanks for what he believes is a miracle. Simple touching delivery of lines, nice camera work and the lilt of negro voices are chief attractions.

Should go in houses specializing in unusual and artistic films. Previewed without production code seal. Running time, nine minutes. "G."

"Little Jack Little and Orchestra"

(Vitaphone)

Jack Little leads his band on a battleship and the surroundings suggest numbers. On shore he visits a night club with his boys and persuades Mildred Fenton to sing. She informs him that the orchestra is out at the moment. He and his musicians take over and she sings various popular numbers from Warner features. During her song Miss Fenton flirts with a Marine and they go off. Little, however, after the fashion of sailors, picks up another girl in no time. Some of the famous Little piano playing is presented as he does "Somebody Stole My Gal."

"Playing for Fun"

(Mentone-Universal)

Novel and amusing. It uses the current craze "Monopoly," and as each player gets to a new station after shaking the dice the directions on the "Monopoly" board are carried out in pictorial form. White and Burns, dancers; Peter Higgins, singer; the Varsity Eight; O'Donnell and Blair, comedians; Armida, singer, and the Robbins Family are introduced. Production Code Seal, 0897. Running time, 15 2/3 mins. "G."

Ascap Sues Night Club

ST. LOUIS, March 29.—Ascap, Irving Berlin, Inc., and Shapiro, Bernstein & Co. have filed suit for alleged infringement of copyright on two popular songs against Irwil Carl, night club owner. The plaintiffs ask $500.

New Films for Danubia

In addition to "Az Uj Földesur," Danubia has acquired two more new releases, "Baratsagos Arcot Kerek" (Keep Smiling), released March 8, and "Legy Jo Mindhalalig" (Be Good Until Death), scheduled for the early part of May.

Set Saunders Party

NEW HAVEN, March 29.—Lawrence Tibbett and Grace Moore will be present at a cocktail party April 16 for Matt Saunders, winner of the February Quigley award.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Sky Parade"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, March 29.—Aided by the exploitation it has received over the air, this should do nicely as juvenile entertainment. The story is simply told and punctuated by news headlines to cover the transitions in aviation from the Armistice to the present.

William Gargan, Kent Taylor and Robert Fiske, army buddies, follow commercial air careers after returning from France. When Fiske is killed attempting a transatlantic flight, Gargan and Taylor with the help of Katherine DeMille raise Jimmie Allen, his orphaned son. The fliers, later, as heads of an airline, perfect an automatic pilot which Grant Withers, also a buddy—turned crooked, tries to steal. Jimmie is left stranded in the flying plane and during the ensuing melee lands safely, through the wirelessed instructions of Gargan, which provides a smash finish for the youngsters.

Otto Lovering directed, inserting comedy between the drama which is well played by Sid Saylor. The screen play is by Byron Morgan, Brian Marlowe and Wilfred Moore. Harold Hurley produced.

The picture should do best aiming for juveniles.

Production Code Seal No. 1890. Running time, 67 minutes. "G."

"Desire," on Dual, $6,400, New Haven

NEW HAVEN, March 29.—"Desire," on a dual bill with "Eagle's Brood," was top draw here last week. It went $1,600 over the normal take at the Paramount to $6,400.

"Colleen" and "Boulder Dam," also a dual, at the Roger Sherman, grossed $5,500, over the line by $800. "Wife vs. Secretary," in its second week at the College, was good for $2,900, over a first week normal by $100. "Little Lord Fauntleroy" and "Voice of Bugle Ann" took a par $7,000 at the Poli.

A benefit vaudeville show and a concert by Charles Kullman were opposition.

Total first run business was $21,800. Average is $19,300.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 27:

"WIFE VS. SECRETARY" (M-G-M)

"Wife," on a Dual, Milwaukee's Leader

MILWAUKEE, March 29.—"Wife vs. Secretary" and "F-Man" on a dual bill at Fox's Wisconsin were good for $9,800, high in what proved to be a fair week at downtown spots. This was $1,800 above par.

"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" and "Her Master's Voice" grossed $6,800 at Fox's Palace for second high honors, followed closely by "Colleen" and "Two in the Dark" with a $6,300 take at the Warner. The weather was mild and fair.

Total first run business was $27,700. Average is $23,000.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending March 25:

"COLLEEN" (W.B.)
"TWO IN THE DARK" (Radio)
WARNER—(2,400), 25c-40c, 8 days. Gross: $6,300. (Average, $5,000)

Paramount Options On Circuits Extended

operating deal with N. L. Nathanson for Famous Players Canadian circuit are reported progressing satisfactorily. The new agreement would permit Nathanson to acquire an appreciable minority stock interest in the Canadian company. His current contract as operating head of the company expires June 1.

Reorganization of Paramount's Olympia Theatres circuit, last of the company's large theatre organizations in bankruptcy, is not expected now until mid-summer, it was stated at Paramount.

Expect Decision on Mo. Special Session

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., March 29.—Gov. Guy B. Park is expected to decide shortly whether he will call a special session of the legislature to consider additional appropriations for unemployment relief. State funds will be exhausted on April 1. The money is said to be available, but legislative appropriation is necessary.

It is expected the majority of the legislators will oppose any new taxation. There has been some talk of a three per cent sales tax and a 10 per cent admission tax on amusements, but both suggestions are certain to meet with vigorous opposition.

Egypt Is Production Leader in Near East

WASHINGTON, March 29. — Egypt ranks first in production among the countries of the Near East according to a comparison of the number of films produced or scheduled for production during the period 1931-'36, reports Acting Commercial Attache Leys A. France, in Cairo, to the U. S. Department of Commerce.

During the period, a total of 33 features were produced by the 17 producing companies in the five available studios of Egypt. Four other films are in work, and will be finished by June. Employment in the industry in Egypt totals about 2,000. Comparing the Egyptian production to that of other Near Eastern countries, Palestine and Syria have not yet produced any films, while Turkey has produced four and Greece five.

William Shea Assigned

HOLLYWOOD, March 29. — William Shea, former cutter at Paramount, who was recently made a director, will direct "Good for Nothing" as his first assignment. Frances Farmer, and Henrietta Crosman will be in the cast. No starting date has been set.

To Decide Hall Policy

KANSAS CITY, March 29. — J. J. Shubert will attend the formal opening of this city's new $4,000,000 municipal auditorium April 5, and decide then on the staging of a summer season of light opera and musical comedy.

Increase Authority Of Peruvian Censor

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The Peruvian censor has been given additional authority over films as a result of official investigations of newsreel material on domestic events and the importation by foreign distributors of films called unsuitable for women and children, it is stated in a report to the U. S. Department of Commerce from Commercial Attache Julian Greenup, in Lima.

The censor is permitted to exempt ordinary domestic news films from the payment of visa fees. Distributors of films which have been banned will receive from the Callao customs office a refund of 50 per cent of the import duties paid.

Take Coffeyville House

KANSAS CITY, March 29.—Moran & Isely, Oklahoma and Southwestern Missouri circuit operators, have leased the Columbia at Coffeyville, Kan., formerly operated by J. C. Perry. The new lessors will take possession April 1. Under the corporation name of Southwestern Theatres, Inc., Moran & Isely operate about a dozen houses in Oklahoma, and the Mozart and Mulligan at Springfield.

White Buys Ohio House

CINCINNATI, March 29. — Maurice White, president Cohill Theatres, Inc., organized several months ago to lease and operate the Hollywood, in College Hill, a suburb, has purchased the theatre and building outright at a reported price of $150,000.

The property, on which the lease had four years to run, includes two stores, two apartments and several offices, in addition to the theatre. Abe Libson and Ben L. Hiedingsfeld are associated with White.

The same interests have just acquired a large corner site in the same suburb on which they expect to erect a business block to contain a de luxe theatre.

Delay Winchester House

WINCHESTER, Mass., March 29. — The town will have no theatre while the present selectmen hold office. The town voted last April, 2,475 to 1,717, "that the voters of the town recommend to the selectmen that they issue a permit for a motion picture theatre in the town, to be open on weekdays only."

The licensing board is the Board of Selectmen. In a report to the next town meeting, the selectmen ordered that the matter be referred to the incoming board. Lack of a suitable location by a substantial applicant is given as the reason for the refusal to take action.

May Cut Pensacola Films

PENSACOLA, March 29.—Films here may be reduced to a three-day a week schedule if the pending city amusement tax is passed, according to a wire read to the City Council from the Saenger interests, which have two houses in this vicinity.

A. C. OPERATION FIRST FROM RCA

The first permanently-installed sound projection equipment operated completely by A.C. came from RCA Photophone. This made installation much less expensive, reduced first cost and maintenance, made operation much simpler. The industry adopted A.C. operation with tremendous rapidity because it had real cash value.

This is but one of many RCA Photophone basic contributions to your profits. When equipping or modernizing your theatre, be sure to get the full RCA Photophone story.

burg open tonight, and the Stanley and Penn are expected to open April 1.

Still Closed in Hartford

HARTFORD, March 29.—The Poli, Palace, Allyn and Crown were still without lights yesterday. Warners' State, over 3,000 of its seats flooded, is still closed, and the WPA group sought other quarters. Conditions were such that, although subsequents had the city to themselves for several days, they still were unable to do normal business.

Benefit in New Haven

NEW HAVEN, March 29.—A midnight benefit show, consisting of 14 acts of vaudeville, will be staged for flood sufferers at the Poli on April 1, with the cooperation of the managements of the Roger Sherman and Paramount. Harry F. Shaw, Poli division manager, and a member of Governor Curley's Boston committee on flood relief, will be master of ceremonies. Other benefits in the area are planned for the Poli, Waterbury, on Tuesday, and the Poli, in cooperation with the Allyn, in Hartford, on April 12. In Shelton, clothing matinees are planned, and the Palace, Rockville, held a benefit matinee today.

Flood Relief Show in N. O.

NEW ORLEANS, March 29.—First run managers here will stage a big midnight Red Cross benefit for flood sufferers at the Orpheum on April 4. Musicians, stage hands, ticket sellers and executives are offering their services.

Baltimore Helps Cause

BALTIMORE, March 29.—Morris A. Mechanic of the New staged a successful benefit for flood relief with approximately 1,000 paying 50 cents each to see a show featuring stage and radio performers.

A public petition has been organized in support of the application of Odeon Theatres, Ltd., for a license for a new theatre at Rhyl. The application had been opposed on the ground of "redundancy," but the existing three theatres, in one ownership, were criticized as a "monopoly," which would be intensified if an application by their owners for a further license were granted and the Odeon license refused.

Prall admitted considerable opposition has developed since the bill was introduced. However, he said many church, civic and educational bodies were for it. Under the terms of the bill a three-member board appointed by the Governor would approve all films and charge $2 for each 1,200 feet examined.

Editors Rush Big List of Features

week was the starting of the Columbia's "Lost Horizon" under the direction of Frank Capra.

M-G-M and Warners led the field, both having eight features before the cameras.

Columbia had two features shooting, four in preparation and scheduled to get under way in two weeks, and six in the cutting rooms. M-G-M had eight, one and 12; Paramount, five, two and seven; Republic, three, three and five; Radio, one, two and four; Roach, one, zero and one; Twentieth Century-Fox, four, four and four; Universal, zero, one and four; Warners, eight, one and 10; independents, one, four and six.

In the short subject division Columbia had none in work, three preparing and three editing. M-G-M had zero, four and four; Radio, one, one and one; Roach, zero, zero and one; independents, zero, three and zero.

Bondholders Insist On Madison Sellout

Madison, Wis., March 29.—More than 150 bondholders of the Beecroft Building Co., owner of the Orpheum, Strand and Parkway here, have declared themselves for absolute foreclosure of the properties and have indicated they will vote against the reorganization plan recently approved by Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone.

It was asserted that the theatres are going behind each year and that no theatre in the United States has been successfully reorganized. It was further charged that no reorganization plan is designed to protect the bondholders but merely the debtor.

To Retain "Broadway"

Gus Edwards will use the name Gus Edwards' Broadway Sho-Window on the theatre at Broadway and 53rd St., where he will present his vaudeville show, now in production, as a result of a request from John E. Grattke, managing director of the Broadway Ass'n., that he retain the word Broadway in the name of the house.

"Colleen" $9,600 Providence Leader

Providence, March 29.—Musicals continue to make bids for top patronage here and last week "Colleen" clicked into the big money at the Majestic where it pulled $9,600. The usual take is $7,000. No other house in town reached par, poor business being due to heavy rains and several sporting attractions.

"Love Before Breakfast" and "The Leathernecks Have Landed" were $1,000 under the usual $7,000 gross at the RKO Albee and "Manhunt" and a stage revue also was $1,000 below the $7,000 par at Fay's. "The Prisoner of Shark Island" fell below the usual $12,000 gross at Loew's State where it pulled $10,800. The Strand, with "Woman Trap" and "Bar 20 Rides Again," did $4,000 for four days, the films supplanting a three-day run of "Laughing Irish Eyes" and "The Preview Murder Case."

Total first run business was $36,400. Average is $39,500.

Denver Totals Show Conditions Improve

Denver, March 29.—Local film men see an indication of better times in several sets of figures published during the past week. Post office receipts are up $15,000 ahead of February, 1935, and are above any year since 1929. Postal savings show a gain of nearly $750,000 over last year.

Bank clearings for the first two months of this year were $212,821,405, as compared with $177,941,889 in the same period last year. Building activity locally is ahead of other sections of the country, having increased more than 100 per cent in permits over the first two months last year. Totaling $996,496 this year, they were only $485,414 in 1935.

Nick Grinde Assigned

Hollywood, March 29.—Nick Grinde, director who recently signed a term contract with Warners, will direct "Public Enemy's Wife," as his first assignment.

Paul Graetz, German comedian, who also signed a term contract recently, will play in "There's Millions in It," as his first American picture. Graetz has appeared in several Warner pictures made abroad.

"Pine" Kansas City's Winner For 2nd Week

KANSAS CITY, March 29.—"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" continued to be a landmark in its second week. It took $12,500 at the Newman, over average by $5,500, and was held again.

"Love on a Bet," strengthened with Earl Carroll's Vanities on the stage, upped average by $3,500, taking $12,500.

Loew's Midland garnered $10,500 with "The Prisoner of Shark Island." The Tower with $6,000 went under average by $1,000 with a stage show and "The Widow from Monte Carlo."

The Fox Uptown held "Show Them No Mercy" an extra two days because of the strong showing made on a straight 25-cent policy. The picture took $3,700 in nine days.

Total first run business was $45,200. Average is $38,400.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending March 19:

"LOVE ON A BET" (Radio)

Free Celebration

Gibsonburg, O., March 29.—D. B. Follett on April 21 will celebrate his 25th year as owner and manager of the DeLu. By way of celebration, he will admit all of the people of the town free on that day. Cleveland exchanges are donating film for the occasion.

Louisville Gives "Colleen" $3,500

LOUISVILLE, March 29.—"Colleen" at the Mary Anderson did well, grossing $3,800, and "Man of Iron," with Blackstone, the magician, for four days, and Blanche Calloway and her band in for two days, brought in some nice business at the National. Gross was $3,500, over par by $500.

All other first runs felt the Lenten slump, and grosses took a dive. "Magnificent Obsession" at the Brown grossed $2,600, but expectations were for better business on the re-run. Matinees were well attended, mostly by high school and college students, but the nights were off.

Weather of the week was favorable on the whole. Opposition was at a minimum, and the only explanation for the light takings is the Lenten season, bringing the usual lull before Easter.

Total first run business was $22,300. Average is $24,200.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 26:

Chaplin Film Leads Frisco For 2d Week

SAN FRANCISCO, Mach 29.—"Modern Times" demonstrated exceptional strength in its second week at the United Artists by grossing $11,000 and topping the first week normal by $2,000.

The only other house to go over normal was the Fox with a combination of "Three Godfathers" and "Man of Iron." The $7,500 gross was up by $1,500. "Trail of the Lonesome Pine" and "F-Man" took a par $15,000 at the Warfield, but all other houses were off.

Total first run business was $68,550. Average is $74,400.

Oklahoma Collects $25,858 for Rogers

CLAREMORE, Okla., March 29.—With committees from 23 counties still working, the total sum raised in Oklahoma for the Will Rogers Memorial Commission is $25,858.30, according to Morton B. Harrison, chairman for Oklahoma. This total falls far short of the $100,000 goal, but there is still a good chance that Oklahoma will secure one of the two national memorials and that it will be a hospital for crippled children, located here.

Counties that raised or exceeded their quotas were Delaware, Garvin, Love, Rogers and Wagoner. Garvin county was the banner county, having raised $2,038.42, or 407.5 per cent of its quota of $500. Tulsa county raised 18 per cent of its quota and Oklahoma county 28 per cent. Each had a quota of $20,000.

Nine Hundred Pay Tribute To Schaefer

Many Industry Leaders At Dinner in Astor

By J. M. JERAULD

That George Schaefer dinner started out to be just a colossal party —about 300 guests; by Saturday it had become super-colossal—500 reservations. All day Monday it grew and grew and by the time the maitre d'hotel, or whoever it is puts on banquets at the Astor, had the tables set last night, more than 800 places were ready. It was stupendous.

It might even have become super-stupendous, but if Mrs. Astor had tried to take any more artichokes and ordinary vegetables out of the Imperial Valley there would have been nothing left except El Centro and a couple of irrigation ditches.

It was a "speechless" banquet—meaning there were only two speeches,

New Group Seeking Mergings of Unions

A merger of all projectionists' and stagehands' unions in New York is the aim of the United Union, organization headed by Bernard Deckoff, which, although formed two years ago, is just now making an active drive for membership. The organization, which is a chartered union under New York state laws, is not affiliated with the A. F. of L. Last summer it was involved with stagehands' Local 1 and operators' Local 306 in a picketing controversy on 42nd St.

Officers in addition to Deckoff are: Charles Axelrod, vice-president; George Sofia, secretary; Louis Skerl, treasurer; Harry Baker, sergeant-at-arms; Thomas Liccardo, business

Theatres Pay Ascap $800,000 for 1935

Theatres contributed approximately $800,000 of the $4,505,829 gross income from music royalties collected by Ascap in 1935, according to the society's estimate in connection with its annual financial report made public yesterday.

The 1935 gross compares with a gross of $3,375,930 for 1934. Net last year after deduction of administration expenses and allowance for foreign royalties was $3,262,556, as compared

After 30 Years, Laemmle's Business Career Nears End

By SHERWIN A. KANE

Carl Laemmle yesterday walked into the comfortably pleasant office on the 12th floor of the RCA Building reserved for his infrequent visits to New York, to begin what is destined to be his last visit there as the executive head of Universal, founded by him 24 years ago.

Outside, coming from the elevator, he had paused to exchange greetings with the man at the floor reception desk. Inside, almost hidden behind a flower-decked table and a stack of waiting mail, the little man, known affectionately to the industry as "Uncle Carl," greeted his company executives, associates for years. On Thursday he will transfer his controlling interests to the group headed by Standard Capital Co. and Charles S. Rogers, and retire, he said, forever, from the industry of which he has been a vital part for 30 years. He might have remained, had he chosen, as chairman of that board or as a member of that body following the transfer of control.

"There is no point in my doing either," he remarked. "My home is

M.P.T.O.A. Group to Meet Distributors

Members of the M. P. T. O. A. master committee which will be designated to confer with distributor representatives here on trade practices and industry self-regulation will be drawn from the organization's executive committee, it was stated here yesterday. Indications are that the meetings will not get under way before May at the earliest.

Executive committee members who are expected to serve on the committee are Ed Kuykendall, M. P. T. O. A. president; O. C. Lam, Rome, Ga.; Jack Miller, Chicago; Samuel W. Pinanski, Boston; Lewen Pizor, Philadelphia, and Charles E. Williams, Omaha. Morris Loewenstein, M. P. T. O. A. secretary, is an ex-officio member of the committee, but because

Republic Sets 26 For 1936-37 List

Republic's 1936-37 list will have 26 features, W. Ray Johnston, president, said yesterday after conferences with Nat Levine, production head, and other company executives, at the Waldorf-Astoria.

At the same time Levine made it known that he is building up a stock company and is on the lookout for new writing talent. Approximately 75 per cent of the current program has been completed, he said, and three, "The Harvester," "The Glory Parade" and "The Girl from Mandalay," are now in production.

"The outlook for Republic's product shows the planning and sincere effort that has been put into it," Johnston said. "Our picture budgets have been increased, and that alone

No Delay for Federal Case Is Anticipated

Supreme Court Appeal Is No Stay, Say Lawyers

The Government's new anti-trust action against Warners, RKO, Paramount and individual defendants filed recently in Federal court here is not affected at this time by the order signed in St. Louis last Friday granting the defendant distributors leave to appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court from Federal Judge Joseph W. Molyneaux's order dismissing without prejudice the Government's earlier civil action against the distributor defendants, attorneys here said yesterday.

The Supreme Court appeal, it was said, does not automatically arrest proceedings in the new civil action. However, if the appeal is decided in the distributor defendants' favor it would have the effect of nullifying the district court proceedings here.

The right to appeal was granted the defendants by Federal Judge Charles B. Davis at St. Louis in line

Para. Signs 2-Year Deal with Skouras

Paramount and Fox Theatres have signed a two-year contract for release of Paramount product. The deal covers the forthcoming 1936-37 list and the 1937-38 releases.

Spyros Skouras, confirming the completion of the negotiations stated that the new arrangement assures "the continuance of the friendly and co-operative relationship between the two companies."

McLeod Seen as Director

HOLLYWOOD, March 30.—It was reliably reported here today that Norman McLeod will sign as an M-G-M director following the completion of the Paramount film "Early to Bed."

Moray in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, March 30.—Norman H. Moray, Warner shorts head, is here on a general swing around the country. He will probably leave Wednesday.

Otterson on Coast

HOLLYWOOD, March 30.—John E. Otterson, Paramount president, arrived here today for studio executive conferences. Adolph Zukor is due tomorrow.

Davis-Slesinger Marry

HOLLYWOOD, March 30.—Frank Davis, associate producer at M-G-M, and Tess Slesinger, writer, were married yesterday at Yuma, Ariz.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, March 30

TALES from the Hollywood hills:

Mox Shobbus, blowing the foam from a glass of buttermilk, was wailing.

"Last week I had a protection beef. So I went to Charlie Skouras' lavish complaining office. Was I impressed and did they have a lobby display! Like real showmen.

"In one corner was a Chinese lamp with oil. In another a calendar from the Chase Bank and some crying towels. Also was there a cutout of Georgie Raft throwing a bull and a statue of Harry Houdini escaping from a strait jacket. Seeing all this, I didn't have the heart to complain, even to Skouras.

"So I took a crying towel and chased myself home." . . .

Into a Hollywood night spot walked a Twentieth Century-Fox official. "What did you think of 'The Country Doctor?'" he asked the head waiter.

"I haven't seen it, but I'll tell you this," answered the captain, knowing his onions as well as his customers: "Anyone who has had a child, anyone who will have a child, in fact, anyone who ever was a child will enjoy it."

"That's great," replied the executive who heard what he wanted to hear. "Your opinion is more valuable to me than these"—turning to a group of studio satellites—"because you represent the public." . . .

Fred Meyer's thumbnail description of a preview in Hollywood where all theatres twin bill:

"A major preview is the same as a triple feature under a different name." . . .

A legend, no doubt, but with reasonable room for veracity, is the comment attributed to the producer which ran:

"I don't want anyone working for me who thinks he's as smart as I am." . . .

Leonard Goldstein, that droll fellow, says:

"Harry Goetz will release 'The Last of the Mohicans' as 'Positively The Last of the Mohicans.'" . . .

Gene Fowler: "So long. I'm going back to my office and to work."

Harry Brand: "Boy, that's news! I'll send a photographer along." . . .

A producer, who stemmed from identical ranks himself, talking to another independent:

"No man so ignorant would be anything but an independent." . . .

"It's super-colossal and more than that," a producer described his latest endeavor.

Actually. . . .

"If my clients don't get jobs soon, I'll have to go to work myself," moaned an agent the other day. . . .

During his interregnum, Joe Shea described himself as the best dressed man on the Hollywood dole. . . .

Uniform Pacts for Writers Seen Near

Uniform contracts for members of the Screen Writers Guild, Dramatists Guild and Authors Guild were brought a step nearer yesterday when a plan for absorption of those three affiliated organizations was adopted yesterday by the Authors League.

Full control of the three guilds is vested in the council of the Authors League under the plan for bringing about a more complete solidarity of the writers' organizations. In addition, a writer's membership in the Authors League will cover his activities in any one or all of the fields over which the three affiliated guilds have jurisdiction, thus eliminating the necessity of his joining more than one of the organizations. The uniform contracts for writers will cover their activities in the screen, stage, radio, book and magazine fields, it was said.

Lincoln Conspiracy Trial Due April 27

LINCOLN, March 30.—Trial will begin in Federal court here on April 27 of the conspiracy and collusion suit brought by State Theatres, Inc., against local exhibitors and distributors for $444,000. The defendants are Lincoln Theatres Corp., Twentieth Century-Fox, M-G-M, Universal, United Artists, Warners, RKO and Paramount.

The action was specifically brought by G. L. Hooper of Topeka, principal stockholder of State Theatres, and the Monroe family of Beatrice, Neb., which operated the house. Evidence was compiled by Cal Bard, Independent Theatres, Inc., executive, who will bring a similar suit against the same defendants for $1,353,000 immediately after this suit is concluded. Former State Attorney General Paul Good is counsel for the plaintiff.

Brandt to Decline Presidency of ITOA

Harry Brandt definitely will decline to run again as president of the I. T. O. A., he declared yesterday. Last week, at a meeting of the organization's board of directors at the Astor, Brandt was unanimously recommended for reelection.

That action was taken despite Brandt's repeated indications that he did not want to retain the post. The board's recommendation was to have been submitted to a meeting of the organization at the Astor tomorrow.

Merger Details in Work

Only final details remain to be ironed out in the completion of the merger of the I. T. O. A. and the T. O. C. C., it was indicated yesterday. The merger of the two local exhibitor organizations has been definitely arranged, with only the clarification of details standing in the way of conclusion of the consolidation.

Brandt Withdraws Suit Against Union

The action of Harry Brandt seeking an injunction to restrain the Film Exchange Employes' Union from picketing the Globe, Brandt house on Broadway, has been withdrawn. N. Y. Supreme Court Justice Carewe last week reserved decision on the application.

The withdrawal followed settlement of the employes' strike at the Republic exchange, from which 11 union members had walked out. The union had concentrated on the picketing of houses in which Republic pictures were showing. The Republic film, "The Leathernecks Have Landed," playing the Globe, led to the picketing of the house.

Tax Bill Dead in N.J.; No Censorship Action

TRENTON, March 30.—The state tax bill which provided for a four per cent levy on gross receipts of places of amusement, including theatres, was defeated tonight for the fourth time and is now considered dead. The vote was 32 to 26.

No action was taken by the Senate Miscellaneous Business Committee today on the film censorship bill, which calls for a $2 fee on each 1,200 feet of film examined and for each print. Senator Horace G. Prall, sponsor of the measure, said he will press for a favorable report later in the week.

Independents' Plea Denied in K. C. Case

KANSAS CITY, March 30.—Judge Merrill E. Otis has denied, but not dismissed, the independents' application for a temporary injunction against Fox Midwest and major distributors on charges of conspiracy. Judge Otis based his denial on the fact that the independents had not submitted a clear supporting case.

Fox Midwest and other defendants are expected to answer on April 6, probably with a motion to dismiss.

Edward A. Cuddy Ill

BOSTON, March 30.—Edward A. Cuddy, division manager for M. & P. Theatres Corp., has been ill at his home.

Here's one for the book . . .

HOME OFFICE ASKS FIELD FOR ADVICE!

Yes, Gentlemen, we're asking you!

Because "Under Two Flags" is so rich in advertising angles, it has us dizzy!

For instance, how would you bill its four great stars? . . . Ronald Colman ("Beau Geste"), Claudette Colbert ("It Happened One Night"), Victor McLaglen ("The Informer"), Rosalind Russell ("Rendezvous")? We want to shout about each one, but type isn't made of rubber.

Would you place them over or under the title, "Under Two Flags"? . . . a title made famous by Ouida's novel and play.

How about the burning love story?

How about the spectacle? . . . the cast of 10,000 . . . the limitless sweep of the Sahara . . . the hordes of blood-mad Arabs and heat-crazed Legionnaires?

And the men whose showmanship sense has come to guarantee entertainment? . . . Darryl F. Zanuck . . . Director Frank Lloyd?

Any one of the above is a great sales slant. But you tell us how to do them all justice in one ad!

20th CENTURY FOX

THE KEYSTONE OF YOUR FUTURE

Nine Hundred Pay Tribute To Schaefer

Will H. Hays' and Schaefer's. Both were good. Entertainment followed.

There have been testimonial dinners in this industry before—lots of 'em, but this was different. Practically every important figure connected with films in New York was there, and cities all over the eastern section of the country also had representatives present.

The dais was one of the most distinguished that the industry in the East could muster. From a vantage point in front of it, one saw, from left to right, Nate Spingold, one of the top flight executives of Columbia; James Mulvey, eastern representative for Samuel Goldwyn; J. Robert Rubin, a vice-president of M-G-M; Nathan Burkan, a director of United Artists; Harry D. Buckley, vice-president in charge of United Artists theatres; Leo Spitz, president of RKO; Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's, Inc., and M-G-M; Sidney R. Kent, president of Twentieth Century-Fox; Frank C. Walker, who formerly ranked high in the inner councils of President Roosevelt and now again is active in the industry as general manager of the Comerford circuit; Austin C. Keough, general counsel of Paramount and vice-president of its various subsidiary corporations; Edward Raftery, a member of the law firm of O'Brien, Driscoll and Raftery; Charles L. O'Reilly, president of the Theatre Owners' Chamber of Commerce; W. G. Van Schmus, managing director of the Music Hall; Martin Quigley, publisher of Motion Picture Herald and MOTION PICTURE DAILY; Earle W. Hammons, president of Educational; Joseph Bernhard, general manager of the Warner theatre circuit; Spyros Skouras, president of National Theatres, and M. H. Aylesworth, chairman of the board of RKO.

About 10:10 o'clock Hays gave a few gentle taps with a gavel, but the hotel management evidently believed the advance ads about speeches. The microphones were not connected. For a time the tapping sounded like muffled signals at a spiritualist meeting. Then the electricians went to work and the General was able to make himself heard.

After a humorous reference to the "speechlessness" of the dinner, he continued, in a serious vein:

"Twenty-two years ago George Schaefer was secretary to Lewis J. Selznick—not executive secretary, just secretary. Today he is at the same desk, in the same office, with the same paneling. He is selling the pictures of Selznick's son, David, who got his first job under Schaefer.

"Sidney Kent sent George to Boston, and then he brought him back again to New York. He is a great credit to this great and fortunate business. This dinner was brought about by friends wishing to pay tribute to a friend. It is impressive.

"There is nothing a man can earn, nothing he can wish for more than the affectionate esteem of his friends. Schaefer has become a big man by simply attending to his business, and he has never failed to step out of his way for his associates and for the industry."

Hays presented Schaefer four gifts as mementoes of the occasion, and then said that one-half the proceeds of the party would go to the Film Daily Relief Fund and the other half to the Actors' Fund of America.

Schaefer was introduced as the "vice-president of the Wingfoot Golf Club." He seemed a bit embarrassed, and admitted that he had felt like a fireless cooker with heat under his collar all day.

"I fall into that third classification of speakers," he said, "who know they are going to be called upon and prepare for it. I'd rather try to sell pictures for 35 or 40 per cent than try to stand on my feet and make a speech."

"Seriously," he continued, "I am deeply affected by the presence of so many of my friends and associates, especially those from distant points. Some of you, I know, will be called upon to pay me plenty of money. I hope, even so, that I will be able to retain your friendship."

Ed Sullivan, columnist of The New Daily News, was the first master of ceremonies, shortly thereafter making way for Jay C. Flippen, the m. c. of Station WHN, flagship of the Loew broadcasting chain. Milton Berle, headliner of the Paradise, Broadway night spot, regaled the assemblage with a flow of wisecracks that apparently suffered from no danger of going dry.

Ken Murray and his stooge put on their act, and Roger Pryor, Jane Cooper, Benny Rubin, Richard Himber and Jimmy Savo appeared.

The party wound up about 11:30 o'clock.

Those present included:

Edward L. Alperson, Harold Bareford, Nat Beier, Joseph Bernhard, A. H. Blank, N. J. Blumberg, Mort Blumenstock, Clayton Bond, George Borthwick, William Brecker, Colvin Brown, J. L. Brown, Lawrence L. Brown, Harry D. Buckley, David Burkan, Nathan Burkan.

Industry in East Honors Schaefer

There's $100,000 Wound on This Reel!

Show it for all it's worth on CONSOLIDATED CERTIFIED PRINTS

There it is—a thousand feet of negative — the only record of months of effort, the only collateral on a hundred thousand dollar investment. The dividends it will bring depend on its performance at the box office. But its performance at the box office depends on the quality of its theatre prints. That's why it is so important to use Consolidated Certified Prints. They're an accurate transcription of all the sound and action brought to your negative by talented actors, inspired directors and skilled cameramen. They're scientifically made in the world's largest and finest film laboratory to "show your picture for all its worth."

of illness is not expected to be able to serve on the master committee. It is expected that L. C. Griffith may be named to the committee in his stead. Morgan Walsh of San Francisco, also a member of the executive committee, may be unable to serve because of business demands on his time and may be replaced by Hugh Bruen of Seattle. Major L. E. Thompson of RKO, representative of affiliated theatres on the executive committee, is not expected to serve on the master committee.

Kuykendall returned to his home at Columbus, Miss., late last week following the close of hearings on the Pettengill Bill in Washington. He is expected here late in April when arrangements for inaugurating the meetings with distributors will be completed.

Among matters listed for discussion when the meetings are held are an unconditional minimum rejection privilege of 10 or more pictures in all contracts; removal of all conditions from the present 10 per cent cancellation provisions and an increase of the cancellation to 20 per cent; establishment of local grievance boards; negotiation of uniform clearance and zoning plans; elimination of overbuying; unfair and cut-rate competition, including double featuring and unreasonably low admissions; a simple, standard form of exhibition contract; elimination of the score charge, arbitrary designation of playdates and the forcing of shorts with features.

Penn MPTO Hits Charges

PHILADELPHIA, March 30.—The M. P. T. O. of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware, at its last meeting, passed a resolution protesting the adoption by United Artists of the policy of collecting score charges, heretofore not practised in this territory. A letter was addressed to George J. Schaefer, vice-president and general manager in charge of distribution of U. A., voicing the protest.

Letters also were sent to all exhibitors in the territory, advising them of the U. A. policy, and urging them to register protests. The letter to Schaefer said in part: "(The organization) asks that this pernicious thing be immediately eliminated as it is a step backward and not forward."

Theatre Bills Killed

ALBANY, March 30.—Three bills affecting theatres have been killed in committee.

The Dix Assembly bill requiring 30 seconds of film showing fire exits has been voted down in the Education Committee. The Moran bill calling for a one-mill tax per foot on film has been lost in the Taxation Committee, and the Crews bill intended to provide a day of rest a week for engineers and firemen in theatres has been voted down by the Labor and Industries Committee.

Brandt, Bolognino Pool

Harry Brandt and Lawrence Bolognino have pooled their interests in the Circle, Columbus and Park. Brandt says the Columbus will be closed.

After 30 Years, Laemmle's Business Career Nears End

in California. I can't cross the continent every month for a board meeting. Wherever I am, at any time, I will be at the service of the company if called upon, and I could do no more as a member of the board."

Following Thursday's formalities Laemmle will return to the coast to remain until early in June. He will return here for a few days then before sailing on a European vacation. This will be of indefinite duration and much of it will be spent at Carlsbad, he said.

"Unless loafing bores me too much my retirement will be permanent," Laemmle said, in answer to a question. "However," he added smilingly, "I can loaf as good as the next one."

In his last message to the Universal personnel, just given to the company house organ, Universal Weekly, Laemmle says:

"With the production of 'Show Boat' I bow out of moving pictures as an active figure. My interest and enthusiasm for them will never leave me. Pictures have been my life work for 30 years. I have put my heart and my soul and sometimes my very breeches into the business, plus all I could borrow on many occasions. I have tried to so conduct Universal that when I left it the industry would feel that I had done more for the business than it had done for me. I hope I have succeeded.

"I have tried, too, to accumulate by my efforts enough money to leave my family in comfortable circumstances. Everyone in this business has that very laudable ambition. I have done that. There is another ambition in life that is just as understandable. I have that, too. That ambition is to leave a business that you have created in the very best hands. That ambition I have realized.

"When I turn over the reins of Universal, the company will be placed in the hands of R. H. Cochrane, without whose loyalty, good sense, unfailing courage and daily advice this company could never have weathered the storms that beset it or achieved the measure of success it has attained. I am happy to turn it over to him and to the men who surround him in the new business setup.

"My heart and my interest will always remain with Universal. I feel that because it has always been a fighting company, and a fair fighting company with a consideration for others, it also has a warm spot in the heart of the great majority of exhibitors. From those exhibitors I would now like to ask the same consideration for the new Universal that they have always given Universal and me."

Set Mickey Mouse Circus

HOLLYWOOD, March 30.—Fanchon & Marco have signed with Walt Disney for circus rights to Mickey Mouse. Plans are being made for a 30 or 40-week tour under a one-ring big top with Singer's Midgets appearing as the cartoon characters. The circus will run two hours, and will carry the usual complement of animals and clowns, though the plan now is to have all actors in miniature. The tour will start on this coast in about two weeks.

In Hotel Post

Frederick Wynne-Jones, former managing director of Ufa Films, Inc., American subsidiary of the German company, has entered the hotel industry as reception manager of the Hotel Knickerbocker which he will endeavor to develop as a Times Square rendezvous for film men.

Wynne-Jones is now recovering from an extended illness.

Oakie Aids Flood Show

NORWALK, March 30.—Jack Oakie, visiting relatives in Greenwich, made a personal appearance at the Empress at a benefit performance to raise funds for the Hartford flood victims.

A benefit performance at the Palace in Bridgeport was canceled when word was received from the Red Cross that sufficient funds had been raised.

Para. Holds MacMurray

HOLLYWOOD, March 30.—Fred MacMurray, has been given a new contract which provides for his appearance under the Paramount banner for the next seven years.

should prove that we have confidence in our pictures."

Present at the conferences besides Johnston and Levine, were: E. H. Goldstein, executive vice-president; Moe J. Siegel, production executive; Herman Gluckman, president of the New York exchange; Herman Rifkin, president Republic Pictures of New England; Edward Schnitzer, eastern division sales manager; Edward Finney, advertising director; Sam Horwitz, divisional sales manager for the middle west; Norton V. Ritchey, general manager of the foreign department; N. K. Loder, treasurer; Morris Goodman, sales manager of the foreign department; Lou Lifton, eastern story editor; Sam Hacker, contract manager; and Claude Ezell, vice-president of Republic Pictures of Texas.

Sign Karloff for Two

HOLLYWOOD, March 30.—Boris Karloff has been signed by Warners for two more pictures following the success of "The Walking Dead." He will make the films on his return from England, as well as the three he still has to make for Universal.

To Discuss Time Change

CLEVELAND, March 30.—A proposed daylight saving ordinance and flood relief will be the principal topics of discussion Wednesday at a business meeting of the Cleveland M. P. Exhibitors' Ass'n. to follow a luncheon.

Music Union Plans Walkout for Today

A strike of 150 arrangers, copyists, proofreaders and pianists against 36 members of the Music Publishers' Protective Ass'n., has been called definitely by Local 802 of the A.F.M. for this morning, in an effort to obtain higher wages and union recognition.

Attempts on the part of John G. Paine, chairman of the publishers' group, to negotiate the matter, were rebuffed on the ground that the terms he offered were unsatisfactory. A meeting of all prominent band leaders has been called for 11 A.M. today to discuss the situation.

Union Merger Still Talked

The proposed merger of Allied M. P. Operators and Local 306, projectionist unions, is still in the course of negotiation, it was indicated yesterday.

"Pine" Suit Off to May

Trial of a suit for damages against Paramount involving dramatic rights to "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" which was scheduled to begin in N. Y. supreme court here yesterday was postponed to the May trial calendar.

M-G-M Gets "Quo Vadis"

HOLLYWOOD, March 30.—M-G-M has acquired all film rights to "Quo Vadis," historical novel by Henryk Sienkiewicz, which was one of the first spectacles of the early silent days. No production plans have been made as yet.

Organizations outside the industry have aided, rather than hindered, development of higher types of pictures and have helped create the market necessary to make them successful, Hays stated in his annual report. He also had words of praise for creative talent within the industry.

"The new standards of artistry attained by the screen this year," he said, "are a tribute to the creative personnel of the industry.

"It is a tribute just as full to the great and growing success which the cooperation given to the industry by educational and religious leadership has effected in the standards of motion picture appreciation. The processes of criticism, selection and education have enlarged, not restricted, the artistic and dramatic opportunities of the screen; they have increased, not decreased, motion picture attendance."

Points to Coming Features

Hays named a number of forthcoming releases as indicating upward trends. Among them were: "Romeo and Juliet," "Mary of Scotland," "Under Two Flags," "The Life of Beethoven," "Green Pastures," "The Old Maid," "The Good Earth" and "Lost Horizon.'

"Conclusions reached by competent critics and by commentators of the press,' Hays continued, "are to the effect that 'there is more intellectual distinction in the movies than ever before'; that 'the screen has translated into celluloid drama the greatest number of established classics in the history of motion pictures'; that 'the new productions have exceeded in quality the most optimistic hopes'; that 'pictures of historical significance are ever on the increase'; that 'the screen has shown its ability to portray the highest concepts of the human mind'; that 'pictures are finer, more interesting, more entertaining and more educational than ever before'; that 'honest and compelling themes are predominating in the outstanding pictures'; that 'more meaning and dignity has been lent to the screen'; and that the industry is performing a 'great experiment that will help to determine whether the screen is the universal entertainment medium for the expression of the highest forces of art and drama.'

"Not every picture produced by the industry during the period under review is entirely free from objection," Hays admits. "There are, and always will be, border line cases, where even critical opinion will divide as to the over-all social or moral values of a given film or dramatic performance, and where the strictest moral rating will make a necessary and proper distinction as between adult and family attendance. In such instance public opinion is finally the safe guide."

In discussing the work of the Production Code Administrations Hays said: "The vigilance which will not permit our production code to degenerate into a mere process of censorship applies to the opportunities as well as the self-restraint of the screen. The character of pictures produced during the current season demonstrates the ability of the screen to deal with vital subjects of the day, with social problems and with all dramatic forms on which honest entertainment can be built. This is asserted, notwithstanding such artificial controversies as may be raised to the contrary."

Ten color films will be produced in 1936, he said. Referring to the proportion of films based on originals, plays, etc., he said they rated as follows: From original stories, 244, or 47.01 per cent; from stage plays, 41, or 7.90 per cent; from novels, 142, or 27.36 per cent; from biographies, three, or .58 per cent; from short stories, 37, or 7.13 per cent; miscellaneous, 52, or 10.02 per cent.

This was an increase of seven per cent in the use of originals over the previous year.

Hays went into detail in discussing the advertising code and said that new types of pictures appealing to new audiences required new kinds of advertising.

"The rise is to be noted, therefore," he pointed out, "of a new day of advertising effort in which the right product will be 'sold' to the right audience in the right way. Some of the distinctive methods recently adopted to introduce the truly great picture sufficiently in advance of exhibition, the greater artistry that has marked the exploitation of our greater products, and the new recognition that wholesomeness and good taste are creative stimuli, are welcome signs of a new era."

The report closes with a critical appraisal of cartoon subjects in which he said: "We are seeing the rise of a new medium of story telling. With improved technique and with the advantages of color, sound and music, it is not difficult to forsee dramas spun from fantasy, which, with kindly humor or satire, may come to have large social and even educational significance."

with a net of $2,514,850 for the preceding year. The net is divided equally between publishers and writers.

The society's relief fund will receive $18,446 from last year's receipts, as compared with $9,899 in 1934.

No Delay for Federal Case Is Anticipated

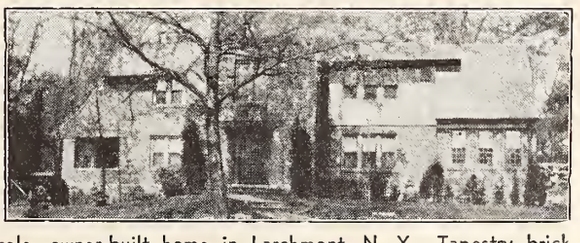
with the procedure directing qualified appellants in cases brought by the Government to go directly to the high court without a hearing before the intervening Circuit Court of Appeals. The defendants point out in their appeal papers that they had sought denial of the Government's motion for leave to dismiss its civil action without prejudice when the motion was made, Jan. 29. They state that they also petitioned Judge Molyneaux, and were denied, a motion to dismiss the Government's case with prejudice or on the grounds of res adjudicata, contending that the dismissal of the Government's earlier criminal action at St. Louis disposed of the issues in the civil action.

The defendants in their application for leave to appeal cite 21 assignments of error in Judge Molyneaux's rulings on the Government's motions and their own motions. They are granted 40 days from March 27 in which to file their record of appeal with the Supreme Court, but because of the voluminous records in the case additional time will be sought of the high court for the filing of the appeal. The appeal will ask the Supreme Court for a reversal of Judge Molyneaux's refusal to deny the Government's St. Louis motion for a dismissal without prejudice.



Capital Sees No Effect

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Justice department officials said today that they do not anticipate that the appeal order issued by Judge Davis in St. Louis will have any effect on the pending New York case. It was said that the New York suit is considered an entirely separate case and that it was not expected that the action in the St. Louis case will serve to delay it.

Successor for Sarecky

HOLLYWOOD, March 30.—Following the resignation of Bernard Sarecky today, J. Lawrence Wickland succeeded to the post of supervisor on action and serial films at Republic. Wickland had been a serial writer on the Republic staff.
